So now His desire is fulfilled when He sees seeds being reflected through the Sahaja Yogis. But there is still a few things we have to clear out within ourselves.

His desire represents the Mahākālī power within us. Now we have to see how His desire has worked in creating ourselves. First is the desire which is absolutely passionate. There's nothing desired, nothing else is desired, but the creation of Sahaja Yogis.

So the first desire of any Sahaja Yogi is to create more Sahaja Yogis. No other desire should be dominant or exist, in a way; but to fulfil that desire, we have to fulfil some conditions.

So one of the conditions, the most important, is the sincerity, as God doesn't need that qualification, He cannot be insincere even if He wants to be. He does not have your type of intellect which can play devious roles with Him, but the human beings have got this devious intellect which plays very much around. But as Sahaja Yogis you can see that intellect very carefully and clearly.

God is egoless because He does everything, so He's egoless, or we can say He is the Ego only, if that means doing something. But human beings have ego because they don't do anything and think they're doing something. You know this very well.

So when you start assuming that you do something, you get identified with such myths very easily, only human beings can be identified with myths, not God. But after Realisation you can see your ego clearly. It acts in various ways. If we appoint somebody as a leader, the leader may start thinking that he's really the leader and then it becomes really a problem for him because he starts losing everything that is leadership. But the worst is, their wives start thinking they are the leaders and sometimes the children also think that way; and I won't be surprised even if their dogs and pets behave that way. It can be any stupid thing.

So with this kind of an ego a Sahaja Yogi can see, you see, himself, how he behaves. I watch them and it provides a lot of humour for Me. They push forward everywhere, they'll sit in the forward line, they'll push forward, they'll be there first to come in the front line, sort of thing is there. But if you are a sincere person, if you have the sincerity then you'll enjoy that sincerity wherever you are standing, wherever you are sitting.

So the ego can try to deceive you very much all the time, so you have to be careful about this ego because he can sit on your head and can monitor you. I have seen people going down very rapidly with this idea that they're something special.

So sincerity, though it is the quality of the left side, can be dominated by the right side, this way.

The second thing about your desire, that it should be a pure desire and the pure desire is very simple for you because I'm sitting before you. The pure desire of a seeker is to see God, to be in the company of God, to be in association with God. As they call it, Salokya, Samipya and Sanidya; there are three words describing it. But without asking, without thinking of it, you have been given the fourth dimension called as the Tadatmya [sameness of nature] means becoming one with My body, My being; so that you become protected, absolutely cleansed and nourished in My being. But when you are not aware of it, then what happens that I have to suffer in My body to cleanse you.

So all other desires can create problems within you.

Now as I was telling you that this France is a creation of the Mother Earth with her special features.

We have to examine what effects it can have on a French mind. It's a historical build-up also which affects this country. It's a very affluent country, you have got very rich soil and you produce beautiful agricultural products.

So when you are satisfied on the material level then you start moving left or right, because you are very naive about one thing, that we have to rise higher, higher into our ascent. Also, that we are not aware that that is the goal for our evolution.

So we all have to ascend, that's all, nothing else is important.

So as soon as you find that materially you are all right, then if you do not have the idea that you have to ascend, you can really move on to the left and the right. France being a very, very affluent country among most of the European and the English, they got into this movement much earlier than any other country.

So the, if you can find the aggressiveness of the French, based on these lines, because they go to the right side. Like the French are never bothered to see or to find out what is the culture of other people. They're very selfopinionated and thought no end of themselves and they thought they knew all what was culture is. As a result they became completely ignorant of all other cultures which were much more evolved than theirs. The concept of beauty came up to a certain level of understanding and then again it deviated into wrong direction.

Also I would say, the way the Christianity was preached in those days, no respect for women was there.

So the women did not understand that they are the left side and they have to look after their chastity. In the beginning whenever I read about French, like Emile Zola or other people, Maupassant, all that, what I found that women were not at all respected nor they were respectable, or if you read, say, for example, Nana, is a one, he was written, Emile Zola; if you read her, you will be surprised that they have given the four sides of a woman in one woman, he has described four sides. And one part which is really a woman is never respected in the society when she is compassionate and good, that part she's not respected: on the contrary she's kicked out.

So in other parts, she behaves a cunning woman, or she behaves like a prostitute, or she behaves like an aggressive woman because the part that is respectable and that is the one which was for her ascent and was her innate, was not at all understood or respected.

So the instrument of the left side which are the women of this country were first harmed and these became the main source of troubles in France.

On the other side, they became extremely aggressive; the men became aggressive and because women were not respected, they also became aggressive. The other women who could not do that became extreme left, started crying, weeping and melancholy; melancholy character they developed, melancholy. Then they started, you see, writing about all this melancholy nonsense, which doesn't exist and indulging into it, like wine or some sort of a thing.

The movement on the left hand side, naturally, because men also got attracted towards it, made them take to left-sided food as well. Now, for example, they developed the cheese which was all full of fungus, which was dead matter. Fungus kills all that is right side; anything living can be killed with fungus. Not only as far as the food is concerned but temperamentally, gradually they started becoming like funguses.

So the fungus itself has a quality, is to, that it thrives on the dead matter.

So they went down to all places where they could find the dead matter, like Egypt. They were not very much interested in India, even to rule India, but they were very much interested in Egyptian dead things and other places wherever they could find these dead stuff available to them. Also I would say Christianity, which started decaying very much, became a big hold in France. Religion also became like a fungus; like building, say, big churches and around them to bury the dead.

Now, I went to see Chartres; you have a beautiful, a very, very beautiful church and very good work done by the artist, but there are lying all dead bodies all around, it's horrible. Actually dead people should be burnt, only the realised Soul can be buried. The sense of respect was lacking very much, even in the history, you can see clearly. What was important throughout was the money. As I see the French revolution took place when I must say the queen was not a bad woman at all. She was actually a great protege, she was a protector of all the artists of France and she's the one who gave such a great momentum to the art of France. If she created something like a furniture piece or any building, today even you show it with pride. After all she was not going to take it with her; it was for France she made everything.

But the French wanted more money to be distributed. For what? For drinking more wine, not to create anything of eternal interest. That's why I say those who drink have no right to strike or to ask for more money because they have more money, that's why they drink.

So I don't believe in capitalism but I do believe that those who can create something new, who can create something, not new in the sense of nonsense, but a thing of eternal values, must be given money to create that. There are many capitalists who do wrong things like buying instruments of war and things like that.

Now we have England, we have America, they're doing this and creating concrete jungle for the progeny.

England and America is doing this, is to buy weapons and otherwise creating concrete jungles. And in Russia they say that they are giving equal distribution but people drink like fish.

So with this French revolution also, the drinking became a part and parcel of the lives of the French because they got easy money.

So the more money was acquired for doing all kinds of unrighteous things, unholy things and, we can say, inauspicious things. But there were poor people, perhaps they did not drink so much, who created great architecture here in this country. Despite that, great artists were born in this country who had no money. They died, becoming mad or becoming paupers. Now we have Napoleon, another person who tried to conquer other places; he's another ego trip that he did in the history. But still he was not a very ignoble person as we find so many of them are these days, who are the rulers. The only thing I feel about him that he didn't have a great character to leave any great impress on people, how to enhance their life in their quality.

So the people who could have really impressed your minds towards the ascent were all paupers or became mad or were mystics. Ultimately, I think the whole aggressiveness disappeared with understanding that it is no use aggressing, but the left movement still remained very prevalent.

So for the rest of the world, French are very weird, queer, strange people. They developed their own insular methods of dealing with things. This is, I would say, is a curse because that kind of a curse when it works out, then you cannot improve as you have nothing else to see and relate and to advance. Because the ego when it is worked with the left problems, you can be very queer, strange and weird. I could see that the first day I came to Paris and they told Me very clearly that, “Mother, don't smile at all and You have to keep very serious." And I cannot be serious for more than two minutes, I think, two minutes.

So I said, “But why?" The reason, they said was that, “They will think that You are an ignoramus, You don't know what's happening in this world: serious things are happening and You are laughing.

So they will think that You are not at all matured." But as soon as I started My lecture, I looked at those people who were so serious and I couldn't control My laughter! And then I said, “Sorry, I'm addressing you all the `les miserables' which I haven't [UNCLEAR had at all]." I am so happy to see today that veil of gloom has passed over. As if lot of dirty mud has gathered over here and the lotuses were about to bloom out, whatever may be the atmosphere, whatever may be the history, whatever may be that has been created by human beings, inside resides beautiful lotus petals, everything intact. With a little push they are all out now in the atmosphere, spreading their fragrance in this dirty pool what we call as France. And they're such strong people, very strong Sahaja Yogis in France which really makes Me very happy and proud. In the beginning I used to come every third week to Paris and have a meeting and when they asked, “Mother, why are You so much visiting Paris?" I said, “That is the gate of the hell." You must have heard the story I've told you about the advertising department. No? You see, two men who had done lot of good as Sahaja Yogis maybe, when they died, they were asked to go to Heaven.

So they went to Heaven and there they found everybody was meditating, so they said, “What is new about this, we were meditating in the world?" So they said, “Why not we, they asked the permission of God that, can we see also Hell, if we have a chance because then we can decide, you see, whether we want to be here or there." You see that is what the ego is, we must have choice.

So they went to Hell and when they entered the first big hall, they found all kind of music was going on, funny type of music and you know like Halloween you have all kinds of dirty things and women were dancing nude and the men were singing nude and they were doing all funny, funny things there, which we call funny.

So they said, “This seems to be better place for a change” because drinking was free, everything was free there; drugs, all nice, nice things there! So they said, “This very nice place” so the people who were in charge asked, “What are you doing here?" They said, “We've come to visit the Hell, where is the Hell?" So they said, “You can see from this hole” and they took them to a hole from where they could see the picture of Hell. And there they found people hanging on top of fire, or they were putting the boiling oil and they were putting the dirty mud; all kinds of things, you see and they were horrified. And some were whipped very badly and I don't know, all kinds of punishments that are possible.

So they got a fright and they said, “Now if that is Hell, what is this in this hall?" They said, “This is the Advertising Department of Hell." And the ideas were coming from French and English specialists and other specialists from other European countries also. And now there's the Swiss must be doing all the banking there.

So that is the advertising department about which, you see, one should be knowledgeable, to know what is the advertising department of Hell is.

So the righteousness and the holiness can only be maintained if you are very careful about this advertising departments, especially in France and other countries. The left side works in this way that we want to destroy ourselves, because left side stands for desire as well as for destruction. It can destroy all if there is no desire of God anymore.

So when you start getting to the other side of your desires, you have a desire to destroy yourself. Yesterday only I read in a newspaper an English lady who left millions of pounds, killed herself by malnutrition.

So this idea of destroying yourself is now justifying so many things that we do in this world which should not be done for our health, for our physical, mental and emotional and spiritual health. And this tendency is to be seen by Sahaja Yogis within themselves also. When the Sahaja Yogis start slipping out and you tell them, “You are slipping out, now don't go that way” so they say, “No, leave me alone, it's all right, I can manage myself” means, “I can destroy myself." And this anti-life behaviour starts to such an extent that they denied all that was spiritual, all that was healthy.

Also on the left hand side you had some horrible writers and authors who came on this earth to give you very, very, very, very anti-life ideas; like a person like Sade who started sadism and all that, this kind of people only could prosper in France, in India such a person would have been thrown out.

Some mad fellow might have written `Kama Sutra' but I've never known that book, I've never read that book, I don't know anything about it and I don't know if you ask anyone they'll say, “What is that book? We don't know." But if you say `Gītā', if you say `Rāmāyaṇa' you'll find many or most of them. Even the Christians in India won't read such a book. Now, but these books were very much appreciated. You find, it's hard to find, anyone in Europe who's educated and who has not read these books, like a Bible for them. I mean, all these things have made them immune to sin, the filth of sin. To add to problems, you had so many wars but last war France was occupied by these horrible Germans.

So they were in complete fear, again another left-sided movement. All these things have added to the perpetuation of left-sided problems.

Now how to get rid of them is our problem. When I came here, Patrick told Me how they found people possessed by all kinds of variety of bhoots and I'm not surprised because I was expecting it sometimes to happen. There are still many Sahaja Yogis, especially Yoginis, who are possessed. I know of one mad one who came to My house, broke all the house and everything and did lot of things, French, you know, a man.

So, to get out of it, first of all we must know the dangers. If the women go on like this, don't obey their leaders and go on with it, saying that, “This is my right” don't meditate and do all kinds of things, they'll become schizophrenic. The schizophrenia, according to Me, according to Sahaja Yoga, is a disease in which you are permanently possessed by many of these dead spirits and in India they would be sent to lunatic asylums. But I'm told that they have now cancelled all lunatic asylums everywhere and the lunatics are moving on the streets. It's a very serious situation. The government doesn't realise what they're doing.

Once I travelled by bus in Paris and I saw one after another, people, one lady, then one gentleman, then one other gentleman, they walked in and they were talking to themselves loudly. They're all possessed people and they'll possess you. They will possess you, they will possess your children, they can possess your pets, anyone. Such abnormal people should be kept away from the public. But Marie told Me that, “You see, we French are very sympathetic towards them." Their bhoots are also, I must tell you, the left-sided people, they try to do things to incur your sympathies. In the right-sided people, as they are aggressive to attract your attention, the left-sided people are aggressive to themselves to attract your attention.

So those people who think, “We can wear some scanty clothes in winter time, or we can torture our lives standing on our heads” all such people are absolutely now passing the limits of advertising department.

So the first things Sahaja Yogis have to remember that you have come on this earth to enjoy. Imagine, they said there is no word in French for enjoyment as I heard today, but for fun...

So this is fun, you have to enjoy the fun of life and you are not here to suffer anymore, you're not to suffer anymore. And to be serious, for what? And to be tense is out of, out of absolutely we can say, is out of subject, is useless.

How can you be tense in the atmosphere which is so relaxed. If these things are expressing themselves, then you should know you haven't come to your proper point in Sahaja Yoga. If you still worry and go on worrying, you'll go to the left and you'll get out of Sahaja Yoga. This is the second serious point.

So the first point is that you'll become schizophrenic, mad, lunatics. That's the first thing, I'm not a businessman so I'm telling you the worst first.

The second thing as just now I've told you will be that you'll go out of Sahaja Yoga. As a result of that, you might get any disease like cancer or any disease that comes from the left side, there are so many.

So this is very important to see that you try to keep to the central path of ascent, through curative methods, through meditative methods, through vibratory methods you must try to keep in the center and don't go to the right. Because with this destructive power, with this destructive power, if you go to the right side, you will become extremely inauspicious and you'll start destroying people, especially for the wives of leaders, I would like to tell them that they must become very humble, otherwise they will have this thing, a power by which they'll destroy themselves and others. This is like this the power, say, which is of a fire or of the light, if it is not used for which it is made, supposing you put your hand in the fire, it will burn.

So we must understand the power of women is compassion, is nourishment and they should not try to become like men because then they'll burn off people and burn off themselves.

So as I've told you before that it's the women who can be very, very helpful in improving the left side. By dominating men you make them left-sided which is not their style, they should not be left-sided. But if they are truly men, they will walk in the central path; and if women are truly women, they'll walk in the central path.

So to walk in the central path one has to get rid of all these things of this type which are within us.

The third thing that really, I would say, warn you people that you get attached to your things, to your possessions, to your children, to your surroundings: like many French would say, “Oh, I hate to go out of France." When they go to some other country they always criticise. I don't know who are the best critics, but all of them criticise each other; they never try to see the good points of others; and in doing so, what you do is to perpetuate a kind of an inferiority on others using your powers of left side by which you make others look small. Like pitying someone for nothing at all; like if supposing you start pitying Me, what will it look like? It's absurd as that. [Laughs.] Gregoire: Yes Shri Mataji. I don't even know how to translate that.

Shri Mataji: Yes, I know, but that's what it is.

So there should be no pity, there should be compassion and that will take you out of this nonsensical idea of pitying yourself, pitying others and feeling all the time sorry for nothing at all; because if you ask for such pity then you'll be pitied too. I mean, you'll be in a pitiable condition yourself. But if you have compassion, then you don't put down that person, you don't sort of make him feel inferior but you encourage him and he feels powerful. Like a finger is hurt within you, you just try to soothe it and be compassionate towards it, you don't try to put him down that `You're no good,' because he's part and parcel of your being.

So the compassion stands in between condemnation and pity. In compassion you have to condemn whatever is wrong, you have to condemn the bhoots, you have to condemn that's uglinesses, you have to condemn all that is wrong.

So, by that, you see, you make that person see that you do not have appreciation of what he is at all and it is just compassion and no pity about it; because the left-sided people want to be pitied and if you pity them they get even worse.

So to say, “Poor person, poor man” or a “Poor old lady", something is wrong.

So when the people who are possessed they start condemning their bhoots, they come up. When they hate their bhoots, they can get rid of them in no time. But sometimes going worse than that, they get identified. Of course to judge it, best is to see through vibrations but you can also see it logically, how we behave towards our possessions, towards others.

Lot of work has been done in India on a very subtle level, I would say, how to get out of the left side.

I would say Mahāvīra was the one who really has worked very hard to give the whole idea of the hell up to heaven, what is the left side is. Another, I would say, his own incarnation, was William Blake, who has also given full idea about it. I would say Dante did it the same.

So this is what they have shown you, how the hell is and how the heavens are.

Now for Sahaja Yogis, it is important to see their left-sided problems if they are lingering in them.

Possession means you're possessed by something, some ideas which are not rational, which are illogical.

And in the modern times, I've seen how they avoid the topic if you ask them, they say, “I don't know." “I don't know why I feel like that” then give up that feeling, it's wrong; if you don't know, it's no good. In the beginning you asked French, any French, “How are you?" they would say, like this. [Shakes Her right hand; it is a gesture which means `not good, not bad, in between' so it is not a real answer.] And I would look at their hands, what does that mean? No, like this. [Talks to Gregoire and shows again the hand movement.] So, I used to wonder, what's wrong with the hands! And they were very boastful about it [about answering in an allusive way], that's the best part of it; because to say something as certain, cocksure, was regarded as ego for them perhaps, but Sahaja Yogis have to be cocksure. Now, English, if I ask them, “How are you?" they would say, “Confused." So, I mean, I didn't know why and boastingly, “I'm confused” as something great, you know that “I'm confused." So the explanation was given, was that, that we are aware of our state, we are not saying something with a cocksure way.

A Sahaja Yogi, if he is confused, he is not a Sahaja Yogi. At this stage you have to be absolutely sure of yourself, sure about Me, sure about Sahaja Yoga and sure about all the Sahaja Yogis of the world.

Otherwise you're not Sahaja Yogis. That means your connection with God is like a loose plug, like that.

So we have to understand that in the center when we are, we are sure of what we are, absolutely sure, we raise our heads in pride and glory. We don't have the vanity of the right and the pity of the left. That's what is we are going to achieve in France now. No more going to the subconscious or to the collective subconscious. Now don't think of your forefathers what they did, nor think of the future, what your progeny's going to do. Think for yourself what you're going to do for both of them. Many cursed families can be completely redeemed by one good Sahaja Yogi; and thousands of years of progeny can be blessed by one Sahaja Yogi. That's a fact, you can feel the vibrations now.

So one should have that personality of a very tranquil, peaceful understanding; but this understanding should not be mental but a sap on your central path, the vital energy that nourishes all the Chakras, your being and the atmosphere.

I'm sure all the French Sahaja Yogis now will take to the new ways of the central path. They should wear dresses which are fresh, have fresh looks on their faces, should create a fresh atmosphere around.

Give up all worn-out things that, they're very fond of worn-out things and also worn-out houses they like, they say it is antique. No, no give up that idea of antiques also because, you see, antiques are not all right as long as they're preserved properly, but if you make them look like antiques, you see, it's no respect given to them.

I went to Poland and I was surprised that all their old monuments were resurrected after the war and everything is painted and brought back to absolute fresh look. They haven't kept anything broken or muddy or in any way worn-out.

So the idea of these antiques to be preserved as they are is also, I think, very bhootish and left-sided.

So your antiques whatever you may possess also must be cleaned out and properly done up and should be brought to a fresh look. Now this necklace I'm wearing is very antique, very old, but doesn't look old, does it? Because it is looked after and it would look funny to wear, for a Goddess, to wear a antique thing which looks so worn-out.

So one criteria could be that whatever we wear or do, will Mother like it? This is the one question you can ask if you don't want to ask the vibrations, `Will She like it? We have to please Her.' And I tell you: very small, small things please Me. You don't have to do too many things, just a few things which pleases Me, which are very simple and easy and innate. Like you have to be innocent. It's very easy if you are a child-like person, you just don't allow any cunning to come into your head, any absurd ideas, just be innocent; you don't have to do anything to be innocent. You have to do something to be non-innocent.

So this is what one has to understand that the basis of our left side is innocence.

So anything that is not innocent, we should not do. It's so simple, should be all right with all of us if we just believe that we have this quality of innocence within us absolutely intact and you have to just awaken it and enjoy it, that's all.

So may God bless you all, may God give you strength to be innocent. You must pray that you should be innocent and the innocence will suck in all your problems, suck in your the problems of the left side and the symbol of innocence is Śhrī Gaṇeśh, who just knows His Mother, nobody else and His innocence is the source of all the wisdom.

So you have to pray for becoming absolutely innocent people.

May God bless you! Gregoire: Shri Mataji, if I may draw Your attention on this decoration. On this crest is the lily who is the symbol of ancient France, who represents the flower of purity in the French tradition and represents a Kuṇḍalinī which goes through the Āgñyā Chakra with both ego and superego being pushed and diminished on the side. And we pray, Shri Mataji, that that should be the result of our innocence, that we should all be beautiful French lilies for You, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Thank you.

Gregoire: Jai Shri Mataji!

Contents: 1986-05-21*, Public Program, Day 2, Spirit is the Reflection of God Almighty, Faculte Lariboisiffere, Universite Paris Descartes, Medical College, Paris, France

I bow to all the seekers of Truth.

As it is, at length, Gregoire has told you about the Chakras and about the three Nāḍīs which are within us. But what is the purpose of the mechanism within us? What is the purpose of getting Self-realisation? People have been talking about the self, about the Spirit. But what is it? Spirit is the reflection of God Almighty within us in our heart. He is the witness of the play of this power which is the Holy Ghost.

The Holy Ghost is reflected within us as the Kuṇḍalinī. She's the residual energy. She creates the whole of our being but still She is residual because she is still not manifested. As I told you She is the energy of our pure desire. The pure desire is to be the Spirit. We may avoid the issue, we may try to do something else, but actually what we really desire now, after becoming human beings, that we should become the Spirit.

But English language, as you know, is very confusing for Me, for Spirit is the Ātmā which is the reflection of God and spirit is the dead body or a dead possession and spirit is also an alcohol.

So when I'm talking about Spirit here I'm talking about Ātmā, the self. We talk of the autonomous nervous system in the medical science. This auto is the Spirit. It is the witness of the play of the Divine energy. He watches what we do until we are all right He keeps its reflection going but when it finds that it's not required anymore to be there, it disappears and that's how people die.

The Spirit within us gives us three great things which we do not get otherwise. The first is the absoluteness, the absolute truth. For example, if you meet someone you may like that person, another may not like him. There is no criteria to judge whether such and such person is Divine.

So once you get your realisation kind of cool vibrations start flowing from your hand and from your Fontanelle bone area.

But actually what happens like the Kuṇḍalinī when She rises, say this is the attention and the Kuṇḍalinī is rising, She takes this attention upwards and pierces through the Fontanelle bone area. But as soon as She reaches the Fontanelle bone area, the seat of the Spirit is here, the seat is, the seat of God Almighty is here and is reflected in the heart. As soon as she touches that point, what happens that this attention gets enlightened.

So when your attention is enlightened, wherever you put attention, you get information absolute information about that person. For example, sitting down here, you can find out about anybody as to what is the condition of his Chakras and as you grow in your realisation, you are amazed to see that sitting down here you can cure those Chakras. Whatever communication and other mechanical things you have devised on this earth have all come from inside.

So the condition that is Divine is absolute and very efficient, it doesn't fail like our telephone and other things like that fail.

That is how you relate to others in an absolute manner, not in a biased manner. Evolution shows that as a person evolves he knows how to relate to others. Like in the animal stage, the chimpanzee only when he sees the mirror he knows that it's him who he is seeing the mirror and the human beings also know that this is my image.

So the only human beings know how to relate to others and when they are evolved they know it in an absolute level how to deal with others because the relationship is not in any way hampered by, say, racialism or anything.

The attention becomes the love. But the part of it, the most important thing is that this love acts, it works out problems. Miraculously it helps you in such a manner that you are amazed. Now the attention becomes collectively conscious.

So you become conscious that you are part and parcel of the whole. For example, if this finger is paining and if I try to rub it to soothe it, I'm not helping or I'm not being kind to this finger. It's my own finger.

So in the realm of collective feeling, who is the other? And so many problems that we face based on hatred or biased feelings all drop out. First time you start enjoying another person without thinking about it. Once I was in Calcutta in a hotel and we had other Sahaja Yogis in other rooms and one gentleman came and sat before Me for his realisation and when he got his realisation all the Sahaja Yogis ran from their places and said, “Mother, what is happened? Such joy we are feeling." I said, “See this gentleman, how great he is, feel his vibrations." So they put their hands towards that gentleman and they felt the whole joy was coming from their head downward like that.

So this sort of a feeling without understanding who the person was, what was his rank, what was his name, you just feel the person as he is on his vibrations.

So you know the essence of that personality, the truth of that personality and you don't condemn anyone on something which is absolutely artificial. This is the one thing happens to your attention which is enlightened and this enlightened attention, the one who has, is innocent.

It is integrated and it is creative. I met a lady who was a law graduate. She said, “I never had this sense of beauty that I have now." Because whatever is very beautiful gives immense joy to you without thinking about it. Supposing I look at these flowers here and don't think about them. The joy of its creation will completely fill Me up. But if I think I possess them, I'll have to insure them and I'll have a headache or else I will start thinking from where did I get it? How much I should pay for it, all those things, horrible thoughts of money will come into my head and the whole joy will be finished.

In our attention, a style is such that whatever we look into, the thoughts come to us. Either we are thinking of the past or of the future. Thoughts rise, fall, another thought rises and falls and we are jumping on the cusp of these thoughts all the time.

So we live in the future or in the past. Now if I say, `Pay attention to your self,' you cannot. It is the Kuṇḍalinī when She pushes through our attention like this, then the attention is sucked in.

That is how we stand in the present. If I say you stand in the present, you cannot because in the present there is no thought. In the present, you enjoy the dynamism of that moment, the complete dynamism and the memory of that moment is so deep that you see the whole thing like a picture and the joy of that moment completely flows into you. I would request some of the Sahaja Yogis to get up and give seats to the people who are coming from outside. Thank you very much.

So such a person with this attention so enlightened becomes so powerful that he looks at someone and can give realisation within one glance. When such a person looks at others there is no lust or greed, it's a pure innocence and this innocence is nothing but benevolence, pure benevolence, that gives nothing but benevolence to others of every kind.

So this is one of the greatest things one achieves that your attention becomes enlightened and it becomes a very peaceful attention. You are not conditioned by anything. You don't feel the frustration because you don't want anything from anyone. You don't expect anything from anyone. You look at others as if something is flowing from your eyes and whatever flows is the love which comes back to you as beautiful ripples of joy.

So you enter into another realm of peace. Supposing you are standing in the water. The waves of the water will frighten you. But if you climb up onto a boat you can enjoy the same waves which were frightening you.

So you become peaceful watching the waves, not getting frightened.

So the fear goes out of your mind completely. Also the experience of God's blessings are so great that you really become fearless. But you don't become arrogant. On the contrary, you become very mellowed down, beautiful, magnetic personality.

I had some Sahaja Yogis who came to Me, extremely hot tempered, very angry with Me, shouting at Me. They just mellowed down, they became beautiful people. By just forming some organizations, or by preaching about peace or doing something around these lines, you cannot achieve that. Man has to be transformed. As the seed has to be transformed to become the tree, human beings have to be transformed to enter into that space of peace and love.

So by this attention, you become the truth. You don't tell lies, you don't cheat people, you don't play games. You don't need to deceive people, you enjoy your honesty, you enjoy your generosity, you enjoy your chastity. You enjoy all that is virtuous and righteous because you become.

There have been lots of seekers who took to drugs, alcoholism because they were so frustrated. I never said, `Don't take drugs, don't take alcohol,' nothing of the kind. I don't say that. I don't say, `You don't smoke,' either. I just say, “Come into the realm of the Divine." And everything drops out without telling you. It's like this. If you are holding a snake in your hand and you are in darkness and if somebody says, `That's a snake. Throw away.' You will never. You will, on the contrary, hold it with a great clutch on it. But as soon as the light comes in, it just drops out. Nobody has to tell you. You can see for yourself, your eyes are open.

That's exactly what happens that you know the truth. You become the truth and you know the truth.

Then you stand by people. Like Christ did when Mary Magdalene was stoned, he went and stood there when he had nothing to do with a prostitute like her. He went instead and said that, “Those who have not committed any sin can throw a stone at Me." And they dropped their stones. Such a power of purity and truth is residing in you. That's the glory you have to achieve. That's the glory you have to find and for that you have to understand that it is a spontaneous happening. You don't have to do anything about it. It just works spontaneously.

People are sometimes angry with Me because I say, “You cannot pay for it." They have been attacking Me throughout because they think I am coming in their business. But truth is truth. You cannot pay for your ascent whether it is Christianity, Hinduism or Islam. You cannot pay for that. You cannot live in the name of God and earn money out of it. God does not understand money. It's very difficult for a godly person to understand bank. It's a very different type of a temperament a godly person has.

Now you become the truth and then you become the joy. Joy is not a dual, a feeling of duality. It is not unhappiness and happiness. When your ego is pampered, you feel you're happy and when it is hurt, you feel unhappy. But after your realisation you don't feel happy or unhappy. For example, they'll say, “Mother, my Āgñyā is catching, meaning that my ego is troubling me." Then you have to say, “All right, you forgive everyone." Forgiveness is the solution, that's the mantra, that's the chanting you have to do.

I forgive everyone. I forgive. The ego will disappear.

So now when you become the joy, it's an absolute quantity of substance which cannot be described otherwise. It's a wise understanding. Like a sap it rises within you and gives you complete satisfaction of existence. Now this joy is not available to us because we live in two circumstances, that is, the happiness and unhappiness.

So this joy gives you a state which we call as the witness state. Like a drama we witness the tragedy, the comedy, everything you witness like a drama. You are outside. When you are not involved in the problem then you can solve it much better and if you can learn the method how to use this power, to get rid of the problems which are very, very simple, then you are the master.

To give an analogy, we would say like this that the motor car has got a brake and an accelerator.

Now in the beginning when you are trying to learn how to ride a motor car, you try to balance both of them.

Sometimes you'll press this and sometimes that, but then you learn how to do it. Then you become automatic person, you do that, you become a driver. This is what is religion. If you get the balance within yourself. Religion is not outside, it is within yourself. When you become temperant and balanced, you become, say, the driver of your car. But the master is sitting at the back of the car.

So when you become the master you can watch the driver and both these accelerator and the brake working, but you are the master and then you don't worry.

But this happening has a weakness. This has to work out and even if you reach a state, where I would say, your Kuṇḍalinī has pierced through one has to remember very clearly that the machinery that we have is rather defective. We have ourselves spoilt our machinery. We have accepted certain things, some dogmas, or some sort of nonsensical ideas in our heads and we have spoilt our head much more than anything else. I think in the West especially now everything we do with the brain. Even the sex, even the love and all that we do through our brain and the heart has become like a frozen iceberg. We cannot even smile at each other. It's too much. Everybody looks so serious, insular.

So these things are to be corrected by the rising of the Kuṇḍalinī.

So you have to take this Kuṇḍalinī by your own understanding to all these various places to cleanse it and to remove all darkness. And for that we have to have little understanding. All this knowledge which was supposed to be secret is your own today without paying anything for it. But one thing you must remember that you must respect your Self-realisation. There's no need to have any exhibitionism, there's no need to show it outside. It is all inside, Antar Yoga. You have to work out.

Only thing you have to be sincere about it and earnest to achieve the second state which we call the Nirvikalpa. The first stage is thoughtless awareness which is called as the Nirvichara Samādhi and the second state that you achieve, can achieve very fast, is Nirvikalpa where it is doubtless awareness. At that state you can start giving realisations to others. You can start curing others. Just with the movement of your hand, you can raise the Kuṇḍalinī. This Mr. Michel has given realisation to so many. We have one here, Doctor Warren who has given at least to two-three thousand people realisation when he went to Australia.

These are the powers of the Spirit. This is the solution of all our human problems. For understanding Sahaja Yoga, you don't have to read much or to think about it but to become. Yesterday some people did not feel the vibrations, doesn't matter. You should not feel in any way guilty about it. That's one thing I have to request you again and again, don't feel guilty. I'm happy yesterday you all agreed to say, “Allah hu Akbar." I didn't know you don't like Muslims very much in France. But, Allah hu Akbar is not Muslim's as Lord's prayer is not Christian's.

One better than the other, these people are, I tell you. If you want to know about the Muslims, ask the Jews. And if you want to know about the Jews, ask the Nazis and you can go on like this one after another. All are made by God and this world is one. Just to create beauty he has made variety. If we all had looked alike there would have been no interest, it would have been boring. One leaf doesn't tally with another leaf, so why have these stupid ideas that we're different from anyone. That also will drop out in no time. We are all universal beings and when you said “Akbar", it means the great, the God is great.

That means the whole being.

So in the brain resides the Akbar, in the heart resides the Spirit and in the liver resides the Creator.

Akbar we can call it the one who is our evolutionary force. In the central path takes you to that.

So Akbar stands for truth and the Sadāśhiva in the heart, the Ātmā stands for joy. And the Creator is in our liver which is the attention. Now the problem is only this that every country also represents something in this body, in this Akbar and France represents the liver and every Frenchman's liver is out of order. [Laughs.] So we have to first cure the liver. Yesterday it was so hot that I was perspiring completely, sucking in your heat from your livers.

I was happy to see this painting which shows that from a human being the tree of life is taken out and this is the tree of life that we are showing here. I have given thousands of lectures now in English language and have been translated also and I would like you to go through them to know more about this tree of life. In these two days whatever was possible we have tried humbly to explain to you. But the main thing is you must get your realisation and more than that to establish it. Thank you very much.

Now we'll have the session of meditation for about ten minutes only. And I have to make a request: Those who do not want to do it should go and leave the place with no anger.

So those who want to go can go and will be great help to us. In this process nothing can happen to you, nothing that is dangerous, nothing that is troublesome, will happen to you. But if there is somebody suffering from epilepsy, would be better that such a person goes out and we'll treat such a person later on. Epilepsy. They only can't bear the power, I think. Now I have to request you to take out your shoes to touch the Mother Earth is a better idea, for a while.

It's a very simple method as I told you, it's a living process and it won't trouble you at all, by any chance. But before we start it I have to again request you to be in a position that you don't feel guilty at all. Don't blame yourself for anything whatsoever. At this moment you must know that you are to be like temples of God and the one who has to enter into the Kingdom of God, how can he be guilty? He made you so beautifully, how can you be guilty? So you must forgive yourself fully and be very pleasantly placed towards yourself. This will help a lot.

Now don't think of your past or future. Just this moment the Kuṇḍalinī has to rise so you don't worry about your future or about your past. Just leave things at a relaxed state. First you keep your eyes open.

I'll show you how you are going to help your own Kuṇḍalinī to rise even when you have gone away from this place. In the beginning, if you want, you can use My photographs for vibrations, then you can give up later on when you are grown up into it. All right. Now if you put your left hand towards Me, like this very comfortably on your lap, which is the power of your desire and the right hand is to be used for the action on the different Chakras.

So the first thing is to just to put your left hand like this on your lap. Everybody should do it and the right hand on your heart where resides the Spirit. Then the second Chakra. We are working everything on the left hand side. Now the second Chakra on the left hand side is on the upper part of your abdomen, is here which we call as the center of mastery. Then lower abdomen, in the lower part of the abdomen on the left hand side, is the center of Pure Knowledge of the Divine. Now again you have to go back in the upper part of the abdomen then on the heart, then here on the left hand side of the corner of your shoulder and your neck, turning your head to the right. This is the center catches very much. I'm catching now today with you all because you people feel very guilty.

Now then you have to put this hand on your forehead across like this and press on both sides, sides, like this. Now you put this hand on the back of your head here like this. Now you have to stretch your hand, stretch it and put the center of your palm on the top of your head pressing it hard and moving it seven times. Here, press it hard. Now, that's all. Now we have to close our eyes. There's no mesmerism, so you have to close your eyes. Don't have any doubts about yourself and also about Me because I don't want anything from you. It will help better. All right, now we put the left hand, as I said, on the lap and close your eyes and right hand on the heart and close your eyes. Slowly. Both the feet should be on the ground, parallel and nothing should be tight in the waist or in the neck, I mean, you should not be...

Contents: 1986-05-24 Śhrī Mahālakṣhmī Pūjā, The Importance of Pūjā, House of Juan Antonio Delgado, Madrid, Spain

Today I will tell you of the importance of Pūjā.

Even among the the early Christians they used to do Pūjā of the adoration of Śhrī Mary's statues and also to stained glass windows that had images of the Mother and Christ.

Later on, people became more rational and no longer understood the importance of Pūjā and as they could not explain it they gave up regular worship and the glorifying of the Pūjā. Before the time of Christ people used to have a Tabernacle which had precise measurements and was made specifically for Pūjās' which were held at a Holy Place created for the worship of Jehovah. Jehovah in Sahaja Yoga terms is Śhrī Sadāśhiva and Mother Mary is Mahālakṣhmī. She had also incarnated before this time as Śhrī Sītā and Śhrī Rādhā and then as the Mother Mary.

It is written in the Devī Māhātmyam about the birth of Christ who was the Son of Rādhā and that Rādhā was also Mahālakṣhmī. He was born in another state [apart from a human womb] and within an egg, half of which incarnated as Śhrī Gaṇeśha and the other half became Mahāviṣhṇu who is our Lord Jesus Christ.

So Jesus Christ and Mahāviṣhṇu are one and the same Deity. When Śhrī Mahālakṣhmī came upon this Earth She brought forth Her Child by the Immaculate Conception which She had previously done as Śhrī Rādhā. Jesus Christ is the Son of the Great Being of the Virāta. Viṣhṇu was the Viṣhṇu Tattwa [the Adhara or the Support of the Virāta] so Mahāviṣhṇu became the Virāta is also called the Akbar [the Greatest Person].

At His Ascent Jesus Christ arose above the earth and the other elements and became the Omkāra who is the source and the support of the vibrations. All the other incarnations of the Deities had to take their principles from the essence of the Mother Earth itself when their bodies were created.

The exception to this principle was that the creation of the body of Jesus Christ, who is the Absolute or the Omkāra, was an Incarnation of Śhrī Gaṇeśha. The earth element was contained within Śhrī Gaṇeśha as He was formed First and from the Mother Earth before the Creation itself.

Jesus Christ is the power of Śhrī Gaṇeśha Incarnate and that is the reason why He could walk upon the waters [as He is above the elements]. He is the purest form of Divinity because He is the vibrations made manifest. When you do Pūjā to Me and because I am here in person there is nothing unreal about this.

If a Pūjā had been done to Christ whilst He was living then they would have also done a Pūjā to His Mother, Śhrī Mary. In the Commandments given to Śhrī Moses it is written “whatever is created by the Heavens and by the Earth should not be recreated, reproduced and worshipped" [Thou shalt not have false idols before me] as the Incarnations are created by the Heavens. It is only in modern times that it is possible to take a photograph of the Incarnations. In former days this was not possible. Whatever has been created by the Mother Earth and taken out of the Mother Earth these are the Swayambhūs. We find the Swayambhūs [self-existent marks or signs of God Almighty found in Nature] are not made by human hands. Everywhere realised Souls have also made some beautiful statues.

I went to Portugal where they celebrate the Festival of the Lady of the Rocks [1982-05-29] and to see the place where there was a very small statue of the Mother Mary which was about five inches high with a face just like Mine, exactly like Mine! They said that it had been found by two young children who were chasing a rabbit and that it hid in a niche. The children saw that there was light coming from within the niche and they discovered, hidden under a rock that the source of the light was a statue and they brought it out. They walked in that light and a lot of people gathered around and were amazed to see the statue that had been taken out from the niche. They now worship this statue in that place which gives out vibrations but not as much as I give out to you.

There may be other statues that you might know about that give out vibrations. In India some of you went to Ganapatipule where Śhrī Gaṇeśha had come from, the Mahāgaṇeśha is the lower part of the body that you can see there and the Head is the whole of the Mountain and there the water of the sea is sweet and there are also many wells with sweet water.

Some people took photographs of Me at this place and in some of them a light was coming from My Heart.

Some people told Me that some of the photographs did not show this light, but when they looked at the negative image of the picture the light was there.

There are many miraculous things in the Realm of the Divine and in Pūjās. When we do a Pūjā we must first praise Śhrī Gaṇeśha so that Śhrī Gaṇeśha will be awakened and established within you.

By worshipping Me as Śhrī Gaṇeśha your Innocence will be established and you will see the vibrations rise and increase so that you will feel very stable within yourself.

When you take Śhrī Gaṇeśha's names you will know the qualities that He has and what powers He gives to you. When you praise these qualities then the powers of these qualities will start emitting through you. This is how the Divine works. If you are changed by these qualities then you praise the Goddess, The Ādi Shakti.

The Ādi Shakti has all the seven Chakras awakened within Her and She has to work with them. It is the first time that such an Incarnation has come. It is like making the first room and then a second one and then third one until the seventh room is done and the whole house is completed. When the house is completed you will be given the keys and you can open the house, which is your own Self. This is how I have achieved en masse Self-realisation. This could not have happened earlier, but it is now possible because of the combination of all of the Chakras and the subsequent opening of the Sahasrāra.

When you are praising the Ādi Shakti you are also praising Mahāmāyā who was created so that I could look like you. This was a very difficult thing to do and this body has had to bear a lot of things to make you understand Sahaja Yoga and your own powers.

If you are rude to Me and not respectful, Christ will get very angry because He has said that He will not tolerate anything against the Holy Ghost. If this is so then My Āgñyā Chakra [the place of Śhrī Jesus Christ] will start projecting anger and moving very fast and I have to bear this. I cannot tell you in the way Christ wants Me to tell you about this because He is very direct and I have to be a little bit careful so that you don't get upset. Whilst doing Pūjā and if you are the doubting type or acting in opposition to Me and do not absorb all the vibrations then I have some problems because the vibrations that are flowing out of Me are not being fully absorbed by you. I do not know how to contain them within Myself so I have to take the time to take them out. All of these things are symbolic for whatever we are doing and that symbol acts. For example, if you give somebody a flower that person feels extremely joyful and happy and gratitude comes in. When you offer Me flowers or anything else like water then the elements are happy and the Deities are happy within their Chakras so that they emit vibrations of their qualities and their blessings upon you. They will give you their qualities and their blessings because this is how the Divine acts and gradually after a Pūjā you will feel the whole thing is working out.

We are doing Pūjā at this time and all over the world people know that there is a Pūjā going on here and they are sitting in meditation so that they will also get the blessings. They are also waiting for the moment when the Pūjā will start.

If we give them a time, say, 11 o'clock then at this time we will all start the Pūjā together. Whilst you are doing the Pūjā they will get the same blessings in their meditation.

If you are not clever and do not know about the few things that are important in a Pūjā it doesn't matter, because if you are ignorant or innocent about it God

Almighty knows about it and forgives. He does not mind and you should also not mind if you make mistakes. Just be with a humble heart and do it the way that you like best. You will learn gradually, but if you know what to do and deliberately make mistakes then this is not a good thing. As we forgive our children so God Almighty also forgives innocent children. You must be very relaxed about it all and just do it for the Joy that is in your Heart.

May God bless you.

[When a parcel is offered to Shri Mataji as a gift:] I do not know how to open parcels, I only know how to open Kuṇḍalinīs.

[Introduction by Rev. J. Sig Paulsen (senior minister).] [Introduction by Warren Reeves.] [Introduction of Shri Mataji by Rev. J. Sig Paulsen (senior minister).]

I bow to all the seekers of Truth.

One has to understand that Truth is what it is. We cannot conceive it. We cannot organize it. We cannot order it. Only, as a scientific personality, we should have an open mind to see what it is. As we go to any university or any college, we try to find out what it is there, in the same way, when we have to find out about the truth, we have to be very open-minded. But when we talk of love, we must know that love and truth are the same thing. There is no difference at all between God's love and the truth itself. This difference exists when we are not one with God. For example, if you love someone, even on a mundane level, if you love someone physically, also you can say, or in a carnal way, you know a lot about that person. You just know it. But when you know the truth, then you become the love. And the love I'm telling you about is the love that is all-pervading, which acts; coordinates and is the truth. But for this, we have to realise that we have not been at the level which we call as the absolute. We are living in a relative world. And relatively, when we start seeing things, it cannot be truth. Truth cannot be relative.

It has to be absolute. And in our evolutionary process, when we have become human beings, whatever we know, as to for example, if you know that I am wearing a sarī, which is the truth for you; is the truth for everyone. Everyone sees the same thing, so it relates to your central nervous system. That you must know it on your central nervous system, the truth. It cannot be any imagination. It cannot be any mental projection and it cannot be anything that cannot be proved.

So we have to prove Christ, His existence.

We have to prove God on our central nervous system. We have to prove that whatever christ has said, is the truth. Unless and until we prove that, no amount of talking is going to convince the progeny.

Now the time is come for us to prove that. And that truth, whatever you call it, scientific or Divine, whatever is truth, has to be expressed on our central nervous system. That means we must feel it.

We must see it. It should happen. Mohammed Sahib has said, they all have said the same thing, only depending on the times as they were, that at the time of resurrection, when the humanity will rise, their hands will speak. They talked of resurrection most of the time, but somehow they never talked of it only as the doomsday. And this is the reason why whatever was important in every religion, was not given the proper importance. That's why today, the situation is such that we find all of them, all in different compartments. But they're not. They were all born on one tree of life at different times... the same energy of love which nourished them and they flowered.

People [UNCLEAR] themselves... “this is mine... this is mine..." put themselves into dogmas; into ideas... finish them completely. And then, now we see there's a quarrel going on.

So one must know that there must be something more we have to know. I will put it this way: that in the West, whatever knowledge we have had about science or about other things, is like the knowledge of the tree which is outside. Now whatever Doctor Warren has told you is the knowledge of the roots. Now supposing, if the East has learned this knowledge from you, has tried to understand the knowledge of science, of course, which is not very fruitful also, but doesn't matter. They have tried to learn this knowledge of science.

Why not we try to learn the knowledge of the roots? The roots of the tree of life... why should we not try to find out what are the roots which have to be nourished, which were neglected and that's why we have problems. These are the roots within us which are being described and when these roots are understood, then only we will see that something more has to happen. We have to feel those roots. We don't feel them on our central nervous system. We have no sensitivity at all within us.

For example, now, supposing a person who is going mad... he's not conscious of it... that he's getting mad. Or if he develops some disease, he doesn't become conscious of it till he gets some pain. But actually, these centers are the subtle energy centers, which give energy to the plexuses and which look after us very well. But how to enlighten these centers? That was the big problem. How to enlighten these centers so that we start feeling our roots. For that, God Almighty, Who is our Father, Who is very kind and gentle in His all-care; has made this beautiful thing within us and all of them are like the milestones of our evolution. These centers are to be enlightened and then they are to be enlightened, something has to be done. For that, in the triangular bone here, is placed the energy called Kuṇḍalinī. It's a Sanskrit word meaning `the coils'. It is in three and one-half coils... is very important coefficient, three and one-half coils. It is placed there and this has to be awakened. Like a primule [UNCLEAR] in a seed to enlighten all these six centers. And ultimately, enter through this center which is the sixth one in this order because the seventh one lies down below the Kuṇḍalinī. This is the important thing that has to happen to us...

to become the Spirit that Christ has told us that we have to become... the Spirit... that we are all to be born again.

It is against certifying ourselves that we are born again... you do not become. Let us accept one thing.

We are not going to live with myths and dishonesty. If we are going to be honest with ourselves, it is benefficial to us. It is benevolent for us to be honest with ourselves and to realise that by giving ourselves certificates we do not become anything. It's only a mental projection. Whether I call Myself a Christian or a Muslim or a Hindu, makes no difference whatsoever. Whatever dress I wear or howsoever I comb My hair, makes no difference to Me at all.

In all honesty, we have to perceive and see to reach that absolute stage. This Kuṇḍalinī has to rise.

There's no other way out and this is what is the Holy Ghost within us. This is the Holy Ghost... is a reflection of the Holy Ghost and Holy Ghost is the energy of God... which is Love... which is His desire.

His desire is the Holy Ghost and is reflected within us as the Kuṇḍalinī.

So the desire of God is that you should become the citizen of His Kingdom... that you should enter into His Kingdom and enjoy all the fruits of His blessings... understandingly... knowingly... on your central nervous system. This is His pure desire and if that pure desire within us rises, then we see that all our desires were useless. And they are not pure, either. Because we have some desire, say, for example, we want to have a car. Alright, have a car. They want to have a house; have a house. They are never satisfied. In general, it is said that wants are not [UNCLEAR] because they are not wants. They are artificial wants. The real want, the real desire is this one... this energy of pure desire that says you have to unite... unite with the Divine, with the All-pervading Power of God. That is our pure desire and unless and until that desire is completed, you may do any kind of things... you may go to all kinds of things... try anything... you can never achieve it.

Now, this is a living process because God is a living being. She is not empty words. He's not just something like a dead book. He's not. He is a living God. He is a living energy. And, this is a living process so it has to be spontaneous if it is living. For example, there is a seed and you want to sprout it. Can you order it? Can you mentally say `Alright, now it has to sprout.' Can you say, `Alright, I read these mantras to you, or Bible to you,' or do this, will it rise? No, it won't. It's a living process. You have to place it in the Mother Earth. Spontaneously, it will rise. You don't have to say anything. You don't have to imagine anything. It will rise. And that's what it is; that this Kuṇḍalinī has to be awakened... in the same manner... in the living process. Now, many people are surprised that I don't charge any money. How can you charge money for love, first of all? And this love, which is so spontaneous... I don't worry... I'm just standing before you. I'm doing nothing at all. But if that love is flowing all over; and if you get this awakening because of My presence; I'm doing nothing. It's your own... Whatever is, is your own... this Kuṇḍalinī is your own... your desire... is your own. And if you achieve your realisation, it's your own. What is there to charge for? To be honest, I don't do it. There's no obligation at all. It's just the catalyst. Then you become the catalyst. Then the third person becomes the catalyst. Everybody can become the catalyst. But one has to be honest and truthful. Otherwise you cannot find truth. If you are living with myths, how can you find the truth? Now the modern Sahaja Yoga... what I call it... whatever the way I'm trying... is a little different...

that people could have used before. Like they first wanted to clear Chakras. After Chakras, everying and then go to all kinds of inner selves and all that and raise the Kuṇḍalinī because people needed this cleansing.

Now, what I thought was the easiest method is somehow or other to raise the Kuṇḍalinī.

Somehow. Make it emit even a little glimpse of the light into people. Let the light come into the lamp. Let the lamp be seen by the people themselves. When the Kuṇḍalinī rises, you see, there's a flickering, say, of the light.

You can see yourself what's wrong with you... which Chakra is catching... where is the problem. And then it's very easy to correct. But if I say, do this and do that... finished. I know they will categorically destroy Me, like Jesus, or they may make Me into a Hitler or something like that. Better is that to allow them to judge themselves. Let them become their own guide. Let them become their own Gurus and find out. But how? When the Kuṇḍalinī rises by itself and pierces through, what happens? That your hands start speaking.

You start feeling all around you the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost. You start feeling the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost coming out of your head also. Now, when I tell you what are these centers for [UNCLEAR] what will they denote on your fingertips and you start practicing it. Start seeing how it works out and then you realise it's true what I say. Supposing the Christ Chakra is catching. This is the Chakra of Christ.

You might say, “How do you say, Mother, this is the Chakra of Christ?" Because here you have to say the Lord's prayer. If you are catching on that without saying the Lord's prayer, God doesn't hear at all.

Supposing this is not connected... it will not work. You are to be connected to the mains. You are to be connected with Him. Once you are connected with Him, everything becomes alive and you can have it [UNCLEAR]. Then you can understand. Then you can say Lord's Prayer. It works! It just works.

Another simple thing I have reduced it to... just is... you say, `I pardon everyone. I forgive everyone.' It works! Now, this is such a simple method. And people say... the other day I was surprised when I went to Spain. They said, “Mother, no, how can it be that simple?" You see and then another fellow told Me that “You see, Mother, we are confused... that we must suffer to achieve [UNCLEAR Christianity...]." I said, “Which religion are you to achieve?" He said, “Christianity." I said, “Impossible! It's not Christianity. It's the Jews who believed in that because they didn't want to accept that Christ suffered for them. Are you Jews or Christians? First decide." “Christians." I said, “Then it's wrong. How can you suffer when Christ has suffered for you? You don't believe in His suffering or did He not suffer sufficiently for you that you are still suffering?" Then I challenged their ego a little bit. I'm sorry to say that I did, because I thought they wouldn't understand this. I said, “You said you are suffering." But I don't know of Spaniards suffering [UNCLEAR] more than we have. If Columbus had not gone to America, we would have been finished in India.

Completely. You would not have had this. When did the Spaniards suffer? Let Me know that. When did the Christians suffer as the non-Christians had at the hands of Christians? What do you tell Me? I can't understand." It is not that. It is something else you must know. That there's no suffering needed at all. He is God Almighty Who is Ocean of Love; Who is ocean of grace and compassion. If an ordinary father won't allow his son to suffer, how can the Great Father make you suffer. You challenge His compassion by saying you want to suffer. Alright, you want tot suffer, like Jews... have Hitler. You will have Hitler. You want to suffer? Suffer nicely. [Laughter.] Simple as that. You are not to suffer anymore. No suffering.

You are here to enter into the Kingdom of God. I have come here to give you the message of joy and message of happiness. [UNCLEAR] I have not come here to tell you about sufferings at all. And I don't believe in it. You suffer because of ego or superego. There are two institutions within us which have been through our activity of the left side and right side.

[Aside to Warren:] I don't know... did you tell them about left or right? So the left side is our desire of power... on the right side is our action power. And the result of our action power we collect here... our ego; and as result of our desire power, we collect superego. Means conditioning. We have both things. One side is the superego. The other side is the ego. Now, when these two meet here and join together, there's a calcification on our fontanelle bone area here... then what happens? An `I'-ness develops within and we become Mister Ego and Mrs. Ego and all that. But when the Kuṇḍalinī rises, here it is Christ the Lord. He sucks in these two institutions within us... where our conditioning and our so-called Karmas are sucked in. And it opens up and the Kuṇḍalinī rushes out. You experience your own Kuṇḍalinī coming out of your own head. I don't have to sanctify you. The experience is your own. Everything is your own. I don't have to say that you feel it... nothing of the kind. You feel it and then you feel it on your fingertips.

Now here I feel that you must have pure intelligence. If it is biased, it has already been spoiled by your own dogmas, your own ideologies and all that. You won't see the truth easily. I will give you an example: Doctor Worlikar or Doctor Warren. We have other doctors also... very educated people and very simple village people... extremely simple people. Where, if you take the cross section, you can find people who are absolutely uneducated and people who are very well educated, all kinds of people... of all walks of life. But, I've seen just one common point about them. They have pure intelligence that once seen the light, they accept it and they work it out. This is the only point where I've seen people fail and that's how some people become Sahaja Yogis very fast and develop that state.

Now, this Doctor Warren must have given realisation to thousand of people in Australia. You'd be surprised. Then there are so many who have done it. But to establish you is your own, I should say, value system. Realisation is not difficult. But to establish it you have to understand how to raise your Kuṇḍalinī... have to establish it.

Some people take hardly three to four days and they establish it.

Some people take a month at the most. But one has to get after it and respect your realisation and love yourself first that you're the instrument of God and that instrument, as it is connected. You are to be connected with God. And if this connection is a little loose, you have to do the job. It's your job and if you learn that, it's very easy for you. When an ordinary villager can do that, why not you? You will be amazed as soon as this happens.

We talk of peace. Most people who talk of peace and other sides of it... as you know... I have another life also. They talk of peace... the United Nations... this... that... big, big thugs... but no peace within. Those who have no peace within, how can they talk of United Nations or anything on the basis of peace? You cannot. Because it's just mental and it will break in one moment as soon as something will happen of that kind... challenging your ego or superego.

So to get to the right point one must understand that whatever human problems we have, are coming from inside, not outside. You don't worry about atomic bombs. They will not destroy us. The atomic bombs within us are going to destroy us. As you see, AIDS has come... this has come... that has come.

They are going to destroy us and if you can just manage somehow or another to take this Kuṇḍalinī there and establish it there, you will have no problem of any kind. No problem of any kind. I've seen people who have been cured of cancer in Sahaja Yoga. Our president was there and he was sent to Me. [UNCLEAR].

He was cured of cancer... and only ten minutes he took to get cured. You can get cured, even of AIDS...

you'll be surprised if you take to Sahaja Yoga. But whatever one may try, you see, it doesn't go to heads of people who are much full of dogmas. They cannot believe it... that God can cure. I don't know how they have the photograph of Christ in their house and Bible in their hands. What did Christ do to have that energy to cure people? Now this curing is not important. But as a by-product of this happening, you get your physical cure. You get your mental cure... as a by-product As a light comes in, you see it. Now, supposing I'm holding onto a serpent in my hand and there's no light. In the darkness, you are holding onto a serpent. [UNCLEAR]. You won't listen. But if there's a little light... you see the serpent right away. Oh, God! That's how people have got rid of their bad habits of drug addiction and all that. Just like that. But I must tell you it's so difficult to explain to modern people that there's something much higher than all of us.

We have sometimes very bad experiences...

Sometimes in England. Like the BBC people called Me on the television and asked Me to speak on that. But they said we can't believe that you should do it without money. I said, “Why? How much will you pay Me." They said, “No." [UNCLEAR]. An Anglo-Saxon brain cannot understand anything without money. I said an Anglo-Saxon brain cannot get realisation.

That is the [UNCLEAR]. How much Christ charged you? If you understand Christ at all, must know that we sold him and we are still selling him.

You cannot sell God and you cannot sell all these things. That's why they were surprised... and they won't have Me on the BBC. I think I will not say anything against BBC. And as far as My work is concerned, you cannot pay Me. How much will you pay Me? It's just love and just affection. Like this man just says hello to Me. How much should I pay him for that? Love cannot charge. Alright, for your hall, you can. For other things you can. This is one thing we cannot understand. When I went to Toronto, I was surprised they asked Me a question, “How many Rolls-Royces do you have?" I said, “I don't have any." [Laughter.] They're not interested in Me if there's no business about it.

Now, we have to understand that we are seekers of truth and we are seekers of peace within... the silence within... the love within. And that power that gives you... empowers you to love others. Now, when we love others, our idea of love is either some sort of pugnation or maybe some greed or maybe some lust or some [UNCLEAR]. But this love has nothing to do with it. It's pure love. And a pure Divine Love is such... like a sap in a tree which rises and goes to all the parts of the tree... goes to the flower... goes to the fruit... goes to the leaves... and comes back. Supposing it gets entangled into one flower [UNCLEAR]. The tree will die and the power will also die. It doesn't get attached, but it nourishes. It's absolutely involved, but not attached. All this discretion you develop when you have your vibrations and you are surprised that you start talking like a third person. Like we had one lady from India. She came down with Me to Los Angeles and we had her son from Holland. She said, “Mother, give us realisation." I said, “I'll try" [UNCLEAR]. She said, “How can I, he's not getting it." So I said, “Then how can I?" So I said, “Give him a certificate... he's a realised Soul." “How can I give him a false certificate, Mother?" I said, “That's the point. He's not getting realisation. That's the point” I said. “So what should we do?" I said, “That's different kind, but he's not getting realisation." One must understand that.

So she said, “Yes, it's true. It doesn't go; it doesn't work." “It." She didn't say `I have done' or `I do it.' “It" doesn't work. You become a third person. You start talking in a third person language. As in Sanskrit, it becomes our Karma... that you're action becomes non-action. You do not act anymore, but it becomes a non-action... a detached action. You just say, “It" doesn't work out; “It" doesn't move; “It" doesn't come out. Or “it" does.

So it's something else that is doing. Actually, you are raising the Kuṇḍalinī. But you don't say that. And this power all of you have got. All of you have got this power. All of you should have it. Why should you have it and they not have it, I just don't understand? Supposing you belong, say, to somebody, or some special dogmas or anything.

That has not given you full satisfaction. That has given you nothing.

So why not have this power which makes you absolutely dynamic? You My ages [UNCLEAR]. I'm very old and I'm a housewife. I'm a grandmother and I have so much things to be done on the other side of My married life and I've travelled so much. Everything I do... I don't feel tired at all. And you can become very magnetic and such a person becomes such a pure personality that even a glance of such a person can create peace... can create joy... can life you... can cure you...

can do anything. Such an ocean of power is within your reach and why should we get it? It's very simple.

This is what... all of them have said it. It's not that it was said only by Christ. But everyone of them has said that you have to get your realisation. Say it was thousands of years back when Rāma came, even before that, we had many other people. They came... then came Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa... then came in this world, as you know, Buddha... Mahāvīra... all of them said, “Get your realisation." Buddha and Mahāvīra went to such an extent that they said, “Don't talk of God. Don't talk of incarnation. Just get your realisation"... only Self-realisation... nothing else. Because they thought that when you start talking about God, they just take off.

So, tell them you get your realisation, is the point and that's what's important.

So people called them Avishnavarti [UNCLEAR]; the ones who are atheists that don't believe in God. They did believe in God, no doubt. But they didn't want to talk about it. Because they stopped talking about God because of the talk and talk and talk.

So now, the time has come to have the experience. Unfortunately, Houston seems to be far away from My touring and all that. But in the whole world, we have thousands and thousands of people who have got realisation and are doing this work. Not necessarily that you have to give up your job. Nothing else to be given up. You are so dynamic. You don't have to change your names and wear funny dresses. Nothing of the kind. [Laughter].

Some people think you have to develop some horns, you see. There's no need to do all that nonsense. Wherever you are, it is an internal change that takes place. It becomes your own power. Only thing is the glow on the face is different; the glint in the eye is there. And such a person is a very loving, affectionate and peaceful kind [UNCLEAR]. They don't get disturbed... no pressures of any kind... nothing of the kind. Very... I should say... a contented person... a very contented person.

All this is your own judge. [UNCLEAR]. Just this breakthrough has to take place. And I'm sure it will work out. I think tomorrow we are going to have a workshop for all. [UNCLEAR].

[To Warren:] Am I supposed to do the experiencing today? Warren: Ask them.

[People's voices.]

Shri Mataji: Thank you. They will always say so. [Laughs.] Now we have imported at least twenty-five Sahaja Yogis across the border and I must say that one day should come when we should export from Houston lots of Sahaja Yogis all over the world. That will be the best time... when I will enjoy My coming to Houston.

So, as I said it, Truth, Love and Joy are one because all of them are the quality of the Spirit. Truth, you know on your attention. Whenever you spay your attention to someone, you know the truth about that person. You know the truth about yourself... and you know the ultimate truth also... that you are the Spirit. You are not this body. You are not this mind. You are the Spirit. This is the greatest truth.

And that's why it has to be established. Once you become the truth, all the powers of the Spirit start manifesting automatically. Like a television, if you see, looks like a little box. But once connected, you see the dynamism of that. In the same way, this ultimate breakthrough has to take place.

May God bless you all.

At the end of it, I would like to thank you very much for arranging this program. And giving Me a chance to come and talk to all of them. And hope that next time when I come in September again, I may be able to come back because Houston, as I told you, on My way is a little bit far off. But it doesn't matter. We'll have to work it out. If this time some people get realisation, I'll definitely come back here in September.

So, to begin with, as I said, first of all, we must love ourselves. We must forgive ourselves. We have to forgive ourselves and we have to respect ourselves. We are human beings. God has made us from amoeba to this stage. We're not [UNCLEAR]; we're people. In His eyes, we are worth all the heavens and all the universes because you are on the stage and you are going to fulfil His desire... because He wants all of you to be in His domain and His Kingdom.

So first of all, you have to forgive yourself and not to feel guilty at all. If you feel guilty, I will tell you what happens to you. It's shocking. If you feel guilty, you develop this center here, which is the left Viśhuddhi, as we call it. By developing that center, you develop, from the very beginning, is the spondylitis. If you do not get spondylitis, then you develop a disease called angina.

So please do not feel guilty at all. Perhaps you have no idea what's love and His compassion. Above all, He is the ocean of forgiveness. Believe Me. His forgiveness is so great that we cannot commit any such mistake that He cannot forgive us. We have to just forgive ourselves. We should not judge ourselves also.

By condemning ourselves, we are not going to help ourselves at all. On the contrary, just see for yourself that if He is really compassion, the source of all the compassion, the ocean of joy and love, how can we have a little thing like guilt... because that will prevent your ascent. Because in the West, it's a fashion to be guilty. The language itself goes on, “I'm sorry; I'm afraid." It starts like that.

So the whole language itself is that... the whole mentality was that you should take all the blame yourself. All this blame is mine. It's mine.

So please... this is one thing that one should not feel guilty. No one should think that you've done this mistake and that mistake. That is one thing to begin with... and it's only about ten minutes [UNCLEAR] and you will get your ascent. And then you will do the same whatever I'm doing here.

Now, first of all for this experience, we have to understand that all these centers are constructed on a physical level. By the five elements... and the most important is the Mother element... is Mother Earth.

So to take help from our Mother Earth, we have to take off our shoes and put our feet on the Mother Earth.

She's the most helpful thing and this triangular bone is constructed by her special attention.

So just put both your feet on the ground at parallel level. Now you have to sit comfortably... not uncomfortably...

but not with a lazy attitude... alert attitude; straight; not pushing back your head too much or downward, but in a straight manner. Now with both your feet like this and you can even take off your glasses because you have to keep your eyes shut all the time [UNCLEAR]... and it helps your eyesight as well. Now, both of these hands... the left represents the power of desire and right represents the power of action...

So you place it comfortably on your lap or any way towards Myself that you feel comfortable. If you think you can keep it on top of the arms of your chair, whichever way you like and the other right hand is to be used for helping your centers. I will tell you how to raise your own Kuṇḍalinī so you can do it at home also... and to raise it properly is pretty easy. And just now, you can raise it yourself. First of all, I will ask you to put your hand on your heart. Do not close your eyes just now. I will show you the centers and you can just place it... on the heart first and in the upper part of your stomach, the abdomen... then another one is on the lower part of your abdomen... on the left hand side. All of the movements are going to be on the left hand side. Then we go back on the upper part of the stomach. Then we go back on the heart again. Then we go back on this center, which I was telling you, between the corner... on the corner...

between the shoulder and the neck. Place your hand like this... and turn your head to your right so the hand goes back... quite back towards the spinal cord. Then you raise this hand in such a manner that you place the forehead from both the sides... place your hand on the forehead, across. And, from both the sides of the hand you press it hard like that. You may bend you head, if you like. Then you can put this right hand on the back of you head... not on the neck... but the head... where the optic lobe is and then press your head backwards, like this... push it upwards. Then the last is that you have to set your hand... at the center of your palm... exactly the center of your palm... has to go on the fontanelle bone area... which was the soft bone in your childhood. Then you have to press it hard... stretching your fingers and press it hard... seven times... move it slowly, yourself. That's all you have to do. That's all.

So simple as that.

Alright... for one thing... please don't open your eyes because attention is to be drawn inside and if the eyes are opened, the attention goes out, you know that very well.

So just like this [UNCLEAR] of Mine... see, the Kuṇḍalinī is coming up so it pulls out the attention inside with the movement of the Kuṇḍalinī. Everyone should try this. It's very simple... will help you immensely and then tomorrow, for the workshop, if you come, then we'll establish well and we'll let you know what's to be done about it.

So now we place the left hand towards Myself and the right hand on the heart and close our eyes.

Just close our eyes. Now, the left hand should be comfortably placed. There should be no discomfort anywhere, I mean, if you discomfort anywhere, or it's tight anywhere, you can release it so that you are comfortable. That's very important because discomfort can take away your attention [UNCLEAR].

So better be comfortable, relaxed and sit in a straight manner. Now please put your right hand on your heart.

Now here resides the reflection of God Almighty that is the Spirit in the heart. In human beings it resides in heart, though the seat of God Almighty is on top of your head over the fontanelle bone area. But the reflection is in the heart. That's why heart is so important. Here you have to say or you have to ask a very fundamental question to Me. You can call Me Shri Mataji... if it is easier, you can call Me Mother.

`Mother, am I the Spirit?' Please ask this fundamental question in your heart three times. `Mother, am I the Spirit?'... which is the truth, but you ask Me the question please.

Don't feel guilty. I can feel still there's a lot of guilt going on, so that we think, `How can we be Spirit?' All of you are the Spirit. You don't know your greatness. You don't know your glory. Just say, `Mother, am I the Spirit?' Put the left hand towards Me and right hand on the heart... only one hand on the heart... one hand towards Me. Now take down the right hand on the left hand side in the upper part of your abdomen and press it with your fingers. Now this is the center of your Masters. If you are the Spirit, you are your master and you are your guide, as I told you.

Now here press it hard and ask the question three times again, `Mother, am I my own master?' `Am I my own guide?' `Am I my own Guru?' We are not going against all the great masters who are real masters, sat purshas [UNCLEAR] satGurus; like the great incarnations; like the great prophets. All those great Divine people can make us our own guide. Three times please.

Now you have to take down your hand in the lower portion of your abdomen on the left hand side.

Now, this is a very, very important center... that this center is the center which works out all the Divine techniques and Divine laws of which we are not aware so far. We do not know when the disciples of Christ got their realisation through the Holy Ghost. They got... they felt the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost and they started talking in a different language. They didn't speak in some language like Latin or Greek or anything. They spoke the language of the Chakras and they started moving their hands so people thought they were mad. But you will see now that all the Divine laws can be managed through your fingers if you get your realisation... because your fingers become active and emit cool vibrations or Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost...

So there is nothing wrong in that. But those who were not realised people cannot understand that and that's why they called them mad.

That's not the situation today. Now, please put your hand there on that center which is called Swādhiṣhṭhāna and here you have to say... I mean you have to ask, `Do you want to have the True Knowledge of this technique?' I cannot force on you anything because your freedom is to be respected.

If you have to get the complete freedom, it should be done on your own choice and your own freedom.

So here you have to just say, `Mother, may I please have the Divine, Pure Knowledge?' Please ask six times because this center you will know later has got six petals. Please ask, `Mother, can I have the Pure Knowledge of the Divine?' `Mother, may I have the True Knowledge of the Divine?' Six times. Now six times you have to ask this. [Long pause.] As a result, Kuṇḍalinī has started moving.

So now, to enlarge the higher centers and to give full confidence to the Kuṇḍalinī, we have to put our right hand in the upper part of the abdomen on the left hand side and press it hard and say there will full confidence in yourself, `Mother, I am my own Master.

Mother, I am my own guide.' Please say it with full confidence. There's no ego about it. With full confidence you must say, so the center of your mastery will open out and the Kuṇḍalinī can pass through well. It's effortless. Only thing we are helping the Kuṇḍalinī to have Her own way upward. This you have to say ten times because there are ten petals to this. This is actually the ten commandments which represent these ten petals and there were ten sat Gurus in the past who came again and again on this earth... like prophets... like Moses... like Abraham... like Lao Tze... like Socrates. [Pause.] Please say this ten times.

Now please raise your right hand to your heart again and press it hard. Here is your Spirit. Again, with full confidence, you have to see the greatest truth. `Mother, I am the Spirit.' Please say ten times, `Mother, I am the Spirit.' [Long pause.] This you have to say twelve times, with full confidence. Twelve times, `Mother, I am the Spirit.' Now please raise your right hand and put it on your shoulder, in the corner between the shoulder and your neck, on the left hand side and press it hard. Turn your head to the right...

So you can push back your hand. Take it from the front side... don't take it from the back... but just from the front side across...

you can do it. Here you have to say sixteen times, `Mother, I am not guilty at all,'... turn your head to the right and say it sixteen times and even then, if you want to feel that you are guilty, or if you really believe that you are guilty, I think that you better punish yourself by saying it one hundred and eight times. You should be pleasantly placed towards yourself, as I have been requesting you... to be pleasantly placed towards yourself. Not to condemn yourself all the time... to find fault with yourself and to say that you've done this mistake and that mistake, nothing of the kind.

So just be very pleasant and happy about it and just say that, `Mother, I'm not guilty at all.' Please turn your head to the right. Please. It [UNCLEAR] will help you. Sixteen times. Still terrible. Just go on... say it from the heart. Please say it from the heart. Still catching very much... I don't know what I've said that you feel guilty. If I've said something like that forget about it. Forget about My lectures. It's too much sometimes with the guilt business.

Now, raise your right hand across your forehead. Press it on both the sides. Now here, from your heart, not how many times, from your heart, you have to say, `Mother, I forgive everyone,'... from your heart.

Many of you may think that it's difficult to forgive. But it is myth. Whether you forgive or don't forgive... only thing, when you don't forgive them, then you play into wrong hands.

So please say from your heart, `Mother, I forgive all of them. Everyone of them.' Don't try to remember who to forgive, please.

now I would request you not to be very serious about it because if I say something you shouldn't do it that seriously. It's a very simple method.

So just push back your head and not here... not at all to feel guilty. You have to say once more, for your own satisfaction, that `Oh Divine, if I've done anything wrong, please forgive me.' But don't try to remember anything like that... what wrong you've done... what harm you've done or what harm you done. Nothing of the kind. Just push back your head... one minute.

Now, stretch you hands and put this hand in such a manner that the center of your palm goes on the fontanelle bone area which was a soft bone. Press it hard... stretching your fingers and move it seven times... slowly... slowly... in a clockwise manner. That's all. Press your head. Press your scalp... hard.

[Shri Mataji blows into the microphone.] Please take down your hand... put it on the lap. As the first one... now you can open your eyes...

slowly. Now watch Me without thinking. Just watch Me without thinking. This is the first state... called the Nirvichara Samādhi... where you are without thoughts.

Now put your right hands towards Me... like this. Slowly. Just right hand like this... and with the left hand try to see if you can feel Cool Breeze coming out of your head. It can be quite high up also...

with some people could be higher. Alright, now put it... this one... towards Me... like this... the left one. Now with the right you might try to feel it. You might get some hot... also hot breeze coming out... also because the heat might be coming out also. Doesn't matter.

Now please keep this hand... now here you have to ask for your realisation. I cannot force on you.

So you have to put both hands like, `Mother, please may we have our realisation? May I have my realisation?' Now, push back both the hands like this and ask a question by pushing back your head towards the sky, asking a question, `Mother, is this the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost? Is this the All-pervading Power of God? Is this the Brahma Shakti?' Ask three times any one of these questions. Now please take down your hands. Now see for yourself. Are you feeling anything in the hands or not? The Cool Breeze... are you feeling it? It's all over. Just you can feel it within yourself. You might think it is air conditioning. It has nothing to do because it acts... many first think it is air conditioning. Air conditioning cannot act.

All right? Today is the first day. In one day, how much one can explain? It's a vast ocean of knowledge. I must have given at least two thousand lectures in English language so far. And you can get all these tapes and everything here. They are in video tapes also... about everything. But experience is the most important.

To keep the experience on. It's very relaxing. It's very peaceful. No I would like those who have felt the Cool Breeze from their hands to see what the result is like? Look at that! May God bless you! May God bless Houston! May God bless you! [Applause.] How about you? You got it" Great! Congratulations! Now respect your realisation. You can't argue it because you go beyond thought. I hope you make it convenient to come for the workshop where we'll answer all your questions... we'll look after you...

everyone of you and whatever is possible in these two days, we'll try to work it out for you. May God bless you. Don't feel guilty! Even now I'm catching on that finger, so I would request you... you will catch on this finger if you feel guilty. All of you...

So it might get a little burning here...

So please don't feel guilty. Be very happy and joyous. We must laugh it out. You [UNCLEAR]. Like I went to Rome and the director of the national television was a very interesting man. He said, “First give me realisation and then I'll interview you." I said, “Alright!" He got his realisation and started laughing. He said, “How will I do the program? I feel like laughing all the time." I said, “Better laugh! That's the best way." So now, tomorrow I hope to see you all. Please make it convenient... please. May God bless you.

Thank you very much. I thank you very much.

May God bless you! For example, there are atheists who don't believe in God. Alright. Now when they get realisation they can ask the question, `Is there God?' Tremendous vibrations. To find out relatively, we can say, take three people, one from a Guru who's horrid, one from a lunatic asylum and one who's a realised Soul, according to us. Alright? Now you put them together. You'll find the one who's from the Guru, maybe feeling hot...

very hot... or may not get realisation at all... maybe frozen... anything. The one from lunatic asylum may feel hot... horrible... but he may get well... he may get realisation. And the third person, who is the one who is a realised Soul will get only a Cool Breeze. We have cured many people who are mentally like that... many have been cured... you can cure also.

It is you who become that, is the point. You become that, it's your right. You have been seeking all your lives. Actually, it is impossible to believe that there could be someone who does it just for loves sake. You can't believe it because it's so money oriented, the whole thing is so money oriented... that we can't believe it. Even our parents; we think they love us for money. I mean, it has gone to that limit of absurdity. But God is love and love is there. And in his love everyone should do it. It has to happen.

Any other questions? Question: [A woman asks where the other public meeting will be].

Warren: [he says he'll make an announcement later.]

Shri Mataji: You see, all of us have got it and we'll give all that to you and you'll come along to those lectures and you will help us to bring... you see actually we do not know how to meet the seekers.

That's the main point with us. And we don't need anything else. Like the lady offered, also. We don't need it. We don't need any money. We have everything. We have no problem. And no money... nothing.

We have got places to live in and we have no problem of any kind. What we want... we have also got halls and everything and we don't need anything. But what we want... that we want... seekers to come down and you have to suggest how to get them; that's all.

[Announcements of meetings.] Question: [A lady asks for Mother's comment on somebody but asks Her not to judge.]

Shri Mataji: No, I have to. I'm sorry, I have to. You see, it's very good of you to say that I should not make comment [UNCLEAR]. But I have to. I'm sorry.

Because you see, I can't bear to see the way their Kuṇḍalinī's have gone down. The connection has to be. You see, when Christ was criticising them, they said the same thing to him. “Why should you criticise them? They don't criticise you?" So He said, “The Satanic are not going to speak against the Satanic." That's what it is. You do not know how serious it is. When you will know, you will be amazed. You do not know how serious it is and that's shy you are saying that. Once you find out shy I am saying this.

You see, it is not easy to say anything against these people. It's not easy. Bust none of them... I have said about them... each one of them about l0 years back... openly... about each one of them... who they are. Nobody has even tried to even bring any suit or any law suit against Me. And whatever is wrong, I have to say that. I'm sorry, My child. You see, this is not a thing where you can allow Satanic things to happen. We have to discriminate. You will know yourself. You cannot love a snake like that. You must know a snake is a snake and a human being is a human being. Everybody has his own values. You see, I am not here going to be angry with you for that. But I am angry with them!... with all of them! Definitely. You do not... you just wait and see. You yourself will be so angry. I'll show you. Say, a girl who came from one of them... thugs. She was epileptic. Her daughter was epileptic. Her husband was epileptic. She was a granddaughter of a Duke. She had lost all her money. They had sold their house.

They were on the streets. Absolutely. And she is a seeker! If you are a mother, what would you say to that? You will say they are very nice people? You will go and garland them? Not one, but I'll show you thousands of them. Here we have cases who have come. She is Hesta, sitting here. You just ask her. How much she was harmed! How she was harmed. She would have been dead! Do you think I should say they are nice people? Apart from anything else, they spoil your chances of realisation.

I am not here for votes or anything. Why should I try to please them? I have to tell the truth, if you don't mind. I have to tell.

Question: Oh, then I would just like to ask, what about people that are doing Chakra therapy and they charge very high prices? Maybe they are not high prices and they help people and yet people don't have that kind of money. I would like to ask you, what do you think about people who do Chakra therapy and charge fees?

Shri Mataji: I don't know what sort of a... [UNCLEAR] make believes. How can you have any kind of Chakra therapy without realisation? It's all make believe. You believe all this nonsensical people.

What am I to do now? Why do you believe them? You see Chakra therapy, I mean I don't know... an ordinary Indian can understand. Only a saint can do it. He has to be a saint. How can he charge money? A saint will not take a pie from you. It is a simple thing, try to understand that.

Question: Well, I always thought that, but this is America. Chakra therapy is a new thing, I've heard.

[Laughter.] [The woman keeps telling her story.]

Shri Mataji: I tell you that. What is it. You might get a temporary help. No doubt about it. You can get a temporary help. You see, now you are bringing into controversies so I have to tell you about it.

But you don't mind it. What happens within us, we have some stored energies in the Chakras, alright? And, like acupuncture, is also... is not to be done by someone who is not a realised Soul. Is to be done only by realised Souls. If acupuncture is done by someone who is not a realised Soul... I mean it's against Zen [UNCLEAR]. It's against. You have to be a [UNCLEAR], I mean people don't read about it. A Kusha [UNCLEAR] means a realised Soul. If you are not a realised Soul, you are not supposed to do it.

Now, this one also, Chakra therapy, what you can do is to work on the sympathetic nervous system.

Now the sympathetic nervous system, you can pull out the little energy that you have, but you develop other problems with it. Sahaja Yoga is a thing by which you get open to the All-pervading Power all the time flowing within us. You have to open yourself to that universal being within your heart... which is the spirit. You don't have to sort of lessen energy here and energy there and energy there. You don't have to take that energy out. But the energy from the above comes in. Like grace, it flows. And that's how always such things can lead into terrible problems... mental problems... all kinds of things.

Supposing you try to treat somebody mentally... then you extract the physical energy. Then the person will suffer physically. You see, this stored energy for a particular Chakra, which I will explain to you... everything... all right? And you cannot charge for raising your Kuṇḍalinī because you have your Kuṇḍalinī intact there. You are just there. You have everything. Only thing, by My being here, your Kuṇḍalinī rises by itself.

So you cannot pay. Do you pay the Mother Earth for sprouting a seed? They do help temporarily. They do. For example, somebody gives you a mantra. Alright, take a mantra... I'll tell you... say they say Rāma Sītā. Now, there cannot be only one mantra belonging to any one in any science of mantras. Because you people are so naive... you see... they say “all right, you take the name of Rāma." This cannot be done. Rāma mantra is only on the right Heart Chakra. If you have a problem, has to be given by a realised Soul because it has to be a connected one. It is a science, you know. All of them know what mantra is to be said at what point because they know how to raise the Kuṇḍalinī... they know where it is obstructed and what mantra is to be said and which Deity is to be awakened. Notice the mantra for which particular mantra [UNCLEAR]... they know all that and they know all the methods.

But why they may give you a mantra? Now, you may feel better... really, sometimes you may feel dynamic. You feel, `Oh, I am very activated; maybe I am over active.' And a spirit, if that name may be allowed, may come around... and you may become possessed... and you might become extremely active.

But, then you'll go down. Within five years, there will be a complete decline. You'll be a recluse. You'll be a frightened person. You'll be a coward. You won't be able to even... there are people I've known who can not even face, what do you call that, garlic. Can you imagine... afraid of a vegetable? It's really...

there are people, if you snow then garlic, they are frightened. I mean, are you going to become like that? Is that freedom? Question: [A man had tried raising his Kuṇḍalinī and was asking about seeing something in his head and other places].

Shri Mataji: You see, if you try your own self, you see trying with the Kuṇḍalinī... actually the sympathetic goes into activity. You have no right on the parasympathetic. Parasympathetic is the one which balances and that is the central path of Suṣhumnā through which the Kuṇḍalinī has to rise. But if you try anything, what you do is... always you can use sympathetic. I'll give you an example. Supposing you are running fast. Alright, then you can raise the rate of your heart. But you cannot slow it down.

It slows down by itself. That is parasympathetic activity.

So you just get into sympathetic activity and sympathetic activity, if you over-do it, then all these symptoms happen and it's not healthful. On the contrary, Chakras go into... quite like this is the left and the right sympathetic and these are the centers.

They get pulled down like that and if they are pulled like this, then you are harmed.

So is not an experience of Kuṇḍalinī; is of the sympathetic.

Question:... this wasn't anything I was looking for or asking for, [MISSING] but how come it went down, instead of coming up?

Shri Mataji: No, it doesn't go down. Kuṇḍalinī never goes down. It goes upward... always. The thing that comes down is the grace, you see. The grace comes down, not the Kuṇḍalinī. Kuṇḍalinī always goes upwards. And the grace comes on your sympathetic which cools you down completely. You become absolutely relaxed with the grace. But the Kuṇḍalinī itself always goes up. It never comes down. But, in people, it so happens that Kuṇḍalinī goes through this central path. Now, if it is...

Sort of... very much rugged or if it is extremely smooth due to the mistakes of the seekers, then it falls down. It falls down. It falls down is a different point then going like that. It falls down. Then you have to raise it again and tie it up. Again, raise it and tie it up. In many people, it has to be done but it can work out.

You will get the complete knowledge, don't you worry. Now, he has been in eighteen months, but he is a master of Kuṇḍalinī. He can raise your Kuṇḍalinī and you are just like him. You would become the same. There's no problem at all. It will work out.

Question: How did you get your realisation?

Shri Mataji: I was born like that. I'm like this for ages... ancient. I am a mystery... I should say at the beginning. We should keep it as a mystery. Then you'll discover Me, all right? Let's have it that way. First you discover yourself and then discover Me. Will be better idea, isn't it? Because I don't want to say something which will unnecessarily make some people upset. Best is... you become something.

Question: Is it true a realised Guru has cool air; not hot?

Shri Mataji: No, hot is very dangerous.

Interruption:... but a cool one, is also dangerous?

Shri Mataji:... but you don't get air. You might feel extremely cool if you are a low blood pressure patient. If you are a left-sided persons... if you are possessed, you feel absolutely cool, very cool. That's not good. Feeling cool is different from a Cool Breeze; like you feel a breeze coming. But should not be hot in any case. Hot is a very dangerous thing. If it is too hot, that heat, it's not good.

Question: Why do you get a blow of hot air?

Shri Mataji: It's a friction. It's a friction of the Divine. You see, when the Kuṇḍalinī's rising, She should normally give you Cool Breeze... Cool Breeze in the hands... then She does. But if there's a friction... always friction makes it hot. But it cools down. There's no problem. In the beginning, most of you will get hot, little bit. Because, after all, you see you know... you are all very complicated people.

Our brains especially are modern brains, you see.

So we have been thinking, thinking, thinking. Just, we cannot stop our thinking for a minute even. But the first thing that will happen is that you enter into thoughtless awareness. That's called as Nirvichara Samādhi, in Sanskrit. Means you become... you are aware, absolutely aware. There are no thoughts. The thoughts [UNCLEAR]... that the awakening of Christ, that's the thing that should happen to you. Once that happens, then it passes through here and you can feel the Cool Breeze.

Many people who smoke cannot feel breeze in the hand at the beginning because of this Chakra being a little bit in trouble. But, then you start feeling. Marsha [UNCLEAR], you feel quite all right in the hands? She used to smoke. She is a great seeker, I must say.

All right, should we have it now? Question: If we're going to receive the Kuṇḍalinī awakening, is it a process over several days?

Shri Mataji: No, it is a split of a second actually; it is a split of a second. But it takes time in some people, as I said, because if there are obstructions... you see. Now if you have a beautiful runway and a beautiful aircraft, then the landing and take off are very smooth. But sometimes it is a second-hand stop.

Interruption: Then, you mean it may come tomorrow? Warren: No, it's highly likely you'll get it tonight.

Shri Mataji: Yes, of course, just now. Just now. But you have to learn how to maintain it, is the point. Just now, you are going to have it. It's spontaneous. It is just now. But only one thing is that you should know how to maintain it. Now supposing you get it and then outside you start thinking about it. Then it goes down. The vibrations will be lost. You have to be careful. It's like a seed sprouting, you know... a seed sprouting. It's a seedling in the beginning.

So you have to be careful for about seven days.

If you are careful, it is settled down in about seven days. You have to be careful. We will tell you about it.

Interruption: The reason I'm asking is because we'll become messengers...

Shri Mataji: Yes, of course, of course. Next time I'm not going to import people from Australia and from England. You have got to have the Americans here to do this job. We are not going to import them from all over the place. Two are coming from Switzerland.

So that's not a very good sign. I think, actually, Americans should go abroad and do it. They'll go to India and to Indian villages... and they'll do it in the Indian villages. Very simple, alright? Question: [something about a headache].

Shri Mataji: I tell you what's the problem with you. You have a liver problem. You have a liver problem and that is showing. You see this is the beauty of Sahaja Yoga. Once you get realisation, you start seeing your body; feeling it. Whatever your problem, you know. You have You have a liver problem and it has to be corrected. Now, I know you have a liver problem sitting down here. And it's very simple.

Now in Sahaja Yoga, you can correct your liver in no time. Once you correct your liver, you'll have never a headache. But, it suggests that you have that and you'd better get rid of it. You see it's good you have a headache, now you'll get after your liver. Otherwise, it becomes horribly bad, if you continue. I mean, a person becomes mad and still he doesn't know that he's gone mad. It's like that. The disease crawls into you. But in Sahaja Yoga, immediately you know. And you are a liver patient, you know that. It has to be corrected and it's not difficult. Most of the diseases can be cured, except for a few like I should say, cataracts or something like that where something is dead or maybe where they put an artificial limb and all that. We can't work out all of these things. But most of the things get cured, automatically. I mean, here they say if you cure someone, you'll get put in the prison. I mean, I don't cure. You just get cured, you see.

So I hope legally I'm all right. Christ would have been in jail here. I don't know about the laws.

But this time, I'm sure they cannot crucify Me. It's alright. Let's work it out.

Contents: 1986-07-05 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Morning the day before Guru Pūjā, Gmunden, Austria

[Sahaja Yogis sing.] Beautiful! Now, we should have one joyous song also, after the victory of Christ.

[Sahaja Yogis sing.] May God bless you! I find it difficult to express My joy and gratitude for all of you to come down here specially to express the thankfulness towards Austrians, who have arranged this beautiful spot for all of you to come for this Pūjā.

One thing is that Austria has never given Me any problem. Like in the center, always standing in the right path, taking to wisdom, helping every way possible to solve the problems of other nations.

As I said that it is standing between the two extremes in geography, in the same way, it is very much so, as if it was fed up with the aggressiveness on one side and the depressiveness on the other side. [Laughs.] It has never caused any problem of, any one of them going to the right or to the left too much. No member has done that, it's remarkable, so give them a hand. [Applause.] Now, the word Austria, I don't know from where it comes, but Astra in the Sanskrit language means the weapon. And if the weapon has to give you problem, then how are you going to fight? How are you going to use? It has to keep its balance and its blade clear.

Every other country and the members of those countries must try to understand how Austrians have been so sensible, so wise and not deviating, not causing problems. I can ascribe it to only one thing, that is, they have learned their lessons.

They know what it is to go to the right or to the left and that they're extremely sincere about keeping themselves on the right path.

Actually we have very great Sahaja Yogis in every country, no doubt, individually, but collectively what we find that in every country there are problems with individuals and suddenly they come up with problems and they have no shame about it.

Suddenly they express themselves as a problem as if it has some sort of a significance. In their own understanding of Sahaja Yoga they must realise that you are chosen for a Divine work which in the history was never performed before. And a mediocre personality or the one which suddenly changes from one to another suddenly shows up, some sort of a funny behaviour, it's not meant for Sahaja Yoga.

The learning of the lesson should be that we are not obliging Sahaja Yoga; it is the Sahaja Yoga that has obliged us.

Without even thinking about the consequences, some individuals behave in such a manner that it is atrocious and against God. Those who still are carrying on and are living with all kinds of catches and problems should really leave Sahaja Yoga. That's what we had told you before. It's better to have few wonderful people than to have so many who are about to rot. And that is why the sincerity of purpose has to be there.

Sahaja Yoga is much greater than your life, than the lives that you have lived, than all the lives of this world put together. We have to understand what a great thing it is to be a Sahaja Yogi.

In any office if you go and if you become the head of that office, you become even more responsible for committing any mistakes and everybody watches you. Today you are the leaders of the whole world in spirituality, all of you, each one of you, but if you do not keep to a standard, to a proper understanding of Sahaja Yoga which I would say, if you are not a Sahaja Yogi, still has problems, better give up.

So even now I see some, very few though, people with problems.

And when I see Austria without any problems, I think we'll have to have one jail also in Austria [laughing] for all those who are not all right, to go down there and get some training.

I would say we should try to see why it has developed so fast in Austria without causing any problems whatsoever.

Is it that every person who comes to Sahaja Yoga in Austria is something very wonderful, or is it basically he is a very sincere man or a woman, or is it that the people who allow them to stay in Sahaja Yoga are themselves, are positive and only take people who are top-class? Whatever may be the reason, the result is so good that this weapon of Sahaja Yoga gives you confidence and joy. Like a mother who has children and she sees one child absolutely dependable, responsible, she can rely on them, on that person or that child, or that son or that daughter. There's a inner feeling of tremendous relief and confidence.

So I want to thank Austria for giving Me that confidence.

I wish all of you from all the countries will do the same, not to trouble your leaders but try to improve yourself in such a manner that there are no problems of any kind.

The problem that comes in the West is of a varied nature, no doubt, but because West is ego-oriented, our attention always is outside. Apart from that we catch wrong things, we also see wrong things in others and nothing in ourselves.

If you start seeing what is wrong in us, specially as related to your own country, what are the bad things you have imbibed from your own country, what are the bad things that are being accepted in your country which are very dangerous and detrimental, even destructive, that has trickled down into your own personality. If we all see that point very clearly within ourselves, try to note it down and watch yourself, where is it lurking, I think you'll do the greatest service to your own country. Because whatever goes out of you goes out of that country.

It's like the salt. If you have the salt taken out of any food, you don't feel any salt in it. In the same way when all these things are sucked out of your personality, your country will be helped the most of all, that you had such great people in your own country.

I had to come to Salzburg, they said what is Salzburg is a mountain of salt and who was that? Mozart.

I had to come there because of Mozart. One man, one man like him has made such a tremendous difference to this country. See what he writes, how beautifully he feels; as if he's died with Christ to see what Christ must have faced. Why did Christ have to die? Why He should be crucified? Because He had to see the death. Himself, what is death? Because he's eternal. What an idea.

So if one man can do so much with so many people who are realised Souls, how much we can do for our country?

And once we realise our importance, we can see that our life can light the beacon of tomorrow's great world.

But this light can be hampered by people who do not realise that they have to give light to others.

They have to realise that they have to give light to others, that they have to be like themselves.

Because of this basic problem of extraversion and aggressiveness one has to be very, very careful that by becoming a nuisance we're trying to aggress God and Divine.

If you are caught up better keep out of Sahaja Yoga, voluntarily and say, “I'm caught up, I have no business to be in the temple." Instead of that, as the aggressive nature is, we start blaming others. That we may feel happy because our ego is satisfied with that, but it cannot bring us joy.

Only our sincerity can give us joy. First of all, we have to be sincere to ourselves; we are here to improve ourselves, to enter into the Kingdom of God. Then we have to be extremely careful that we keep ourselves clean and give no problems of a very gross level, of a very cheap level which I do not know how to stoop down.

So the members of Sahaja Yoga have to be not only saying that they're Sahaja Yogis, they have to be Nirmal, following the religion of purity.

We believe in purity, we have to be pure and we are pure. This is what is to be seen.

The another thing which very much surprised Me how symbolically, it's so suggestive, the word `Gmunden' itself is so suggestive. In the Sanskrit language kamandal means a water carrier for a saint. A saint carries the water in a kamandal and kamandal is made out of a white gourd or you call it a pumpkin, a white one, we get in India. And cut it in such a shape that even the handle is attached to the whole thing like that and the handle is there, beautifully shaped.

When this dries out, this fruit dries out, then it becomes like a boat and is surprisingly is not spoilt by water.

So the saints in those days were not well-off like you people are, used to live in the jungles and forests and they had to use something to carry water.

So they would make water carrier out of that.

I feel the shape of this beautiful lake also is something like kamandal and the whole thing is an expression that a water container which is a kamandal made for saints, great Sādhus and Gurus, we're here, to cleanse ourselves with the water of this kamandal. It's very, very symbolic, the kamandal is the symbol of the Void.

As so many things today are suggesting and showing that you have come to the right place to achieve something very great.

So I'm just trying to prepare you for tomorrow's Pūjā, that to accept your personality as it is and to live with it is wrong. You have to aspire and achieve a personality which is that of a Guru and tomorrow I'm going to tell you what is that.

I just wanted you to prepare yourself for that. We have come here to enjoy each other's company, everybody's love, attention and the knowledge. The vibrations are very good. It's a very peaceful, silent place.

And I'm sure all this will be a beautiful nourishing factor for the establishment of that personality which is the flower of spiritual life.

We have to prepare ourselves for that. We need not be depressed or to be aggressive, in the center to see and witness ourselves and in others their greatness. And when you see others then you feel the greatness, the joy, the peace, the happiness, their contributions, their gestures, their sweetness, their smiles and in yourself you have to see your thorns, where they're pricking you.

So I hope tomorrow morning before going into Pūjā all of you will go into meditation and come with that silent mind where I hope, your Mother is not like a machine, of course, but My love will act and you'll be in a mind, state of mind which will receive and fill in the kamandalu, the kamandal, with that love and carry the water for the whole world.

It's so nice to see so many of you here but a mother always has a little fear behind her mind. I hope there are not some people hiding behind the curtain in the garb of Sahaja Yogis and are going to bite sometime or are going to take away some good souls.

So be careful, be watchful. Could be the jackals may be in your own mind, could be outside. We have to be careful. A day should come when nothing should disturb us, nothing should spoil us. I'm sure it will happen; all of us would be in that state, enjoying the complete bliss and emitting total joy, Nīrānand.

May God bless you! So to celebrate this Guru Pūjā I must tell you a story. I wanted to give to every country some sort of a present and I went for shopping, you know, was a busy housewife. I was tired, absolutely walking and walking and walking; couldn't get anything sensible, came back home, very tired and then at the door somebody rang the bell.

And a little boy, not very small, I think, about twenty-two years of age, maybe, appeared on the doorstep and said he has got some paintings to sell. I said, “Really? Let's have a look." And I got beautiful paintings. [Laughter.] I said, “Why did I go all the way, walking all the way and feeling so tired?" [Laughs.] But immediately after seeing the paintings all My fatigue disappeared, so beautiful.

So I think the Divine is helping Me to communicate, to talk to you in the way I want to, by doing these little, little things so important and so beautifully.

So we have to distribute these presents today, that's how we're going to be, start our Guru Pūjā in a joyous manner.

May God bless you! So, keep it. Now, one by one.

So, I'll call the name of the country, every country and one by one try to come, the leaders have to come. This one is for Rome.

[Sahaja Yogis sing.]... who has seen the Sahaja Yogis dancing and singing the praise has seen Me in the villages of India.

It is very clearly described in that. You can have a look at it how they saw the real picture of truth.

And the second one, we'll read it out to you about the great poet in India, called Rabindranath Tagore, what he saw at Ganapatipule. Where you might see the word called Bharat. Bharat is the real word of India. India was given the name to us by Alexander [the Great], but actually the real name of India is Bharat. Because there was a great king called Bharat. From there this word comes, Bharat. All right.

So first they will read out the part which is about the vision he saw. Which is so clear-cut. Those who have been to India have been dancing on the streets of India in villages, Indian villages. We remember exactly what it is how he saw you right there.

Sahaja Yogi: So this is an excerpt from a book by C.S. Lewis, called `The Great Divorce'.

Shri Mataji: C.S. Lewis from, Lewis means he is a welsh by birth, welsh people have something to do with Maharashtra, I must say, because they called Bombay as Mumbai, still. They don't call it Bombay.

And that means they must have been going to India much before the English reached there.

Sahaja Yogi: The reason why I asked: if there was another river was this: all down one long aisle of the forest the under-sights of the leafy branches have begun to tremble with dancing light.

Shri Mataji: Slowly. Slowly, because they don't understand English.

So, do it slowly and deliberately.

First of all, again.

Slowly, Warren, now it's too speedy. [Laughter.] Very speedy. Speed should be less, I asked you because your speed is normally very low. I think, why not ask James. James, you come along. Let's have James.

He's still not there.

All right. Start it.

Now he's there. Come along. Warren is in a big speed today, I don't know why. What are you up to? [Laughs.] You see, because they don't understand English, you see.

So I also require little pauses.

I think it should be raised a little more to the mouthpiece. Meant for you, not for Warren. [Laughter and applause.] Again.

Sahaja Yogi: Forgive me, I'll start again.

Shri Mataji: It's good now. [Reading of poem.] Bring it down that height. All right.

This is about Ganapatipule, just see, how it is described. Both the poets are no more now.

Sahaja Yogi: From Gītanjali by Rabindranath Tagore: “On the shores of Bharat where men of all races have come together. Awake, my mind..."

Shri Mataji: So, just to begin with the whole thing as I said in the morning that Austria never gave Me any problems. We have to admit beyond doubt that in Sahaja Yoga Australia is the most progressive country. [Applause.] Credit must go to Doctor Warren, who has started Sahaja Yoga there and to James, who is carrying on the work of Sahaja Yoga in the absence of Warren. It's something great. [Gregoire translates.] And a full progress can be seen as far as the schooling is concerned in that great country of Śhrī Gaṇeśha. Where school has to be established first, because it's a Gaṇeśha's country, but the way they have got beautiful remarks from the government saying that whatever they proclaimed, whatever they preach, they practice. It's such a big thing to say.

And beautiful reports they have got. And I hope that all the schools that you are going to start should be on the same pattern, same sincerity.

And for Europe we have to give full credit to Gregoire. [Applause.] Sending him to Me we must give all the credit to Rajesh Shah. [Applause.] He is also doing with his friend [UNCLEAR Jahlal] tremendous work in India to establish a very good school.

And for England we have to give full credit to Gavin Brown who has really, despite all kinds of problems, has stood up strong and fought all the negativity in that country. [Applause.] And for America we have to give full credit to Christine, who, though being a lady, has done such well. Slowly and steadily she has established Sahaja Yoga in America. And also in Canada, in a way.

[Applause.] We have to think of many people like them and those who have been very helpful to Me, from the very beginning, like Mister [UNCLEAR Modi] in Bombay [Mumbai]. [Applause.] And Rustom in Riyadh. [Applause.] Now, UK we have a joint leadership and we have really a very, very strong leader there, is Doctor David, who is doing tremendous work and he is helping Gavin in a very big way. [Applause.] In Switzerland we had Arneau, who has. [Applause.] And in Spain we have Patrick now, who is doing very well and he's brought these French round very well, I must say. [Applause.] But wisest of all is Guido from Italy. [Applause.] Who has come from Spain? So, please convey also to Spanish people that we have thought of our leader there, Jose. He is another very wise man.

This Austria is doing so well under the, I should say now, joint leadership of these two great people, who have organized all this and we really must admire the way everything is moving so smoothly, thanks to them. [Applause.] And Richard and Pat from Holland and Belgium.

And the most difficult one, Germany, by Hugo. [Applause.] The most formidable was started by Djamel and carried on by [UNCLEAR Al Jahal] in Algeria.

So one more, one more, but otherwise, there's Sierra Leone is another very great surprise to Me, beautiful surprise came from Sierra Leone, by Peter and Christine, both of them are here, very sweet lady and they have been able to manage it so well in that farfetched country. [Applause.] And the most fantastic is from Nepal, Herbert and Lisa. [Applause.] South, in the, we can say, East and West we have two sides of America. And in Canada also we have two persons on two sides. And one is [UNCLEAR Laury], another is Steve in Canada and we have Dave on the west coast of America.

We have to think of all of them, because they are really the Ādi Gurus for you. [Applause.] Steve in Boston.

Adventurous were Peter and Rosalyn [UNCLEAR], who went to Hong Kong to establish Sahaja Yoga there. [Applause.] We have not been to Scandinavian countries and to Greece. And we have to somehow or another start going towards Greece as well as the Scandinavian countries, if possible. But that's rather a difficult case, let's see what happens. [Laughs.] So, if we have to think from countries point of view we have had really such great leaders to help, to guide, to nourish the Sahaja Yogis.

And I'm really thankful to them all for keeping their balance and attending to Sahaja Yoga work without asking for a single pai from Me.

And we have to know that we are not going to start priesthood in Sahaja Yoga, at any cost.

The work has to be done absolutely freely. Free, I mean, free and freely.

Otherwise we'll end up like another Christianity or something nonsensical like that.

So now, after all this you heard the description of yours that was found in some visions of these great poets. I would request you all to find out in your own languages, in your own countries there must be poets who must have described at length about Sahaja Yoga. Try to find out and we have to compile more and more of literature that announces the coming of Sahaja Yoga.

Also those who are making any poems or anything should be sent to your leaders first and then the leaders must sort it out and send it to Me. That is a much better idea, because sometimes, you see, people write all kinds of trash, nonsense, this that, they will send to Nirmalā Yog[a]. It's not proper. You must send it to the leader. Let the leader see. The leader can appoint two, three people who understand poetry, music and should scan it properly, establish it properly and then we should put it. Because we have to show that we are quite expert in everything.

Nothing should be done haphazard, but we have to be really methodical.

We have to be very organized and in a way very understandable for others. That's how people will be convinced that we are following Vishwa Nirmalā Dharma.

All right. Thank you very much! [Applause.] [Music.]

Shri Mataji: Beautiful. That's a folk, innocent dance, the folk people so innocent. They dance so innocently expressing their joy for gratitude. Beautiful! Thank you very much! [Applause.]

Contents: 1986-07-06 Guru Pūjā, Cosmic Consciousness, Gmunden, Austria

Please be seated.

I'm spell-bound to see all this beautiful expression of your love. Such attention and creativity. I must be the luckiest Guru to get the outside nature reproduced here so beautifully. After seeing this, no Guru can escape complete melting of his heart.

Actually, My disciples are very clever people. They can neutralise any Guru.

So that Guru's staff which is used for disciplining the disciple also melts away into a lotus.

Every time it's such a beautiful surprise to see how Sahaja Yogis are getting one with the Divine. The expression of their joy, the conception of the Divine you can see very clearly. This is how I want you all to sit in the Kingdom of God as I am sitting today.

We have to realise that we are now the part and parcel of that cosmic consciousness itself, the Brahma.

The One that creates, which coordinates, which plans into all the details and the One that loves through its creation, through its expression is that cosmic consciousness.

We are not only in it, but we can handle it. We can regulate it, we can use it, we can work it out.

This is the state when we are in we are the Guru. Guru means a thing which is higher than the gravity of the earth, or stronger than the gravity of the earth. What is the gravity of the earth? Superficially when we see that we understand it as a thing that acts on our body to keep us on the ground. Also there is a load of a big atmosphere on our head, of many elephants standing on our head. Plus the Mother Earth has the gravity to pull us towards herself.

That's on the gross level we understand the gravity and on the gross level also we sometimes understand the Guru Principle.

On the gross level we think a good Guru is that person who just attracts you towards himself, body attraction, or may be other attractions which are gross. And that's why people always go to the Gurus who are false, who are superficial. But the one who is above the gravity of the Mother Earth, the gross, the subtle, the subtle, subtler and the subtlest, beyond all these attractions, that is the one, is the Guru.

So in the very gross way we see that normally people are attracted towards other through the body element, the gravity acting through the body.

A Guru who looks like a cinema actor is very much appreciated. They cannot see the totality of beauty, but just one aspect.

The earlier Gurus, who came as false Gurus used to paint their faces even, in India.

Or they would go to special decorators, who would make their hair look like Shañkara's jatas and eyes were painted with big black coal up to this. And the whole body was covered with a funny type of a powder.

Or they would wear a kashaya, a cloth that was given a colour of saffron without using the saffron. In two rupees you can get that. And people would be attracted towards such a person. They would carry an elephant, to sit on an elephant, even to add to the propensity of the superficial gravity and walk on the streets. And people would bow to them and give them whatever they wanted.

This cannot elevate anyone. Any body attraction can enslave you, cannot give you freedom. It will give you habits for your body enslavements and also it will enslave you to your Guru if he knows how to keep attractive in various ways.

The whole understanding of the cosmic consciousness can be put in one little sentence: that it cannot be attracted by the gravity of any stars, earth, moon or sun.

The other attractions one has from the Mother Earth are all for food, greed, lust, materialism at its worst. It comes from matter.

All that comes from matter, once you start getting used to it you become a slave and not a Guru.

So the first attempt should be for anybody: to be a good Guru is to get over material attraction.

In a subtler way we can see it happens like this: a lady or a gentleman buys an ashram in Sahaja Yoga.

And a Sahaja Yogi start living in that ashram. The owner of that house starts worrying about the house and all material things in that house rather than the emancipation of the disciples or the Sahaja Yogis who are there.

The whole attention is towards the material upkeep of the house and not towards the emancipation of the Sahaja Yogis who are supposed to rise into the cosmic consciousness.

And such a person, if he starts believing that he is the Guru or in any way even a Sahaja Yogi, he is sadly mistaken.

Where is your attention is the point. If you are the Guru, where is your attention? If your attention is on the correction and the nourishment of yourself and of others then you are first of all the Sahaja Yogi.

And once you rise above the gravitational force of materialism, then you could be called as the Guru.

Anything that is living has a capacity to rise against the gravity, up to a point, that is limited. Like we have seen the trees, they come out of the Mother Earth and grow upward, up to a limited space.

Every tree, every type of tree has its own limitations. Cedar will be cedar and rose will be a rose. Is all controlled by the gravitational force. But there is one thing which rises against the gravitational force which has no limits and that is your Kuṇḍalinī.

It cannot be controlled by the gravitational force unless and until you want it to be controlled. Nothing can control it but you and your Self can control it.

So, as soon as you become in charge of your Kuṇḍalinī, you have crossed one step forward that you have overcome the force that is the gravitational force.

Then the cycle of all the five elements is bound together. All the five elements have to go in a cycle in such a way that nothing is wasted, nothing is spoiled, everything is organized. But this cycle is broken only by the awakening of the Kuṇḍalinī. Because you enter into the highest of highest, which is the cosmic consciousness, which you know how to regulate yourself.

That cosmic consciousness is the Param Tattwa, is the principle of all the principles, controls all the principles.

So it controls also the principles of all these five elements. It controls the Mana Shakti. It controls the evolution and gives you the power to evolve others.

So, this great Brahma Shakti is at your lotus feet.

Perhaps Sahaja Yogis do not realise what they have achieved. The only difference between a Ādi Guru and a Guru, SatGuru I would say, is this that the Ādi Guru knows that He is the controlling power. He knows He is with absolute oneness with the Brahma Tattwa, with the cosmic. The authority with which He talks, the complete confidence with which He says things. There's no doubt in His mind. In anyone of His teachings He'll say, “I verily say to you that confidence that I am with the Brahma Tattwa, that I am the Brahma and that I am controlling all that Tattwa” makes Him a prophet.

Because whatever He says, prophesizes, is the truth. Whatever He says about the past is the truth.

And He knows that; He has no doubts.

The authority with which Moses talked, authority with which Socrates talked, authority with which Lao Tze talked, all these great Ādi Gurus, from Ādi Nath to Sāi Nāth, they didn't say, `If you do this way will be good, or that way would be good.' No, “This is what it is, you better do it!" This is what it is.

But in modern times those Gurus may not work out. That's why a Mother had to come. First to give you realisation.

Because these Gurus did not realise another point: that their disciples not understand them at all.

Whatever they are doing, they are doing out of awe. But awe doesn't have understanding in it. Or even the earlier ones may have had, the generation that came afterwards did not have.

So they turned the Gurus into a faficade and the whole building they owned as their own. Creating all kinds of problems, killing the universality and the collectivity because Brahma Tattwa is the power of the collectivity. Is in everything, in the atom, in the molecule, in the human heart. Everywhere it is reflected, depending on the reflector. And it controls. This understanding they had, but the human understanding perhaps they did not have. That if you today tell them something they might listen to us, but tomorrow they will forget.

So, it was necessary that you all should be given realisation. Otherwise, also without realisation, what's the use? What's the use of talking to people about the colours, those who don't have eyes? So realisation has to be given. But it should not be done with diffidence. When a Guru does not feel vibrations properly, he become diffident about giving realisation. But even when he feels it clearly he will not say things with authority. Authority by any chance does not mean aggressiveness. Authority is because you have it, that's why you express it.

Like this light is now shining on My face. It is shining; it's not aggressive. Because that's the quality it has got, that it has to shine, so it is shining.

In the same way a Guru shines before the disciples. It's very easy to understand this word shine. When you have something dirty, it doesn't shine. Even the gold which is always shining, is not tarnishable, if you put it under the mud it won't shine.

So you have to wash it, clean it and rub it nicely so that it shines.

But in Guru Tattwa it is from the basics you have to start. Before the gold came into its own state of gold it was mixed with so many other things.

So it had to be heated up, melted away, sieved out and so many processes it had to go through to become gold.

So, when you become Sahaja Yogis, you have become gold.

Now, the second job is to keep this gold shining. And third would be to get a part in the crown of your Mother, so that you can never be tarnished.

Into these three stages one has to come. First of all to judge yourself to be a Guru you have to have a gravity of your own, which is not bound by the gravity of the Mother Earth. That's the minimum of minimum.

Which does not mean you wear outside the kashaya, the dress that suggests that you are a Sannyāsī.

But from inside you should be a Sannyāsī. Now a Sannyāsī who is inside a Sannyāsī will have a big bank balance, maybe, but will know nothing about it. Will be very indifferent and any day willing to part with it.

A Sannyāsī has to be a person above lust. Should not know what is a lust is, what is this attraction of lust is. That through his Kuṇḍalinī and Mūlādhāra he can achieve it. Because now you have a capacity to rise above the gravity.

You have got that power now to rise about this lust business where your attention gets absolutely ruined.

But in Sahaja Yoga we have everything.

Like on Indian streets you'll find the most modern car, a Rolls-Royce, Mercedes as well as you can find a bullock cart and also lots of cows and buffalos, everything there. In the same way, I think, in Sahaja Yoga we have all kinds.

We have some people who are very great and try to achieve a state of untarnishability, put their attention to it, work it out. But we also have people who are absolutely useless things, just hanging onto Sahaja Yoga to use Sahaja Yoga for their own popularity, maybe, for their own gains. I don't know for what.

I have seen people who give lectures in the name of Sahaja Yoga and are badly caught up. There is that gravity acting in you, remember that. The gravity of the Mother Earth.

Some sort of a gravity which should be located. But some of them are nothing but worms, they cannot go higher. And the outsiders see those worms only and try to say that Sahaja Yoga is no good.

Your Kuṇḍalinī has the power, it has all the powers to make you the highest of highest. An ordinary grass can become a cedar. There's no limits to it. But you must have confidence in yourself and confidence in Sahaja Yoga. If you don't have confidence in yourself or in Sahaja Yoga, nothing can work it out. But the highest of all is the sincerity which nobody can instill in you. There are so many descriptions of a Guru, how a SatGuru should be. Not in the West, I didn't see that, because I think they never believed in Gurus, but they have lots of Gurus, like Pope is another horrible, fake Guru sitting here. Then we have another one, Bishop of Canterbury sitting there.

All of them are false Gurus, know nothing about Kuṇḍalinī, don't know anything Brahma. And they just want to denounce Indian ideas not because they are Indian, but because if Sahaja Yoga is established they will lose all their earnings. From where will they get their money and their crowns? So they want to propound that they are the solution, achieving nothing, spoiling the name of Christ, saying all kinds of things against Him, stupidly, without knowing the Divine.

Then we have many in the Islam, horrible people, just the opposite of Mohammed Sahib, doing all wrong things in the name of Mohammed Sahib. It's something like one can understand that a thief has to become an imposter to behave like a king to show that he is not a thief and to have his thieving done.

This is how they are, all of them. Right from India we have many Brahmins of the same category. This priesthood has to go. Wherever there is a priest, know it's a Mafiā. It's a sophisticated Mafiā.

No Sahaja Yogi Guru is going to take any money, nor anybody is going to bow to them. Nor they are going to take any kind of special attention. In the sense in one place we had a ashram where the Guru and the Guruvi became very important and the Guruvi wanted her tea to be sent on her bed with a proper table and she became a mini-Mātājī, or a greater Mātājī, because I don't demand many things which she demanded. I never demand anything, whatever you do is very great for Me.

And this is how they felt they were great Gurus by asking for this privilege and that privilege. Guru has to suffer the most, that's how he can command. He has to be the example of austerity and of detachment, that's how he is going to get respect. In Sahaja Yoga nobody is going to respect anybody because that Guru has made so much money out of Sahaja Yogis.

But the attention on money itself of Sahaja Yogis itself is suggestive that they are not Sahaja Yogis.

For example, when you wanted to collect money, I mean, I never asked for a house or anything. The idea came from some Sahaja Yogis, there should be a house for Me.

Who can house Me? Just think of it. Is it possible? Is it possible to house Me? Not possible.

So, with the purpose and with My name, we could have something done in the heart of the universe where everybody is sleeping practically. We had to do something dynamic there. And I heard that some stupid people started arguing on that. That's again the sign of not understanding. If Mother has said, “Yes” She would not do it for no reason.

So, the power of understanding only come when we become the power of cosmic consciousness. Because cosmic consciousness understands each and every thing; sitting down here you can understand every thing, you don't have to go there. Everything. And because your Mother is a Mahāmāyā it may not show, but it will expose one day.

So you have to depend on that part of Sahaja Yoga, that it is a Mahāmāyā's job.

So we should not get disturbed or upset, it will show.

So, you are doubly blessed. First of all you got your realisation, which they say is the hardest of hardest thing to get. You have overcome the gravity. And secondly, your Mother is the Mother of all the Ādi Gurus. She's the One who taught all the Ādi Gurus. She created the Ādi Gurus and She'll create out of you the Ādi Gurus.

But the quality has to be of gold. The Guru has to himself accept all the challenges, everything, to go through it. To work it out, to cleanse himself, to see for himself how far he has reached. He has not just to depend on some certificates of you people. It's not artificiality; it is not falsehood, is reality. And when you come to reality you must know that you have to be satisfied about yourself. Then comes the confidence. That's how the authority comes in, that you are sure of yourself that whatever you are doing is the reality. Reality and nothing else.

And this power is within you. The Kuṇḍalinī is within you; She is your own Mother. All your life you have wasted in doing all kinds of things. People have gone into lots of penances doing anti-culture, great jobs of ruining themselves and destroying themselves. What did they gain? Then they started another sort. They are busy now with another trip and they'll be busy tomorrow with another trip. Or whatever they do stupid they do it so seriously.

That's the most surprising thing is. And to all the details, you know? Nothing should be missing. The complete stupidity must be achieved with full sincerity. That surprises Me the most. And then, what confidence! If you ask Me, “Why did you do it?" He said, “What's wrong?" You're amazed. There should be a new word rather than bumptiousness for this kind of thing.

That you cut your nose and when the doctor asks you, “Why did you cut it?" he says, “What's wrong? I've done it well, better than you could do." This is how human nature is, that stupid. But when it comes to reality, how are you? Devastatingly we work out our destruction. Our construction and our ascent, do we do it that assiduously, with that caution, with that care, with that detailed understanding? And the best part of it that when you are doing it you get joyous, immediately rewarded.

For example, doing all this you must have all enjoyed, no doubt. Anything that you do in the name of God is immediately rewarded, the subtlest of subtle in the form of joy. And grossest of grossest in the form of all kinds of things.

So why not do it, something with complete understanding? Meticulously, carefully. Why not? With full attention and concentration. Because the reward is joy.

Ultimately what do we seek is nothing but joy. Rationally we understand, but not from the heart. It doesn't go in the heart easily. Now people are saying, “Mother, open my heart." How am I to open it? Just tell Me. One has to go for an open heart surgery, I think, the way things are. To open your heart the Guru has to be generous. Whatever these other aGurus are doing, just the opposite of that. What have you given? For example, you are having some people with you in your house and you are the Guru. What have you given to them? On material level, let us see. Then on physical level, have you ever massaged their head? I have massaged so many people's head. At least fifty percent of you had that. What physical comfort you have given to that person? If you are the Guru, then what is the emotional confidence you have given to that person? If you are shouting for that person, “Why did you keep it there? Why didn't you keep it here?" Also it is vice-versa among human beings. If you try to be nice to somebody that person becomes ego-oriented. Dangerous stuff, you know. You are nice to somebody, you are kind to that person, you give him some money, or you give him something then they say, “You go, come and see that person” I'm surprised sometimes, how can it be? But it happens. I mean, I have been victim of such a nonsense. The people had to say, “Mother, You have spoiled that person." But I just don't know, how can I spoil? Why it happens? Because human beings have another great quality that they cannot understand that anybody can care for them, because they cannot care for anyone. Anybody cares for them they become egoistical.

I've known about some Indians who went abroad and people thought Indians have come as if Ādi Gurus have come. They can be worse than you people. And are, no doubt. And then you start worshipping them as Indians. And then you understand that this is just a donkey from India you have brought, which is kicking you all the time.

The image of that Indian goodness is not there. Because of this problem the Guru finds it impossible how to deal with the disciples.

But there is a solution: leave it to your Mother and I'll put them right. All such problems you can leave it to Me. When people try to take advantage of you or take to ego, tell them, `Now I'm going to leave it to Mother, I'm not going to look after you any more.' That will settle them right.

They do not know that this cosmic consciousness is also very mischievous. It has lots of mischiefs up its sleeves. And it can work at such mischiefs that people are amazed and aghast.

So, all such problems, if you cannot deal you can leave it to Me. And another one is to their Kuṇḍalinī, to tell them that they are catching on this or catching on that. It's your duty to tell them that `You're catching on your ego. Better be corrected.' Now, all of you can become Gurus.

Every one of you can become Gurus and can develop that great capacity to be one with that cosmic consciousness, completely out of the clutches of the gravity of the earth, materialism. Without achieving that you have no right to tell anybody what is to be done.

First it should be your practice and precept in your own life, in your own example. And then your example is sufficient to convince others.

Today, through this understanding that you have to rise above the gravitational force of materialism which is today's religion everywhere, whatever they may call it. Whether it is communism or capitalism or democracy or demono-cracy. Whether it is Christianity, Hinduism, Islam or any other nonsense, all of that is nothing but materialism in its all absurd forms. Kuṇḍalinī is the only thing that can take you like the stalk of the lotus out of this mud of materialism.

And that is what one has to achieve, specially in the West. It goes in the subtle and subtler and subtlest forms, so be on the lookout and ultimately it expresses itself as ego.

All materialists are egoistical, racist, they are robbers and plunderers. They go to other countries like South Africa and settle down nicely, robbers and plunderers. And extracting the wealth of another.

All this can become very sophisticated and beautified, we have to fight that. But to fight that we have to get out of it completely. Otherwise we cannot fight it when we are in it.

So all of us should try to get out of it fully. It does not mean that you should all take out your clothes and say that “We have given up everything." That's another style it has started now. It means that you respect all that is beautiful, you respect all that is good, but you are not dominated by anything. You are not in the clutches of anything.

If I want I can wear a gold chain, otherwise nothing, doesn't bother, I don't care. That should be the attitude: if I have, or if I have to, I will.

Nothing can dominate Me. Nothing can give Me status. I stand on My own status and on My position and on My authority. Because I'm that pure consciousness. Nothing can spoil Me, nothing can bring Me down, nothing can bow Me. I cannot make anyone dominated by Me either.

This is how we are going to become great Gurus. Imagine, six hundred and twenty people are here and one Guru is sufficient to change the whole world. With six hundred and twenty Gurus, God save the world now.

There's a beautiful saying of Ādi Shañkarāchārya, Tad Nishkala, about Brahma Tattwa. I'm that Brahma. On that. If you have? Let Me see. That's the best way to understand what you are. Just bring it. It's very famous. Have you got it?

Sahaja Yogi: Dakshina Murti?

Shri Mataji: No, not that, another one. Just bring it. Have you got the book? This is the one. This one is the one. We just read it in English language.

When you have got your Nirvāṇa, what happens to you, it says that.

[Guido reads:] Om, I'm neither the mind, Intelligence, ego nor Chitta, Neither the ears nor the tongue, Nor the senses of smell and sight, Neither ether nor air, Nor fire nor water nor earth, I am eternal bliss and awareness.

I am Shiva! I am Shiva! I am neither the Prāṇa, Nor the five vital breaths, Neither the seven elements of the body, Nor its five sheaths, Nor hands, nor feet, nor tongue, Nor other organs of action.

I am eternal bliss and awareness.

I am Shiva! I am Shiva! Neither fear, greed nor delusion, Loathing nor liking have I, Nothing of pride or ego, Of Dharma or liberation, Neither desire of the mind, Nor object for its desiring.

I am eternal bliss and awareness.

I am Shiva! I am Shiva! Nothing of pleasure and pain, Of virtue and vice do I know, or mantra, or sacred place, or Vedas or sacrifice, Neither I am the eater, The food nor the act of eating.

I am eternal bliss and awareness.

I am Shiva! I am Shiva! Death or fear, I have none, Nor any distinction of caste, Neither father nor mother, Nor even a birth have I, Neither friend, nor comrade, Neither disciple, nor Guru.

I am eternal bliss and awareness.

I am Shiva! I am Shiva! I have no form or fancy, The all-pervading I am, Everywhere I exist, And yet I am beyond the senses, Neither salvation I am, Nor anything to be known.

I am eternal bliss and awareness.

I am Shiva! I am Shiva!

Shri Mataji: That's what you are. You are eternal bliss and awareness. The consciousness, the pure consciousness.

I think, this must be, everybody must remember by heart. And must say in all the ashrams. That's a very good way of remembering what you are.

May God bless you! [Sahaja Yogis sing `Sat-chit-ānanda Rupam Shivoham Shivoham'.]

Shri Mataji: Now all the leaders have to come on the stage today to help with the Pūjā.

Yesterday I could not take the name of all the leaders who were very good, who have come very recently and are doing great work like, persons like Xavier I would say, he has been appointed only a few months back in Milano and he is doing such a good work. And there are other people, say in Venice. And also we see that recently some leaders have been appointed in Mulhouse and Montpellier. They are doing very good work, I get very good reports about that place. I'm amazed how the new centers have coming up so well. Even in Australia there are many new centers that have come up which are doing such good work.

In England there are so many new centers that have started and we are doing good work.

Some of the old people are dropping out, but the new people are coming up are very good. We find it all over, all over this kind of thing happening now. A new dynamic leadership is coming from people and I'm amazed how they have joined very recently as leaders of smaller places and are doing so good in every country.

Even to take all the names may not be possible, but I feel that so many of them have been really doing such a good job that only Divine can explain it.

It's the Divine's great blessings that we have got all the right people. Sahaja Yoga is definitely progressing.

It should not progress faster than the Divine wants it to progress and so we should accept that speed.

But still we should try our level best, because it is our job to try and work out as much as possible and as far as we can go.

May God bless you all.

All those who are working in smaller places as leaders, for everyone I get report and I understand them and I have tremendous feeling for all of them. But some of the places where there are smaller ashrams and things, problems are cropping up and I'm surprised how still these problems are there.

So everybody must try to correct oneself, should become an example of compassion, love and understanding.

And I hope I will have no reports at least about the leaders or their wives specially, the wives. Wives is a big problem, I wish I had told something about the wives, maybe this evening I might be able to speak about the wives of the leaders. I've been speaking about them all the time.

So, the wives have a greater responsibility because they are the source of compassion and not of disciplining. They are the source of joy and not of controlling. They are the source of motherliness and not Guru-ness.

So they have to be very different personalities. Instead of that they think, “We are Guru's wives, so we can do what we like.

We can dominate people and shout at people and can arrange everything ourselves." No, they have to be completely on the background. And for that I can mention it so many of them are very good wives, who have shown great, great understanding of their role as Sahaja Yoginis.

So, I would request you not to become Gurus yourself, but to become Guruvis. And Guruvis are the ones who look after the other side of the Guru which may be neglected because of his disciplining nature which he has to have. And they are the ones who are the cementing factor. If the Guru is the brick, they are the cements. But it acts sometimes other way round.

So, I didn't say much about them, but I hope this evening I might say something about them.

May God bless you!

Contents: 1986-07-07 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Challenge the Past and Future, Ashram, Josef Melichar Gasse 20, Vienna, Austria

We try to do our level best, but still sometimes you feel that there can be some mistakes we might have committed. But there's, it is not for you to be upset about it. Because once you have reached the shores of joy then you should not give it up for anything. Because it is own your choice whether you want joy or you want unhappiness. Now in this Guru Pūjā I felt everybody reached a very great height of achievement and have become the joy itself. Now whatever your past was, whatever mistakes you might have committed in the past in your ascent or whatever might have happened in the past because of others to you, is all lost in the past, the ocean of the past. [Laughs.] [Aside:] It's all right, let it be, leave it. It's all right. I won't need, it's all right.

But now you see when you reach a certain state then you should not allow anything of the past to come back. I would even suggest to give a challenge to the past.

[Advice to translator regarding microphone:] Will be like this, you see, keep it like that is a good habit.

Just you have to remember it, yes. [Laughs.] Now after some time I have also learned how to use the mike. [Laughter.] Terrible they are, this one I know very well, you see, I mean, even if you speak there I have seen, that they move, you know, with you, as if, [laughs and laughter] you get frightened of that. [Laughter.] Yeah, I know, all right.

So, you have to challenge the past. Huh, now you sit down here. Ah, now let's see what was the past.

Oh that one was, that one was, all right let's see that, gone to waste, finished, good for nothing, like that. Then you are fixed into this point. But even if you are afraid of the past to look at it, “Oh God” and you feel funny [laughter] or you get angry with yourself or you feel upset about it, then yet you have not reached the point.

So now you have to see it that you are at a distance, that's why you are seeing it.

Nothing can touch you.

So the judgment will come from you to yourself. Am I still involved in the past that was last, that was yesterday, is finished now? Am I even now bothered about it? And your Mother will also sometimes test you on that. [Laughs.]

Sometimes I may remind you of some mistake of yours and then see what happens to you. And then I will know where are My children. [Laughter.] Now you have become the fruit, which is ripe.

So why should you worry about things which you are not anymore? Now if you have become a full edged bird why should you worry about the egg that used to smell so badly. [Laughter.] So this is the attitude one must have towards oneself, the confidence within yourself.

So that's how you challenge your past and now you can even challenge your future. Now start thinking what can happen to us, supposing.

[Laughter.] Which is very, very common nature of the Western people. Yes, because if you tell somebody, “Now, will you please go and telephone to that person” immediately that person will tell you, “Perhaps he may not be there. [Laughter.] Now let me see what's the time. This is the time he has to go out, so he must have gone out." [Laughter.] But why don't you telephone? And you telephone and the fellow is there. This is the Western style of futuristic explanations of everything.

Is that difficult?

Sahaja Yogini: It's a word which doesn't exist in German.

Shri Mataji: Which one? [Laughter.]

Sahaja Yogini: Futuristic.

Shri Mataji: I mean, what do you say to future?

Sahaja Yogini: Zukunft.

Shri Mataji: Zukunft. And then make it into `it', that's all. [Laughs and laughter.] You have to coin words now, what to do? [Laughs.] Now so, when you challenge your future,

I've been always challenged by the people who were futuristic, all the time. Like, you tell them, “I want to do this." So they'll say, “But in that the problem is this." [Laughter.] Problem, you see, this is modern word. [Laughter.] We never knew this word before for all these things, we used to only use it in geometry. [Laughs and laughter.] Really, I am telling you the truth.

[Laughs and laughter.] Now this word geometry is, you see it was for proving something, you see that was a problem.

So that's how we have proved, you see. All right, so now you see then another thing you should say that, “All right this is the problem, so can you try this one." He'll say, “Then the problem is this." [Laughter.] You give the solution another, another problem. By the time there are eleven solutions you are fagged out and you just sit down and you don't know what to say. [Laughs and laughter.] Now your mind has been doing the same thing with you. You see, that kind of a mind always tries to find problem because it doesn't want to solve.

So as soon as it starts, wants to say he wants to go somewhere to the station. Immediately he said the word, “Problem is, there is no car." That means he starts quarreling with himself all the time. His body is quarreling on one side, his heart is on another side, his mind on another side, liver is on another side.

So as a result, at the end of the day you find all of them sitting, “Ha” [laughter] doing nothing whatsoever, all exhausted, fighting with oneself. You see any film or any thing nowadays, the modern ones you will find all of them in the film they'll come and sit down chair, “Ha."

[Laughs and laughter.] But you see the trouble is what have we been doing, what work have we done? Nothing but thinking and figuring out.

Now you are Sahaja Yogis. You have to remember that God's all powers are with you. But only thing you have to be with Him. The powers are with you, but they are not going to run after you. [Laughter.] I mean if you want to [UNCLEAR regal] out of it what can the powers do? So you have the powers of God.

I'll give you an example. There was once in My house, you see I had made a banister, a complete banister for the staircase. Laurent is here, he'll tell you. And I told him, “Laurent that you fix it up and I'm resting for a while, because now all the Gods are sleeping.

So I'll rest for about half an hour and you try to fix it up." And I was just lying down in the drawing room where he was fixing it up, you see. I got up after one hour still he was sitting with a hand like this. [Laughter.] He was measuring this distance that distance, again going back to that and measuring it with very, very small calipers, you see. [Laughter.] Did everything and he was tired. [Laughter.] I said, “All right, just lift this and fix it." And it fixed, it was fixed in a second. [Laughter.] You see because I know I have God's powers.

So what is it? If I say the wood has to increase or decrease, just fix it, that's all. [Laughter.] What to expand, or.

So that's how, you see, the future we start thinking like this, “Now, let me figure it out, if it works out or not, when they fix me up?", What is there, this is God's work, just fix it, it will fix. But still some people will linger on to think, “How can it be, Mother?" Now I'll tell you the secret. You are in the Brahma Shakti and this Brahma Shakti is the vibrations that you feel. It has all the creative power, it has all the destructive power, it has all the evolutionary power, it has all the powers we can say. And it's like a big computer, it uses whatever it wants to use. Now if you take a molecule of sulfur dioxide you'll find a sulfur has got two oxygens, you see, vibrating, tug, tug, tug, like that. They are different types.

Some type isometric and all that, different, different types of vibrations, equal or unequal. These vibrations are Brahma Shakti and they exist in every matter whether dead or alive.

So when you see that fix, the wood knows the order has come and the vibrations in the molecules act.

[Problems of translator.] It's very interesting, everything, you see. [Laughs and laughter.] So this Brahma Shakti is everywhere. It penetrates into everything. And if you believe in God it acts in everything. But it's not blind belief. First you have to be perfect Sahaja Yogi. Then you are one with the Brahma Shakti. You can control everything and you do not waste your energy in controlling nonsensical things. You don't want to become like a juggler, you see, creating a flower out of a thorn or sort of a thing.

But wherever necessary it works, it acts.

So you'll have experiences in life, one by one and you'll be amazed how things work out. And then you will realise that you are not an ordinary Sahaja Yogi. Whatever you have committed wrong in the past or whatever you used to think of the future, the present becomes Divine. And that Divine present is the ocean of joy. Of which you are the part and particle. Just enjoy that. As I was telling you today that then you don't think about who is the enjoyer and who is the creator. You just become the existence.

Existence is the present.

That is how it works out. Where you lose all words, all thoughts, all feelings, which are emotional type, an absolutely silent confidence you drink like nectar of life.

May God bless you all! Have you got any question to ask Me? Ask Me some questions, you know I have no questions here in My head. Any problems? [Laughter.] Any questions? No, not about yourself, about others you must ask. How to deal with them, how to answer their questions, you must be having problems dealing with others, not about yourself I am saying.

You can't even think. [Laughs.]

Sahaja Yogini: May I ask one, Shri Mataji?

Shri Mataji: Yes, yes please.

Sahaja Yogini: Yesterday just by chance one elderly lady was sitting near me and she struck a very long conversation with me to repeat and repeat one fact which was rather annoying but I had to listen in order to try and give an answer and the fact was she said I am here I came here because I am very interested in what is going on but I refuse to bend down, this is a personal cult.

Shri Mataji: She is an Italian lady?

Sahaja Yogini: From Rome, yes.

Shri Mataji: Ah... [Applause.] I know her very well. She is a possessed woman. You know she came to Me, she said,

“My husband is a singer and I don't feel very happy with him." So I said, “All right you can bring him to Sahaja Yoga otherwise we can't do much." So she said, “With my love I can improve him." But I told her, “He is possessed and you are also possessed by him." [Laughter.] She said, “How?" So I asked her to put her hand towards Me and her hand started shaking. [Laughs.] So I put a paper on her hand and see now I said, “What is happening?" So she said, “This is emotional." I said, “Why is it Mine is not shaking, theirs not shaking, why yours only emotional?" [Laughter.] So what happens that when such a person, you see, gets after your life and she asks many questions there is no need to satisfy them. Just tell them you are a bhoot, that's all. [Laughter and applause.] Yes, that's how, because that's the fact. And I told her that way. And if she says, “How do you say I am a bhoot” you tell her that you come and put your hand towards the photograph and raise her Kuṇḍalinī and she'll start. [Laughs.] And then she, they will know that they are.

So that's it was and, she tried everything but she failed because she had to bend and, you are great hero here, he just put her down [laughs and laughter] and her Kuṇḍalinī they could see very clearly was just going like that.

So there are only two things, which do not want to bend before God. One is the bhoot or another is the ego. And today when I gave the lecture you can listen, make them listen to it because it's a very short one but very good one, it shows what is surrender. Surrender means your ego and your superego, your bhoots. And headache to Me. [Laughs.] I really tell you some of them when they touch My feet I feel as if some scorpions or some snakes are biting Me.

Sometimes I feel they are burning Me and I find blisters on My feet.

So it is very kind of them that they don't want to touch My feet. [Laughter.] So that is how we have to have our confidence and we should know that if somebody is a pesterer that must be a bhoot, only the bhoots pester you, they have no self-respect. I would only suggest that such people should not come to Pūjā. But she was only one who was singled out.

Sahaja Yogis: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Oh God. She is terrible.

Sahaja Yogini: [UNCLEAR My neighbour in the room had a bad Āgñyā.]

Shri Mataji: Better to sleep in the corridor. [Laughter.]

Sahaja Yogini: I did. [Laughter and applause.]

Shri Mataji: How do I know? She is from Australia basically but now they worked in Sierra Leone, is a wonderful place you see. [Laughs.] Then I said that you should have slept in the corridor [laughter] and she said she did. [Laughter.] So it's worth enjoying. We are so many, we know the joke. [Laughter.] If somebody is curious and sensible and asking about something what is this? Why you are bowing to Her? Supposing somebody says, `Why do you bow to Her, after all She is like a human being,' supposing.

So then you can say that, `That not because She was our Guru but She has given us Self-realisation. And also it is, said only it is the Holy Ghost or the Ādi Shakti you can give Self-realisation like this en masse.

So we absolutely we have found out that She is the Holy Ghost. Now it's correct.

So then also we have seen Her photographs, we have seen Her work, we have seen Her wonders and now you better see that.

The miracles of Christ were only seen by his disciples, but of Shri Mataji so many of us have seen it. And the way She has changed our lives why should we not bow to Her? What would you do yourself?' Then the question is correct on her, on the other person. But the question has to be honest and sensible, not like the mad woman.

Sahaja Yogi: [UNCLEAR]...

Some question about Sierra Leone and I like to share the sweet story.

Shri Mataji: All right please. All right just open the door [UNCLEAR Sandal]. Yes please because you see, he has been there and he must really hear about that. And also what about the tape? You have it here.

So you should expose it and let them have a look somewhere, it's a good idea.

We have big windows, but no breeze. Better order, send some order to the breeze.

Better. All right, let's have it.

Sahaja Yogi: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: You come and have this.

You understand that much English, don't you? Who does not understand English and only German, raise your hands?

Sahaja Yogi: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: At all. Who has the problem? Only one lady is there, all right. All right, so let him speak now.

Sahaja Yogi: Jai Shri Mataji. The little story that I wanted to relate to you regarding our bowing to Mother came a few weeks after I was in Sierra Leone and a few of these native people had their Realisation by then and I asked them how they related to Shri Mataji. And they quickly explained to me that there was the Holy Trinity, which was the Father and the Son and the Holy Ghost. And they said that if there is a Father and a Son then the Holy Ghost has to be the Wife of God. [Laughs, laughter and applause.] Because they live very, very much as a family and the woman is the basis of the family. She is so strong and she is so beautiful and demure and she holds the chastity so strong.

So they related very quickly to Mother and they came to Mother very, very fast. We couldn't believe. Christy had told me how the Indian women get on the trains, they get on like that very quick.

Shri Mataji: Jumping.

Sahaja Yogi: And these Africans get on to Sahaja Yoga like that, very quick. [Laughter.]

Shri Mataji: Very true. Anywhere, you see Indians are very smart like that I must say.

Sahaja Yogi: The other thing that I would like to tell you which I think these people are going to teach us a lot of how to be very beautiful Sahaja Yogis is that every day they enquire as to, “How is your body?", that is how the conversation goes. They come to you and they say, “How is your body?" And the answer for that in the native tongue is [UNCLEAR kayan goma] and [UNCLEAR kayan goma] means “Praise be to God." So they never answer that their body is sick or that they are not well or that they are happy or they are anything. They praise God because they are alive.

Shri Mataji: That's it. Straight forward. [Applause.]

Sahaja Yogi: And the other question Shri Mataji, that I had was that Sierra Leone means `mountain lion'. And it was always a questioning as to what significant this small, small country is, because on the mountain ranges there is one peak, which looks like a lion.

So we always toyed with ideas as to what this place was for in the Divine play.

So if You could help us Shri Mataji, we appreciate that. [Laughter.]

Shri Mataji: You see, if you say anything in the body about a country what it is, I mean you may like it but I don't like it very much Myself. I think of the Europe being the horrible liver, you see. [Laughter.] Europe is so beautiful, but to call it the liver, but I have to tell you it's the liver. But liver is no good, horrible thing it is, liver.

So you see but there are some ductless glands also in the body and one of them is this one. Like pituitary and all that.

Hello, Mary, there's no need to have a technical word, it's not UN. [Laughs.] It's not UN. Just tell them, one of the ductless glands, which is without any ducts, means on the messages it works. It's like a remote control. Remote control, that sort of a thing it is. [Laughs and laughter.]

Sahaja Yogini: Shri Mataji, may I translate the stories of Peter.

Shri Mataji: Yes please.

[Sahaja Yogini translates.]

Shri Mataji: That's it. Any other question now? It's very simple to understand you see, now if there are medical science or there're physical science.

What sciences are they dealing with?

Sahaja Yogini: They are mostly physicists, nuclear physicists.

Shri Mataji: All right, so the nuclear physicists must be told on their language only, we can talk to them about this that the thing that physical laws you see, act isn't it there are so many laws, physical laws, which act in the physics. Now who has made the laws? [Laughter.] You just see what is there, what laws are acting that's what you see. But who has made the laws, who has bound them by the laws? See say hydro electric now, with the water falls from a particular height it releases energy, the energy becomes the thing. All right, you see that is happening from the energy getting transferred into this, into this. But who has made that in the water, who has put that law into that? Now that is if you want to talk about God, all right there is something beyond it. But now we have to see that, where have we reached? When we started discovering science, the epitome of science is what, is hydrogen bomb, atomic bomb, or we can say computer. But we have not been able to produce any computer like a human being. This is second point. All right, do tell them now.

But by the scientific advancements we have created people who are very imbalanced. They are so volcanic, they are so criminal, there is violence, the human beings are fighting among themselves, even the animals don't fight this way the way human beings fight.

Now so we reach a point, you take them to a point, now that, that's what we have achieved. What is the reason? Rationalise it. What is the reason, why human beings have not been benefited the way we want to benefit them? So, why scientific research has gone onto toward destructive research, why? So if you start judging that why we always end up like this, there must be some reason that the controlling point within us is missing.

So there has been no integrated progress or all-sided progress.

So if you see that, we have not progressed at all. Because the progress is to be only known how we relate to each other.

For that even, there we should go to psychology, if it is a science, there is you who says that you have to become collectively conscious. And as scientist we must have open mind to see what other people who had perhaps higher awareness than human awareness have thought of it.

So those who try to be benevolent on this Earth have said that, “You have to have your second birth” every one of them. Also rationally we can see that we are not at an absolute point. Because we think this will do good. But ultimately doesn't do any good. And we commit so many mistakes also. The whole world is like a mess, one must admit a confusion.

So science can't solve it. At least one point is clear that you have to go beyond this human awareness to that position which is called as the Spirit. And as an open-minded scientist you must accept this hypothesis first. Before accepting the hypothesis if you argue, what can I tell you? That means you are not a scientist, simple.

So now if you accept this hypothesis now the time has come to prove everything.

As the tree of awareness has grown outside it must have grown inside also, to find out the roots.

So let us see, keep your eyes open. If it works out and if you see that it works out in you, rather difficult but still, rather difficult and we can't promise, but if it works out you will know that you have a higher awareness of absolute value. It is not a challenge to any science, but it explains all sciences.

So if you have this power within you why not get it, to be sensible enough. The only problem with scientist is again that they think they are perfect, they want to work on others, not on themselves. Little humility can tell them that science has reached at no perfect point.

So, just be little humble and know that you have to know little more, because it actualises on your central nervous system. Like in evolutionary process everything manifests on the central nervous system and so this also manifest and you do really become collectively conscious.

So why not try? A scientist must try. That's what it is.

They think that now they have reached a point when either they have to jump down [laughing] or they have to go back. Recipes you see they have to, but you see the Kuṇḍalinī ascends you, you don't have to go down or not to achieve Her, She ascends you. This is what, this is how you talk to them. You tell them that you have to be sensible. And if you want to really do good to others and to yourself and to your progeny.

Now for physics I'll give you one very good example. It can be chemistry, but on molecules, you see, it is. I was, I told once a very great scientist in America that a carbon atom is on one side looks like Oṁ and on other side like a Swastika.

What do you say to carbon?

Sahaja Yogini: Kohlenstoff.

Shri Mataji: Kohlenstoff. Kohlenstoff. Kohlenstoff. [Laughter.] Because we say [UNCLEAR kolsa] in Marathi, we say [kolsa].

So they took the picture this is with a spectrographic picture of carbon atom. And when they saw from the left side they saw the right side, it was like Om And when they saw from left they saw it to the right it was like a Swastika. Then they will ask another question, I am sure with this, that how this Swastika was used by Hitler. [Laughter.] So because Lamas knew the trick, they told him about using the Swastika, because that is the sign of innocence. And he used them with the stencil, painted with stencil, many stencils, you see, stencil is a typical type, you see where you cut it out in a plate, a Swastika and then paint it on top. One principle is, anything `e' you become `a', you see, `Mother' is [UNCLEAR `a, e'] in Marathi, `e' is the Mother.

So here they say `a' because fatherland.

Sahaja Yogini: This is difficult to translate, I don't know how to say this, shall I translate this?

Shri Mataji: No, no, no need. [Laughter.] German may not like it.

Then by chance, you see the stencil they were using the Divine played a trick in their brains. They got confused, you see.

So they started painting the Swastika from the other way of the stencils. [Laughs.] So the constructive or the positive Swastika became a destructive, negative one and they started losing.

Even if you see Hitler's older pictures and later pictures you'll find he has two types of Swastikas. [Laughs.] That's how they lost. Otherwise this world would have finished long time back with so many Hitler-like people came on this Earth.

And in modern times all fake Gurus have come, also some of the organized religions are there, destroying.

Some are obviously fanatics and some are very sophisticatedly.

There's no word sophistication in German? [Laughter.] You see, so because of them scientist do not believe in God, but God exists and we can prove it. That's what it is, it's simple.

So you can make them listen to this. Instead of arguing with them you said, “You better listen to this lecture." [Laughter.] Because that will go on them. [Laughs.] You see it's that simple as that, you put everything on your Mother.

Listen to Her what She has to say. And then now ask questions, them [laughing], scientist.

Sahaja Yogini: [UNCLEAR Can you explain to them the new technique, if you look from beneath, you'll see the cross?]

Shri Mataji: Yes, yes, yes. Yes, yes I was telling them how to see that also, cross. But you see the trouble is that they don't have that kind of spectrometre so far. They don't have that kind. There is a, only on the sides you can see, not from down upward. That's the problem is. Also if they see from down below, see, you see it's a very practical thing you can understand say this is carbon atom here and it is, actually if you put the light from here then you just see this flats are first reflected on this side, isn't it.

But what you have to see is what is here.

So what it looks at this point you can't see practically.

Sahaja Yogini: Some Johann tried to build a three dimensional Swastika.

Shri Mataji: Yes, yes. I mean three dimensional Swastika to be made into look like, yes it does, it does look. But still I would say like this you think I was suggesting to them, what they have to do is to put carbon here, all right and reflected onto this one like here, you see then reflected into another mirror there, reflected into another mirror so that you bring to this point, parallel. But you need many mirrors to do that. You see My point? This is something that you see like this, if you have to see like that at a right angle you will have to have mirrors after mirrors, isn't it. And still it won't be exact.

Sahaja Yogini: Can't we contact some of our astronomer who are very expert in using mirrors and building apparatus like that.

Shri Mataji: Yes, you might have to. But you will have to use lots of them you see, because by little, little angle you'll have to move to go at, something you know like that. It will be difficult. Say for example now this is a glass, all right. Now this portion, at the most I will not have water like that, now this portion to be seen like that. Now will you show.

So what you will have to do that this one has to be reflected on some thing little closer to this and this one reflected onto this one here then this one again with point, point, point to move, still it won't be exact, at an angle.

Sahaja Yogini: This is becoming very interesting Shri Mataji. Can I discuss this with some of my friends? Maybe they can find the equipment for it.

Shri Mataji: Rather difficult. You see, because even if you take a photograph you'll get a photograph of this. But you have to have the photograph of this when this thing has to stand up like that, you see.

How will it look like? But it changes. Same carbon changes itself. It's not exactly the same when it turns round, the angle it changes, that's the point is. You see, that's the problem.

So, I mean, if two things are proved, the third must be accepted. [Laughter and applause.] In Sahaja Yoga also once I gave you Realisation you accepted that, all right this means heart this mean this, this mean this. Then you try. There are so many things I say which you accept.

You may not have proof so far but, because at least 75% is proved.

So 25% Mother is not going to tell us lies. [Laughter.] Or else we can say like this the, whatever I have said, say in the beginning of Sahaja Yoga, is very different, not different but it's so rudimentary, but what I said the other day in Guru Pūjā, I would not have said in the beginning, would I have? So you see the awareness also has to rise to understand it, you see. This is very important, because say, I can see supposing the light coming on Me. The camera also sees but you don't see and if I tell you there's light coming on Me then you will think that Mother is trying to befool us. But you know that because I put My hand like this and I said no, like that it's clear-cut so I knew that there was light. But now if you don't have the eyes that the camera has I should not tell you something like that. But supposing also now if I tell you, you will believe Me.

So you see, this is about, if you, if you are saying something 75% correct and it's you have proved it. Is 25% is to be learned later on.

But by believing in it nothing is going to be lost. But in believing in it you'll find it out also. That believing in that there is Kuṇḍalinī in you, you have achieved your Realisation. It has done good to you. It has transformed your life.

So henceforth even if I tell you something it is better that you should understand that is for your good, so you would, you accept it. But there is one way of finding out for you. When I say the truth you get the vibrations. Even when I boast about Myself also you get tremendous vibrations.

[Laughter.] [Laughs.] They don't boast? In German you don't have a boast-word? [Laughter.] What's the word for `boast'?

Sahaja Yogini: Angeben.

Shri Mataji: Angeben.

Sahaja Yogini: Angeberei.

Shri Mataji: Angeberei.

So when I say `boast' really it's no boasting, because vibrations start.

So you can find out the truth, if I am telling the truth or not you can find out. But is it possible that when I am sitting here you don't feel vibrations? And if you are not getting vibrations, always it is wrong with you, not with Me. [Laughter.] So how to find out whether I am telling the truth or not. [Laughs and laughter.] That is Mahāāyā, you see, that is Mahāāyā. [Laughs and laughter.] So don't believe in Me, to be very frank. [Laughs and laughter.] That's the conclusion. It's just a play, you see, just a play, just fun. You got word for fun? [Laughter.]

Sahaja Yogini: [UNCLEAR Spa...].

Shri Mataji: [UNCLEAR Spa...]. But in French, nothing. [Laughter] Nothing in French for fun.

Sahaja Yogini: There is.

Shri Mataji: Which one? Gregoire has told Me. [Laughs.] So find out for fun and for awareness.

Awareness is there?

Sahaja Yogini: Bewusstsein, in French: conscience.

Shri Mataji: Conscience, now, awareness is different, consciousness that is.

Sahaja Yogini: Bewusstsein.

Shri Mataji: You see, I will lose 400 pounds to My husband. [Laughter.] Please find it, he won't know. He will never give Me, in any case. [Laughs.] I can charge him interest. But that also he wouldn't give Me. [Laughs and laughter.] All right, very nice meeting you, all of you. And as, we are all friends together here after the Guru Pūjā's pressure now today we are all friends. We enjoyed ourselves thoroughly. Any problems you have, you'll let Me know. But one thing one has to remember, to try not to create problems, not to create any stupid things, just let God manage everything for you and handle it. He'll do it very well.

So don't be in a weeping condition or in a dominating condition or in a quarreling condition. But be nice and sweet to each other. Express your love fully and well. And you will get it back in full measure.

Thank you very much! Sahaja Yogis: Bolo Śhrī Jaganmātā Śhrī Nirmalā Devī Ki, Jai! [Mahā Mantra singing by Sahaja Yogis.]

Shri Mataji: May God bless you all! May God bless you all! May God bless you all! May God bless you all! Good night!

Contents: 1986-07-07 Press Conference, Time Has Come to Become the Spirit, International Press Center (IPZ), Vienna, Austria

Alright we are here to inform you about a power which is within us and the power that can give you what is promised by all the saints, scriptures and all the incarnations.

Today you see the young people in every country especially in the west, you'll find they are not satisfied with their own atmosphere, their lives and they think that there is something missing and they are extremely confused. Now when they are confused they are seeking something beyond, something unknown to them, in that seeking, they may take to anything extreme, drugs, could be alcoholism, or some other perversions which cause horrible diseases, incurable diseases.

Instead of condemning them we have to see why they are doing all these things what is the purpose? Some of them also went to some Gurus which are in the market. Especially when they see the religious people and the religions, they cannot believe that religion can give such horrid experiences and some of them are anti-God, anti-religion also. But if you deal with the problems sympathetically, you cannot blame them, because they are intelligent, aware people. We have two categories of people, one: the ones who are not seeking at all and another: the ones who want to find out solutions to the problems.

In every generation we haul people who revolutionize because they do not like a particular system, or do not like a particular style of life, whatever it is, but now the revolution has to come from within.

We have to evolve from within, because the destruction is also coming from within. We are destroying ourselves more from within. Because we are so unhappy, so confused, absolutely `quite a percentage' is schizophrenic. We start seeking the solution and in that seeking we make mistakes, we make mistakes because we do not know what to seek and how to find, also how to evolve to that state. Logically we have to reach some conclusions, to conclude that it has to be some evolutionary happening, this is logical that to transform ourselves, there has to be some evolution.

As Jung has said, you have to become collectively conscious, you have to become, it's an actualisation, it's not a certificate. It has to come from within, it's an honest thing, it's an innate thing. It's not just preaching or sort of a giving a certificate, it is not, or taking a name. It is an actualisation within yourself, something has to happen to us, as we have evolved from monkey stage to this stage, for example, we've done nothing, it's a living process which has taken place spontaneously.

There's a big resistance to any oriental ideas being accepted in the west, big resistance, I find there is a very big resistance to any oriental ideas coming to the west. These oriental ideas which are coming are to be seen with a scientific open mind because the Western life has grown like a tree outside, the roots may be in the east, maybe, we can keep ourselves open to see where are the roots? Now if the roots are in the east, supposing, it's an hypothesis, so let us have a look at them, if there is any solution in those.

So you go to oriental ideas. But this also is very dangerous, because you are going in the unknown, you might go to false Gurus, you might go to wrong people and get completely destroyed.

So, what do we do? First thing we should know, we cannot pay for our evolution, we cannot pay, money is not there. How can we pay for any living process? If the seed has to sprout, the Mother Earth will sprout it, we don't pay the Mother Earth.

The first thing they should have known is that anybody who asks for money is not a truthful person. No money should be involved. Then the second point comes in, that we got to this stage of human awareness spontaneously, without any effort, effortlessly. In the same way it should happen. But first of all in every evolution there has been one leader. We can call them as archetypes as they say, or whatever you may want to say, though Jung was not very clear on that point. Such a person can decode the information of symbols and everything and can help others, without taking any money, without taking any gratification, he can do it.

Here it is that people fumble in the west, they don't mind a pope, don't mind an archbishop of Canterbury, but they mind a person who is doing everything free, just out of love. You'll be amazed in England, the television people told Me, that, we cannot accept anything which does not take money! Can you believe it, it's a fact! In, I think in Boston, or somewhere, they asked Me a question: How many Rolls-Royce you have got? This is journalism, I'm just telling you.

In San Francisco they would not even publish My advertisement because by mistake we had said that we can cure AIDS. They said no, we don't want AIDS to be cured, we don't want anything to deal with our homosexuality. And they said such horrible things, that 65% people are homosexuals in San Francisco.

And the editor is a homosexual and the chairman is, even the Mayor is so I didn't know what to do. I thought it's better not to advertise, because we'll be useless for them. This is what the problem is.

Then something most important which is not realised by our modern mind that the belief that anything new is to be tried, is very dangerous. If we are dealing with the living process of evolution, we have to know that in spiritual life whatever is going to happen must relate to scriptures, to all the scriptures, it must relate to them, not to one scripture say to Holy Bible or Holy Koran, or any, but to all of them. Because it is like a seed that sprouts then it becomes the stem, then the branches, the leaves, then the flower and then the fruit; a living process, it's based on something evolved through something. But whatever is dead like we can create a fruit, a plastic fruit from nowhere just like that you see, which has no basis, has no meaning. It must have a basis from where it has come, its origin must be seen. As in the growth of the tree all that is useless drops out, in the same way in evolution also, all that is useless drops out, even useless tradition drop out, everything drops out, but ultimately you reach the epitome where you become the fruit.

So the time has come for human beings to become the spirit.

So every seed has `cambry' and in the same way within us is our `cambry', this is our Kuṇḍalinī. And this is to be actually awakened, actually awakened. Of course the superficial people who are not worried about the world, will not bother about it, they are out of question, superficial people. But there are another type who is making money in the name of Spirit, or living on that money and organizing, will definitely appose us, naturally we become controversial for them, but basically we hit them, through no fault of ours, we don't mean to but it just happens. But the person who has pure intelligence, he need not be a very well educated person, but pure intelligence can see through the game, should be able to see through the game.

Now in Sahaja Yoga we have thousands of people all over the world. There are people who are, we can call them the highest in the society, there are people who are the lowest in the so-called society. All of them are on pār with each and every person there is no [UNCLEAR higher/lower] feeling, everyone belongs to that society, belongs to that society. Moreover when this happens because we understand what these incarnations where, the conflict of all religions. We understand it on central nervous system. The conflict drops out. There is no question of not worshipping Christ, Muslims, Jews, Hindus all worship Christ, they all worship Mohammed Sāhab and they all worship Rāma, Kṛiṣhṇa all these. Because actually they see that when the Kuṇḍalinī rises, she passes through certain centers and there you have to take the name of those great incarnations.

So this is the knowledge of the roots and one must know that you have to become a subtler being to understand that knowledge. But unless and until we we have that knowledge we are in for a catastrophe there's a big shock awaiting us and how are we going to avoid it? Just by talking about peace, you don't bring peace. Those who talk about peace, they don't have peace within themselves.

So we are at that point where we try to talk about it, persuade people and the media can help us. It has helped us a lot in Italy and also in India of course, because in India people know about the knowledge of the roots.

So it is very easy in the villages of India, even in the cities of India, they are doing very well, not only that, but say for example Delhi University has accepted Sahaja Yoga for research and the degree you get is doctor of medicine, higher than post graduation, after post graduation you get this degree, it is very rare doctor of medicine for Sahaja Yoga, but they have accepted.

Even Cambridge University, they have accepted this research.

So one should try to see the sense in it. They have not done it to criticise it, but with respect, with acceptance, that there is something about it.

So I would request the media to give the facts, by understanding it, you have nothing to gain, but Austrian people should be benefitted, that's all. As a result of the Kuṇḍalinī awakening you can claim many things. But that can be seen that cancer can be cured, mental diseases can be cured, drug addiction can be cured, the problems created by these Gurus can be cured. All these things can be done when you become the Spirit, but this should be just at a level of a hypothesis, when we do it and it's proved, then you should accept it; not blindly. There is no blind faith in Sahaja Yoga. We have no priesthoods, nobody is paid. It's a free society and everyone becomes very knowledgeable. A Sahaja Yogi may not be a doctor but he can cure people. He may not be a psychiatrist, but he can cure mad people. He becomes equipped with the power by which he does it. Like Christ was not a doctor, he cured people, in the same way, in the same fashion. Now I would like you to ask questions, because it's a very wide subject and one can go on talking about it. I wanted these people to explain to you for fifteen minutes all other things.

So that you will have your questions ready for Me.

Question: We've said in the literature, any unauthorized tempering can harm in some way your Yoga.

How do you explain this!

Shri Mataji: Unauthorized tempering. I mean it's written by Sahaja Yoga.

Of course, of course, you see Kuṇḍalinī can only be awakened by a person who has the authority, Divine authority. You cannot elect the person, say as you can elect a priest. It's not like that. You must have the power to raise the Kuṇḍalinī. Now those people who are leading a very one can say dirty life cannot raise the Kuṇḍalinī. You have to belong to this pure religion, a pure religion and you have to have these powers. Otherwise those people who try other tricks what they do, they disturb your sympathetic nervous system activity. Kuṇḍalinī does not rise. Kuṇḍalinī will only rise by a proper Sahaja Yogi. For example, I tell you, supposing there is a seed and you want to plant it.

So you have to put it in the Mother Earth.

Supposing you put it on this table won't, but supposing you but it in the fire it will burn. Only the Mother Earth has the power to sprout it. That's what it is. All right.

What else? He's done a lot of homework, I must say, it's great and that's why you must have read.

There are some books in German also about Kuṇḍalinī, horrible books. That it harms you, it burns you, nothing of that kind. It does not. It is the sympathetic when activated by wrong type of people, things like sex and other activations some people try to turn this out and all that and you start seeing the light and all those things, this is all short circuiting actually. You will suffer a lot with that, no doubt, it's so spontaneously, it just happens to you spontaneous. Are you feeling relaxed yourself, you got it. You got your realisation. Only thing is that you have to little bit know about it, that's all. You look really relaxed, there's no thought. No Question.

You got it. Just while you were talking to Me you got it. Because you are positive and want to know about it. If you come with a determined effort just to criticise, nothing can work out. You got it. May God bless you.

It's your own. I've done nothing, I was just talking to you. Your Kuṇḍalinī knows that you are sitting before Me. She just knows by herself, that's your mother. Your own, individual mother and that's the Holy Ghost. That's the Primordial Mother which Christians don't talk about and then they don't want you to know anything else, whatever they will teach, you should learn, nothing more. I was Myself born in a Christian Family.

So you have to have you see blinkers on both the sides. You are not supposed to see this side or that side. This is why young people fell a trap to these horrible Gurus who came to make money here. I know of somebody who came from jail who came to Germany wearing those saffron clothes, sat on one of the centers there somewhere and everybody locked to him. He came from jail because they don't know how to make out a good Guru, the Sat Guru and the aGuru there are books and books on that in India. But they don't know poor things and I don't blame them because they were seeking, seeking so honestly, that they got into trouble, but I've been talking about them from 1974. But another problem with young people from the west was, that they hated Christianity, that's one point.

So when talked about Christ, they just turned round, went back. We couldn't talk to them. They said don't talk of Christ, they went out. Ss this Christianity has done nothing but a harm to them. They just don't want to hear about Christ, I mean Christ is a living God, no doubt and I've to talk about him very much, but they don't like it, such a problem of conceptions, conceptions. You see reality is, what reality is. It's not a concept, it's what it is. You see Christ is the son of God. He is the real personality whatever church may do to it, or anyone may do to it, makes no difference. He is what he is and thus is what the problem is the problem is, the concept. Concept is not reality. That's just a mental projection, just a mental projection.

You have to rise beyond that to be the Spirit, all right, may God bless you.

May I know your name please. George, good. This is a name of an angel, yes, St. Georg. And St.

Georg, we call him as Bhairava in our Indian language, he's called as Bhairava, St. George. A very great God, an Angel.

So we have nobody else down here. Have you any questions? No must be, because you have to face journalists. What about you? Ask a question.

Question: Where has this message spread in the world, in which countries?

Sahaja Yogi: It's now sixteen countries Shri Mataji, in eleven of these it's very very active, in about six of these countries we have thousands and thousands.

Shri Mataji: Of course, of course, we have here He was in Islam religion from Algeria. Then of course you know him very well and here only you'll find people of different religions sitting there. What was your religion Mary? Christian. There's a lady from a Hindu religion there sitting. What was your religion? Born again [laughing]. That's some thing all right. We have in all religions, all castes all creed.

So of course no doubt. We have in all religions, all caste, all creed.

Like Sierra Leone. We have got Africans there, then we have got even in Bolivia. What is the religion there? Bolivia, Christianity, Bolivia of a kind, in Peru, everywhere.

So it is infinite. It goes to everyone.

How can you have anybody barred. We have Chinese, Japanese. All types of people we have from all races.

So there is no question of that.

So what else. Actually I cannot give the list of all the nations, but practically all, except for Scandinavian nations, but there are still nations we have not approached but we have Scandinavian people in Sahaja Yoga. But we haven't yet established centers there.

Question: What happened in Milan, apparently when you first went there.

So many people were there.

Shri Mataji: You see, I think Italian are great sensitive people. Italians are very sensitive. You'll be surprised, there are no Gurus in Italy except in the North of Italy. They are very sensitive, very emotional and sensitive and they respect love and they have respect for Mother also and when they saw My photograph, they did feel something about it, I don't know what they felt about My photograph, I don't know what photograph it was. But they felt peace maybe, whatever it is.

But I was amazed, the whole hall was filled, absolutely. And Italians even as far as their government is concerned, all of them are very open to Sahaja Yoga. Surprising. They are very sensitive people and they must have found out about Me, that I have done all good. There's no objection to anything and now they have invited Me to a press conference which Guido will tell you what it is, it is a press conference of all the people of Italy. It's a very big thing, called as the press conference `Guest of the year'. Talking to all of them, will be nice, will be nice, really nice meeting them all. Yes, but I feel Austria is one country which is very much in the center, somehow it's very much in the center.

Austrians were neither east or west. And they are very good for Sahaja Yoga, very sensible people in Austria. And we have found very sensible people in Austria, no doubt about it. Another thing is, Austria has never given us any problem. We never got people who are very schizophrenic, or nonsensical fighting type, very nice people we got. Surprising.

So Austria has a special place, I think in Europe.

Oh, something fell down, it's all right [a picture fell from the wall]. It's very, you know, they are very heavy and you have put very small nails, there are. What happens if they don't get it. Or if they get it.

Question: Some people get the Kuṇḍalinī raised, no doubt, what happens with people after death, if they don't get it. He said most religions work on a concept that you do it our way or you end up in a horrible place. [Shri Mataji is laughing.]

Shri Mataji: No, it's not like that. You see, I think, most of the people should get it, to get a very generous view of the whole thing, as the world is today it will be taken by people, they'll take to realisation, I'm sure. Most of them will get it. Supposing if they don't get and die, then they'll be born again and they'll get it. But those who have to go to hell, will go to hell anyway [laughs], in any way. You see, there are people, as I would say, who would never take to anything good could be, there could be people, I have not known, but maybe. We'll should give all a benefit of doubt.

Yes, because you see, yes that is it, now I'll tell you what happens. Now it is that your spirit is absolute, is absolute. Spirit is an absolute thing. Supposing now you want to know wether I'm good or not, or he is good or not. Good is not the way we look at things, like you see the dress of someone, see the face, this is not the thing, it's superficial. But when we have to see if the person is good or not, we see, we feel his Chakras, you see. What Chakra is catching, you can feel them on your fingertips. You see, like Mohammed Sāhab had said, that your hands will be speaking.

So you feel on your centers, the other person.

So we don't certify them as good or bad, that category doesn't exist in Sahaja Yoga.

What we say, what are the centers catching in a person. Now what is catching in a person, what centers are wrong, we try to correct. We like a, we can say, a patient comes to a hospital. The doctors don't say, you are good or bad, they don't categorize like that. What they say is what is the disease? Let us treat the disease. It's like that.

So the good and bad is not described in Sahaja Yoga. What is described are the centers which are out of place, but some people have ruined their centers completely have no Kuṇḍalinī at all with them, they are like devils.

Some of them must have been. I don't want to name them, but could have been.

So with such people, what to do? They must have desire, I mean you cannot force anyone, that's the big problem.

If they desire it, well and good, if they don't desire it, you cannot just make them do it. No, you cannot, they have to desire it, in their own freedom, then they get it.

The joy, nothing can be forced. This is the handicap. We don't categorize. We don't condemn anyone as bad, or we do not elevate somebody as excellent, but we tell them what are the centers catching and when you get your realisation, you will know, what is catching in you. And you'll also know what is catching in him and then if tell you, supposing if I tell him Doctor Warren your Āgñyā Chakra is catching.

It means your ego is coming up. He won't feel bad, because he'll get a headache then, he'll say better correct it, Mother. With his ego he'll get a headache, a little bit. It's all right, correct it.

So nobody feels bad about it. You see, there is nothing like good and bad, our words used are very vague, they are very vague terminologies. There is no precision about it, because Spirit is absolute, so everything related to Spirit is the absolute knowledge. You may say, a person is very good, is excellent, that we don't accept what we accept is, what are the conditions of his Chakras and how much we can help him.

Any other question, Steve, you better ask Me. He's an American.

I describe it, oh God. Now I never had it, so how what am to explainI do, I'm born like this. But I would say, the experience of Self-realisation that I've seen that happens to people, first of all, when the Kuṇḍalinī rises, of course the mechanism goes into complete force and when She pierces through the Fontanelle bone area, first thing you feel is the Cool Breeze in the hands, but not necessarily, some people will feel it on top of their heads, coming out as a Cool Breeze from their head, own head.

So the self-certification is there, the Cool Breeze. But could be some people have too much heat coming out. Supposing there is a cancer patient, or anybody like that, a serious patient, you find that a heat comes out. Supposing it's a person who is very much possessed and extremely unhappy type of person, maybe, or an arrogant person whatever it is.

The Kuṇḍalinī you can see clearly with your own eyes, pulsating at different centers, but specially at the base of the spine which we call as the sacrum bone. Sacrum is sacred bone, on the sacred bone.

So you can see it very clearly. We have got photographs of that, absolute pulsation, you can see, like a heart.

Then the experience moves with some people it does, I must say. They do feel the rising, if it's slow rise. But if it shoots off, you don't feel anything, you just feel the Cool Breeze, coming out of your head.

Then you start feeling out of your fingertips also. But the feeling you get first of all, when it rises above this center, you feel you are beyond thought. You're in the present, beyond thought, just enjoying the peace, peace of your being. Enjoying yourself in a way and then, when it pierces through a kind of a joy trickles out. Different people have different feelings, but say for Indians you see, they don't think so much as you people think, think, think too much.

So they don't think, so they get there, first of all they get their joy.

But in the West the people, I think, get more the awareness about it. They start feeling this Chakra, this Chakra, they practice this that, ultimately they get the joy. But Indians first get the joy and they say we don't know anything about it.

So it depends on the condition of a person what the experience could be. But on the whole, there is one thing happens to all of you, that your eyes start glistening, there is a glisten, there is a twinkle in the eye, that's what it is. And the face becomes, you see, relaxed, the wrinkles drop out, you drop out sometimes, ten years.

Like, see, My age is 64 years of age, 64 years Mine is. But people can't believe it because you see I don't feel My age at all. We all have forgotten what our ages are. And this is what happens to you, because you go in a state of existence only. But takes little time, gradually to grow into it, but it starts with the sprouting of the seed, that is the Kuṇḍalinī. But experiences people have are different. Like his case it was very deep, I know. Because he was a great seeker and he had started a band without knowing Sahaj on his own, shaj-band, I don't know how he started. He must have got it from the unconscious, really. And he had such a strong experience, because after that I met him for about five minutes and then he went away to Boston and from Boston he sent Me a telegram, that Mother we are waiting for you in Boston.

They said “Mother, who is this one?" I said, “He is Steve, I know him very well, I'm going down." And they were surprised and they said “how will you recognize, you have only seen him for five minutes." I said, “I'll recognize him, don't you worry, I'm going down there." So you see, I can feel that also Myself it within Myself a person who's got it. Like I told you, that you are now thoughtless.

It is a report, of the collective, it is the collective report, because of collective consciousness you can feel another person and you can feel yourself. But it is an experience on your central nervous system, the thing is. But when you get joy and when you get your awareness, is a thing depending on the conditioning of a person.

Mostly the west people first become aware, more aware. They start seeing things better, those who have never noticed say for example, a very nice curtain is lying here, but people will come, see superficially, will go away. But a Sahaja Yogi will see, what a nice curtain, what a nice pattern, what nice flowers, what nice... You are penetration into everything, starts feeling everything, penetration is that. But experiences are difficult and different like I think everybody must write about it. You are so many.

Sahaja Yogi: I have a question that many people ask at such conferences is this why in the past it was so difficult and why today it is so easy.

Shri Mataji: That's quite embarrassing to ask Me. But one should reach a conclusion, there must be something about Me, that I do it that easily. All right one point. A second point could be: I explain it with an analogy that in the beginning there are very few flowers on a tree, very few, one or two. Then when the tree comes up in age, out the blossom time starts, there are thousands.

So the time has come.

Time has come and I have come, maybe that two things put together.

But maybe I know the trick of the tree better, perhaps. This is what I have discovered is en masse realisation, not individual, but en masse. That's what I have discovered. If you want Me to proclaim, I'll proclaim that. But there is nothing great about it, I think. Because If you have something, what is so great, I have achieved nothing, you have achieved, that's the point. You have achieved, I have achieved nothing. I have this with Me. You have achieved. Actually you must ask Me some questions, You see he is a barrister.

Question: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Mislaid, mislaid. How they found different different books, that's a good point. Now, you see, in Sahaja Yoga you get into the essence of everything, the essence of the sap of the tree goes to every flower. It doesn't discriminate.

But flowers are different. Now what these people have done, they have plucked these flowers. Like somebody says this is my religion, plucked the flowers, then the flowers are dead now.

So they are carrying on with dead flowers.

The religions are dead now. But they are flowering on the same tree and you get inside the sap, through the roots.

So you see, that everything is the same. It's just a manifestation of the same. Now electricity is flowing, it is working out there, but electricity is the same because you become the essence. But if you see from outside, they look different.

Specially when deliberately they will have plucked out these flowers and established this is mine, Christ is mine, how? Islam is mine, how? It is not. You cannot have them as proper, these. They cannot be your properties.

So this is what you realise and that's what you see that everything is the same, you see now you have become an essence, your eyes have opened out, you see that everything is the same. You cannot become fanatic now, you cannot. Even if you try to, you cannot [laughing]. You just cannot become fanatic any more because you see, the essence is the same. I mean sugar put into this, sugar put into that.

If you become the sugar, you are in everything, isn't it? I mean religion had to be little different in its form, because of the times that were there. Times were this way, that way, you see every time, They had no change the outward form and things like that, social level, political level, this, that. But essence was the same.

Question: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Of course. You can't have it any more, that's very true because you see the essence is the same. You see fanaticism comes from word `finite' we should say. When you go into infinity, how can you have fanaticism? You finite yourself, I'm this, I'm this. That is clubbing, actually it is nothing but ordinary clubbing, you see. We have clubbed, like somebody puts the, say the tableware on the left side, is one club. They put it on the right side another, then they distribute, you see, that's just like stupid clubbing, that's all. You cannot club God or Christ or anyone of these incarnations, they are all brothers and sisters and relations of each other. They are all related to each other.

But those people, who were in charge, tried to destroy them, as soon as possible, take the charge. Christ lived for four years, how Mohammed Sāhab lived you know, everyone of them how they were tortured, that's what happened, because they wanted to take advantage of them. But forgive them now, all right, some day they will come round. And now question from you? Question: How could you reach the people in communistic countries?

Shri Mataji: Hungary. In a way they are better of, I tell you. I've been to Russia, I've been to Czechoslovakia, I know they are not free, but you see, freedom one should be able to bear it. What is happening to the free countries, if you see them, horrid. If you go to America, you can't wear your watch or bangles. Maybe tomorrow they will pull out your hair also. Such an idiotic country.

So this freedom also human beings cannot bear, in a way, as far as these unfree countries are now. I tell you the people are so simple. I went to China, I went to Russia because of My husband's job, people are extremely simple, the governments are all so horrid. But it will take no time for you ignite Sahaja Yoga, no doubt.

Actually it is already done there in a way. Logically they are understanding it now what Sahaja Yoga is.

So it will come to Russia, it will come to China, from these bigger countries. But what about the free countries first of all, tell Me about them [laughing]. Free it's a license.

It's great because we have people of that quality. What we need is a transformation of human beings.

Hypocrites talk of big, big things, cannot achieve anything in Sahaja Yoga. But the people who believe, not believe but know as an actual thing, that we are part and parcel of the whole, will not think that of one government, another government, they'll think of one world, the whole. All this so-called politics is because we are divided, the nose is fighting, the eyes are fighting, the ears. And when they discover we are one body, what is there to fight? So most of the politics will be dissolved completely, as it is now. Look at us, we have powers, so we are capitalists and we want to give it to others; so we are communists already, we want to share it, we don't want to conserve it.

So we are already doing the right thing, the integration, so all these problems come out of human beings and as soon as they become the Spirit, the problems will be dissolved. The social problems, you see we have already solved so many social problems in Sahaja Yoga. You don't have problems that you normally see, our children are great, our marriages, we are enjoying our lives, it's heavenly. One or two mishaps are there, doesn't matter, but mostly we have a beautiful society, no quarrel, no jealousies, no fighting, no malice, no hatred, nothing. Isn't it great to have such a society and no dictation, nothing, absolutely free.

Question: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Well, what can I do about it.

Some think no end of themselves, some are very superficial, some themselves think they don't need anything, all kinds they are, I know, I agree with you, but it happens.

They say that the advertising done by the Sahaja Yogis sounds like an advertisement for instant coffee.

Shri Mataji: It is instant coffee. But what to do? You see, I tell you, you buy instant coffee, isn't it. Now in modern times everything is instant, so we have instant Yoga also.

It is, what to do. It is, but you see now, you can say that you get it after a lot of sufferings and you have to sacrifice this and sacrifice that, all right, but it is not true. Now, what to do? It is instant coffee. But we take instant coffee, we want everything to be instant in this modern time, why not Yoga? Question: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: So you tell us now how to advertise,... You see that what I'm saying, that's a fact, I really tell, that's a fact. The Kuṇḍalinī I call it the jet Kuṇḍalinī in modern times, really I'm Myself surprised that it's worked, just shoots off, you know. Thousands of people in India, thousands. What am I to do, it works like that, I think the Divine is anxious, that let's have it now. It is. In modern times it's working very fast. Not only Me, ask him, how many people he has given realisation, everyone of them has given to thousands realisation. I mean, seeing is believing. But advertising, we don't know what to say now.

Sahaja Yogi: Perhaps the English word is a little bit slick, a little smart, something like that. Perhaps you mean more profound, more deep. It's sounding like the other Guru.

Shri Mataji: I don't know about other Gurus what they like. Abut why don't you see to it what you should... I've no idea.

Sahaja Yogi: It's written that the time has come the true realisation here and now.

Shri Mataji: So what should we see, what should we say. Here and now it is a fact. I tell you. Now what should we say. All right, is true. But what I'm saying for people to be attracted. What he is saying that when you have to attract people from outside then we should just, try to change it. I don't know what.

Sahaja Yogi [repeats a question]: Is there a certain type, is there a stage when you come to Sahaja Yoga or is it that everybody should be brought in right now. Or do you reach a state in your awareness, where you just come, if the advertising department is good or not.

Shri Mataji: I just don't know what to say on this point because, you cannot say certainly that people have to reach a certain stage, because a person you see, his wife brought him saying, he is the worst man, indulges into this, indulges into that and all kinds of things, bad certificates about that fellow and as soon as he came in, he got his realisation. This is really true, I tell you. People are suffering from cancer got realisation in no time. What is the stage, I don't know. But maybe we can say the attitude towards life.

Maybe the attitude towards life. Say, for example, in the West. I like these BBC people telling Me, that if you say that it is without money, nobody will listen to you. But I can't say it is for money. That's one point.

He said, when you say free admission, he thinks it's useless. The conditioning is so bad, that if you say free admission, he says “Oh, it must be something funny!"

Sahaja Yogi: He said it's the Anglo-Saxon brain.

Shri Mataji: This is what he said: Anglo Saxon brain cannot understand anything without money, can you imagine. He told Me frankly. He said, when you change this. I said, what should I say, I really don't take any money, what am I to say. This is what it is. You see, this is the conditioning of the mind.

In India it is not so. In India if you see from the villages they'll come on mula-bullock-carts, they come miles together they'll walk, when they know, I'm going there. Also the knowledge is not here. They have no background, what I would say. A background is needed or I don't know. But the sensitivity is there.

The Italians did not have the background but sensitivity is there, sensitivity is there.

Worst is in, I would say, in Switzerland or America. It is the worst of all. America felt for all kinds of Gurus but for Sahaja Yoga very bad. I'm sorry. That's hour it is. They don't look at Sahaja Yoga. Now they are, after they've had all the experience of all the Guru shopping, they did. Now they are coming.

They want to do shopping, you know. It's a fashion. Guru is a fashion. It's nothing deep, it's a fashion.

Going to this Guru, that Guru.

So how to talk to them. They have money. They want to shop it.

America was the worst of all, I must say, experience wise, supposed to be the most advanced, most free country. The are the worst of all. But in Austria I've seen the halls are filled, they are full. In Austria we always get the halls are completely filled. Just like also in Italy. I mean the people have to sit on the stairs in Austria, isn't it? We don't have that problem. But getting realisation is not possible for everyone, perhaps.

There's some sort of an understanding needed. I can't explain why. Because the house is all full, I tell you. You see in the halls are absolutely filled. People sit on the stairs, you see some are sitting outside, some are standing on the street. It's there despite the fact they are Saxon brains, he says. Did you write free?

Sahaja Yogi: Yes.

Shri Mataji: Yes, that's it. They'll come around, gradually they will. See they have to learn their lessons a little bit more, that's all. Now you, with you I tell you why. Because you are in the U.N. a big boss there, working in the U.N. itself spoils your head, I tell you. I know, My husband is there.

So I know all of them and their heads get swollen up for see, U.N. personality. Then you are attending big conferences, you see, so-called big, big people you see, big heads you meet. Naturally to be the big head, these things do not go in.

So it's all right, but now you are all right. That is one thing, U.N. people bureaucrats are the worst of all. They will be the last to come to Sahaja Yoga. My husband is a bureaucrat and I hare to deal with them, I never talk about Sahaja Yoga never, never, never...

Bureaucrats they only want to serve government, that's all. They don't understand anything beyond.

So bureaucracy is like that. Now what else you have in Austria: Bureaucracy, then you have military.

Students, they will come.

Question: Why should people worship you?

Shri Mataji: There's no need at all. I would be very happy if they don't worship. But you see, those who worship Me, have found something good out of it. That's why they worship Me. But you know, actually I hate that. I always see to it, that these Pūjā should be so much lengthy, that I have some time to rest. But I don't want them to worship Me at all, it's very good, that's very good of them. I tell you some of them, when they touch My feet, I get blisters. Horrible! As if yesterday. I was telling you like scorpions. I get such big, big blisters on My feet. I don't want them to worship Me, if you ask Me. But they would like to. Because you know what it means, worshipping Me. You all know it very well. Worshipping what do you give Me, nothing. You just say certain mantras, this, that. What do you give Me, nothing. There is nothing to worship Me.

For example, now, see My photograph, this one, is when I was sitting in a village. When I entered the village, I told them there is a very great soul who lived in this village. They said there was one, he was a Muslim, his name was `Mia'.

So I said, now he must have been still here. And I sat down to give My lecture and I saw the Spirit coming as a light of two... hexagons you see on top of My head, I saw it. But you can't see it. I mean, people can't see.

But camera captured it. The camera captured it. And then the sun's rays through that prism, like Spirit started coming as all seven colours on Me. I could see it. I could see, then I was very happy with it, you see, with this report. But nobody could see it. Then I said, “All right, it's more than one's sense of reception, like that” I said. But nobody can see it now, so what's the use of My telling them you should see because you will not see.

So why to tell anybody about My worshipping also, till they understand it.

But the camera caught it, what can I do? Thank God, the camera caught it. I didn't say.

Why do they worship Christ? They've never seen Him. Why do they worship Christ's Mother. They've never seen Her. What did She do, She was just crying all Her life, She didn't give realisation to anybody, even Christ didn't give realisation to anyone.

So, why do they worship Him? You are a Christian, you should ask them a question like that. Why do the Muslims worship Kāba? But in Sahaja Yoga I'm a discovery for you. I never asked anyone to worship Me, never. It's horrible for Me. I'm frightened of people trying to worship Me because, you see, I've to take up everything, to suck in everything of you. They can tell you, that I just don't like it. I want to make a big gaps in-between, so at least I have some time to rest, to suck in the whole thing, digest it and take it out.

So you need not tell them at all. In the beginning you should not tell them anything. Tell them that you are great, come along: Let them have their realisation. Then if they say, then we should consider, whether they should worship Me or not and everybody is not allowed to worship also.

Do you know that Mary, that we don't allow everybody to come? You have to be a clean person, otherwise they are not allowed.

So this worship is your privilege, not mine, by any chance, I tell you. By any chance. At which you will all say, that Mother shuns it, I really shun it. These false Gurus because nothing happens to them, they lit it.

So there's no explanation for this. It is to be seen. Even if they come to Sahaja Yoga they can see it very well. Unless and until they come in it, you should not talk of Me as anything as incarnation, anything, just don't talk. You should not tell them of worship or anything. Just tell them that you have to get your realisation. Let them first open their eyes, then talk to them about this. In the beginning, if you start talking, they'll be stuck no doubt, they are stuck because they've not reached that point. They have to be sea-worthy, to be in the sea, isn't it? Nothing is needed to begin with actually. And I don't want anything, really. If there is anything that is to be done, is to give realisation to everyone, that's all. But to progress further, they have to worship Me. They will worship somebody who is dead and gone. They never worshipped Christ when He lived.

They never worshipped His Mother when She lived. They never worshipped Rāma, they never worshipped Kṛiṣhṇa. Now when they are dead, very nice to worship. But they are stones now, what can they do? That's human nature. When somebody is dead, then perfect joy. The ones who crucified Christ have raised these churches. When a person lives, you see in the present, you never appreciate. Because we don't allow anyone to worship also. It's a very great privilege for anyone to be there, you know that. It's not for everyone.

So many people have been denied in England and all that. Just now you have to prepare yourself, oh no, no, no. Everywhere.

And yesterday I was telling Guido that you should not have brought that lady, she was no good. The one who was your room maid who was pestering you. And I said she was very caught up and you should have not been brought here to the Pūjā. That disturbs Me. It's very significant, but like a person who has to be postgraduate student, to understand certain things. You have to be a postgraduate in Sahaja Yoga to be in a worship. Otherwise you should not.

So you don't talk of these things. They'll get stuck, no doubt. When I've no doubts about it. Anybody would get stuck, because it looks so funny, isn't it, that you worship another human being. It is. It's more to use discretion.

Anybody would be stuck that way, unless and until you are a first-class Sahaja Yogi and you understand the value of it and you have gone deep into it, then only you realise.

It is to be appreciated. I never talked about Me at all to anyone. Never. Till some saints started talking about Me.

Some saints only told some people, that this is this. Then they came and asked Me and I said alright, you find out for yourself. You see with human beings you have to be very, very careful and cautious. I do not want to get crucified, you see. You have to be very very cautious with them, because ego is the first thing they come with.

They don't understand what is benefficial for them. You see what did Christ do to them. Did he ruin them, or do any bad to them. But they crucified him, isn't it. They gave poison to Mohammed Sāhab. Why? What was the thing? Because ego, so you should be careful with it. Even when you write, supposing in your wherever you write, you should write it cautiously. Make it so, that according to your own understanding, that they come to My program. Use your wisdom.

What you want to put it, how to put it. Or if you want to say, you can say, that at the first instance the Kuṇḍalinī rises and then you have to grow into it. If you don't want to say it quick, instant coffee business.

So you may say like this. That might look nice. I would suggest that way, alright? That would help. But with the people, some of them are very deep people, they just get realisation in no time. Because they have been deep people all their lives. Not life, but lives.

So they just get it.

So it attracts people who are superficial, then it's a good thing to say. That may be one of the reasons that only superficials come to our program. We should find out what to write that the deep people are attracted. Isn't it. You should find out ways and methods by deep people are attracted not superficial.

I agree with you, the hall gets filled up, because maybe superficial. Like a sale on. Nobody buys anything, it's just a sale on. Everybody comes to see the sale. [Laughs.] This is Kali Yuga, you see. The confused state. This is the age of confusion. This is the age of confusion, real confusion.

Also some people say, that why should I give realisation. I said better you give, very good idea. I would like to retire. You see this is ego, isn't it. Why should you do it. I mean I'm doing it, because I have to do it, alright. But if you can do it, nothing like it, I'll retire. I will be very happy. I mean My age is beyond now retiring. I would have retired long time back. See going on and on [laughing].

So also you should see the people who they are and then talk to them. You must use discretion, very important.

To use discretion. As he said, maybe some people may not get it in this lifetime. Maybe next time. Also it happens that you see, some people get realisation, say for example and get transformed and become something very beautiful.

Then the mediocres, the mediocre people, you see, may see that and try to follow it. The mediocre may try to follow it. Like when I went to Italy this gentleman who is a very famous person who interviewed Me. He said first you give me realisation, then I'll interview. Because perhaps he believed in Me whatever it was, or may not have believed, might be doubt whatever it is, he got his realisation. Then he started laughing and he said, Oh, so I've got it now. I said yes, you've got it.

Now it is he who is organizing all this.

So may be like this it might forecome. Depends on, you see, human beings are quite complicated in modern times, very difficult to hold on to them. If you should give them this, they will come this way. If you give them that, they'll come this way. Just they don't want to have it. Just some books or excuses, it's terrible. I know. Specially in the west, It's very difficult. Very difficult. But they'll accept something stupid, like punks.

Punks you will find thousands now. People in very high positions are punks now, can you believe it! Imagine our Prime Minister going as a punk. They accept stupid things without any questioning. Think of it. Drugs for example.

They accept it without any understanding, without any asking and very educated highly placed people do it. Absurd things like that. Alcoholism, womanizing, everything, all nonsensical things.

But to do something good to yourself, it takes time. They are very self-destructive by temperament.

To do something nice to ourselves, to get some blessings upon ourselves we are slow. But it will be alright.

They have to learn their lessons, that's all I think. Yes, they have to learn their lessons.

Everyone satisfied? May God bless you.

I'm happy that he is a very wise man. He has done the homework. The other people just came, just like any... you see, that won't work out. It's a very deep subject. It's a very deep subject. You cannot just appear and go out. Isn't it. Steve are you going to talk to some people there in Boston. In this way.

Yes in this way. Really? Good, good.

Sahaja Yogi: All over the world we get thousands of people, we get big press conferences.

Shri Mataji: Australia are very good, Australia are extremely good. Maybe we get superficial things.

Could be.

So we should put something deep in it, because it's very deep experience. It's suggestion you see will be something which explains certain things. They like My lectures all right. They like to listen to My lectures, because you see, it appears on their mind, but they don't get realisation.

So that means they are not very deep people. For example in Switzerland, we put these things. Nobody removed it. It's still there. After three years it is there. It's very surprising in Switzerland where people are so meticular [meticulous]. They have kept My photographs. In Italy also. All My three year old photographs are there.

Italy.

So Italy is there.

Also I must say that advertising, whatever it was, in Australia.

Australia is dynamic absolutely. It's very progressing in Sahaja Yoga, no doubt. Australians imagine, can you believe it that they were sent there as criminals, by their forefathers and today they are the one's to take everyone to Spirituality. Look at that.

So how can you say good and bad? You cant' talk of good and bad! Australia is the best. Australia is the best now. I mean in progress. We have the leader from Australia, Doctor Warren, who started the whole thing and we have James. Has he come? Oh, that's James.

May God bless you! May God bless you!

Contents: 1986-07-08*, Public Program, Day 1, We Have to Reach Our Absolute State, Auditorium Maximum, University, Vienna, Austria

I bow to all the seekers of Truth.

You've already heard about the system that exists within us. This knowledge is the knowledge of the roots. The knowledge that we have about the outward world is the knowledge of the tree.

So to understand this knowledge, first of all we have to use it like a hypothesis. And like an open minded scientist we should try to see if it is true or not. We know that we have evolved from the amoeba stage to this stage, but we have not reached our absolute state. If we were at absolute state there would have been no wars, no quarrels, no fighting. Our consciousness would have been a Collective Consciousness.

Today we see the whole world full of confusion and turmoil. And it is so very shocking to look at the future what are we taking our progeny into. If we understand the dangerous precipices on which we are standing today, we'll think about it: What are we going to give in this generation to our progeny? We talk of peace, but there is no peace in the hearts of people.

So one has to realise that there must be some methods, some more doing needed to achieve that state of peace. All the outward movement you have done on scientific things, on emotional style or anything that you have worked out so far has led us to nowhere. The person who is evolved knows how to relate to other persons. Not superficially, artificially, but innately.

So there is something lacking in these modern times that we cannot relate to each other.

Nations are arguing among themselves, they reach no point which will do justice to our progeny.

So all thinking people have to accept one situation that a kind of a transformation is needed in the human beings.

And we should go out of our country, out of our knowledge to find out is there any solution suggested.

The problem today is that because of religious problems young people don't want to hear any name of prophets, incarnations or any saints. They say, “Forget it." But whatever they have said is the truth. In the essence of it all of them have said the truth. But we are not at their awareness, at the level of their understanding, that's why we have committed mistakes. Let us see what Christ has to say. He has said, “You are to be born again." So there are people who certify themselves `born again' and go about as if they are great yogis. When we baptize somebody that's all artificial. To be honest, when you take some water and put it on somebody's head and say that, “You are baptized” [UNCLEAR it's] not true. But what is the baptism? Let us face it honestly. Is there somewhere else people have talked about baptism? In every religion they have talked about it. Say, in India it is called as Self-realisation, as a second birth.

Like a little egg a human being comes on this earth and then he becomes a free bird. But nobody has tried to put attention of the followers to that, that you have to actualise the experience of Self-realisation. You have to get it on your central nervous system. In your evolutionary process as you have become a human being, you have to become a super human being in your consciousness itself. But nobody has tried to see even that this is what is the prophets, the saints, the incarnations have said. In Koran they have described the Resurrection, the time of Resurrection. pp.after pages they have described more about this period when people will get transformed and they'll be resurrected. They call it Kiyama. Mohammed Sahib has said that, “At the time of Resurrection your hands will speak." How many Muslims have tried to find out about when their hands are going to speak? Same about Hindus. Moreover it is so disappointing that in a country like India where so much has been said about the Self-realisation nobody is trying to pay attention to it. They all believe that Western people are ideal, very happy people and we should try to become Western. You are developed countries, so all developing countries are trying to become like you.

Thus the main thing that has to be done for us today of Self-realisation has no priority. Neither in our individual life nor otherwise.

I'm happy that he has already described to you about the centers that are within us. But these centers, though exist within us, cannot be found out by doctors. Because they are centers of energies. For that you have to become a higher soul to feel them on your fingertips. Then you become the medicine, you become the doctor and you become the diagnosis. To look at Sahaja Yoga seems like instant coffee, somebody said. It is, what to do. In modern times everything has taken a speed and also your evolution has to take the speed. Is very simple to understand.

For example this instrument [the microphone] was formerly made by many people, many scientists, would not work out properly, but today it is perfect and you just have to plug it in and it works like instant coffee. That means, in the modern times you are all just ready to get it. And if you are ready to get it, why should you worry about the time part? If it is quick, very good. I'm Myself surprised the way it works out. Specially in the villages of India thousands of people just get realisation in seconds. Because the Blossom time has come, the Resurrection time has come. This is the Last Judgment. You have to have your realisation because there is no way out. You cannot go further with it. You have to ascend. For that you cannot pay anything. This is one thing one should understand: you can't pay for it. You'll be amazed the BBC people told Me that, “Anglo-Saxon brain cannot understand anything free, without payment." It's very surprising. Supposing we have to plant a seed, how much do we pay to this Mother Earth? What effort do we put in? The Mother Earth has the power to sprout, finished. You don't have to do anything about it, it just works out, the seed is ready to sprout and the Mother Earth is ready to sprout, so it works out, as simple as that. Because this is the force that is a living force. And the happening is a living happening. Of course in the beginning of any tree there are only one or two flowers, but at the blossom time there are so many flowers who can become fruits.

Now, to claim anything about Sahaja Yoga will not be very wise, I think. Because if I say that it cures cancer, you'll start doubting Me. If I say it can cure even AIDS, you will say, “This is too much." If I say it solves your emotional problems, social problems, political problems, you'll say, “This is too much." But who has created the problems are the human beings. And if they are transformed, how can there be problems? If they all become problemless how can there be problems? But it's difficult for Anglo-Saxon brain easily to accept this situation. India had this knowledge for generations. And they had described the personality of a good Guru, called satGuru and aGuru. AGuru means who is not a Guru at all, who has no spiritual powers, who is just a money-maker or a sinister fellow or could be a devil. It's all in details is described. And 1974 in a much bigger hall than this openly I told the names of people who are aGurus. But the Anglo-Saxon brain liked them better than Sahaja Yoga. They all went headlong for them. And today what we find that many are hurt very badly by them. As an Indian I feel ashamed, absolutely ashamed.

On the whole, Indian mind is not money-oriented, it is spirit-oriented. For an average Indian the highest thing to get in this world is the spiritual powers, the Spirit, the Self-realisation.

Even when a child is born they forecast the horoscope, in which they will say, if will get a satGuru or not and also will it be possible for him to get Ātmā sākṣhātkara, which means Self-realisation.

So all this aGurus took full advantage of your ignorance and came down, nicely settled down. But the good about falsehood is this that it gets exposed. But even if they are exposed today the harm is done.

But I feel any organization which takes money in the name of God is a cult. Because it cuts out a person to know anything about others. And put the blinker not to see what you are doing. That we can see, say for example, see the Islam or the Christians, the Spaniards, the way they went to America, can you believe they were Christians? I was Myself born in a Christian religion and I was amazed at the missionaries who would convert people at the point of a gun. Is that Christianity, is that Christ? Without any feeling within their heart, ruthlessly. Absolutely without even having any conscience about it.

So, what are we to understand that did Christ leave those people to spread His name and live on His name, earn on His name and build organizations? Now we cannot blame the young people when they deny God. Because that does not prove that God is good, He's compassionate, He's kind. In Algeria there where 500 young people who felt there is no God.

And they took to communism. One of them by chance came to Sahaja Yoga and he went and told all of them, “There is God. We can prove it now, the proof of God is there." And he gave realisation to all of them.

So, everything can be proved by the ascent of the Kuṇḍalinī. This is the Divine science, but for that you have to be equipped. You have to be graduated first, means you must get your realisation.

Whatever has happened, has happened, forget about it. Now we have wonderful time ahead of us.

We have to enter into Kingdom of God. For that is just a question of few seconds. It is that simple, I promise you, please believe Me. We'll work it out today, we'll work it out tomorrow. There's no end to knowledge. But without the eyes what's the use of talking about the colours? So let us get the Divine eyes, which they have twinkle in their appearance. And then we can see how much knowledge we have missed.

So far whatever we have known was non-knowledge.

Today we have to try for our Self-realisation. For that I have to request you for an attitude. First of all you should not condemn yourself for anything. You should know that you are the temple of God.

You should not count your so-called sins. You must respect yourself and be pleasantly placed. Best thing would be to say sixteen times, `I'm not guilty, I'm not guilty, I'm not guilty at all,' and I'm sure it will work out.

Secondly we should not have any conception about it. Keep our minds open and whatever is the reality we have to see.

If you have any questions you can ask Me before we start the experience, but not too many questions, because we waste our time unnecessarily. Also don't ask Me questions, `What about this Guru and that Guru?' I have nothing to say about anyone, because no controversies. I hope you'll ask Me questions which are constructive and helpful for the collective.

Thank you very much.

Sahaja Yogini: Shri Mataji, she says in order to understand You she needs to find a way to overcome her inner doubts.

Shri Mataji: You see, you have imaginary doubts. Supposing you are coming inside this house you do not know what it is, you see for yourself, you see for yourself. But one thing is you don't doubt yourself, first of all. That's all, that's all. All right.

Sahaja Yogini: Shri Mataji, she wants to give You a letter.

Shri Mataji: Yes, Madam? So many questions are there. Yes, of course. Then can I see him?

Sahaja Yogini: He's in the hospital, Shri Mataji. Tomorrow afternoon he's coming home.

Shri Mataji: All right, I'll send somebody, don't you worry. All right? What's the matter with him?

Sahaja Yogini: Shri Mataji, she says the child has an illness which only forty people have in Austria. And it's something where the whole body starts to disintegrate.

Shri Mataji: Meaning what? [UNCLEAR] won't understand German, but disintegrate means what?

Sahaja Yogini: It's a metabolism illness where the metabolism of the body starts to break down.

Shri Mataji: What's called this in English?

Sahaja Yogi: It's a [UNCLEAR] disease.

Shri Mataji: Ah, all right. It's in Mūlādhāra this problem. We will find out, all right. May God bless you. Such a sweet child. What's his name?

Sahaja Yogini: Markus.

Shri Mataji. Markus. All right. May God bless you! All right, any other thing please? Yes, please.

Please, get up, please. Thank you!

Sahaja Yogini: He's done a mantra's meditation with a wrong mantra and he's got into a deep depression.

Shri Mataji: Of course you will, that's what it is, I know that. That can be cured. You should not do mantras at all. There is no need to do mantras. This is TM you did? Horrible, that one. This man made so much money out of you. Horrible fellow! All right, doesn't matter. You come along. It is easy but you see the [UNCLEAR alternate] what is the reason how it works out is this way that when you are not connected, say, your telephone is not connected and you start using the telephone, telephone gets spoiled. It is much more than that, but I will explain to you everything, all right. You come along.

He is such a fellow that he would give a mantra which means the `tale of a scorpion', inga, in our language, in Indian language, Sanskrit language. Which means tale of a scorpion, for 3,000 pounds. And it was all a big secret.

So you would not tell to any Indian. If you tell to any Indian he would laugh aloud.

There is no Sanskrit word like that. Then he says tinga which means if you show somebody like this, you know, that is it, tinga. What is it, this thing you say? Showing a thumb, yes, can you imagine? All this kind of nonsense, befooling everyone. Useless fellow. I've said all kinds of things about him since long, he cannot prosecute Me at all, but people don't listen to Me. If he prosecutes Me I'll expose him in the courts, but he does not. None of them do that. Would be nice if they prosecuted, isn't it? All right, don't you worry, we'll put you right. What else? There is one lady holding her hand. Yes please.

Sahaja Yogini: Shri Mataji, she said when You came into the room, she felt such a strong feeling that her heart even started beating and she did not hear anything about that in the introduction.

So she is a bit worried, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Such love! You must have known Me before.

So kind of you.

What else? Yes please.

Question: Shri Mataji just spoke that the Self-realisation doesn't take long time to understand or to know it. If Mātājī explains the way of realisation [UNCLEAR] questions can be understood.

Shri Mataji: Of course, of course. Of course, everything can be explained and not only but you can give realisation. You become the yogi.

Question: That's [UNCLEAR subsequentive] of the question.

Shri Mataji: Yes, but what do you want Me to explain now at this time.

Question: At this time the way of understanding the realisation.

Shri Mataji: All right. It is a good question, you see. The way of realisation is that there is a Kuṇḍalinī within us. All right? That's what he has explained to you, he told Me he has explained.

There's a Kuṇḍalinī, the power within us.

Question: Excuse me, Mātājī, the thing [UNCLEAR what] was explained that was in German and I'm sorry I did not understand anything.

Shri Mataji: That's not good, then you should come to My place, I will explain you everything, because it will be quite a big thing.

Question: Can Mātājī give time?

Shri Mataji: I will of course, why not? The time is for you. Any time, tomorrow. You live here? Question: I am here, Mātājī, whatever time...

Shri Mataji: All right, all right. That's an Indian, that's an Indian, you see. I know he might not have understood in German language, but it's all right, you can come and see Me sir. All right? Yes, please?

Sahaja Yogini: Shri Mataji, he said you spoke about Christianity and he said that people shouldn't feel guilty, but he says that Christ said we must feel guilty, we must...

Shri Mataji: Never, never. Never, never, He never said it, it is Paul. Never. Christ, why will He say? You see, He was crucified for us, He suffered for us, isn't He? By His sufferings all our sins, He said, will be forgiven, isn't it? It is Paul. You follow Paul more than Christ. Because Paul was a Jew and Jews did not want to believe that Christ suffered for us. All of them are following Paul, not Christ, nowhere. And Paul, who was not a realised Soul, he was epileptic, he had killed so many Christians and then suddenly he is in the Bible.

All right. My child you have to be happy and joyous. Good. I am sorry, I had to say this about Paul, but it's a fact. It's all misrepresentation. To such an extent, you'll be amazed, that bishop of Durham has said that, “Christ had no immaculate birth out of the Immaculate Conception." These theologians, what are they going to understand about God? You cannot discuss about God, can you? And then he was very much honoured by the archbishop of Canterbury in a church in York. And the lightning hung over that church and burned it completely, the top of it. And then when asked why this has happened, they said, “God has been very kind not to burn the whole church." Do you know the area where the prostitutes of London live, called Soho, is all owned by Church of England? And when the question was asked to them, “Why should you own this?" They said, “We are looking after women who are like Mary Magdalena” taking their money all right. Any intelligent person should understand this is absurd. Christ has said, “Thou shalt not have adulterous eyes." And they are owning a place called Soho in London. How do you explain all this nonsense? All right. Yes, one more. Not too many, one more there, yes please.

Sahaja Yogini: She says that Christ took the sins very seriously, Shri Mataji?

Shri Mataji: Yes, He had to. But you don't understand Christ that way. For such people it's just a play. To know Him first get your realisation then you will really fall in love with Him. Even the Jews who are Sahaja Yogis, even the Muslims who are Sahaja Yogis, even the Hindus who are Sahaja Yogis now understand Christ. They understand Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, they understand Śhrī Rāma, they understand Mohammed Sahib, they understand everyone very well. Christ has said, “Those who are not against Me are with Me” who are those? But He was allowed to live only for three and a half years. What can you do in this little, short time? I was struggling with seven hippies for four years in London. It's not easy.

They are difficult people.

One more, please. Yes, please.

Question: How do you see the woman in the future of this world?

Shri Mataji: Great. Women should not try to become men at all, it's horrid. Woman is a woman in her own dignity. She is like the Mother Earth. She does not know her powers that's the only trouble.

There is nothing to fight with men. We are like two wheels of one chariot; both are equal but not similar.

A woman is definitely much more dynamic than man, if she knows her powers as a mother.

Question: What do you think about the Kuṇḍalinī meditation techniques of Bhagwan?

Shri Mataji: Bhagwan? All nonsense. I will not speak about that at all because it is just the opposite.

Now I'll tell you one thing, the technique part of it. That you will see here clearly, that the red spot that you see is the Mūlādhāra Chakra. This is the Chakra which controls our pelvic plexus which also controls our sex. Now it is placed lower than the Kuṇḍalinī, if you see clearly, lower than the Kuṇḍalinī.

So when Kuṇḍalinī rises, all sex activity stops and you become like a child. You become innocent because this is the center of innocence. That's why Christ has said, “You have to be like children to enter into the Kingdom of God." He is just the opposite. Logically you must understand. Scientifically you must understand by doing sex activity, who has ascended in evolution? We accept everything nonsensical very easily but sense we do not want to accept.

Question: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Little bit stop because she has to translate. What is he lecturing?

Sahaja Yogini: He is asking about Christ again, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: He's giving Me a lecture or what? All right. Forget about it. All right. What else? Yes? He's gone [UNCLEAR away]. He came to give us a lecture or what? Now, what is it?

Sahaja Yogini: He says, Shri Mataji, if the Kuṇḍalinī is lifted and one of the Chakras has a problem, could the person be damaged by the Kuṇḍalinī coming to this Chakra?

Shri Mataji: No, no. It's correct, your question is all right. Please be seated, I'll answer it, all right.

If the Kuṇḍalinī rises She nourishes and soothes the Chakra. She is your redeemer, She's your comforter, She's your mother. She is your individual, your own mother. She will never damage, on the contrary She'll sooth. We have very wrong ideas about Kuṇḍalinī. She has loved you all your lives and She is waiting for a chance to give you your second birth.

So there's nothing to worry. There have been lots of funny books, I know. I don't know why they wrote such funny books without knowing anything about Kuṇḍalinī. Now, last question. One. One more. One question from someone. Just a minute now, let it be. All right.

Sahaja Yogini: Shri Mataji, he said he might not have problems to love one person, but when it's a large mass of people and they seem to behave in a petty way then he finds it difficult to really love the masses.

Shri Mataji: Correct. What you say is true. But you are not the only one who will get Self-realisation, there are thousands who get realisation. And you become collectively conscious.

So you know the person whose Chakras are catching, whose are not catching. And you can help the people to improve their Chakras.

So there is nothing like absolute bad or good for you then. And you can't help loving people who have the same awareness as yours. You must see the Sahaja Yogis from the West go to India in the villages, the way they hug each other, love each other and such pure love. No more pettiness left in them. No racialism, no [UNCLEAR cast-ism], none of these things of hatred. It's a pure race of pure people.

Now, one more, all right? This is the last.

Now we'll do one thing: You ask Me the question today, please, but then you can write, others can write the questions and give it to Me. Tomorrow, I'll answer, otherwise what about realisation then? Question: What is your relationship with God?

Shri Mataji: I think, you should not ask just now this question, you'll better discover it. No use telling.

Very dangerous. When Christ said, “I am the Son of God” you crucified Him. And when Mohammed said that He is the prophet, they gave Him poison. Even in India many saints where tortured because they were saints. I want to live for some more time.

So I will not tell you, but you better find out. But of course there must be, there's no doubt about it.

Can you ask, can you write it for tomorrow, Madam? All right, very kind of you. All right, let's have our realisation now because, you see, the time has come, very good time now. It will not take more than ten or fifteen minutes. But those who want to go can go. If you want to go, say, for a five minutes or so outside, you can go and come back. It will not take more than fifteen minutes. But don't disturb at the time when we are about to raise the Kuṇḍalinī. And I would request you not to sit here, those who do not want to have their Self-realisation, because that embarrasses other people. In any case, we cannot be forced. You must have free will to ask for it, it cannot be forced. Your freedom will be respected. But you must also respect My freedom that you don't disturb us.

There's one more thing. I would request you to take out your shoes and touch the Mother Earth, will be a good idea. And to put both the feet parallel to each other. During this time you have to keep your eyes shut. Please don't open them. Because the attention has to be taken inside, like the Kuṇḍalinī when it pushes in, the attention is sucked in like this.

So, if your eyes are closed it is better.

So by telling you how to awaken your Kuṇḍalinī I will tell you what Chakras to be touched with the right hand. Which is very simple. First I'll show you and then I will later on close your eyes and then I will tell you, one by one. First you will have to put your left hand towards Me. And the right hand has to be put on the heart because in the heart resides the Spirit. Then you have to put your hand, right hand...

Then we put this right hand in the lower part of our abdomen on the left hand side. Here it is the Swādhiṣhṭhāna Chakra. Then we go back again and put the hand on the left Nābhī on the upper portion of the abdomen, on the left hand side.

Then we take our right hand to our heart where the Spirit resides. It's the Anāhata Chakra, on the left hand side. Then we take this right hand on the left hand side of our neck, here and turn our head. This is the center of Viśhuddhi, which is harmed when we feel very guilty all the time. Just now it's horrible.

And just now you are all feeling guilty for nothing at all. Again I request you not to feel guilty. Then we have the Chakra of Āgñyā here, which we press it like that with both the sides of our palm from here and here, like this. Now we put our hand back on the back Āgñyā and push back our head like this. Now we stretch our palm and put the center of our palm on the fontanelle bone area, which was a soft bone in our childhood. And now press it hard stretching your fingers, seven times. That's all.

Then you start feeling the Cool Breeze coming out of your head, which we will do now.

So please close your eyes. Forget about the past, forget about the future. Don't feel guilty.

Now, please put your left hand towards Me and right hand on the heart. Keep both the feet parallel on the ground. Please close your eyes and don't open them till I tell you. Now, here resides the Spirit.

So now you have to ask Me a question, closing your eyes, in your heart a question, you can call Me Shri Mataji or Mother, whatever suits you, “Mother, am I the Spirit?

Mother, am I the Spirit? Mother, am I the Spirit?" Ask this question three times. Three times please.

Now, without opening your eyes put your right hand, your fingers, in the upper part of the abdomen and press it hard. On the left hand side. Now, here ask a question in your heart three times again, which follows the first question that if you are the Spirit you are your own master, you are your own Guru, you are your own guide.

So please ask a question again, `Mother, am I my own master?' Three times please.

With full attention, with concentration you have to ask this question.

Now, please take your hand in the lower part of your abdomen on the left hand side and press it hard.

This is the center that works out all the Divine laws. This is the center that gives you the Pure Knowledge.

But I cannot force you, as I've told you before, you have to say that you want Pure Knowledge.

So now please ask in you heart, `Mother, may I have the Pure Knowledge?' This you have to ask six times because this center has got six petals.

With this asking your Kuṇḍalinī starts moving. Now raise your right hand in the upper portion of your stomach on the left hand side. And press it there. Here with full confidence you have to say, because this is the center of mastery, you have to say, `Mother, I am my own master.' Say it ten times, please.

[Shri Mataji blows into Her right hand and Her left palm.] Now raise your hand to your heart again. This center has got twelve petals. Here with full confidence again you have to say, `Mother, I am the Spirit.' Twelve times, so the Kuṇḍalinī rises through this Chakra.

Twelve times.

Now, please raise your right hand, left hand towards Me and right hand on the corner between the shoulder and the neck and press it hard and turn your head to the right. Please take your hand across.

From right to left. And then turn your head to another side, right side. Now, here with full confidence you have to say, `Mother, I am not guilty,' sixteen times.

[Shri Mataji blows into Her right palm and on Her fingers.] If you still feel guilty, some of you, you can say it, to punish yourself, 108 times. I've told you, you have to be pleasantly placed towards yourself.

Now, please place your right hand on top of your forehead and here you have to say, `Mother, I forgive everyone.' And press it on both the sides. It is not how many times, but from your heart please say, `I forgive everyone.' People say it is difficult, but it is a myth. If you forgive or if you don't forgive, it is a myth. But when you don't forgive you play into wrong hands.

So please put your hand on top of your forehead across and press it on both the sides and from your heart say, `Mother, I forgive everyone.' Now, take this hand on the back side of your head and put your head upwards. Press your head upwards. Now for your own satisfaction you have to say, `Mother, if I have done any mistake please forgive Me.' From your heart. Now, raise your hand and stretch your palm and please put the center of your palm on top of the fontanelle bone area and press it hard, on top of your head, seven times. Now here you have to say,

I cannot force you, you have to ask, `Mother, please may I have my realisation.' Or, `Mother, please give me my realisation.' Please say it seven times. Move it clockwise.

[Shri Mataji blows into the microphone.] Take down your hand, please. Please put both the hands towards Me. Please open your eyes. Please open your eyes slowly. Now, put the right hand towards Me and with the left hand you can feel on top of your head, is there a Cool Breeze coming in. With the right hand towards Me, right hand towards Me, with the left hand. Little higher, about four, five inches, some people get it here also. Higher, higher, higher. There's a Cool Breeze. Don't doubt yourself, put attention here.

Now the left hand towards Me and the right hand on top of your head. There may be little heat coming, doesn't matter. Little higher.

Now the right hand towards Me and the left hand.

You may put both your hands on top of your head like this. And ask a question, `Is this the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost? Is this the Brahma Shakti? Is this the Divine Rūh?' Now please, take it down. See for yourself, do you feel Cool Breeze in your hands? Little higher. Now watch Me without thinking. Can you do it? Got it! Those who have felt Cool Breeze in the head or in the hands please raise both your hands.

Look at that, Austria. Great! So many of you! You'll feel very peaceful tonight. Don't discuss it.

Some did not feel, all right, doesn't matter. But don't discuss, don't talk, anyone. In silence you go and sleep and tomorrow again you come. We'll have to give to those who haven't got it and those who have got it will get it fixed. Also call your friends. Those who haven't got it should not feel disappointed, they'll all get it. But don't think about it, because you'll lose your vibrations, you'll come down.

So may God bless you all!

Contents: 1986-07-09 ORF Interview, About the Early Life, Vienna, Austria.....

Shri Mataji: So now, you want Me to tell you about My life.

Interviewer [lady]: Yes, because the program is called Mansion builder.....

Interviewer [man]:

Shri Mataji: I can follow you very well.

Interviewer [lady]:

Shri Mataji: Oh, I see.

Interviewer: .....

Shri Mataji: Life? Interviewer: .....

Shri Mataji: The name of the program is? Interviewer: .....

.....

Shri Mataji: It's a good thing, because I have to go for that interview in Italy, it's a good preparation I mean for that, because I really don't know what to say about My own life.

Interviewer: I hope still you will speak a lot about your whole life. [Shri Mataji laughs.]

Shri Mataji: I'm a story teller [laughs]. It is something like an autobiography, isn't it? Interviewer: Yes. [Pause.] OK.

Question: [UNCLEAR]. Can we start with Your childhood, where You can describe a little bit the circumstances where you grown up?

Shri Mataji: My family? Question: Yes.

Shri Mataji: I belong to a family of very enlightened people. My father was a linguist and he was a master of fourteen languages. He knew about twenty-six languages and he translated even Quran-e-Sharif into Hindi language.

My Mother was in those days was a honours in mathematics.

So both were very well educated and enlightened people. At the time of My birth My mother dreamt something which she could not explain, but after that she had a great desire to go and see a tiger in the open field. My father was a great hunter because tigers were a menace in the area where we were living. It was a hill station called Chhindwara.

So there was a king who was very much interested in My father.

Somehow or the other a letter came that there's a tiger, a very big tiger that has appeared and they are frightened of him that he might be a man-eater.

So My father took My mother and Me to that place and they were sitting what we call as a machhan, where they built something, for people to sit on top of a tree, from where they can shoot nicely. And then My mother tells Me that a big huge tiger of a very big size, very beautifully appeared on the field and she felt tremendous love for the tiger.

It was a full moon day and she felt extremely compassionate towards the tiger and when My father raised his gun to shoot, she stopped him. She wouldn't allow him and the tiger went away and he never came to that forest again. But that made My father think, because he himself was a realised Soul, that must be somebody, what we call a Goddess Durgā who is fond of a tiger must be born to My mother because the symptoms were rather funny that a lady should like to see a tiger.

So he told My mother, “Now are you satisfied?" because they were struggling with a gun.

He said, “Is there a Durgā sitting in your womb that you are trying to protect the tiger?" She said, “Yes, yes, so stop it now. I won't allow you." Like that there were many incidents in My life because I am of a Christian family, Protestants and when I was born My mother didn't feel any labor pains or anything and just I was born, she didn't know how and I had no blood on My body, nothing. I was clean washed. That's why they called My name as Mātājī Nirmalā Devī, but My grandmother said that She should be called as Nishkalaṅka, that means the one which has no spots on it, but that's the name of a man.

They said, “All right, we will call Her Mātājī Nirmalā Devī" meaning the same, Immaculata.

Now all these incidents and then My Father being a realised Soul he felt tremendous vibrations from Me and he felt that this life is great and She will do something great in this life. I do not know why, but I don't know if he dreamt or he understood it, but all the time if I remember when he talked to Me he used to say that, “You have to find out a way of giving en masse realisation” all the time.

As I told you he was a great scholar of so many things and a very widely read man.

So, he gave Me a good education and religion, different religions and also good education about human beings, what are their problems, why they react like this, why don't they take to God, why are they hypocritical. All kinds of things he talked to Me.

He also knew about Kuṇḍalinī, but not so much. Of course, when I was born I knew about Kuṇḍalinī.

Myself. I knew all about it from My very childhood. I was a very aware person, extremely aware. I didn't know whom to talk to because, see, people didn't have that awareness. You can't talk to everyone like that.

So I was regarded as a very jolly person, at the same time very serious, also very deep and then I started My studies as a child.

I was not very much interested in the studies but I used to do very well, but I used to read lives of great men and things like that. At a very young age I read Bernard Shaw. When people were reading just Great Expectations, I was reading Bernard Shaw. But as such I didn't have interest in particularly reading some text books because I thought they were childish and there is nothing to read about it.

Then I told My father that “I have to do medicine." He said, “Why?" I said, “Because I have to talk to doctors." He said, “You have to talk to doctors." “Yes” I said.

But it so happened in My childhood when I was about seven years of age, My father was a congressman, he had joined Congress when I was four years of age.

He used to live with a style, very westernized. His clothes were stitched in London sort of a man. We had governesses and all that. He threw away everything and he became a real Indian and started leading a life of a martyr.

Then he made us study our languages, Sanskrit. He made Me study in an Indian school, not in a missionary school, because missionaries were very unkind. They threw us out of the school when My father was in the Congress. They were against us completely. Then at the age of seven years I happened to go with My Father to Mahatma Gandhi. He was about seventy miles, living with us, but the first time he took Me down and Mahatma Gandhi liked Me very much and He said, “Leave the child with me." So, I had not even taken clothes or anything. I stayed on; then My Father sent Me everything with him.

And he was very fond of Me but I was a little girl but he understood that there was something about Me. He consulted Me on very serious problems, sometimes surprisingly. Like one day he wanted to make the Prayer Book all right.

So, he asked Me, “How should I put the series?" and all that.

So I told him how to put the series and he put the series in that way. I used to go back for My school and again go back to Gandhiji every year like that. And he called Me Nepali, given Me a name Nepali.

Everybody used to call Me Nepali that time.

Then I grew up with him very intimately. He was a very, very kind person for children, otherwise an extremely strict man, with himself and with others, very strict, a big disciplinarian and he would make everybody get up at four o'clock, have your baths, everything and be ready for your morning prayers at five o'clock, you see and he used to walk very fast. I also learnt walking fast with him in his company.

You had to walk fast. And extremely loving and a very nice person and he would listen to Me because I was a child, you see. Supposing I forced him to eat more or something, then he wouldn't laugh and he would accept. Very kindly person. But with others he was very strict and I used to tell him that, “Why are you strict with everyone?" He said, “But you are a little girl. You get up in the morning time. Why can't they get up?" I said, “I am little. That's why I get up. They are big; so they can't get up” like that, you see, little chats.

And then My father went to jail and My mother also went to jail five times. My father went to jail twice, once for about two and a half years and he was the only supporting member of the family. By the way, we come from a very old royal family, which is called as Shālivāhanas. They have a Calendar also in India. And then when they, I mean when they took My father to jail, we had to leave our house and we had to live in huts and in all problems that was nothing. But also Me they pestered a lot because I helped many people there and I joined the '42 movement in a very serious way and I became the leader here for the young people. I thought unless and until I take a very positive stand it may not work out with them.

It's not gracious to say how they tortured Me, what they did to Me, but they really tortured Me. I was a young girl of nineteen years that time.

It is over now.

So, it's finished and after that we, My father went to jail again and then when he came back he got elected as the member of the Central Assembly, later on at the Constituent Assembly and then at the Parliament. My brother was also a member of the Parliament later on. Now recently he was the Minister in the Cabinet. Another brother is a High Court Judge in Bombay [Mumbai]. They are all well, despite the fact that our parents neglected us in a way because they gave their lives for the country but, you see, that never deterred us from studies and we came up very well.

Then when I was in the '42 movement, you see, My college rusticated Me, from the college they threw Me out and I had to go to another college to study far away from My house, in Punjab. There I studied for two years, Science I did, then I did My Medical. I didn't do fully because just after that the '47 riots broke out, so our college was closed and I didn't want to know more because what I wanted to know I came to know about it.

So I did not need and I got married.

You must have heard My husband was, is now the Secretary-General of the International Maritime Organization. He held very high positions. He was also Secretary to Lal Bahadur Shastri who was our Prime Minister, who was a another very great man but he did not survive long. If he had survived things would have been different, I think, for our country because he was a Gandhian, out and out Gandhian and he lived like an ideal Gandhian personality.

So that's how life went on. But inner being was still seeking the way and methods of giving en masse realisation.

My father said, “Before you do not develop this technique of giving en masse realisation, don't talk of religion. Let nobody know that you know anything about it because they'll crucify you” or he was rather worried that people won't understand or, “You may write another Bible or Gītā. No use. First of all you must give them realisation. If they get their realisation then they will realise that there is something about, about this human awareness." For example, he always used to give an analogy, supposing you are born on the tenth storey and everybody is on the ground, you must at least make them climb two stories so they know there is something above it; otherwise, no use talking about it.

He said this is the mistake between the saints and the incarnations was that they never realised that these people are still on the ground. They have to still enter into the building, so that is what you have to be very careful that first of all you must give realisation to people.

So I was seeking the ways and methods, working it out inside Myself through My own style of meditation in the sense that I would work out all the permutations and combinations. Supposing I met one person, then I would see what problems that person had, how you can overcome it like that. I would try to study that person internally. And I went to many people to find out but I found that they were great hypocrites.

I saw so many of these Gurus. Most of them I saw them, I was surprised; they were all hypocrites, moneymaking and this thing and also I went to Rajneesh also to see him. Then he said that I should come to his program. I did not know what sort of man because he was talking about Gītā and big, big things. I thought he might be knowing something about it.

I went there, but My husband said, “No, I'll not allow you to go to his camp." So he arranged his own bungalow and all that for Me there.

So I went down there and there I could see all the things that were going on and that is the day somehow or other I said I must open the last Chakra.

So the last Chakra was opened.

And I saw the Kuṇḍalinī which is the Primordial force within us, which is the Holy Ghost within us rising like a telescope opening out and then I saw the whole thing open and a big torrential rain of breeze started flowing through My head all over, as if and I felt I am lost now. I am no more there. It's only the Grace is there that is there. I saw it completely happening to Me.

And but I was amazed that when I went to Rajneesh, you see, because before going I have to say goodbye. He never realised what had happened or anything.

So I was surprised. I said, “This man [Rajneesh] doesn't know anything about God” and then I discovered that they were all hypocrites and telling lies.

So in 1973 [1970] this happened, on 5th of May '70, 1970, 5th of May and just after that I, we had a very big lecture in Jahangir Hall. There is a very big hall and thousands of people had come. I told them very frankly that these are all thugs and these are like this, hypocrites.

Some of them are demoniacs.

Some are evil people. I took their names, everything. I told them, “Don't go near them." There were some foreigners also and the and there were so many others whom I told these things very clearly and they got frightened and they said, “You shouldn't say like this. They'll come and murder you.

They'll,." I said, “Let them come and murder Me." But nobody did anything. Nobody even went to the courts.

And that's how, you see, they tried to bring bad name to Me. They paid money to the newspapers to publish things against Me because I said, “You cannot pay money." So they thought that I was just trying to, see, harm them by saying such a thing that you can't earn money in the name of God.

If it's a job you can do it, but God's work is not a job. And the struggle started from the day I started giving realisation and I started with one lady who got realisation first. Then we got about twelve people who got realisation. In two years I got only about fourteen people realisation. Then gradually when fourteen people got realisation then many others started getting realisation.

But I started also curing people because that was helping a lot. Then My husband got elected to this post and we had to come to London.

So when I came to London we had one program in Bhartiya Vidyā Bhavan. They arranged it.

So the Indians abroad are not so much interested in God; they are more interested in money.

So none of the Indians stayed there. They all ran away and only the foreigners who were there, were about seven hippies.

So I had to work on them, seven hippies. For four years I was working on them to give them realisation. Very difficult, you see. Their liver was bad. They had ill health.

Their head was off [laughing], terrible times, but in between I used to go to India and in India also the work was done. For three months always I would be in India.

So we started working in the villages, specially surprisingly where My forefathers were ruling in that area. The work started moving in a very big way. And there then we started taking some people from India.

Some people came from Australia to India like that and the work started moving in those directions.

Then gradually the work improved and people found that this is the way we can transform ourselves.

Many people who were taking drugs or alcoholic or mad people or cancer people, they felt better. Then they got cured and it was established that Sahaja Yoga is something very important.

Now when I travel all over the world, you see, first My husband used to pay for everything. Wherever I went he had to pay all any expenses. He used to do for Me. Gradually, then, now these people pay for My travel, but otherwise they don't have to pay for anything else.

That's how we started our work. There was lot of opposition and the media people would never understand it because it was no such a sensation as you can say nothing to people feel excited, but in a way it's a very great thing because if this is the solution for the whole world one should try to do it.

Then we had very great people who came to Sahaja Yoga, like, you can say, the Hague High Court judge who is now the President, who has given the Nicaragua this thing judgment and many lawyers and many barristers. We have one barrister here from Algeria and doctors and then they took over and they started helping Me out how to propagate Sahaja Yoga.

But it was a difficult task in the west. Of course, in India it spread very fast in the villages but city people in India also are westernized and they start analyzing. They don't know much about our past.

They don't know anything about our heritage, that we have our Kuṇḍalinī and all that. But some people do know about Self-realisation. But these Gurus could not stick on in India because nobody would accept them.

So they all run away abroad. And that was something a blessing for Me also because I didn't have to fight and it started working out and then people found that it helps in every way and they found so many miracles about it and that's how Sahaja Yoga got settled quite a lot.

But still I would say that we have not been to certain countries so far and in the west I would say that so much work has still to be done because as soon as you start any work in any place, first of all they want Me to cure people and to help them with curatives. Now if I pay attention more to that, then the main work is to create doctors out of everyone. That is neglected. Then you become unpopular. They think, “Oh, She is not sympathetic" and this and that. But now as we have everybody can cure now everyone, I don't cure anyone directly. But they don't like it. They want I should be there and then you to be pampered and all those things are there, rather difficult.

It's not that we are not running an election, you see, like we should please others, sort of this is not there. Whatever is the reality, if a person has intelligence, pure intelligence, he can see that this is something very different and for that one has to understand that you cannot, you cannot force on anyone that you get your realisation. In the same way you cannot force Me that I give you realisation because if it does not work it does not work. It's such a living force, you see and that upsets them very soon.

I feel that the way this industrial revolution has come in the west, people have lost their moorings.

Perhaps they are so confused. With all these Gurus coming down here confusing them and all kinds of new things coming, they don't know where to look.

But unless and until you get your evolution completed, unless and until you reach that absolute state of understanding, the chaos will remain.

So one has to try to get to that. But one must understand you can't pay for it. There is no effort. After getting realisation they feel so satisfied that they forget about it. But after that you must know how to give it to others, as Christ has said that the light which is enlightened, you do not put it under the table.

That's how what happens that, though we gave realisation to hundred people, only out of that five to six will come forward to help us out. But still I must say lot of work has been done, especially Austria.

I am very proud of Austria and they have never given Me any problem, never and very good people have come out of Austria. Very balanced, level-headed people, very level-headed. They are not extremists.

They do not go to extremes. There is no fanaticism about them. They are sensible people and something so lucky that Austria was found out because I never expected that in Austria there will be so many people, but somehow like water finds its own level, Sahaja Yoga finds its own level. We just came down to Austria.

We haven't been to Norway, to Sweden, Denmark, Finland. I visited those places because of My husband's job but I have not been there.

Now we have sixteen centers in Australia and Australia is a very progressive Sahaja Yoga thing.

We have got schools now there. They are running schools and the teachers are extremely well-behaved and visionaries and they look after the children very well. The Government people sent somebody for observation and they have remarked that whatever they proclaim, that's what they manifest and they have given good certificates to us.

But the greatest achievement on the outward life is this, that Cambridge University has accepted Sahaja Yoga for a research work with respect by one Doctor Lee who is doing the research work on Sahaja Yoga in Cambridge University. He is already a Doctor. And there is another great thing has happened, in Delhi University that the Delhi University has accepted that a person can do, only a doctor can do, a Ph.D. or we can say the Doctorate in Sahaja Yoga and he gets the highest degree called the Doctor of Medicine and perhaps maybe after sometime they will allow anyone to do that. This is about the medicine part of it.

In agriculture we have done lots of research, Myself. We have somebody here, an expert on agriculture.

He has also done lot of research and we found out that with vibrations we start after realisation if you vibrate the water and if you water the plants with that then sometimes you might get even ten times more breed. That's what they did in India in one of the Agricultural University, but here also he's found out that there's tremendous difference between the growth of an ordinary thing.

Another thing we have found out in agriculture, that if you give vibrations then even ordinary cow can give lot of milk. But if you have hybrid cows then, you see, it's not good for the brain because a person who takes hybrid milk also gets hybrid. I mean, his brain becomes little wobbly.

So better to have a pure milk from a cow which is not been put to this kind of a experiment.

Moreover, food also; if it's hybrid food it's not very good for us because that spoils our nerves, I think, but ordinary seeds you cannot use because they have weakened and they cannot reproduce.

So when we vibrate them they produce very well just like, better than even sometimes, hybrid thing and the food it tastes very well and doesn't give those complications.

So this can help in agriculture in India and the government has allotted us lot of land and we are going to now experiment and we are going to start the experimentation there to show that how we can use this. But many farmers who are Sahaja Yogis have done a lot of job and they have discovered that even animals and this, what you call farming, everything is helped very much by vibration.

So it improves the lives of people. We have on the other side, social side, I can tell you that we have our marriages, international marriages. We arrange international marriages between people. They have to know each other and they are together and first of all they are together for one and half month with us in the tour. They see each other and their marriages are fixed. We have seen that such marriages are extremely successful. Ninety-nine percent marriages are successful. Once in a while, maybe a mishap, but mostly there are no divorces that take place. Once in a while if it's not successful we have no objection to divorce also, but mostly it's successful and they get children who are very intelligent, who are themselves born realised mostly.

So the problem is much less and the family life improves. The quality of life is thousand times better.

People are very joyous, happy. They do not complain and they enjoy life and they give to other. They share what joy they have.

So...

Question: May I ask You a question? What do you think are the important points in the education of children? What are [is] important to be given to the children?

Shri Mataji: You see, first if they get realisation, to get first time to that point of realisation, if they are already born realised there is no problem, but if they are given realisation then, you see, they start seeing from a different level. They become the spirit so their self-respect, you see, awaken. Such children behave in a very dignified, elderly manner, you see. They talk in a very elderly manner and they give solutions of all kinds, you see and they are tremendous people. But we have to guide them properly by our own behaviour, how we behave. The greatest thing is, how we behave, that's how the children learn.

We put the children certain to some tests, how they are. We find out if they have any physical problems; we cure them. They have mental problem; we cure them. If they have any other problem, social problem or anything, we try to help them out, so that basically if a human being is all right in the childhood, then fundamentals are all right for the child. The foundation is laid down. Then to build a child up into a good quality is not difficult.

So now we find great artists are there. There are great musicians and at a very young age they started playing violin and suddenly they become very dynamic also and very humble.

They are very humble and self-respectful and very well-behaved. Surprising how the atmosphere is and how it works out.

On the other day a lady asked Me about the women and I told her that a woman's power as a mother is very great. She felt hurt about it. I didn't mean that you should be just a mother. What I am saying, she is a mother; then she is compassionate, she is kind, she is not aggressive like man. That is a very big quality. That is a very big power in a woman. That is what I was suggesting that and that is what we have to understand, not to compete.

So, see we have to understand that life has to be enjoyable. Life's to be a blessing, not to be a misery.

We create our own miseries by these false ideas, by our own conflictions we have in our mind, mental projections we have in our mind, or our own obstinacy, whatever it is. All these things can be cured if you take to Sahaja Yoga because you become a balanced person, level-headed, wise person. And you become a witness. The whole thing becomes like a show, like a drama and you become fearless and you start seeing the whole thing like a drama and this is what a human being has to achieve.

We talk of peace. We talk of no war. We talk of many things like this, you see, atomic bomb, this, that, all that are not going to work out. Only what is going to work out is the transformation of human beings. If the human beings are transformed things will work out absolutely first class. Not only that, but that they will enjoy the bliss of life. We are missing the point altogether! This is a very important thing that human beings must say, one thing:

what have we achieved out of all these things? Just for a minute to stop and think.

Question: What is the definition of illness? What is the causes of illness?

Shri Mataji: It's the physical, mental, emotional, all illnesses are caused by the imbalances within us, by our extreme behaviour and supposing say now the cancer. We can take the cancer. Cancer is caused by the over-activity of the sympathetic nervous system. Now supposing a person is a very sad person. He cries and weeps and all the time feels guilty and thinks that he is the worst person ever born, he's committed so many sins and all sorts of nonsense, you see. Then he goes to the left side, according to us and crosses over to the collective subconscious area. And there, according to us, what they called as Protein 58 and Protein 52, doctors call it that way, but we call it as the dead souls; they exist there and they catch hold of you and they trigger the cancer.

But supposing by any chance you can bring the attention fully away from that in the center you can get cured.

So it is the centers within us which are subtle, which are basically seven centers. There are many others, but basically seven. If you can put them right, you cannot have any sickness or illness of any kind.

Question: Back to your childhood. Can You explain, Your parents supported You very much in Your learning and in Your studies. It's correct?

Shri Mataji: Yes, yes. Of course.

Question: Is it normal that parents support their child like You and Your family?

Shri Mataji: In India, all parents support the child.

Question: And you can learn everything what you want to? Yes, yes, I mean, that is true. But you see the basic thing is parents are very benevolent to children, very kind to children and to them you see the child's education, child's upbringing and child's life is very important. That's why we know they are, so we depend on them, they look after us and they are very wise people. They sacrifice everything for us.

So, whatever they say we think it's nice and by doing this we have not lost anything so far.

In India if you find Indian children when they come abroad they always talk the least anywhere. They are very obedient children and they behave very well. We don't have all this problem, teenage problem, homosexual. We don't know even all this problems are because we are so close with our parents all the time. They all the time watch us. We don't have drug problem, none of these. Only in the cities little bit it happens and it disappears because parents are all the time with their children. We live together. The whole family lives together. And not only with the parents but all the relations and all the people in the village and the city, everyone knows each other. Such a joint system we have that we do not normally, sort of, go into wrong ways and methods and we do not become obstinate also.

Question: But, You grew up in a Christian family in India. It's not a normal situation, that in India people are Christian.

Shri Mataji: Yes, I know it is. You see, I was born in a Christian family deliberately, because I think, you see, I personally think that Protestants are the greatest fanatics. Because they are very sophisticated you see their fanaticism is in their brain. Nobody can make them out that they are fanatics, but they are very great fanatics, the greatest of all.

But My parents were very enlightened people. They understood Christ very well. Yesterday I told you about Paul, you see, when I was, first time I took the Bible in the hand and I asked My father, “Who is this Paul?" He said “He is an intruder. Forget him. Don't read him at all." So you see they understood all these things very well and because My father was a realised Soul like Khalil Gibran, you see, if you read Khalil Gibran he says the same thing about Paul, the same thing.

So you see if you are an enlightened person you see the essence of everything. Whatever religion you may be born you don't ignore any other religion. You try to learn about other religion and you find the essence is the same in every religion. What is there to fight? And that's how you belong to no religion, you belong to every religion. That's what happens.

But My parents were very enlightened people, I must say and I was very lucky to choose them as My parents.

Question: You have been an enlightened child, is it correct? You had been an enlightened child?

Shri Mataji: Yes, I have been born as an enlightened child.

Question: But You don't feel sometimes very lonesome because all the others are different?

Shri Mataji: No, no, that is, you see, if you know how to share with others. Actually I was like a mother to them from My very childhood. When My father, mother went to jail I was, first time I was about, I think five and a half years of age.

So I had all the keys of the house in My little frock thing and I used to carry all the duties like a grand mother. I never felt lost. I mean, My life is on the whole is very collective. By temperament I am extremely collective.

I can live anywhere. I can sleep anywhere. I can live in the jungles. I have no problems with that. I am extremely collective. I am not exclusive by temperament from very childhood. I was very friendly with all the people in that area where we were living and My mother was known was Mātājī Nirmalā Devī's mother, Father was known was Mātājī Nirmalā Devī's father.

So they said, “We have lost our identity because of Her." So I was a very friendly person. I never felt lonely and when I am with Myself I am never lonely at all. I enjoy Myself very much.

Question: When You had been to the ashram with Gandhi, You know, can You imagine one or two impressions You remember about Gandhi?

Shri Mataji: Oh! Gandhiji was a tremendous man when I used to learn a lot from him. He was not at all a hypocrite. That's one thing and he was not like modern politician who says something, do something. No, he was very outspoken and always put himself on the testing point and he used to confess if he made mistakes immediately.

One very great incident I remember when I was a small child. They were having a meeting together and we girls were there only sitting giving them water and things, to all the people. All the big people were there, like Jawaharlal Lal Nehru was there and also Maulana Azad. All these people were sitting there.

They were discussing something and then suddenly Mahatmaji said that, “Now it's very late. We'll have lunch here." So they said, “Yes, yes, we'll have lunch here." They had to go to the guest house which was far away.

So Mahatmaji asked for the Bā, his wife. She had gone out.

So he got up. He had a key with him, you see, always of the store room. He opened the store room and he asked the people who were in charge of cooking to measure everything according to the people there are, properly and everything, you see and then he went. They measured it out. Everything was done and then he put the key back and then he went and sat there nicely.

So these people said, “Bapu, we did not know you had to take so much trouble, you see, to go all the way, to measure everything out for us." It did not take much time, about fifteen minutes, but still.

So he said, “What do you think? This is the blood of my country. I cannot allow it to be wasted." See, that's the sign of a person who understands the value of public money. That's just ingrained in him, but those who saw him also felt that, look at this man who is living like a ascetic, absolutely in the sense that he would not touch the public money. And that is one of the keys for all the leaders. If they are absolutely above money, then only people will respect; otherwise, there is no way out.

But you find these days in every country so much of corruption, hypocrisy, you are really shocked.

Question: What do You think is the reason of all these corruption, of the political instability?

Shri Mataji: It's ignorance. It is ignorance. They think by having money or by having big position or by having a big name they'll be happy. They'll not be happy. Only the ego will be pampered. When it is slightly hurt, a person will be unhappy.

So he'll be going into from happiness to unhappiness. But when he gets the knowledge that it is the spirit which is the source of joy, then he doesn't care for money. He doesn't care for all these things. He is not afraid of anything. He lives like a Lord himself. He is a Lord, doesn't want anything, you see. You see, the one who is the Lord doesn't want anything.

For example, now, as you know, I come from a rich family, My husband from a rich family. He's now well to do. We have a very comfortable living, but I can live in a, on a street, I can sleep on a street because I am like a Queen. I don't need anything. If you need anything then you are a beggar, otherwise you are a King, isn't it? That's what I feel.

So that is what is the ignorance.

Once they know we are just fighting our ignorance then they'll give it up. It's nonsense. It is nonsense and it's not at all joy giving. Your virtues are very joy giving. If you know about your chastity, or you know about your honesty or if you know about your straightforwardness, it's very joy giving. You feel so confident, so happy and such a person never tries to harm anyone, to be sarcastic with anyone. Such a person is absolutely free, I should say, because he has no bondages of any kind. These are all bondages which bind us and we become jealous and we become greedy. We become lusty. All this is nonsense.

It's to be just seen after getting to your spirit that the light shows, that these are all like snakes, you see. They are crawling upon us and we are holding on to snakes. People when they die, you see big, big people I have seen, people tell about them, in the history they go down as horrible people. In the history they are described as people who are hypocrites, who are cruel, who are very, I should say, adamant type and all kinds of things is described. Whatever is genuine remains genuine.

Question: You never, don't feel frightened?

Shri Mataji: No, I don't feel frightened. I don't know anything like fear. What's there to be afraid of? I am never afraid of, because if you believe and you know definitely there is God all over, there is nothing to be afraid of. He looks after you every moment. Every minute, wherever you are, He looks after you. These people have had so many experiences of that.

There was one girl. There was a Sahaja Yogini and she was driving somewhere in Germany on an Autobahn and there were so many cars were with her and suddenly her brake fail and the car started going this way, that way. She didn't know how to manage it.

She said, “Now, what to do?" She just, she had another one also with her.

Both of them, they said, “All right, let's close our eyes and think of Mother." They just started thinking of Me and said, “We'll not be afraid. Just think of Her." And suddenly they found that their car had come to one side of the road very nicely without any scratch.

So, see, it is just our fear that makes us more frantic and stupid. There is nothing to be afraid of. It is to be seen how God helps you, but people don't want to take His help, you see. Then God says, “All right, then, go ahead and break your head. What to do?" Question: Sometimes other people are helping.

Shri Mataji: Yes, then you should know how to handle them. You see, for example, yesterday that fellow came. You see, he just became like a beaten up dog. You saw him coming and saying something to Me which you never heard. But they belong to a cult, some sort of a cult, you see and they always oppose us. They are some sort of Christians.

And when I was in Geneva, one of the ladies, all, you see, dressed up in a very fashionable way, she came to Me with a Bible in her hand to hit Me, you see. And everybody got frightened that now she is going to beat Me. This woman walked with big high heels upon Me and they thought she'll do something to Me.

As soon as I saw her with a Bible, you know, I started laughing, absolutely. I couldn't bear. I thought, “Such a joker she is. She is coming to hit Me with a Bible. How can she do it?" And she got worried about Me that I am laughing so much. It's all on the tape and these boys were very much frightened. I said, “It's perfectly all right” and she ran away because she saw Me laughing. I just couldn't help laughing at the joker, the way she came to hit Me with a Bible. Imagine! So this is what it is. If you are afraid then they sit on your heads, but you should not be afraid.

There is a Chinese story that there was one King who took two cocks for fighting [UNCLEAR to fight these].

So these two were standing there, they wouldn't attack anyone, just standing. Everybody was attacking. They were just standing. Everybody got frightened. All the cocks got frightened and ran away and these two were standing...

Contents: 1986-07-09 Talk to Sahaj Yogis, Advice on Small Children, Ashram, Josef Melichar Gasse 20, Vienna, Austria

... children which are going to the Primary Schools. Even those who are not going to Preschools are the small children when they are born and that's the time one has to be much more important because that's the time they are the most impressionable is when they are born. I have given some instructions for the children, how to do all the things when the child is born, how the mother must be respected for forty days and how the child must be looked after and massaged and all those things, I hope you have got all these things with you. But certain thing in that I didn't mention which are like medicines and things like that, simple medicines that should be given to children. The reason is, your thing was prepared by Lewis and I couldn't tell him all that. But, for example, a very simple thing is like this.

Supposing they are boiling the milk for the baby with some water, if they are mixing up water and milk.

Then the problem is, if you separately boil them and mix, then the child will get cold and constipation or maybe diarrhea but mostly constipation and cold and nose will be always running.

So basically you give a child a problem, that this cold might continue forever.

So what you have to do is to boil both the things together, together. Start from the unboiled state to the boiled state, boil it, fully boil it, it is not that you put it to a temperature, but fully boil it. Then keep it in a thermos ask or wherever you want to put it and that milk can be heated together and given to the child, whenever you want to put it and that milk can be heated together and given to the child, whenever you want. If you want to put it in the fridge you can put it, but the water and the milk must be boiled together, that's the point that is very important.

Then I have also seen that some children have very thin body, very low weight, some children have.

So we must immediately find out if the child has got liver. Could be the child could have got this liver in the hospital, because they are born realised children and in the hospital when the child is born there might be hepatitis going on or something. Children will catch this and they get jaundice and things. Now for all these children there's a very good medicine is to boil the radish leaves, put some candy sugar in it and give that as a medicine and don't give water to little babies, up to a point, you see, say about, say about when they are about six months or so. In the water you can give that radish leaves, even earlier you can do it. You warm it up a little bit and give it; you can mix it up with candy sugar, the taste may not be so good, but it's the medicine for the children, for small children.

Because, if you do not give them proper liver in childhood, basically they'll always have this trouble.

So try to soothe their liver by saying Chandrama's mantras and put the left hand on that and try to soothe it down and take vibrations from the photograph and see that the liver of the children is down. Now, when liver is out of this thing, then children have one problem is that they don't drink milk enough, then they become thin children and the face looks little pale also and when they have an inactive liver then they get rashes very easily. When the liver is inactive and for that you immediately must start them on calcium.

If they start getting rashes or any kind of a this thing then you should start giving them what you call calcium. And this calcium can be in any form, but in any case if the children are getting rashes and all that, you should also give them Vitamin A and D, A and D.

Through adoxylene is one very good thing for children is, the adoxylene, is the oil of the shark, shark oil. And you take the spoon and fill it with milk and put one drop in the center of the thing.

So when you give it to the child he takes it as a milk but it goes, the drop inside. One drop is sufficient, in the morning or in the evening and that at very young age you can start adoxylene, a very young age, it is very good for Vitamin A and D, it gives them good bones and good body. Now we find some children are rather skinny type, their muscles are not developed and for developing better muscles nothing like massage, with say olive oil or something. Give a good massage, plus this adoxylene. Massage is important, with olive oil, the body should be massaged with olive oil, but the best massage is with ghee or butter, not on the head. On the head should be done with say any oil, best is of course they say so, that best is coconut oil because only on the head; but on the body should be of ghee or butter, is the best massage for children because it has Vitamin A and Vitamin D in the butter. Butter is the best thing for the body and nicely rub it in the body, it's very good and the skin becomes very nice.

Question: Also common butter or must be ghee?

Shri Mataji: Better is butter, normal butter. But it has smell that's why, but you can mix some saffron in it or something to smell it better because butter has it's own thing, they use butter it's very good for the children. On vibrations you should correct them first of all see, so the child should be very healthy. Must have lot of health and muscles developed and it's a modern idea that the child should be thin, he should not have any fat, isn't alright. But that is the time the child accumulates fat and later on he grows on that fat, it's like a food to the child.

So this idea that the child should not have any fat, it is modern ideas, will make people very very weak you see, this will make them very very weak.

So that's not the thing, the child must look healthy and must have fat and also must have proper muscle development.

So that is important and for the bones I told you, you have to give children what you call a lot of calcium for bones. Calcium is important, in any form.

In India you get very nice things, calcium of which one year old children love it you see, if you give them they will go on eating and eating that calcium up. But there is one thing called `calcarea carb' in the homeopathic which you can use, if the children like also. Homeopathic is good for children but you must have a sensible one to do it you see, sometimes these can have a funny effect.

So `calcarea carb' they use for calcium but if you can get calcium nothing like it. But calcium is there in milk and the milk can be, if it is too much, what you call buttery or anything, that should be removed. It should not be fatty but it should not be absolutely devoid of fat, that's the point is; should be a little fat there, plus the milk, that gives them calcium also.

And putting them in the sun, in the morning time. You see you need not open the doors, but just keep them, just keep the door closed and when the sun is coming, in that sun just to rub, for small children, rub nicely on their body this butter and put them in the sun for a while, but not their face or their head.

Even face for the Western people is alright because you like a complexion which is sort of little brownish; so it's good for you, but not for Indians, Indians will become black.

So best is olive oil or anything you massage on the face and they'll get tanning permanent, they don't have to go for tanning anywhere, so it's very good for that.

Now all these little little things I didn't say but for childhood it is important to see that you develop, give them basic good things, is one of them is very good muscles, very good bones and very good liver.

Now there are some children who are born alright but because of their mothers or fathers being very overactive; they develop a new disease called over-activity of the child.

So such a child must be immediately removed from the parents, especially from the mother, because they get if from the mother, you can find out from the character of the mother and should be sent to some other ashram to be looked after, so that the child doesn't get that influence on the thing and then try to put everything that is possible to put his liver right by putting some ice on the liver or things like that and putting left to the right, left to the right; that's the way you should cure, because this is a terrible disease that has started now, all over the world, the over-activity of the child. The child cannot sit for one minute, he runs about. It can be also with bhoots, if there is a bhoot also the child cannot sit for five minutes, you see the bhoot makes him run out, go here and go there and the other could be this; but that you should verify on vibrations, what is the thing is. Accordingly the child must be treated, so what the purpose is that we must give very basic beautiful foundation to the child so that later on his health doesn't bother.

Start your children as when they are very very small, as very precious things but it should not be all the time clinging to the mother, sitting on the lap of the mother all the time because then the child will never grow. The child should not be allowed to be carried all the time and you must note it down how much time the child has been on the lap, with others also. The child should be on the lap of anyone.

Altogether say it sleeps for about more than twelve hours; more than twelve hours it sleeps.

So at the most one hour in the morning and one hour in the evening, altogether, it should be in the lap of the mother and it should not be hanging to the mother all the time or clinging to the mother, it should be away because the heat of the mother's body is much more than that of the child and that generation of heat you see, because the heat always passes to the less heat so the child's growth becomes stunted.

So the best thing is not to allow the child to be with anyone, anyone of us, the child should be put on the cot or should be made to play or it should be made to lie down on the Mother Earth anywhere, wherever you want to; but not to touch the child too much; that is important.

But there's one thing more that you see, the child should be nursed by mothers but you should find out if the child is full or not by giving him bottle little bit in between. If the child sucks in the milk then you should know that the child is not fully fed. You should not just depend on the mother, little bit start giving the bottle, from the very beginning, so that you will know immediately if the child is hungry or not.

If your child sucks in quite a lot of milk, then know that it is not sufficient and then you see, then the child also will take to bottle very easily. Later on you won't have problem forcing the child, from the very childhood the child should feel the nipple so he know's that it's an artificial one, doesn't matter, it takes it.

Otherwise when they are grown up they will never take it. But the nursing of the mother must be stopped at ten months at any cost. After ten months they should not be nursed from the mother, so gradually the mother must also take a detached way of the whole thing and should get rid of nursing the baby because if you nurse the baby further with the mother's milk it's not that nourishing. Our milk should be first of all tested.

Some milk will suit one person, another milk will suit another person.

So when you are testing the thing then you will know that this milk is alright for the child, only you use that. Milk is the only nourishment, as you can see clearly now so you have to be careful about boiling it, keeping it clean, very important. There should be a ritual taught to the woman when she is pregnant. You better have classes for this to the women, how they should be.

Now, cleaning of the child, how to clean the child because Indian girls don't know your modern methods you see. You use these plastic things and all those, we don't use in India. But personally I don't like them Myself if you ask Me. It's very funny you see, you tie the child, you tie up the child with say plastic and the business is in the plastic, which are giving the rashes. You can have rashes, you can have anything.

So in India, what we do is very simple, I don't know if you can do that. You see before tying any plastic or anything to the child, what we do is to use another thing from the sarīs which have been used, cotton sarīs you see, now you will be having lots of cotton sarīs which have been discarded from every tour and all that. You wash them nicely and just take a square, not to stitch or anything, a square of the cloth.

Now see if there's a square of a cloth I can see here, there is a square. Now the square of the cloth not stitched anywhere, is taken like this and is just given a little knot here, that's all and napkin is formed. If there is a knot, then we put the child in here, you see and we put a little cotton in for the child in front.

Then we push this in from here and put a knot there, just a knot, no stitching is done. Take this inside this you see, it is stitched, not stitched, it is knotted, a little knot, you can stitch it also if you like and then tie it. And this nappy is very easy to wash and should not be disposed, you can wash it again and again. The more you wash it the softer it will be for the child. But this will not allow another plastic to touch the child you see and the child should not be too much in the plastic also.

So the best thing to do is for about three months of old child, should be given a prentice of how to use a potty. You see if you try to make the child understand to use a potty, you don't need that.

But till three months a child, this thing is very important for Mūlādhāra. You should use cotton, cotton is better for Mūlādhāra. These hard things that you use for the child just crab him down, is very bad and also one of the reasons is, if you dress the Mūlādhāra like that then it goes on sides and that creates other problems.

So best thing is just to make it a soft thing like that, push it inside and make a nice knot here and keep it soft for the baby. And the plastic should be outside or rubber or whatever you put on, should be outside, but that too for a short time, not all the time, it's very common here and then the baby, you see, when he wets also you don't change. He goes on wetting, three times, five times, six times, it's all there, imagine, acid, imagine that acid that is there, that burns that soft skin of the child. Every time a child wets in India we remove it and put it off, because we never use any plastics. Immediately the child wets it we know. And what we use instead of the plastic below this, a kind of thing called as `bogadi', which is nothing but a thing like this, a towel like that you see. Cloth only and stitched together.

So we use this to put the child all the time so that down below the thing doesn't get spoiled. And below this they use a mackintosh or something. But child bearing is easy, but giving birth to a child is difficult and all ladies must know that these are realised Souls and they have to be given proper attention for three months.

It is difficult to look at because it's not very handy, but three months the women must look after the children very carefully you see.

So this is what these small things I didn't tell about the very small children which are there. Then at that age, at that small age, everybody will not touch the child, that's not proper. You must wash your hands, lifting the child, be careful, till three months. When the child is three months old then, then it can be given to other people but even it it is given, is just given in the lap, even earlier, covered up properly then and given, so that nobody touches the child as such. And kissing and all that should not be done of the child. At the most you can kiss on the head, here or here, so far away so that it doesn't go into the body of the child or something. And then when the child is three months old, then you give the child to others but be careful how you handle the child.

Some people really don't know how to handle a child. The way they lift the child they pull both the arms like this and lift it, never lift the child so. Always put your hands around on the sides and lift the child, like that, always.

So, putting the arms like that and lift the child or always like this, never never with the hands like this, it's important because there's one very serious thing develops which Westerners do not know. When this bone goes out of order, we call it `hustly'. You see, `hustly' is an ornament we wear up to here. When this goes out of order it sort of dislocates this bone and the child, the child cannot suck in mother's breast, he cannot suck in the nipple or anything and this is difficult to set in.

But that is, can be taught to you, how to set in, if some child is like that I can show you how. Is that you put the child on the ground, put this foot on his bottom like this from the pressure and take both the hands and bring it down from their shoulder, the child will cry a lot. Four, five, six times, seven times and you will here a sudden sound. But in India they are experts, they just lift the child with the head and pull it down.

So it works out but that's an experts job so I will not say it but you can do it like that. Then the child starts taking milk, if the child doesn't suck the milk from the mother, if it starts crying sucking the milk then this is the problem is, one should know.

So that is a thing which Westerners do not know, I know for definite they do not know.

There was a westernized Indian lady, her child had this problem, they went to America, they went everywhere, they said this is some disease we do not know, they gave a name of something. I said it's very simple, you bring it to Me, just put it right. He said “Is it Divine work" and I said “No, it's manual” it's manual. We have to see the technique. No, you see, you cannot show because you have to put the foot to his bottom and all that and then pull him down you see, like that. Sit on the ground yourself, put this there. No, no, no, the shoulders, you pull the whole shoulders forward, the whole shoulders like this.

The child has to lie down and when you pull it, the child will move so you have to put your foot on the bottom to hold that with your leg, like that.

Then there's another thing which I do not know if you people know about children. It will be a boy or a girl but mostly you find the mammary glands working in them, their breasts can be filled with milk, the children. They have breasts filled with milk, small children. This I don't know if you people know, they cry and weep and you don't know.

So if you press their breasts a little hard, you'll find the milk coming out of their breasts. It is very common, every child practically has it I think.

So what we do in India always when the child is born; you see we call them as midwives but they are wise, they are old ancient type of ladies you see, they know this job.

So they press the breast and the milk comes out of it but you see later on it dies out. I mean they cry, weep and then it clears out but then they can develop troubles of the breast or of the lungs with that, you see, later on.

So basically, it should be cleared out in childhood, this is very important.

And then there's another thing which perhaps you people do not know. We put the very clean thumb, make it also antiseptic with whatever and press the tonsils on both the sides and also on top so that, I have no tonsils, I never get tonsils trouble.

So tonsils can never grow after that, just tonsils cannot grow and this upper; what is that called, jubila, that also doesn't grow, so you don't have that problem. It's a very simple thing is to be done to children. Nor for the eyes to be cleaned out properly and kajal must be put. Now to make a simple kajal what we do is to burn some camphor and collect the camphor soot on a silver plate, silver plate is cooling. And then mix it up with some nice butter, clean butter, or ghee, ghee is better, with ghee, very clean nice ghee, you mix it up. And then put it under water, let the water clean it for some time and then when it is completely drained out, the water will not stick because it is all ghee, then put it in a proper thing and use your, this finger, every day for the child. After bath, every day because that will give them a very sharp eyes and there won't be any problem of the eyes for quite some time.

Question: Morning bath or evening bath?

Shri Mataji: Morning bath, we don't give evening baths in India, only morning baths, we give, but evening what we do is to give them a nice massage before sleeping and put some powder, clean the body and make them sleep. But while putting the powder you must remember, the powders here are no good.

We have very good powders in India, very simple, because we don't have chemicals, thank God.

So before putting the powder, put something on the face so that they don't breathe in the powder, of here. But powder, I gave you the other one, the Indian one you see, sandalwood powder; so simple to use, doesn't dry the skin, no, no doesn't dry. Thank God we are not developed to have chemicals, we haven't got chemicals. Our soaps do not have chemicals, our toothpastes do not have chemicals. We don't have chemicals, they are very expensive. This is an advantage in a way, now people should realise in India but they would like us to take soaps from England, toothpaste from England; they don't use Indian things.

Yes and these tobacco or all tobacco scents are from tobacco; all these things are. Even most of your scents are like that, I think 99.9 percent scents are made from something very filthy. And for children, don't use plastic bowls, plastic, these things, cups and that, not plastic. How long does it take you see, in our family, for every child we would have one silver bowl, one silver thing and a silver spoon, that's not wise. But if you say, have one, then we give as a present always a silver spoon to the child. But supposing in the ashram someone has a child, then that can be kept cleaned out properly and that.

But supposing somebody is a badish women; badly, like Jane was, Gavin's wife and she had this; for Olympia, though Olympia has cleared out herself, but she made a crib for the child and the same crib was used by Djamal's child and the child was all possessed and I went to see the child. And I was amazed, I said what's happening, why is she crying so much. He said, I don't know Mother, when you came, since then she's crying so much. Then I felt the vibrations and the crib had horrible vibrations.

So I asked whose crib is this and they said this belongs to Jane, I said throw it away and I sent another crib; throw it away I said and I got also luckily a beautiful crib for them, crib is a swinging thing and they threw it away and the child was better.

So for a realised Soul you must see the vibrations of the whole thing.

So this is for very little small children. Then you have got children who are in Montessori, I mean, there is so many things that will be coming up, you see, like nails, how to keep them clean, this, that. But very much attention is to be paid for three, three year old and the mother must be absolutely dedicated to that. She should look after the child and all that. But that does not mean that mother should be attached; should not do anything else but child has to be attended to. After that you start your say, at six months you take your children for or 1 year, two years old, Question: To the Montessori?

Shri Mataji: Yes. Two years.

So till that, two years of age, you see, it is sort of a creche condition.

Then in the creche condition the children should talk to other people, call them uncle, auntie or respect of this thing, respect of Pūjā, everything of Mātājī. If you like that, till two years of age it will be great.

Now what I have seen now is that in the beginning we look after the physical side of the child very much, but physically, they don't understand at that time the emotional style so much, but physically they should be looked after. Later on, the ego part is to be looked after, that's the time they develop ego, between say three months and two years. Ego starts developing more, starts developing, I'm not saying developed fully but it starts developing from that age. Because if you give and give bottles to the child, or something like that, it starts.

So you have to love also because emotion is there, emotional side is there very much at that time.

So you give them love but also tell them to respect, respect you, respect elders, respect Mātājī, respect themself and that, respect is to be taught at that age. Once they start doing Namaste and once they start saying good morning at that age, little little things you see and you sort of reward them for that and say “Oh very nice, say good morning” then you can give a kiss for that.

Then they understand this is something good is happening. That's the most impressionable age as far as the respect and the nobler feelings to be developed at that age. Like you give to him, then give the child to another one, then another lady looks after the child, the child becomes everybody's property, not your property. See then the child you see sort of starts developing that collectivity and also Mūlādhāra.

Because, you see if you are just used to one person as a mother, you see, anybody else you come in contact after puberty has a sex feeling. But if you are already touched those noble feelings at the innocence time then you don't have this nonsense.

So just allow the child to be sat with everyone, talk to everyone but still sleeping in the parents room.

So the child should be allowed to be slept alone but in parents room till the age of two years in any case.

But not with the parents, that's a wrong idea, because the poor child can get crushed or anything can happen better to keep the child till two years in another crib. But when they are grown up, say after two years or so, they can sleep in another room together in collectivity, all the children, but somebody should be there, an adult, to see how it is. Then they should not belong to anyone personally. Let them be together away from the parents, that's important. After two years, try to keep them more away from the children, more from two years. Then by the time six years they become independent children, they start, but respect elders, calling everybody properly, talking to them, very behaved.

So after six years of age they are really mature, good children, after six years. Then they take to their education, you see. But it is said till five years that you can beat your children in case they are not good. If they are naughty, you should take them in a room and tell them once, that if you don't behave properly, we will beat you. But talk to them separately, not in the presence of others, not to shout, don't do that, not that. That should never be corrected, the child should never be corrected in the presence of others.

Take him to the room and tell him, `See now, we are going to see Mātājī, now Shri Mataji is the Goddess, you have to behave like that. We are going to go to their house, you are not to ask for anything, you have to keep quiet, you have to behave.' And that is the age when you can start telling them what is self-respect is. They will think you are a son of a beggar, if you start begging things they will call you a beggar. We should behave like people with dignity, you are like a king now, you are a realised Soul, all these ideas should be pushed into their heads at that age of six years. And I think this is why Indian children will never never ask for anything, no question. He might be a beggar's child also, he will never ask, give me this, give me that, it is never so, howsoever it may be tempting for a child. And for parents also, they behave like that, don't trouble parents.

Then another thing is asking questions, by children, it should not be allowed, at all till six years, they should not be allowed you should tell them something and asking questions should not be allowed, so what is this, what is that, not to be allowed. If they say anything, `you'll understand this, you'll find out yourself,' very important. You should not allow them to ask questions. You give them questions, you hear their problems, but don't ask them to trouble you so the habit will not develop. Now the, you see like Western habit is funny because they become liabilities on you all their lives, they're liabilities, “what to do, how to do it” because they don't know, they have not found out, that's the age they start finding out how to do it, how to manage it, how to work it out.

So the tendency is more to do it yourself.

Now, they are reliant in the West I would say, as far as earnings are concerned, the boys and the girls can go and sell newspapers and earn money, that's all. That Indians will not allow their children to do, that is not prestigious, that the child should go and earn, that's not prestigious. But, what is prestigious for them is that the child goes and asks for something from someone. I mean is absolutely, I tell you.

Even supposing now if you have a father and you are yourself fifty years of age and father is 70 years of age, now take that age. Now, if the son goes and asks somebody for borrowing money and not the father, then for it is, he might commit suicide in India, that's just, they can't stand it. Why didn't he ask Me? Or supposing, even if you know your father doesn't have money but you have to ask him so that he will arrange money for you.

But that helps because they are self-respected, respect of the family, respect of the whole generation is meant in that see family as such. And you just don't talk about your family to others, you don't talk about your problems to others. You see many problems are there, so it's good, we'll manage. It's not a very regarded very dignified to talk, “Oh I had to sell my watch, to get my food or something" in India.

Here it is regarded something very sacrificing and all that, your so pure, it's surprising. When they have money they are all the time saying, “Oh, I'm so poor, anyway I have no money, I'm so poor, this is that I have debt." But in India they will never say so, “Oh we'll manage." You tell them you see, I want to have money for that, “Oh, no we'll manage Mother." But now Sahaja Yogis are doing that, I see, Sahaja Yogis are like that, “Mother we'll manage, we can get it, we will arrange." But normally you would have said, normally, as Westerners, `We haven't got money, you see, we need money for this, money for that, money for that', always they come out with problems, normally, normally. Because I watch these films and all that and still surprised.

So, this is how is to be taught at that age. What is to be taught in what age, we must know. Supposing you start teaching them self-respect at the age of forty years, you cannot. Even at ten years you cannot, it has to be done from two to 6, sense of self-respect. Sense of cleanliness, sense of neatness, sense of discipline.

Two to six years is very important, I think that's the most important time because the first three months they are breast fed, from three to two years they still are sort of you see in between state. But two to six years is absolutely the time [Sanskrit]. At the time when the pot is now made but is not yet put to the firing thing, you see we put it in the thing. Before that, whatever impressions you put on the child, that will be, in the same way, but it is first of all before the pot is made, that is till the two years of age. From two till 6, that's the time you fire it, but before firing you put all the impressions, after six you fire it, but before that you put all the impressions then fire it. That's how it is.

So it is a very simple thing to do, it's very creative to make Sahaja Yogis. It's the greatest artistic thing to be produced, is a human being. That's the greatest thing God has produced also, the human being. And to make human beings something great, is something. At this age you can also find out their talents, the childs talents are, their talents. You can discover it very easily. What are his interests are, if they are musical you see, as soon as the music starts he will start to see the rhythm and all that, in dancing, in anyway. Whichever are their talents should be discovered and should be encouraged from the very beginning, they should be encouraged and one-sided whatever it is, don't force everything on every child.

But that person is very good at handicrafts, let him do the handicrafts. Every knowledge is at par, there is nothing that this knowledge is higher that knowledge is higher in Sahaja Yoga. Because this is all AVidyā in any case. It's all AVidyā in any case. It's only you have to know the technique. How to produce what you feel, that's all. And that what, when you are learning there's nothing higher and nothing lower.

So every, whatever the child likes, let him do. Let him manage and everything can be reached. Say some children are fond of say cleaning the rooms, keeping everything clean, cooking alright. They can become hotel managers, they can run hotels and they can do all these things.

Children, you see, their aptitudes are such like. My granddaughter, the elder one, said you see, “I want to be an air hostess or a nurse” so I said “But why, why these two professions." She's very clever, very intelligent. I said, “Why?" “Because that's the only profession into, in which you can give food to others to eat." And they play also with that you see and them become nurses and that, they should be given food, you better eat, otherwise you'll be sick, this, that. It's so sweet, you know that thing, these are the only two professions where you can give food to eat to others and they are so sweet and I've seen there aptitude is like once their mother said, “If somebody comes you must make them sit down and give them to eat, open the fan and make them feel comfortable." So our wash-man, doby, came you see and they said “you better sit on the sofa” and he would not and they said “you better sit, you have to sit on the sofa” and he would not sit and they opened the fan and opened the fridge, whatever was there they brought for him, “You better eat." When My daughter came in, she saw them, so he said, “What am I to do to stop them” she said, “It's alright, you better eat” she said “eat with them." And when they give something to others you must always praise, teach them to give, that's one thing in Indian character, you see. Supposing our children give away anything to anyone, anything, you praise that child, even say a diamond is given to another person, to any other child, we praise the child.

But the mother will return the diamond, it's different, but we'll praise the child alright, very good thing, you have given. Giving is a very big quality. That's not in the west, I mean you are rich people but the style of life is very different. I was, we are poor people, we are better than you in this way. I mean, we are rich in heart, I thing, isn't it, that's the thing, you see. Sharing, giving, that's it, you see. Toys, now for example, the children who just give away all the toys are better children in India and those who don't give away their toys keep to their's at all times are not good children.

You see like this Bhavani's case, I must tell you. I asked all of them, how is Bhavani, very sweet, very sweet. Alright, that's very good and when she came to Me, I said, “Bring Bhavani” you see she had a back Āgñyā like a coconut stone.

Soon as I saw her I said “I'll go blind with this." Little thing like that as if a big cunning woman had taken over her and so cunning her ways were, so cunning for a little girl of two years, none of us could manage her. She would not say Namaste to Me, she would not say good morning to Me, she would not look at Me, she would just walk like this. We tried for five days, we could not work her out, this Bhavani, horrible thing, she had no respect for Me at all, then she came down and I just thought of one thing.

So I said “Bhavani, really now, this is My house, this is not your house, this is My house." She was taken aback. “Now when you go to somebody's house you have to say good morning." So she, first time she said “good morning." “Now you have to say Namaste” and she said “Namaste." She was thinking that I was living in her own house or something like that attitude. They are very tricky, very cunning, these bhoots are very cunning. She knew how to handle things, there was nothing natural in her but nobody could make her out, can you imagine.

Of course, before Me, shot off like anything, because her father as soon as he came he sat down right there and I said “what's the matter” and he said, “I don't know why Mother, I'm catching here on the back." So children can be very very cunning if they are bhootish and extremely clever, they will say “Oh I don't know” see the vibrations. You must see their vibrations, they'll end up with cancers, I'll tell you, or with lunacy. This girl might become, she's already schizophrenic, already she is schizophrenic and John is the father whose so much worried, he said that even in Rome I'm told she was lap to lap and she was very much liked by everyone. She's very sweet otherwise you know she knows how to entertain everyone but she's very cunning and she talked like a big old lady to Me and experience showed Me that we are negligent about their vibrations. We must see their vibrations all the time otherwise we would not know what they are like. She was vomiting very often. She would, she would vomit.

Then also for the appreciation of others. If they start criticising others you do not listen to them. When they appreciate others, listen to them. This is till the age of six years, again I'm saying, very important.

They'll criticise others and never never try to sort of side with anyone. If they are quarreling with anyone, let them quarrel, let them quarrel a little, it doesn't matter, it'll solve their problems. But if they are quarreling too much then bring them two sticks, so if you want, here's two sticks, hit each other. Then they will realise. Alright give them two sticks, you want then alright have it. Hit each other nicely and when you are both nicely wounded we will take you to the hospital, now come along, have it.

So, then you see why they quarrel also, you must know. One psychology of the child is to attract attention. The more attention, if supposing a child, child might say abusive words, if you say don't say that, I'll hit you for that, he'll say it again. But you just forget about it, when he says it, it's nothing, then the child will forget. The whole attitude is how to attract your attention, out of sweetness, whatever it is. But when you pay attention to something good they do, then they'll start doing good.

One has to realise that truth is what it is. You cannot put your convictions on that, nor can you change it, nor can you destroy it. It will remain the same as it has been. Those who are cowardly or those who are ambitious, those who are full of ego cannot see the truth.

Like yesterday, one boy came here as you saw him like a beaten dog and he was saying something, nobody heard him. Instead of that, if he had any love for himself he should have taken Realisation. Now, they belong to certain organizations, say example, somebody who wants to obstruct the work of God and they try to hamper others, for what? The same organization in Geneva, it was so absurd, there are very well know organizations everywhere and the lady brought a Bible to hit Me. And it was such a big joke for Me [laughing] to see that she had come to hit Me with a Bible. And I started roaring with laughter, instead of getting any fear from her, “Oh” I said, “That's wonderful." It's all on the tape, of course, but I told her, “Why are you mad? Who is paying you? Why are you doing this madness, how long are you going to do it? Why don't you think of your benefit, why don't you think what good it can do to you? You don't have to pay anything. Why are you so stupid, wasting your life with an organization which is just taking money from you and making a fool out of you?" But such a stupid person that I was surprised that she got a Bible to hit Me, that was the best she could find! [Laughs.] This is sheer ignorance that we do not want to see the point that we have to reach a state of absoluteness.

Those who proclaim “we've reached" or something, what have you gained? This is the main point is, what have you achieved? Say in the business we see a man who has earned money, he has a big car, has a big house, everything you see, then you know he has achieved something in the business. And in the spiritual life you see a person who is compassionate, who is kind, who is loving, who gives comfort to others, who redeems others, counsels others, for the right and righteousness, who is not interested in your purse, but in your Spirit. A person who is above lust and greed. Not a person who takes a Bible in the hand and comes to beat someone and they call themselves Christians. I tell you, if Christ was here, they would have done the same to Him. These are the people who crucified Christ, because He was telling the truth.

What did He do? What wrong did He do? This is how many great souls have suffered at the hands of ignorant people. And one has to forgive them, because they are ignorant.

What is the ignorance? The ignorance is that we do not know the truth. Supposing this room is filled with darkness. If we are all sitting in darkness we will not know who is sitting there, will not know how we related to each other, maybe we will start running about and may hurt each other. We may even hurt ourselves. But if we are stupid to believe that, “It's all right, we can have the darkness with us” then go ahead. But if there is a possibility of getting the light in yourself, why not have it? It is not only with organizations but also with human convictions and wrong ideas, by which a human mind is enslaved.

Which is, also I must say, is very opposite to reality. For example it is believed that a person, who is a spiritual person, has to be miserable. He should look like a TB patient. And as if his life is devastated by so many deaths in his family. Even they made Christ look like that. If you go to Sistine Chapel you'll see Michelangelo, who was a realised Soul, he has shown Christ like a big giant, who is standing there and passing the last judgement. Below there is a table and a miserable bony structure of Christ, with all the bones showing, would be good for medical students, is placed there very miserable. It is absolute sadism, I say. Let these priests carry this cross, even for three steps, then I will say, how many bones they've got.

How could bony Christ carry that cross for miles together? Is it you have to pity Christ, or Christ has to pity you? Is a very wrong idea about Christ. The man who is one with God is always in joy, laughing, very peaceful, extremely compassionate and very powerful too. Such a person with one glance can cure you.

With one glance it can take out all kinds of devils from you, but when such a person meets the children, He is love.

There was a Guru who would not tolerate flowers, can you believe a Guru not tolerating a flower? And he calls himself Bhagawan. If you read the scriptures in India, the description of the Bhagawan or of the Bhagavati, of the Goddess, is that She is made of flowers, She is fond of flowers, She lives on flowers, She creates flowers, She is flower. If you cannot bear the flowers, what are you going to have finale around you? It's absurd. Understand, it's absurd. That person cannot be Divine. The one who cannot love children and flowers has nothing to do with God, take it from Me. I know Germans are very fond of flowers, so are the Austrians. That is such a delicate side of their life. And when you have someone like that, how can you call him Divine? It is beyond Me, any intelligence cannot accept such absurdity.

But everything new should be accepted, this is our concept. Like we were having a dinner party and there was an ambassador, sitting next to Me and he said, “Why do you like Jung? Because he talks of the old things. And why are you against Freud, who has given us something new?" Of course he has given us something new, the AIDS. All right, doesn't matter that part, but I just told him in a joke, “All right anything new, we should try? All right, we have never eaten this table, dinner table, let us eat the table, not the food." It is absurd, who comes out with new funny ideas, something out of the blue, know that it is plastic, it is not a living thing. Like a seed becomes the trunk, becomes the branch and becomes the flowers and ultimately the fruit.

In the same way, spirituality has grown from the seed today to this flower state. In this living process you cannot just have a flower from somewhere hanging in the air, it has to be on the tree, it must have a basis. The basis should evolve into that, you cannot just have something from somewhere, then it is a plastic flower. It must have basis to all the flowers, to all the religions. It must have connection with every religion. Any religion that teaches that that is the only religion, cannot be a religion. It has to be universal. It must relate to all of them. Any person who is Divine has to be a universal person, he cannot belong to one sect, one religion, or one country. He transcends all the barriers which are artificial. God has made only one world. There are some of course, some mountains and some rivers and human beings who have variety, even one leaf is not like the other leaf, so how can any face be like another face? And the variety creates the beauty, otherwise you'd be bored stiff. Imagine, if everybody in this world look like Chinese or like Germans or like Indians you'd be bored stiff. But variety was created for beauty and not for fighting. That we should fight that your nose is longer than mine I'll fight with you, we measure the nose size, how much is the nose and then you fight.

Sometimes human beings behave worse than dogs, they never measure noses, do they? [Laughs.] So we come to a point that we have to be universal. But by saying, “We have to be universal” we do not become. By giving lectures you do not become. I know all these people who talk universality of united nations, all that, I know them very well. It is just an idea, but is very temporary, it can drop out any moment. The friendship will drop out also any moment. Friendship of nations drop out any moment. Once upon a time America and Russia were great friends, today they are great enemies, God knows how suddenly they became enemies.

All these uncertainties have created chaos. What is a certain thing within us is the Spirit. When the Kuṇḍalinī rises within you from its base She pierces through six centers and comes out of your fontanelle bone area, here is the seed of God Almighty and the reflection is in the heart of the Spirit. That is the power like energy rises within us and in the heart is a little fire which gets ignited by that energy and the whole being gets enlightened. That enlightenment first of all gives us collective consciousness. By joining these organizations and stupidities you cannot get that state. The Kuṇḍalinī has to rise and you have to become the Spirit.

So the first thing that happens to you is the nature of the Spirit is that you become, actualise the experience of collective consciousness. It is not a false certificate. I cannot give you certificate, you have to give yourself a certificate honestly. If you are a profound person and a deep person you can see that reality is to be certified by your central nervous system. But if you have no value of your live, you can waste it, what can one do about it? So the first thing that will happen to you, that on your fingertips you can feel your own centers and the centers of another person. Now, when you start feeling the centers, somebody has to decode it. For example, you start getting a burning on this finger, then what is the problem? That you have to discover from Sahaja Yoga, that this means you have a problem on the right Viśhuddhi Chakra.

This you have to see for yourself. We don't have to certify it. You have to see yourself that when you feel somebody else and you find a certain Chakra catching and you ask according to decoding, “Is this the way you are?", he'll say, “How do you know?" Like one fellow came to Me, He said, “Mother, why are they asking me, how is your father, why are they always asking me, how is your father?" I said, “I would ask the same question." He said, “But why?" “Because your father is sick." He said, “How do you know?" I said, “This finger is burning, up to here.

This is the place of your father." “Really, Mother?" I said, “Yes." “Can you do something for my father?" I said, “I'll try, bring him along." But what I'm trying to tell you, that with these vibrations you enter into the Divine ether, this ether exists in everything. Say for example if you take a sulphur dioxide, the sulphur has two oxygens, which are on the two ends of sulphur and they go on pulsating, like vibrations. There are different types of vibrations, of course. Now what is vibrating that? Can the doctors or can the physicists or can the chemistry people tell Me that? I don't know if you know about Chemistry that there is periodic laws.

And the whole thing is organized in a proper chart-like thing. Every atom has a particular amount and is repeated again in numbers, is something so fantastic that no one can create like that in this world. Look at ourselves, what a fantastic computer we are. As soon as you see Me you know I am there. We are not robots, are we? We are not machines, are we? But what a tremendous machine that can love. And this is the machine of love when it becomes collectively conscious its nerves start reacting and recording and correcting the Chakras. Not only their own Chakras, but others' Chakras [as well].

So, by that you get physical, mental, emotional curative.

Social life improves, because your married life improves, your children improve. You're so collectively conscious that you know what is to be done, what is not to be done. I don't tell anybody that, `You don't do this, don't do that.' Because half of the hall would go away if I say so. But I give them Realisation. And after Realisation they just give up by themselves.

So many people have given up drugs, have given [up] alcoholism, have given [up] smoking, all these self destructive habits, they have just given up, because now they have become constructive.

So, once you become collective conscious, then your attention becomes very powerful. Wherever you put your attention it works. I'll give you one example, I was in Middlesborough when the newspaper people came just to test Me and they said that, “If somebody cannot see you, Mother, how can you help that person?" They said there is a lady who is suffering from a disease that she cannot go out of the house at all and she doesn't want to meet anybody, she has locked up herself in a way in her room. I said, “All right, give Me her photograph and I think I can help her. Also give Me her name." I just looked at the photograph, nothing else. And I told the newspaper people not to disturb her for eight days. But they had no patience.

So next day they went to see her and they found she had gone out for a walk on the [UNCLEAR moss] with her husband.

So they gave it in the newspaper that, “The Guru who has fulfilled Her promise." But it is nothing that you have to do, because you are one with the Divine ether. And when you start just paying attention to someone, that ether just goes and acts.

So your attention becomes collectively conscious and collectively active. Thus you become great friends. There is no quarrel, there is no jealousy, because you know you are part and parcel of one personality.

The second thing that happens to you is that you know the truth. The fundamental truth is that you are the Spirit. You are neither this body, nor this mind, nor intellect, nor ego. It's like a diamond lost in the mud. And as the diamond is cleared out and brought to the light, you are no more the mud.

So you reach the absoluteness.

Now, how can you make out if a person is a thug or a real person? If they could make out they would not have fallen a trap to those false Gurus or to these organizations which are just harmful to human beings.

So what is the thing that determines it? When you see a person you can feel the vibrations of that person and you can make it out what sort of a person he is. You don't have to rationalise it. It just works, even a child can tell you. If a child is a realised Soul he'll tell you, “Oh horrible, this fellow is horrible, let him go away." It may be you might even get blisters from such a person. Such a person can give you tremendous heat. All these symptoms you have to know after coming to Sahaja Yoga, you will know how to judge, how to find out who is the one who is trying to be good, but is not good.

Now about anything that you want to find out, you have to just feel the vibrations, because they are absolute. The other day, we wanted to know about Nixon, president Nixon, how he was. And when we saw his vibrations all our fingers were burning.

So we knew he was in trouble. Much before it came out.

So from small mundane things to the highest things you can find out. After some time you have practiced Sahaja Yoga you don't have to even feel the vibrations, you just know it. You don't have to know it trough rationality or anything, you just you know it spontaneously, with a reflex.

So you become the knowledge.

You are the knowledge.

The other day in India, a bullock cart man was driving Me, a very ordinary person, in the village. And there I was just talking to him and I was surprised, he was talking like Kabīra, he was talking like Nanaka, he was talking like Khalil Gibran. I said, “Oh God, look at this great man sitting driving this bullock cart." “And what was the reason?" I asked him. He said, “Mother, now I have become the Spirit." So there is no need to go through books or anything, the whole knowledge comes into you. To what university did Christ go? And to what university Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa went, or Śhrī Rāma went? Even after 6,000 years still we reflect back on Him for wisdom. He was a son of a person who had lots of cows and He used to look after the cows, that's all university He had. But when you read Him you are amazed. Like He has said that, “When human awareness grows the roots of our human awareness are in the brain, so it grows downward. It doesn't move upward unless and until you have Realisation." That's very fact.

Today we see human awareness has reached a point where human beings have become nothing but sex points. I mean, the main job that men and women have to do today is to talk of sex, that's all. It's so ugly, there is no privacy in anything left now. Why call something as private parts when there is no privacy? This is what it is that the awareness grows downward. In everything, see the art. It's so grotesque. You see something, you don't understand. What sort of an art is this, you feel like vomiting actually. There is no beauty in it. See the music. They have experimented with the dogs and the dogs all went mad with some of the music we have modern times. [Laughs.] Somebody asked Me in America, why there are so many schizophrenic people in America. I said, “Stop all that music of yours." “We want sensations." Why? Are we dead people that we need sensations? Are we not sensitive human beings that the slightest turn of a leaf should bring a throb in our heart? Why do we need sensations? Are we really become like robots? This is what Kṛiṣhṇa had predicted and I see that every day. And He said, “After that hell, I see the burning hell everywhere." You tell them anything, they won't listen to you.

I went to America in 1973 [1972] first of all and told them not to do this nonsense of homosexuality and all these Freud experimentation. And Mister Freud himself was suffering from epilepsy, he was a mad man, the way he lived and he died of cancer. What is there to learn from such a person? And be careful about promiscuous live. If it is natural to be that way, why should we get diseases out of it? It is unnatural. And that is where we have failed to understand our own self respect of this body, which is the Temple of God. But it does not matter. As well as this downfall which is called [Adogati] becomes [Urdwagati], the ascent, everything is finished.

You have to bloom like lotuses out of the mud. And make the whole world ringing with the fragrance of your Divinity. You are the epitome of evolution. But surprisingly people want to learn sex behaviour of animals. Are we going to become now earthworms or what? We have to become the super human beings.

Beautiful, collectively conscious of their love. As a result of that ultimately you get the joy of life. The joy does not have duality, like happiness and unhappiness. At a dinner, when an officer can sit next to the queen he feels very happy. But if his seat is put little bit away, or on another table then he is very unhappy. Small things make him happy or unhappy. Joy is not a duality, it is absolute joy. Where a human being sees everything like a witness, like a play. Where you are in the water you are afraid of the waves, but when you come up on the boat you watch them nicely. In the same way you become fearless.

And fearless in your love. The fear today is that how can we proclaim love? But when you become the Spirit and the joy then you can't help it, you have to just do it.

Like I would say, I am a great capitalist, because I have lots of powers, but I am a communist also, because I can't live without sharing that. I want you all to get those powers. I want you all to be powerfully loving and beautiful human beings in the Kingdom of God.

I know My dream is coming true. I have a feeling Austrians are very deep and profound people. And in Europe they should take a lead. This is My humble request. [Applause.] Very simple things as we did yesterday today again we'll try to meditate. But I would request you to take out your shoes.

And put both the feet parallel to each other on the Mother Earth.

As I told you yesterday you have to put your left hand towards Me which represents your desire and use your right hand for the action. You can yourself raise your own Kuṇḍalinī. Now you have to close your eyes and not to open your eyes till I tell you. But before that I will show you the Chakras which we are going to touch.

So, now you have to use your left hand like this and the right hand on the heart first, because the Spirit resides there. Then you have to put your right hand in the upper portion of your stomach. Everything has to be done on the left hand side. This is the center of your mastery. As they say the Principle of Guru.

Then you have to put your right hand in the lower portion of your abdomen on the left hand side. Now you have to go back again on the mastery, because this one, when you touch the lower abdomen here is the center of Swādhiṣhṭhāna, which acts for all the Divine Laws. Here when you touch and you ask for your True Knowledge then the Kuṇḍalinī will rise and you have to again go back helping the Kuṇḍalinī upwards.

So you go to the upper part of the abdomen on the Guru Principle Chakra, called the Nābhī.

Then you have to go to your heart again, to open the Heart Chakra.

Then you have to go to the Viśhuddhi Chakra here. Please remember, don't put your hand from this side, but you have to go from front, like this cross. And turn your head to your right. This Chakra is caught up when you feel guilty. And diseases like angina develop by that, spondylitis, angina.

So before starting this I have to request you that please say sixteen times in your heart, `Mother, I'm not guilty at all.' It's better than yesterday, but still it's very badly catching.

Now you have to raise your hand to your forehead, which is the Chakra of Christ, Āgñyā. Then on the back of Āgñyā Chakra is here, where the optic lobe is, you have to press your head backwards and put your hand holding your head.

Then stretch your hand, your palm like this and the center of your palm you put it on top of your head on the fontanelle bone area here, which was a soft bone in your childhood and move it very slowly seven times by pressing your scalp hard. Press it hard. Move your scalp.

That's all.

Now please put your left hand towards Me, both the feet parallel on the Mother Earth and first of all forgive yourself. You should be pleasantly placed towards yourself and you should know that you are the Temple of God. Now, close your eyes and put your right hand on the heart. Keep your left hand all the time towards Me. Now please, you have to say on this Chakra or you have to ask a question to Me, which is a very fundamental question. You have to say, `Mother, am I the Spirit?' Ask the question three times.

Please don't open your eyes. `Mother, am I the Spirit?' Three times.

Now the second question follows. If you are the Spirit you are your own master.

So put the right hand in the upper part of your abdomen on the left hand side, press it hard with your fingers. And at this center ask a question again three times, `Mother, am I my own master?' Now, please take this hand down on the lower part of your abdomen on the left hand side and press it hard. This is the center of True Knowledge of Divine Laws.

So here you please ask, because I cannot cross your freedom, you have to ask. Please ask, `Mother, please give me Pure Knowledge.' You have to ask six times, this center has got six petals. Now ask six times. With this asking the Kuṇḍalinī starts rising.

Now to help the Kuṇḍalinī with full confidence please put your right hand in the upper part of your abdomen on the left hand side. Here now you have to say with full confidence for the Kuṇḍalinī to move through this center, to open the center, `Mother, I am my own master.' Say it ten times please.

Now, please raise your right hand in the corner between the shoulder and the neck and hold it tight, putting your head towards the right. Here you have to say sixteen times, `Mother, I'm not guilty at all.' Please put your head to the right and say with full confidence, `Mother, I'm not guilty at all.' `Because I am the Spirit. Because I am the Spirit I cannot be guilty.' [Aside:] Ha, better.

times please. Please say sixteen times, `I am the Spirit and I cannot be guilty.' [Aside:] That's good. Better to escape the heart like this.

Now please put your right hand across your forehead and press it on both the sides. Here you have to say from your heart, not how many times, `Mother, I forgive everyone.' This is the Chakra of Christ and He has given us the greatest weapon of forgiveness. God is also the Ocean of Forgiveness.

Now for your own satisfaction you put your hand on the back of your head and push back your head.

Now here you have to say, just for your satisfaction, not feeling guilty at all that, `Oh Divine, if I have done anything wrong please forgive me.' But don't feel guilty.

[Aside:] Good.

Now please, stretch your palm and put the center of your palm on top of the fontanelle bone and press it hard and move it, very hard pressing it down, seven times. While doing that you have to ask for Selfrealisation, I cannot force on you, so you have to say, `Mother, please give me my Self-realisation.' Press it hard.

[Shri Mataji blows into the microphone.] Now please take down your hand. Put both the hands like this. Open your eyes please slowly.

Now put the right hand towards Me and left hand on top of your head, about four inches and see if there is a Cool Breeze coming out of your head. Bend your head a little.

Some people get it very far away.

You can move your hand and see for yourself.

Now change the hand. Put the left hand towards Me and the right hand on top of your head, again bend the head. Higher, little higher, higher.

Some people get it hot, doesn't matter, it will cool down.

Now, turn back again, put the right hand towards Me and see with the left hand. Put down your head and pay attention to your fontanelle bone area.

Now please put both the hands towards the sky, bend back yourself little bit your head and ask a question, `Is this the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost? Is this the Brahma Shakti? Is it the Rūh? Is this the All-pervading Power of God's Love?' Now please bring down the hands. Now see, do you feel Cool Breeze in your hands? Keep your eyes open please. Watch Me without thinking.

Without thoughts, without thoughts.

Now, those who have felt the Cool Breeze in the hand or in the head please raise both your hands.

Most of you have felt it. There are few who have not felt it, very few.

I must thank you for this. But this is just the beginning. You feel very happy, relaxed, do not argue with anyone, just be quiet. But you must come to the collective. You all must come to the follow-on program, please. This is the trouble in the West, they get Realisation then they go ahead. It's like Guru-shopping.

That is not a sign of profound wise nature.

It's like Christ describing about the seeds that fell and sprouted a little and were wasted. Please respect your Realisation and please attend to yourself. This is what you have to know. For every benefit, for every benefit.

May God give you wisdom and bless you with His blossoming love!

Contents: 1986-07-13 Śhrī Kārttikeya Pūjā, Grosshartpenning, Munich, Germany

I'm sorry for being late. I did not know that this program is in a beautiful place like this. And here you see a beautiful painting of Michelangelo expressing the desire of the Divine, your Father, to save you, to help you out and it's working out. In Germany we have had very great aggressive happenings. And that brought forth a devastating effect on the Western Life, all over. The value systems were broken, the idea of Dharma was disturbed, women started behaving like men and so many people died. Very young people died, very, very young. All their desires were not fulfilled, all their life gave them nothing but war. That was a kind of a heatwave that came, destroying all the subtler things. When the nature gets its respite, or is angry, it destroys only gross things but when human beings start destroying they destroy even the subtler things like your value system, your character, your chastity, your innocence, your forbearance.

So now the war is on on the subtler level. We have to now understand that all these things have brought such a shattering effect in the West, on the Western personality.

So the first effort one has to do is to repair it, to put it straight, make it stand on its own legs. Because people lost their personality, their tradition, they had no moorings, no roots. And they started moving towards anything that was brought in as some sort of a intellectual experience. The women became very independent and they thought they can work out their own problems, that they thought they can become like men. Here the problem started even in a worse way. Because woman is a woman and a very little thing which is called as a man in her and when she tries to avoid what she has and develop something that she has very little, then she becomes funny. But she may be possessed by so many men who are dead. The desire to become manly can attract so many bhoots who want to enter into woman's mind. And when they enter they have the garb of a woman and mind of a devil. And the women cannot see it because maybe with those devilish things in the worldly way they might be successful. They might be better off. Maybe they can dominate everyone, they might become meticulous like men, absolutely matter of fact, very neat, tidy, clean, devoid of all beauty and sweetness. Then these women ultimately become like vampires.

So though the war is over it is working through the women of Germany, I think.

I'd heard this attack had come before also and there were women called as `Amazonic'. Now that history is repeating itself again. The other day I had an interview with a German lady and I was amazed at her attitude because I felt she's still a Nazi in her, some Nazi bhoot is sitting in her. She was a double personality, one way she was talking sweetly, another way she was a Nazi and a Fascist. Very cunningly they have got arguments. The first thing they can do is to say that, “We are siding with downtrodden people, like India. Indians are Aryans, we are Aryans and we are people who are sympathizing with the Aryans." Indians are spiritual people and they feel they are like Indians, of all the things, you know, can you believe it? The quality of life should improve, is the point. The quality of men is different from that of women, I have told you many a times. And if women try to be manly then they cannot achieve anything proper.

We have had many like this. You have seen Mao's wife. You have seen Mrs. Chiang Kai Shek. Now this new lady Carlos, Carlos her name is? Marcos, Marcos.

So many women like this. They always make a mess of things when they try to be manly.

In the history we have many women. In India women are very well equipped, we have had women like Jhansi ki Rani who fought against the British. She was a widow.

She tied her child on her back and fought the British. They say that her horse jumped from 180 feet from the turret of a fort and the Britishers have written down that, “Though we have got Jhansi the victory comes to us but glory goes to Jhansi ki Rani." We have had great women in India. Like Nur Jahan was another great woman, we had [UNCLEAR Chanbibi], [UNCLEAR Ahilyabai] but they were all women, they didn't have ego of men. When it comes to, one can work, work in the offices with men but they need not become men. I'll tell you an example of My own. I had to build our house in Lucknow. I did it in a real woman style and I built a very good house, better than any man could build in a very, very cheap way. Like a man would go, first of all he'll get an architect, go and measure everything, then he'll try to fit everything into it beforehand. Then he will in his ego go to some expensive place, shop, get something expensive, be cheated by that. Then again in his ego he'll go and get some very expensive labor and appoint somebody, he'll be in charge of everything, in charge.

I did in a very different way. I had money, so went and found out who have the best people, who have the best bricks. The house was to be built by bricks. Then what else do you need? Just like a woman would cook her food, you see. You need also sand, all right? Then you need cement and you need iron bars and labor.

So I didn't go the way men went round. I found out the man who was selling the best bricks.

So he said, “I have no money because I have to put up those klins [kilns; first `klin'; later on pronounced `kiln'] and fill them up with the bricks and for that you require initial money." I said, “All right, I'll buy one whole klin [kiln] from you, whole one. How much will you take from Me?" He said, “Five thousand rupees sufficient." But if he said, “If the klin [kiln] goes off, or there's something wrong with it, if it misfired, then it is your lookout." I said, “Doesn't matter. You put one klin [kiln] in My name." So I bought a complete klin [kiln] from him, complete. Kiln is a thing where they put all the bricks, you see and then cover it with mud and fire it from down below.

Sometimes it could be that the whole thing can go into a waste, or crumble down. I said, “You do like that. Only 5,000." When it is nicely fired and all that it would cost you nothing short of 50,000 rupees.

Then I went to the river and I said, “How much for a one part?", as they call it, a big area of sand.

They said, “At this time, when it is summertime it's very little, but in wintertime it will be quite a lot." A man would go, he'll say, “All right, now you need so much, bring it now. Then you will need more, you bring it now." But I didn't do that, I said, “Summertime is a nice thing, cheap you are getting, why not buy the whole?" So I bought the whole part, the whole area of that sand. [Laughs and laughter.] All right. Then I went for the ironmongers. I said, “Now what about iron?" They said, “You have to order, but if you order in bulk then we'll give you much cheaper. And cash down you have to pay so much." I said, “All right." I ordered it.

So it was all ready, just like we do for cooking, you get everything ready made, ready there.

Then what we needed was wood.

So they said, “Wood will come from Nepal." I said, “All right. What else?" They said, “From any other forest it can come." So I went to a forest in the center of India called [UNCLEAR Jabalpur] and there I ordered. The whole wood was cut, newly cut and in an auction I bought a lot of wood from there. And I got all that they had, plus I got the marble from there. This marble was never used before, anywhere. I said, “It's very simple, I can use this marble for everything." So I got marble and wood together from that place.

Then the labor. Then I asked My friends if they knew any good workers, who are good at masonry work. They said, “Yes, this one is good, that one is good." So I called all of them. I said, “See, now you can stay with Me in this house and I'll feed you very well and I'll give you food and I'll look after you very well." So they all settled down with their family [laughter] and I used to cook for them. By cooking I won them over and they would do anything for Me. [Laughter.] Absolutely. They were so kind to Me, they would produce new, new, technique that they knew, they would produce an effect of marble out of the cement. All kinds of art that they had they put there.

So such a big house with twenty bedrooms and five drawing rooms, dining rooms was created within one year's time. Not only that, but the price of the house nobody can believe. Was one tenth of the one that the architect would have taken. But it was all written so well, everything done so well because I didn't know how to write accounts, so what I used to do, every day I used to say, “Now, all right, today I take out so much money” then this much was spent. Like that I wrote every day and not one single rupee was missing in that.

So nobody could prosecute Me, no problem otherwise all the officers who built their houses there had to go through lots of problems, their income was taxed, this thing, nothing, nothing happened. And I got such a huge house made in such a little money. And such a house that people said that, “Even Taj Mahal may fall down, this will not fall." [Laughter.] Because I made a good foundation, everything, because I had bricks so cheap. The whole of that kiln I bought for no price at all and half of it I sold back because so much remaining. [Laughter.] Then whatever I had bought the sand I brought it, sold half of it because I didn't need it at, doubled the price so I got My sand free. [Laughter.] The wood that I had brought from there I got it properly chiseled out and I had a little tank in which I put it so the whole thing became absolutely, what you call that, weatherproof. I got it out and half of it I used, half of it only, for hundred windows and sixty doors and the rest of it I sold. And even the chips were sold as burning for wood, you see burning wood, what do you call that? So you can imagine something was sold as timber and some for the huts. But I had to do cooking for them, I had to look after their comfort, I got them nice blankets and nice beds to sleep and this and that, so they were very happy.

That's how a woman works out and everybody was amazed they could not find any faults with My, accounts they could not find faults with anything and I told all My husband's friends to keep five miles away from Me. [Laughter.] Because he was working with the Prime Minister, people would have said that, “All right, She's taking bribes” and things like that. Then there was, another problem was that, they would have come and told Me, “This not good, that not good." I kept them out because only they can argue, men can only argue. [Laughter.] Women produce the results. No conferences, nothing, I said, “Nothing doing. Let Me do the job Myself." Very nicely in the company of all these people I built the house, a beautiful house which I think they have taken a film and you might be able to see the house that I built there.

So when the woman, who is a Sahaja Yogini, must develop her, these special qualities because she is very [UNCLEAR intitu], woman is very [UNCLEAR intitu]. She always reaches the right conclusion in no time. If she's a woman, but if she's half man and a little of a woman then I don't know what sort of a thing she is.

So a woman should try to be a woman, she's so powerful, she's powerful like this Mother Earth who can bear every sort of thing and she can give the best that is with her. Extremely sacrificing, extremely giving, forbearing, loving, forgiving. When men develop the women's quality then they become saints.

But not the woman's quality that they run after women. This kind of a nonsense is not there. They have to be [UNCLEAR viras] [one of Shri Mataji's names, Śhrī Vira Mātā: Vira means devotees who are competent], they have to be chivalrous people, they have to be brave. They have to be brave but with that they have to develop compassion, forgiveness.

But I think it is the other way round in Germany very much and I find around also among Western Sahaja Yogis this is a very common affair going on, women develop horrible egos. In India women work.

Everything they do. We have had great orators since long time, well known. But they don't have ego. My mother was Honors, in those days when there were only two or three women who had done such a degree, but I never saw her with any ego in her. My own daughters, one of them has done architecture and also interior decoration, she's not now working because her husband is working all right. But she makes houses for others, she draws for others, she helps others freely. And she has such friends.

So what is the achievement of a woman? She has more people around her. Human power. She has more human beings around her. And what is the capacity of men? They have all the bills of the house to be paid, they have to pay for the insurance, [laughter] the repairs of the car. Let them do the dirty jobs. [Laughs and laughter.] Women receive all the love letters, from the children, from the husband, from everyone. They are loved. They are cared for. Now because they have become manly they don't have all these advantages. Like formerly if you are going in a bus they would give a seat to a lady. Now nobody does that. Once, a lady was travelling, old lady, and, there was one young fellow sitting there. I said, “Why don't you allow her to sit down?" He said, “Why should I? She's also wearing a pant, I'm also wearing a pant." She, this old lady was wearing trousers, so he said, “Why should I give her seat, she's wearing a trouser, I'm wearing a trouser, what's the difference?" [Laughter.] So all that is our advantage and privilege we are losing by becoming men. And what do we gain? What do we gain? Actually, on the contrary, I think in modern days women are much more slaves of men than they were before. They get very upset. Say there's a Sahaja Yogini. Now she's caught up very badly and she has certain problems. First thing she'll think about, “Oh God, now my husband will leave me, he'll take away my children, where will I do?" She'll never think of Sahaja Yoga. But I met one extraordinary woman, I must say she was a real woman. She said, “Mother, because I'm a schizophrenic I want to get out of Sahaja Yoga. I'll divorce my husband, I don't want to see my children, Sahaja Yoga is much more important than me, than my husband and my children." “There's a woman” I said. She said, “I am schizophrenic from childhood. I've discovered it now and it comes back now." But mostly women are worried about themselves, “Oh God, I'll have to leave my husband” means what they were doing was to sponge on the husband. “I'll have to leave my children." But what about leaving Sahaja Yoga? If you think Sahaja Yoga is the most important you'll can get rid of your schizophrenia also. Why should God help you? We are just thinking like ordinary women, about yourself, only worried about yourself. Not worried about Sahaja Yoga.

Same with some men, but men are not so much frightened, because they think they can stand on their legs. And women should also know now they are Sahaja Yoginis that they are Sahaja Yoginis and Mother is going to look after them. But if you are worried about yourself only, your husband, my house, my children, then you are a gone case, you are no more a woman now. It's not a sign of a good woman. A woman is that who loves all the children. Her loving capacity's great, but if she becomes miserly, if she becomes small-minded then she's not a woman.

I told you about My granddaughters, I asked them, “What do you want to be?" They're very small.

So they said, “We want to be a nurse or an air hostess." So I said, “Why? What is so great about these jobs?" They said, “Grandmother, in these two jobs only you can feed people." There's no other job in which you can really feed other. The joy of feeding others is greater than writing files in the office. Absolutely, I tell you. It's a horrid job to write files in the office, see. [Laughs and laughter.] It's better to do some nice cooking, [laughter] thinking so many are going to eat and enjoy it, than to do this dirty job. But women have lost their heads, they are not level-headed now. Become stupid.

Now in Germany you have to be very careful. In Austria you have to be very careful. Austrian women are great, but I would say German women, that you don't try to become men. First of all the best way to stop it is not to talk too much. If you start talking like men then all the bhoots will enter into you and start talking like men only. And then you will see how the men are controlled, we Indian women know how to control our men much better than you do. Why we don't have divorces? Why we don't have problems? We quarrel, all right, doesn't matter, but our men don't run after another women. We don't dress up, I mean, so much, we don't go to hairdressers, we don't have these beauty aids, all that.

So develop your self-respect. You are the Shakti. You are the power. If you make your men cabbages what sort of children you'll have? Cabbages only. Respect them. Make them men, enjoy their manliness. Then they'll never give you up. There's no competition between the two.

I find the main problem today in Germany is that the women have lost their senses. This is I feel absolutely about German women. Take to music, take to art.

So much scope is there. Today, who is remembered? See in here, who is remembered? A musician, Mozart. Everyone remembers Mozart, even on a chocolate you'll find a Mozart there. [Laughter.] I don't know, poor thing, did he ever eat any chocolates or not? [Laughter.] Or they will remember, see here, they have Michelangelo or they'll have Leonardo da Vinci, or they'll have somebody like that. Nobody remembers who was the officer at that time, running with the file up and down. [Laughter.] So women have something that they can be of eternal value, that they should develop. The greatest thing is that woman can love and love and love. But when she becomes selfish and self-centered, starts worrying about herself there's no beauty in her love.

Today I took it up special this thing because today you are worshipping Me as Kārttikeya. Kārttikeya was the son of Pārvatī Umā. Who was just a mother of these two children, Gaṇeśha and Kārttikeya. And one day the parents Shañkara and Pārvatī both of them said, “Out of you two, the one who goes round the Mother Earth first time will get a special prize." So Kārttikeya was the manly power, absolutely and he said, “All right, I'll start on his own conveyance” which was a peacock. And Gaṇeśha said to Himself, “Now look at Me, I'm a little boy, I am not like Him and My conveyance is a little mouse. How will I manage?" But then He thought, “My Mother is higher than the whole universe. What is this Mother Earth?" So this Kārttikeya was out, going round the Mother Earth. Śhrī Gaṇeśha went round His Mother three times. [Laughter.] And He got the prize. Because of that motherly qualities for Him She's the highest, even higher than Sadāśhiva. But surprisingly that is what Sadāśhiva likes. That you respect your mother, the motherhood in you. The womanhood in you. “[Hindi/Sanskrit.]" [Translates:] “Where the women are respectable and respected there the Gods reside." Women are very important. Of course I must blame the Western men also, the way they have ill-treated their women, have kept out of religion, have always put them down, I mean, India we had Muslims doing that but they are even very sophisticated aggressors and they did it very badly and they kept them all of them down. But doesn't matter. Still, forgive them and try to be women, very powerful.

The powers of a woman are that of love, which are the powers of God. And that is to be used than to use other argumentative intellectualism, all nonsense. Don't waste your energy with that. I would like, specially the Sahaja Yoginis of Germany, to become more and more ladylike. It doesn't mean good cooking only, but in the attitude towards life. To think in a wider way that the whole Sahaja Yoga depends on our love capacity. We have to be extremely loving, extremely kind, looking after Sahaja Yogis, giving them all the joy that is possible.

Otherwise in this country they can become like vampires. So be very careful and for men also I would say if there are women of that kind you must respect them, you must give them all their privileges, look after them. They look after children but give them all the assistance, all the money that is needed by them. Do not ask for accounts and things, let them manage it. At the most you'll become bankrupt, as it is you are. [Laughter.] But first see what is their attitude towards Sahaja Yoga is. I've seen in the families where the women are in charge of the purse always we get much more money for Sahaja Yoga work than from the houses where the men are in control. It's very surprising. When men are in control they have to think of their car, they have to think of many big things, but when women are in control they know how to save money, as I have shown you how I have saved money. Men can never save. They can never save money. Only the women can save, but if they have a larger interest. Otherwise if they are self indulgent they'll finish off all the money by going into the shop to buy a shirt for a man they'll buy all sarīs for themselves. They can do like that. But if they have wider interests, if they have greater interest, they can use money so cleverly that they'll have always money to spend for others. What do I do? What has, whatever My husband gives Me to run the house, it's quite a lot I should say, but I stinge on things, I go to the main markets, get things from there, try to save money on that, save here, save on My clothes. I, first time I have given My sweaters for dry cleaning, in a good shop. That's how a woman saves and then she spends for the general good. Because that is her real satisfaction. If we develop that kind of a balanced view about our married life, about our social life we'll be ideal people in this world.

About school also, I have said it, very clearly. Now if you want to hear about it I would request, have you got that pamphlet with you? Wanted to read it. Uh? No, you don't have. That's just like men.

[Laughter.] They themselves said they would like to read it here, you see. If you ask men to do the cooking everything will be missing.

So, Gregoire: Shri Mataji, may I most respectfully ask You, is there any advantage at all in being a man? [Laughs and laughter.]

Shri Mataji: Without the man woman cannot express herself. She cannot express, because she is the potential. He is the kinetic. It's absolutely relative terminology. You cannot exist without a man, you cannot. Even if you, supposing, if you have all the fragrance in the Mother Earth unless and until you have the flowers how will you know there is fragrance in Mother Earth? Men are most important otherwise what will they do? Their, all their energy will be all rotten.

So, if women are the Mother Earth you are the flowers. Advantage what? You are the people who, everybody sees you. [Laughter.] Gregoire: Running around like Kārttikeya. [Shri Mataji laughs and laughter.]

Shri Mataji: What can we do? You are like that. [Laughter.] You cannot sit at home. You cannot, even in the train, if you are going, you'll find as soon as the train will stop all the men will get out of the train. They can't sit there. [Laughter.] Like, I told My husband, “What is this all the time you are running out of the house? Why can't you sit in the house for some time? You must sit." So he said: “No, in our side if any man, sits in the house he's called as [UNCLEAR kargoosna]” means `Who is all the time in the house', you see. And I said: “What do they call to man who always runs away from the house, [UNCLEAR karpagna]." Means the `runner away', who runs away. [Laughter.] There should be something in between. But that's manly, it's all right. But we can, with Sahaja Yoga, what we can do is to form a little balance between both the things. That is what Sahaja Yoga is, that it gives a balance. Then you start enjoying each other's company so much that even in the house you enjoy, outside also enjoy.

So you can be together inside the house, also outside. The interests are the same, because the interest becomes the same.

Like the flowers who fall on the Mother Earth make the Mother Earth fragrant and then we can say that Mother Earth is fragrant. As beautiful as that.

All right.

So for education I've already given instructions and I've already talked about it that we are not to make a big ado out of this Maria Montessori and this and that. We are going to have Sahaja Yoga schools. All nonsense. Because I have seen those who are teaching in Maria Montessori style, the women have become horrible. Was amazed the amount of ego they have developed in themselves.

So you become Sahaja Yoga teachers and it's going to be a Sahaja Yoga school. In, Sydney or in Melbourne, we started the school in Melbourne very nicely and now they are going to have it in Sydney the same way. And openly it is a Sahaja Yoga school, there's no fear about it. Openly it's a Sahaja Yoga school and then people have achieved so much out of it. We, why should we take any garb like that? We should go all out to say, `It's a Sahaja Yoga school.' So you, the teachers also become experts in Sahaja Yoga, so they have to be good Sahaja Yogis, Yoginis or Sahaja Yogis. They should not be egoistical, there should be no ego in them, they should not be catching, anybody who's catching is not a good teacher for Sahaja Yoga.

It's not like, in a Maria Montessori school that in the night the teacher drinks, smokes and morning time she's a Maria Montessori teacher. Here you have to be a Sahaja Yogini first and then only you can teach in a Sahaja Yoga school. You have to have that quality, that is very important, as it is important that we should get students who are realised Souls or who can get Realisation.

All right, so today's Pūjā is specially for Kārttikeya. Kārttikeya represents the great, we can say the captain or the leader of all the ganas, of all the, like a Commander-in-Chief. Gaṇeśha is the King, but He is the Commander-in-Chief. And because German character is to be in command of everything we are going to have this Pūjā where the men will be in command of their spirits and their manly qualities and women will be in command of their womanly qualities. To be in command is different from to be a master.

Master owns it, a commander does not own it. He does not own it. That is also lost, possession is also lost, we just command it. And that is the state we have to come to now, from Gaṇeśha state to the state of Kārttikeya. The other way round.

Gaṇeśha is nice, he's the King, very nicely sitting down with all the powers, all right? In a sense He's there, but Kārttikeya's the one who commands innocence, gives you a power of that commandment.

He commands. After the Guru Pūjā it's better that we should have the power to command others and that commanding spirit comes in the men through their talking, through their dynamism, through their personal achievements; for the women through their loving power, through their forbearance, through their gracious behaviour, forgiveness, compassion.

So let us develop that today, that we can command it, means it's not that what we have, but in a position we are to command. I hope you understand what is Kārttikeya.

May God bless you! So let us start the Pūjā.

Who made this? You made it, this Gaṇeśha? Such a sweet thing. You are very good, I must say.

May God bless you! [Aside:] Get some German people to do it also.

Let us have some more people here from Germany, ladies also, of course.

[Sahaja Yogis: Śhrī Gaṇeśha mantras and Śhrī Gaṇeśha Atharva Sheersha.] [Aside:] The one who has made the Gaṇeśha, is she German too? This one also should wash.

All those who wrote letters for Me to come to Germany should come and wash My feet. May God bless you! May God bless you! Thank you! [Aside:] Take out that one from inside. Now take that out. There is no need.

[Aside:] May God bless you! [Several times “May God bless you!" during washing of the Feet have not been documented.] [Aside, naming a baby:] We call her Kamala, Kamala. Kamala is the name of the Goddess, all right? Lakṣhmī. Kamala. May God bless you! You can have a singing little bit, because there are two ladies more. And Hugo still has to do it.

Good. That's it. May God bless you! [Sahaja Yogis sing.] Now you both can come here. Thank you.

They can use the same water, because too much water already there.

[Aside:] See, the Viśhuddhi is to be wiped off more a little bit. Still hard.

Shri Mataji: Now we can say the one thousand names of Kārttikeya.

Sahaja Yogi: one thousand?

Shri Mataji: No, 108. [Laughs and laughter.] I thought 1,000 would be good idea, but let it be 108. Let's see how it works out with 108. Say it loudly. Loudly, loudly, he's not clear.

No, not yet. Get him another one, let him have one more [microphone]. Because must be clearly, otherwise it has no meaning.

In this 108 names, if you have noticed, they have shown that Kārttikeya is the innocence that is acting on the right hand side, in the Piñgalā. And that is also, it is very much related to Prāṇa. It gives you Prāṇa. Prāṇa is the vital breath that we take, breathe in and breathe out.

So it is related to the right side. Then also it is related to eternity, [UNCLEAR Anantari]. Anantar is the snake, the Shesha.

Which is the brother of Viṣhṇu.

So it is He who is represented here as Kārttikeya. He is called as Anantar.

So he is the fire. He is the one who ignites within you the capacity to consume, the force, also the capacity to command the people and also the capacity to be a person full of brilliance. You see, an innocent person could be very brilliant. All these capacities are expressed in Kārttikeya's Swarūpa, in His state. Today, by worshipping Kārttikeya we have to know that Kārttikeya is now awakened within us. And with that capacity we have to fight.

Ultimately He is the Nishkalaṅka. He is the one who's in the final.

So from Gaṇeśha to Christ to Nishkalaṅka. These are the three stages into which the innocence has gone. From Gaṇeśha to Kārttikeya and now to Christ. And from Christ to Nishkalaṅka. In the form of Nishkalaṅka He is innocent, so there is no Kalanka, there is no spot on Him, nothing. He is absolutely clean, immaculate. Plus He is fiery. Plus He has all the qualities of Ekādaśha Rudra. Means the eleven qualities or the forces of Shiva, which can kill.

So He has a capacity to kill and destroy that is evil and to give blessings and courage to His followers.

This is the last incarnation, which is called as Kalki, in normal words you call it Kalaki, is actually Nishkalaṅka. In the white horse.

So it is the Kārttikeya who sits on the white horse.

So how innocence grows within you now is up to the point of Kārttikeya. This has been today done on this land, Deutschland as you call it, where Kārttikeya is to be born within you, is to be awakened in you.

May God bless you!

Sahaja Yogi: Bolo Śhrī Kārttikeya Mātājī Nirmalā Devī sākṣhāt Śhrī Ādi Shakti Mātājī Śhrī Nirmalā Devī Ki, Jai! Śhrī Nirmalā Devī Ki, Jai! Śhrī Nirmalā Devī Ki, Jai!

Shri Mataji: Now if you want you can sing some songs as “Ya Devī Sarva Buteshu" which one you like. I'd like to have the ladies here, seven married ladies and just to help Me out.

First we'll have little girls who are in here, the little girls have to come up.

Little later, when you have to garland Me, all right? Now the girls have to come. Where are the girls? All the girls have to come. Who are all the other girls who are here? All right. Come along. Right, come on. You also come along, both of you. All right. You also come, both of you. Sit down, sit down.

If there is any unmarried girl, big unmarried girl, please come.

Somebody who is not yet married.

Someone, come. [Hindi.] Gregoire: Shri Mataji, first before we sing the hymn to the Goddess we would like to read You an amended version of the Lord's Prayer: “Our Mother, Who art on earth Hallowed be Thy Name Thy Kingdom come Thy Will be done On earth as it is in heaven Give us this day Your Divine vibrations And forgive us our trespasses As we forgive those Who trespass against us And lead us not into māyā But deliver us from evil For Thine is the Father The children and the glory Forever and ever. Amen."

Shri Mataji: So very sweet. [Laughter.]

Contents: 1986-07-18 Guidelines for Sahaja Yoga Education, Notes Taken in Ashram, Rome, Italy and amended on in House, Dulwich, London, UK

[It is not to be a Montessori School. `Montessori' will not be mentioned. That is past. It will be a Sahaja Yoga School.] [Montessori encourages competing and is very much material oriented and right-sided.] [With all the Montessori equipment they become too toy oriented.

Some of it is so expensive. Have some educational toys, but not too many (and not the hitting blocks through a little bench!)] [Do not have a dry classroom. Have flowers, plants, like sitting in a garden. The teacher's dress should not be like a nurse! Laugh before the children. Show them we are happy. Appreciate them, laugh with them.] [Every child up to five or six years must be massaged nicely every night. At night massage their body with oil, olive oil may be used for everything, then wipe it nicely with a towel. (If necessary use a little powder for parts but cover their face if it might go up their noses). Massage the head in the morning before bath and oil in the nose and ears.] [What to teach. Drama and stories and sharing. If a child falls, have a little play, put him on a cart...] [Don't teach them what they don't need to know. They don't need to know the roads of London until they are driving.] [Don't get too caught up with stupid forms like having them put their knife and fork together in a particular way.] [It is very important they learn how to hold the pencil right, but don't push letters and numbers. Teach them numbers and letters when they are ready, but not too young!] [The senses. Let them feel the metals: gold, silver, etc. and marble, plastic, all the different marbles and onyxes. Feel the materials and the senses. Pottery too.] [Let them appreciate design of cloth, four or five different ones. Which one do they like, which they don't like.] [Tell them about the stars! What are stars, planets...] [Living things rather than dead things.] [What are the trees and the use of wood. Treat the trees as personified, look after them, give them names.] [Everything living must be looked after. (When they spill something on the carpet everyone rushes in horror. Tell the child it is alright or else you shatter the confidence of the child. Clean it up when they are asleep.)] [Outings are very nice. Museums and zoos. Show them Rome, but not the instruments of war. Not to play with weapons.] [Take them out and prepare them for the visit. Tell them what to expect. Tell them all about it. How to respect when they are out. And how to respect visitors. Also how to say good morning, good evening, good night.] [Shri Mataji mentioned how nice it is in Australia. They sit around and talk about the deities and Shri Mataji.] [The school is a vehicle to communicate Sahaja Yoga. They must be Sahaja Yogis first.] [None of this `I like...' The children must enjoy sharing, giving. The enjoyment of giving. We must say `God doesn't like...' Not, `I don't like...'] [Encourage them to feel part and parcel of the whole, that we are all one and they enjoy the collective oneness. Teach them Sahaja Yoga practices.] [The children must be told they are Sahaja Yogis and have dignity: `God has chosen you for a great work. You are a Sahaja Yogi.' They feel the responsibility that they have to behave better.] [All the time tell them they are a special type: `So how can you behave like that, talk like that?'] [When the small child wants to do everything for herself (himself) then that is alright, as long as they are willing to do for others as well.

So she pours her own breakfast thing, now she gives us something to eat.

So the attention is diverted from themselves to others. Always interchanging, this is very important.

Share their food with others. Make beds for others.] [Everyone must talk to the children. Everyone should take an interest in the children, give them little presents. It must not be just `my child.'] [Children should not be too much on the lap. If they cry, put them down.] [Children should not be kissed too much. Not on their face [germs]. Top of their head or the side is alright.] [Respect the children and teach them how to respect others. They must learn how to respect. In India when the children first get up in the morning they say a little prayer: `Oh Mother Earth, please forgive me, I am touching You with my feet.'] [The person who is well groomed is the person who respects. That is the sign of a person who is respected. Not to make them manipulators. Make them more humble, sweet, flexible and loving.] [They must develop alertness. Self centeredness makes for dullness inside.] [They must not compete. If they are going to compete in anything then let it be in goodness, obedience, sweetness, caring. They could be more poised, more dignified. Give prizes for this! `Now, how will you walk on the street? How will you bow before Mother?' They will tell us and they will tell us about Chakras too.] [Normally we see someone: “You look very nice" or “You are looking very jolly today." This is just an external thing. Ask the question that relates to within: `Are you alright?' Maybe say it is a nice dress if it is from a different country or something like that.] [The beauty part. How to look beautiful, not just neat. The surroundings must not be morbid; they must be decorative. Beauty in the West is artificial. Should be naturally beautiful, take to more natural things.] [For example, in India they wash with clay. It is good to walk barefoot on the grass, makes for better eyesight and good for the arches.] [The hair, a little bit oiled at night. Gram our for the face is better than soap. Bread in milk to wash their faces. This clears the skin very much. Natural things.] [Not military-like dresses. Dresses to make them feel more dignified. Colourful, not grey. Flower prints are nice. Not squares for boys like prisoners. Make it more interesting for them so they develop proper values in dressing.] [Children mustn't wear black or dusty colours (that look like they have had mud mixed in).] [Don't use nail varnish, use henna [a natural product] to paint their nails. Girls to wear bangles, it helps naturally to become more like women. If a girl is trying to be like a man, bring them down to what they should be. What for boys? Cricket bats, hockey. It is easy to think of things for girls.] [Do Ār.ti with the children, lots of music, develop their rhythm, how to sing. It is important to sing in tune.] [No dreamy airy-fairy world. Don't let them float about, give them reality. They can be poets, but use real images like Blake did.] [To appreciate others look at dress from other countries. It would be nice to have a collection of dolls with all the different national costumes.] [Ask the Embassy if they would like to come and talk to the children about for example, children in China, the Ambassador's wife and from other embassies. The Indian Ambassador's wife, if she is not too westernized, (then don't have Shri Mataji's photograph on view in the classroom, have it in another place).

She can come and talk about the children of India. They will like to do this. Have the children dress up in the different costumes like an international school! Teach them how to say thank you in their language and the children widen their attitude.] [They should be like children. No need to make them adults in childhood. Adults manipulate.] [Develop the child's innocence. Don't discuss Mrs. Thatcher or South Africa in front of the children.

But talk about how they treat the children in China, how Russian children are dressed. Send photos to each other of how children dress.] [Show them how to dress (after three they can start to dress themselves), how to keep their things. The dressing room in Sydney, so sweet, all have their combs, but not to be `This is mine.'] [Watch the `my'. For example, don't let them always have the same seat. Say `ours' and `we'.] [They are creative at this age. Paints, for example: `Now let's make a picture of a Sahaja Yogi,' and `And now a bad man. Now make flowers.' Guidance. Not just anything they feel like!] [Otherwise later on they can't take instruction. Not a freelance business. They are not grown up. Give instruction and they learn to take it.] [They must learn to please others, be gentle with others and their elders.] [If they are fighting “This is mine” so you take it, put it up away and say `This belongs to Mother.'] [Watch out for apparent behaviour improvement and check that their vibrations have improved. It may just be on the surface.] [Report cunning to Guido. Do not argue with Guido. You can make suggestions in a reasonable manner. He is in charge of everything.] [Punishment. Never punish in public. Never shout, say things. Give them notice three times, then punish them a fourth time and a fifth time in the presence of others.] [Watch out for slyness. Don't allow cunningness or slyness at all. There is slyness and there is innocent mischief. Innocent mischief is very sweet. Slyness is hurting deliberately. Cunningness is starting to play games. Innocent mischief is good.] [But they mustn't frighten others. For example, lizards or snakes, spiders, cockroaches, mosquitos, bugs, these are bad animals tell them. But sweet things like kittens and chicks. Dogs are nice but the tics and parasites on them are bad. Tell them what is bad and what is good.] [Tell them how thorns protect flowers, they are not inside the flower. Explain the story, how the thorns protect. It is a living thing.] [Concern and care for others and sweet animals encouraged.] [The children are innocent. Must be moral behaviour of elders. Not sleeping together, cuddling or kissing in front of the children. They get ideas at an early age. No nudity. If they take off their panties: `Shame, shame, shame.' Let the idea of shame come into their heads.] [If a child is overactive, deal with it, right side down. Use the techniques. Gulkand [pink rose petals boiled in sugar until crystalised] is very good for liver trouble. Also put ice to the liver.] [They should brush their teeth. Also rub their gums. Take Gulkand to Italy and Monkey brand tooth powder. This is good for everyone, not just children.] [Vibrated water for drinking, vibrated sugar. Everywhere: `From Shri Mataji.' `This is Shri Mataji's.

Thank Shri Mataji for this. Thank Shri Mataji for that.'] [Show them not to have their back to the photograph. The more we are respectful, the more they will be. We should not argue in their presence. We should not shout. We must be peaceful in their presence.

Peace must be maintained.] [When they do sweet things, leave them, else they become self conscious. If our reactions are strong, it is shocking for them. Don't let them be suddenly shocked. It is more of an encouragement to children to show them it is a good, happy, peaceful world and they can grow up not nervous. Avoid stories of violence.] [They are not given sharp things. Show them to be careful of sharp things like the corner of a metal table.] [They must eat nothing whatever that has fallen on the ground. Throw it away (and show them this).] [Let them have more slides and things in the garden (if money is needed, write to Shri Mataji).] [Rome is so special, it has everything. A place of beauty. It is the Soul of Europe. Women lost their sense completely. Mansions falling down. The value system is gone but you couldn't get that from the Romans. They always have double standards: a lack of union and they have double standards.] [There must be balance between loving and intelligence. Handle things lovingly and intelligently. Use intelligence to correct the misbehaving child but the child must know you love him.] [Indians have mastered their life but neglected the political and economical side. Italian women have a sense of the ridiculous (they see punks as ridiculous) but the Italians have crime because it can be organized and it is not stupidity. Mafiā and Christianity both exist and they may laugh at Christianity but they do not laugh at Christ and his Mother.] [Channas (chickpeas) are good: You can give them instead of sweets.]... Look properly after the child for three years. Be dedicated but not attached. Look physically after them... You have to serve children, pay attention to them, but we should not give [them] too much attention, they have to play with themselves. We should not too much cuddle or keep the child on the lap. Take the child only when necessary. Let him play...

E.g. don't ask him if he wants crispies or porridge but say: `Here is some porridge for you today.' This way the child learns that whatever the parents give him is good for him.]... Children shouldn't be allowed to ask: “Why?" It is very wrong, it gives them ego from very childhood...

[Not until the age of six. Ask them the questions, give them problems to solve but they should not trouble you with questions.]... It is good to teach aesthetics by saying `This is good. That is good' but they must not learn: `I like, I like it'...

... `I hate' is another word that should not be allowed. `Hate', This is a very wrong word. Children should never learn such a bad word. It should be told that our language has to be very good...

[We must say: `God doesn't like', not `I don't like'.]... Give the child to others so that they learn that there are other relations possible than with parents.

That makes them innocent in their relation with others. Otherwise they get funny feelings..

... Give them notice three times, if they don't listen after three times then punish them the 4th time and the 5th time in the presence of others..

[-Do not give the children attention when they do sweet things, otherwise they are likely to become self-conscious.] [-Tell them what is good and what is bad.] [-The child often tries to attract attention. If he does something wrong, like saying bad words, ignore it; then he will forget.] [-Pay attention to good things...] [-Let them feel they are Sahaja Yogis and that they have to behave better, that they are special.] [-Let them do things for others. Teach the children to give, always praise giving and sharing. Teach them to please others, to be gentle with others and elders...] [-Teach them the protocol: They should not put their back or feet towards Shri Mataji's photo. Teach them gratefulness and how to thank Shri Mataji.]

[Shri Mataji had gone out and meanwhile Her neighbours start burning rubbish in the back garden. The direction of the wind is such that all the black smoke goes straight onto Sir C.P.'s window and this situation is quite disturbing.] Shri Mataji [when returns to a Sahaja Yogi:] Why didn't you change the direction of the wind?

Sahaja Yogi: Me? How could I ever do such a thing?

Shri Mataji: Very easy, just move the palm of your hand gently in the required direction and the direction of the wind will change accordingly.

[The Sahaja Yogi does not seem convinced, thus Shri Mataji adds:] Tomorrow, make up a fire of rubbish in the back garden and then make the smoke change direction according to the movement of your hand.

[Next day the Sahaja Yogi tries it and lo and behold it happens just as Shri Mataji said.]

[Thelma Fishley Patmore has served Shri Mataji Her breakfast and some tea and she thought she is being clever by waiting until She laid down, then quickly putting on her coat and telling Antonio Scialo that she would be back shortly. Within seconds Shri Mataji is coming down the stairs so softly that they do not heard Her.] Thelma Fishley Patmore [looking at Antonio]: How did Mother get from Her room so quickly?

Shri Mataji: Where are you going? Thelma Fishley Patmore: To the dentist.

Shri Mataji: Why? Thelma Fishley Patmore: Because I have a toothache.

Shri Mataji: Don't go to these dentists; they only want to pull out your teeth for no reason. Bring some olive oil and some salt and come here.

[Thelma feels like a naughty child caught trying to sneak out. When she arrived in Her bedroom, she gives Her olive oil and salt and She mixes the salt and oil together with Her index finger and asks her to rub the mixture on her gums.] [Then Shri Mataji places Her Feet on Thelma's face. Pain vanishes, the bliss lasts for one week, the dentist appointment is cancelled and a deep gratitude settles in Thelma.]

Contents: 1986-07-2x Housemaid Story, House, Dulwich, London, UK

[Shortly after Shri Mataji's return from Italy, Victor Vertunni is standing on the landing in the stairwell in Shri Mataji's presence. Shri Mataji is saying that the housemaid has been stealing from guests. Victor is requested to speak to her firmly and remind her who Shri Mataji is and to raise his voice if necessary:] You must have courage like William Blake. He was Śhrī Bhairava with a sword in his hand.

[Shri Mataji further advices Victor to put a bandhan on and shoe-beat beforehand. A leader who had just arrived, walks into the kitchen while Victor is telling the maid off. He evidently thinks Victor and the housemaid had had a fit.

Leader [in a shocked tone]: Victor, what on earth are you doing? Stop shouting, remember where you are. Go and shoe-beat yourself! [Victor had just shoe-beat, but of course he couldn't say anything: it would have given the game away.

So Victor waits for the leader to leave the kitchen and when the leader is out of earshot, takes up the conversation with the housemaid from where he had left off.] [Actually the leader goes upstairs to see Shri Mataji. After some minutes Victor is summoned upstairs and he bows down.]

Shri Mataji: May God bless you. [After sipping tea:] Well, did you do it? Victor Vertunni: Er, yes Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: So, how did it go? Victor Vertunni: Very well, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Good [smiles].

[Victor bows down and leaves.] [The telling off to the housemaid was to no avail and after being caught in the act of stealing the servant is subsequently dismissed. But Victor learned an important lesson.]

Contents: 1986-07-25 Conversation with Sahaja Yogis, Soul and Spirit, Restaurant `Da Stefano', outside Volterra, Tuscany, Italy

[The beginning of this talk has not been recorded so we begin when Shri Mataji is in the middle of deffning the relationship between soul and Spirit. The analogy she uses involves light, water and the glass that contains the water. As will become clear as the talk continues, the light would be the Spirit, the glass the body and the water which reflects the light, would be the Soul. We pick up the talk when Shri Mataji has just given the analogy.]

Shri Mataji:... then it [the light] comes in there. This [the glass] is the body. All the five Koṣhas, the five auras, Koṣhas, are there.

So these five Koṣhas are managed by the five elements, the essence of which can be called the causal element, the causal of the...

Gregoire:... the causal of the five elements. What we know as Ātmā in Sanskrit, is it the soul plus the Spirit, or only the Spirit?

Shri Mataji: Jīvātmā is the soul but Ātmā is the Spirit.

Gregoire: So Jīvātmā is the Spirit but individualised, belonging to one person?

Shri Mataji: No, no! Jīvātmā is the soul. Means with these five elements. And these five elements give you your own identity, your own character, your own particularities etc. These five elements; the way they are placed in you. That's the causal element, the causal of the elements that are within you. Then these causals act on the Chakras and through the Chakras these causals act on the other... on the grosser side.

So from the subtle to the subtler to the... you can say the subtlest. The subtlest we can say is the Spirit, supposing. Then the subtler is the soul. And the subtle you have the Chakras. And the gross is the body.

Gregoire: So England should reflect on Italy then? [Shri Mataji, on a previous occasion, had mentioned that while England is the spirit, Italy is the soul of the Universe.]

Shri Mataji: The soul is... That's why all the art grew from here [Italy]. Now soul is the essence of all the elements of this Europe, which is here. And England is the reflection.

So England has to reflect on Italy. Warren: See, the water in the glass is reflecting the light. England is the light and the light has to shine out of Italy which is the water. I mean the rive elements in a way.

Shri Mataji: And Spirit can move out of soul. That's why the Romans went all the way to England.

This is the reason, in that seeking. [Referring to the food being served:] What is this supposed to be? Gregoire: So in a certain sense the soul is the support of the Spirit?

Shri Mataji: No, no! soul... Yes, of course. And both put together is the soul actually. The Spirit and the causal put together is the Soul. You see, like a mirror and its reflection on it. Both put together is the soul. The causal of the five elements and the Spirit put together make the soul. Now the vibrations that we feel are the reflection of the light of the Spirit. The Spirit does not vibrate. It does not vibrate. It is those elements, they vibrate. Like you can say that if you put a sound on top of this [a glass of water] it will vibrate. You can put a stone in it, the stone won't vibrate. But this will vibrate. The Spirit when it shines over it...

[To Gregoire who translates:] You have your food. From soul to food, from food to soul.

Guido: So in that sense, by soul you mean the Jīvātmā? The Jīvātmā of Europe.

Shri Mataji: But the Ātmā besides can move out.

So the Ātmā has gone out of it which is a mistake.

Now they have to recognize Italy. Then the Ātmā will be reflected. Because Ātmā can leave the soul.

So the Ātmā has left the soul. There's no Ātmā here. The Ātmā has to be brought here. The English have to come... I mean the England has to come here, in the sense that they have to appreciate the greatness of this country. Then it will spread. You are the ones who can reflect the Spirit. You can reflect the Spirit.

The spirit doesn't do anything. The Spirit doesn't do anything; it reflects. Then all the waves spread. Like in Sahasrāra Day [referring to Alpe Motta, 1986]. Sahasrāra Day you celebrated and in that the whole Europe reflects.

Gregoire: Shri Mataji when you came with a charter plane with all the English Sahaja Yogis [to celebrate Diwali Pūjā 1985] we all felt something great was going on.

Shri Mataji: Yes, the whole charter plane came.... You see, the Spirit is the one where the heart is, which makes the whole thing circulate. The circulation starts with that, but the one who... The elements are the ones really who are the carriers of that communication. They are the ones. But the ones, we can say, the speakers are the one who originates or who throws that light. It is in England we can start it.

But now, as I am in England, that's the light, that's the Spirit. And that's reflected in you.

Gregoire: What will happen when you leave England, Shri Mataji?

Shri Mataji: Then the soul will be formed; before I go. Ātmā is eternal; It doesn't die. But what is happening is, by that time, the work will be complete; a sort or realisation will take place. Only thing is to raise the Kuṇḍalinī and that is in India.

So I'll have to go to India.

Warren: To go to Sahasrāra?

Shri Mataji: To raise the Kuṇḍalinī first. Then go to Sahasrāra.

So that work I'll have to do the stage work there, in India. But the awakening will start when this will be completely reflected here, properly, by the Spirit. That's why I'm coming from England. I always come to Italy from England. Not from India.

I could come. I represent England now, in this case.

Gregoire [having added his own interpretation to a translation he had made, he now addresses Shri Mataji]: I was saying that you come here as the spirit so that your manifestation, through that acceptance here, gets reflected through vibrations in the whole place.

Shri Mataji: I mean, it helps even the heart. Heart will not reflect so much. But your reflection will be received by the heart. The communication from the heart. I am establishing the communication. And a sort of message has been sent from the heart. We get all our information from the heart. We get all the programs, this, that, from the heart; which is not so efficient but it comes from there. The heart is not very efficient but it is done. All that is like that. It's systematic. And symbolic.

Guido: Also you say we have to achieve the deep quality of the Spirit?

Shri Mataji: Yes! You should be able to reflect your spirit. Unless and until you are clean you cannot reflect.

So still there are many Sahaja Yogis, still are very caught up in Italy. They must correct themselves. Now, you see those people who are negative will always sit next to each other; always make friends with negative; will be more friendly with a negative. And that's how, even if they are improving, they go down. They are improving a little bit, then they go down. Negativity will always join negative; have accidents; have problems; have this, have that; children will be sick. [Referring to the meal:] How many courses are there? Gregoire: So, Shri Mataji, this is also why there was this wonderful Gaṇeśha Pūjā here one year ago: because for the causal elements to reflect the spirit they need to gain the essence of the elements which is Śhrī Gaṇeśha... or I mean the essence of matter.

Shri Mataji: It's very important. Because Italy is a very rich place also. It has everything in it. Such a rich place. And other countries who are not rich: take Switzerland, England; all these places are not rich.

So like all the people who are poor they always make fun of the rich, call them `bourgeoise'... in the same way, they always make fun of the Italians. But really they are stupid people. It's like that.

So they make fun of the Italians. Whatever they will do, they'll make fun. They think Italians are something rustic or something. It's typical! In life also you will find; anyone who has money, everybody will make fun of them. It [Italy] has marble, it has so many hand-made things. And always the poor countries which are not... by poor I mean natural poverty, where they are extremely meticulous.

Because you see, they have very little. Like miserly, meticulous you see; and very clean because there is so little they have. For a rich man doesn't matter a little money gone this side, a little that side. Doesn't matter. But this is what they make fun of. Because the stupid people haven't got much from nature because... they don't deserve it also. No they don't. I mean, imagine, the way they have helped for the wars [Shri Mataji is here referring specifically to Switzerland].

Arneau: Yes, terrible!

Shri Mataji: What do they deserve? Imagine, helping Hitler and still on top of the world! Jeremy: May I just say that I am Italy's number one fan, Mother!

Shri Mataji: [Laughing.] That's becoming evident that your spirit is coming down here When they come and see... you see, after Sahaja Yoga they will start seeing the beauty of this place.

Gregoire: Jeremy, you are the number two fan!

Shri Mataji: See, they [the Italians] are a very rich-hearted people. But everywhere you find this kind of an attitude towards them; in the art, in anything. They don't like anything... you see in England I would say they don't like anything that is good-looking. We went to see a house, imagine. It's a crooked house absolutely. Absolutely crooked house and I don't know what sort of thing it was. And they all liked it.

So I said, “What's this nonsense? How do you like this kind of a house, when the beams are falling down, that's all crooked, this, that?" Jeremy: Character, Mother...

Shri Mataji: “Character!" That means, supposing your nose is like this, you have `character'. I mean, it's so absurd! You've got to live there. You've got to live in that house. You'll become a `character' yourself! Gregoire: Shri Mataji, when they don't have natural riches, they create riches artificially. Like the banking system. Out of paper they make money.

Shri Mataji: I'll tell you. You see now the experience of America. The affluence of America is nothing but plastic and rubber. What do they have? Canada has! But they always look down on Canada. Plastic, nothing but plastic. They eat plastic, they live in plastic, sleep in plastic, eat plastic. I mean, the kind of alabaster we saw today. Well, you cannot see anything like this but plastic; at the most glass. At the most glass. In India we have silk, we have everything. But everybody looks down upon us.

[Shri Mataji briefly asks about the food then picks up the thread.] In Switzerland if you buy one cotton shirt, it's so expensive. Even rice, this, that. This banking business. No art, no art.

[At an airport to Carol Garrido:] Why did you prostrate yourself on the pavement outside a house where I used to live? People are saying that you went there and did that. What is the point of worshiping stones? [Then Shri Mataji explains that the current owners of the house had written asking Her to make sure that none of Her disciples went there to venerate the place. Even though Carol had never done this, she said nothing in her own defense and Shri Mataji moved on to greet other people.] [For Part 2 see 1988-0000.]

[Shri Mataji was moving house in 1986 to Shudy Camps and gave a certain Sahaja Yogini a list of items to be brought to the new residence and a list of items to be left behind. At the new residence Luis Garrido hears Shri Mataji rebuking this Sahaja Yogini for not having brought the items that had been agreed on.

Shri Mataji tells her that if she was unsure about what to bring she could have asked. Luis had been loading the items onto the van and did not know about the two lists, but felt like saying something in defense of the Sahaja Yogini.] Luis Garrido: Shri Mataji, the van was completely full, there was nothing more we could have brought.

Shri Mataji: I can't tell you how pleased I am that you stood up to defend this lady.

[The lady in charge of the lists explains that she had forgotten about them, ended up choosing the items at random and if the van had not been filled up with the wrong items there would have been plenty of room to bring the correct ones. Luis wishes that he would have not defended her, but Shri Mataji was pleased that he did. Shri Mataji had given instructions to this lady before, sometimes even written instructions but she would always disregard them and do whatever she felt like.]

Shri Mataji: I'm worried that when you find a job you won't be able to keep it because you keep forgetting to follow instructions and I've been trying to help you overcome this problem.

Victor Vertunni: If you meditate every day and you go thoughtless in meditation and you lead a good Sahaja life, how can you go deeper?

Shri Mataji: It depends what you mean by “go deeper." Victor Vertunni: To feel more joy, more depth, more devotion.

Shri Mataji: You have to put your Guru in your heart. You have to open your heart more and put Me in your heart.

[Just after returning home from a long travel:] If I raise My right side I can go on and on without sleep or rest.

Shri Mataji: Are you using an ice pack on the liver for a running nose? Luis Garrido: No Mother.

Shri Mataji: Why not? Luis Garrido: I never heard of an ice pack for curing a running nose.

[Shri Mataji seems surprised that no one knew this.]

Shri Mataji: [asks a very thin and reserved Sahaja Yogi whether he is taking lots of vibrated salt and sugar].

Sahaja Yogi: Certainly no.

Shri Mataji: [asks him why no].

Sahaja Yogi: Taking lots of vibrated sugar and salt would be indulging in extremes.

Shri Mataji: But if the condition is extreme one might need an extreme treatment and I would advise you to take a generous amount of vibrated salt and sugar as you are suffering from extreme left and right side problems.

[Another Sahaja Yogi is advised by Shri Mataji to eat plenty of protein and to avoid carbohydrates as he had the tendency to fall into the left side and lethargy.] [A Sahaja Yogi who enjoyed taking responsibility is advised to stay away from proteins as much as possible:] Your tendency is to dominate others and to tell everybody what to do and if you follow this type of diet your health and balance will improve.

It's so very joyous to see you all here assembled together. I've to thank you very much for getting such a nice place as this Shudy Camp; I've given it a new name, Shudy Camp meaning cleansing camp which is such an ancient building. It has gone through various stages of history and has kept the mark of all these times and now you have to build up the future on this land, on this spot, in this building.

Also I'm thankful to you for buying such a nice comfortable car for Me. I thought I was supposed to buy but everybody said, “No, we are supposed to buy it for You, Mother." This is the first house that is in My name, first house I own and this is the first car I have owned in My name. I'm so proud that My children have bought it for Me. They have, with their love and affection have bought this huge big place as well as the car for My dwelling as well as for My comfort.

When we come on this earth, when the incarnations descend they don't need a building at all; they have a dwelling that's face the sky and the clouds are the curtains and grass is their bed and all the directions are the worms. But when they reside in the heart of their children, in the heart of their bhaktas, the heart of their devotees, then these beautiful hearts create something so artistic and then recreates according to his own expression of love.

This is what you have done by buying this house and by buying this car, amen. I don't need any conveyance, you know that. But in the modern times the conveyance has changed. It started with a little mouse, changing into a car, maybe an aeroplane. But actually what is My conveyance is? My conveyance is your heart, only through your heart I can be carried. There's no other way out. Your sincerity, your devotion, your love, that can only carry your Mother and this is a symbol of that.

Matter has only one facility that you can express your heart through these material things. Your nobility, your graciousness, your generosity is expressed through matter. I do that Myself and now you have done it this time; I'm thankful to you. As you know very well that I cannot be contained into anything, neither in this house, neither in England nor in India, nor in the whole universe. I'm rather too large, but of course in your heart, I can.

And that is how your heart should be. For Me, a comfortable place like a lotus to relax, to realise My own love. When all these things happen, so much adoration is poured on your Mother you just get boundless; you spread out, you reach such spots in the whole of humanity, everywhere I can feel the worship, the enjoyment of millions of millions who died before, who are there and who will be there. All this expands you into a very subtle sensibility of feeling every suffering soul, every tortured person, every unhappy being, every seeker, every Sahaja Yogi all over the world. In you I see their reflection.

In the same way you all have to expand, expand yourself, that's very important for England. As I said, England is the heart and the spirit resides in the heart but spirit moves out of the heart sometimes, it does. And is reflected through the soul and recently I told in Italy that Italy is the soul. That's why you have to go by a special plane to Italy to reflect. But now Italians have come here. The soul had to come to the spirit.

So let us not be materialistic, for a change. Let us not be mundane but work out your spiritual hankering through its fulfilment. You have seen, so many in India, Ajanta, which was built in eleven centuries, which is built in a range of half-circular mountains. The stones were hewed from top to bottom and the height of some of these is more than eighty feet, the caves and in eleven centuries how they worked it out, that first they made a general plan of it. Then they made the division of it, like that it went on till it came to the detailed working. Generations after generations, in the praise of Lord Buddha whom they had not seen, they had never known, only in dedication to Him.

They worked in that jungle, in that forest, day in and day out, for eleven centuries to build that Ajanta where even their names are not there; no one knows who were responsible, who did it. Without leaving any traces, just for their emancipation, of expression of their adoration for Lord Buddha because He talked of Self-realisation; only talked, didn't give. For eleven generations or may be more because in one century there are at least two generations; maybe twenty-one generations worked, one after another to build that huge thing of seven miles. And the whole thing is so smooth, like this, like the tent that the roof is extremely smooth, as if a tent has been put up and even there is this kind of a looseness, that you can see in this tent and when the wind blows, how the cloth goes into folds with all the beautiful paintings on them, is shown. What was it that made it? Who was the one who guided them? They had never seen Buddha.

We have got realisation, we're much higher people than all of them. We have much more capacities.

Now in Delhi they have discovered that Sahaja Yogis have a greater resistance for digestion, skin resistance and when they're in thoughtless awareness there are no electrical charges in the brain.

So their brains are preserved and are going to be very dynamic for a long time. It's going to be published on the eighth of this month.

So one has to know that we are born in a very dynamic time, historical times. Never before in history we had so many Sahaja Yogis. This is the time of the greatest revolution, greatest evolution and this is the time you're going to achieve something that was never achieved before. Are we capable of calling ourselves Sahaja Yogis? August is a very great month, specially for Me. Today is also a very great day, I should say. In the month of August, we got our independence, as you know, ninth of August, in India. But before that, in 1942, on the third of August, Mahatma Gandhi declared the movement of `Quit India', of the British from India. And today on the same day you have welcomed Me in the heart of the heart, Shudy Camp. Eighth of August, as you know, is the day when Rabindranath Tagore was born and in our college we celebrated eighth of August and I remember it very clearly. And the ninth of August we all went on a strike.

In science college I remember I was a young girl of nineteen years and My professor and My principal still remember all those things that happened. I was standing alone and behind Me were all the students who were doing the strike. When the military came in and they tried to threaten and do all kinds of things to Me. I said, “No, we'll not enter into the college, today is the strike day." When My principal came and he was very happy and they removed him for that. He has written a very nice letter to Me when he met Me the other day, when he saw Me as Mātājī Nirmalā Devī. It was a letter worth really remembering.

So this is the month of a very big change and revolution in India. But with that one has to remember that `Quit India' movement started all right and all kinds of sacrifices were done, people sacrificed so much that you cannot imagine how much people have to sacrifice. As today in South Africa, people are sacrificing so much for their freedom, much worse than in India, much worse. People sacrificed and sacrificed. As a result of those sacrifices, we got our independence and we have to thank the Labour government for that.

If Mister Attlee was not chosen by the Divine we would never have got our independence.

We got our independence and graciously English left us, that was something really great of them, in those days to do it. But that independence was just a political independence, political freedom but today you have the ultimate, ultimate freedom. You got the freedom of your spirit which is not attached to anything, which is not anything but the spirit, which is absolute, which is neither English nor Indian nor Australian, which is not this house, which is not anything but the spirit itself, the complete freedom you've got. In that freedom you have to rise. Still we have considerations of brothers, sisters, children, wife; no, you are the spirit.

You have to sacrifice. For Me, nothing is like sacrificing because I don't know what am I sacrificing. In the same way what we call sacrifice at that stage should be Sahaj now for us, Sahaj. That time it was a sacrifice but today it should be Sahaj. We've gained so much in Sahaja Yoga. In that freedom fight, they gained nothing. But what are we sacrificing? Just our ego and this is what English have to come up to.

“What have I sacrificed for Sahaja Yoga? What have I done for Sahaja Yoga? How much I have exploited it?" We must think it over; it's very important.

You left an empire; India was the gem. On that earning you are still having your doles today. Such a rich country you left, richest of all in the whole world was India. You don't know how rich India was and is today even if you see to it. And you left that country, you are a small country. You don't have any riches as such, nothing, but in your greatness you left it. Nobody will leave like that. Your forefathers did it. It's a great sacrifice I think, from the worldly point of view.

So we have to now understand that, we must have confidence in ourselves in such a way that whatever we sacrifice, what do we sacrifice? In this māyā you sacrifice something and how much you get out of it.

Just the māyā is testing you.

So for today you have sacrificed a lot, given lot of money to have this house and I know that. You'll be amazed I'm not worried about My own money, how much it is spent here and there. But for your money I'm very hard on all of them and the leaders might be thinking I'm so miserly but this is public money, not only public, this is the blood of My children.

So again on this great occasion, this joyous occasion, in the month of August we're having this beautiful place now and with this one we'll have many in future. I hope we'll occupy the whole place quite a lot.

Already the neighbours must have run away and we're going to manage somehow or other to purchase all these places here. You have to desire it. Behind every desire there has to be the action and in that action you have to sacrifice. But if you say it laboriously, “I'm sacrificing, sacrificing” it's not a Divine thing to do, should be done in such a joyous way.

I hope now, today you will all promise Me that every morning you're going to meditate, every morning, everyone, no excuses, you're not going to excuse yourself. Unless and until you meditate I cannot do what I want to do in Shudy Camp. No laziness, no excuses, no telling lies, not deceiving yourself; all of you are going to meditate, that is one promise. And the rest I'll look after, the rest I will look after. You'll just decide to meditate everyday, everyday. That's one more thing you have to give Me is the promise that you will all meditate everyday in the morning time and evening time if you do foot-soaking is good for you, not for Me. Everything's so spontaneous, so beautiful, how it has worked out.

Now to end it up I'll give you a very good example of manifestation of another miracle that has taken place, how it works out. You know we have bought a plot of land of forty-two acres in Vaitarna for the education of children. And the Bombay [Mumbai] people went there and planted some three hundred trees and also they had a paddy farming started there. Before the school starts they thought something should be done about it. But the villagers around would bring their cattle, their cows and their goats and all of them to graze in that ground.

So they got very much worried and the Sahaja Yogis in Vaitarna also said that, “You shouldn't this, this is Mother's land." Again they had a meeting of the villagers, they told, “This is Mother's land, you better not come here." They wouldn't listen to them.

And one day suddenly in the daytime a very big tiger appeared, very big tiger, of a very large size.

And he started roaring and jumping all over, running all over the place whatever we had purchased and all that. And everyday he did it for five days and they got such a fright that they took away their lock, stock and barrel, as you say and everything. Their cattle and their everything they took away, tied it together and all of them. They've also removed their huts, I'm told, they're so frightened. And this tiger is nobody else but is Bhairavanathji. He does that and you know that He's St. George who's working so very hard.

Nobody has seen a tiger there the last thirty years and that area is not known at all for tigers and such a big tiger, they said.

So thank you very much, may God bless you.

Now if you want to give Me flowers you can do that and also I would request you to have your food, it's very late already. And do you want to have some music or something after that? You can have, what's the harm? You could have your food here if you like. It's quite a warm place isn't it? Is there a heater here? No? You all should freeze in this place.

There are so many sayings in English language, if you just pay attention to it. One of them is: oranges and lemons, sold for a penny; that's for our, you see, treatment, with the lemons we have. And there's another one: London Bridge is falling down, suggesting that what we believe into, all these bridges is not important. The bridge with God has to be built and expressing that material things should fall down.

And then: Humpty Dumpty sat on a wall. There are so many things that explain that people knew what it was going to be.

It's so surprising that there's a poet called Lewis. He has written, I don't know if you have read it or not, have you brought that? I wish you had. About the procession he saw in India of you people, you haven't got it? How many of you have read that? That's very exclusive! Surprising, nobody has that. All right, tomorrow. Remember all that you have to get from there. Mister Djamel has to bring many things, I think.

Also there's a Commonwealth meeting going on, better give bandhan, specially to our Indian Prime Minister who is a realised Soul and they were telling Me that all the terrorists have joined together to kill him. And our High Commissioner also, his wife told Me that all the terrorists have arrived.

Do you know in London, who rules? St. George. How dare anybody touch that. St. George rules there, so we don't need a tiger. It's all right, He's already there, settled down.

Thank you very much, all these and I went to..., beautiful, all right. These are all wild flowers, you'll be amazed the country has such an abundance of these wonderful flowers and so unique. See this one is Gaṇeśha's flower here, see this one is the wild flower, you like to see? Such beautiful flowers, see this one, two colours of Gaṇeśha. And they last and last, you see, they don't need much water, nothing, keep them and they last and last. Exactly four. See how beautiful they are. It's beautiful.

Contents: 1986-08-03 Śhrī Bhūmī Dhara Pūjā, Inauguration, Shudy Camps, UK

Today we have assembled here to do the Pūjā of the Mother Earth. We call it as the Bhūmī Pūjā, Śhrī Dhara Pūjā. She's called as Dhara. As you know, `dha' means `sustain'. Ra-dha, the one who sustains the energy is Rādhā. And Dhara, which is the one which is sustenance itself, she sustains us. On her we live.

As you know, this Mother Earth is revolving with a tremendous speed and but for her gravity we would not have existed here. Apart from that, there is so much atmospheric pressure on her. She understands, thinks, coordinates and creates. This only you can find out when you are a realised Soul. You have seen how she sucks in your negativity when you are standing on her, bare feet, respecting her, requesting her to suck your negativity, with a light in front of you, in front of My photograph. She knows Me, because She's My Mother. She's your Grandmother, we can say; that's why she nourishes you, she looks after you.

Early in the morning when we get up, when we put our foot on her we have to say, `Oh Mother, please forgive us because we are touching you with our feet.' But doesn't matter, children can touch the mother with the feet or with the hands, makes no difference.

But she is the creator of the body of Śhrī Gaṇeśh. She's the one who is represented within us as the Kuṇḍalinī. She herself moves in a spiral round the sun. The sun also moves up and down and she moves around the sun in a spiral; but because both are relatively moving, you don't see the movement of the sun. The relationship between the Mother Earth and all other stars, planets and constellations are kept constant and variable, with great care.

When we talk of materialism, we are acting against our Mother Earth. Instead of learning from Her subtler qualities, we are trying to exploit her, to dig her out, to use her for our selfish motives. What does she do to us? She creates these beautiful fruits for you to eat. She creates beautiful trees for you to make furniture, to make nice houses. She gives you green grass to soothe your nerves. She carries so many rivers and so many huge big oceans on her being. She's always larger than the largest of oceans. Such a great thing as she is, what do we do to her is to exploit her fully, indiscriminately. Then the reactions are set in. The beautiful cycle of nature is broken by our aggressive attitude and absolutely indiscreet.

Then this Mother Earth doesn't do anything as such herself, not much; but then the ether starts acting and you have problems, what we call as acid rains, plastic, all kinds of problems that come out of this indiscreet creation.

When we started making machinery, without any balance we started producing machinery, just like mad. As a result of that, now we have become slaves of machines. We can't do anything with our own hands. Because of machines, people have become unemployed. As I've said many a times that machines are for us, we are not for the machines. But today the situation is very different. We are entirely into the hands of machines, again the same indiscreet behaviour, again the same imbalances.

Mother Earth teaches us balance. If she was not in a balance, we would have been all finished. She teaches us gravity. She teaches us how to be attractive to another person without the other person knowing about it, feeling about it. Without enslaving, without mesmerizing, without obliging, to attract and to give without expectations. Without any expectations she gives us; whether we respect her not, whether we'll treat her not, we give her. But when she gets very upset, like as in, you have heard that in Mexico she erupted out. You know what was happening in Mexico, I was telling you long time back, that they are using all kinds of black magic, they are producing all kinds of drugs. Colombia is doing the same. And if you do all these things to harm people, then she gets into volcanic conditions and then a volcano starts bursting out.

As you know, Los Angeles and all these places on the Western coast of America are still in the danger of volcanoes. All kinds of Gurus have gone and settled there, all kinds of black magic is on. There is witchcraft which is officially recognized. Officially they are registered. Nobody minds doing anything, because they say you have human freedom to do all kinds of devilish things. Under the name of human freedom they are doing all kinds of horrible things. As a result of that, Mother takes the respite. It is always a collective respite. It is always a collective respite, please remember this. But when Sītā wanted to leave Śhrī Rāma, she opened herself and took Her inside herself. That is a reception of the Mother, that is not the destruction or eruption. But the eruption harms collectively and sometimes some innocent people are also killed in that.

Death does not exist, in the Divine language. Those who are dead can be reborn. But death sometimes could be used for punishing people, for destroying them, for taking them away from the scene. That's what the Mother Earth does.

Sometimes her anger can be so great that pin-pointedly she can destroy thousands and thousands of miles of earth, destroying many people who have been extremely irreligious and uncollective.

In Sahaja Yoga also, those people who are uncollective, try to be uncollective, are harmed by her; but in a very secretive way which they must understand, or we should say, in a very subtle way.

When Sahaja Yogis become uncollective, saying, “This is my house, my home, this is my privacy. This is my wife, my child, my things. I cannot come to Pūjā because I have got this problem. I cannot do this work for Sahaja Yoga because I've got that problem", when they become uncollective, then in a very subtle way this Mother Earth, which is represented within us as the Kuṇḍalinī, gets upset. And when she gets upset, she starts acting in a manner which can be very dangerous for people.

Possessiveness is not the quality of Mother Earth, she doesn't possess anyone. For example, if you are an Indian you can come to England, you can go anywhere, you can live anywhere. She doesn't possess anyone as such; we only the human beings have made this world into different countries, different places, all our own ideas of stupidity. There's only one world, there's only one world God has created. He has not created...

[Aside:] It's rather awkward here. All right, now better. It's all right, now better. It was rather awkward there. Now all right.

She has not created all these nations. Only there are ravines through which big rivers flow.

Sometimes, wherever she has raised herself, there are mountains. These are her different [on]dulations and different varieties, just to create beauty. Supposing the whole world was like a bald-headed gentleman, what would have happened to us? First of all, we all would have slipped out, I think! Or else, what would have happened if it was nothing but just all over the forest, or all over only the mountains, or all over just the rivers? To create the beauty She has used all these things to make us happy, to give us joy, to entertain us. She created all this beautiful stage for us. And what do we do? We have divided her into parts, that this is my country, this is your country, this is their country. When we die, what is our country? You are all dead bodies, whether you are buried in a church or in the open, you are all in the Mother Earth. What is our country is that we are the Mother Earth.

So we have to understand that this body is made out of that Mother Earth to which it has to go and we are stupid to feel that we belong to this country or to that country.

Of course, this is the greatest miracle of the māyā, that people know this but still they do not want to believe it. There are so many truths they know: they are sure, they know about it, but they don't want to believe it. Or they believe it, but they don't want to accept it. And even if they accept it, they don't want to know about it. It's a funny human miracle that they know that nothing belongs to us. When we come on this Earth our hands are like this; when we go, everything is like this.

Despite that, despite this understanding we still play games with ourselves, cheat ourselves and try to believe that I am this country, I am that country, I am so great and so that.

But the human beings were born in certain countries earlier that, in other countries. That has definitely made difference to the tradition and understanding of life, that is human life. Earth remains the same, but this changes. The climate may be different, that's why the fruits may be different. It's all an adjustment.

In the whole plan there is such a good adjustment, no quarrel, no problem; it's just a variety again.

Supposing all bananas are produced all over the world, who would care for them? For example, if you give bananas to Indians, they will laugh at it. But if you give them apples, they'll say, “Oh, apples, wait!" The other way round for the English: if you want to give somebody present as an apple, they'll look at you, “What's the matter with this person?" So this is again her own style of playing and giving you different type of climates, different type of produces, so that you enjoy different things. If there is no variety, then you won't be able to enjoy it. How much she understand you and how much do we understand her? For a Sahaja Yogi it is important to understand that we are not going to take anything from here. It's all nothing but clay. And clay is going to remain here and is going to vanish for ever and ever. What are we going to carry with us? What are we going to have with us? All the time it's our evolution, is now our spirit.

So we are the spirit: we are neither this nor that, nor that. What we are, we are the spirit and we are absolutely not any way contaminated by anything that is called matter.

So we should see to the essence of the Mother Earth, that the Mother Earth uses her matter to give joy to others. In the same way if we use her to give joy to others, then you have followed her path. On the contrary if you try to exploit her, it's like making holes or digging at her, who is your mother.

If you try to separate her into parts, that means you are cutting her body into different parts. All these human concepts are anti-mother.

But the worst and worst of all is that we do not respect Śhrī Gaṇeśha within us, which is the creation of this Mother Earth. Śhrī Gaṇeśha, which is the innocence within us, we do not respect. We do not respect the innocence that has come to us.

The way children are tortured and butchered and abused, it's amazing how people are not afraid that one day a big volcano might break into a country like this, where the children are treated like this? In that case the Mother Earth will destroy all the human beings who are behaving like this and she'll take all such sweet children into her lap and she'll reproduce them somewhere else.

It is very important to understand that unless and until we respect Śhrī Gaṇeśha within us, our innocence, our chastity, we cannot allow ourselves to call Sahaja Yogis. That is the first beginning, the first step towards our ascent. We cannot talk of anything else, unless and until this foundation is laid in the Mother Earth.

That is why today I have decided that we should have a Bhūmī Pūjā in England. I hope by this, innocence in this country will be respected, will be loved, will be protected and will be nourished. By this, innocence in grown-up people will be awakened, that they will respect their innocence, respect their chastity above all other things.

By this Bhūmī Pūjā we respect the essence of the Mother Earth that is the Kuṇḍalinī within us and we respect our Self-realisation by that.

I hope what I am going to do today may be able to transform this country into its real form that I call as the Heart of the Universe. By this, I hope the Mother Earth will melt the stone hearts of this country into beautiful lotuses, into fragrant flowers of daises all around.

May God bless you.

Today's Pūjā is going to be very small and we are not going to have a very long Pūjā. It's just going to be Śhrī Gaṇeśha's Pūjā and Gaurī's Pūjā, it's not going to be a very long Pūjā. Only thing is that today with full attention, you all should sit down with left hand towards Me and right hand on the Mother Earth; on the Mother Earth, right hand on the Mother Earth. If you are sitting on the chairs, you can put the left hand towards Me and right hand towards the Mother Earth.

Children [soft laugh.] [To the Sahaja Yogi bringing the microphone:] All right? So today is a very happy and a very-very auspicious day for all of us. That we have to offer a just a thread to our brothers for their protection.

I've already told you the story of Alexander the Great. How many of you have not heard it? Raise your hands. Look at that! Ha, ha, ha, ha, can't be! All right.

So I will tell you the story of Alexander...

[laughs and laughter]. You are very clever I know [laughs and laughter]. Alright.

So the story of Alexander is like this. That Alexander the Great invaded the India.....

To see so many Sahaja Yogis assembled here, I'm sure the devil must have run away long time back. And the caravan must have left but I hope we are aware of it and we forget about our fears of our catches, of our past, of all the nonsense we have done so far. Suddenly in My presence, I think, people get into a sense of guilt. I'm here to soothe you, to cleanse you, to make you beautiful and not to feel guilty.

Actually when we start looking at ourselves the first thing you notice is that there's a block on the Āgñyā, but this block in the Āgñyā is the worst thing that can happen to us because it is the door of the Kuṇḍalinī. She reaches up to Viśhuddhi all right and then She has to move forward, this Āgñyā stops it.

That's why we have left Viśhuddhi, we have all the Viśhuddhi problems. The flow cannot take place. Also this is one of the reasons we feel guilty because of left Viśhuddhi. It's a symptom of a disease.

Today we are going to worship Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa.

So we have to understand first of all that we're Sahaja Yogis. We're not ordinary people or we're not people who have not known the truth; we have known the truth. We have to be completely aware of it. That's one truth if you establish, you have established yourself quite a lot.

Now the ordinary people as you have seen on Oxford Street, you see, they wear Indian dresses funnily tied, they don't know how to tie it up, dhotis and sarīs and they shake their heads and buy some of these, what we call them, shindis or bodhis or I don't know what you call, tails, pigtails and attach them with some glue and they start dancing. When they dance, their pigtail falls off and the sarīs and the dhotis, everything start opening out. That's a very funny, ridiculous scene. One side you see the punks and another side you see this nonsense, in the name of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, that's even worse. Punks do not do it in the name of, I don't know if they do it in the name of King Solomon. But they do it in somebody's name, these people that is so great as Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa. On the contrary, Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's hair are described in all the books and in all the poetry that poets could sing about. He was never shaven-headed. It is impossible to understand how these people got the idea that you must shave your head.

So the Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's aspect of Yogeshwara has been so misunderstood. It's absolutely misunderstood because we cannot understand that the truth is covered with māyā, always. And you should keep māyā on one side and go to the truth. Instead of that, we get lost in the māyā, like very simple example, as it is, that He is a Yogeshwara; so these people have idea of a yogi, that He should be shaven, He should wear that dhoti, dirty one and must put on a pigtail. Another concept, māyā is a concept. And when you start living on those concepts of your own, you may gather it up with something else, you may think that Christ was a person who was a Sannyāsī, who used to wear another kind of a robe and He had a beard and He had hair like this.

All those ideas, “So if we become like this, we'd be very great yogis." These are all our concepts about someone whom we have never seen, whom we have never known. And because we live with those concepts, we get limited. It's very difficult for these people to break through because māyā can only be broken through realisation. That's why first thing in Sahaja Yoga is realisation. Take your realisation. You are a drunkard, all right, get your realisation. You are a drug addict, get your realisation. You are a bad man, get your realisation. Anyone, get your realisation first; put the light first into a person. Let him see for himself.

So all this identification with different concepts is responsible for giving us a very mayami or illusive personality. We live in an illusive personality, live with it, enjoy it and we think we are perfectly all right.

Now if you are aware you are Sahaja Yogis and you have come here for Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa Pūjā, what is the preparation we have to do. We're Sahaja Yogis, we know about Kuṇḍalinī, we know about Viśhuddhis, we know about Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa. All right, how are we going to prepare ourselves for the Pūjā of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa? First of all, He tried to break all the concepts. First the concept He broke was that you have to be like a ascetic to look. He broke this concept; He lived like the king. In His childhood He used to go and play with the cows. And there He would use a peacock's feather to decorate Himself and He would listen to beautiful music of the river Yamuna and reproduce it. He was leelāla, He was the one who created all kinds of mirth. What is mirth in French? They don't have mirth, I believe. It's not fun, it's more than..., it's mirth. Mirth is sweeter than fun, all right, sweet fun. What a word! Sweet fun! This is mirth, now what is happening to you is mirth. I'm creating mirth in which you feel tickled, you know. Mirth is something where you feel tickled.

So He tried to create mirth, never seriousness but He was not frivolous. He was Yogeshwara. He was not frivolous, so this difference between frivolity and mirth is to be understood only through Him because He's also discretion. Mirth is joy-giving, frivolity is destructive. Anything frivolous if you do...

So we have to be in a state of mirth, so no question of feeling guilty comes in, you're not prisoners are we? We're prisoners of our own concepts and our own ideas and our own degradation. We degrade ourselves, God does not.

So we should be in the state of complete mirth and enjoyment. Now it has rained, all right. That's a very good thing to happen today. Yesterday I was listening to the program, I was just smiling, because I knew it would not work out that way.

And in India, on this day, when they celebrate in the morning, children of the village or children of the particular areas gather together. And for them the householders tie a little pitcher, which we call as a matka and in that there is money, anything valuable they want to give to the children, sweets, everything put inside and is tied up in the air. Normally it rains, if it doesn't rain then they pour water on the children to make them feel it's raining. Rain is very much connected with Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa.

So the children come and they go in a way that the taller boys are first, then smaller, then smaller like a pyramid they go up till at the end there's one boy who's sort of representing Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa and then he breaks that.

And from there everything falls down and flowers, everything on them, they take the money, they take all those things and start enjoying. Then they go to another place, the whole day they are moving in the city like that and every good householder ties that matka for these children, for them to come and enjoy themselves. That's in the real sense, is the Kṛiṣhṇa Ashtami in Gokul where He lived as a child.

Now why is He so much connected with rain? Once all His friends and He were looking after the cows and Indra felt that He is very powerful, somehow, I don't know, He gets into jealousies sometimes. And He sent rain to test His patience, His leelā, His play, His mirth. It rained and rained and rained and they did not know what to do.

So there was a mountain called Govardhan. Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa lifted it with His stick or His finger and just put it up on top of His finger, like that. That's why He is called as Govardhan Dhari.

And the whole mountain was on top and all the children joined Him and now the cows and He asked the children, “You also put your sticks up to help." And they all put their sticks and standing very sweetly holding the Govardhan. That is one of His names, Govardhan Dhari.

So the rain had to come and the cows with their bells have to remind us. Imagine the lake has a name which is a black; Kṛiṣhṇa means black, Kṛiṣhṇa word itself means black. How Sahaj the whole thing has worked out. Can you see the coincidences are so Sahaj but are so. And here we are sitting, it's raining, nicely enjoying everything. But on the contrary when we start not enjoying we play into, either into our ego or superego. Supposing we are starved people, tortured people, then we start making others like ourselves. We like to make them suffer and torture them. That's why I always say, “Poverty is leprosy." Anybody who is in poverty can develop horrible things within themselves. It is never to be sided with, not to be sympathized but to be completely eradicated.

Another side is the ego where we try to dominate others and enjoy that. There's no joy, there's no joy in dominating others and saying things to others. I was sorry to hear yesterday that there are some girls who are married, some Indian girls who are married and their husbands are not respecting them and troubling them. It hurt Me very much. That shows they're so low level people, very low level. Such a mediocracy, such useless people. They should have never come to Sahaja Yoga and deceived us like this.

They will go to hell direct, I can tell you this.

Now there are some who are caught up with their superego; they suffer from some sort of a funny Sahaja Yoga schizophrenia. And they don't want to get rid or it. They just don't want to understand that they're not normal people, they have to be perfectly all right. They make everyone miserable, jump on to all the places where they should not be. Like a person who has got, say, example, tuberculosis, a disease which is contagious. Must understand he has got tuberculosis, keep out, don't give it to others, at least.

But those who have got badhas will definitely come, either they'll give big lectures. I start seeing them like big bhoots speaking, or if not they have badhas then they will come at a place where they should not be. They'll put their hands in the prasada, they'll be sitting in the Pūjā in the front, all kinds of things they'll be doing, catching people. And they enjoy it because they are identified with the badhas. How will they improve? There's one fellow who is a bhootish fellow, we have had him for, I think, for at least for a century I should say and he's giving lectures to others, “You must clean the shoes of all the Sahaja Yogis to get rid of your ego." So such a gross, depraved and low level people are still in Sahaja Yoga.

So the enjoyment of Sahaja Yoga becomes less. If you eat rice with stones in it, how will you enjoy it? And that's what it is.

We are here to enjoy the blessings of God, to have the mirth but still we are living with all joy-killing things that we have. How are we going to get rid of those things.

So at least we do not become thorns in the lives of others.

So the so-called free will, I'm happy Rustom has told you about it, is nothing but your ego and superego because you're not in the center. In the center, you have nothing but freedom, that's all, nothing but freedom; nothing like free will, freedom, complete freedom. There's nothing like will or nothing like bhoots, nothing like bondage, it's entire avenue of freedom. Then this freedom is the knowledge, this freedom is the love, this freedom is the discretion. Then you say God gives you freedom and others freedom equally then you act which doesn't bound you nor anybody else because it is knowledge, it is discretion.

Age does not matter, what age you are. I've seen some also very old people singing beautifully and enjoying Sahaja Yoga and make Me enjoy also. Life is for us to enjoy, nothing else. But because we're not free people, we cannot enjoy. There is no bondage of any evil thought which keeps you down. It is so subtle but penetrating into every that is gross, that is Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's beautiful flute which creates a picture of the nature. The description, the whole thing becomes silent like a picture.

So this evening we'll have the Pūjā, we'll have all the enjoyment of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's blessings upon us.

There's no end to the stories of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, all full of mirth and play and innocence that kills Rākshasas, devils.

So today I've talked to you about His childhood and the Pūjā I'll tell you about Gītā.

May God bless you.

Contents: 1986-08-23 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, before Dinner and Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa Pūjā, Hotel Primrose au Lac, Schwarzsee, Switzerland

So we have decided, we have decided to have the Pūjā after our dinner because Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa was born in the night, about twelve o'clock while I was born twelve o'clock in the daytime, same with Śhrī Rāma. And also Christ was born twelve o'clock in the night.

I've told you that today I'm going to tell you about Gītā. That is the second part of Kṛiṣhṇa's life.

So different and varied that some people, intellectuals as usual, say that the Kṛiṣhṇa who played as a child in Gokul was different from the Kṛiṣhṇa who was the king of Dwarika.

So when He became the king of Dwarika there was a war between Pāṇḍavas and Kauravas, one representing the good people, another representing the bad people.

So they came to ask Him if He would join on their side.

So He said, “I've got My army and I Myself, so whichever you choose you can have." So Kauravas said, “We'll have your army” but Pāṇḍavas said, “We'll have you." And that is how the war started and in the war His greatest disciple was one of the Pāṇḍavas called Arjuna. And Arjuna asked Him to fight for him. He said, “I will not take any weapon in My hand but I will be your charioteer and drive your chariot." And when He was driving the chariot it so happened that Kṛiṣhṇa saw Arjuna's depression. And Arjuna said, “What is this war? Why should I fight? I'm fighting my own Gurus, those who have taught me all the Vidyās of the battleship, battle and also the Vidyā of archery and I'm fighting my own cousins." So Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa said that, “They're already killed, they don't exist, they're already dead people, because they're not realised Souls, I've already killed them.

So you have to just play this drama of killing them." So the foremost contradiction that people present about Gītā is that those who read Gītā should be vegetarian. Kṛiṣhṇa told, Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa told Arjuna that, “You kill them." Human beings, his own relations, his own cousins who were bad people. What about chickens and goats? But all those who start reading Gītā in India give up all meat eating and take to vegetarianism, or they fast.

So how contradictory these things are.

So He never preached vegetarianism, at least in Gītā. And He asked Arjuna to kill.

In the modern times there is a war going on between the evil force and the good. You don't have to kill them; even if you give them bandhan they're already dead, they're not realised Souls, they'll be all neutralised. But you have to kill them in the sense you've to kill your connections with them.

Like I see many people who come to Sahaja Yoga, “But my mother is not yet a Sahaja Yogini, so she troubles me, how can I do Sahaja Yoga?" For anything else they'll fight the mother but not for this.

“Kill your attachments and your relations." That's what He said, if in case they are troubling you in your ascent. This is the message of Gītā to begin with. But on the contrary I've seen there are people in Sahaja Yoga who once they get married want to get out of Sahaja Yoga, take out their husbands or take out their wives or want to live away and want to be non-collective.

So you have to kill. There are [UNCLEAR], there are six enemies human beings have but in the modern times they have multiplied, I think. The first one is the lust. Kill your lust. The lust that is today finishing the West more than the greed.

So first is to kill your lust.

Then kill your anger. There are certain people who have a built-in response that as soon as they see somebody they get into anger. If a white man sees a black man he gets into an anger, a black man sees a white man he gets into anger, surprising. I mean, God has made all kinds of things; the life would be boring if you all have the same parched skins, all of you looking the same.

So he has made different types of beautiful people. But this anger can come from any source. This is what it is when you kill anger, actually you kill all your connections with the past, the responses, the conditionings you have had.

Then the vanity that people have; I find it much more when I go to places where people call themselves bureaucrats or they're “in charge” like matrons telling people what to do, “Do this, do that, do that." This is the Kṛiṣhṇa's finger, using Kṛiṣhṇa's finger on others. The vanity, the vanity that you are perfect, you are perfect, “Nothing wrong with me." You are the best people, English think they're the best, Germans think they're the best, Italians think they're the best, or, say, the best of all are the Switzerland, Swiss people. This vanity, this forge, has to be cut up. What have you achieved by being a certain nation, let us see. What have you contributed, belonging to a certain country. Those who only belong to the Kingdom of God have achieved something. The rest of them are useless people, just finding some way to fight each other, to denounce others and vanity is just like a balloon. If somebody just puts a pin into it the whole balloon will collapse.

Now the worst of all is jealousy and that is among Indians, Indians are very big jealous pots. Specially the Indians who are again in the government and the politics but otherwise also there are jealousies.

They'll always complain about the other people and will be jealous. And also in the West people are quite jealous, I must say. They're jealous of things which is most surprising. One day I was going in the car and one gentleman was very furious for nothing.

So the another one tells Me, “They're jealous because you're sitting in a Mercedes car." I said, “But it's not Mine, that's My husband's, you see." What is there to be jealous because I'm sitting in a Mercedes car. I mean, this is being a very stupid, nonsensical thing but still I can't believe you can be jealous of somebody because he has a Mercedes car, what does it matter? To Me, it's a foreign idea absolutely, I can't understand. But there are stupid and stupid things like that.

I can only understand one jealousy, that is between husband and wife, little bit.

Then the fifth thing that He asked us to kill is the attachment, very important, “This is my child, this is my..." This is Indian also, more Indian, “This is my cousin, this is my brother, this is my ānce, this is my wife." Also in the West, the other way round is that they do not care for their children. They do not care for their mothers, they do not care for their fathers. They do not care for anyone whatsoever, but for themselves.

That comes from the last one, is called as the greed. Now when you have greed, you don't care for anybody, you just want to have everything, from another person. You want to grab another person of everything. Whatever another person has, you want to have it. But when you don't want to have it everybody wants to give you it, that's My case. I'm very afraid to say even that, “This is nice” because immediately tomorrow I'll find it in My house.

So this greed is the one which has done such a harm to the whole world. People have gone into great dominations on other countries, for what? For these diamonds and nonsensical things like that? They have ruined their own lives, the progenies of the progenies they've ruined. All their cunning they have used to ruin so many nations just to put them one against another, creating problems, doing all kinds of intrigue.

Just for what? For greed which is absolutely like cancer, doesn't allow anybody else to exist. And then you start eating yourself out. It's a disease, I think, greed. And with that goes the miserliness; people become miserly. Then where does this greed end up. After all the money that accumulates or things that accumulate in your house, what happens to them? You want to use them. What's the matter with this one? Try to be, not to be, I've told, otherwise I'll ask you to go out, all right? Concentrate.

So what happens to the people who are greedy? They become miserly, they can't enjoy life, they cannot spend money because the greatest joy is in giving things to others, no doubt about it. And they cannot give any joy to anyone, they cannot create anything for the future progeny to see.

So what happens to them? Their children when they come in they become wastrel, waste. They waste all of them, they lead a wasteful life, they get into wrong things and ruin themselves.

So their children who are born become miserly.

So the vicious circle starts moving. He has said, “Kill all of them, these are your six enemies." Now the contradiction, again people use, about Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, in so many other ways that it is surprising that not only Christ, not only Mohammad Sahib, not only Lao Tze, not only Śhrī Rāma but even Kṛiṣhṇa was misused by His followers. He's the one who is datast, the one..., datast means who stands on the banks of the attention and sees everything, who watches everything, he's the one who is the witness. He described, “Sākshī rupena samsthita” he becomes a Sākshī, a witness. That's what He has said, it's a play, it's a play. But in the name of Kṛiṣhṇa you find all kinds of absurd things people do. They make dramas, they become Kṛiṣhṇas, they become, they make people..., befool them, make money out of it or they sell books on the street. Like if you go to Southall you'll find so many Westerners wearing funny dresses going round asking for alms from Indians and Indians say, “Oh look at that, these beggars, see they have come to get some, let us give them some money." So the contradiction of Kṛiṣhṇa's life is such a miserable thing, is such a absurd thing that it hurts Me to see how such a great incarnation who was misused in this world by human beings. If there was anything lacking in that incarnation, was this, that He did not give realisation to people but He did talk about it.

He said about it, talked of meditation; He did all that was needed at this stage. But what is the result? All His incarnation was misused.

Throughout Gītā if you read, you'd be amazed how people have changed Gītā and its writings also.

Same in the Bible and same in the Koran. Things that they could never have said it, how could they have said it, you'd be surprised, impossible, because they cannot contradict themselves. For example, Gītā is written by Vyāsa who was an illegitimate child of a fisherwoman. But in the Gītā it is written that your caste is determined by your birth; how can it be? The one who is the son of..., an illegitimate son of a fisherwoman, how can he tell like that? See the contradiction. Same in the Bible, same in the Koran, same in the Koran, in all these books, all these people have tried to play a very nasty role by changing it. But you can find it out. Luckily, whatever they may try, the truth comes out in this manner and you can prove it that whatever you're saying is wrong, cannot be. The one Vyāsa who wrote was the son of a fisherwoman and how can he say that Brahmins are the highest, when he's not born as a Brahmin. And to say that your caste Brahminism comes from your birth... From your rebirth! Only they removed little bit, rebirth.

This is how they interpreted Gītā in various ways in such contradictory manners. His whole writings or sayings could not be changed, of course, they could not change it but wherever they wanted to put their own style, they did it. Because ultimately, it went into the hands of the Brahmins who were not really Brahmins, they were the people who were sudras because they were not even realised Souls and behaving in such a dirty manner; they should not be called as Brahmins. But it went into the hands of so-called Brahmins and they misinterpreted it.

Same thing with Bible. It went into the hands of horrid people. Mister John said something which was sensible, all right, but what about the other fellow, Paul? He comes in and spoils everything. Then comes Augustine, he spoils everything, why? Because they're devils. There is a evil force; this theory that there is no evil force is a wrong theory, doesn't exist. There is a evil force and don't play into the hands of evil force even this much. And that was clearly taught by Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa. But even then the contradictions can come in.

Like if you are a Kṛiṣhṇa bhakta then if you just start running on the street, “Kṛiṣhṇa! Kṛiṣhṇa! Kṛiṣhṇa! Kṛiṣhṇa!" like that, then you are celebrated, or like a madcap go on, “Kṛiṣhṇa! Kṛiṣhṇa! Kṛiṣhṇa!" like that. Or else being worse than that is some people said we're Kṛiṣhṇas.

Like this horrible Rajneesh did. He said He used to make the women naked, so, “I'm making the women naked." I started wondering, “When did Kṛiṣhṇa make women naked?" When He was a little boy less than five years of age, He used to climb up on the trees and the ladies used to take their bath in the river Yamuna.

So He used to hide their clothes just to raise their Kuṇḍalinī and see how it works. At the age of five years what does a child understand? This horrible fellow, was he five years of age when he was doing this nonsense? Using Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's name like this? And when he used to break the pitchers of these Gopis, what was He doing? He was doing Kuṇḍalinī awakening, because the Gopis were taking out the water from the river Yamuna which was vibrated by Rādhā and He used to break them on the back so that the water would fall on their Kuṇḍalinī and they would get their realisation, in this lifetime. That's what's His purification. But first thing they will do is to separate Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa as a child and Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa as the one who talks to Arjuna, very nice.

So there is no relevance and use Him the way you want. It's a very common thing that people start talking about Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa as if He's in their pocket, or they are the writers of Gītā.

Like we have in the churches those bishops and things who drink a lot and then they take out their Bible and start reading upside down. All these class whether this belongs to this or to that, all of them are hypocrites of the worst type, just money spinning people. Even Indian temples which are not far-fetched are ruined. All the ganja and all that are sold in Indian temples. All these popes and all these people are doing something that is never expected. Imagine they make a kind of a wine called Benedictine in your Vatican. Can you imagine a nonsensical thing like that? Tomorrow they'll open a beer bar, I won't be surprised.

So we come to a position to understand that all those people who talk of these great incarnations and profess a religion are all hypocrites. There's no religion. Simple people who believe these hypocrites because they're so simple, so innocent. These cunning, greedy devils who started these religions, exploited these simple people, used them for making temples, churches, mosques, they have no religion within them, how can they talk of God? Their life is so impure.

So we have to start our own innate religion, our own spontaneous, natural religion which is the human religion, which is the Vishwa Nirmalā Dharma. The one that will give you the inner ascent, not just talk, no hypocrisy; and all that which goes with religion to malign the names of these great incarnations has to be brought to the light for the people to see this nonsense that has been eating into our societies, eating into our families, eating into our children, has to go away, whenever the religion, normally doesn't mean this nonsensical religion, falls down, that time, to save the Sādhus, the seekers and to destroy all these devils, “I take My birth again and again." “Every yuga I take My birth." And this is what is an incarnation.

You must be very fortunate people that now you can see the cunning of all these devils and can exist into that purity, into that benevolence, the hita, which was promised by Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa. He never told lies, what He told was the truth. He was truth. But those who tried to use Him had to take course to something which was falsehood, hypocrisy and cunning but that in no way could stop the truthful people from getting to reality.

May God bless you all.

Contents: 1986-08-23 Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa Pūjā, The Six Enemies and False Enemies, Hotel Primrose au Lac, Schwarzsee, Switzerland

Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa resides in our Viśhuddhi Chakra.

In the center, He resides as Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa.

On the left hand side, His power, Viṣhṇumāyā, His sister, resides. There He resides as Gopala, as the one who lived in Gokul, played as a child.

On the right hand side He resides as the King who ruled in Dwarika, the King Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa.

These are the three sides of our Viśhuddhi Chakra.

The people who use their right side to dominate others, use their voice to put down people, to show their authority, shout at people, are the people who get affected by the right side. When the right side is caught up, on the physical side, you get a very big problem because the right Heart cannot work out its flow.

So you get what you call asthma and all these diseases, but specially when the right Heart is affected by the father's problem.

On the left side is the Viṣhṇumāyā, is the sisterly relationship. When the sister, who is your pure relation, is not treated as a sister, when the attitude of a person towards women is of indulgence and of lust, then he develops the left Viśhuddhi.

When he develops the left Viśhuddhi very strongly and if he has a bad Āgñyā, or if he has eyes which are roving eyes, then this left Viśhuddhi causes lot of trouble. Left Viśhuddhi can be also caused by, as you know, by feeling guilty about things for nothing at all.

All these problems arise from Viśhuddhi. But Viśhuddhi Chakra has a speciality. When the human beings raised their head upward, from Mother Earth towards the sky, sky is, ether is Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's nature, when it raised its head towards the ether, towards the sky, then this Viśhuddhi Chakra developed into a different dimension and people started developing their ego and superego. Superego was already developed, but ego developed in such a way that it started suppressing the superego. That's how you have got conditionings on one side of the Viśhuddhi and ego on the other side.

When I told you the other day that you give up your free will, in the sense that when you raised your head, you did it through your free will, with your power of growing that you had as animals. After that, now you have reached to the human level and to rise above the human level, now, [what] you have to do is to seek your complete freedom and for that, Viśhuddhi Chakra is going to help you a lot.

On this Viśhuddhi Chakra, we have to really pay full attention. It is such a complicated Chakra. It has all the vowels of a Devanāgarī script emitting out of the sound of the Shakti that is passing through it, of the Kuṇḍalinī that is passing through it.

So all the vowels are heard on these Chakras. These vowels are, as you know, sixteen in number.

Without the vowel in the Devanāgarī, you cannot write anything. Vowels are the sustenance, are the power that supports every consonant.

So it's very important that our vowels have to be fully nourished and respected.

The movement of the neck, as you have seen, in all international life, if you see, everybody has practically the same. Even those who cannot hear, those who do not understand your language, you can nod like this, can say no like this, everyone understands this is `yes' or `no'. In some particular area, of course, they have little different type of nodding.

But too much of nodding of head is not a very good sign. I have seen people in the West, if you tell them something, to show that they have appreciated it, they'll go on... [nods Her head a few times] for quite some time. That's not necessary. Just have to say, `All right' or `I've understood it,' that's all.

You have to use your voice instead of nodding like this all the time. It's very bad, very, very bad for the Viśhuddhi Chakra.

Or some of them are the other way round. That whatever it is, they'll put up their head like this...

and they won't talk properly, they will not say a word, they'll just keep quiet. You may go on pinching them, doing anything, they won't budge. This kind of personality is also very much detrimental to the growth of their evolution. Apart from that, their Viśhuddhi becomes a very big problem.

Because of Viśhuddhi, there are so many problems. Like angina, you develop because of Viśhuddhi.

You develop spondylitis because of Viśhuddhi.

Sometimes people lose their voices completely.

Sometimes, they have all the time coughing. And there are so many physical problems out of Viśhuddhi because, as I said, it's a very, very complicated center, which looks after your ear, nose, throat, all the sixteen sub-plexuses are there, which are looked after by this center.

But above all, is the center of discrimination. The center of discrimination only comes when you are free people. Till you are biased, till you have your own concepts, you cannot be discreet. And that's the one point where, one must understand that to achieve your complete freedom, you have to get your Viśhuddhi Chakra cleared out.

First and foremost thing is, that we must speak in a sweet manner. Speak to someone in a sweet manner, not artificially, but sweetly. Speak in a manner that another person likes it: “Satyam vadet priyam vadet" [speak the truth, speak that which pleases]. Speak the truth. Don't tell the lies. If you go on telling lies, after some time even if you tell the truth, it will become a lie. But if you are telling the truth, that, even if you tell a lie, it becomes a truth.

Now, some people think that they can be cunning, by their talks, they can cheat people, but actually, they are cheating themselves. All such people who cheat others by sweet talks, by artificial talks, or by some manoeuvreing, go to such a horrible state and in this Kali Yuga, especially, they are cursed and they get exposed and people know about them, that these are the greatest liars ever known. Now the times are coming when all such people will be exposed very much more than they have been ever exposed.

So be careful, not to think that you can cheat. In Sahaja Yoga, especially, you cannot cheat. Those who try to cheat sometimes think that, “We can befool Mother, we can somehow or other carry on. If we sit in front of Mother, She won't know what we are up to." It's not so. I may not say, I may use My discretion not to say. I may allow you to have a long way. But be careful, do not come into My illusions. I'm very elusive and when I play My illusions, you will suddenly find yourself in a very difficult situation and then you will say “Mother, why am I in this situation?" So this is one of the qualities of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa. That He is the one who becomes elusive. In His elusiveness, not cunning, but elusive, in His elusiveness, He exposes people to themselves. There are so many stories of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa in which He has elusively acted to give greater joy to some people, to give nice lessons to some people and sometimes to punish you.

For us it is important that we are Sahaja Yogis. In this lifetime, we have a chance, our Kuṇḍalinī has risen, that we can face ourselves, that we can correct our Chakras, that we know about ourselves, that we know where is the problem is.

I have known of people who were caught up with left Viśhuddhis and have become devilish by nature, devilish. They have gone out of Sahaja Yoga, they have criticised Sahaja Yoga, they have tried to trouble Me a lot.

So don't think that, if Viśhuddhi is spoiled, there's nothing so special about it. It can be a very dangerous center. Of course, Heart, Āgñyā and Viśhuddhi, these three centers, one has to guard against, because three of them can allow you, or can force you, to become one with identification of evil as your own. You might just feel that it's nice to be evil. You might just feel that it is a great fun to be evil and you might become evil.

So, at the Viśhuddhi Chakra, one has to be extremely careful.

Viśhuddhi Chakra looks after so many things, specially your skin, your eyes. Skin is now, I have seen people who have bad Viśhuddhi, can have all kinds of funny troubles with their skins. Of course it has to do with your liver, but skin is, the way it shines, the way it glows, depends on how you smile, how you look at the world. Many people have a habit of smiling for nothing at all, especially women I have seen, ladies I have seen, they just smile stupidly. That's not proper. One should not be stupid.

Stupidity is against Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's principle. Like, you have seen the stupid people, how they are.

Their tongue is always half way out. If you have noticed a stupid man, his face is that, his tongue is always out, mouth half open and he looks like a dumbfounded fool. Now in this only the Viśhuddhi plays the part.

Another one is the one where you get the Viśhuddhi's strains.

So such a person has very pursed lips, angry lips and he doesn't talk. The another one might even get the expression of an idiot but could be just making a face like that. Because, if he's cunning, he may take a, I would say, a kind of a rūpa [form], a mask on his face, that he is an idiot and may try to deceive you.

So nothing is definite about Viśhuddhi. Whatever may be the expression of a person, a person may look very innocent, because that's the thing you can do with your Viśhuddhi. You are free because you have raised your head, at this point you have achieved this kind of a special aptitude, that you can deceive yourself and you can deceive others.

Some people look extremely innocent on the face. They may look to be very simple people, but may turn out to be horrid.

Some people may look to be idiotic but may be very intelligent.

So it is how you play with your Viśhuddhi, which is responsible, but the main thing what I'm trying to tell you, that you can manoeuvre your Viśhuddhi. The way you want to put your expression, the way you want to make your face, the way you want to suggest something, all [these] you can manoeuvre and you can keep your heart away from it. In the heart, you may have poison for a person but outwardly you may say to that person in a very sweet manner something that the person might feel impressed.

But in this, all this behaviour, pattern of behaviour, you are deceiving your Self, not deceiving the another person, because your Self is Spirit which knows you very well. And this will go on and on for all your lives that have to come.

So there is no need, in any way, to be artificial in your expression. There is no need to hide anything in your expression. Of course, I mean, if you don't like someone, you need not just say, “I don't like you." But, in that case, you have to be not also so much appreciative of the person that he's deluded into your appreciation.

Now, eyes are very important and eyes, in a way, are very much looked after by Viśhuddhi because the muscles of the eyes are looked after by Viśhuddhi. Now the kind of muscles we have, which pull our eyes, which close our eyelids and all that, is very much suggestive. You must notice that there are some people who come to Me, their eyes go on like this [ickering], when they close their eyes, they cannot keep it shut. There are some people, when they open their eyes to Me, they just keep the eyes open, they just cannot close it. Both are in trouble. The ones which are just keeping the eyes open all the time, are the people having supraconscious problems. And those who are flickering their eyes are having the subconscious problem.

Some people have also the habit of keeping the eyes in an angle all the time, they never see you straight but in an angle they'll see you. [Laughter.] They think it's sometimes, it's very fashionable, sometimes.

Ladies think it's a very good way of looking at people. And some of them have such eyes that they'll go on, you know, looking and pouring their greedy eyes onto others, or their lusty eyes onto others. This is the worst thing you can do to your eyes because such people easily can become blind, such people might have trouble of the eyes, specially reddening of the eyes can come to such people, very much, very quickly.

So one has to be careful to keep the eyes very pure, the eyes of an Yogeshwara, who was Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa.

He was a witness.

He was on this earth, He played with Rādhā. He married five women, they were the Five Elements.

Sixteen thousand women He married, they were His sixteen thousand Powers. But He was Yogeshwara, He was Yogeshwara. He had no lust in His eyes, in His mind about them at all. He was beyond that. He was Yogeshwara. That was the testing point of His, that He had no lust in His eyes about these women that He had.

Such an Yogeshwara is there. Of course, I don't expect you to be Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa. But you have your wife, those who do not have wife must look forward to a wife. That, “We'll get wives and we'll have a wife” and think of a wife who will be your own, so that your eyes will not fall onto every woman who comes across with that kind of a thing.

I have seen people, even the photographs or anything they see, it's surprising! I mean there's nothing in a photograph, what is in a photograph? But even a photograph can attract their attention. I mean, I don't know what can attract their attention like this but they are so vulnerable and they have no control over their eyes, no control. They become absolutely lost and they have no control. That shows that they have no powers in them and they are slaves of their responses.

So the eyes are very, very important. As Christ has said, “Thou shalt not have adulterous eyes." There should be no adultery.

Some people have a habit of showing anger with the eyes. You see, if they have to show anger they'll just go on looking like this and show the anger. I need, dare not, do that to you but still. [Laughter.] And the angry eyes, you see, are another dangerous things to do, with your eyes, because then they can become mesmeric.

If you start putting your eyes onto something and concentrating on it, your eyes might become mesmeric, means bhoots will start coming out of your eyes. First of all, you'll catch bhoots in your eyes, they'll settle down there and then they will be falling on other people as bhoots. It's a very, very dangerous thing, to go on looking at something continuously with concentration.

There's another kind of a stupid thing, or a bhootish thing maybe, that people ask you to meditate here [at Āgñyā], it's absolutely wrong. [Even though] in Gītā it is written, still it is wrong. Nobody should put attention here. If they have to put attention, put attention at the door. What's the use of looking at a window? You can't get out of it, can you? If you have to look at anything, be on the lookout for the door.

And the door is here. The door of Sahasrāra is to be opened out, so you should not try to concentrate on this part.

Many people who have concentrated on this part have become mad. When they become mad, people say “He's a Yogi, but has got unmanitasha", that he moves like a madcap. How can a Yogi be a madcap? That means he's united with God, is He mad? All such mad people are really mad! They have nothing to do with God, definitely. But, there are people who believe in such things, “Oh, he is in love with God, so he just jumps on the stage and goes into ecstasy, dances like a madcap." How can God be mad? First position is this, that the sanest personality is God. Has to be. From where do the sanity comes in?

So, this is one thing one has to understand, that any such practices can lead you to lunacy and one should not do it.

Thirdly, the indiscretion that one has, comes from people who are good hearted, nice people, but they get carried away by the smiles of others or by the artificial goodness they show on their faces. I've known some people, they always have a face, like this, as if they are all the time smiling. [Tries to demonstrate:] I mean, I can't do that way. All the time, if you look at somebody like this, you see, it means as if you are mocking at the person. And there are people I have seen who are just like this every time [a small child laughs] and then like this! [Laughs.] So, one should not be always in one pose.

Sometimes these muscles can get very weak and start paining if you take one [pose].

There are some others who always try to show that they are very miserable. I don't know, what do they want to attract? Attract the attention of others? Attract the bhoots in themselves or, I don't know, what are they up to? Why can't they keep a normal face? Even while sitting in Dhyān, or meditation, I have seen them, trying to show Me, or whatever it is, because My eyes are mostly closed, but doesn't matter. When I open My eyes, I find some people like this, like that [looking at Her smiling]. Why? What is the need? [Laughter.] You have to have a balanced face. That's what Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa has described the Sthita-pragñya [the witness state], the one who is balanced. Who doesn't laugh like an idiot. Who laughs, but not like an idiot! Nor is a serious [type], like another kind of an idiot! So, both the things are not at all expression of your inner being.

Such a person is, as I told you today, is not frivolous, but not serious either. But full of joy within himself. He doesn't want you to be unhappy, never would like that you should be unhappy people. But human beings, if they want to be unhappy, what can anybody help, because they have got the free will to be unhappy. They have got a free will to cut their nose, they have a free will to cut their ears, they have free will to commit suicide. They have this free will, so-called.

Now, the greatest free will comes from Viśhuddhi Chakra, as I told you. And that's why we call Him Yogeshwara. He is the Īshwara of Yoga. The establishment of Yoga is possible when you surrender yourself to Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa. [When you] completely surrender yourself to Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa your Yoga will be established.

Means what? Means all your balances will be established. You go into complete balance and that balance is complete because Viṣhṇu, Who is the incarnation for sustaining the Dharma, Who is responsible for giving you the balance, becomes complete in the form of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa.

That's why is said that you leave all the Dharmas, “Sarva Dharmanam parityaja, mamekam sharanam vraja." That's why “Surrender all of them to Me." So all the Dharmas, if you put it at the lotus feet of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, means, if you follow His ideals, then all your Dharmas are balanced. But, after realisation, you go beyond Dharma.

Whenever you go wrong in Dharma, Dharma achyuta, as they call it, when you go wrong in Dharma, that's the time you have to surrender yourself to Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, so that He establishes your Dharma.

There are so many Dharmas. There is the `pati Dharm', husband's Dharma, `patni Dharma', wife's Dharma, father's Dharma, mother's Dharma, son's Dharmas, then `rashta Dharma' means `the nation's Dharma'. Then you have all kinds of Dharmas also, we can say, where one has to bow to the higher things of life.

But then He says “Sarva Dharmanam parityaja", “Forget all the Dharmas” “mamekam sharanam vraja", “Just surrender your Dharmas, all of them to Me." That is at Viśhuddhi.

At Viśhuddhi Chakra you surrender all your other Dharmas. It means that it all gets sublimated. It all gets complete. The wholesomeness is achieved because He is [the] Collective Being, He is the Virāt, because He is the integrated form of all the Dharmas and He is the Virāta in our brain, He represents our brain.

And when this Virāta, in us, is awakened fully, then all the Dharmas become natural with us. We don't have to do any Dharmas. We don't have to be conscious of any Dharmas, but automatically we become Dharma ourselves.

For example, there are people, now say Christ, we can take example of Christ. He was Dharma personified. He would not steal money from anybody, will He? Will He run away with somebody's wife? Will He? Will He do anything wrong? No, He cannot. Why? Because He was Dharma.

So, now you have become Dharmatīt, means, you have entered into the Kingdom of God. Into the Virāta's conditions. And there, your condition is such, that your state is such, your state is such, that you are Dharma. If you try to do Adharma, you'll suffer. If you try to do wrong, you'll suffer.

Here, I don't have to tell you to be righteous. I don't have to tell you, there's no need. I don't have to tell you that you tell the truth. I don't have to tell you don't steal. I don't have to do all these things.

Only thing I can tell you, that get rid of your ego and superego, that's all. In a very general terminology.

But you will follow Christ automatically. You will follow Kṛiṣhṇa automatically, Sahaj.

Because now you have gone beyond Dharma, you have crossed the limits of Dharma where you had to follow a Dharma. Now you have become the Dharma.

Where you will stand, wherever you will be, Dharma will stand with you. People will look at you and say, “Here is a Dharma standing. He is the Dharma to be worshipped." Not because of anything, but because your state is that of Dharma, [and] you have gone beyond that.

Supposing this is the loudspeaker I am using today, to talk to you. But supposing this loudspeaker becomes part and parcel of Me, I don't have to use this [taps the microphone], I go beyond it. In the same way, you are using the Dharma first of all to establish yourself, but when you go beyond Dharma into this state of Virāta, then you don't need any Dharma. You become the Dharma of Virāt.

Now, what is the Dharma of Virāta? What is the Dharma of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa? Is collectivity.

Kṛiṣhṇa is the brain. Shiva is the heart. And Brahmadeva is the liver. Now, what's the faculty of this brain is that the Tree of Life, of evolution, grows downward, as He says. And this tree is growing downwards, of awareness from the brain. But, if you have to go to the roots, you have to ascend. And that ascent you have achieved, now you have gone to the roots of your brain, where all your roots are enlightened, all your nerves are enlightened, your brain is enlightened, you are an enlightened person.

When you are in darkness, you may catch hold of a snake as rope, but when you are in light, you will drop it. In the same way, when you become enlightened, your Dharma is in light.

You don't have to take to any Guru or to any book or to anyone, you know yourself, in your own light, that this is wrong.

Now the collectivity part of it's very important. Anybody who cannot be collective is not yet a Sahaja Yogi. Not yet a Sahaja Yogi at all. Collective in the sense that, anybody who cannot live with other Sahaja Yogis, who tries to find faults with someone all the time, who wants to run away with his wife and stay somewhere else or with her husband, who wants to get out, is not a person who is collective.

There's no need to say that, `I cannot live under the circumstances in which Sahaja Yogis can live.' If you're a Sahaja Yogi, if you are a yogi, you can live. Look at Me, I am such an old woman, I can live anywhere. You take Me to a village, you take Me to any place, I'm not bothered about any physical comforts at all, because I am comfortable within Myself. My comforts are within Myself.

In the same way, a person who is not collective... like many people just come to Pūjās, that's all. It's like going to the church only once in Christmas and they'll say, “Christ doesn't look after us." Of course, we're not going to church and you don't meet Christ, but I mean to say that, just to have a casual way of Sahaja Yoga, you cannot gain.

You have to be collective and collective means that at every collective program, you should be there.

You should always meet collectively, meditate collectively, live collectively and try to find ways and methods of being collective.

There are so many evil forces, which are all the time trying to attack collectivity. First they will attack the leaders. That's the first thing. Any leader tells somebody, “You shouldn't do like this” immediately that person will start spreading stories against that leader: “He's very bad. He's like this, he's very harsh.

He didn't garland me, he didn't give me this, that..." How can you garland a bhoot? Can you? Then, if that doesn't work out, then they have their sly methods of going round and talking something here and there in the ears, to create some sort of a politics. All such people will be thrown out of Sahaja Yoga, as there is a centrifugal and a centripetal force, both acting equal and opposite.

Anybody who goes against collectivity, who sticks to their bhoots, sticks to their negativity, will have to get out of Sahaja Yoga. And that is to be remembered, that to be collective is to be joyous, is to be progressive, to be going further.

It was all right when people were meditating in the Himālayas, it was all right at that time, they were all alone, meditating all alone to achieve something for the collective. But they also did not get their realisation. When you have got your realisation, remember this, now you have entered into the Kingdom of God, into the Kingdom of Virāt, where you are a part and parcel of a collective being. You are not alone. You cannot be singled out, you cannot separate yourself. Now you are awakened in the body of Virāta and you cannot get out of it.

If you try to get out of it, you cannot be nourished. Supposing I take out part of My body, will it be nourished by this body? It won't be! In the same way, you have now become part and parcel of that collectivity and that collectivity, that Virāt, is going to look after you, going to nourish you, going to do everything that is necessary for your spiritual, physical, mental, emotional, even financial development.

But, if you cut it short, if you try to block the collectivity, if you try to make problems for collectivity or even if you try just to get out of the collectivity, then that is not our interest, that is not our work.

This is to be understood, fully, in every way possible and this when is understood, in a proper way you should know that collectivity is not only your advancement, is not only your development, is not only your achievements, is the achievement of the whole humanity. The purpose of your creation is fulfilled by that.

Those people who live in the ashram are better off, always, than the people who live alone. Always.

They will always have better results than the people who live alone. Maybe they live alone because they want to have a little private life, or a privacy, but their privacy is not going to help them. That's not going to help them at all.

The more you live together, the more you reside together, the more you enjoy together, there will be greater chances of your advancement. The more you will try to make yourself private, the more you'll try to get out of it, whatever explanation you may give, God understands you very well.

So, all such things where you cut off yourself from the mainstream, you try to get out of the mainstream, then there is a big problem for you. Of course, for certain conveniences, you may. For your certain understanding, you may. But, you should enjoy more the company of Sahaja Yogis than your own private company in the dingy room of yours.

That is one thing you can judge yourself [on]: do you enjoy the company of Sahaja Yogis or you enjoy the company of three, four of your family people, together in a circus? The judgement is your own.

Sahaja Yogi: Not difficult Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Nothing is difficult in Sahaja Yoga. It is the simplest thing to be a Sahaja Yogi and even more simple to be collective. To be uncollective, you have to do something. Like I said that, it is very easy not to drink, I mean drink some wines and things, because if you don't want to drink, you are sitting at home, is all right, don't have to do anything. But supposing you have to drink, then you have to go to a pub, or you have to go [to] somebody, open the bottle, get a particular type of a glass, pour it down, this, that. In India, for example, where there is prohibition, you are sitting with a fright. But for a person who just drinks water, he doesn't have to do anything.

So, to do wrong, one has to do something, but to be good, you don't have to do much, is absolutely labour saving, energy saving person. [Laughing.] You see, to do bad, supposing, you see, I want to harm somebody, I'll have to go out of the way to find out ways, methods. If I have to tell lies, I have to think of ten lies to cover that one lie. But if I tell the truth, finished! I have told the truth, finished! With few words, it's done.

So, to be collective is much more easier. Of course, not for crooked people, because crooked people, wherever they move their angularities trouble others, you see, like poking of thorns. But those who are flowers, they fit in anywhere, people like them, they like their fragrance, they look at them, they enjoy them. Beautiful things.

Now, see, today they are looking like lotuses. How is it? Without doing anything, they have become lotuses. How? How they have become like lotuses? Whether they are lotuses or they are daisies, God alone knows. But they have become lotuses, Sahaj. How? Because they are one with God.

When we stand in our own way, when we try to do something privately, then God says, “All right, go private!" [Laughter.] But when we are public, He looks after us.

And then, in Sahaja Yoga, as you know, that collective growth is the only way we understand Sahaja Yoga.

Somebody knows something, somebody knows something else, somebody knows something else.

When we are collective then we really understand every aspect of Sahaja Yoga. Supposing there is somebody, a scientist, somebody's a musician, somebody is another thing. We cannot know everything.

So you know something from this one, something from that one, something from there.

So all the rivers, as they flow into that collectivity and you enjoy the ocean of all these other things. You don't have to go to all the rivers in India, like you go from Ganga, Yamuna, Saraswatī, Kaveri, thousands of miles, go to the sea, all of them are there! [Laughter.] Like that, you have to enjoy the sea, where everything is. All kinds of beautiful things are there and you enjoy that.

I hope this Pūjā, which is a very remarkable Pūjā... Firstly, so many things are Sahaj. Firstly, they told Me the telephone number of this place is `32 16 32'. And He's accompanied by 64 Yoginis, Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, so 32 on this side and 32 on that side with Him, sitting [in the middle] with them.

This place is called as `Black Lake'. Kṛiṣhṇa is black. This place they got suddenly and this is the only place in this so-called military regime of Switzerland where people can sleep on the ground. You are not supposed to sleep on the ground. If there's no cot, you hang in the air but you cannot touch the ground.

That kind of a stupid military business is here! They had to find such a sensible, practical, such a cheap place for you, is [a] Godsend. We are here surrounded by beautiful things. With the cows, so many cows, at the time when it is Kṛiṣhṇa's birthday.

So many cows, so fond of cows. And the cows, when their bells move, in the morning, I heard, in the evening, so beautiful. And when they are moving home in the evening, how the, as they call goraj, is the dust of their feet, was filling the sky. Is just Gokul here, I felt.

Today also, there's one thing more one has to say, that it's the 16th Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa Pūjā.

So, in so many ways, this is a very great Pūjā which you are attending, for which people have to take thousands and thousand of Jan.mas [births], do so many Puṇyas, which you have got so Sahaj, because there must be something about you people also.

May God bless you.

[American Sahaja Yogis were still arguing if Her photograph should be placed in the drawing (living) rooms.] If you have recognized Me, then why this diffidence?

Contents: 1986-09-06 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Evening Program, the day before Śhrī Gaṇeśha Pūjā, Camp Marston, San Diego, CA, U.S.A.

It is so very beautiful to be in such natural surroundings with you all. In the hubbub of the city you don't find this peace and is very good for all those who are seeking their ascent. You all asked Me to come for this Gaṇeśh Pūjā. I thought it was essential that Śhrī Gaṇeśha should be established and I am so very happy that there are so many Americans now who are Sahaja Yogis. Of course, compared to the population of America they are very few and we have to have many more. But they have basic problems and one of them I think is of Śhrī Gaṇeśh and that's why it was necessary to have this Śhrī Gaṇeśha's Pūjā in Los Angeles or you may call whichever places this one is? San Diego or on this mountain which I hope so, will be able to establish that essence of innocence which is so much in the sleeping state.

Today I just wanted to tell you few things as to how we should deal with the people who come around.

The idea that we should deal with the seekers who are coming to see us is that we should try to be little apologetic and to tell them about all Chakras, give them a feed ^a' feedback, as they call it on the mental level.

But I do not think that's a very good style. You have to first give them the experience of realisation and tell them that this is not any Gurudom or any such false hocus-pocus as they call it, nonsense here, but is the evolutionary process which is a natural progressive manifestation of the power within us and you have to tell about Me. We have tried not to talk about Me and we have tried to avoid the topic. Perhaps because you think that there have been Gurus and this and that and the Gurus have brought a bad name.

It's not so. Even now people are going to those Gurus in very large number and they start claiming they are semi-gods, demigods or gods or whatever it is.

So this kind of apologetic attitude will not convince them. You have to give them experience and say that this is the one whose grace has worked on you. Psychologically you'll be amazed it always works the other way round.

Supposing tomorrow you arrange My program San Diego, we can easily get three hundred people. But when you want to have a follow-on, they don't want to come. Or when you have workshop if I am there they are so many and then they are not interested in seeing Me.

So the reason for such a behaviour is only one, that they don't want to go through all that mental occupation and mental acrobats that you want to tell them. As they want to feel Me in a meeting, they want to feel Me through you people and I think you must change your tactics.

In a simple natural way you tell them that we were seekers, we went to many Gurus, we never found it.

We were cheated. Here is somebody who doesn't take any money, doesn't want anything, doesn't make you abnormal, you lead a very normal life and gives you all kinds of blessings, direct. If you don't want to experience it, you need not.

You see, it is like a person who is not a realised Soul. He says, “I must fight my ego” but with what do you fight? It's you own ego.

So you add to your ego. In the same way, when you go on pampering these people you add to their ego and they become hard-boiled eggs actually, impossible to penetrate.

So your devotion, dedication to Me will prove the results, no way out. If you talk to them directly, they wouldn't listen to you. That's human nature. You can't help it. How do you explain that when I come and give a lecture in any place, there are so many because they think I am authentic, I speak with authority not with aggressiveness but with conviction and with a character? That conviction has to be expressed. On the contrary, when you start telling them there is a Chakra, this thing, that thing, it's all right. We can read a book. Why do we need these headaches? So you should be people of conviction, not of falsehood but of reality.

I must say today because you are all here we have got some very good Sahaja Yogis from India for you.

I don't know how far you listen to them. Like we have got Mister Kharde. He is the man who started Sangamner and those who have been to Sangam Neer have seen that a complete big gymnasium, like a huge big football area, was covered by the people who came down in Sangamner. And he really established this Sangamner city into a beautiful center. But you have to listen to him; otherwise, they are useless.

Secondly Cheryl is a very good Sahaja Yogini. Apart from anything, she is very auspicious, knowledgeable.

Knowledge of Sahaja Yoga is not the way you understand. It's not the knowledge of Chakras. It's the knowledge of attitudes. It's not the knowledge of any system. We don't want to have systems, because every system creates a bondage, a kind of a slavery. We have to develop attitudes within us which attitudes are tried and tested on experience.

So it is not what you can talk elaborately about Chakras and things is important, but it is what you express your personality in your attitude toward things. All kinds of systems are built up and especially in the West is a common habit to form a system.

Some sort of a norm is to be formed. For example, a system will be built up: we eat our food like this. All right, then everybody starts eating the same way.

Or they built up a system long time back, say, have tailcoats for dinners. For dinner you must change your dress. Morning another dress. Then people got fed up with it. They said, “This is no good." So they started anti-culture.

So the anti-culture started with that they started hippies. Now hippies also had their system. To be a hippie you had to wear a dress like that, you had to be dirty, you had to have hair like that, you had to move in a particular fashion. Again another system was built in. When they broke that system then another. Now a punk system has come. Now that punk business is you have to have a dress like this. You have to have a particular type of a hair dress for which you have to spend so much money; otherwise, you are not a punk.

So when they try to break also any systems they fall into another system and go on following systems and systems from one dead to another dead.

But the attitude is the same. Attitude doesn't change. I have seen the hippies, when they became the anti-culture, they started behaving in such a funny manner that there was no change at all. They became very arrogant, without any self-respect. Then came these punks. They are just the same.

So the change in your attitude is the main transformation that takes place. Your priorities change absolutely.

So we should not form a system.

As I told you last night, you should not say that eight hours meditation, nothing of the kind. Eight minutes are sufficient. It's the attitude that is going to help your growth, not you are sitting for eight hours on one leg or something like that. There are some Sādhus who just stand up and put one leg like this and they say, “We are sitting on one leg." That's not going to help. It's a living process and the living process has to be worked out in a living way. Allow it to work out. Allow it to grow.

So the whole attitude should be changed.

And when you start finding your attitudes towards life is changing then you must realise that you have become a yogi. If your attitude is not changed [GAP]... is very arrogant and he is taking too much time, better not worry about him. But if there's an attitude of a seeker who wants to get his realisation, we better do it. I think we have not yet touched those shores where there are real seekers existing. That's why we are getting very, very few people.

Like when the fishermen are taking their trawlers on the waves of the seas, they know where there are shoals of fishes and they direct their trawlers to those places and catch fishes. In the same way we must also first of all find out where are those seekers where we can direct our attention and our efforts. Like in [GAP]...

Sometimes they are like donkeys. If somebody is ahead of them, they'll put their head to that person and allow their ears to be pulled out. If somebody is behind them, they start kicking that person. And I think in the whole of our attitude in the West we have been failing on this point.

We have no need. If they want to come, let them come. If they want mental peace, they should come to us. We don't want mental peace. All right, we have got compassion for them. We have love for them, but if they don't want it, Christ has said, “Don't throw your [UNCLEAR parts/pearls]." And then once you start behaving in that way, you will see you will get right type of people.

In Calcutta [Kolkata], when I went there, there is one Mister Jalan was a very wise business man. He came to Sahaja Yoga. He sent letters to all the eminent people whom he thought would be seeking and he said he would like to go and meet them or they can come and see him. Out of all these letters there were few people, of course, who answered and wanted to meet him. That's how he met some very important people. Then he told them what is Sahaja Yoga, talked to them. And when I went there, he made Me meet them. One of them was a editor of a big newspaper who came to see Me and he saw Me, how I was treating people and how I was looking after them and he wrote a beautiful article and he said, “Mother, tomorrow I will come to the program." He came, he gave a very beautiful introduction and the whole thing started on a different line.

I can tell you about Italy. There's one lady called Alganesh. She went and saw somebody whom she thought was a seeker and he is a Director in the Broadcasting in Italy, the Government Broadcasting.

And he is a television man. She told him that you can get your realisation. When I went and saw him, he said, “First you give me my realisation. Then I'll take your interview." I said, “He is the man” and I paid all My attention to him.

I gave him realisation. Also he had some experiences and then he just wholeheartedly came out as a big Sahaja Yogi and now in Italy, Sahaja Yoga is spreading very fast.

So you should not go about picking up some beggars on the street. `Please come to Sahaja Yoga.

Please come to Sahaja Yoga.' What are they going to do? They are just liabilities. What are they going to help us? I am not saying that we should go after rich people or people who are of eminence but people who are already recognized by public as something sensible, wise, whom you think have good vibrations and are capable of doing something in Sahaja Yoga. I think you should approach boldly and tell that that you have found out this and this. If you approach ten people you will find that at least three people will be happy to do something. That's a much better way of doing things than to catch hold of a one person here and a one person there and a one person there. They'll come to you. I was surprised when they told Me that there were lots of people who came; one by one all disappeared. One fellow was taught the complete Kuṇḍalinī Yoga for eight months and he also disappeared. He never had the experience. Once you establish them up to a point where they start feeling the vibrations and feeling the joy, they'll never give up Sahaja Yoga. But you must also weigh a person, how deep he is.

So the whole attitude towards spreading Sahaja Yoga should be that it is not a thing that is to be thrown away before people who do not understand.

I know you feel very much for the Americans. I, too, feel the same way and we wish we had more and more American people coming to Sahaja Yoga. No doubt. But it is only in our hand to work hard. We can't say what we'll achieve. We must also understand what are the problems of the American people, what sort of things that are obstructing them from coming to Sahaja Yoga.

So perhaps maybe tomorrow I'll be able to tell you what I have understood about them. Then you keep that in your mind. With that, if you approach with a proper attitude of self-confidence then I am sure you can do very well. But there should be self-confidence in you. That doesn't mean that you should aggress but there should be a self-confidence. If you have to do something right, you have to be yourself, fully confident of it. Otherwise, nobody is going to believe you.

We want to get some more Sahaja Yogis from India to help you out. But first of all those who are here, I think you must try to listen to them. Instead of that I am [UNCLEAR] she told Me that you teach them. I am not saying that Indians are all very good, that they are very capable. One thing is that they have been with Me for days together. Apart from that, all Indians are not good than all the Americans but some of them are very good. And those who are very good must be respected and try to understand the attitude of such people, what they have to tell.

The way you understand life is not correct. If it was correct, there would have been a different America.

Lots of mistakes have been made. And to get to new life and to new styles, a new understanding of the new age, we have to understand that it is a new knowledge for us and we have to learn it and understand it.

So far we have had no knowledge about living processes. Whatever knowledge we have had is of dead, like you can make a house out of a dead tree, from dead to the dead. But living processes you have never understood.

So the whole working of saintliness is nothing but your attitude towards the knowledge, how the living process of our evolution works out and complete confidence in your knowledge. I am sure you'll pay full attention to what I have said. Also, tomorrow you can ask Me questions about it. In this short time I cannot tell you everything elaborately. But I hope you understand that a new type of attitude is to be taken if you have to achieve that vision.

May God bless you.

Contents: 1986-09-07 Śhrī Gaṇeśha Pūjā, Establishing Śhrī Gaṇeśha Principle, Camp Marston, San Diego, CA, U.S.A.

Today in the land of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa we are celebrating the birthday of Śhrī Gaṇeśha. Is something very unprecedented and of a very significant value that you should be celebrating the birthday of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's Son in His own land. You know that Śhrī Gaṇeśha incarnated on this Earth as Mahāviṣhṇu and He was the Son of Rādhā, who incarnated as Lord Jesus Christ.

So by celebrating this birthday today you are recognizing the greatest truth that Lord Jesus Christ was the son of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa.

There's a story about it if you read in the Devī Māhātmyam, how this Primordial Child took a form of an egg and half of it remained, as Śhrī Gaṇeśh and half of it became Mahāviṣhṇu. In the evolutionary process all these happenings of the antiquities have been recorded but today I feel so gratified that on the human level people have understood, Christ is the incarnation of Lord Gaṇeśha. He is the Eternal Child but in the form when He came as Christ, He came as the son of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa.

But when Pārvatī made Śhrī Gaṇeśha, He was the son of Pārvatī alone. There was no Father. Pārvatī Herself wanted to have a child of Her own. There were angels who were dedicated either to Viṣhṇu or to Shiva, like ganas were dedicated to Shiva alone.

So, She wanted to have Her own Son who can permeate Her powers on this Earth.

So to begin with when the Shakti created this universe and Sadāśhiva was watching Her creation, the first thing She created on this Earth was innocence and the embodiment of that innocence was Śhrī Gaṇeśha.

The whole Universe was covered with innocence, which we call as Omkāra. This innocence protected all the creation of the world and penetrated into all that is matter. Matter is innocent. If you hit the matter, it will hit you back because it is built like that. It doesn't want to harm you by any method except that if you try to hit it, it hits you back, in its own nature.

So it was called as Jaḍa, the one that acts according to the built-in nature.

Innocence in the animals is of another kind, where the animals do not know that they are committing crimes. Animals when they say, kill an animal, another animal, or trespass your properties, create nuisance all over, they don't know they are committing a sin or they are disobeying some laws. They live with the laws that are built within them, that's why they are called as pashus means bondage, the pashu. Pasha means the bondage. They are under the bondage of the laws of God. Śhrī Shiva is called as Pashupati.

Up to that stage the innocence remains intact because there is no development of ego in them.

So they are innocent. A tiger may eat a cow, still he is innocent or an elephant may trample over a human body, still he is innocent.

But when going to a higher state, the Mother Shakti, the Primordial Mother thought of creating a personality who will protect the innocence of human beings. Above the matter, above the animals, She created Śhrī Gaṇeśha. And you know the story of Śhrī Gaṇeśha how He got the head of an elephant, symbolizing that Śhrī Gaṇeśha, though He is a human being, He is like an animal as far as His head is concerned, that too of Śhrī Gajanana, in the sense that He has got the head of an elephant which is the wisest animal in the animal kingdom.

So in such a head, which is innocent, ego cannot develop. There is no ego. It's an egoless state.

But human beings were created in a different manner and when carbon was placed to create amino acids. It also settled in motion, a new type of evolution in human beings that at the Viśhuddhi level human beings raised their heads like this. [Raises Her chin.] Animals' heads are on the ground so the energy flows downward into Mother Earth. But when man raised his head above, against the energy of gravity, then a new complication started in the energy flow and that is how at the Viśhuddhi, a problem started where Kuṇḍalinī could not nourish or look after that problematic Viśhuddhi.

The reason is when you raise your head from the Mother Earth, you remove yourself away from the natural power of Mother Earth.

When you take your Viśhuddhi upward like that, you see the result of that in this country which is the country of Viśhuddhi Chakra, that you started going to machines which are against nature, extracting the nature, disturbing the nature by creating atomic bombs, by changing the atom, breaking it. That means you went against the nature itself by raising your head. But if it was done in complete surrender to God, with your bent head towards the Mother Earth, it would not have harmed you. But when you completely cut off yourself from that nature, which is so bountiful, which is so gracious. Yesterday you saw the beautiful pictures of the nature that surrounds you in this country. Such a rich country like America, without any gratitude towards its Creator raised its head upward, that's how the Viśhuddhi problem started coming up.

In every walk of life, the whole social structure was built up to fight the nature, not to go along with the nature.

So the first attack came on the innocence itself, on the Mūlādhāra itself.

So the natural ways of Mūlādhāra were given up. Marriage system has been here much before Christ, much before Abraham, much before Moses and a sanctified marriage, which was blessed by the society, was acceptable since long.

But man in his arrogance raised his voice against the marriage, against the natural way of leading a life of sanity.

If it was natural to be the way people lead their private life, why do they get all kinds of diseases? If you are a natural person, you don't get any diseases. Because you are anti-nature, that's why in this country, how many men and women were murdered for jealousy. If it was natural to be in love with ten men and ten women then why jealousy? You should be happy, it's very natural. Because the head was raised at Viśhuddhi Chakra without surrendering to Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, anti-life, anti-biotic atmosphere started growing. And this kind of life has taken this great country, now to the brink of complete destruction.

The attack of innocence is the greatest weakness of this country. Not to value the power of chastity and a chaste life is the biggest mistake that was created by the people who started all kinds of trends and fads.

Gaṇeśha is the root of creation. When you go against Śhrī Gaṇeśha you start losing your roots, you have no roots at all. Then you get drifted into anything stupid, anything new that comes up.

So much so that a person like Freud was worshipped and they forgot Christ, who said, “Thou shalt not have adulterous eyes." Gaṇeśha to that level, that even the eyes have to be innocent. There should be no lust in your eyes.

But arrogance made them feel, “What's wrong? What's wrong in this? What's wrong in this?" Now the whole country is facing a great crisis because of arrogant enterprises. Still they make a martyrdom out of all that is destructive.

It's a very great responsibility on the Sahaja Yogis who live on the land of Śhrī Gaṇeśha. But for the people who live in the land of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, the responsibility is absolutely on your neck and you can't get out of it. Unless and until you understand the importance of innocence in your life you cannot save this country whatever I may try to do for it. It's only you who are going to save it. It's only you who are going to make it. When the Kuṇḍalinī rises Śhrī Gaṇeśha is awakened in you, the Gaṇeśha whom you never respected, slowly comes up from His slumber, out of the hurt and the injuries inflicted on Him, still He stands up. But still we... How are we going to nourish it? How are we going to look after its growth? The responsibility of Sahaja Yogis of America is very great. They cannot cheat any more themselves.

They cannot be satisfied with their arrogance. The mistakes have been grievous.

So you have to take it up as a crusade against those mistakes and to establish your Śhrī Gaṇeśha in a full form so that He gives you the necessary balance and the roots to nourish yourself. It is shocking first. I mean you just can't understand; it is impossible to see how you could accept such absurd ideas; how you could take to such funny things, which are obviously horrid. Are we not aware of certain words like prostitution? And all other dirty words that they use, which I don't want to say just now, or they have lost their meanings? We were all aware of it, we all knew about it.

Have we lost all wisdom from our minds that we cannot see what we have done to ourselves. We have no self-respect. Arrogance to that limit is very dangerous, extremely unpredictable. And God knows what can come through with all these ventures we have gone into.

I would say for Sahaja Yogis, I have given some instructions with people, how they should respect their privacy of life, specially the women of America. If they have to be the Shaktis, they have to respect themselves, their chastity. But so surprising that when we see outside all these things happening, even after coming to Sahaja Yoga, some of us try to be one of them who are going to hell. If you have to save them, then try to fix your positions, properly.

Śhrī Gaṇeśha has four hands and the hand that carries the destructive weapon of Parasha is the one you have to be careful about. That is His job and if you neglect Him, that force will act and act so vehemently that despite your realisation you may not be able to save yourself. Do not take your realisation for granted.

Unless and until your Gaṇeśha is settled, your realisation has no meaning at all. Watch yourself, have you got adulterous eyes? Have you got an adulterous mind? What is your expectation about Sahaja Yoga? So many think that in Sahaja Yoga God blesses you, then you must get a good amount of health, money and position, power.

The first thing you must ask for is the pure Gaṇeśha, Nirmal Gaṇeśha within you. `Oh, Mother, please give us the blessings of establishment of purity in our Gaṇeśh principle.' In relationships, in attitudes, in behaviour, try to judge yourself, are you innocent? Christ has said anything against Him may be tolerated but nothing against the Ādi Shakti. But I must tell you as your Mother, it's not true. Maybe against Me some things may be tolerated but nothing against Christ, the Lord, nothing against Lord Gaṇeśha.

Everything that is done against Him after realisation will tell upon you and you'll be thrown out of the realm of God, as absolutely degraded people. That is one thing that will not be tolerated, will not be forgiven, will never be acceptable. Whatever you have done in the past is finished now because you are a new bird. But after becoming this, if you try to take to these wrong ideas or to indulge into them, I cannot help you at all. After all Śhrī Gaṇeśha is My Son because He is pure.

Now He is not the only son I have. I have so many sons and daughters and I have made you in the same way as I created Śhrī Gaṇeśha, without the Father, on My own. To your Mother nothing but purity of heart and purity of your body is going to please. Anything that is impure has to be thrown away. My name itself means purity. You can do it. You are empowered to do it. You have a Kuṇḍalinī to do it.

But the first thing you have to do is to cleanse that and the rest you don't have to worry, Śhrī Gaṇeśha will look after it. One Chakra you keep clean, the rest is looked after. All your incurable diseases, right from all muscular troubles like mellitus and all that, all your incurable diseases right from cancer onwards, all your psychosomatic problems right from schizophrenia, everything come because of the disturbance in Mūlādhāra. When the roots are not all right, how can you cure the tree? If the roots are all right then any medicine can reach any center, any area, any place, any fruit. But if the roots are not all right, how can you work it out? Today you have called Me here, to worship Śhrī Gaṇeśha, within Me. Śhrī Gaṇeśha within Me is a powerful identity.

While worshipping Him you have to know that such a powerful thing you have to establish within yourself and by that establishment you have to manifest the powers of Śhrī Gaṇeśha and the power of Śhrī Gaṇeśha's greatness is auspiciousness. It's a coefficience; it's a formula, we can say in scientific language, that emits auspiciousness. It's a magnet in the Mother Earth. The same magnet is within you, which is Śhrī Gaṇeśha. You leave Me alone and I can tell you which is the north, south, east, west. Close My eyes, still I'll tell you. You know there are so many birds who fly out all the way to Australia, to Siberia because they have that magnet with them, they have that innocence with them. There are so many fishes, which have got actual magnet placed in them. Scientists should find out.

In the same way Śhrī Gaṇeśha within us is magnetic.

So a person who has Śhrī Gaṇeśha awakened within himself becomes magnetic and magnet attracts the steel, not dried leaves, does not, steel. And steel is like the Guru Tattwa. Is a man with the steel, say. `Man of steel', a person who has character, conviction and who cannot be dominated by temptations, is a man of steel.

So this magnet attracts the steel. Steel has only one badness, bad thing about it that it is not pliable, it's rather dry but the magnet attracts, means it creates that special quality in the steel that it moves towards the magnet.

In the same way when this magnet is awakened within you, you'll be amazed. Instead of people running away from your ashrams they'll be running towards you. I find it impossible. I go to any house, if they come to know I am there, God save Me, anywhere, any place.

So what is this magnet? Is pure love. Is pure love and the concept of pure love is that it doesn't depend on anything whatsoever but on itself. It is the support of itself. It's like light that spreads just by its own nature, doesn't want anything, doesn't expect anything. Just spreads all over and enlightens other people's hearts. That's why they get attracted.

Those who have not even seen Me, those who have not even known Me, just with My name, I've seen, places like Calcutta, we had such a problem, such crowds that they said, “We have to call the police." I said, “There's no need to call the police but we'll manage somehow." In Poona we had such crowds that the fellow who gave us the hall got a fright. He said, “Mother, I'll give You very big area where You can sit down in a big open place but I am sorry, my hall all will be finished." I said, “You don't worry, everything will be in proper place." We had such crowds that people were sitting on the ground, on the staircase, everywhere and till I spoke nobody moved an inch, you see like a picture. And I spoke for one and a half hour. Just like a picture. No movement of hand, feet, eyes, nothing. Just sitting like a picture. And the gentleman who owned that hall had never seen such a thing before. Throughout for one and half hour, no movement of any kind. What is it, that working, is the magnet. Even if you are the steel, it will attract but if you are a magnet then it will attract in such a way that it will never leave this magnet.

So, for Yoga it is important that you fix up your magnets of Śhrī Gaṇeśha who is the child-like personality.

A child, there's one child, everybody is attracted towards the child. One child gets stuck-up somewhere in the air, whether you are a Russian, American or an Arab, everybody would be worried about the child.

What's happening to the child? They will not think: it's an Arab child or an American child, no. Unless and until it's a devil.

Why this attraction for children? Because their magnets are intact. Their ego has not yet developed.

Our ego developed, had to develop because we had to decide in our own freedom, what is right and what is wrong.

So the ego developed was all right. Up to a point we should have developed our ego. But we over-developed it and over-developed it, overlapped the superego also. No conditioning, nothing. We'll do whatever we like. Today we are wearing a half pant, tomorrow we will wear a long pant, all right. Then we'll cut our hair or we'll do this, we'll do that. No conditioning of any kind. All superego was also covered ego. This ego would have been all right if you had kept your Gaṇeśha Tattwa.

And what is that is the wisdom power of Gaṇeśha. The second power of Gaṇeśha is that He gives you wisdom. If you see a farmer and a big professor or a very well educated man and talk to both of them. You'll find the farmer has much more wisdom than this, M.A.D. Ph.D. Why? Because he deals with Mother Earth everyday. He knows the living process. He knows about the innocence of the Mother Earth.

So an innocent person is the wisest among... A child who is innocent is much wiser than ten ego-oriented people.

So the second capacity of Śhrī Gaṇeśha is that you become a wise person. When you speak, people start looking at you. You speak like Kabīra, you speak like Nanaka. You speak like something that makes people feel their spirit. This is what I call is a Sahaja Yogi. A Sahaja Yogi who does not have wisdom is good for nothing. He comes to Sahaja Yoga and he is like a bull in a china shop, goes on hitting this person, hitting that person and hitting that person. And when you ask these three wounded persons, they say, “That bull, the same bull." Everybody reports about the same bull. [Laughs.] “Oh, that's the one, all right." So it grants you wisdom.

When you have the power of Śhrī Gaṇeśha, your eyes are radiant, you get a spark in your eye, a light in your eye. When He is enlightened in you, then you cannot look at anyone with lust and greed. But this glance is so powerful that even one glance is sufficient to purify thousands of people. Just the opening of the eyes are necessary and you find whole thing changes into a beautiful morning from a complete dark night. Glance can awaken the Kuṇḍalinī.

The Mother Kuṇḍalinī cannot move, unless and until Śhrī Gaṇeśha gives the permission. He is like the Vice-Chancellor sitting on all the Chakras. He has to certify,

“All right. Pass. Go." [Laughs.] On every Chakra. And when the Kuṇḍalinī rises, Śhrī Gaṇeśha is awakened, otherwise Kuṇḍalinī cannot rise. But then when He sleeps down, Kuṇḍalinī sucks, is sucked by Him.

Now we think we have lost our innocence. That's not easy to be lost. It is not destructible. Only thing, what you have done, is to cover it with something that cannot allow Śhrī Gaṇeśha's principle to manifest in us. You have pushed it down. You have brought pressure on it. You have brought loads and loads of nonsense on it. That's all, but it never dies. It is an eternal principle of the whole universe.

The another quality of a person who is endowed with Śhrī Gaṇeśha's powers is that He removes all the hurdles. If one person of this nature is in some place, all the rest of the people who are nearby will be saved if there's an accident or if there's any problem, which is destructive, all of them will be saved.

You will find this happening to you.

He being the Gaṇapati, He is now the Master of all the Ganas. He guides you. Sahaja Yoga cannot work out without Śhrī Gaṇeśha. He is the one who is Sahaja. He is the one who creates all spontaneity of the world. He is the one who takes you to the right path. He is the one who gives you everything easily.

He is the one who creates all the chamatkaras [miracle, astonishment], all the magic, all the miracles of the world. He is the Gaṇapati. He is the one who is sitting on Ganas, in the sense that He is like the king of all the Ganas. The one who has pleased Śhrī Gaṇeśha has pleased all the Gods and Goddesses because all the Gods and Goddesses are pleasing Śhrī Gaṇeśha, so what is the need? And Śhrī Gaṇeśha is very clever, He knows: please His Mother is the only simple thing He has to do. To have all the powers of the world, just keep the Mother pleased. There are so many qualities of Śhrī Gaṇeśha, which can be described. He is the one who gives us the joy of eating. If you eat some food, you may like it, you may not like it but He is the one who will tell you this is made by Sahaja Yogis, made by your Mother. That means He gives you the taste of love in the food, that is cooked for you. Because He is love. He gives you the ideas how to express your love.

Once they asked Me to sing a song. I used to sing very well once upon a time but then after lecturing so many times, you see I think I lost My voice. I couldn't sing well, I thought so. One day they asked Me to sing a song and I thought of some song and sang to them. And after a year or so, in a program, they said, “Mother we want to sing You a song." This was a song unknown to everyone, I don't know from where they got it, from where they made the tune. They started singing the same song. And such joy, I mean, it all became waves of tears in My eyes. I couldn't control My joy.

Now all this feeling of joy comes from the devices produced by Śhrī Gaṇeśha. He is busy creating relationships, beautiful. How? In a birthday, a child's birthday, what do we say? “All right, so tomorrow morning there's a bird is going to drop a present for you." And then the child gets up and sees there's no bird. It's only Gaṇeśha who has given the idea. We can say He is a Santa Claus. He gives you ways and methods and He tells you how to delicately build up relationships, pure relationships. How you hide, how you wrap a little present, just put it there and a person who has to take it, sees it, “Oh God." And then you see that flowers which you suddenly bring out, you put there, is all Śhrī Gaṇeśha's efforts, His ways, His suggestions. Among the creation, flowers are expressing Śhrī Gaṇeśha's essence. And the essence of Śhrī Gaṇeśha comes from the Mother Earth's essence, is the fragrance.

So a person who is endowed with Śhrī Gaṇeśha's blessings has fragrance, sometimes chandan, sometime roses, sometimes this gardenia. You just don't know from where the fragrance is coming. The fragrance is coming from Śhrī Gaṇeśh and that is what is the magnet within you. Such a person is fragrant, absolutely fragrant all the time. Śhrī Gaṇeśha emits all kinds of fragrance from such a person. And that you can only feel when your Śhrī Gaṇeśha is all right. There's no end to the description of this great Deity within you. He's just settled down there, He's all the time there, waiting to be cleansed out, for Him to raise His head, like a lotus in the mud. You just help it out by respecting it and He'll be there, fragrant within you.

So important for this country where we have raised our head without surrendering it to the Virāta, to the collectivity, to Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa. We have raised our head, with Śhrī Gaṇeśha we bow down our head, for all the bounties that God has bestowed upon us. All arrogance will disappear at the Lotus Feet of Śhrī Gaṇeśha. He'll give us wisdom. He'll give us sense to understand. He'll give us power to overcome our arrogance that is within us. He's the one who is the giver of knowledge. He's the one who is give us light.

Many people in India also worship Śhrī Gaṇeśha, go on "Śhrī Gaṇeśha, Śhrī Gaṇeśha, Śhrī Gaṇeśha, Śhrī Gaṇeśha" and do all kinds of funny things. That's like cheating yourself unnecessarily. It's so simple to establish Śhrī Gaṇeśha within you. But understand that it is vital that you people who are Sahaja Yogis should establish Śhrī Gaṇeśha, which is a silent power within you, doesn't talk. It's a silent power, which acts. Just a power that's dynamic without any noise, without any show. And that is what I would say that today when I have said all these things from My heart, you the Sahaja Yogis will establish Śhrī Gaṇeśha within you. And from you, you will emit such powers that others will be able to establish their Śhrī Gaṇeśha in this country.

May God bless you.

We'll call her as Gaurī. Today is Gaṇeśha's day so Gaurī is the name.

Hello. [Hindi.] Now on a Diwali day to worship Śhrī Gaṇeśha and also Śhrī Lakṣhmī on that day, so today as we are worshipping Śhrī Gaṇeśha also, we have to worship Śhrī Lakṣhmī, so I'll call her as Lakṣhmī today. All right? Thank you.

Look at this little baby, doesn't cry. You're such a big girl. But see the little babies do not cry. You're a big girl... why are you crying? And what are you wearing on your feet? Let Me see. Do they make a noise? No? So we can get you better ones. Let Me see how big your feet are. Let Me see. They're very small, aren't they. You are a big girl or a small girl? Small? No, no, she's big, she can stand up can she? Let's see. Hallo. Come along, come here. What's the matter? She always like this? We'll call her Siddhi.

All right. May God bless you. She'll be all right.

Look at that. Is a picture. May God bless you. May God bless you. Get up now. All right. You must get up. Come here. Come here. Aah.

So now we'll call him as Vinayaka. That's the name of Śhrī Gaṇeśha, Vinayaka.

Who else is there? Come along. Hello. We'll call him Gaṇapati.

May God bless you.

Come here. We'll call them as Gaurī and Gaṇeśha. Gaurī and Gaṇeśha.

Can you come? Gaṇeśha's another name is Omkāra. We'll call him Omkāra. May God bless you.

Come here. Good. You are Omkāra now. All right? Good name, Omkāra.

So now Ramma. Is the name of the Mother of Gaṇeśha, Ramma. Ramma is the one that plays in the heart.

Janaki. Janaki.

Sharmila, Sharmadāyinī is the bliss-giver. Giver of bliss. Giver of bliss. Sharmila. Is the name of the Goddess. She's the giver of bliss. Sharmadāyinī, is the giver of bliss.

May God bless you.

You can come here just to help with the Pūjā.

Contents: 1986-09-09 Conversation with Sahaja Yogis, about Chastity, Ashram, NY, U.S.A.

One thing is Mūlādhāra is good. Indians have one advantage; they have a good Mūlādhāra, you see. Eyes are good. That's what Salim [UNCLEAR] was telling Me that they do everything that [UNCLEAR Sagaricles] are doing are doing but not chastity. That part they don't compromise. Naturally, the attention is good.

Once you know the Mūlādhāra is so important for everything, even for material gain, people will start to look after the Mūlādhāra. But logically you can see, it's very logical that if your Mūlādhāra is all right, you have a nice family life, you have good children, they become obedient, your attention is concentrated, whatever you work you grow, you do it with concentration. There's no diversion. There's no, sort of, nobody can befool you because your Mūlādhāra is all right.

Any girl who is good-looking can come and entice you, murder you, take away all your money. Or the other way round. Could be anything. I mean, you are solidly placed if you have a nice Mūlādhāra. You may go anywhere. Nobody can cheat you.

In India it's too much a strong feeling from tradition, I think. In our country we had three thousand women burnt themselves on a fire, Jauhar, because the Muslims had won the battle and they would enter into the fort.

So they burnt themselves up. Very common in Bombay [Mumbai] also.

So many cases where women jumped sixteen stories to save their chastity. For innately it's built in us this Mūlādhāra is very important. That's our property. That's our power. Mūlādhāra you save. They will cheat the Government, all right, very well. They are very good at cheating Government, tell lies, do what you like, but as far as Mūlādhāra is concerned there they are; as long as Mūlādhāra is all right.

Even men now, men have a great sense of chastity in India. Of course, westernized men may not be.

They are very innocent. They cannot see many things that you people can do like I saw Kharde. It doesn't enter his head. He doesn't understand. Same with Me. Why should I laugh at him? I am just saying, but at least I am better than him. Now I understand little bit but Mr. Kharde is absolutely an innocent person, you know, very innocent man. He said, “But why do they do it? But why?" They can't explain that why people do it.

The questions are like this one mister... he was quite young. He came to Me. He said, “Why do young people in the west leave their parents? Supposing I leave my parents, will their bhoots leave me?" He asked, “Will the bhoots of my parents leave me?" I said, “No, they will be with you. After all, you are his son.

Then what's the use of going away?" “It's true” he said. “See, my mother cooks well first of all. I don't know how to cook." One advantage he gave. Second advantage he said, “You see, my father scolds me if I do anything wrong. See, if I want to smoke, I cannot because I am frightened of my father. I won't smoke but if I am alone I may start smoking. You see, it's a very bad thing to be alone. It's very dangerous." The brain works the other way round.

[In Hindi:] There is still a lot of innocence in our country. [In English:] We are cunning as far as telling lies are concerned that also we don't do very well, I must say. [In Hindi:] We get caught.

[In English:] Over here they are more honest towards the Government. [In Hindi:] They'll pay their taxe. [In English:] It's regarded very sinful not to give tax. In India they know how to evade. They are very honest towards Government. To us, you see, it's better to be honest to God and nothing to the Government.

Sahaja Yogi: They are honest about money matters as well.

Shri Mataji: Maybe now, but initially it was not like that. [In Hindi:] Initially if money had been taken from someone, [in English:] if you have borrowed the money from somebody and you have not returned the money, then it was said that you will have to become a bull in next life and you will have to plough his fields, if you don't return the money.

So people were quite frightened about the next birth problem, you see, but it's nowhere written in the Shāstras that if you cheat the Government there will be any punishment and they say that, you see, this Government is today. Tomorrow somebody else will come.

So what does it matter? By that time we are born again.

So what? It's all right to cheat the Government.

Sahaja Yogi: Bribery?

Shri Mataji: [In Hindi:] Bribery happens a lot [in English:] but that is at a different level. But bribery has come to us from the English. You'll be surprised. We never knew what was bribery. Going through the history you'll find Warren Hastings and all those people, they taught us. That time they started it, getting bribes and things. And because, you see, they had such an image they themselves created, they never felt that they were the servants of the public, never.

So everybody used to give them bribes. They were like Rāja, Mahārāja Nazrane' chalete' the' pehele... Robert Clive did. Hastings did... I used to go into the annals of these people because my husband has been a collector [Hindi].

So we used to have their ancient things.

So they used to take bribes. They taught us how to take bribes.

But this Chinese traveler who came to India says that these people never locked their houses and all that. I mean, I remember that till I got married, My father's house was a huge house, was never locked, never! Neither the main door nor the back door, nothing and only once we had a theft in our lifetime. The fellow came and took away our gramophone.

So My father was very happy, you see. “He must be some connoisseur, you see.

So it's good for him. He should have asked from Me. I could have given him some records” he said. Thefts were lesser initially [Hindi]. But theft is much less. We don't steal things from people. You see, this is the thing is, you see. To each other we'll not try to cheat but to the Government we'll cheat because the Government is changing.

So it doesn't matter. Doesn't matter cheating the, this is the psychology, I think. But a person they will never steal because if you steal from somebody's house that's a sin but cheating the Government is not a sin because the Government changes tomorrow. And the Government itself is cheating.

So what is a sin to cheat a cheat? But in Sahaja Yoga I was surprised, you see. Nobody makes a mess of money in Sahaja Yoga. At least in Maharashtra, you see, very honest people. Now you people also go there. Nobody will steal your things, nobody, because, you see, they don't want to cheat God. That's the thing. This double attitude is something really funny. You are saints.

So they will not cheat you. They will not take away your things.

I mean, many a times it has happened with Sahaja Yogis, they have left everything there and just walked off. They just got into their buses and went off. And people had to gather all their things and bring them but nothing was lost.

So the feeling that saints should not be cheated is something great, really. First time when these people came, Australians, they had tied their money to a thing and this and that, just like as if someone wears the sacred thread [Hindi].

So I said, “What's this?" They said, “This is money and..." I said, “Why do all this? It's all right." And Kay, she was another, she was an air hostess at that time, she came and she came by taxi and that time they were staying in the ats for one day or so. They were in a at and she just walked out, you see, without taking the luggage or anything and she went up and forgot that she has to take her luggage. The fellow waited there for half an hour. Then the taxi fellow went away.

So then she remembered, “Oh, God! I had all my luggage in the taxi. I have forgotten there." Everything, even her purse she had forgotten and so she informed the police.

So the police said, “Yes, the taxi fellow is sitting here for long now. Will you please come and collect your luggage?"

Sahaja Yogi: How is it that in spite of momentous negativities, Holland has not sunk into the sea?

Shri Mataji: Because Holland is producing the flowers for the Ādi Shakti and you know She is fond of flowers!

In these days of turmoil and chaos, we feel we are waiting for some sort of a big shock and maybe that our last days will appear in our life time. When we think only from the human limitations, this is quite justified. But we are not created by ourselves, nor have we become human beings by ourselves. From amoeba to this stage we have come, without doing any research or enterprise.

So there must be some purpose and it has been mentioned in many scriptures, that we have to attain our eternal life. But when human beings start reflecting on concepts like this, concepts become bondages for them.

These bondages work as systems and when we try to get out of those systems, we again get bound by bondages.

Beyond the human concept, we have to humbly accept, there is reality. The main problem lies with our mind that we have got concepts which are limited. If you have to go to the realm of the unlimited, something has to trigger it in our awareness; something that is a living force, which is spontaneous. It cannot be that we human beings can manoeuvre it. We cannot put in efforts for it, nor can we pay for it and do all such things that human beings normally do. But in our understanding, in our human awareness, we think we can pay for everything. Let us think, how much did we pay to become human beings from the monkey stage? Then we can calculate how much we have to pay to become higher human beings.

To achieve reality in our awareness, the Divine has already arranged and organized a force, a power.

This power is called, in the Sanskrit language, Kuṇḍalinī. Kuṇḍalinī means coils. These are three and a half as the seers have seen them. But first to believe that there is some knowledge beyond science is very difficult. The knowledge of science and the knowledge of all these modern enterprises are the knowledge of the tree. We are talking about the knowledge of the roots. They could be somewhere else and wherever they are, they are for global use. If they are described in the Sanskrit language, one should not just abhor it because it is not in the Dutch language, because everybody has the right to know the knowledge.

About Kuṇḍalinī, many Western people have written books. They are horrifyingly false. As the Western mind always seeks the pleasures of the body more, the people who went to India to find out about Kuṇḍalinī, they jumped onto Tantric knowledge. And I have to tell you very truthfully that Tantrism is against God, against purity, against reality. And when the people went down to that level of knowledge, they described Kuṇḍalinī as something like an angry serpent. Also I would not blame them because they are in the market. They are selling this knowledge and as it satisfies the wants of the Western mind, it just gets assimilated into their heads. But I have to tell you honestly, that it is not the way Kuṇḍalinī has been represented so far. Kuṇḍalinī is the energy of purest desire within us and the purest desire cannot be the desire of sex.

Logically you can understand that the purest desire would be for eternal life. The purest desire would be for Self-knowledge and self truth. Also about the eternal life I find so much ignorance in the West.

When we think that the purest desire is eternal life and eternal life means that after death you move like a haunted spirit, it is absurd. Absolutely it is a wrong idea because the other day when I was watching a film about the eternal life, I was surprised that the person wanted to die, to come back to life in a way that he could visit like a spirit! It is horrifying, the idea that one wants to become a spirit. But the language has some problem. In the English language, there is no other word for this Spirit that is the Ātmā; that is the reflection of the Divine within us, or the Self.

So the Spirit is also a dead person haunting; the Spirit is also the Ātmā and Spirit is also alcohol. How can we have one name for such contrasting things? But let us see what the East has to say about it. If you say Christ came from England; then I must say it's not true, he also came from the East.

So let us see what it was that was meant by eternal life.

Eternal life means a life without any bondages. How do we have bondages? Bondages they come to us.

They come to us from our conditionings, which create a superego in our heads. Or they come from our efforts and our mental attitude which create ego in our heads. These two bondages come up in the head and go over each other and cover our fontanelle bone area and we get a closed personality of `I'-ness. This `I'-ness makes us feel that our mind is the last word. When it is in balance, when we lead a moderate life, then they just meet each other in our brain, over our brain in the fontanelle bone area.

Now they said we should not have any conditionings. All right, so they gave up all conditioning and the result of this you know what is happening in all these so-called free countries. They have created forces which are self destructive. They do not destroy other people but they are destroying themselves within.

And a kind of an arrogance they build in by saying, “Oh, we are martyrs." As I saw in San Francisco; I was surprised that the people who were suffering from AIDS were moving in the streets as if they were great martyrs who have conquered the whole world or something like that.

So when you give up your conditionings, where do you land, into which part? Either you land in the area where you start destroying yourself, or else you land in the area which does not give you any kind of control. You become ego orientated. Then you say, what's wrong? Even now in Germany, I met people who said, “What's wrong with Hitler? He was all right. Nothing wrong with him; he was looking after the interest of the Aryans." And that he was looking after the interest of Indians; because, according to them, we are supposed to be Aryans. And to such a limit they said “We are the devotees of Mother Kālī and we are killing the white-skinned people who went around the whole world to conquer." [Translator doesn't hear]. You see they told Me that they are looking after the interest of the Aryans and those who wanted to destroy other countries, like Columbus and all sorts of people, all Europeans who tried to destroy the Aryans abroad and other people. I was shocked at their understanding. I said “Now if you are trying to look after our interests let it be with us. We don't want violence. And when are you going to end this vicious circle?" So on one side we have the bondage of the ego and on the other side of the superego. Now how to get rid of it is a problem; we cannot get rid of our habits, it's very difficult. We cannot get rid of our ego; it's even more difficult, because we cannot see it. Our habits are troublesome, but not ego. Ego troubles others. The whole chaos is because of this. All the problems of the world are because of these human limitations by ego and superego. That is why a special category of people who are seekers are on this earth. But they are entrapped; they are misled because it's a market. As soon as there is a demand, a superficial market is created, since long. This could be in the name of religion, could be in the name of a cult, or these false Gurus, anything, it could be in the name of anyone. But what did you get out of it? So to go back to the knowledge of the roots, we must know there is a force called Kuṇḍalinī within us which can be awakened, which is the mother of every individual; an individual mother. If this has to happen, it's a living force. Anything living, you cannot expedite it, you cannot force it. Like you want to sew a seed, you have to put it in the Mother Earth who has the capacity to awaken it. You have the seeds of seeking within you from ancient times and these seeds are to be sprouted. That's why one must understand that it is a living process which has to take place and it has to be spontaneous, `Sahaj'.

So the Kuṇḍalinī is awakened spontaneously.

Now one may say “Why should I be there? We can do it ourselves." One can say “I can do it myself." I am sorry to say it's a thankless job, but I am supposed to do it. But once you get it, you can also do it.

Like one candle which is enlightened can enlighten another candle. It's as simple as that. I'm not the first one who has done it. In ancient times there were so many people who did it. But maybe in modern times I have to do this job. Then there is nothing to feel so bad about it. In no way I oblige you. It's My job; a job which is not paid for, because you cannot pay for it. But then you also get the job yourself.

When the Kuṇḍalinī rises and passes through your six Chakras, piercing through your top Chakra, you feel extremely peaceful, because there is no more quarrel between yourselves, complete integration. You go beyond thoughts. A thought may rise and fall off and if you are in the water, you are afraid of the waves, of the thoughts, but if you are out of it, you can see them. We think of the future and of the past, but we cannot be in the present. It is the reality. How to stop in the present moment? It's the Kuṇḍalinī which rises; its power rises, passes through your different centers and passes through the waves of thoughts and rises above your mind, takes your attention above your head; and then you start feeling the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost.

You don't have to discard the Bible at all. Nor do you have to discard Buddha, nor the Koran. They speak of the same thing. But when blind people start speaking about colours, what will they describe? So the second point of the reality is such that if it has to be achieved through a living process, then it is not coming from somewhere, some sort of a new thought, but it is evolving out of all these thoughts that were there before from the big, great incarnations.

So it has to evolve, like a seed becomes a flower; not suddenly, that you put a seed and you get a flower in your hand, no. But a seed becomes the tree, then the leaves, then the flowers and out of the flower comes the fruit. And the fruit must relate to all the stages of its evolution. In the same manner, if our evolution has to take place it must relate to all the stages of our evolution which have come through these great incarnations of the Divine.

But it cannot be some sort of a new idea dropping from somewhere. That must be plastic. But somehow we like something new, absurd maybe, doesn't matter. If it's new then it's all right. Like I had a discussion with an ambassador and he said, “Why do you like Jung and not Freud?" [Translator doesn't understand.] I said: “Why do you like Freud?" He said: “Because he gave us something new and Jung talked of something that was related to something that was old." [As translator hesitates:] Jung, Jung.

I don't know what you say in your language. Jung, you say? Alright.

Some say Jung, some say Djung.

That's good [laughing]. All right, now. I asked this ambassador, of course they are very big people, you know, with a stiff neck and all that, but I said, “Sir, if everything new is to be tested, why should we eat chicken? Why not eat the table; we have never eaten it before?" He was surprised at My comment, but I said that whatever is related to the old, has evolved out of it, is the proof that it has come out of a living source.

And so Sahaja Yoga gives you the full idea as to the great teachings of all the saints, the prophets and the incarnations. It is the flower of all their work. They are very much respected because they represent the same thing. Like we can say, the flowers represent here the beauty. Or we can say they are the flowers on the same tree of life. Those who have plucked them saying “this is my religion, this is my Guru and this is my thing” have deadened them. Even Christ has said, “You will be calling Me `Christ, Christ'; I won't recognize you." In every religion it is said that you have to be reborn. It's the actualisation. It's the experience of the rebirth that is being emphasized by every great religion. Right from Zen to the most modern Sikhism, from Buddha onwards, everyone has said you are to be reborn.

Some have not talked about God because that was not the time to talk about it.

Some have talked about it. But that Selfhood is to be achieved, is mentioned by all of them. Of course, I would say that Kuṇḍalinī was not so clearly described before.

Even in India I would say that it is quite a mysterious stuff. Like in the Bible it is written, I will appear before you like tongues of flames. In the Koran it is called “Assas” and it's very clearly described, the resurrection time before doomsday, that at the time of resurrection your hands will speak. I mean, you can see in the Gītā and all other Indian scriptures, the only thing that is to be achieved, from the Vedas onwards, everywhere, everything, is for achieving Self-realisation. Mahāvīra talked about it, Nanaka talked about it, Buddha talked about it, Zen talked about it, Lao Tze talked about it. All this has happened.

They were not insane people by any chance. They never harmed anyone by their theories as Freud has done. And we should not doubt them because we have limited intelligence.

But now the time for the actualisation of that experience has come. Of course, it may not happen to every one of you at the first instant. You are here because you are seekers of ages. You are here because you have felt that you have to find out something beyond. Maybe you have done all these things that are needed, of penance and all these things, in your last lives and it is over with. And so many have done it for you. Like in this room if you have to put the lights on, I would say just put on the switch and you'll get all the lights. But that does not mean that people have not worked for it, that there is not a history behind it and a big organization. But to your advantage, a modern person, you have to just switch it on; you don't have to fight for it. That is exactly what has happened to you even in the Divine. As the tree of life has grown outside, it has also grown inside, otherwise how will it reach its source. Otherwise how will it support that tree? So maybe most of you are on the brink of it and you do not know. [Translator hesitates.] So many of you may be on the brink of it and you do not know. I'm sorry. You see the English language has funny, what should we say, expressions, which may not be in the Dutch language but you can use your Dutch language expression it's all right.

Translator: But it is the echo Mother which makes it difficult for me to hear.

Shri Mataji: I see. Alright. But you can use... of course; I mean language is for communication, so it's all right.

Now, so we have reached the point where we realise logically that it has to be spontaneous, it has to be effortless, it has to be benevolent, it has to be joy giving; minimum of minimum. And the benevolence must come as good health, also satisfaction and enjoyment of life. The most important point is that we must know what it is. It's not something mysterious that we are doing here. You have to know that your Kuṇḍalinī is rising; you have to feel it on your central nervous system, the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost.

All your evolution must show on your central nervous system.

So, as described in the Koran, your fingers get enlightened, all the sympathetic endings get enlightened, your Chakras get enlightened, your centers get enlightened on the finger tips. And you start feeling the centers on your finger tips as described in the English language very correctly, `on your finger tips'. You get empowered on your central nervous system with a new awareness, which we call collective consciousness, which you can feel on your finger tips; first of all what's wrong with your centers and what's wrong with other's centers. Now if I can decode it and tell you what these centers are, what they denote, then you don't need a doctor, you can just find out where the problem is, on what centre, the left side or the right side. If the left side stands for the emotional side and the right side stands for your physical and mental side, you can easily find out. And we have proved it. It has worked on many levels.

I'm happy to tell you that at Delhi University, they have accepted Sahaja Yoga as a post graduate course for doctors. The doctors will get a doctorate, a doctor of medicine. And the dean of the faculty of physiology has already submitted a thesis in which he has proved that physiologically a person becomes a much more resistant, powerful and healthy personality by Sahaja Yoga.

It's no miracle. It's all within. We do not know about ourselves. We do not know what powers we have. We get lost into artificial things, these man made concepts. But once you get to reality, you are the epitome of the whole creation. Now as we can say that we have a beautiful computer, but your human computer is much greater than these which are created by you. But we do not know how to work it out, that's all. Like, supposing you take a television to an Indian village, where they have never seen a television, they won't believe that on a little box like that you can see everything. But you plug it into the mains and it's fantastic.

So there is no miracle about it. If you know how it is done, how it is working out everything is open to you in Sahaja Yoga. Then you know it's not miraculous; `sat', it is.

I love flowers and when I look at them I wonder why people don't wonder how they get these colours and how they get this beautiful fragrance. We take it for granted because we see it every day and for us everything is so common. Like the first time I came to Holland, there was a festival here celebrating some sort of a centenary and such flowers, beautiful flowers. I was really amazed at the Dutch, the way they really love flowers. I have never seen such beautiful flowers before and to Me it was something so mysterious of these people to create such beautiful gardens. But now I know and it is so enjoyable.

In the same way, when we enter into that realm of reality we enjoy ourselves and we enjoy others.

This is the first time you will enjoy other people. Not for lust or greed or sex; no jealousies, but just for the innate quality of another person. The innate fragrance of that person you enjoy, which is subtle and when you become subtle you feel that subtlety.

So many things are there. I think, I would say that, as I entered into that beautiful garden, I would say I invite you to enter into the beautiful garden of your own personalities. And as Dutch people who are so sensitive to flowers and have been sending flowers all over the world, I hope the day should come, they should send their beautiful hearts all over the world, which are fragrant with love and compassion.

May God bless you all.

This is not a very routine thing, but we allow people to ask questions all the time. But one should know that we are here for seeking our own powers and not My powers.

So if you have to ask any questions, I hope you will be a true seeker to ask a question I would love to answer. But while we are raising the Kuṇḍalinī, I do not want your mind to pipe in that you should have asked this question. That's the only function. We should do it so that your mind should be at peace when you are allowing your Kuṇḍalinī to rise. But by asking questions or getting answers the Kuṇḍalinī is not going to rise. It is going to rise by itself, spontaneously.

So any questions you want to ask, you may please do so, but we should not waste too much time and I would say about three, four questions I would like to answer.

All right, one by one. Is she asking? Yes, please. Stand up madam.

Question [long]: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: It should be a short question.

Question: Whether classical homeopathic medicines can support this experience; homeopathic medicines; of what value they are.

Shri Mataji: Yes, of course, of course. In medical science? No, no, no.

Lady: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Yes, of course in the classical books it is, but not in the medical science. I did that.

There is nothing like that. They don't know. They talk of the parasympathetic nervous system and they don't know much about it, I must say, not much. They just know there is something. They are honest because they don't know. They confess it. It's all right.

R: The question was whether homeopathic medicine can stimulate the Kuṇḍalinī.

Henno: Ayurvedic, maybe?

Shri Mataji: No. Ayurveda also doesn't. It was... in the ancient times, must have been, because Ayurveda started very near the `tridoshas'. It is nearer to that, but still it doesn't... they believe of course, all the `vaidias' believe in Kuṇḍalinī, no doubt. But they don't know how to do it, so they are a little away from it. But `tridoshas'; means the three defects of the body; they have shown are of these three things; the three `doshas', are the three Nāḍīs which we call as Piñgalā and Iḍā and Suṣhumnā. These three Nāḍīs we too have. And the Kuṇḍalinī rises through the Suṣhumnā, but they don't know how to do it so they treat it from outside. Still on that point maybe it's beyond them, even for the `vaidias'. But some vaidias are realised Souls; then they can. But they all know about it, I mean those who are knowledgeable.

Nowadays there are modern vaidias also, so I don't know about them, but knowledgeable people of the ancient times, who know the knowledge about it, they know about Kuṇḍalinī, everybody knows. I mean, that's one thing, Indians know about it.

Can you... you wait for one minute, sir, she has to answer.

Yes please. Yes, My child.

Question: She asked, if you are not prepared to receive the Kuṇḍalinī, can it be dangerous at all?

Shri Mataji: No, that's what I said! No! Not at all! She is your mother! When you are born your mother takes up all the load upon herself, all the pains. She takes up everything upon herself. Not at all! That's all wrong! That's what I was saying.

Shri Mataji: You say `mudra' to `mother'? Henno: What is that?

Shri Mataji: What do you say to mother? Mudra? Henno [doesn't understand]: Er... what did I say? [Laughter.] I don't know. I told her that, er...

Shri Mataji: No, for mother what do you say? Henno: Moeder. Moeder.

Shri Mataji: Mudre? Henno: Moeder.

Shri Mataji: Very near Sanskrit! Question: She asks whether Kuṇḍalinī is for the earth the world peace.

Shri Mataji: Of course! Of course! You've got the point! I didn't want to say it. A little understatement I wanted to make about it, but you have got the point, of course. Unless and until human beings are transformed, how are you going to get peace? Those who are in charge of peace, I've seen them, I know them very well, none of them are at peace with themselves.

With collective consciousness, you see, when there is nobody who is the other, when you are everybody.

If you are My hands, My fingers, then how can I harm you? I cannot! And I don't help you either, there is no obligation, there is no charity, it's My own being itself! All right? That's it, talking about peace is again talks. Talk, talk, talk, that's what we do. Correct! She's hit the right point. Perfect! You see, I'm a little afraid to say big things because you might think, this is another one, hocus-pocus, so I'm a little bit careful. But it's a fact, you reached the right point I must say. I'm told Dutch people are very intelligent. If they are purely intelligent they'll see the point very clearly. Maybe the United Nations next will be formed here. To see the point, that's the point; you see, the thing is that you see the point. That it is the transformation of human beings which is going to bring forth all our ideas.

There is some gentleman at the corner who was saying something. Do you mind, sir, please.

Question: Why do some people compare this Kuṇḍalinī Yoga to the power of the serpent?

Shri Mataji: Oh, I see. That's correct. That's very true. It is not a serpent, I must tell you. It is not a serpent. But Kuṇḍalinī is described as a serpent, because it is an energy; and energy moves in the same way as a serpent moves, you see. You have seen the waves in which the serpent moves, in the same way the energy also moves and that's why it is described, because it is an energy first of all. And secondly, it has another quality that it is coiled up and with the head downward. That's why it is described as a serpent.

But it's not a serpent by nature; it's just the opposite of a serpent. But it's described as `serpent energy' because it is coiled just like a serpent would coil and it moves in the same way. That's all, just to give a metaphorical explanation, you can say, at the most. But it can mean a very horrid thing in the English language; for us it is not. Indians understand what it is because we worship certain serpents also in India.

So we don't think serpents are as bad as you think. We think some human beings are even worse than serpents; who we worship and put on thrones. Serpents have certain qualities, like serpents will remain serpents, but human being can be serpents, can be scorpions, can be lions, can be anything.

So human beings are more dangerous sometimes.

Question: Do they derive any benefit from worshipping these animal symbols?

Shri Mataji: No, you do not. But you see in India, why we worship them is that they symbolize certain qualities within us. Like a serpent now, in a subtler form, symbolizes an energy which moves in this direction, that's all, in a subtler way. The symbolism is not up to that limit, you see, it is just the subtler part of it, that's why they worship.

And that's how, for example, the cow is worshipped in India. And people might say; why worship a cow? Now the Indian cow, I don't know if you have seen, but the Indian cow is in every house and she gives us milk like the mother does and she always loves us and she is very kind, so naturally you don't want to kill your mother. It gives you milk from childhood, you see. And also she sometimes sacrifices, doesn't give to her children as much as she gives to us. And every day if you see a little cow tied in your house, taking her milk and grow fond of her, you develop that affection, naturally. I mean you cannot be mechanical; like a cow is there, you take the milk, drink it and then cut it down. It's rather difficult, you know.

You must understand that the lifestyle is different. As you people love your cars, in the same way perhaps, maybe more than that, we love our cows, because cows are the ones, they give us milk. Then we don't have your modern facilities of tractors and things and we use the bullocks for our villagers.

So one must respect their idea about it, there is nothing wrong with it.

For example, I would say in the West people don't respect their parents so much. We respect our parents very much. And maybe it may not be very good from your logical point of view, but we must respect everyone that way. I mean, if you respect something, we respect that. I mean we may not respect many things which you respect, which are ridiculous to us.

The way people talk about sex in the West is ridiculous to us. The way women walk naked; it is ridiculous to us. I mean we really vomit when we see a naked woman, you will be surprised. If an Indian sees a naked woman on the street or anywhere, they vomit, actually that's the repulsion.

So are we to discard you for that? No. It's all right. You like it, you have it. That's the way it is, you see.

So one should not impose one's own idea about others. One should see... it's a thing having a respect for a cow because she is in the house and she gives us... it's nice to be that way.

And in India you'll be surprised that the cows, Indian cows, look very different from your cows. My granddaughter when she came to England, she asked Me, “All the buffalos in England are white?" I said “Where are the buffalos?" She said; “These are buffalos, aren't they?" I said “No they are cows." They don't look like cows, they look like Indian buffalos. That's a fact. Because, you see the treatment and the love and affection we give to them... like if you have a pet of a dog you won't kill it, will you? In the same way, they are our pets; they are in the household. Try to understand. The lifestyle is different. And that's why people like them and I think one should not have any objection to these things, what others have to do. There is nothing wrong. If they were killing one could say, but they are not! There is nothing wrong in it.

Question [gentleman]: [arguing about the idea of a serpent].

Shri Mataji: I mean... it's true! For us also it is. You have shown it many times that way. But here the serpent is not described as a serpent which is a Satan, but is an energy. You see Satan is a Satan for us; we never compromise with a Satan, that's one thing. But I would say, you see, in India, as in every country, we have made mistakes. That has nothing to do with the philosophy, with the innate thing that is within you. Whether you call it a serpent or an energy what does it matter? It is there, you'd better have your realisation. What does it matter? You may call it... what will you call something that moves like this, upwards? What is the symbol? Is there any other animal you can say? Crocodile? No. You suggest to Me. You tell Me. What you will say to a thing that is coiled up and moves like that? Now tell Me, you have to tell Me. Please, I would like to get something else. But that's the only way it works out, but it is not a serpent. I will show you that it's not a serpent. That's your Mother. That's the Holy Ghost.

Gentleman: [argues].

Shri Mataji: I don't know what to do with the English, it's very difficult. I'm sorry to say because English is a very confusing language, I must say.

Interruption: [gentleman continuing to argue and get angry].

Shri Mataji: Now, excuse Me sir, but will you be able to explain to Me, what is the `Holy Ghost'? Just what is the `holy' and `ghost'? Tell Me, what is that? In the English language ghost means a ghost.

Why do you call it the Holy Ghost? No, no, no, you just tell Me this point. You see the language; you should not fight on superficial things. That doesn't show your depth at all. You must have profundity. No you are not a profound person.

Gentleman: [continues to argue].

Shri Mataji: I tell you really, what are you going to gain out of this discussion? Nothing, what are you going to get? You see, it's superficial, it's so superficial. One has to be profound; one has to be profound to get to something. There is no profundity. I expected better questions than this. You see if somebody symbolizes something as something, it doesn't mean you go to that extreme of anything, do you? Actually, you'll be surprised; the Kuṇḍalinī is shown as a serpent among the Egyptians. If you see on their head, you will see a serpent on the king's head. It's also shown among the Jain religion which is a `Tirthankara' called as Parshvanath, there is a Kuṇḍalinī shown as a serpent. You see, so the symbol of the serpent that you have is going to the extremes and that's the Western mind, it always goes to the extremes.

Now, if you say this lady looks like a queen, that doesn't mean that she has all the diamonds, does that mean? You see, don't go to the extremes. It's a very superficial way of looking at things, it makes no difference. In the English language now you call it the `Holy Ghost', I have an objection to that. Why do you call it the Holy Ghost? It's the Kuṇḍalinī. It's a much better word. Calling the Divine Mother a `ghost', is it a very good language? I don't think so. `Spirit' for the devil and `spirit' for the vampires and `spirit' for a person who is a realised Soul; on language we should not fight on this platform. We are not here to fight for languages, are we? All right, if you want to have your realisation, you can have it. But what is this fighting for languages? It shows your superficiality, that's all. If you are superficial people, whatever you may discuss, you cannot get realisation, I tell you… I verily tell you, you cannot get your realisation. You have to be a deep person, to understand. If you are a superficial person, you'd better go for a linguistic carrier and work it out there. This is not the place. We are talking of the Divine language of love.

And if somebody doesn't want to understand it... that all this talk has nothing to do with your Kuṇḍalinī awakening... It's a living process which has to work out within you. This has nothing to do with your Kuṇḍalinī awakening. It's an actualisation. It is not an artificial baptism that you accept without asking `What is all this nonsense going on?' There nobody asks questions. Who is this Holy Ghost? Ask the questions. Nobody asks. They take the children for baptism, where so many have said... like William Blake has said, “I was cursed by a priest putting his hand on my head." I was Myself born in the Christian religion and I was also cursed like this. But you never asked questions, did you? Never! Now when it comes to something else, you start asking questions, that too so superficial, I would say. Very superficial! That's not the way. That's not the sign of a seeker. A seeker goes deeper into it.

He has to seek. That's the main thing. He has to find out. He has to get to it. That's a real seeker. He is not bothered about the language part. I have not called it a serpent, if somebody has called it a serpent, you'd better go and discuss with them.

That is how one should not get disturbed with these things, you see. Why somebody calls it something... it's all right, we have nothing to bother about. We have come here to get our own experience. That's all. You have come here for something very special, which you have been seeking for ages, which you have to have and if you have these superficial ideas, I cannot work it out. I'm sorry. I am also helpless. By discussing you are helping no one.

Alright, so no more questions because it's some sort of an aggressiveness that's coming through, so it's better not to have any more questions. Because it is not the way, this is not the platform for that. This is no election going on, nor am I preaching for any religion against another religion.

I'm telling you the point that is subtle within you, your own powers. If I say, “You have a diamond” alright... you'll say “Where is it?" Isn't it? Won't you ask Me? Will you say “But it is said in the book like this"? No, you will say, “Mother, show us the diamond, where it is." If you are sensible, of course; sensibility is important. There is nothing to...

Now, please be seated sir. I'm sorry, because we have wasted our time and you can write it down and I will answer it tomorrow.

Gentleman: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Do you want your realisation, otherwise you can go out. It's too much! You see these people are coming from some...

Gentleman [shouting loudly]: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: What is it? Henno: He is getting angry.

Shri Mataji: He's drunk? Henno: I don't know Mother but he is not very kind.

Shri Mataji: All right. How can you have peace with such angry people? If you have to have peace, you cannot have anger like this. All right let it be, it doesn't matter. They'll be all right. They are ignorant that's all. They'll be all right. It's nothing compared to others I have faced, they are much worse.

[Laughs.] I mean if somebody calls it a serpent energy, all right, so he has no business to jump on Me.

I never called it a serpent energy, did I? It's terrible, you just see this ignorance, see this ignorance.

So naive people are. I feel so helpless sometimes in the West, not in India, no, they know.

They know what is a good Guru and a bad Guru. Now you have got bad Gurus here, fake Gurus. They did all kinds of wrong.

So now they want to know how I am a Guru. Guru means a person who makes you meet God. It's said in the scriptures. I've been talking against them since 1970. That make out a Guru who is a real Guru and not somebody who gives you something false. Give it up, after all you are not here to live with a Guru, you are here to get your realisation. Of course I'm not a Guru also, I would say, I am just a mother. But you have to be a Guru yourself. You have to be master of yourself.

And it is not something Indian I'm teaching about. It's nothing Indian. India has lots of problems and lots of stupid things they are doing in the name of religion, no doubt and in the name of philosophy.

Horrible people we have in our country also. If you think I'm here propagating some sort of an Indian philosophy, you are wrong. But I must confess the roots are there, very deep down. Not in the English language but in Sanskrit. There's no doubt, we must accept it. As we have in India learned so much about science from the West, why not learn about the science of the Divine. If it comes from anywhere whatsoever! We are not `East' and `West', God did not create that. He did not create India and Holland. He created one world. You send flowers all over, so what's the harm? If it is good for us why not have it. If it can cure our cancers and can cure our diseases and it can give us balance and peace and joy and everything, why not have it? Let it come from anywhere. I've seen your tulips in Japan. I've seen them, lots of them; you do export, don't you? We are all one, it must circulate, it must articulate. Let's come to some sensible decisions about ourselves. Have we solved our problems? Have you got any way? Let's talk about it on those terms. I never knew English; I had to learn to talk to you.

I don't say you learn this language but you have to learn the language of the Divine, that is silent and you can feel it as a Cool Breeze. It speaks to you on your finger tips. Just on your finger tips, you speak to the Divine. Why not do that? You smile the same way as anyone does, you laugh the same way as anybody does. There is nothing like different nations, believe Me, it's our creation. Human beings have created it. The whole world is one. From wherever you get good, you must get it. Otherwise some people go headlong or some people just don't go.

So what's going to happen? Some people are misled or some people are not there. But why not see? We are sensible, on the look out to begin with. I've nothing to gain, I've already told you I don't take any money; you can't give Me.

But I promise you good health, I promise you peace of mind and I promise you the benevolence bestowed upon you by blissful existence. I promise you that. If I say that, then what is there to challenge Me? For what? What am I saying to you? Am I asking anything? Am I saying you have to give up anything? Did I say so? I didn't say. I said; as you are, it's all right. You are invited, didn't I say so? So why to challenge Me? And why get angry with Me? For what? Because somebody in olden times has called something a serpent? It's absurd! Just see the absurdity of it.

All right, so forget it, forgive. Only thing, you should not be upset and your mind should be settled down. In a way it is evil, I think it is an evil thing to do, when we are talking of something constructive, just to destroy it with your own ideas. It's very evil and it should not be done. Because the whole thing was very nicely built up and you were all ready to receive it and you will receive it. But don't pay any attention to what he said or anything, or to what I said, just you have to receive it, that's the point.

Now it will take hardly ten to fifteen minutes for this experience. If you get it today well and good, otherwise... tomorrow am I going to be here? Henno: Tomorrow there will be follow ups.

Shri Mataji: All right, there are follow ups. And we have some very good Dutch people who are realised Souls and I have great hopes things will work out. All right, so those who want to go should go now. Don't disturb in between, it's only ten, fifteen minutes it will take. I would request you, those who do not want to have their Self-realisation, should please leave others in peace, that's all, nothing else. To be civil to us is the best way.

Alright. [Some people leave, pause.] There cannot be any force on it; there cannot be any promise that it will work out. We cannot force you. It has to work out itself. As I've told you it's a living process, it has to work out. And it cannot be also said that something is wrong with you because you did not get it. Maybe tomorrow, if not today, so you must give a full chance and have respect for yourself. And when you get your realisation, have respect for your Self-realisation. That's all I want. When you get the experience, then you should be honest.

When you do not get the experience then you should be a little bit assiduous and work it out. Also, I cannot give you a certificate, you have to certify yourself. You are in charge.

[Self-realisation takes place.]... Slowly open your eyes, very slowly. Please put now your right hand towards Me, like this and the left hand on top of your head, right hand towards Me, right hand. And with the left hand on top of your head, about two inches, you see if there is a Cool Breeze coming. It's you who has to certify it, not Me nor a priest nor anybody; it's you who has to certify it. A little higher. Alright? You'll feel very peaceful because there is no thought; you are without thought most of you.

... Now all those who have felt the Cool Breeze, can you raise your hands, please, both the hands.

Quite a number, quite a number! [After Self-realisation.]... If you have felt the heat, most of you will feel heat, because you eat a lot of cheese. [Laughing.] Holland cheese, you see. I used to eat it in My childhood. Did you feel that, madam?... You can put your left hand on your liver and put the right hand like this. The heat will be on the liver, you'll feel it.

The Kuṇḍalinī attends to your problems, you see. If there is a liver problem, she attends to it. Put your left hand on the liver like this and put the right hand towards Me. Is it better now? Henno: She felt the heat only for a little moment.

Shri Mataji: Then it's all right, you are all right. [Laughing.] You are all right. It works that way, it works that way. Now you can feel on other's heads also. Just see; just see on other's heads. You got it? Good. There you are, just put your right hand. He has a liver, put your hand right like that. Yes. It's good, good.

That is how they help you. This is what the disciples of Christ did you see. They moved their hands in this way, they started speaking the language of the Chakras, centers and people thought they were mad.

You see this is the trouble.

... Now after getting realisation, one has to work it out and know everything about it, otherwise it is wasted, the way if a seed is sprouted and is left alone. You all will become experts in no time. About a month's time is sufficient. You'll be all experts and Gurus; the masters. That is what is promised.

Everything will be known to you, all the secrets.

[Shri Mataji works on people.] [To Sahaja Yogis:]... What do you say? I've done it in good time!

Shri Mataji: Yes, madam, you felt the Cool Breeze?

Seeker: Thank you. You are beautiful.

Shri Mataji: What work do you do?... Now better? All right, may God bless you.

Please come for the follow on, please all of you come for the follow on. It's such a wastage I feel sometimes.

Please learn about it. Please understand that you are a Divine person, that you are the Spirit.

Seeker: But I want to tell you, I am a German and I love cows and I don't forgive the people who eat them. [Laughing.]

Shri Mataji: No, no, no, no. That's all right. They are in ignorance. All right now forgive, forgive, forgive. Forgive, forgive, forgive, forgive, forgive, forgive. Now see. All right? It's working out? Forgive, just forgive. You see in the eyes of God, nobody is German, nobody is Indian, nobody is this thing.

Everybody is a human being.

Seeker: But you were talking about the Germans like they are Nazis, you know.

Shri Mataji: There are some still, stupid people, you know.

Seeker: Yes there are, but... We are not all Nazis and some of us even love cows.

Shri Mataji: Oh yes, I agree, we have so many Sahaja Yogis who are German and you are going to be one of them. They are great people. Once the Germans take to Sahaja Yoga, nobody can stop it. I know that. Alright? Still thinking! Now don't think. Now forgive, forgive. Forgive, forgive, forgive, forgive. Ha, better, much better, now you can't think. May God bless you.

So hope to see you again. What's your name?

Seeker: Diana.

Shri Mataji: Diana. All right, hope to see you...

Thank you.

So beautiful the daisies... Ah, Dutch daisies are better.

May God bless you.

... Yes. How are you? May God bless you. Are you an Indian? You are from where? Oh I see from Indonesia! That's the place where Sītā went. In Bali, isn't it? Good, you got it! You got it. Feeling nice? Alright. Hope to see you tomorrow. Come along, master it. You have to send it to Indonesia also.

[Laughing.] May God bless you.

Contents: 1986-09-17 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, How to be Respected or Leadership and Administration, Part 1, The Hague, Netherlands

Now, to see to influence other people we must know how much control we have upon ourselves also. That is very important. For example some people, you see, have no proper image and they try to influence others.

So they... it's a mockery. Nobody gets influenced by such a person who himself has no image of his own.

So before working out the exterior, interior must be worked out.

For example, a person who always comes late to the office and is always delayed, who has no time sense, is never respected.

So when you tell people that they should be in time, you should be the first to arrive at the right time. You must always keep the time, absolutely. You should be a known person for keeping time. Say supposing you have to go to the office at, say, ten o'clock, you reach the office in such a way that you are there five minutes [early], wait outside and enter the office exactly at the time when you have to go. That punctuality, it is very important. That helps people and people get an awe for you because they think, that this gentleman is so regular and I' m the one who is absolutely late.

Also, if you tell somebody that I have to meet at such and such time and this should be arranged at such and such time, then you should be absolutely punctual. That is very important that the punctuality is to be maintained by you.

Now, I've seen in the West specially, that people get up very late and are very lazy; they walk in a limply manner; and the whole thing shows, that you see, they are not interested in the world, they are just pushed into it and somehow or other they are doing. Such a person can never influence anyone, because people also see your image, that you yourself you're dragging your life somehow, so why to do the same thing?, Whatever he is doing. He cannot tell us anything.

So that is another reason [why] you cannot influence people at all, if you are yourself a lazy person.

So, the person who has to influence others has to be an early riser, must have proper habits of sleeping, must get up in the morning and be properly brushed, washed and everything and should be what we call a smart man.

Now, many people believe that if you try to be, very sort of a person of a fashionable type, I mean that you wear dresses of a fashionable style and all that, that will influence others. It's not true. Because they think that you have no conviction of any kind, you see, you must build up an image of yourself that you are such and such, you see, a kind of a character, as we have in a drama, or it's a character. The person speaks with the same character, talks with the same character. And the style should be absolutely known to people that this is your style, that's how you are. That you do not sort of a compromise on things.

[Shri Mataji lays down a glass.] That is very important that when you are talking to people you must have a proper style of talking, walking proper style. This should all be trimmed down properly, that you don't walk in a languid manner, you see, in a manner of throwing your legs here and there walking in a..., but straight and sit down straight. And let people see that you have faith in yourself. First of all, if you don't have faith in yourself, I mean your any behaviour shows that you have no faith in yourself, you cannot influence others.

So your self-confidence must be shown through your, all behavioural programing, like talking, sitting, walking, ah... communicating. There should be, I think, a confidence. But the confidence comes in a person when he realises that he is completely secured. And in Sahaja Yoga, as you know, that if your Center Heart is secured, if you know, tell yourself that: `Mother is with me. Mother is helping me and I'm with Mother. I have nothing to worry.' Then your Center Heart will be alright. Of course, this you cannot tell to others. But still, if you have a personality, you can imbibe that into others very simply. But if you are diffident about yourself, then you cannot do it.

So confidence is to be established first of all within yourself. For Sahaja Yogis it's very easy to say, `I am the spirit and I am the child, I am the one who has been chosen by the Ādi Shakti Herself.' So there should be tremendous amount of confidence in you.

Now, for example when you are, say, with the people, how do you eat your food? Some people open their mouth all the time, eat their food with there... a sort of a sound. All these things are watched by others, how you eat, how you talk. And also, normally, you should not keep your mouth open, ah you can never influence people but keep your [mouth], not pursed either, but in a normal way, closed, like that, so that people do not think that you are just gaping at them or if you keep your mouth open all the time, or they should not think also that you are aggressive with them or angry. But in normal face, what you call a face that is neither aggressive, nor which is subservient.

So it won't give, supposing you keep a gaping mouth, they'll think, “He's an idiot” and if you [UNCLEAR] and purse your lips they will think you are a person of a[n] aggressive nature.

So, one has to understand how you are sitting before others, talking to others. And to influence others, first of all, as I said, you must respect your own personality and then respect the personality of others, in your behaviour.

Like, receiving somebody clumsy, you should talk to them in a very gentle manner, knowing that there is another God who is coming in. If there is Spirit in me, there is Spirit in you also.

So you must see that he sits properly, he is comfortable and ask to... if you want any tea or anything. Or make him comfortable. Make him feel that you are not in any way disturbed, nor that you are irritated, but you are very happy to meet him and that you should settle down with kindness.

Sometimes also in diffidence one might feel nervous about a person if he's there. That nervousness is a sign of insecurity. One should not be nervous. If you are talking to someone, one should be in a way that another person should feel absolutely confident and should feel that this gentleman is very [UNCLEAR pleasant].

Now, another way to impress people is [to] allow others to talk, listen to them properly, not talk yourself, listen to them and once they've said something, then say, “That's true no doubt. I agree, but..." Then you can start.

So you do not just stun them by your, “No! Not at all!" like that. But on the contrary, you, see what they say. I mean you can watch Me I do that many times. When somebody says [something], “Oh, that is true, but, you see, this is it..." So they don't mind. They see that you have seen the other side of the thing also, that you have a balance and you just don't impress your idea upon others.

In a way you are, but in a way you do it that nobody feels that impact, that you are doing something of that kind.

Now, as far as possible, never tell anybody to do anything. That hurts people. Say for example, supposing, you people are there, I will tell you that “Do this. Put the lights off." That after all you are My children, it's alright, it is a different relationship. But when you are dealing with others, you see, like you should...

Somebody's there, sitting: “If you want I'll put on the light" slowly, while talking you get up and put on the light. Ask him, `Do you mind if I put on the light?' That makes it. But in any behaviourally [behaviour], aggression is the first impression.

It is the other way round in Sahaja Yoga. In Sahaja Yoga first raise the Kuṇḍalinī, then, do this and do that. It is the other way round. You have to build them up from the foundation if you have to impress them [from] outside. To build them up from the foundation, the first thing is that you must infuse in them a kind of a trust in you. They should trust you. They should know that whatever you are saying is the truth. That you are not telling them something that is false or you have no faith in.

So in the way you tell them, it influences them very much, that this man is telling the truth.

So the whole thing should start from your behavioural style, you can say.

Now the dress also, I would say. Dress is very important in influencing others. Now supposing you are connected with somebody in an official way, or in any way that you want to influence him in the business and all that. Best thing is to wear a business dress, not to wear a dress that is relaxed or casual. You must wear a dress that is a business dress, like, you can say, a deep blue suit with a lot of strips and a proper three-piece smart thing and smart, clean shoes and hair nicely done, may be a little bit oiled, it's alright, you look like a smart business person.

But if you try to do the fashions of the world, you see, then it changes everyday. Today the hair will be this side, tomorrow that side.

So make the hair style as an official would do, it's to properly comb them.

In the olden days, if you see, even the heroes or anything of the film used to have oil in their hair. They never had this kind of hair which was dry and this and that. I mean, you don't need oil, but it should be properly groomed as they say. There are lots of things available in the market which can just groom your hair without oiling it.

So it should be properly groomed hair and it should not be something, so that it shows that you have paid attention to your appearance as you have paid attention to your hairstyle and everything.

So you make an image out of you which is absolutely suitable for a particular type of a job.

Now, for a cook say for example, if a cook dresses up like a, supposing a cook appears in a swimming suit, what would you think of that? It's horrid! A cook has to dress up like a cook. In the same way a businessman also has to dress up like a businessman. You cannot go about in jeans in your office, you should not, because if you do it, everybody will do it. And all these things create laxity. Laxity is alright outside the office, outside your business; alright, but not when you have the business. Like we have a drawing room. Now a drawing room is a drawing room, it is not a bedroom. You should not mix them up. Once you start mixing them up there's no end to it. It can go to any limit. I've seen people going to the office in dresses that really look like a swimming suit.

So this has to be revived and can be revived very easily if you tell people that he won't be able to influence people unless and until you keep that kind of a form and an upright behaviour in dealing with others.

It's another point, very important, that you have to be truthful. Don't tell lies. If you have to tell something, then you must tell straightforward. But everything need not be told, that is not telling lies.

Every thing need not be told. Whatever you have to tell, you should say: `this much is this' that's all. But you shouldn't tell one thing today, tomorrow another thing, the day after tomorrow another thing. That creates a very big gap in the mind of a human being unconsciously, he thinks `he's only a cheat and he is trying to evade the issue or something.' Supposing now I'm talking to you and then I start looking at the watch. Then it is insulting. Supposing you are talking about something, some particular thing and then suddenly I change the topic, then it is again insulting, because everybody is intelligent to see that you are trying to avoid the issues. But up to a point you should take it and then, the whole thing, if it is ridiculous, you should bring it to a point to show that.

Like yesterday, I said that, “You see, I never wrote about a serpent. If somebody else has written, why should I explain it? I never call it a serpent's energy because that confuses people. But if somebody has called it a serpent's energy it doesn't matter. What can you do about it?" And when you say such a thing, bring it to a ridiculous conclusion of the whole thing, so the person himself keeps quiet.

But you should not suddenly change the topic, that means you are evading the issues, you don't know how to handle it, you see. This is something sometimes people, just while you're talking they say, “Alright, let's talk about this." You cannot. And diversion in talking like that can create a big problem. Another is, while talking to others, don't talk about yourself, `I am this and I.' No one likes that. It's stupid, to talk about yourself. `I have this thing. I am this thing.' Nothing. Now, you just all the time ask other, `What are you doing? What is your profession? How are you?' This. That. All sorts of questions to him.

Now he is says to you anything, then you have to talk about your organization's system, you shouldn't say `I', you should always say `we'. Should always say we: we don't do; we are; `we' means the organization.

Always refer to the organization and never to yourself. “I would not do such a thing. I hate it. I believe in it." That is absolutely absurd. What we have to do “that we believe. We think this way. And what is your opinion?" We have this kind of a thing.

Or anything that you want to tell them about your own organization or your own product or anything.

You have to tell them, that `you see, this is what is available to you. Now it is here and we have seen that it has done a lot of good and it works this way. And we have got very good reports about it. You can see the reports, we have the reports here, you can see what it is. And, if you please, you can try it and see for yourself.' The amount of service you give to the person is very much appreciated by another person. It's not only ego, but it makes a person very comfortable.

Like, people would like to travel by Air India very much. Many people say that they would like to travel by Air India. Try to understand why. Because these days it's difficult, because they examine you too much and also because of bombing and this and that.

So I thought that I would be very difficult.

And they have raised the prices of their, what you call, travel because they have to do extra spending on getting people checked, this and that. But the reason why people take to Air India is this, the ladies who work there are extremely modest type. They look after the people very well. They are not cheap, they are not cheap women and when they serve people, they take good care and the food is lavish, absolutely lavish, eat as much as you like, a lot of food. They give you five, six times food, whatever you like. And you feel quite happy to have all that. At the slightest, if you press the button slight, immediately they are available to you.

So what I am saying is, when you are really marketing, you must know you are at the other end. You are not to be serviced, but you have to service. Once you realise that you have to service others your attitude changes, you see. You have to service others. Only through your services they are going to work out. I'll tell you how.

Like, specially with the English it's a big problem. That's why they are losing so much. They are extremely arrogant. If you go to an Englishman and ask him, “Can I see what product you have?" “What do you want?" “I would like to see the product that you have." “Alright. We just now don't have any arrangements here to give you anything, but if you leave your note we'll send it to you." Finished. That person is not bothered.

You should be properly equipped all the time to attend to it. In the senses, in an organization, now supposing you are having some product, then you should know all about it, the brochures should be there, it's all the time available whenever you want it. It should be properly priced, systematically kept. If somebody comes, if you know the person, there is validity, you see, he's the one who can do some business with you, “Here it is. Please have it. You can see yourself." Explain to him what it is. And “This is what it is and we can give you so much concession in that. Could be this much." All those things are going to capture the market. The market doesn't capture, not because of the product so much, but because of the way it is put forward.

The way it is put forward is very important, that you have a proper brochure done, by proper people, or you yourself see to it that it is done beautifully. Little money, doesn't matter, on that. Whatever is spent is a prop of the capital that you have to put in for the product. It is a part of it. If you think that just to do, put a production then it goes, means are part and parcel, in these modern times, of any product being made or sold. It's part of the product.

To influence people you don't have to advertise so much as you have to deal with them. I mean, I can tell you this one that, when I had to buy something, anywhere I remember the people from whom I bought it and the experiences I've had. I think I would always go to a person who was kind to Me, nice to Me, he may take more money, doesn't matter, but he is kind to Me he is not shouting at Me, who is well behaved and his behaviour is nice, he doesn't just try to make fun of Me and also, on the contrary, he gives Me all the information and everything. It is absolutely acceptable.

Like, I went to see Lloyds. It is a company where I wanted to put some money. I mean, it is a very big thing to put some money, it's a bank, they should understand, it's a custom. Now, they had put a little girl there. After all, the people who are to be contacting others should be people of personality.

So some little girl was there. As soon as I came in she asked Me, “Who are you?" I told her, “I am this and this." “Oh, no we can't have you. You've got to have this and, please... we can't do it." So I said alright, in deference I said alright and I gave the name of the high commissioner of India and all those things. I mean, she should understand, that I would not say like that.

So, the only thing is that she did not realise that I was with a driver. I had a chauffeur-driven car. I have a Mercedes with Me. I was wearing an expensive sarī and looked quite respectable; and she should have understood that she should behave to Me in a different way than to an ordinary laborer. Here is a real customer.

So she said, “all right then, I'd like to have identification and then I have to do this, and, no, no, no, no, no!" I got so fed up with them that I went to another bank, that is North West. I have got a bank account somewhere else, but I wanted one near My house. Though it is far away, though it is not in such a good locality, when I entered in, as soon as I entered she could see as she [UNCLEAR] was an intelligent woman, she could see this is a good customer for us. She could see, I was wearing diamonds, this and that. You should see from My personality that there is a good customer coming in. Immediately she said, “Please, let us go into the VIP room." I didn't say anything. She took Me inside, she talked very gently to Me and she asked Me and she said: “Can I take one minute?" She went in and she told somebody to telephone and find out about My things and all that and she did not [UNCLEAR].

You see, it is not to be done in the presence of a person, but you can verify the person's personality and everything, secretly, alright, in a way that he doesn't feel bad or something and know that `Who is this man, is he correct or not?' Whether he, but he should not know that you are inquiring. You should not in any way show that you know about him.

So, you see, that kind of secrecy helps a lot, because you do not become arrogant. You do not become blunt, or you say bluntly if you tell somebody, no one likes it that way. The [UNCLEAR] comes when you insult another or you try to put down another person, or you try to doubt another person. There are the three things you should look after that you put the person into a comfortable position and tell him everything, listen to him, what he has to say, trusting him. Then the person looks upon you.

So, in organization, if you have to run any administration and organization, your personality has to be absolutely sensible. Secondly, what you talk, you must follow. Supposing I tell you that you shouldn't take money and I start grabbing money from you, supposing, then what will you do? You'll have no faith in me, will you? Actually, when you give Me money for Pūjās I keep them in a packet and use that money for buying the silver and all that for you. I need not. I mean it is out of the question. You have given it in Pūjā, it is supposed to be Mine and I have said, alright, to keep the protocol alright you use that silverware, which is My own, but you can use it. I mean, it's just a joke, but everybody knows that Mother is so clear-cut, so clear-cut. You have to be clear-cut with people. They should understand that you do not play tricks with them, or you are not doing some sort of a backhand outwitting.

Some people do it, you see, at the back of a person they try some sort of a trick. Such a person is never liked. Nobody respects such a person. But straight forward dealing with a person as he is. If somebody is not alright, in a mild way you should say what the problem is. “We are facing this problem. Now, tell me what is the solution." Then the person does not feel bad. If you tell a person directly they won't like it. No, they won't. You won't like it, if I tell you so directly, but I tell you everything, and I tell you in a way that is mild, that is congenial, that is easily understood and assimilated. That is very important, that you have a style that people understand and a proper kind of behaviour.

Actually by not influencing others, you influence others. Art lies in hiding art. There should be no deliberation exposed about it. When talking to someone also, even if you don't understand what they are talking, you should not show that you are understanding and listening. It may be something absurd.

[To Gregoire:] I'm just giving them some lecture on administration. [Gregoire asks if he should leave.] No, no, it is for every one of you. How to influence others... you see, actually by not influencing others, you influence others. Art lies in hiding art. There should be no deliberation exposed about it. And if you understand how to do that... [GAP] So while talking to someone also, even if you don't understand what they are talking about, you should show that you are understanding them and listening to what they are telling you; it maybe absurd, this, or that...

When you have to deal with three persons, or five or ten persons, then you have to understand that you should always try to create a good feeling among them. Like now for example, I would like you to marry then I will tell you about her, what she is, in a way that will not hurt you or hurt her, but prepare you.

Because later on you may hear about her, that somebody was saying so and Mother never told.

So, in a very gentle way you should say, `You see, she has a little of these things, but it's alright, she can be very, very gentle. She can manage it.' And it depends on you. How you manage it.

So that you feel informed, knowledgeable about a person and also responsible about it, that how it is my responsibility.

So, to make people responsible is also a very important part of administration. If you start doing every work yourself then people may never share your work. They will never do anything. To make them responsible the best way is by rewarding them. You must reward them if somebody has done good work.

`Oh you have done such a good work.' But not directly like that, but in a very indirect manner you must reward that person. Not only in works, but in kind words, you can do it with kind small things.

I'll give you an example of Rajesh. Rajesh is very sweet and does not need anything. I mean, he is such a rich man, what can we give him? Once he was taking Me somewhere and he had this swiss knife and he gave it to the driver to cut the fruit or something. And then it vanished. And he was very angry, you see. He couldn't bear this fellow cheating him. He took him to the police station and all that, but he couldn't get it. The driver had managed it somehow you see. It was a taxi. He was very angry with the driver. I saw that and said, “Alright, it doesn't matter." The next time I went to India, I took a very nice knife for him. When he saw it, he just melted away.

He said, “Mother, how did you remember?" I said, “You were so upset at that time." He said, “Not because of a knife, but because of the way this fellow cheated me." But the whole thing neutralised you see.

So, little, little things if you watch of a person, it's very sweet.

Like I'll tell you about Gregoire. Once we went to a shop to find some sarīs for Myself. I was buying some sarīs and I thought, I've bought quite a lot now. I liked one sarī very, very much, but I didn't buy it. I thought it was too much money, I shouldn't waste all this money, that will not be good. Whatever it is. I gave it up. Next day Gregoire bought the sarī as a present to Me. Really, I treasured that sarī. I remember.

You see, every incident can be made into some sort of a very valid thing, we can say: like a Pūjā. But like an official makes a difference in an organization where you work. Little, little things like that. Also they should feel that you are responsible for them in an organization, very important.

Once in My husband's office one fellow joined another organization and he was told not to join another organization, but he joined it because there was more money. And when he went there he found it was all a very horrible thing. There was nothing good happening except for the money. He was very unhappy there, so he wanted to come back. And he came back, My husband was very annoyed, “I told you not to go there. Why did you go? What was the need to do such a thing? Now I can not take you back." So the fellow came to Me. I don't know why he thought of it, but he came to Me. He told Me what had happened and that he wanted to come back to the shipping corporation and, I made some mistakes.

I think I made a big mistake and Mister Srivastava is somehow angry with Me. He doesn't want to take Me back.

So when Mister Srivastava came home I said that he had come to see Me.

“Oh! So he came to see you. As if you are my boss." and he got very angry.

So I said, “He wants to join your corporation. I think you should give a consideration to him." He said, “Why did he come to you?" I said, “I think he thought I am more forgiving than you are perhaps!" That put him right. He said, “What do you mean? I can be forgiving too." “So then forgive him!" [Laughs.] These are the tricks, you see, which I have naturally. But you can imbibe them also, not difficult to impress others. Such little, little things make a difference, you see. When they are sick you must look after them. Find out if their children are sick, if their wives are sick. You should be concerned and you should be identified. You must treat an organization like a family. Absolutely like a family. What's wrong with her? Is she all right? Do you need any help? This thing, that thing. Send sometimes the flowers when the husband is sick, or the wife is sick, or make enquiries about the children. All these things mean a lot.

Normally, what people do, on a Christmas day. At the most they may send a card or something.

But you can have in the organization a proper card system. You should sign them yourself and one line somewhere in the thing, `I hope your wife is alright. I hope the children are alright. If you know the wife, please give my regards to her.' There is no need to make them drink like fish, but it is more to make them feel that they are loved and they are liked in the organization. They are very important. This kind of a thing.

Even the suggestion... like you are changing the position of a person. Now, for example if I want Christine to be the leader in America and Gregoire to be there and not to interfere with Christine, I said, “Gregoire, see now, she is there and she is handling people better. She knows them, people have love and respect. Suddenly you are a new person going there and you will be her husband.

So, as it is, you are one of the world leaders and you should have nothing to do with the local stuff." And he understood it. But if I had said, `Now you don't talk anything there! Now you keep quiet!' I mean, it would not have worked out. And that he is, he knows that very well. He is the one who have come up like that. Anywhere in the world you can go and do anything you like. I would say Rajesh is another one who is coming up.

Unless and until you make proper arrangements you should not shift a person suddenly. You should try to see that this person who is suddenly shifted is alright. But you should find out if you really want to shift a person or not. If you are uncertain better keep it hanging. Time is the best way to allow things to happen like this. Allow a little time to pass-away. Give a little hint to a person, `People are complaining.

What to do? I' d like you to help me.' So that he also thinks that you give him sufficient time to improve.

But if you don't give any time and you just tell a person, `Now, you get out!', he'll become your enemy.

But, on the contrary, you should say, `I'm sorry, but these people are such, they are trying to trouble us and trouble me all the time and I don't know what is wrong with them, but please take care and all that.' And things work out. People take you seriously and they understand that you are responsible for yourself and that you are putting that responsibility on them. That is how it should be worked out.

There is a shop in Lucknow that makes very good sweets, very famous for it's sweets. Now his father is gone but the son is sitting there. Big stomach he has got. And everybody goes there to his shop. You can't take a car, you have to walk quite a long distance.

Now his trick is such, which I have noticed, he'll first take your order, then you are sitting there and he says [to his boys], “What are you doing? Why don't you give her things? She has been sitting here for such a long time. Look at these people. They just go on taking so much time of people. Now I hope you don't have to go by the aeroplane just now." I said, “No, I am alright!" So, on an apology all the time, you see.

So then he said, “Why not taste these things I've made specially, just try." So you eat something and you say, “Alright, give me some of these too." Like that, he goes on, you see, giving time. And then after some time he says, “Look now at these people, how horrid they are. They don't know how to finish the work. Hey! What are you doing there? Why don't you give some sweets to the lady. She has to go now. Why are you taking so much time? I'm Sorry, will you taste them? They'll bring it." So, you eat something else.

So you say, “Alright." You eat this and by the time you have left the shop all your money is finished and you bought all the sweets of the shop. And that is the trick he plays. Then after some time you discover it and you say, “I know all these tricks. Now will you please give me what ever I want!" Then he'll give it.

So what I am saying is that a relationship of sweetness develops when you see him sweetly selling his things, his products to us. On the contrary, “This is my product. If you want, you have it. Otherwise, get out.", “Alright, you get out first!" The whole attitude of selling is now turning back to a proper relationship between the seller and the purchaser. It is just a relationship that works, not the product. Let the product go to hell! Nobody is bothered about the product. Of course, if you have five products and they are equally good, then people will go to the organization which is sensible, which receives people sensibly, respects them and delivers the things in time and a thing that is not useless.

Of course, you must find out what is the good with the other organization. What they are having.

What they are selling. You should find out and why people like that? But most of all, what I've seen, that works out is nothing but your relationship with the customer.

But also your relationship in the office should be good. First of all your personality should be good.

People who wear fashionable dresses in the office cannot be good administrators because you see, they become a little loose and people start taking advantage of a loose personality. But you should be tight, in a sense. Wear an official dress. Always. People have an awe of them.

In the same way, this new data, like in the office people will call everybody, the driver will call the boss: “Tom, how are you?" No respect. It starts like that. Or if the boss takes a drug or something, like in India they take what you call tobacco. Tobacco they eat. What happens, even a peon goes to the boss and the boss says, “Have you got a little bit of zarda?", “Yes, yes” takes out his own and gives it, finished. The whole relationship is finished.

So at that time, if you are taking drugs, if you take drinks, anything, whatever habits you have that are really detrimental, try to cut them. Even if you cannot, you do not expect your subordinates to support that. No one likes cheap type of jokes and things, but these subordinates pass cheap types of jokes and they think they are popular. They are not. Popularity is to be gained by aloofness and singleness. Not by just becoming like them.

Another incident I'll give you. In C.P.'s office there was a lady who came in jeans and C.P called her and said, “Madame, I will not have this. You can wear trousers, or you can wear some sensible dress but not these jeans." She said, “No, but sir, these days it is good." He said, “Yes it's alright. You can wear it in the street, you can wear it in the house, you can wear it anywhere, but not in the office." She said, “No sir, it cannot be so!" He said: “Alright, then will you please resign. I won't have you." And she started wearing proper dresses. Because that really makes a difference, you see. Always a dress makes a difference for proper articulation. Absolutely.

Now, yesterday, I didn't have a white sarī. They never forget white sarīs for My program. O, I always wear a white sarī for My program. But I had worn this one, white with a red border. It makes a difference.

If I had worn another sarī it could not have happened. But suppose I am coming to see you, what sarī I wear has an effect on you. “Oh, Mother wore this sarī while coming just to meet us." It is like your light. Your dress, your behaviour is like your light. Whatever you are inside shows out with that. And all these compromises that people have nowadays are spoiling the administration. You must keep yourself, you must keep your position.

Now in the offices, I've seen, people answer back. Your own people answer back. But if you see a Japanese firm, one person will speak, nobody else. They'll all sit tight.

When this one person asks them a question, they'll say, otherwise they don't speak. A kind of an allegiance exists between them. The trick is like this; before going to any program or all that he'll call his five people.

This is what we are going to do. Now you have to say this and you have to say this. It's already decided. Nobody is free to talk in the presence of others.

We do the same with our children. When Indians have to go to somebody's house, they tell the children, “When you go there you are not to ask for anything. You should not touch anything there. You are not to eat much, or say no to that. Even if you have to eat, take very little. Then before going you say, `Thank you.' When you go there you must say, `Namas-kār.' " All these things are taught in the house first of all.

“Otherwise next time we'll not take you." So in this way, what happens is that they are already warned.

Actually they are knowledgeable about what to do.

Supposing you take five people, come along for a meeting, sit down there. Then they start arguing among themselves, in the same organization they do. Now, for example, now Sahaja Yogis in the beginning used to do the same. I have seen that. They would argue with Me in the presence of others and it created a problem.

So I had to tell them, “Now in the presence of others don't argue." If you want to tell Me, you tell Me.

And between them to create a good feeling, you see no sense of jealousies or anything. Jealousy is another thing that plays very much among your own people.

So you have to tell them, `Everybody has their [his] own job. Everything has to be done and is to be done well and we are all together; we are one. There's no question of having this hand having a jealousy with this hand, but you are on the left hand and you are on the right hand. Alright, do your right hand work and do your left hand work and the whole thing will work out. The whole organization has to come up. If the organization goes up, we'll all get the advantage.' So always build them up into a unison as far as the organization is concerned. If we all work out well, if we have more bonus ah... more profits, we'll have better bonuses.

So innately perhaps maybe I understand your Kuṇḍalinīs very well. Innately I know how to deal with you, innately. Now, sometimes you have to say about someone, say I may say about you to him, that, you see, `Look after him and do this and...' Maybe he is rather careless. He won't understand what I've told and he might just say, `Mother was saying so!' But all these things must be made clear before he speaks. Because once he has done it, then what's the use? Then, if he comes to your explanation to you, you should be prepared to say tell him why you had to tell him and I didn't tell you directly.

So that the another person who has tried to be stupid is put into his own place; and your relations remain alright.

So relationships are to be maintained ah... good by your own dignity, your own sense of respect of yourself and the respect of others. See as you treat yourself, you treat others. But first you have no respect for yourself, how can you respect others? And I personally thing that, you see this fashion business; that this is very fashionable that is very fashionable; is a beggarish stuff. You see, it is beggarish. It's the beggars who create the fashion in democracy. Democratic countries, another thing I've found out, it's a left-sided stuff. And when they create a fashion, what happens? Say there are ten beggars who have nothing, so ten people start wearing a dress like that and even a rich man will start being like that.

So it is in the same way there are ten stupid fools, idiots, they behave like idiots, so even an intelligent man thinks there is something wrong with him.

So in a democracy you have to be like the rest of them, so you start behaving like an idiot. Yes, it's true! I have seen some very senior people, sensible people cracking very dirty jokes. And the reason is, when they came to England they found everybody talking like that.

So they thought; “Am I something different? Oh, I am also like them." So they crack a joke.

So they stoop down, you see. You don't have to stoop down, you have to rise higher to attract. This is the difference; to stoop down to their level or to rise higher. But, while rising higher, you should not suggest that you are rising higher, create any jealousy, or kind of a feeling that this one thinks no end of himself. But in a very gentle manner you should show that you are higher; then only they will follow. Otherwise they will not. If you are lower than them, or of their style; why will they follow? Many people do these things. I mean it is such a common thing in the West, they have lost their sense altogether.

But in other countries, like any country which is a fascist country, or a Communist country, where they are right-sided, what they do, they build up their own images. I would say, even Japan is the same. They have their own images. The leader is a leader, you cannot talk to him. If you have to talk to him, you have to talk in this manner; there is a system of that kind and you cannot behave like this. But the leader himself has a projection of a personality, where he treats everyone like a father.

But here the father behaves like a child. The child comes and says; “I want some drink." So the father pours some whisky and gives it to his son. Finished! That relationship is finished. As soon as you try to come to the level of your child; finished! They must know, there should be an awe. That is a part you have to play. You should be very friendly. You should be kind. You should be everything. But you must know you are a father out and out. Otherwise children will never respect you.

In the same way, in any organization it happens. You must keep that distance. For example, I would never like anybody to call Me by name, at all, never. But in the office or something I don't like anybody to call Me by name, so I'll call others in the office also I'll say `Mister'. C.P.'s driver also I'll say `Mister' to him.

So he dare not call Me by name.

R: Yes, at school it's become the fashion that the students call me by my name.

Shri Mataji: That's it! They have no respect. They have no respect.

R: All teachers.

H: Shall I go downstairs and see...

Shri Mataji: Beg your pardon. Is there somebody who has come? H: Well I heard the bell ringing.

Shri Mataji: Alright, go and have a look. Then I'll go and see. It's eleven o'clock now exactly.

Now let Gregoire listen to the first part of it. Let's see what he has to say.

You see Gregoire....

Contents: 1986-09-17 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Leadership and Administration, Part 2, The Hague, Netherlands

... The second part is when we go to India. I heard that those who got married or who were married, whatever it is, the couples, they go all about on the beach and they are romancing and the Indian yogis are shocked, they are supposed be saints, you see. All right, I think in the bedrooms they fight and outside they go on doing all these things. We are the other way round. In the bedrooms we are very kind to each other and outside we fight [laughing].

So I think it is quite shocking for Indian people to see these things happening...

Contents: 1986-09-21 Śhrī Mahālakṣhmī Pūjā, Śhrī JalDevatā, Oude Stadsfeestzāl, Mechelen, Belgium

Today, we are going to worship the principle of Mahālakṣhmī in Belgium. Belgium has a speciality that it creates glass bangles for the Mother. That is, the bangles which are used as a beautiful musical accompaniment to the gait, to all the movements of the Goddess. It brings a delicacy in a woman; and gives a consciousness to the man or the men that there are ladies around. And the ladies are around who are married ladies, are very auspicious. And this auspiciousness is the one that is going to bring in this country or in any country whatsoever all the blessings.

Also in Sanskrit language a bangle is called as Valaya and that is the last stage which one has to reach in one's ascent. That means the complete. Also, we are having here a Pūjā for Holland which is the JalDevatā, is the Goddess of water. It comes from the word [Marine], the word Mary, Maria. All these words come from the word Marine.

In Holland as you know, the sea is above the land. We can say that the Guru is sitting at a higher position than the chela. And His knowledge is channelized into various channels. And all the wealth, the money, that is earned out of marine activities flow through the greatness of this ocean.

So Dutch people are highly blessed people. They are very tall because Dattātreya is a very tall personality. And if they become conscious of their position; one day Dutch can do a lot in the realm of God's work.

But all the time trouble in both the countries has come because they have not paid any respect to their Guru, which is the ocean. They exploited and took advantage of the sea, but never realised what the sea means in the religious aspect.

The Lakṣhmī came out of the sea; that is the wealth that has come out of the sea. But the wealth has to be like a Lakṣhmī. The Lakṣhmī has a motherly nature. She's a mother. She's a mother. She is standing on a lotus. That means She does not throw her weight anywhere. Like people go and occupy other territories and use them for their own purpose will never give them Lakṣhmī principle. Only thing that may happen to them is to get some money for the time being. But they say Lakṣhmī is chanchal; means She is all the time shifting and She shifts. Such a Lakṣhmī is chanchal, is shifting.

Lakṣhmī has got one hand which is giving, like this. Another hand She has got by which She protects people. In two hands She has got pink lotuses. The pink lotus suggests the warmth. A person who has got Lakṣhmī has to have warmth in his household. He must have in his heart warmth to receive people. A lotus flower receives even a horrible beetle, black beetle which has got all kinds of thorns in it and allows it to sleep overnight as a nice guest. In the corona of the lotus there is beautiful spread of the yellow colour pollen on which this beetle rolls and enjoys the comfort.

And the lotus watches the enjoyment of the beetle. It does not get disturbed. It does not get upset and when the lotus opens out the beetle just goes away. And the lotus still grows, it doesn't die out.

In modern life, we don't want guests and if some guests come in the house they dare not even spoil the carpet. We clean the house; we polish all our silver and all our brass, but we don't want even a little rat to come inside. For whom are we doing all this work? There are no children in the house and the old people are in the old house. Children are in the hostels. And the husband, wives are in the divorce case.

But they are very particular about their brass being polished.

So the whole polish has come outside.

So the beauty of lotus flower is that it is all embracing. It's a very motherly principle. It tolerates any type of nonsense from the beetle.

So one of the aspects of Mahālakṣhmī is Gṛuhalakṣhmī, is the one who is the housewife. And if this aspect is spoiled, then we cannot have Lakṣhmī in our house; we cannot have wealth in our house. The Lakṣhmī will disappear from all such houses where the housewife is not respected or the housewife is not respectable.

The another aspect of that Lakṣhmī Tattwa is that She gives protection to some people. That means ashraya means there are people who are supported by such a person. I do not know how you people run your orphanages here or how you manage your charities. But in India, if a man or a woman gets money beyond a certain point, she will take out at least one tenth of that money for charities. And she will also have or he will have money or any shelter or anything for people who are working for him, ashraya, working for him.

I have seen many people who are rich, but they are extremely beggarish. They have no dignity of any kind. They will come to your house and they may even ask for empty can; or else if you go to their house they give you or offer you something which is leftover.

So there is no dignity of any kind in this. It's without any self respect. Because if you have self respect, how can you behave like this? Then there is another aspect of Lakṣhmī where She is round like an elephant. She has a propensity.

She is not like a mosquito. I mean many people think that these days to be mosquitoes is very good, but, I think, if you have mosquito-like personality nobody respects you. They all think you must be sort of a typist or maybe some sort of a person or doing some sort of menial work or working very hard that you have lost all your weight.

So a Lakṣhmī has to have a gravity. But nowadays, the whole thing is changed. I knew Belgian people long time back; they were all having some propensities. They were rich people. Even the Dutch. But now both the countries have perhaps become poor, so people look like mosquitoes to Me.

So a person who has got money doesn't jump like a monkey, but walks like an elephant; in a dignified manner. But sometimes, I have seen in the west people walk like horses.

In India, we had a wedding and we all ladies were walking in the procession and we saw one lady in the middle of the whole crowd just coming up and down like a yo-yo.

So we couldn't understand what was this, who is this lady. Then we discovered that one Indian had married and an American lady and when she was walking she was walking like a horse between all the Indian women singing, just walking like a horse, you see.

So you have to be like an elephant when you walk, Gaja Gamini. That's one of the names of the Goddess; She walks like an elephant in a swingy way. The reason you see also and the Kuṇḍalinī also, you see, doesn't agree very much with the horse movement. Because, if you move the Kuṇḍalinī up and down, up and down, She doesn't know where to go. But you see elephant's walk is

So it's not very, very good to walk in that fashion, if you have to establish Sahaja Yoga properly.

Now the Mahālakṣhmī principle comes out of the Lakṣhmī principle. That is when you have wealth and when you have acted according to the image of the Lakṣhmī then the Mahālakṣhmī principle rises within you. Now the Mahālakṣhmī Tattwa, the principle is that you start thinking only about your spirit. When you are absolutely satisfied with the material wealth, then you start coming to the spirit. It was nice that people were seeking material wealth and had industrial revolution in a way. But as a result of that you do not find that the greed has gone down, on the contrary, it has increased. And the lust has become so perverted.

So we can find very clearly that we have failed the principle of Lakṣhmī in our societies, in our families, in our governments.

So the understanding of spirit is only possible for people who have understood the meaning of Lakṣhmī principle first of all.

So the purpose of Lakṣhmī is only fourfold; first is, that you have to give. It is not like in the church they will say: “All right, you have to give your money, give it to me” it's not that. Because I don't want anything. But you have to be generous by nature and not miserly.

Supposing you have one door open, no air will come in. Only the air that is sufficient for the room will be there and there won't be any entry of new air or more air or any draught inside. But if you open the door, another one, then you will find there will be circulation of air.

So by generosity, the circulation starts and you solve your material problems.

The another principle which we should follow; one of generosity, another of supporting others. Especially among Sahaja Yogis we should try to help each other.

May not be with money, but with moral support. But if you have to support sometime, someone with money you should do it voluntarily without even thinking you are doing any obligation on that person.

Or else, you can think that, `I am doing this just for my own pleasures.' The third great quality of the Lakṣhmī Tattwa is that it is respectful to everyone. But we see the other way round, everywhere. A person when he becomes rich, he becomes very arrogant. That's a sign as we say, of a nouveau riche, a person who has suddenly got the money and he doesn't know what to do.

Supposing somebody is sitting on a donkey and suddenly he gets a Cadillac; then what will happen to him, he won't be able to bear that.

So this quality is we have that we should respect others and we should understand that if we have money we haven't got everything.

For example, in India a saint is respected higher than anybody else; higher than all the artists, higher than all the painters, higher than all the kings, all the governments, highest is the saint.

So if you are a rich person, you will be known by your respectful behaviour towards everyone. This respectful behaviour, you can also show to things of others.

But such a person would respect the all auspicious things. Like, there could a small monkey nut, but he's saying [UNCLEAR] vibrated; should be much more important than the diamond of the same size.

So this quality, when it develops in a human being then we can say the Mahālakṣhmī principle has started.

Now in all of you Mahālakṣhmī principle has been awakened. Mahālakṣhmī resides in the Suṣhumnā Nāḍī and Suṣhumnā is developed only up to a point in human beings.

It is later on, like a bridge built in, is created by Mahālakṣhmī principle; that means a person who is satisfied; who is in balance, who is Dharmic his ocean becomes desirous of becoming the clouds of this Suṣhumnā Nāḍī or the part of Suṣhumnā. This desire creates this path, this bridge of Suṣhumnā within us.

Unless and until Mahālakṣhmī principle is awakened within us, we cannot make the Kuṇḍalinī pass properly because it will always get lost in the void.

So the dignity, the respect of a Sahaja Yogi will always help him to build this path of Suṣhumnā over the void.

It is not some sort of an artificial respect, or an artificial etiquette, but is a feeling from inside, a kind of a state human beings reach where they feel that it is important that we have to be respectful to everybody.

But the Lakṣhmī principle disappears with certain things which we must know. First of all, it is said in Marathi language, that if a bottle comes from the door, the Lakṣhmī goes, runs away from the window.

So the bottle must be kept out if you want to keep Lakṣhmī inside.

Then another thing is the badha. When a person gets possessed anywhere if there is darkness, then the Lakṣhmī runs away. In these circumstances, one must try to clear out so that there is no problem. If there is a badha, then money-wise you cannot be all right, whatever you may try. These two things if you look after, the Lakṣhmī will stay. And on the satisfaction of that Lakṣhmī, you will build up your path of Suṣhumnā.

So for today, I have told you what is a Mahālakṣhmī principle is. Now if Mahālakṣhmī principle is awakened within us, then the Lakṣhmī just runs after us.

In the Western culture, what we have done is to bring Lakṣhmī to the level of only money, that also in paper. And it is so artificial, that people don't know how suddenly they become bankrupt.

So the innate Lakṣhmī principle is to be understood that you Sahaja Yogis have a special responsibility for all these Western countries which are slowly losing all their wealth and the third world will have all the money.

I'll tell you what; we didn't create so many machineries in the third world, because these machineries are just like devils. They go on taking away all that is materially important, all the matter they eat and create all kinds of nonsense like plastic this that. And once something goes from their mouth and whatever comes out is of no use later on.

So all those things are becoming useless.

So all the indiscriminate use of these kinds of policies have exhausted all your material wealth which was there from the Mother Earth. Now when that is exhausted, then on which you can depend is your paper money.

I've always said that machine is for you and you are not for machine.

So why go into the complete subjection of the machinery like this.

Now the computer has come. And after sometime our computer will be useless and we will just be using the other computer.

But situation may arise that there will be nothing to eat, there will be nothing to create, only you will be making 1, 2, 3, 4, 5; and add them up and subtract them.

So now one should stop and go back a little bit and see where have we gone wrong. Let us correct at that point. And once one realises that it is important to keep a balance on the Nābhī Chakra, then the Mahālakṣhmī Tattwa is properly manifested. Also it is vice versa. If your Mahālakṣhmī Tattwa is awakened as it is awakened in you; you can create balance, being auspicious in nature.

Through you, it will happen that the prosperity will come back. When I went to Italy first time, they told Me there are three problems. One is Mafiā, another is violence and the third is poverty. All that looks so great like a mountain, has all dissolved into thin air now. And the day may come when Italians will enjoy the greatest of wealth.

And we will discover one more thing that so far, all the Europeans used to laugh at Italians. Look down upon them. Though, they were the source of your art, your music, all kinds of beautiful creativity.

But you all used to laugh at them. Because they were rich in their heart. And simple hearted, dignified.

They did not put their pressures on you.

So their Lakṣhmī Tattwa has become Mahālakṣhmī principle.

In the same way, I would request you the Sahaja Yogis, not to worry as to what is happening around, but to worry what is happening inside and build up your Mahālakṣhmī principle. Once you have built up your Mahālakṣhmī principle, you will have no problem at all. Then through you the Mahālakṣhmī Herself will work and fill your countries with great bounties and great joys.

May God bless you all! Now, for today's Pūjā is very simple, we can have little Gaṇeśha Pūjā with the Atharva Sheersha, anybody knows Atharva Sheersha? [Hindi.] Come along.

Contents: 1986-09-21 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, The Role of Belgium and Holland, Upper Room, House of Trees and Willy Maes, Māstrat, Mechelen, Belgium

Shri Mataji: And in Belgium I must say that the ladies have to be very good. Because Belgium and Holland are left Nābhī, actually I didn't say but it is. Not to frighten you, it's very important. I mean, left Nābhī, there is two very important organs are. One is the spleen and another is the one, what do you call that which makes the sugar out of, the pancreas.

Gregoire: That is Austria?

Shri Mataji: Pancreas is sharing. You see, what I'm saying that pancreas is Austria and also Holland we can say because the style is the same.

Gregoire: It figures because Austria ruled here, it was part of the Austrian empire.

Shri Mataji: Yes, that's why, so the Austria, the Austrian influence is there. And more in Holland, was it more in Holland?

Gregoire: No, more in Belgium.

Shri Mataji: So that is how it is, it's a sharing thing.

So the ladies of these place have to be good housewives, it's very important. They have to be the Gṛuhalakṣhmīs. The one who is the Goddess of the household. And a very good example of that is this lady, you can't hear her. [Discussion of translation in both Flemish and French.] So, you see the ladies have to be very good housewives. And housewives does not mean that you keep your house very well, everything very well, or yourselves selfishly. For example, I see an example here, she's such a nice housewife and a very warm lady. I have had a very bad experiences of Belgian women before, when I went to their houses, but now I feel that there is someone I can see that you can form an image for others. Ask him to keep his eyes open, eyes open.

And Gṛuhalakṣhmī is a very powerful institution. In India it is regarded as the highest, in a way.

More than any prime minister or more than any highest position. The Gṛuhalakṣhmī's position in the spirituality is regarded as the highest. Because, you see that it is said that [UNCLEAR] Gṛuhalakṣhmī is higher than Yurtis, Yurtis is means are realised Souls of a very high level, Avadhūtas. But they can also, if they curse somebody, they can even curse an Avatār [Incarnation], curse an Avatār. I'm always very frightened of them. But they have to be Gṛuhalakṣhmī in full base. That is, they have to be very open hearted, loving, devoted personalities.

Now, there are many stories about Gṛuhalakṣhmīs in India, I can tell you thousand and one where they have shown the powers of women. Women as in you know that we call them is the embodiment of Shaktis. But the Gṛuhalakṣhmī is the most powerful Shakti. And She is the power of tremendous love and compassion and forgiveness.

So in this country, or in Holland, the women have to try to learn, that they have to play a particular role in life. Now of course, the women have to be very Dharmic and chaste. They have to be innocent by nature, not cunning and crafty. Flemish is quite difficult! [Laughs.] All right, so, now the responsibility is so much on them, like in the body, when the spleen goes out of order, then blood cancer is caused, blood cancer is caused. Now it comes hectic because, you see, the man or the person does not know how to adjust his food timings. Now, the hecticness starts early in the morning, when we get up we read the newspaper.

Gregoire: You see Shri Mataji, this is the beauty of this country, Belgium. This you have to know Shri Mataji, this is a small tiny country, but there are two languages here. Two, really basically Flemish and French.

Shri Mataji: And one doesn't understand the other?
Gregoire: And one doesn't understand the other and they are very proud about it.

So the French are very proud not to understand Flemish because the French speaking people used to think that they are little bit better than Flemish.

Shri Mataji: And no one understands French.

So Gods also don't understand French, it is better that the French learn one more language. They just make it difficult for nothing at all, you have to take out from here the sound there, see you should take out the sound from the proper places, but they want to take it from nose, from here, there is no need you see? And `r' and the word that `r', you see `r' is the one which is `r', stands for ra, which is energy. Should be ra, you say `air', [teaching French people to roll their r's]. You see in America you have to say `r' there.

Gregoire: All right, air is no good, it should be something else.

Shri Mataji: Because even taking My name is not straightforward. It has to be Mātājī Nirmalā Devī, if you say Ni [r] malā, it doesn't look nice, it has a different meaning all together. [Everyone practicing to saying Mātājī Nirmalā Devī.] Mātājī Nirmalā Devī yes, Flemish will, not the French.

All right.

So, we diverted little bit, but I would say that our main thing is that how a housewife is important. The main this is that when the husband gets up in the morning he reads the newspaper. Must read, all the men do. All right, so when they read the newspaper they get their first shock.

So they are very upset, because newspaper always have horrible things in it. Now after that, if there's a nice wife, she'll tell him, `Doesn't matter, it's not happening to us, why are you so upset?' You are, first of all, you settle down and then the whole world will settle down with you. Then after that, you have to go to work, so they have no time, they just get into their trousers and running up the steps they go to the car without taking the breakfast. And the wife runs after them with the breakfast. And they are somehow or other, you see, pushing the breakfast inside while they are driving; and there's a jam on the road and they are upset and saying all kinds of things because they are getting late. Another shock starts.

Now, when you are eating your food, you require red blood corpuscles, to attend to it, to digest. The energy must go to that. But as you are driving and having your breakfast, as well as you are already in a shocked condition, you see the poor, that spleen, which has to create this special thing for you, which is the red blood corpuscles, doesn't know. Its thinks whether it should produce now or when? But there's no timing, there's no proper pacing, no rhythm. Now once that has started wobbling like that, it becomes a crazy one and it starts behaving in a very crazy manner. Now, with all these happenings, you'll become vulnerable to blood cancer. Because this is the speedometer and that is the one that gives you peace, because it works on a complete system of a universal rhythm.

So at this time, you find that you meet somebody who is bhootish, or something wrong with that person, then you might catch cancer.

So left Nābhī's catching with this finger. But when it joins with this left Āgñyā or left Swādhiṣhṭhāna, both, anyone, you can become vulnerable to blood cancer. And the [UNCLEAR transfer] is set in, of the blood cancer style.

Now, the mothers who are hectic by nature, very anxious, do this, do that, want to be all the time very hectic with their children also, they can give blood cancer to the children who are not even born, when they are pregnant. Now, say, in India perhaps people realised this long time back, so the system is, supposing your office is at 10 o'clock, the wife will get up about 4 o'clock, she'll do all the cooking everything. The husband will get up and we don't have newspapers you see; nowadays of course they are bombarding us, but our newspapers are also thank God censored, not so bad. We don't have dirty women's photograph and all dirty things. We have all, I mean censored.

So then she cooks her food in the morning time, she sits down with him with a fan and fans him and he takes his food.

So the fan gives the rhythm, you see.

The fan, the fan.

Gregoire: I think I translate this in French, it's a good idea.

Shri Mataji: It's very important for French people. I have not used the fan for hitting that. Now, so that makes the rhythm for the whole day and the husband doesn't go into hectic styles, you see.

Now anyone who is not feeling the Cool Breeze? So now, this is then the housewife sets in the mood for the man and does not discuss early in the morning horrible things of the household you see, disturb him. That's very important otherwise you are another newspaper. But what she actually does is to create a feeling of peace in the house.

So how she does it, by bearing up things, by absorbing things like the Mother Earth does, she absorbs. She's a very mature person and she can see the futility of quarreling and fighting and of unnecessarily arguing. She is so powerful that she cannot take anything, she just gives, she enjoys giving. And the giving is her only enjoyment. And that is how she gets her energy, from that joy. That's the reason in Belgium you had such great painters and such great creativity and beautiful Delft work and all that from Holland. Because the Mother Earth's beauty they converted into something fantastic. It is not China, they made porcelain and porcelain comes from the Mother Earth. But when this principle works out well, like if it starts working again in Belgium and in Holland, the whole world can be brought to peace.

Gregoire: Ah Shri Mataji, let me just say, it's very interesting because the Dutch people are very concerned by peace questions.

Shri Mataji: I know, I know, I mean Holland already this an agency has established one peace mission for that, so-called, so-called. And also World High Court is here, for the same reason, to give you justice.

So the sense of justice comes from this special quality of left Nābhī. See in the justice, the main thing, you see, that you do not harm the innocent, that's the basic quality. That is the basis of law. It is to be seen that who are being blamed are innocent or not, that's the point, it's not those who are criminals, but those who are innocent must be saved. That is the law for the protection of innocence.

So now, we can see that wherever such wrong things takes place, you see, in the whole world, this can be condemned by Dutch mentality.

So going on the subtler level we find how great responsibility you people have towards peace and justice. And justice does not better from anything which may threaten other securities.

So a person who believes in justice has to be a very courageous man. An example is Nicaragua, is a thing you see where America was challenged and America is a powerful stuff see and I must stay it's a very great thing that the Hague high court said that they have no business to trouble the Nicaragua people. And as usual America has withdrawn their monies, typically, they have no [UNCLEAR]. But you cannot buy justice with money. The people who want justice should be willing to sacrifice also.

So now, the responsibility of the Belgians are the peace, so the Holland people is the justice. And they are interdependent, so that both the qualities must act between both these countries. Now the speedometer, which is Belgium, is going slow, because all your factories are closed. It should not go very fast and it should not go very slow. It should be in the middle. As a result of that now, the shipping has come down absolutely, steel come down and all over the world all shipping steel is stopped now.

So though Belgium may look a small country, it's a very important instrument in the universe. And same with Holland that they are to look after the justice of the world. As you should criticise America, you should also criticise Russia and all such countries who want to fight among themselves. And you should have nothing to do with them, you should stand on your own legs.

So the first freezing of the Nābhī started in Belgium. Now I don't know if the people of the West understand that Belgium is to be looked after. And they have to restart the cycle again. Now, with Sahaja Yoga, with so many people over here, I'm sure, as your Mahālakṣhmī principle has been awakened, I'm sure your activities will start. And that people will come to some sort of a middle path of progress as well as emotional understanding of family life.

But for this, the women of the households have to understand, have to mature and not to bother their husbands with nonsensical things. And they should try to nourish their husbands and encourage their husbands. Like the Mother Earth nourishes the tree. With this kind of an attitude I'm sure we'll have peace, justice and prosperity in these two countries. Also men must respect women who are respectable.

In Sanskrit it is said, [UNCLEAR], meaning where the women are respectable and respected, there reside the Deities. Means the women should be respectable, they should not lead a life of a unrespectable character. Understanding this vision, I'm sure you will realise your great powers and your great position.

So there is no domination, on each other, but to realise that we are like two wheels of a chariot. And that the two wheels are equal but not similar. For example the right cannot be fitted to the left and left cannot be fitted to the right. They are equal, if they are not equal then there will be no movement, they'll just go round and round, fighting. But they are also not similar, so if the left starts coming to the right it will never fit into it absolutely. Nature has made us with two legs, not with one leg.

So we cannot change our legs like that. But there could be horrid husbands and horrid wives, could be and only in the religion of Vishwa Nirmalā Dharma, only in this religion now we have idea that under such circumstances they should divorce. Only in this religion. That's an advancement, or a degeneration, I don't know.

Now the very simple method of enjoying a married life is to know that he is your husband and she is your wife. Now if you consider this is My house, this is where I have to live, then know that you have to live in this house happily. Not to hanker after somebody else's house. This is the reality, that this is My house, I have to live here and I have to enjoy it. But if I start seeing other houses I can never be happy. There is no end to it. This is stupidity. What we have, you don't want to enjoy and we want to have something else, then you can never be happy. Now that's why economic laws work out, because they make you feel that you must have more and more and more. But after Sahaja Yoga all these laws should fail, only Divine Laws should work. And in married life also, if you start seeing at other men or other women that they are better, I mean you have your own husband and your wife, enjoy among yourselves.

It is stupid to try to enjoy somebody else's which is not yours. It's stupid.

So make the best of this life by enjoying it. To see to somebody else's wife, somebody else's husband and all the time think, “Oh, she could have been my wife” “He could have been my husband” it's nonsense, it's stupidity absolutely. It's like you see somebody's hair. I wish her hair were mine. Why? You see the stupidity. Or her nose should be mine. This is your nose, all right? It's as stupid as that.

In the same way, your family, your household, your children are your own, your part and parcel.

So if they are your part and parcel, what is there to grudge and grumble that you don't do this, you don't drink this, you don't do. What is it? This is My husband as he is. That's all. As simple as that, this is just to say that whatever is your husband is your husband, that's right, what to do? Now you try to understand your husband also, or your wife also, you must try to understand. How the husbands, you see, can be very funny with the wives, like, you see men are men, they always have watches, they will reach there for two hours earlier. They are like that you see, very forward time keeping.

They hurry up their wives, “Come along, how much time you are taking, you take always too much time." Now men have to work, they have no problems, they have solved their problems of dress, you see, it's very simple, the tailors have done the job, they have a suit they just put it on and walk out. They don't have to worry about hair, they don't have to worry about things. But a woman has to dress up in a proper way, she has to find out a proper suit to wear, where she's going because she represents the colour and beauty of creation. And the man is very anxious about his, say, official relationships or whatever it is, forward, all the time shaking hands, “oh sorry, sorry, thank you, thank you." And a woman is a shy thing you see, she's not so anxious to create all these relations, so she lags and he pinches her, he pushes her, he gets at her, it's wrong I think. Normally woman won't understand much of banking, not much of banking, that's of course after all you see it's quite all right. She doesn't understand of banking it's very good, the man can hide the money. He should not.

Now the men are the other way round, they can be very aggressive with women, but they should also understand what they have to change themselves. But the women also should know that they should never try to aggress their husbands in the presence of others, in the bedroom is all right. The woman must understand also what sort of a husband he is. For example now, I would say about My marriage you can see that I got married the day My husband went to office, came home, got married at 6 o'clock in the evening time and then next day went to office. Since then he went to office for years till we came to London, he did not take even one day leave, even on a Sunday. That's My dear husband. And at home also now, he has to come on Saturdays, there's such a big files he brings and work it out. And according to him, because he's worked hard, he's got a big job, but I don't know what advantage I had from this big job, it's all disappointments. But I did not complain about it at all, all My life. I never demanded anything, on the contrary, I helped him in his work, whenever it was necessary, I gave him company. And now on the 25th of this month, the holiday they are calling as Maritime Day, on that day

I may have to shake hands with 800 odd people and 800 drunkards walking round.

But he is entirely dependent on Me. The day I tell him that now I'll have to take Sannyāsa, I have to do My birth, the whole or everything, whatever he is built up image, shatters down. And by no means he's a model husband, I must say, but in any case, I would suggest that you have to be a model wife.

Because you enjoy your own virtues, not somebody else's virtue. Supposing there is a thief and he will say that I enjoy the virtue of an honest man and not mine, then how will it be? There's a thief see and he says, “I am a thief, but I enjoy the virtue of another man." So what's the use? And the man who is virtuous does not enjoy his virtues, so who's going to enjoy, the thief? I mean, we have to enjoy our own virtues, isn't it? If there's a chaste lady, she must understand her chastity and enjoy it herself. Instead of that [UNCLEAR thinking] a bad woman is going to enjoy it instead of you. I'll give you an example like this, to understand this, human nature is very complicated. Like an honest man, say, in India, an honest officer who does not take any bribes, he will always complain, “I'm like this, because I'm honest." Now, if you are honest, enjoy it! You are honest, that's why you are enjoying it. Or you are honest because you prefer it to anything else. See the greatest difference, the priority for you, is to be honest. Then enjoy, be proud of it. Instead of that he'll be always saying, “Oh God, I'm honest, that's why I'm suffering." Then one would say, “All right, become dishonest, why are you so miserable about it?" And there are another thing is, the same with the women who are chaste and good and they are nice, you see, they make a big ado out of it. If you think it is difficult for you, better give up, isn't it? I mean, virtue is your ornament, it is not a noose round your neck. Only people who enjoy their virtues are great men. They don't suffer it, they don't feel unhappy, but they are proud of their virtues.

So this is what it is, for you to understand, now whatever are your qualities, for which it may appear that you suffer, doesn't matter. And now this, our new race that is there of Sahaja Yogis, have to understand that you have also a universal nature. But you are individually intelligent people and your insistence should be in inculcating all the qualities of peace and of justice within you.

So we have to understand what we have contributed towards the peace of our family and justice in the family and also outside. We have to have justice. Justice is not to be demanded, as soon as you start asking for justice then there is no peace.

So we should not ask for justice, we should do justice to ourselves and to others and we should be peaceful to ourselves and to others.

All right, so may God bless you all!

Contents: 1986-10-05 Navarātri Śhrī Gaurī Pūjā (Hindi+Marathi) (2nd Day), Garware College Hall, Pune, Maharashtra, India

First, I will talk in Hindi and then in Marathi language. All of you should try to learn Hindi as it is our national language.

[Hindi.] The name of Pune is famous in the Vedas, Purānas and many other such places. It is called as Puṇyapatnam. The river which flows in this place is called as Mula river. It has been flowing here for thousands of years and is making this place full of Puṇyas.

We do not have a complete knowledge about Puṇyas. Many people feel that if we give something to the poor, distribute some things, tell the truth or have certain desires then we get Puṇyas. Maybe this collection of Puṇyas takes place but it is like filling up a lake drop by drop. The meaning of Puṇyas that is known is doing the work by which God is satisfied and becomes happy. We should do such works. A person who does this kind of work is really Puṇyavān [one who has Puṇyas] because when he pleases God, then God's blessings fall upon him and he gets Puṇyas. The powers of God which flow into such a person create something like a new consciousness or a new personality or a new status in him. This new status is such that when this person goes to any house, any country, any place, there the blessings of God start raining down. It is as if he has an umbrella and those who come under it are blessed by God. Wherever such a person lives, if there is an imminent problem in that place then it gets solved. If such people move about in cities or forests then any accidents that would have taken place don't do so.

So, those who have taken birth in Pune are special people with lot of Puṇyas and now they have to earn more benefits through these Puṇyas.

But when a person with Puṇyas is born in Puṇya nagari, he starts comparing himself with others. He says that as I have done so many Puṇyas I am born here but those people over here who have riches and money over here are different. They don't know God, they don't believe in God yet they are so rich and happy.

So why am I unhappy if I have done Puṇyas? Such thoughts come into his mind. Once these thoughts come into his mind either he says,' So I have not understood this thing, but no problem' and continues with his Dharma or he changes himself. He changes himself by saying that making money and having material possessions is the greatest thing.

So he starts running in this new race. At this point, all his Puṇyas get destroyed.

It is very surprising to see that a person with Puṇyas gets a desire for money. Anything can happen in Kali Yuga. It is surprising to see that in Kali Yuga, even if a realised Soul is born then he can drink alcohol, take drugs or take to violence. It is astonishing that a realised Soul who is full of Puṇyas can do such things. This is a kind of a pull of Kali Yuga, its effect and its environment. Once a Puṇyavān person's sees something, then his attention goes to that thing and develops a weakness for it. This is a great tyranny of the Kali Yuga upon us.

But there is a bright side to it also. If you ask that what was the need for this tyranny of Kali Yuga to come upon this earth? If Kali Yuga has come then it too must have a reason. On this matter there is something written in Damayanti Akhyān. Once Kali came into the hands of Nala, Damayanti's husband.

Nala said,' You separated me from my wife and caused me great pain so I am going to kill you now!' Kali said,' It is alright if you kill me but I too have some importance.' Nala asked, “What importance can you have? You put everyone into illusions and people take to the wrong path because of you." Kali replied, “There is a great importance. When such a time comes then it will be an Agni Pariksha for man. Only then he will know who is true and who is false. This is the only way to judge how much Puṇyas a person has. A person cannot be judged until he goes through this Agni Pariksha." It is also written in the Bible, that the person born in the Kali Yuga, his Last Judgement will take place. It will be seen how much Puṇyas and apuṇyas he has.

So, the importance of the Kali Yuga is that our Agni Pariksha takes place in this time. Apart from this Agni Pariksha, there is also a great blessing in this time. Nala was told that when this time comes, thousands of people will get their Realisation, they will be emancipated, they will transform. Kali said,' Those who are seeking God now in the hills and valleys, will ultimately find Him in Kali Yuga.' This is the blessing.

In the middle of this time, we have come to this Puṇyapatnam where a person can understand the effect of Puṇyas. But you may feel that here too the same Kali Yuga is present as everywhere else. It should be agreed upon that it is useless to talk about those things which are hidden and which are not seen. But now your awareness has opened up and when you use that awareness to know about things, then you will be surprised that in this Pune there have been works of such a depth as many saints have done penance and

So this place attracts those people who seek Puṇyas and who want to immerse themselves in Puṇyas. It is not for those people who are seeking money or other material wealth. That is because when we collect money, power or fame, we are collecting it for ourselves. But Puṇyas have an effect on others. For example if you have a lamp, you can polish it, make it out of gold or silver or anything else, but all that is useless if there is no flame in it. Only when the flame is lit, the lamp is useful. In the same way, man is useless, whatever he is, until the light of the Spirit is present in him. When the flame is lit in him, he becomes a Puṇyavān Ātmā and the light emanating from him can enlighten thousands of lamps in the world. That's why, the call for this Pūjā in this Puṇya nagari today is a very great thing.

When the Shakti is distributed through Puṇyas, then Puṇyas get multiplied by thousands and become extremely powerful. Puṇyas have many powers but if the Shakti Herself is distributed through Puṇyas then what a great thing it is! Until now people have seen that those who are full of pun.yas, are troubled by others, they don't have any wealth, they don't have any form of protection, they are always oppressed by others, any person can take them away, any person can fool him. But when the Shakti is distributed through Puṇyas, then a tremendous energy flows from these Puṇyas that none can dare to touch a Puṇyavān person. If someone touches then he will know that there is some tremendous thing. In the same way, if a person feels that he can snatch money, cheat or trouble such a Puṇyavān person then he can't do so. This is a very great blessing of Kali Yuga that this light can come and as soon as this light comes then no one can even touch you with the wrong intentions, no one can trouble you, no one can kill you, no one can snatch anything from you. You are completely protected. You will see that you will become so powerful that you can end any form of terror or problems just by standing up to it.

So, the vehicle of today is the distribution of Shakti in Puṇyas and this is what has to be achieved in today's Pūjā.

[Marathi.] Now everyone would have understood what I have told in Hindi. Who didn't understand? Among languages, Marathi is quite good because it does not have [UNCLEAR]. Especially, I can explain Sahaja Yoga properly only in Marathi language. I told all those things in Hindi because, you will be surprised to know, Hindi people know quite less about our culture. It is not there in their language itself. They don't know anything; they don't know what Puṇyas are.

So, I talked a little in Hindi as you all know a lot about this. One thing I must say that the great teachings of the saints that we have got over here, is a very great blessing. Due to this blessing, we know what culture is, we know the meaning of Puṇyas, we know what is good and what is bad, we know. We understand but do not recognize. Everyone understands that this is good and that is bad. We have done many Puṇyas because of this. That's why from those Puṇyas, this Puṇya nagari was born. But when we see others we feel that we Pune people are not as rich as the Bombay [Mumbai] people. Then we feel that Delhi people are richer than Bombay [Mumbai] people. As Delhi is the capital, we see that the people are more respectable. But all this is on the outside. We feel that they are very great people in comparison to us. But you are Puṇyavān.

However, I have seen many people in Pune who don't believe in God. I have seen great intellectuals and vidvāns who don't believe in God. These people have become so sophisticated and their minds are so spoilt that they say God does not exist. But if you have not seen God, you have not known Him, then how can you say so confidently that there is no God? First try to see. What are you going to lose? Nothing.

So many people have talked about Him before you, were they all foolish and you are the only clever one? Without knowing Him, how can you conclude that He is not there? It is alright if someone says, “If you can prove that God exists then I am ready to believe in Him." But if someone says, “I don't believe in God at all!" then it is very difficult to make him understand.

Many people of this sort are present in this Pune city. Nowhere else there are so many people who deny God so openly. You have so many Gaṇapatis, so many Marutis [HanuManas] but these people are the Mahā-Marutis sitting on top! Oversmart people! These people feel that whatever they say is correct and that they are extremely clever people. They think that they know all the Shāstras and they conclude that all of it is false and meaningless.

So, where this Puṇyas are spread like the fragrance of a lotus, there this ugliness has taken root. Due to this, people's minds are full of illusions [Bhranti] in Pune.

The people who don't understand whether Dharma exists or not, God exists or not call themselves great leaders over here. They eat money all the same and do all the wrong things. But they have an excuse. They say that if we don't have faith in God and in Dharma, why should we take to righteousness? We have become `modern'. Such people are seen more in Pune than in Bombay [Mumbai]. There are many people here who make fun of God, who deny God's existence and who ridicule the people who believe in God. Now, a boat drowns if there is just one hole but if there are so many holes like this then what will happen to Pune? Some of the holes are caused by people who have a beggarly attitude. This beggarly attitude is seen in Sahaja Yoga also.

Sometimes people are afraid of it. If Pune people have to be called then they say, “Mātājī, many people of this type will come, you see to it." They are afraid of this beggarly nature. I have experienced only this attitude. When we come here then people enjoy eating for free saying “Mother is doing everything, She is giving the money, why should we?" This attitude shows that the heart is not rich. The reason for this is that those who teach about Puṇyas, who ask us to do Puṇyas, who give big lectures are themselves after money.

So the rest of the people feel that this person is sitting here to teach me `Brahmagyān' but himself is beggarly by nature.

So, all the citizens bear the results of both these things.

The first is that those people who talk about Dharma are eating your money. They ask, “What do you want? A boy? Alright, pay me a hundred rupees. But if you give 50 rupees, then you will get a girl child!" Then the `customer' gives 108 rupees saying that he wants a boy. Why does he want a boy? That's because tomorrow he will earn money. Nobody sees the contribution of the daughter-in-law. They want a son just to get more money. Actually, the poverty increases because of that and people become poor by nature.

Even then, now there are thousands of temples and in every temple you have to give money to God? But does God understand money? Has He even seen money? The priests say, “Give four rupees to this God” `Give one rupee to that God." “If you want to do Pūjā, then you bring a big coconut out of which we will give you this small piece and the rest goes into our stomach!" By seeing these two sides, the faith in man's mind, which should have depth, purity and trust, only has the feeling that `Oh now I have done this thing in the temple and that is enough. There's nothing more to it.' So because of this nature and this desire for money, man feels that it is alright to get money in any possible manner. Nobody thinks of self-respect. They think “what do we get out of self-respect? Why should we take to it?" So because of this strange situation, we see from the nature of the people that in such a place full of Puṇyas, we cannot see the saints. We cannot see the qualities of a saint. We cannot see a person living like a saint. A saint has so much respect! Even to invite a saint to your house needs your penance of lives together. Otherwise, he won't even come to your door. But this is for a true saint and not for the false ones. In order for him to come to your door, you should have some Puṇyas. But the so-called saints who are roaming in the streets nowadays do not have the sainthood. This Puṇya Nagari is not called so because of its temples but because of its people. How many people have the qualities of a saint here? So the Puṇyas come here based on the qualities and character of the people living here.

So, if we earn the Puṇyas of self-respect and Self-realisation and if we grow in it then there is no difficulty over here. The land in Pune is very fertile and there is no land like it in the entire universe. But if there is land then plastic trees won't come up. What is the use of planting plastic seeds? It is a very fertile land. Also, the heads of people are very fertile! It is so fertile that you don't know what has gone out of it and you have to be told about it. People say, “Don't believe in God” “Who is God?" etc. All such extremely nonsensical things have come up over here.

Some people make fun of God as if they are very great. They don't have any respect for Him. The second kind of people is of those who have earned so much money in the name of Dharma and who have misled so many people. I have seen many varieties of people over here. The first time I came to Pune, there were many people and this woman was also there.

A bhoot came into her and immediately she started shouting. Immediately, all the women ran to apply kumkum on her. It was the first time I saw ladies running to put kumkum on a woman in whom a bhoot had come.

They then started falling at her feet. Luckily, the lights went out at that time and I came out from the back door. What could I have explained to them? So this is a greater stupidity than the other kinds. People see that something has come into her body and assume that it is the Devī. Let Me ask you, is it so easy for the Devī to come into anyone's body? It is extremely difficult. Is there any kind of body that can bear the Devī? They say that the Devī has come in her body and later if you see then this `devī' is washing utensils, washing clothes and stealing money! How can Devī come into the body of such a person? You can call this ignorance or innocence but I would call this extreme stupidity. Due to this, the people are not only misled but they are under an illusion. There are many people here in whose body the Devī comes and they faint when they come in front of Me. It had become difficult to conduct programs. I said,' How did so many bhoots come into this Puṇya Nagari?'

Contents: 1986-10-09*, Public Program (6th Day of Navarātri), Lions Club International, G.D. Birla Sabahghar, Kolkata, India

... and to all the Sahaja Yogis who have come all the way to attend this program in Calcutta [Kolkata].

It's so heartening that I find it difficult to express it in human words the way I envisage the vision that your founder must have thought of. I'm sure he must have been a realised Soul himself. Apart from that, he looks like Confucius to Me. As Confucius has talked of humanism, in the same manner he has organized this beautiful organization of Lions here. The name he has given, “Lions", is something so remarkable and so symbolic that as you know the Goddess always uses lion as Her vehicle. That is the Vāhana specially used when at different levels She has to be compassionate as well as very harsh to the people who are trying to destroy humanity.

The lion is a great animal. I don't know how many of you have seen a lion from looks. But it's such a majestic animal. When it dies in a forest, the forest becomes absolutely desolate. No bird would chirp.

You feel the complete silence in the forest because they think that our king has died now, such a great catastrophe has fallen upon us, `Who is going to protect us without the lion?' Apart from that, it's a very dignified animal. It will not eat every day. Whenever he's hungry, he'll go and kill some animal and eat after some time and after that he leaves that animal for other animals to eat that he never interferes with the people who tried to eat his kill. When he walks, the way he looks around is so gracious and so beautiful. Is a very compassionate animal. He's not ferocious at all, but when he's hungry, in the nature, he has to eat the meat.

So he eats that and there should be no objection to that from vegetarian people.

The compassion is so great that he allows all other types of animals to eat the animal which he has killed.

In the same way, this “lion" word makes Me understand that the gentleman who has founded this, Mister Melvin Jones, must have been a great personality and in his vision he perhaps has seen that one day you might come to Sahaja Yoga to understand the working of this organization. Just like Confucius wanted to establish a quality of people, a category of people who would have a feeling for others and we say in samajikata or the public-minded people. Mostly human beings are selfish. They live for their families.

At the most they may live for some relations of theirs. But some of them are of a category who rise above that limited sphere and become conscious about the needs of the society. Now when we see somebody dying or getting drowned in the sea we find somebody jumping to save that person. In that case who saves is not that person but the collectivity that is within this gentleman. He feels something of his part and parcel is getting drowned and he must save that part and parcel, so he jumps to save that. In the same way in the fire, in any catastrophes when we find people dying to save others, we can explain that innately we are collective beings. Within us there is a collective feeling and when this collective feeling is expressed in this manner, you prepare grounds for Divine to work through because Divine is something that is absolutely collective.

For example, we see that ether is spread out everywhere and if I am releasing a lecture here, you may hear it even in London. This ether itself has a principle which can be enlightened. Every element has a principle or the causal which can be enlightened. And when that is enlightened, the collectivity within us, if it is enlightened also, it reacts and it helps and condones, nourishes whatever a collective personality wants to do. Through Sahaja Yoga what happens to you, that you become a collective personality. You are in a way but in a dormant state, in a suptavastha. But when the Kuṇḍalinī rises through you, you become a collective person who is enlightened about. In the sense on your central nervous system you start feeling another person on your finger tips, on your finger tips. That is a very good phrase also in English language that on your finger tips you can feel yourself. First of all that is your own centers and you can feel the centers of another person. Now for that you need some decoding. What I'm doing is just I'm decoding it to tell you that this center means this and this center means this and this center means this.

All this works out spontaneously because it is a living process. Now we have become human beings. Who has made us human beings from the animal stage? What energy has made us this? We scientists must try to find out. If our attention goes to that then we will realise that spontaneously it has worked out, Sahaj, it has worked out Sahaj. We never even felt that we were coming from animal stage to this stage and then the question must be asked, why are we human beings. What is the purpose of this very well planned evolution, which started from the stage of carbon to this stage? What was the ultimate? Where did we have to reach? And here we have to take advice or recourse to those great seers we have mostly in our country and in many other countries.

According to timings people had to talk about it. The times were there when they could not talk about Kuṇḍalinī because people were not so much in a receiving stage. There was not so much maturity. There was not so much understanding. That's why you find most of the saints have been tortured, poisoned or killed.

If you look at Mohammed Sahib, He has said it very clearly in the Koran that at the time of kayama, that is the resurrection time, your hands will speak and your feet will speak and they will give the witness about you. That means at the time of your last judgment, you yourself will be giving witness about yourself. Now when he talks about resurrection, he has talked for so many pages but nobody wants to listen to them. What they want to listen to is that when the doomsday is going to come. Because of this kind of an attitude towards religion, that to use it to suggest that one has to be frightened for the doomsday and put this pressure on their head, is a very wrong attitude. After all this whole universe is created by God in His compassion and love and it is more than anybody else He is worried about His own creation. He's not going to allow it to be destroyed by any chance. Can you think of somebody who has created this beautiful hall here would allow anyone to destroy it? If He has the power to stop it, He'll go out of the way to stop.

So we have to understand that there is a very big power which is protecting this universe and all the goodness about it.

Now it is difficult in these modern times, especially in the West, to talk about God, because they don't believe in God, without knowing much about it they don't believe. Like I can say I don't believe there is England. I can say that. I have not seen it. In the same way they say we don't believe in God. But I think it is very unscientific to make such a statement. If you are a scientist then you must have an open mind. And open mind, that supposing whatever I'm telling you is a hypothesis, then you have to see if this hypothesis works out, all right, then it becomes a law. But if this hypothesis is so, as a scientist at least with all humility of a student, you must try to understand it and try to listen to it. Guru Nanaka has talked about it, Sahaja Samādhila, very clearly. I would say Guru Nanaka has done a maximum for us in this respect. Kabīr Dasa has written all about Kuṇḍalinī and everything. Like he says that when the Kuṇḍalinī rises, it breaks the epitome of your physical being that is the Brahmarandhra and you go into a complete Nirvichara Samādhi. Clearly he has said it, absolutely clearly. There cannot be more clear writings than Kabīra's. But what human beings have made of all the incarnations they have done the same to Śhrī Kabīr and to Nanak Sahib.

Like I was surprised that Kabīra worked in Bihar. And there, in Bihar, he called Kuṇḍalinī as Surati.

They call tobacco as surati. Just imagine, tobacco which is against... It's a virus. Tobacco is nothing but a kind of a virus, is a kind of a vegetable which has gone out of the circle of evolution. But he has put it Surati for Kuṇḍalinī while people use this word surati for tobacco very openly. This shows how we have misused all these great incarnations and all their great teachings. And now people say, “Look at this.

This is religion." What is this religion? It makes you fight. Is this religion that makes you do all kinds of nonsensical things? Is it religion that makes you sick? This is not the religion which was propounded by those great people. We should not bring bad name to them. We are doing a wrong thing just to use the word religion to bring really a juxtaposition religion on this earth.

The religion is within ourselves. They also have said that unless and until you are a realised Soul, you will not know what it is. “Now I'm reading my Gītā." All right, now you are reading your Gītā, then what you find? “Now I'm reading my Gītā and I'm leading a very good life and I'm leading a very balanced life.

Now what more, Mother, should I do?" Is a very common question from all the great intellectuals of our country. Now I say, “You are a happy man?" “Yes. I'm very happy person. I'm very self-satisfied and I don't want anything in this world." What good are you doing to others? “Little bit, I do some good also.

I give some money, donations here and some charities there and all that." Even then, if you are like that, even if you are thinking that you are doing little patch work here and there, still there is something missing in your life and the missing in your life is that, that your awareness is not yet complete. It's a human awareness and human awareness is not absolute awareness. This is the point we should know. When we say we want to add value to ourselves we should know what is the discretion, to find out which is the right and which is the wrong. Now we have no sense of discretion of that kind. For example, now I am standing before you. Mister Mehta has told you of something about Me. All right. But how do you know that I'm not a fake person? I could be a fake person Myself. Or anybody could be a fake person, a bad person, wrong person, wrongdoer whom you are helping. You might be doing some apatradan. Also, possible that you might be helping a thief or murderer, anyone. How will you know about it? Because your awareness, human awareness can go only onto mental level by which you judge people through a mental level. “He's well-dressed, he looks fine, he speaks very softly, he's very humble, he's very kind." That's not the point.

The point is you know it through your mental judgment superficially, outwardly. How will you know about the person inwardly? Because your attention is not inward you cannot penetrate into another person to find out how he is.

The absolute awareness only comes when you become the Spirit. When you get your realisation and you become the Spirit. When you are the Spirit, then what happens that you start feeling on your central nervous the centers of all the people who are around you and your own centers. That's how you can say this is so, this is so. Now on a temple you go to. Now somebody says this is a swayambhū temple. How do you know it is a swayambhū temple? How will you judge it is a swayambhū temple? You see that there are some people sitting, selling hashish and bhang in a temple. And how are we to believe? Then we find that from some Gurudwara? somebody comes and murders someone. Then we find from the Masjid people come and do all kinds of wrong things. What is this? Then how is it that we have to believe in God? And these confusions create an anti-God feeling within you. The reason is you are not at the absolute point and the absolute point is your Spirit which gives you the absolute truth. And there is no compromise.

No compromise. I mean if somebody comes and asks Me, “Mother, what do you think of such and such gentleman who is a Guru or something?" I may not say anything about the person because, you see, that time is better to keep quiet. But if it comes to the harming of the person I'll tell that person whether they like it or not, openly, that this man is a devil. I have to do that. I'm your Mother and I'm not going to tell you lies. There is no compromise.

Like you will see in Christ's life when there was this Mary Magdalene who was a prostitute and Christ has nothing to do with the prostitute. He was an absolutely the purest and the holiest. But when people started throwing stones at her, He came up with that courage of truth and He stood before them and He said, “Those who have not committed any sin can throw stones at Me” and they all dropped the stones.

This kind of courage only can come when you know that you are standing on the truth itself. And the truth itself is the nourishing factor within us which nourishes us, which gives us the real quality of genuineness.

That you believe in the truth. There's no doubt about it. Because you see the truth acts, it works and it loves. This truth is in you. Through Sahaja Yoga you will find flows like Chaitanya lahari as they call it or you call it as vibrations. But you have to little bit know about them, what are they. This is the All-pervading Power of God that enlightens everything. It will enlighten even a little lamp, if you have.

You'll be surprised if the enlightened light is there, then you put a hand towards it... Supposing you are suffering from cancer. Take a position of cancer. How will you find out you have cancer? In Sahaja Yoga you can easily find out. If you see when you put your hand towards the photograph you will find all these would be burning. All these would be burning that is these centers will be all burning that means in the Void there's a catch. If you put hand to a candle, just to the candle, that's all and My photograph of course and you put your left hand towards the photograph and put your right hand on the Mother Earth.

The Mother Earth will suck in that which is jaḍa in you. Because She is the one who absorbs that. You put the hand like this and you can cure the cancer. You may think that, “Mother, it looks very simple." It is very simple. When you go to the fundamentals, is very simple. The complications come later on.

Cancer is caused, for your information is, by some sort of an attack from the collective subconscious. Now on our left hand side we have got our subconscious and a collective subconscious.

Freud is, I mean he was a half-baked person, absolutely half-baked.

So in his brain I don't know what he saw and how he said it, but he said that we are nothing but our conditionings and our conditionings must be removed. And to him left side, what we call as the Iḍā Nāḍī, he took as psyche. I mean it's all... They have seen from outside and absolutely so many things are missing, absolutely. You cannot relate it to Sahaja Yoga but I can say that whatever he calls psyche let us say it is the Iḍā Nāḍī on the left hand side. Now this channel looks after your subconscious mind. Whatever conditionings you have are in that, plus beyond that is your collective subconscious. Whatever has done is there in the collective subconscious. Now when there is an attack comes from this collective subconscious, anything that is dead since the creation is there within all of us.

So whenever it is attacked from that, what happens that it triggers, it triggers a person's malignancy. Because the person is using too much of his energies. I would say this is My left hand and the right hand, there are two Nāḍīs, one is the left side and another is the right side. The left side Nāḍī is the one called as the Iḍā, this is the Piñgalā Nāḍī.

So those who are right-sided are hard working people, who work in their physical and mental being and the left-sided are the emotional being. When they start using too much, the Chakras are in the center, they get affected because they move on to sides. Because this is disconnected, we are disconnected from the whole. At that time you are vulnerable to any disease, whatsoever, but more so for cancer. At that time when you are too much active or if you are too much crying type, any way, what happens that you move out from the main brain centers which are within us and you are lost because you become independent at that point. Then from the left, it is always from the left, cancer comes always from the left. From the left the attack comes in. Now what do you do? You put a candle. Put your hand towards it and put your right hand on the Mother Earth.

So what happens the attack that has come by the entity, which they call in their... you see, medical terminology is always little [UNCLEAR], like they say that it is protein 52 and protein 58.

But we call it in our languages as bhoot, as something that is dead, that was created in a way that died but it is still existing in the collective subconscious. And the hand will start showing you... It is surprising that the candle will go on flickering. It will make also sound “khat khat" like that. You can see it clearly happening and then the cancer is [UNCLEAR].

Now it looks too much. I went to a cancer hospital the other day to see some patient there. This fellow had a galloping cancer. He had a bone marrow cancer.

So I told him, “Was there any accident or anything?" They had forgotten about the accident and just remembered, “Yes, there was a serious accident” I said, “That's how he got it." When you get a shock, you are thrown on [UNCLEAR] collective subconscious.

It might be through somebody who mesmerizes, somebody who tries to give you some sort of a mantra or could be some sort of a wrong guidance in religion. We call it anadhikara cheshta, we can say the unauthorized behaviour of someone can, towards the God, can cause this problem that you are sucked into the depth of subconscious and you get it. Now if your attention can be brought in the center that is lost, that is finished and that's gone and you are cured of your cancer. It's not a difficult thing to do.

Now the gentleman whom I went to cure, I saw him and I said he's not curable and he's going to die very soon. The reason is, when I had met him before three, four times and I told him you better take your realisation. His wife took it. But he was an intellectual, he used to always argue with Me. He said how can it be possible? How can it be that easy? I said supposing I say here is a diamond and you can have it free.

So will you refuse? You'll take it. You'll definitely take it. Not only you, but people from Australia will fly out and take it. In the same way, if I'm saying it is so simple, why don't you accept it? He said, “How can it be simple? It should be difficult. One should pay for it." Just imagine! How much are you going to pay for Me? This is the concept that is in the intellectual mind that the one who makes you work hard, makes you run about and also takes lot of money is the real Guru, is the real man who can give you what you want. It is a spontaneous living process which acts. But he would not accept. He was just arguing and arguing with Me and he said, “No, no, it cannot be that simple. I'm reading Gītā and in the Gītā there is no mention of Kuṇḍalinī." Naturally, that was not the time. Kṛiṣhṇa talked about it in the place where there was a war on and He was talking to Arjuna. There was no time to talk about Kuṇḍalinī.

So He didn't talk about It but He did say that you are to be born again, you have to be, He suggested that. But when Gñyāneśhwara wrote the treatise and he translated Gītā into a simple Marathi language, he has in the sixth chapter very clearly, pointedly, absolutely substantially said that it is the Kuṇḍalinī which is going to solve the problem. He said it. Now, when He said that, the people who are in charge of religion said, “Sixth chapter you are not supposed to read. You are not supposed to read." So people were so misguided. They said “Oh God, then this is not to be read!" So people used to paste paper on the sixth chapter and read the rest of the Gyāneshwari. This is a very common experience of Maharashtra.

Then another style came against Kuṇḍalinī was these foreigners who came to this country, specially the Germans and all: all their attention is adogati. As Kṛiṣhṇa has said that the human awareness always goes downward. In the brain you have got the roots of it.

So the Western ideas are all towards adogati because they do not want to ascend. They have no idea of mokṣha. They have no idea of Self-realisation.

The adogati is so much today. It is so self-destructive that sixty-five per cent people in that great America are schizophrenic and they go to a psychiatrist and very proud of it. They will tell you, “I went to a psychiatrist, I paid him so much money and I gave him so many dollars." They are very proud of it. I said in India, if somebody goes to psychiatrist, he'll never get married. I mean we have innate sense. We are so wise, perhaps may be because we are such an ancient country, through our seers and all that. We do not think that to be psychologically disturbed is something great to be proud of. Everything is upside down.

They are like anti-[UNCLEAR]. There's nothing to learn from them. If you see their ideas, you'll be shocked. Now I have lived there and I feel that this country is not only a Yoga Bhūmī but the people who are born in this country are real yogis. Must be the great people of great Puṇyas. Otherwise why these people would not be born here. There are some great people born there also, but they are hankering after India. When they come to India, they touch the Mother Earth and put it to their head. They can feel the vibrations. We are not aware of what we have got, where are we born. On the other day only I read about Ravindranathji who wrote a beautiful poem about that, “The Mother of India is now awakened.

Come to the shores of India from everywhere." Such a great poet he has written about Sahaja Yoga. This Calcutta itself is a very great place where Devī had come and is, what we call according to our Sahaja Yoga is, the Center Heart here. The sternum bone of the universe. Is the sternum bone of the universe is in Calcutta [Kolkata], of the universe. Now so important is the sternum bone within us. If you are doctors, you will know that till the age of twelve years all the antibodies are created in the sternum bone. And afterwards these antibodies go all out in the whole being and protect us. Now in the disease of AIDS what happens that antibodies are absolutely weak because they are committing sin against the Mother. Here resides the Jagadambā, the Durgā, the Devī and that is the place for Calcutta [Kolkata].

So you can imagine what an important position you are. I always used to feel that once I could somehow or other approach the people of Calcutta [Kolkata], I can manage India very well. And first time when I came, I've come here many a times, you'll be surprised in a big hall there was one single gentleman sitting who also ran away after two minutes. I think I approached a wrong area. But we had advertised, we had done the same way as it is, but it's My great fortune that I've been able to meet the Lions people, who are just there to take up the Shakti, Divine Shakti within themselves. They are just a special category of seekers. A very high quality of people. Now with the Sahaja Yoga what will happen, you will not feel you are doing anything.

Now, supposing this is my hand I know and this is my hand I am aware of it in my collective consciousness.

Then what happens I know this is my hand and I'm not helping my own hand. If it is paining, I am just rubbing it because this is my own hand.

So with this happening what happens that you feel, `Who is the other? Who is the other? Whom am I helping? Whom I'm trying to help?' So the ego part, the compartment that, `I am trying to help that person, I am trying to do that person.' I've seen people who are known for great social work also and they have got peace prizes, this, that, big, big prizes, but such ego that I have seen them jumping from here to there and there to there, for a little thing like a suitcase. That means inside there's nothing. I have seen people in the United Nations and all that, those who talk of peace, there's no peace within. Those who have no peace within how can they give peace to anybody else? Peace Foundation, peace this thing, peace, peace, how can you have? Is there peace within you? Everyone has that area within them where they can enjoy their peace and their satisfaction. That is to be felt. That is to be aware of. In Sanskrit we can say to be vida, from where the word Veda has come.

Prabodha, prabodha or we can say that Gñyāna, the word is used, is nothing but what you know on your central nervous system. You feel the peace within yourself. The whole turmoil is there and inside you feel that peace. You are not disturbed any way. Like you are standing in the water and there is a wave of water coming and going. And there are waves and waves coming. Then you are frightened of the waves.

But supposing you reach a state where you are in the boat, you can see that and you are not disturbed.

This is the state to be achieved. And this state you can achieve it because it is within. It is just like this instrument which is before Me. Now, it has also got something to connect. As soon as you connect it you see the fantastic behaviour of this instrument. In the same way, God has made you a great instrument.

And this instrument when it is put to the mains, starts working dynamically. Not only that it gives you energy, it gives you health, wealth, because Lakṣhmī Tattwa is awakened in you. It gives you all kinds of prosperity, but you don't become like a mad business man. No. Neither you become like a greedy rich man. But you become satisfied personality. And that satisfied personality brings forth all kinds of fruits which are not thought. If you believe that God is almighty, I don't have to convince you. But even if you don't believe in it, why not see it? Why not feel Him? Why not take advantage of Him? You see, even a Prime Minister comes in, everybody wants to run and shake hands with him, but I say is very easy to shake hands with God. Why not do that? And when I say that, I mean it. It can happen to all of you because you all have got that power within you. All of you can get your realisation. All of you can achieve that state and then already you have an organization, great organization like Lions where the energy will start flowing. You will help people. You will do everything for them but you'll never feel you have done it. You will say `It is done, it is happening,' and the amount of help you will get from all the sources of the Divine, you'll be amazed how things are working out.

There's only one thing as you have mentioned to Me that you have created the eyes, eyes for cataract.

Now in cataract case the thing is it is a dead tissue as you know it very well.

So by Sahaja Yoga you don't develop it. It's on the prevention level that Sahaja Yoga helps. You just don't develop any diseases to begin with. As your chairman was saying to Me that they are thinking of having a school and also they want to start it at that place where there are children. And I think that is the best idea.

So the children don't get into any troubles, they become realised Souls and they can help you. This is the best idea, is to give it to children. But even to other people, if you give them realisation, they cannot get into diseases.

They cannot get into mental problems and the whole personality will be awakened in such a way that you will know that you are part and parcel of the whole. You'll be so secured, you'll be so satisfied, you'll be such a happy person and this is what is the purpose of your life, is to become the Spirit. This is the purpose of your life. Now the questioning can be many, With the mental activity people have too much questioning. Like in England specially or other the places, they ask Me, “Mother, why should we do it?" I said, “You better do it. Is a very good idea." Because, you see, to do this I have to run about too much sometimes, you see, I have to neglect My family also.

So it's better you do it.

But supposing this is what is My lot, I have to do it. What is the objection for that? Is all the [UNCLEAR kind] funny thing about it is, that it's such an ego, in human beings, to accept someone that the another person can do something. But when I'm doing it, I'm not doing it anything, it is actually you will be doing it. Once you get it, you will be doing it. Like one candle which is enlightened can enlighten another candle. What is this candle has done? Nothing, that another candle was ready, it has enlightened.

Like this many candles can be enlightened. What one candle has done is nothing.

But this is something which hits people and they do not want to have that kind of a thing. But if somebody tries to mesmerize them, takes away their freedom, then they completely empty their purses to that person. But if somebody says, “You cannot pay for it, you cannot purchase Me, nothing of the kind, you better become something." So the second problem comes in when I say, “You have to become something." Because it is you who has to become. It is you who has to gain. And in that portion only people fail that they have to little bit work out themselves after realisation. Before realisation you don't have to worry. The seed can be sprouted easily. But after sprouting it is to be looked after and that is where I would say you have to put in a little attention to that. But if it solves all your problems, all your future, all the progeny, all the humanity, why not do it? I'm very thankful to you all for inviting Me for this beautiful function here and I want to thank you all people to give Me such an opportunity. I never knew that I would have to face Lions one day. I wish I had known it before, but I always felt that this Lions is something, rings in My ears. I've spoken to Rotary Clubs but of no avail. And though I said Rotary itself is a word, is Chakras. Rotary itself word comes from Chakras. And I have made hope, maybe after you have achieved something, they will also come down.

Also their aims are the same as yours. Of course from Rotarians I have got Doctor Talwar himself, which you can see very clearly and there are many people who have come. But all of you should get it because it is your own. It's inside. Your own, the whole property, the sampada, is within you. That you have to have. Only thing what I'm doing is to give you the key, that's all is My job. I hope all of you will have that much wisdom and that much understanding about Sahaja Yoga and that you all will get your realisation.

May God bless you all!

The Goddess comes to everybody's house late at night on that day and She asks `Kojagarti?' [Who has not awakened yet].

Contents: 1986-11-01 Diwali Pūjā (Hindi+Marathi) (Diwali Day), Pushpa Mangal Karyalaya, Sheth Narayan Das Dugad Chowk, Bibwewadi, Bibwewadi, Pune, Maharashtra, India

Ask them to stop bursting the firecrackers, otherwise how can I talk? [Hindi.] On this auspicious occasion of Diwali, we have arrived here at this Puṇyapatnam [Pune]. Since time immemorial, the festival of Diwali has been celebrated in our country. However, the `Dīpawali' [arrangement of lamps] of Diwali started with the beginning of Sahaja Yoga. The lamps that were lit during Diwali used to get extinguished in some time. The next year, Diwali would be celebrated by putting oil and a wick in a new lamp. In this manner, every year, new lamps used to be bought. The speciality of the lamp was that at first, it would be put in water and made completely wet and then dried so that the lamp does not absorb the oil in it. It then used to burn for a long time.

But we have been celebrating the Diwali of the heart since Sahaja Yoga started. The heart is the lamp which has the wick and we light it by putting in the oil of love. But before putting in this oil, we have to cleanse the heart completely of all impurities and then decorate it beautifully. When this love is firmly established in our hearts, then the heart does not absorb it. When someone loves you, for example, at first your mother loves you, your father loves you and then some others also love you, you absorb that love within yourself. The love that you get from your husband or your wife, settles down in every pore of your body. However, that love is just restricted to you and others don't get its light. If a mother loves her child, then her love is restricted only to the mother and her child.

Sometimes, the result of this love is contrary to what we expect. If a mother loves her child more than that is necessary then sometimes the child can behave badly. His behaviour may become `dry' or even evil; he can trouble his mother or even insult her. If a child is too attached to his mother then she might possess him and sit on his head. In the same manner, it has been observed that if the love between a husband and wife goes out of balance or if the love is not shared appropriately between the two then the outcome is often ill.

However, when the soft love of Sahaja Yoga is filled in the lamp of the heart, it is no longer restricted to oneself. When it starts burning with the light of the Spirit, it has the ability to light up the entire universe.

Such a heart becomes empowered then, to light up the entire universe, to radiate its light throughout the universe, to destroy ignorance in the universe and to spread joy in the whole universe. The same lamp that was broken every year [after Diwali] now becomes an empowered and a special lamp that does not get extinguished at all. This lamp lights up many other lamps and even those lamps burn for all eternity.

One can ask then that what material is such a lamp made from that it never dies. But there is no such material in the universe from which a lamp can be made which shines eternally and continues to light others, others, which instead of dying out, shine eternally like a galaxy of stars in the universe.

Many such lamps came in this world but they were isolated. In some places, as you have seen, great saints were born. In this land of Maharashtra also, there were many saints. Isolated, these lamps were shining dimly in some corner of the world but even today, they are shining like a galaxy in the universe.

But they were alone, there was no `Dīpawali' [a group of lamps], they were alone and used to meet each other rarely. But today, we are a Dīpawali. All of you are those lamps whom I am describing, those same beautiful lamps who are now enlightened and are enlightening many other lamps. Each lamp is enlightening a thousand others and this is the only way by which the darkness and ignorance of the universe can come to an end.

But we have to remember one thing, the oil with which we are burning is the oil of love, unconditional love, a love that does not expect anything in return. This love does not stick to anyone, does not have any desire, does not want any reciprocation and continuously keeps the lamp burning in a beautiful manner.

The gracious beauty and elegance of such a lamp also reflects upon your lotus faces. These lamps shine through your eyes. If you observe, a Sahaja Yogi's eyes sparkle like diamonds, diamonds which radiate their own light. Just like these diamonds, the eyes of a Sahaja Yogi shine with their own little, sparkling flames. What a great transformation it is that in a heart of stone, a special kind of lamp has been lit, one that is immortal and infallible and not an earthen one. The heart that was once upset with petty problems, the heart that used to suffer when pained even a little has now become a mighty lamp which neither fears the draughts of happiness and sadness nor concerns itself with comfort and suffering. Its job is to courageously drive away the darkness and it is fully aware that it is a special kind of a lamp in a special form. He knows that he can light lamps of many others with this special lamp that is burning in his heart.

Also, if he sees his own defects in the light of this lamp, then he gives them up completely. Gradually, his life too becomes full of light and this light emanates from every part of his body, from every pore of his body, from his eyes and from his face. His entire life gets illuminated and he becomes completely identified with that light. He enjoys surfing the waves of this light. Smiling to himself, he says “how beautiful have I become! How much beauty is flowing through me!" For the first time, a human being gets completely satisfied with himself.

Dissatisfaction comes into a person when he is not satisfied with himself. You may say, `I am not satisfied today because I don't have this thing' but when you get something tomorrow, you will still remain dissatisfied. You will remain dissatisfied. When you become satisfied with yourself, you won't have to search for satisfaction outside. Also, you will never find it outside. Satisfaction can only be obtained within, from the Spirit. We are seeing now that this light has spread to a great extent. This light has spread to a large extent especially in Maharashtra and Poona [Pune] is the heart of Maharashtra.

So, when you leave this heart today, take lots of love along with you. This love is such that its light will generate waves after waves of beauty in you for all eternity and it will guide you to such a pedestal of virtues which you could never have imagined as possible for you.

You would have heard about many great and famous personalities but you can do a much greater work than they did. You can easily reach much greater heights than these people did. The only difference is that those people were tired of continually fighting and confronting their desires for importance and you will find your path to be so easy, so secured and so illuminated that you won't face any obstacle in your way. The only thing to be remembered is that this is the lamp of love. This lamp burns only with love and nothing else. Whatever work you do, do it with love. When you are teaching someone or talking to someone about Sahaja Yoga, you should ask yourself, `Am I explaining Sahaja Yoga to these people because I love them? Do I want them to achieve whatever I have achieved? Or am I explaining because I know something about Sahaja Yoga and I know how to talk well? Am I explaining to them to impress their intellect?' One cannot spread Sahaja Yoga with these thoughts in mind. Your behaviour towards others should be like the moonlight which moves slowly and slowly illuminates the objects in the dark. There should be no form of attack or arrogance in your behaviour. One thing to note is that we have to take care of this lamp. We have to look at it as if it is an extremely important thing that we have received. If this lamp is now like a child then we have to make it grow gradually. There should be a kind of respect towards it that today we are Sahaja Yogis.' If we are Sahaja Yogis, we should have special qualities. You should not do Sahaja Yoga with the fear that if we do something wrong, we will face an accident, we will suffer a loss or that God will in some way punish us. But it has to done with joy. It should be an enjoyment that Mother has taught us how to swim and now we won't drown. We have to know this love without any fear or doubt in our minds. We should try to know how an ocean could fit into this fist-sized heart.

It seems strange that an ocean is contained in this small fist-sized heart. How is it possible? A subtler understanding of your heart will reveal a myriad of beautiful emotions within this small heart which is just the size of your fist; emotions, which are so great, so magnanimous that we can emancipate the whole universe by their help.

I am seeing that there are many people now in Sahaja Yoga and many are taking to it and they should do so but every person should have a special form and a special understanding. It should not be like, `Everyone is sitting there so let me also go to Sahaja Yoga.' You are special people and you have a special part to play in Sahaja Yoga. Now see, this mike won't work if even a small thing gets damaged. Every little part of the instrument is so important. In the same way, any person, man or woman, who comes to Sahaja Yoga, is extremely important.

So, everybody should know that they must maintain their health in such a way that the instrument made by God continues to work. We should look at our lives and give up the mistakes that we made and the ways in which we had accumulated the `Shadripu' [the six enemies] one by one. It is very easy because now you can see the snake present within you. When it was dark, you were holding the snake but as soon as there is light, the snake falls down. When you start looking at yourself in this beautiful light, you can see your beauty and your ugliness both. But the ugliness has to be cast away at once. People who say, “We will get rid of it today” “We will get rid of it tomorrow" or “We will try to get rid of it" are half-baked and cannot really achieve anything.

[Marathi.] In Marathi language they say, `Tyala pāhije zātichi' [For that work, you need people of a particular caste]. Which caste is this? That of Sahaja Yoga. We have only one caste. Just one. It is said, “Ya Devī sarva bhooteshu jāti rupena sansthita" [The Goddess who resides in everyone as `jāti' or caste]. Everyone belongs to a particular type of caste. There are many castes which the Devī has created. One caste consists of people who don't even think of God. That is one caste, alright, no problem. The second one has people who are always going against God. That is one caste, alright, no problem. The third caste has people who want profitable businesses and not God. That is also there, no problem. There are others who are simply doing rituals in the name of God and have been doing it for many births together. They are not able to leave that habit no matter how much you advise them. No problem, let them be. But apart from these, there are people who are genuinely seeking God. Their intelligence is pure and they know very clearly what it means to attain God. Such people belong to our caste. They can come into our caste. It is not possible to explain Sahaja Yoga to every person. You need a special class of people even to understand Sahaja Yoga.

I have seen that Sahaja Yogis, after taking to Sahaja Yoga, try to tackle all kinds of people.

Sometimes, they go to rich people. They say, “Mātājī, this person is very rich and wants to meet you." Then what next? “He says he wants to meet Mātājī once." Then, what does he want? “Nothing, he just wants to meet you." I say then, “Let him wait for some time longer." People don't understand. They think, “How could Mātājī say so, that person is so rich!" The reason is that they are not fit for meeting Me. Having money does not mean that you are fit for meeting. Then some others come saying, “He is a very big politician so You meet him." I say hello from a distance and say that I don't have time. “But when an ordinary woman comes, Mātājī rises to meet her. How is it so?" Now, what seems ordinary to you seems extraordinary to Me. What can I do about it? If My head is like that what can I do about it? Similarly, Sahaja Yogis should have a head like that. Don't waste your time with hopeless people. Go only to those people who are seeking God and who are ready to surrender themselves at the feet of God at a moment's notice. Now, you have lit this lamp and all the other lamps. But if you show a lamp to a drunkard or a possessed man, he will run after you to attack. What is the need to show a lamp to him? But there are many people who know clearly that they are in darkness and that they want to meet God. However, there are many others who simply want some material gain out of God.

I must say however that you get material prosperity. There is no doubt about it. The reason for having this Lakṣhmī Pūjā here is to defeat the `ALakṣhmī' [opposite of Lakṣhmī, in this case it means poverty] in Pune. Unless it is defeated, this ALakṣhmī won't leave Pune.

So what is the reason for its existence? The main reason why this ALakṣhmī exists is because of the charlatans sitting in the numerous Hanumān and Gaṇeśha temples in this place. These people have to be thrown out first. These people who make money in the name of God and put kumkum on your foreheads have to be stopped. “But it is such a difficult thing Mātājī." It is. But we have `cures' for these people in Sahaja Yoga, many cures. We have to put these cures into practice and learn them. Such people sit in the temples and attack your Āgñyā Chakra by putting kumkum on your foreheads. They can destroy a realised Soul by this method. They seem to be very ordinary on the outside and it is to these people that we must pay attention. Those nations which have such people doing their work suffer from poverty. The reason is that they are working out the Preta Vidyā [knowledge of dead spirits] and Shmashāna Vidyā [knowledge of cremation ground]. They sit in temples and do this. They don't have the slightest fear of God. They practice this Preta Vidyā and Shmashāna Vidyā in the temples.

When I went to Calcutta [Kolkata], on seeing the situation there, I was worried whether Sahaja Yoga will spread there or not. Every person who came had some negativity or the other. There is so much poverty in Calcutta that it seems to be a city made of completely ruined villages.

So I asked them that how did this happen? Did you go to such a person? They said, “Yes and now we are dikshit" [the ones who are initiated]. There they don't say dikshit, they say dikkhit. All over the place, there were `dikkhit' people. Obviously, there will be `dukhi' [sad] people along with these `dikkhits'. But there was no way I could tell them that this `dikkhit' thing which you are doing is wrong and these people are charlatans. If they had taken only money, it would not have been a problem but the things which they do are extremely cruel and evil. In every religious place, this confusion is present. Whether you go to Jerusalem or whether you go to Mecca or you go to Mahālakṣhmī's temple, you will find this confusion.

This ALakṣhmī comes when we get involved with these things in every place. The thing about Lakṣhmī is, if a badha [negativity] comes from here, She leaves from there. The second problem is addiction. If someone is addicted to something, Lakṣhmī will never enter that house. It is said that if the bottle comes from here then Lakṣhmī leaves in the opposite direction. We have so many addictions apart from alcohol.

Now, all kinds of addiction can be gotten rid of through Sahaja Yoga. It is true. You just need to put in a little hard work. If you have any addiction, then not only will Lakṣhmī leave but also you will never get success in life. Your success will not be established. If Lakṣhmī goes away, Rājalakṣhmī and Gṛuhalakṣhmī also leave along with her. No matter what bad desire a man falls prey to, Lakṣhmī leaves the house. She won't stay in the house. No matter how many lamps you light, She won't come inside. You are not able to see what is there in the house but She is and that's why She remains outside. Then it is of no use doing even a lot of Ār.ti or reading the Sūkta many times. On the contrary, you fill the pockets of those people who give lots of `advice' on what to do to improve your situation. Then you become like them.

So, firstly we must give up those thoughts that take us to these kinds of people or those thoughts that take us to Vama marg [the path of evil]. Now, you might say, “Mātājī, Tukārām did not have any Lakṣhmī [wealth], how is it so?" You might say that Tukārām was not rich. If you see it superficially, it seems that Tukārām was not rich. He did not have a lot of money like the others, so how could he have any Lakṣhmī with him. He did not seem to have Lakṣhmī with him. But to see how rich he was, look at his character.

When Shivaji Mahārāj came to his door with all the riches, Tukārām said, “I am just a humble farmer, what is the use of all these riches for me? Keep it with you, you are a king so you use it." So, how rich he was! If you see any rich person of our times and you give him some riches, then will he not want to have it? You show Me one rich man who won't want the riches. Apart from Me.

So, the person who has a desire to lay his hands on everything is actually a beggar. He might just seem to be rich. Also, it is the rich people who behave more like beggars. If they leave something worth two paise [Indian currency], then they will come running back to collect it.

So, who should decide whether such a person is rich or a beggar? Therefore, those people who are rich from their hearts are the truly rich people in Sahaja Yoga.

There are some people who have nothing in their house and yet when I go there, they say, “Mātājī, whatever I have is just this much. We haven't made anything for You but there is some bhākri [a form of dried unbaked bread made in villages], will you have it?" How rich they seem to be! They offered whatever they had in a house where there was nothing. Their richness expresses itself in the sweetness and love of the food they offer. Whatever they have, they offer all of it. Now, if you go to a rich man's house, then they won't even call you inside. Even if they do, they will first ask, `Are you sure you will have tea? If you want, good and if you don't take, it's better!" In what way are such people rich? When Shabari offered `ber' [a kind of small berry] to Śhrī Rāma, it is evident from His praise of those fruits, how rich Shabari was. When Shabari came to Him, He ate the berries which were already tasted by her only to respect her richness. This kind of richness is in reality the richness bestowed by Lakṣhmī. Whether or not a person has money, he can be rich and behave like a king.

But in Sahaja Yoga, you will definitely get the blessings of Lakṣhmī. You won't be in the state that Shabari was. You will get Lakṣhmī [prosperity] in Sahaja Yoga. There is no doubt that everyone will get this. It is not because you are beggars but the world should see it. If the world sees that you became poor after coming to Sahaja Yoga, then nobody will take to Sahaja Yoga. To give them the `bait', you have to be given Lakṣhmī. [Laughter.] Unless it is so, these blind people won't see. That is why, Lakṣhmī has to be given and you will get it.

You can get Lakṣhmī when the Nābhī Chakra opens. The first place in the Nābhī Chakra is that of Gṛuhalakṣhmī [the Lakṣhmī of the household]. We can say that Tukārām's wife was a very rude woman and if she had been more humble and had respected God, then perhaps Lakṣhmī would have come to their home. The coming of Lakṣhmī depends upon the Gṛuhalakṣhmī of the household. If she has some negativity and the husband keeps on falling prey to her negativity, then Lakṣhmī will never come to such a house. But if she has some negativity and the husband says that this negativity of yours has to go away, then Lakṣhmī can come. Also, if the husband is a drunkard and the wife, showing that she is `pativrata' [devoted to the husband] says, “You want alcohol isn't it? Then have my jewelry and sell it to drink alcohol." Then what? She says, “Take my mangalsutra [necklace which is a sign of marriage] and take whatever I have because I am a `great pativrata' !" Lakṣhmī cannot stay in the house of such a woman who pushes her husband into hell in this manner. A Gṛuhalakṣhmī should be a scintillating woman. Her life should be such that the husband should feel that there is something tremendous in the house which will not allow me to take to wrong ways. In the old days, men used to call their wives as `mālak' [master or owner] and `Sahib.' There used to be great respect for the wife. How was it so? It was not because the wife used to shout but it was because of her brilliance. It was because of her nobility, composure, generosity, devotion, service and love. A woman has a scintillating character because of these qualities. But today, all that is lost and I don't know with what I should compare the Gṛuhalakṣhmīs of today. That's because I can't understand what goes on in their heads. I accept that the wife should take care of the husband, the children and the in-laws but this does not mean that she should give importance to the bad and stupid things that they do. She should not behave as she likes or follow whichever path she likes just to please those people.

Some say, “He is just my husband, Mātājī, what's wrong?" Is it so? Then you and your husband...

[Laughter.], I am not saying anything but you can understand. The state of a Gṛuhalakṣhmī should be exactly like a lotus. The lotus is the abode of Gṛuhalakṣhmī. She should be like a lotus that blooms above the water, spreads its fragrance and is the complete support of Śhrī Lakṣhmī.

She should also be a Rājalakṣhmī [the Lakṣhmī of Kings]. She should not go and beg for things from others. Like, `Can you give me your sarī today? I want to show it to everyone.' There should not be any kind of false pride or any kind of secretive businesses. A woman who has majesty and a firm character is Rājalakṣhmī. You might be feeling that Lakṣhmī Pūjā means giving a lecture on women, but it is not so.

The third is GajaLakṣhmī [the Lakṣhmī riding on an elephant]. GajaLakṣhmī means, the principal form of Gaṇapati He has the head of an elephant] is that He is the sinless One.

So, she should be sinless. Despite having a very sharp intellect, an elephant understands what is good and what is bad. The wisdom is of an extremely good quality. Even while walking, the elephant does not run helter-skelter. I have seen many women who don't walk like women but walk like horses. They are in such a hurry, `grab this, grab that.' Two days ago someone asked Me a question that how can children get blood cancer. I said, “Look at his mother, she must be running helter-skelter." Those women who are always running about cannot have GajaLakṣhmī with them. But this does not mean that you don't do anything. All things should be done with grace and beauty. Look at how this big elephant puts a garland around Lakṣhmī's neck with such grace that it does even touch Her anywhere! This grace should come into you.

If all these qualities are present in woman but the husband does not respect her, does not respect these qualities, goes after dirty women, goes after women on the street or is afraid of a dominating wife, Lakṣhmī won't come to such a man's house. Lakṣhmī cannot stay in the house of men who trouble their wives. Men feel that only women should have a respectable character. They feel that they don't need any respectable character. He feels that however he behaves, he is Dharmic [virtuous]. He does not feel that he is doing anything adharmic [unrighteous] by looking at others with bad eyes; this is before Realisation.

After Sahaja Yoga, your eyes turn completely in the opposite direction and even the thought does not come in your head. You don't get the thoughts of these `attractions', that's how your eyes turn. When this happens, it means that all these Lakṣhmīs are awakened within you. Wherever you stand, your attention won't go towards these things. Just as the flame of a lamp always moves upwards, your attention will always be towards God. When this state comes in, Lakṣhmī will come to your house.

She is in many forms. You might know that Kṛiṣhṇa built a house of gold for Sudāmā in Dwarika, you might be knowing how Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa protected the modesty of Draupadi when her dress was being pulled off.

So, you will be completely immersed in these miraculous events. Your life will be full of great miracles.

Every day, you will see new miracles and you will be surprised as to how these miracles happen and bless you. All this is the grace of Śhrī Lakṣhmī. All these blessings are by the grace of Śhrī Lakṣhmī. There are many kinds of blessings. Day before yesterday, I bought a sarī for 3,000 rupees. When I showed it to someone else, he told Me that such a sarī would cost a minimum of 15,000 rupees. I said that I got it only for 3,000 rupees.

So, this is the grace of Lakṣhmī! Now, another man told Me that he had decided to come to Ganapatipule but he did not have any money and the next day itself someone sent him money saying that it was his which he had given some time back. Now this is from the perspective of money but there are many other aspects also. Now, someone was sick and he told Me, “Mātājī, I am unwell." The next day he was alright and the doctors refused to believe it saying that it was impossible. This is the grace of Lakṣhmī. When Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa said, “Yogakshemam vahāmyaham” the `kshema' [benevolence] part comes from the grace of Lakṣhmī. You get all types of benevolence, not only economic. Now if you are unwell, then the doctor will take away all your money.

So, She gives all kinds of benevolence and as a result, the Mahālakṣhmī principle gets awakened in you. This Mahālakṣhmī principle is nothing but the desire to be one with God. When you get the Mahālakṣhmī principle you feel, “Mātājī, we have got everything and we have understood that God is with us and that we have come into the kingdom of God but yet we feel that something is missing." What is missing? “We have not yet given anything to someone, we have not shared and eaten, we feel that we have eaten alone." At that point, the Mahālakṣhmī principle gets awakened in you and when it gets awakened, if you slowly make your flame taller with balance, not with imbalance, but with balance, then She will sit in your Brahmarandhra and your whole life will get enlightened. Great people, the likes of whom have not been seen in the world till now, are going to come from you people.

Great personalities who have never been known or thought of till now are going to come from you people.

But you should not leave your balance. If you are not in balance, then this love will either fall here or there and get destroyed. You have to make this flame taller with balance. When this happens, then all these things get their meaning. All these sounds that you are hearing are announcing the arrival of these things which will sound like thunder in the whole world. Bugles will sound and everyone will know that a new age is dawning in which man won't face any kind of suffering and the miracles of God's kingdom will be uncountable and people will just want to keep seeing them and not know how to describe them.

Such a beautiful state of mind will prevail. It is in the hope that you will eternally benefit from this joy that I have agreed to have this Pūjā here. It is My greatest hope that after today, people will establish their Lakṣhmī principle from their hearts and will awaken the new desire of the Mahālakṣhmī principle and completely understand it, bring it in their behaviour and spread it.

May God make this Diwali a joyous occasion for all and infinite, infinite blessings from Me.

On this auspicious day of new year I could come to Delhi and all the preparations you all have done should be an important event. Whenever a new year starts, then a new thing, a new concept, a new understanding awakens inside a human being. It automatically happens. Whosoever started the concept of new year must have been a great visionary so that on this occasion symbolically, inside human beings a new ambition, a new thought, a new revolution should awaken. Like today many new years have come and gone, new ambitions came, new concepts came and finished.

Contents: 1986-11-03 Talk to Doctors and Problems of Sahaja Yogis, Shah's Residence, New Delhi, India

Left sympathetic nervous system represents our emotional side. Right sympathetic nervous system represents our physical side. When both [psyche as well as somatic] come into play, then psychosomatic problems result.

In the over activity of right side, liver is the commonest to be disturbed. This is because of too much thinking. `Swādhiṣhṭhān center' has to manufacture grey cells for the brain when brain is over active, futuristic and indulges in wasteful thinking, then these cells are used too much.

Liver disorders are also of two types i.e., slow or inactive liver [in a left-sided emotional person] this leads to allergies, overactive liver disorders in a right-sided person. Right-sided liver disorder [that is overactive or hot liver].

Liver has an important function to remove poisons from the body. It removes the heat from the body system into the water in blood.

H_2O = H + OH becomes H - O - H after absorbing 2 OH heat from liver.

In alcohol liver OH. No penetration is possible. H.

So the heat in the system remains. But with vibrations it is possible to correct it.

Alcohol causes sluggish liver. In over-activity of liver, CO_2 is formed and Oxygen is sucked.

So the function of liver is disturbed. In lethargic liver, poisons are not removed from body, allergies are because of psychic element. Excessive thinking will lead to over work for liver and consequently pancreas will be affected leading to Diabetes. Diabetes is not because of excessive sugar intake. In Indian villages people take tea with so much sugar that the spoon can stand inside the cup. Diabetes is always because of excessive thinking in a sedentary person.

Allergies are also because of calcium defficiency in the childhood. Left Nābhī also governs spleen which can also be lethargic or overactive. Over-activity of spleen because of hectic life leads to blood cancer.

Spleen supplies [produces] blood cells. Newspaper reading also disturbs the function of spleen because of majority of negative news.

So no newspapers should be read in morning if at all you want to read. Read it in the bathroom. Hectic life leads to disturbed rhythm of spleen.

In ancient times wife [GruhuLakṣhmī] used to fan the husband while he was having the food. This used to act as a soft rhythm for speed of eating.

Where there is lethargy of left Nābhī there is problem of allergies. Because spleen is the speedometer of body. In lethargic left Nābhī, fat is accumulated in body [as Metabolic speed is slowed]. Those who don't think can't loose weight as She does not think. Shri Mataji said in her case water content is kept and salt has to be left.

High Blood Cholesterol is due to lethargic heart. Fat is formed through left Nābhī. Lethargic left Nābhī and overactive liver [UNCLEAR]. Fat start circulation through blood. Shri Mataji said in Her case there is no cholesterol in blood as it doesn't come to circulate.

Kidney: Over-activity causes high blood pressure because of excessive pumping. Lethargic kidney's cause low blood pressure [when moon side is active]. At this point Shri Mataji remarked that it is easier to go from synthesis to analysis. The opposite is difficult. Shri Mataji said that in a right-sided person blood pressure on right side is more than left side; opposite in left-sided person.

Ādi Shakti: Mahāsaraswatījī Mahālakṣhmījī Mahākālījī son daughter son Brahmadev Saraswatī Lakṣhmījī + Viṣhṇujī Śhrī Shañkar + Pārvatījī Saraswatījī is sister of Shañkarjī.

Lakṣhmījī is sister of Brahmadev.

Pārvatījī is sister of Viṣhṇujī.

An example is if a person is using too much of power of right Swādhiṣhṭhān [thinking] Saraswatījī has to take power [energy] from Shañkarjī [heart] so heart attack can come in such a person [Saraswatīji goes to her parental house and gets power/energy from Shañkarjī]. That is why in such a person attention is distracted from the Spirit. Śhrī Brahmadev is active whenever there is action.

Pārvatījī is desire: Whenever you desire then she has to take help from Viṣhṇuji [Lakṣhmījī], that is why wherever there is black magic there is poverty as Lakṣhmījī goes out.

In epilepsy: Vulnerability because of left-sided activity: Bad Motherhood/Bad Father/Ghazals and poems of crying or sorrow books or stories like Exorcist, Horror Books/Frightening and unhappy situations.

Any bhoot from dead body from church or cremations ground, children catch easily. Bhūts run away from music and wherever there is eating and merrymaking. Anorexia is also from this [bhoot]. Any psychological shock makes such persons vulnerable for attack by bhoots.

Some bhoots are fond of fasting.

Some are fond of eating and drinking and some are fond of Haṭha Yoga. Shri Mataji gave here example of a Sahaja Yogi who while coming from Pakistan passed through a cremation ground. There he was possessed by a Haṭha yogi spirit and he started doing Asanas day and night. It was beyond his control. Now he is alright. For such cases camphor is good as it cures easily.

Problems at Mūlādhār cause AIDS when someone is raped etc. There is fear leading to left-sided possession. One should recite the Gaṇeśh Stuti, to clear Mūlādhār Chakra. The main characteristic of Epilepsy is that here the individual resists the possession. He doesn't accept it. If individual accepts then it uses the ego of that person and makes him act according to its will, through ego. Āgñyā Chakra is involved in Epilepsy.

Āgñyā is caught in two ways. When one doesn't forgive and secondly when one has adulterous and roving eyes.

Some persons have got mesmeric eyes. Then can mesmerize and introduce spirits through Āgñyā Chakra [e.g. Rajneesh]. Person who has condemned himself and can't forgive, he gets Epilepsy.

If somebody is condemned day and night e.g. wife [by in-laws or husband or by boss] there is constant fear during day and night. That is whenever there is substantial amount of periodic fear he is thrown into collective subconscious.

So if one is in such a situation, one needn't take it inside. One should take it as a joke. And needn't be affected by it, by remaining a witness.

Lethargic Heart: Whenever there is lethargic heart, there is no sufficient blood for circulation.

Angina: can be due to left Viśhuddhi that is whenever there is wrong mantra recitation. In this case it is due to blockage as heart can't pump properly.

Cerebral vascular accident [C.V.A.]: it is due to paralysis of blood supply. Gāyatrī Mantra is rightsided mantra. If a fat person recites Gāyatrī mantra his cholesterol level will increase. It is to be used only for left-sided Badha. No mantra should be used without realisation. All persons who recite Gāyatrī Mantra become hot tempered. All those who recite “Om namaḥ Shivāya" get heart problems. Those who recite Viṣhṇuji's Mantra their Kuṇḍalinī doesn't get up. One should not go to extreme in mantras even 5-10 minutes of meditation is sufficient. One should use brakes or accelerator whenever required. Shri Mataji mentioned that She doesn't take carbohydrates. She only takes Nitrogen [i.e. protein].

Cancer: every person is exposed to cancer. It is triggered from the collective subconscious [left] any bhoot attacking from there. [Right-sided bhoots come on ego. One starts acting according to them and become violent.] Left-sided bhoots harms the body. Persons with superego trouble themselves, while egoists trouble others. Both right and left i.e. supraconscious and subconscious are dangerous.

Epilepsy: it is a left-sided problem. It is a possession coming and going and not a permanent possession.

It happens in vulnerable persons; e.g. if mother dies in childhood or in case of bad childhood which weakens his psyche and makes it vulnerable for entry of possession. There is present subconscious, past subconscious and past collective subconscious.

Viruses are from dead vegetable which have gone into collective subconscious and hide there.

Bone cancer: in bone cancer there is history of trauma. Usually during an accident because of fear person goes into left and bhoot attacks, triggering bone cancer. It can lie silent.

Parametres for epilepsy research: history of stress factor. In England children sleep in a separate room as parents sleep naked.

So in the night child is alone leading to fears. Treatment, Mūlādhāra + Back Āgñyā. There can be combination of Chakras involved e.g. right Heart, Āgñyā or left Heart and Āgñyā [possession by father or mother e.g.].

EEG: Theta waves.

When patient is becoming alright frequency or normal period [in between attacks] will increase. There is also a relationship with phases of Moon.

Some persons have attacks during Amāvāsyā, Pūrnimā or Ekadashi. In the beginning the attack free period will be two months and later four months and later 1 year.

Shri Mataji remarked that she can see with her eyes the boot as a red insect sort of thing in the brain.

Cat scan: may be done but to visualise bhoots with it may not be possible.

Secretions will be reduced left-sided. Action of neurotransmitters are different on all Chakras. The deities use it according to their needs.

Left side has Mahābhairava's Shakti. Center Heart produces antibodies. Immunoglobulin will also show change.

Arthritis: it is also a problem, left side. He is a nice person sandsned [UNCLEAR] immersion is very good for such a person. He should go to the sea where vibrations can be sucked by sea bath. [Not concerned with Tantriks.] Ankylosing spondylosis, is a possession by bhoot which catches the individual and restricts the mobility. It can be corrected in one minute by Sahaja Yoga.

Viśhuddhi: Ghee for dryness of hands. External application and eating has different effect. Peritoneum gets dried, external application on abdomen will circulate. Put Ghee in nose. Apply relaxyl ointment on temples [for dry temples], oil on Swādhiṣhṭhān.

For asthma: ice with vibrated salt on liver [right side]. It is because dryness of peritoneum. Left-sided asthma allergy give gheru and calcium. White spots [Leucoderma] rub gheru over it and in Psoriasis it is overactive liver. For this use ice and vibrated salt. Calcium heats, that is why given in problems of left side.

Skin cancer: is because of excessive sun rays. Brain is fat, it also melts with excessive sun, person may become mad.

Br. asthma: two types, allergic and physical dryness right-sided, for right-sided use ice bag/ghee on liver, Ghee on feet and rub it with small bronze bowl. Black colour will appear.

Shri Mataji remarked at this point that when her feet are rubbed with bronze, black Kajal comes out which is good for eyes.

Heat in the system can be because of left side and right side also. One gives heat of [UNCLEAR fusion/fission] and other of fission.

Some observations by

Shri Mataji: There is never fever in Epilepsy. Similarly in cancer, no fever.

Those who are mad don't get heart attacks. Viruses are derived from vegetable kingdom e.g. tobacco is also similar. Similarly bacterias are plant cells. Due to aggressive behaviour they are removed from circulation. Unicellular organism paramecium is aggressive.

So these are removed from circulation and become bacteria.

Tuberculoses: Malaria comes from right side bacteria are visible and viruses are invisible. Dysentery is also from right side problem. Use Lord Dattātreya's Name [Mantra] for amoebic Dysentery.

For liver: Gulukund, Candy Sugar, Elaichi, vegetables without fat for right-sided liver.

Parkinson's disease, muscle disease and myasthenia gravis: are because of Mūlādhāra problem.

For rheumatoid arthritis: use vibrated Gheru with olive oil to rub on affected joints.

[Medical Conference organized by Dr. U.C. Rai. When many doctors ask to be cured, Shri Mataji smiles:] Have your realisation first, then you would be cured spontaneously.

Contents: 1986-12-2x Conversation with Mr. Harishchandra Koli, after lunch, Alibag (100 kms S of Mumbai), Maharashtra, India (year not sure)

[After coming to Sahaja Yoga at the end of 1979, Mr. Harishchandra Koli put all the pictures of Gods he had in the ocean. He said, “If Mother is Śhrī Ādi Shakti, I don't need the other pictures” but he did not have the heart to throw the photo away of the Gods dancing at the Feet of Śhrī Ādi Shakti, which is now in the mantra book.] Mr. Harishchandra Koli: Mother, I feel You are the One who is sitting there, but what is the meaning of this picture?

Shri Mataji: All the Gods had a meeting in heaven because they did not know what to do with humanity. Which ever aspect of God was sent to the earth, the people troubled them, i.e. Śhrī Jesus Christ, Śhrī Rāma, Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, so at that time Śhrī Ādi Shakti said, “I will go as a Mother for mankind and I will go like a normal person with all the worries, sadness and happiness in life. I will go through everything and also through all the māyās [illusions]." This announcement of Śhrī Ādi Shakti was a blessing for the Gods and this was the joyful incident when all the Gods are dancing, so Ādi Shakti is there to help them.

[Ānand Thandav, meaning `Joyful Dance', was the name given by Shri Mataji to the picture. After this announcement Shri Mataji asked Mr. Koli to make thousands of copies of this picture and give them out to all Sahaja Yogis all over the world so that they have it in their houses. It brings joy and love to everyone.]

Contents: 1986-12-21 Śhrī Mahādevī Pūjā (English+Marathi), Chalmala Thal, near Alibag (100 kms S of Mumbai), Maharashtra, India

[Marathi.] [Shri Mataji talks in English:]

I bow to all the Sahaja Yogis.

In this beautiful surround, surroundings, many of you are wondering why God has created these beautiful things. Because you people had to come on this Earth and enjoy the beauty that is one of the reasons. And now God feels very much fulfilled with the joy and satisfaction and a kind of a completion of His desire.

“Why God has created this beautiful universe?" has been a question asked for thousands of years. The reason is very simple to understand: this beauty that is created cannot see itself. In the same way, God who is the source of beauty, beauty cannot see its own beauty. Like a pearl cannot enter into itself to see its beauty. Like the sky cannot understand its own beauty. The stars cannot see their own beauty.

The Sun cannot behold its own brilliance. In the same way God Almighty cannot behold His own being.

He needs a mirror and that's how He has created this beautiful universe as His mirror. In this mirror He has created now beautiful things like the Sun, then the Sun has to see his own reflection also.

So He has created these beautiful trees to see that when he shines, they come up so well and look so green.

Then He has created those birds to rise early in the morning to greet the Sun, so the Sun knows that, `Yes, I am there, I am existing'; or else He has created these beautiful lakes for these trees to see their reflection and the lakes to feel their existence when the ripples start moving within themselves.

So then He created human beings. The human beings cannot also see their own beauty, their own glory.

That's why they are in the darkness, they are ignorant. They cannot see what lies within themselves.

So they are running after something which is absolutely against themselves, which is ugliness, which is self destructive. And the struggle to get to reality is such a lot, that as a result, they destroy themselves. Like as people have taken to these drugs, taken to all bad habits, of in this place, they say there is a lot of smuggling going on and all such endeavours that people take up because they do not know what beautiful things they are.

So now a mirror has to be created for them, to see for themselves how beautiful they are. Their mirror is their Spirit. That Spirit is to be brought in their consciousness, in their attention. If it comes in their attention then they can see their image. Now this attention that comes in, as an enlightened attention is called in Sanskrit language as chidabhas is the expression of the attention which is enlightened. But it is also said that it is got a nature, which is very transitory, or, we can say, which is disappearing every moment to moment. When this is happening what is to be done? For that you have to steady yourself with meditation, with hearing the enlightened talks, by seeing the good things of life without thinking about them, by seeing also the goodness of others and then you start seeing goodness in yourself also.

That is why I always say that one should not feel guilty, because you are feeling guilty of something, which is just, just an illusion. You are guilty that you have got a shadow. It is something like that.

So if you know that you are beautiful beings and that you have got a shadow is nothing to do with you and your beauty. If you can see you own beauty then you will be amazed that within us lies all those joy giving, all those beautiful things, which we are seeing outside. But just now, the mirror is not all right, that is why you have to see in the nature the beauty. But, when you are one with your Self, then you see all these nature within yourself, all the joy giving qualities of this nature within yourself.

So I wanted you to come to this place just to learn how God has created this beautiful area for you people to enjoy and to be here.

May God bless you! [Shri Mataji talks in Marathi: MISSING.]

[After Talk and Self-realisation, seekers speak with Shri Mataji.] Once your Kuṇḍalinī crosses the Āgñyā Chakra, your prarabdha ends there.

Contents: 1986-12-23* Pūjā, About Ego, Doctor Sangwe's House, Nasik, Maharashtra, India

So now we have here one of the most ancient places called Nasik. I think you must have heard about what happened when Śhrī Rāma and Sītā were staying here, why this place was called as Nasik that I will tell you in short. This is the place where Śhrī Rāma and Sītā and Lakshmana were staying and the sister of Rāvaṇa, because Rāvaṇa's some of the empires, a part of the empire was very close to this place. She came down to entice Śhrī Rāma.

So Śhrī Rāma smiled at her He said that, “It is not possible with Me because I have a very nice wife" in His own sweet ways and He is known for His formals, formal is not the word but for a sweet formalities and we call it Sankocha. He said, “You better try your hand on My brother” because He knew His brother is a terrific fellow.

So this is all rākshasi, it's all qualities of Rākshasas that women who are rākshasinis try to entice men.

Men who are Rākshasas try to entice woman. It's a quality of Rākshasas not human beings. And of course not of the Devas.

So this rākshasini wanted to try her luck. With her ego she went down to Lakshmana and she told Him that you are now living without your wife for fourteen years and this fourteen years are going to be very heavy for you.

So I think you better marry me. I am a good lady why don't you marry me? So she said I have got a beautiful nose. I have got beautiful eyes. I am very beautiful, must be artificial, I am sure or might have been to some sort of a Beauty Parlor or something, God knows what she must have tried but she was trying to impress. And the fellow was getting infuriated. You see, He could not see it, to see that look at this lady coming and trying to challenge My chastity and He got ultimately very angry.

He told her, “You get out from here. I have nothing to do with you. You are useless. Don't try this trick with Me." But she would not go she was so enchanted by Him and she, her ego was hurt. She said no, not to accept any defeat. She went on.

Then He got very angry and He cut her nose. Of which she was very proud that I have a beautiful nose. He cut her nose. And nose represents ego. See when people have ego, you see their nose go like that. Like we have, you must have seen while coming from Runala they said Duke's nose because such a big nose they start it cannot be an Englishman's nose it must be Duke of some place. Otherwise cannot be such a big nose, see.

So Indians call it as Duke's nose.

So the big nose, such a big nose she had. He cut her nose showing that he tried to destroy her ego of her beauty. It's very significant, very significant that this Lakshmana resides in the stomach we can say on the right side. He looks after our right side which is the liver, which gives us the ego part and it is He only who destroys it.

So He is the big destroyer of our ego. It's significant that destroyed the ego of this woman. She could not entice anyone by cutting her nose. Nose is a word call Nasika in Sanskrit language. That's why this place was named after that cutting of the nose, as Nasik. But as in every religious places we gather all kinds of negativity, lots of negativity gathered also in Nasik and the people who in the name of God thought that they were great place as we have in every religion, you know in Christianity or in Islam, in all religious we have the same problem.

The started their shops here so this one of the shopping centers of God.

Those who are interested in shopping of Gurus can come nicely to Nasik and empty their pockets nicely.

So this one of the troubles of this place. And that's why Sahaja Yoga takes time to root itself. We have already given up Kolhapur, which is another great place we have given up. Pandharpur and also in a way Thirujapur because there they have all these negative forces acting and they are all making money though the place is so vibrated, it's so great because Śhrī Rāma came here. He was not wearing His slippers and His wife also came bare feet. They all touched this Mother Earth so this place must be very vibrated, no doubt, but all these negativities are here as we are very susceptible when we are superficial, people catch negativity first and the positivity comes later on. Thus this Nasik place was contaminated by those people who wanted to make money in the name of God.

Now we have come here, one may say that Mother we don't get many people here or also you can say that Sahaja Yoga is very slowly moving, I agree. It's moving faster anywhere else. Despite the fact Doctor Sangwe and his family are such strong people and we have some very strong Sahaja Yogis here. But that's why we need very strong people over here to work out these negativities and a day will come when they will all run away. Your coming helps a lot because you also channel the Divinity and then you come to this country, this part of the country or to this place which is full of negativity. Your vibrations help a lot.

That's why I always ask you to do some shopping in Nasik and today if possible for an hour if you could do it would be nice but in any case if you want to go to Saptashrungi also you can go.

Now continuing with the lecture I gave you the other day about the beautiful mirror God created to see Himself. But after creating the whole universe He created the Mother Earth. Then He took the Mother Earth towards the moon so that it cools down and then He moves the Mother Earth towards the Sun and brought it to a point where the life could be sustained. That is how the life started on Earth. In the Purānas it's described that there were Avatārs of Śhrī Viṣhṇu on this Earth who one by one lead for the evolution. Like that you have seen we have Matsya Avatār, Kurma Avatār and all those things about which you know and the new Sahaja Yogis should be told about. Ultimately this is the situation now at the Sahasrāra where I had to come. At this stage the main job is to give Realisation, to raise your Kuṇḍalinī, that is My main job. And that's what has to happen in a very large scale. In this country there isn't such a problem because very few places are like this where there is negativity, in the villages you have seen how in that fisherman's place so many people came who were simple hearted, how beautifully they sang to you, they sang to Me and they were so nice.

So this country is not such a difficult thing to give Realisation and to settle them in Sahaja Yoga because they immediately jump to joy of Sahaja Yoga while in the West as you know we do not jump into the joy but we first start seeing it through our rational being. Rationality then develops into what we call the Chitta. Then we start using our attention for different places seeing vibrations this and that but the joy part comes later on and that's why it doesn't settle in many people. To begin with they have to be little bit, ah, told and made to settle down because the nature of the Kuṇḍalinī is such...

[Aside to someone:] May God bless you, May God bless you, come in time.

All right. God created this universe to see His image and as I told you that gold cannot see its beauty, nature can not see its beauty, the Sun cannot see its beauty.

So they have to express themselves, manifest themselves to see their own image.

Now God has created human beings ultimately as I told you and now He wants to see His beautiful image in you people.

So first of all to know that your mirror is your Spirit. That is the mirror you have got which you can see, which does not know its greatness, does not know its beauty, does not know anything, in the sense that it reflects the beauty of God within you. Now you have to create an image or you can say we have to manifest our work in such a manner that we see our image of this mirror of God that we have got within ourselves.

So when Sahaja Yogis start manifesting themselves, asserting themselves, projecting themselves, then they can see their own image and they are surprised how can we [be] so beautiful? How can we be so nice? How can we be so powerful? How can we be the universal power? How we are helped? This is very surprising and that is how...

[To someone:] Please keep your eyes open otherwise your Chakras won't be all right.

So when you get all these experiences of your goodness, of your greatness, of your glory, you start manifesting God.

So now for God your mirror is ready. For Him you are His mirror. And He wants to see Himself through you.

So all the beauty that you have, all the powers you have are within you. But most of the religions which are established by great saints who wanted to help in this procedure have been just reversed that you are told that you are the worst, you are the sinners, you are the hopeless people, good for nothing.

So that you will go and give more money and more money and that's another stupidity. You can see so clearly how stupid the whole effort is. By doing that you make people look ugly, sickly, useless. The whole system, the whole civilization works in the other way round. For example, if nowadays I have seen in the West that if you look like a TB patient you are regarded as beauty or some sort of a bhoot you are regarded as beauty. On the contrary, you have to look healthy, blossoming like a flower, fresh, that is the sign of a person who is beautiful, not a person who is all the time sighing and who is about to shift into the hospital or into a grave yard, that sort of an idea God never had in His mind. This the idea which has come to you through the clever management of some of the evil doers. And they have given you these ideas and you are working them out.

So the sense of beauty that you have has to be a little different, much different as it absolutely just opposition. The face of a person who is a realised Soul is very different from faces of others. To them he may not be beautiful because they see the ugliness while we see the real beauty that pleases God. It should please God to see your faces, reflecting His manifestation. Like you see the flowers, you like the flowers which are fresh, you look at them with great admiration. In the same way when God see His reflection among Sahaja Yogis, He will very much fulfilled. And that's what I felt yesterday when you all sang together with all the East and the West combine together with such beauty. I felt that I was fulfilled within Myself that something has been happening and something has shown the results. The beauty is showing now on the faces of My children. We should please God. We should please Me very much.

So this is a very great thing that has happening in Nasik I think. This gratitude of yours and My own gratification, I felt very gratified. I felt very satisfied and fulfilled.

And that is the thing in a place like this where Sītā had to suffer so much, where Lakshmana had to do all these ugly things. It was terrible thing that happened in Nasik. And then if you get in that background, like in a drama you see, you show a climax and then the anticlimax like that. Yesterday I felt the drama is complete now. I was really very much satisfied what happened last night, the oneness with which we sang, the oneness we felt and the oneness we had about ourselves. We are universal beings. We do not belong to any country. We do not belong to any cast, community or so-called religions. We are all universal people. We have no such bondages, which keep us separate from each other. All this love, all this affection and all this is going to transform this horrible world into the right path, into the righteous path, into the path of benevolence.

So Nasik has done something good to Me. Last time I had tears in My eyes and you have taken the photograph of this Sandra Karuna and today I have got the feeling of great joy within Myself.

May God bless you all!

Contents: 1986-12-25 Christmas Pūjā (English+Marathi), Pavana Dam Camp, Pune, Maharashtra, India

[Shri Mataji talks in English:] Today we have all been waiting to celebrate the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ. There's so much significant that we are in a place here, the same type of a hut Jesus had when He was born and the wind was blowing from all sides and it was difficult to keep the room very warm, though if it is correct He was not born in the month of December, in a warmer month, not so very cold, maybe this much as you see; so maybe that the climate of today is quite significant, with the climate that He must have felt.

As for you people, you don't feel any discomfort in this climate, nor in these surroundings nor in the Spartan living. He never felt any discomfort, nor His Mother.

When our attention is on our Spirit, then we do not feel the discomfort of nature or of worldly things.

This is the first sign when a Sahaja Yogi starts complaining about comforts, then the first sign is that he is not a Sahaja Yogi as yet. To begin with you just get absolutely acclimatized with the climate and enjoy the style, the speed, the way it is molding you. There's no friction between the nature and the body because the Spirit which is synchronizer, helps you to become one with this nature and enjoy the best part of it. The way you are enjoying it shows that you are great Sahaja Yogis and that goes to My credit, I think, that you people have accepted all the discomfort as enjoyments.

Christ coming was a great event as I have told you to establish Āgñyā Chakra. And He was born on this Earth but much before He was born in the consciousness and that absolute consciousness itself took birth as Jesus Christ.

To explain His life is only possible if you are realised Souls, otherwise you cannot explain Christ, what He was, how He worked, still it's very difficult to explain many things in Sahaja Yoga as you know, you just go on seeing things. Today you saw fountains coming out of the lake, which nobody can explain, even the engineer said that they can't explain, nobody can explain it.

It just happens that the water gets excited, feels the Divinity and starts pouring out its love in a bubbly manner.

Can you imagine that even the water can feel it? You have seen how the light can feel it, in the same way every element can feel it. All those elements are within us, the highest of all, as we say, is the light, because light has an effect and that is governed by Jesus Christ.

Light has an effect, light shows things that are correct. That's the one which makes us understand all the dimensions of worldly things and ultimately when this light comes from the Spirit and is enlightened by the Spirit, then you start seeing the other dimensions also which sometimes make you laugh, sometimes make you smile and sometimes make you cry also.

Such a beautiful new dimension you have achieved through Sahaja Yoga, but it was all built in within you and you had to achieve it. People on the other side had to work very hard, like Jesus Christ was born in a small manger to show that Divinity need not be born in royal families, can be born in a manger, can be born anywhere, makes no difference to the Divinity.

But that has given some funny ideas to people, that they are saying we should make ourselves miserable and we should give away everything to God. God doesn't want anything. He cannot have anything and you cannot give anything. Is a wrong idea that you become like a pauper and give everything to God.

He doesn't want that. What He wants that you have to be happy, joyous and enjoying. That's the main point. Also if you give a little bit, very little bit to God, then He gives you hundred times more.

That's why you have to give a very wee bit to God.

But you don't have to hang yourself by the trees to prove that you want to sacrifice. Christ has done everything for you. That's the beauty of His life is that from the very beginning of His birth He has shown that He has enjoyed no material well-being, as we call it. He has not enjoyed any worldly things as we know of but that just means that He has done that for us to see that there is no need for us to hanker after worldly things, they will hanker after us. You don't have to worry about these things. What you have to worry is the Spirit, the main thing.

All His life, which was very short I should say, He has been trying, He was very much interested in evaluating people because He didn't know what sort of things these human beings are. He was a foreigner for these human beings.

So He tried to evaluate and in that evaluation He said many things which are very remarkable and one has to understand.

One of the things He said that don't throw your pearls before people who do not want to understand you. For Sahaja Yogis it is important to understand that you should not talk about Sahaja Yoga to people who are anti-God. Now he may be your brother, may be your sister, may be your father, he may be anyone, there is no need to convince them about Sahaja Yoga because they are not your relations.

Many people have only this worry how to convince my husband or how to convince my brother, there is no need at all for you to work it out, just give them up on this point.

The another thing He has told us which is very important I think, that we must forgive.

He has given the greatest weapon that we must forgive. Now it's such a practical thing to forgive. If you just forgive, the person doesn't exist anymore and the person doesn't trouble you anymore, nor is he in your attention, just to forgive is a simplest thing to do and the highest thing to do to get relief from worldly or mental tortures that we get.

His life has been a story of spirituality, going through all kinds of turmoils and tortures, all types of troubles that the Spirit can go through, to show that nobody can kill that Spirit, as it's said in the Gītā: “Nainam chidanti shastrani, nainam dahati pavakah, na chainam kledayantya apo, na shosayati marutah" It cannot be killed, it's an eternal life and He tried to prove through His life the eternity, from the beginning to the end He showed that Spirit is above matter, that nothing can dominate Spirit.

It's a very big thing He has done for us is to create such a big confidence in our Spirit. He has proved it beyond doubt.

I hope you people will understand and will not bother Me or bother yourself with small petty things here and there, is nothing important.

Ask for bigger things, eternal things, valuable things.

Also I am very happy that you like this place and you are enjoying yourself here very much and today we have declared so many marriages. There have been so many events in this short time.

So I would like to bless you all for this Christmas Eve and I wish you all very happy Christmas and Happy New Year.

[Dr. Kṛiṣhṇamurthy, the former principal of Govt. College, Nagpur, where Shri Mataji had studied, comes up to the stage. He is so overwhelmed; he could not hold back his tears.] Dr. Kṛiṣhṇamurthy: She was just a seventeen or eighteen-year-old girl. Government authorities had imposed a ban on student meetings near the college gate. Undaunted by the presence of a large contingent of armed police, She defied the ban and addressed the students. I could make out there and then that She was not an ordinary person, but must be an incarnation of Shakti. Of course She was arrested and I was ordered to rusticate Her. I refused and was transferred. She was much tortured in jail but they could not break Her spirit.

Contents: 1986-12-27 Pūjā, by the Kṛiṣhṇa's River, Brahmapuri, Maharashtra, India

This is a special month in India and it is nice that we are organizing this program during this month called as the Marga Sheersha, means where Marga means the road and Sheersha is the head, which leads you to the Epitome, that's the month. And in this month they worship Guru because of His birthday of Dattātreya and also they worship Mahālakṣhmī. That means this is the month of Suṣhumnā, where the people get out of the bondages of smaller hankerings and enter into a new path of seeking of Spirituality that is Suṣhumnā that is Mahālakṣhmī. Also on this, there are lots of, eh, Pūjās they do for four Thursdays, the Pūjā of Mahālakṣhmī because Mahālakṣhmī is worshipped on a Thursday as it is the essence of the Guru principle. The Gurus have to satisfy the Mahālakṣhmī principle, which is just pure seeking of God, or what do you call the Shuddha Ichcha.

Today is the Saturday as I [UNCLEAR enquired] and the Pūjā was done in Poona was also [Shri Mataji is asking to someone] on Thursday. Thursday Pūjā was the thing of the Mahālakṣhmī's Pūjā is started. The day this Pūjā of Mahālakṣhmī, there, you saw all, how the water was giving away its exuberance by putting up miraculous fountains. And they became the clouds I believe because I heard at the time of the Pūjā rain started in Rahuri and it rained and rained and rained. And now this country which is under drought, people even don't even have water to drink we have rain.

So the whole thing works out according to the calendar which is devised by God, not by human beings.

So today is another day of Saturday, where we are sitting on the bank of Kṛiṣhṇa river. See how it works out? Kṛiṣhṇa river represents the power of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa.

So the Mahālakṣhmī Tattwa has to go to the Kṛiṣhṇa's state, of the witness state and that's how we are here today on this special occasion in Brahmapuri, also the word Brahmapuri means where you feel the Brahma, the Chaitanya which you can feel it on this earth.

So when we are touring we are actually also internally, moving. Also there is Antar Yoga which you are achieving.

So you should not mind little, little things here and there but enjoy every bit of it. Yesterday also I was happy you all danced because yesterday was the day of Shakti, was the Friday. On the day of Shakti if you dance you will get that power within yourself. And that's why you are looking much better now. In My name if you dance you get the power, no doubt about it. And that's why here you have to achieve your Spiritual power, your Spiritual peace and your Spiritual love. All these things if you can achieve in India you have done full justice to Me and to yourself. It is not just a picnic or an outing, nothing of the kind and working out internally all of you, now I am sure it will work out.

So have loving attitude towards all other people who are here, who are feeling lots of love for you and they pay lot of attention, they don't want you to do any hard work they want to look after you but you also try to make friends and try to know them, hardly you know their names, hardly, eh, you write to them. That's not proper.

So at least those who have been here many a times, should try to know the names of the people, take their addresses and they may also write to you and you may also write to them.

So that you maintain a proper correspondence.

So this relationship, of friendship and love must be started as Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa has said that unless and until you love each other I do not exist with in you.

So it is not only one country, it is not many countries, it's all the countries of the world have to love each other and to understand each other as yogis. You are all yogis and to be appreciated. They are already singing the praises of you since long and now it is time to prove it.

The other day I described to them the procession that was described by one of the English poets in his vision he saw our procession and when I told them they are very happy that already an English poet like Lewis could see these points and written in such details the whole description. But that book has not arrived in India, Vision. It is a beautiful book and I would request the Australians to, if possible to make some copies of that and handed it over, at least the typed copies, in Southara or in Sangli somehow if you have the book with you and give it to them. They will be very happy, know all about it. That will be a special present to the people of Ganapatipule. If you could give the exact, eh, book then somebody can do it in Southara, [UNCLEAR they/I] can do it in one day evening, in India these things can be done very easily in India. We don't book things as you have to book. We have started but not so much of booking here.

So I request you do that much, give the book to these people, so they will bring it printed and everybody can have it.

Contents: 1986-12-28*, Public Program (Marathi), Mahārāja High School, Satara, Maharashtra, India

Seeing the work of Sahaja Yoga in Satara district, I am feeling extremely joyous. It has also been a very great work of establishing fifteen centers in Satara district. This is the land of Śhrī Rāmdās, who was the incarnation of Śhrī Hanumān. The fruits of his flower-like work are seen now in the fact that there are fifteen centers over here.

There were many saints in this Maharashtra and all the things they said can be seen by us in Sahaja Yoga. First of all they had said that a SadGuru is one who gives you the connection with God. Not the person who takes money from you and who cheats you.

Man should have only one aim, Self-realisation. Unless and until you get your Self-realisation, I cannot say anything to you. It will be better to remain silent. This is what Gñyāneśhwara told finally.

That's because without Realisation, your eyes are closed and if your eyes are closed then whatever faith you have becomes blind faith. There is no meaning to this blind faith. Now I am told that there is an organization trying to remove superstitions [blind faith]. That's a good thing as I had been talking about this for some time but we have to see whether the people who are trying to remove these superstitions have lost their blindness or not. In order to even see who has blind faith and who hasn't, one needs to have the sight. How can a group of people which itself is unable to `see' tell someone else that he is blind? This sight is nothing but the Realisation of the Ātmā [Self].

So, the Self-realisation should take place, you all should get this and it is very easy and simple to get it. This too has been told by the saints.

Now the question that comes up is “If it is so easy and simple, why didn't we get it?" The reason is that the proper time has to come. When the time comes then that work will take place automatically.

This is a living work. It is not an artificial one. Suppose you want to make some plastic flowers then you can do it any time. But if you want to see the flowers which have the essence of the Divine then you have to wait for the proper time. These flowers blossom at their own specific time. In the same way, the time has now come for Sahaja Yoga through which thousands and crores of people should be saved. This should happen. Otherwise, there will be no other route for our emancipation [kalyan].

We get rid of our economic and social problems through Sahaja Yoga, but most importantly, peace, contentment and well-being flourish in our mind. A person becomes loving by nature and when he realises that he has so many powers, instead of becoming proud, he becomes humble and in that humility he helps and serves others. This is the Ramrajya that we are all hoping for.

What is described in Pasayadan [poem composed by Śhrī Gñyāneśhwara] is this. Whatever was said earlier that such and such things will take place is about this. This you should achieve and become Sahaja Yogis. I can feel that many Sahaja Yogis are also sitting here.

So, let us develop Sahaja Yoga further and bring many more people to this.

Now, here there are many who have bad habits and addictions. You must not become angry with such people. Those who are addicted have become slaves. We must not get angry with them. We should explain to them that `you don't have the power, you are powerless and that's why you are unable to get rid of this habit. You know that you are doing wrong but you are incapable of getting rid of it. In the morning you say that you will stop but you are unable to do so in the evening.' So to give him the power, he needs the strength of the Spirit.

So tell him `your Spirit is there in you, so take your Realisation to get rid of these habits.' We must explain to him like this instead of getting angry and talking harshly to him. Now the other kind of people is that which makes money in the name of God. They don't understand how Shri Mataji raises the Kuṇḍalinī without taking any money. But a living process does not understand money.

How much money do you give to grow flowers and trees? Just as this earth does not understand money, I too don't understand money. All that money is just like dirt to Me. The Kuṇḍalinī does not understand money. If you show Her money, is She going to rise? The one to whom you say “Ude ude ambe" [Rise, rise o Mother!], is She going to rise with the help of money? But this practice of giving money has become natural for us. In every temple of the Devī, you can see how people are making money in strange ways. That is a very bad thing and they will incur a great sin because of it. Even inside a temple, they put bhoots in the bodies of women and make them dance and shout. But we are so innocent that we think `Oh, Devī has come into her' and rush to apply kumkum on her. You should not even touch such people! If such a woman comes in your house from one door, then Lakṣhmī will leave from another door. Lakṣhmī won't stay there. Such a tremendous sin it is to make bhoots dance in the Devī's temple! During Navarātri, to make bhoots dance, is such an enormous sin! The sin is so tremendous that even seven generations of such a person cannot nullify its effects! But these people are going on with it in every temple and others have to bear the problems of these people.

I had heard that there was a drought in Satara. But day before yesterday, rain fell after the Pūjā. May there be a lot of rain over here. If there are so many Sahaja Yogis, then the rain is ready to come whenever you want it to. But in the villages, there is a kind of nonsense that people have taken to like consuming tobacco, growing tobacco, alcohol and such dirty habits because of which some people say that there is no God.

So, there are droughts over here. If you say that there is no God, then God says, `Alright, I am not there.' Then you suffer in His absence.

Now, in Maharashtra, in many places, people have concluded that there is no God. If you have not found God that does not mean He does not exist. God exists. You can prove through Sahaja Yoga that God exists. Today, there was a Muslim gentleman and he told Me that “I can feel the vibrations in my right hand and not in the left." So I told him “now ask `Shri Mataji, are You sākṣhāt Prophet Mohammed?' " As soon as he asked, he could feel the vibrations strongly on his left hand also.

So now you go beyond this Hindu, Muslim, Sikh and through the religion of humanity become Yogis.

In that state you are Atīta [beyond], this is a very beautiful word. You become Guṇatīt, Dharmatīt. You go on the other side of it. The road to attain that religion is that of the raising of the Kuṇḍalinī. Now you have to give up the false ideas that `we have to pay money,' `it is too difficult,' `it causes a lot of trouble' etc. You have to explain this fact properly to the people.

If you just take the example of Tukārām, you see in how many ways he has described this. In Amritanubhav, Gñyāneśhwara has described these things so beautifully. If you read the shlokas of Namadeva, you will be surprised that how he has described such great things with the simplest of words. Once he went to meet Gora Kumbhar [Kumbhar means potter] and the way he describes how two Sahaja Yogis meet, whatever be their country, caste etc., is very beautiful.

So, when Namadeva saw Gora Kumbhar, he was so joyous that he says “Nirguṇachi bheti ālo saguṇashi" means I came to meet the Nirguṇa [formless], the Chaitanya and here I find it in the Saguṇa [with form] as Gora Kumbhar. In this way he expresses his joy.

Also, all the saints have talked against the people who take money from you and misguide you in the name of God. They have even used abuses at times to describe what exactly these people are. Saint Rāmdās says “Mahisha mardila chandane tyala pujite." This means that some people brought a buffalo, rubbed chandan [sandalwood powder] over it and started doing Pūjā to it as it was covered with chandan.

He has said so clearly about the level of blind faith in our country and how we fall prey to it. If one person goes then another is ready to take his place. Without Sahaja Yoga, you won't recognize who is true and who is false.

Nevertheless, you should see clearly, how can we give money to God? How can we purchase God? How can we rule over Him? He rules over you and to make you your own ruler, God has given this to you. He wants to give you the complete authority over yourself. You should not go into someone else's rule but you must stand up in your own rule over yourself. Not only should you know yourself through your strength but also you should become completely capable of bearing that power [Samarth].

This is the desire of God that you in His kingdom, should drown yourself in the ocean of joy. He desires that you should come to His kingdom and take your seats there. That's because God is the most forgiving and compassionate and He is the greatest Father.

So, He knows what to give to His children and what not to give. But there is a small obstacle in the end that we have not taken to our Self-realisation.

This thing that everyone has talked about, I am telling you in simple words. For thousands of years, in this Maharashtra and the whole of India, a lot has been said on this matter. Kabīr has talked about it; Guru Nanak has talked about it. Now the Sikhs are behaving funnily or the Hindus are behaving funnily or the Muslims are behaving funnily and by seeing this behaviour, people feel that there is no God.

What is God's fault in this? You did not search for God. If God is awakened within a person then for him, all the religions are the same and everyone is like his child. Even King Shivaji has said that you have to get your Self-realisation by telling “Swadharma Olakhawa" [Know the religion of the Self]. He said it because he himself was a realised Soul. It is the good fortune of the Maharashtrian people that we got such a great king who was a realised Soul.

[Shri Mataji coughs a lot.] I have been talking too much and sometimes it goes on for hours.

So, after you become Sahaja Yogis, then it should make you subtle, loving. It should change your character.

Something special should come out of it. Also, you must meditate. Unless you do this, you won't be steady and God's gifts won't come to you.

For example, if this mike's connection is broken or goes on and off, then you will hear My sound but you won't hear My speech.

So, we must always maintain our connection with God. This connection should be totally firm and steady. For this, we need to do some hard work. But this is the work to be done after taking to Sahaja Yoga, after your Realisation.

By seeing that you have got Realisation and are enjoying yourselves, a mother just wants to give all Her powers to Her children. But to attain those powers, we need to do some tapasya. But in that tapasya you don't need to give any money. What is there within you, you should raise it again and again and make it sit in its place again and again. You must look at yourself with faith and love and make it such that you become absolutely one with it.

You should not feel that Sahaja Yoga is something different. If you understand that you are Sahaja Yoga and you are Sahaja Yogis and the responsibility of Sahaja Yoga is on you then God will bless you.

As a Mother I must say that today I am leaving Satara district, I will come again, no doubt, but some children I am leaving here while others are waiting somewhere else, this matter touches My heart.

There is a worry whether My children will become steady or not, whether they will sit on their places or not and whether they will further the work of Sahaja Yoga or not. All your worries, the worries of your emancipation are facing Me at this time.

Sahaja Yoga is the road to our betterment (Hita). We become better due to Sahaja Yoga, this many people will tell you. It is My request to all of you that you take to this betterment.

[Shri Mataji talks in Marathi: MISSING.] [Shri Mataji talks in English:] I have been telling them, now they have to face the other people around. You have the same problem a little more sophisticated and the problems are not sophisticated because we don't have organized religions.

Thank God for that also, but because you have organized religions we have to face them in an organized way. For example, now here we have a custom that all the people who have to go to Vitthal, to see Viṭṭhala in Pandharpur have to wear a black spot, just the opposite of what it is, but the people but who are in charge still wear them. You are misguided. But the religions across the oceans have become so organized and they are so solid, absolutely solidified. [UNCLEAR Does God has given them] brain so much they have, have to give up those ideas which are absolutely gross? They think they will give up those ideas? They are so much identified. Church is identified with them. Church has become God and God has become church. Actually in Sanskrit language church, church means, which is worshipped, worship.

But here at least in this country, thank God we don't have such organized. I mean ordinary person can go and challenge Shañkarāchārya and can tell him. But not in that country, you will shooting him down or something like that. [UNCLEAR There is no other way out].

You cannot go and talk to them or argue with them.

So best thing would be approach such people who have been, eh, opposing those things but they may be in other kind, another [UNCLEAR blinds] who are sort of [UNCLEAR communists] or things and who are denouncing God. Because if they are denouncing church they are also denouncing God.

So you should find out such people who are understanding that there is God [UNCLEAR then mutual]. I think there is a great population of that kind. The way you are talking to them you have to know Bible very well. If you have to be a real Guru you must know Bible because you can not talk to them without it. And also other religions in which there is a complete explanation of Sahaja Yoga. If you know Bible how far it is closer to Sahaja Yoga you can talk. If you know about Christ very well then you can talk to them.

So when they say chapter this and this and this. You should say chapter this and this, this and this.

As soon as they say chapter this one and this one your counter argument shows.

So you must neutralise their arguments by your own knowledge which is enlightened. The best one you say is that now since Christ departed from this Earth you have been following Him and [UNCLEAR you are aware] what have you gained?, nothing. Now in the Bible it is described that He is going to send a counselor, a comforter and a redeemer, what about that? Why don't you seek for that? The argument should not be bombastic or aggressive but peaceful. In between you must keep quiet for a while, listen to the person and then tell them, I am sure it will work out. As you know some of you must have asked Me questions also and I must have answered them very well. But peacefully, joyfully because they can not disturb you. You have to disturb them and their fossilized ideas, which are to be [UNCLEAR de-frozen] and for that you have to have a temperament, a temperament of a peaceful personality. I have told in general to you but quite intensively to these people I told them to make a proper tape out of that and I should translate it and put it in the book that I am writing for the Sahaja Yogis, I am suppose to be writing.

So now we are looking forward to going to Ganapatipule after this Pūjā. I would request you to go with devotion and with complete surrendering that you have to achieve some, something, forget the past, forget the past. You have to forget the past. It is very important that you forget the past and then go there. Whatever has happened, happened in your life, nothing important, nothing can harm you now, you are now like a budding flower and you have every right to be a fruit and no energy which is negative or so-called positive can subdue you or could destroy you. Go with the idea that I am the Spirit and I have nothing to do with them.

May God bless you all!

Shri Mataji: Who runs Sahaja Yoga, Me or the leaders? Linda Williams: You do, Mother.

Shri Mataji: Why did you not use your vibrations? [In fact, Linda had been too afraid to stand up for herself. Shri Mataji is angry with Linda for some time and then sends the leaders away.]

Contents: 1987-01-02 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Innocence and Gaṇeśha, Morning Musical Program and Marriage Announcements, Ganapatipule, India

Today, in this blessed place of Mahāgaṇeśha, we have all assembled to go deep into our own beings, to enjoy our own glory. One has to remember that the very first thing God created on this earth was Śhrī Gaṇeśha because He could emit holiness. He exists as Chaitanya and this Chaitanya exists in the atom and molecules as you know very well, as vibrations, symmetric and isometric. These vibrations later on start expressing themselves in the plant kingdom as life force and you see how they are kept under a bondage. A tree that is a mango tree will go up to a certain point. A coconut tree will grow up to a certain point. It's all under control and then it is expressed in the animals, where it binds them. That's why they are called as pashus, means under bondage. But in the human being it is expressed as auspiciousness and ultimately as the epitome, as holiness. Holiness is to be understood in its essence as well as in its contents. Holiness is an innate quality of a personality, where a person rejects all that is unholy, all that is inauspicious. The ego doesn't play any part. Up to the animal stage, ego doesn't exist. But in the human stage, you are given freedom to choose whether you want holiness or not. But in the ego of man, he might say, `What's wrong?' and he may defy all the rules and regulations of the Divine and take to unholy behaviour. But then he goes amok.

Today we can see the results, in this short time, the results of this deānce. In the West specially, they are finding it impossible to retreat back. To begin with, people laugh at such people. They make fun of them. But holiness is the power within us. As you have heard that Rajput ladies used to sacrifice their bodies so that nobody tries to destroy their holiness, their chastity, because they realised the power that lies behind this chastity. This sense of chastity has helped so many women in this country to lead a very dynamic and a holy life.

It is said that without holiness you cannot work out anything. Even I have heard that in India people believe that if you have to do wrestling, the wrestler has to be a holy person. If he is an unholy person, ultimately he will fail in life. Even those who play other games have to be holy like Hanumāna. Otherwise, they cannot continue with their games and they might develop some sort of problems within themselves.

The warriors who went on the wars and fought other people had to lead a very holy life. Otherwise, they would suffer. As you have seen, people coming back from Vietnam have become mad people.

In every walk of life, holiness was the most important part, most important subject that was to be looked after. No reaction took place to people who fought with Shivaji, but when I see the reaction of war in some other countries, I am quite surprised. The reason is while fighting the war, they fell into a trap of their ego and did not care for their chastity. Chastity is not only meant for women. That's a very wrong idea. It's very much more for men. Those who lead a chaste life are the people who are glorious, tejas Puṇya [tejas: glory; Puṇya: virtue] as we call it.

For Sahaja Yogis, the most important thing is to lead a very holy life. Everything else is mundane.

Christ who came on this earth, as I told you, was the incarnation of the same holiness as Śhrī Gaṇeśha.

He has gone to this extent to say that “Thou shall not have adulterous eyes." Even your eyes should be holy and innocent. Innocence gives you that holiness, as the children are holy people because they are so innocent.

There are so many things to be learned from children. In their simplicity, in their innocence, they do not indulge into things which are unholy. Holiness is not only concerned with your married life, also it is concerned with your political life, with your economic life, with your national life. Chastity is the only keynote for improving all the problematic questions or else solving them completely. There is only one danger among chaste people also, that they might become extremely dry or could become very hot-tempered, sometimes also ego-oriented.

But just the opposite is Śhrī Gaṇeśha who is on the left side. Śhrī Gaṇeśha's holiness is that of a child, eternal childhood. Is so sweet. The whole movement of his body is so delicate and so swift, yet so charming. He eats a modaka which is a sweet which is very simple to make and very tasty, to show that we should have sweet temperament, sweet nature.

So the idea that people who are very chaste are very rough, hot-tempered is absolutely wrong.

Especially for ladies is very important, that if they have to understand Sahaja Yoga, they must know that Śhrī Gaṇeśha works on the left side and not on the right side, this is a very big mistake when we start using Him on the right side, to express all our wisdom, all our love, through holiness.

There is no end to what I have to say about this great quality which all should imbibe, respect and worship. Only thing when you meditate, just believe that your auspiciousness and holiness is to be imbibed on your nerves, on your central nervous system, because that is the epitome of Chaitanya. The Chaitanya that is flowing all around, if it is in the form of holiness, even one glance of yours can bring beautiful fruits, can bring peace and solace.

So this innocence and holiness is the one which is peace-giving, which reduces frictions, tensions, because you enjoy your chastity. Because you enjoy your glory. Please aspire to be the epitome of holiness.

May God bless you all!

Contents: 1987-01-03 Śhrī Nirmalā Devī Pūjā, The Duties of a Guru, Ganapatipule, India

Today is the third day of the Moon. Third day of the Moon is Tritiya, is the special day for the virgins.

Kuṇḍalinī is the virgin desire. It is virgin because it has not yet manifested itself. And also, on the third center of Nābhī, the virgins appear as Shaktis of Guru.

As we have got ten Gurus which we regard as the main Gurus they all had either their sister or daughter as their Shakti. In the Bible it is said that, in the Old Testament, that the one who will be coming will be born of a virgin. And then the Jews would not accept Christ so they said that “It's not written as virgin, it's written `the girl.' " Now in Sanskrit Language `girl' and `the virgin' are one word. We did not have eighty-year-old girls as we have nowadays.

So the virginity of a woman meant that she was a girl who was not married as yet or who has not met her husband so far. That is the essence of purity, which was the power of the Guru Principle.

So, for a Guru who is in charge of leading others into enlightenment, has to know that his power is to be used as a virgin power of pure power. A Guru cannot use this power in a way an ordinary person can use.

So his relationship with his disciples whether they are boys or girls has to be absolutely pure. The purity should be of such a limit that a Guru should not accept anything from the disciples. About this, lots of things has been written by many saints especially in Maharashtra. Also Kabīrdas and Nanaka have clearly talked against the people who have relationship with their shishyas, or disciples, either with greed or with lust. They have called them as Rākshasas. In the same way the people who are today, supposed to be the leaders, the Gurus, in Sahaja Yoga, have to remember that their relationship with their disciples has to be of complete purity and virginity.

In the olden days it was all right that people did not know about the punishments that can fall upon such a person who uses his power as a Guru for his own gratification. But today at this time when at this time...

[Aside:] [tells off some children in Marathi for disturbing.]... The punishment that can take place in those days of last judgement could be very serious and as a Mother I have to warn all of you, those who have started their centers or those who are becoming Gurus as leaders that you have to have a very detached mind and clear-cut understanding within yourself. You can not mishandle money.

You can not misappropriate money, you can not use anything for your own purpose which belongs to the collective. Nor could you use anyone for the gratification of your lust. If you have any such weaknesses is better to get out of Sahaja Yoga for the time being and come back when you are better off.

There is no place in Sahaja Yoga for impure people. Purity is to be worshipped out and out.

As we say that in the West there's sin against the Mother. People don't value their chastity but in the East, specially in India, people don't know that they have to be absolutely honest as far as their money is concerned. They fall into traps, into temptations and then they get a very severe punishment, not through Me but through the wrath of God almighty because this is God's work we are doing.

And the worst thing could be that we seek power. If not these two things, we seek power in Sahaja Yoga. To them it becomes like their own domain and they start using, asserting, their power over others.

This cannot be possible. It will not work out.

Those who will try to dominate others just for the satisfaction or their own ego will suffer a lot.

Now the fourth type are the people who try to put their conditionings on Sahaja Yoga. Like somebody who is a Hindu and he is fasting say, most of the days they fast, I don't know which one is fasting.

So he's fasting say, on a Saturday and he tells people that see now, I have to fast on Saturday because after all, you see, I have been fasting for all these days and all that. Or who has got conditioning, like, I would like to marry only a foreigner if I am a foreigner or if I am an Indian I'll marry an Indian. All such conditions if a leader tries to put forward and saying that, `Mother said so,' he'll be doubly punished.

We are belonging to the True Religion of a true, pure universality. None of these artificial things can bind us. This is one of the very important subtle things, which we don't understand, that we are very much conditioned. “We the English” “We the Indians" or “We x, y, z." You are human beings. God made only one world. He didn't make all these things. It's all artificial, man-made. You are born of one Mother and you are yogis who have no bondages of this artificial nature.

Everyone who claims to be a Guru has to realise that he can not bound himself to any particular mundane, outdated nonsensical ideas.

Gradually whatever the leaders will do will be followed by the followers.

So the leader has to lead a life which is an ideal. A leader who is very dominating, or who is very possessive or aggressive, will create leaders who will be of the same nature.

The another one who is very much conditioned will create conditioned followers. And may be, I may not find any relationship with them.

So we don't want to have a priest class as Gurus. Priests are different from Gurus. We do not want people to take upon themselves the laws of God and use them for their own purposes.

Today is the day of the Gurus because is the third day, the third Chakra of the Nābhī. The same one we have the starting point of the Mahālakṣhmī. Mahālakṣhmī energy starts working after you have finished with the Lakṣhmī Tattwa. If the Gurus are still with, busy with the Lakṣhmī Tattwas, have no sense of sacrifice, have no sense of detachment they cannot be called as leaders.

The Mahālakṣhmī is the subtle form of our hankering, of our desires, is the subtlest, the epitome.

Because first we search for power through physical, mental, emotional and ultimately we want to have spiritual powers also to impress others.

In Sahaja Yoga you come here to dissolve all your powers. You become so powerless that all the powers of God Almighty start working through you.

Supposing this instrument [pointing to the microphone] has some powers I won't be able to handle this. It would be going here, there and there.

So to worship Mahālakṣhmī one has to remember that you must dissolve all your powers. That is the surrender that is what is `Islam' as they call it. But these are all words for people.

Surrender is a very difficult thing to understand for human beings. They think `I can't surrender.' What do you have to surrender, is nothing but your ego and your conditioning.

All these things I am telling you but if you learn them by heart like a parrot, you can repeat. That will have no influence on your followers. Unless and until you show in your own life that beauty, that composer, that care, that concern, that love, nobody is going to listen to a parrot.

The meaning has to come from the practices not from the precepts. This is what Sahaja Yoga [is], which is very different from any other spiritual announcements.

So be careful! You have been chosen by your merit as Sahaja Yogis, so respect yourself.

May God bless you!

Contents: 1987-01-0x Day with 300 Sahaja Yogis, Pratishthan, Pune, Maharashtra, India

[Shri Mataji warmly receives 300 yogis in Her garden. She was very fond of gardening and had planted exotic flowers from all over the world: English Roses, Dutch Tulips and Thai Orchids. Dr. Hamid, an agro scientist at the U.N. had brought some special plants from Austria. She asks their names but nobody seems to know! As if to draw their attention to nature, She recounts their names and asks every one to remember them:] It would be a good idea to learn the names of birds and trees too.

[Pointing to the large size of the grapes:] Grapes remind Me of My mother. She was a great freedom fighter. She took a pledge not to eat grapes till India got her independence and the common people would be able to afford them. Now I am happy that grapes are being produced in abundance in Maharashtra and every one can enjoy them. I would like to grow more trees but there is not enough water.

[A Professor from the Agricultural University suggests rainwater harvesting. She had already thought of it and reveals her plans to build a small dam for harvesting rain water in the ravine below:] I would like to fill it with lotuses and gold fish.

[A delightful morning is spent plucking vegetables. Pointing at a large Sunower, Shri Mataji remarks:] See how big they have grown. It's vibrations. Now that you have got your realisation you can vibrate the seeds too. I produced 1,700 kgs of high quality Basmati rice from only 60 kgs of vibrated seeds! [The Professor enquires if the milk yield could also be increased with vibrations.] Of course, I am getting some local breeds soon and will show you how to increase their yield.

So next year when you come there will be plenty of fresh milk.

[The sun is too hot for the liver and She beckons to the shade of an Almond tree. Her attention shifts from agriculture to the collective catches.] Put your left hand towards Me and the right on the Mother Earth. Keep your eyes open.

[Attending to the Nābhī catch, She enquires what every one would like for lunch. The Italians promptly piped, “Pasta." Pasta was not common to the Indian kitchen but by coincidence the Italians had brought ten packets. Though it was not enough for 300 yogis, when Shri Mataji finished cooking, the Italians eat to their heart's content and yet there is enough left for another meal.] It's the blessings of Śhrī Annapūrna. When you cook from your heart, you touch the heart of the others.

It is most satisfying. When you learn how to mix the ingredients, you develop the sense of proportions. I am building such a large house but I am enjoying because I understand the proportions.

[After lunch Shri Mataji arranges the buses to take Her guests for shopping to a handicraft exhibition.

In the evening, Shri Mataji and Sir C.P. invite them to Dinner. She is delighted at the shopping of Terra cottas:] When you decorate your homes with these, they will relax you with their beautiful vibrations.

Feel their [handloom saris] vibrations. When you buy them, you give employment to the poor weavers.

Look at their art, their creativity makes Me thoughtless! [She heaped the plates with pound cakes she had specially raked from her mother's recipes. Then she disclosed her new device of mixing colours for a stone finish. It magically transformed the concrete pillars in the courtyard to antique ones!] [After a sumptuous Dinner, she calls for Her harmonium and teaches a song She had composed during the independent struggle `Mā Teri Jaya ho'. In the moment of dismay, it inspired the spirits of the freedom fighters.] [Shri Mataji makes comfortable arrangements for the night in large halls.]

You must have felt the vibration of this place that tremendous and that you come here after so many years nearly when you were surprise.

This place has a great connection with Me as such because My forefather's ruled in this place and this was the capital of Shālivāhan called as PratisHaṭha and they made as easier as Paithan.

There were rulers for thousand of years and one who started this Shālivāhan Dynasty as they called Satvahan [i.e Seven Vahanas and they represented as seven Vāhanas as seven Chakras]; surprising how Sahaja, after that there were a great poet as you know about him, `Gñyāneśhwara' came here and he was born very close to this place.

He was here for quite sometime, there was one fellow, who was a very supraconscious person, who challenging there was a Chandev, so he said that, what do you have with you to show that, you got for it.

There was a male buffalo within, male buffalo, which was just walking on the road, Gñyāneśhwara made that buffalo to say the main mantras and Chandev try to show some tricks. Gñyāneśhwara with his brothers and sister rest and was sitting on a broken wall and made the wall to move with all of them in the air, then he realise Chandev that this sort of any incarnation on it.

Apart from that another great poet called Eknath who wrote lots of books song like Namadeva, describing Sahaja Yoga, so this place had some sort of attractive focus of vibration for all these great saint to come and settle down.

There were excavation lots of old things about this place and the sarī given to Goddess here that mean this place called `Paithani' started at the time of Shālivāhan and the art is still there that the only sarī they used as a real gold, as a real gold that for the Goddess, so this place is still very vibrating is out of the way to the people to come down, thank God, so it's still maintain it's own vibration and is goodness and it's purity and you all luckily people good to have come to this place and visit this place.

As you will go round, you will see the beautiful garden next to it. The river Godavari is called Ganga the Ganges of the South [India], it's started from Nasik you were before and than brought here and a big dam is made for the supplier of water all over, which you can see the main on and beautiful garden near by and Eknath's temple is just behind here and so you may go and look at it also. Happily went and saw Ajanta Caves, should for you how people were dedicated here to built on that in ten centuries.

They had not seen Buddha at all, Buddha never came from South of India, just believing in Buddha, what work they did, what sacrifices, how they built it, they had to go through very difficult times because there were no water and there were no communication nothing and they used stones you may have seen there of different colours and different hues which are created on Mother Earth, when you break them and they strikes those ek like stones, you get beautiful semiprecious stone.

They dissolves them in sort of indigenous solvent and used for painting and that's how the paint are today surviving, can't you see without lights, how they painted at time, what sort of eyes they may having that dedication gave them the power that they can paint it, they carried on for ten centuries this one, if Sahaja Yoga can [be] carried for ten centuries this will be different place.

One has to learn that we have to dedicated, we must full dedicated ourselves, we are not here to gain everything out of Sahaja Yoga like in the beginning people have problems about their families, so they think that God can solve their problems and so they come to Sahaja Yoga to oblige. Sahaja Yoga now that God must solve their problems, if their problems with their relations, God must solve their problem that sort of jobs given to God because they have imagination to join such a part.

After that God must give them money, he must provide for everything and he must look after us that for no commits at all, that no commit.

Nobody has commitment in Sahaja Yoga, God has committed and God has to work it out and they started.

Some people foolishly start using in Sahaja Yoga for other purposes like earning money or earning power, or may be faith, or domination or anything, these are the steps which are going down not upward and then once you go down, you don't realise going upward or downward.

So in dedication one has to see, what have I dedicated for certain all the time, I have problems all the time, I say I can't do this because of that. I can't do that because of this, this is the problems, this I like to do this I like to do all the time they I, I, I and I but what have I dedicated, what I have given to Sahaja Yoga and they can't do anything. This people not only to please but permanently went and settle in that place, in their farthest place without any machinery, without anything. They did the whole painting and whole excavation and all that entire work of such a tremendous volume that impossibility in modern times.

Nobody can recreate something like that with your machinery, with everything because they don't have dedication.

So for Sahaja Yoga, we have to put ourselves onto a point, what did I do, what did I sacrifices for Sahaja Yoga nothing. If only for my own child, may be for my wife, or myself, or for my job of something, what is our commitment without commitment purity cannot come, it will go up and down like yo, yo. We are committed to Sahaja Yoga, if there are even five people who were really, fully committed to Sahaja Yoga, but problem is everybody share with each other, this kind of non-committed behaviour, that something not good. Committed means even if you have to give your life, if you should do it. Even if you have to give up everything you should do it, but all other considerations are to be taken there everything should work out, all should be enjoy all the time, you must get your jobs, you must get your wife, you must get everything, children properly done, everything should be done by Sahaja Yoga and when this commitment will start, I am sure Sahaja Yoga will spread like anything. Even falsehood when people are committed like you see all the religion, every religion they did that and how much it has spread, of course Sahaja Yoga is bless, blissful, bless you all the time, it gives you very long row to hang you sometimes, one must know the blessing that kind also.

So one has to be very very alert that God has chosen us for a very special work and we have to be fully committed to Sahaja Yoga.

All those who were wise will take this to understand that life is only work this otherwise is useless, is good for nothing it has no meaning and this has to come first from the leaders and then from others complete commitment to Sahaja Yoga. It doesn't mean that you to give up anything, for My thing you don't have to do it but for your own sake, for your own betterment, you have to do it. I hope next time when you come to India you will be coming better prepared for commitments.

Is not only money, is not only your talking about it saying about it writing about it, but it is through your own being it should have it, you all should have become source of energy that I want to emit all over the world that light which is going to enlightened, no doubt the artificially going to work it out, but complete genuineness within it, look at Sikhs they had nobody, they didn't have mother to alter.

Gñyāneśhwara's life if you be, you will be shock, he didn't have even shoes to walk, he was cheated shows badly because of his father was a Sannyāsī and was married so they said that these children of Sannyāsī, they had no food to eat and they have to walk for miles together barefoot, they had no blessing of mother on them, this spit of that they kept to Sahaja Yoga, they kept their blessing one big modern because of their Chit that state, know all this for your good for your benevolence that you get all your blessings, that doesn't mean that you should meet, that you should not progress, one has to progress higher and higher, one has to decide the commitment. I committed to Sahaja Yoga that is what you have to be committed.

May God bless you.

[Shri Mataji remarks that lawyers and judges get their realisation more easily because of their pure intelligence.] Judges often suffer from it [left Viśhuddhi] because of their conscience. It constantly pricks them, “Have I delivered a fair judgment?" [Asks a judge to repeat:] `Mother you are the judge of all the judges.'

Contents: 1987-01-14 Makarsankranti Pūjā (English+Marathi), Mr. Dhumal's House, Rahuri, Maharashtra, India

[Shri Mataji talks in English:] Today is the day where we celebrate the change of the axis of the Sun and that He moves towards the tropic of cancer. Tropic of cancer is the one which represents the motherhood, the motherhood of the earth.

This tropic of Cancer has passed through quite a big area of land while the tropic of Capricorn has not. And the area through which it has passed it has created different beautiful manifestation of the motherhood qualities on this earth. We celebrate this change because the Sun has now moved into the new dimension so that all over the world there will be the warmth of the Sun.

Warmth of the Sun represents the warmth of God's love. This is the reason why we celebrate this festival by giving you some sort of a sweet made out of sesame seeds. Sesame seeds are given because they are also heat giving and now as we are coming from the cold, we come to the hot season in a way, hotter season, so to prepare you with that warmth of the Sun these special things are made out of the seed of sesame to represent the oncoming warmth and the warm of the sun.

Though in India the heat is too much, still people are waiting for this time to come in and they celebrate it with such a warm heart. At this time it is said that they give you this sesame seed and the sugar to eat, but now you must speak in a sweet manner, `god godbola' means you must speak in the sweet manner.

Speaking in the sweet manner is very important.

Some people think it is smart to speak in a rude manner or is very intelligent to shout on people, but no one likes this kind of a personality. You may be intelligent, you may be very sharp or smart, maybe on a television people may like to see you, but not as companions, as friends.

To speak in a very sweet manner is a sign of good breeding, good culture and fear of God. Those who fear God will never speak rudely to another person, because in another person also the same Spirit is shining and why should we be sharp or angry with another person who is created by God Almighty as we are created.

So this loving, beautiful relationship that we have with each other, after Sahaja Yoga especially, let us express in talking to each other sweetly. There are so many ways by which we could be sweet. There are little, little things if you do, you can create lot of sweetness, but you need not a sharp tongue, but a sharp memory. I try these things many a times.

Once one of the Sahaja Yogi, who is a very good Sahaja Yogi and an active Sahaja Yogi, was going in the car with Me and his knife was stolen by the driver or somebody and he got very angry with the driver. I said, “Forget it, you see he is an poor man, so he has taken it away, doesn't matter, just forget it." He says, “No, it was because it's a present to me from somebody who was in Switzerland and it's a Swiss knife which I was keeping with me.

So I feel sorry that I have lost it." When I went to Switzerland I bought that kind of a same knife for him. When I came, when I gave him, he didn't have words to say anything. He said, “Mother, how did You remember? After such a long time how did you manage to get this knife?" I said, “I have a very good memory." That's the trouble with Me.

The memory is so good that sometimes, I just don't know, I may embarrass some people with My memory. It is that good, I don't forget anything whatsoever. I, of course, forget all the bad things, because no use remembering bad things, no use thinking of them. Because of forgiveness you can always forget the bad things.

And if you remember the good things your joy becomes multiplied. If you try to remember something bad then your joy goes down. Every time you see a person try to remember what good that person has done to you. What good that person has. If you have memory for good things you will have a very nice time.

Now today is the day when you are all leaving India.

Some of you will be leaving day after tomorrow.

Whatever it is, I have to tell you one thing, that whatever was possible has been done here for you people, to give you joy and happiness. Now when you are going back, try to remember all that was said to you.

All that was nice. How people praised you. How they loved you. How they were kind to you. How you met some nice people. What nice experiences you had.

But don't brood over things which are worthless. All right, somebody must have said something harsh to you or you might have said something harsh to someone, just forget it. Try to understand that you are spoiling your chances of enjoying life. Nobody is hurt by that so try to be extremely happy that you have met so many people, that you have had weddings, that you have seen so many weddings, we have had a nice time and every bit of it was full of joyous vibrations.

Of course, today some of you would be a little unhappy, I can understand that, because your spouses are leaving, somebody's husbands are going away or somebody's wives are going away.

So I can see some of them are looking rather miserable about it. But that's a good thing because it is out of love and out of attraction for each other, for enjoying the company of each other. That's suggestive of something very good to Me. But still I would say that, after all, you are going to meet each other and remember all the good things that you have said to each other, you have enjoyed with each other and try to keep happy.

Because these days will pass very fast.

In Sahaja Yoga you just forget time, everything, the time passes so fast and all these things will pass over and you will be again united with your husbands or wives, whatever may be the case.

So there is nothing to feel very sad about all these things and to keep smiling and laughing, so when they are departing also, they should not feel, see your last face full of tears but, but remember the face of assurance and courage, that the hope is there, we are going to meet very soon and there is nothing to feel very sad about it.

Today is the day to make joy and to enjoy everything and to feel the blessings of God all around us.

The Sun has come back in His own glory and we have to wish Him all success in the coming year, because in this part of Maharashtra as you know there has been no rain. There have been problems with them and we have to wish Him success so that He can bring forth the rain and all that is needed out of this solar energy that we have in this country.

And you have to be beaming like the Sun when you go back to your countries. That your countries are not so hot as ours are, neither you have that much of warmth there and you can find that why people are so warm and so much loving: because we have the Sun with us. Now you carry the Sun with you and you give them love and affection and warmth and let them feel that the Sun has been brought from India by you.

Whenever I have travelled anywhere, in any country, the Sun used to be there very bright, so they said that, there is a saying that, when the Indians travel they carry the Sun with them. Of course you can't carry the Sun in your pockets but we must be carrying it in our hearts, the Sun. That must be the reason that's why the Sun was shining so well and everybody came out with their good dresses and everything, were enjoying.

So this is what it is, that you have to carry the Sun with you speaking sweetly today and forever to each other to be friendly, to be helpful, to be kind because you are yogis, you are not ordinary people.

You are yogis you represent that category of people who are known for their righteousness, for their goodness and for their compassion and love.

So I wish you all best of luck. Enjoy your journeys, enjoy everything and pass this joy that you have achieved here, to other people, to other Sahaj Yogis and to other people who are not even Sahaja Yogis.

May God bless you with that.

[Shri Mataji talks in Marathi:] Today is an auspicious day and on this day we give sesame seeds to others and ask them to talk sweetly.

We tell others but it would be better if we tell it to ourselves also because it is easier to tell others to talk sweetly but: “I'll talk harshly." With this habit of ours... [UNCLEAR]... we have created wrong ideas about ourselves. We do not have any idea of the blessings that God has bestowed upon us. God has given such a lot of blessings to us in this country.

But in this country people do not care much for cleanliness. In this country there are different types of germs and parasites. I feel that we have all the parasites of the whole world in this country. We even have parasites which cannot be found anywhere else in the world. If these parasites go to the other countries they will die. Because of the cold they cannot survive. Due to the sun, there are so many parasites in this country.

Once a scientist asked Me, “How is it possible to remain alive with so many parasites present in your country?" I replied that “In this country, the people are not only alive but live with joy and happiness, with a lot of bliss and happiness." The reason for this is the sun. The sun has taught us to keep our homes open and also open our hearts.

In England, if you have to go out somewhere then you have to spend at least fifteen minutes just to put on the right clothes. It's as if you are wearing a shield before going out, otherwise you might catch a cold and affect your head. This is the situation there. Today you are sitting here in the open but we cannot sit like this in England or in any other Western country. Because of the weather these countries have become very cold.

Even in our country there are areas [cities], for example, if you go to cities like Bhowali or the other side of Nainital and Dehradun and very close to the Himālayas, then you can find the cold weather as in the other countries. There, it is also cold like in England and America. But in these cold countries not even birds or insects can survive. There are a lot of forests with beautiful flowers in them. They call it a valley of flowers. There are so many beautiful flowers, as if it is a paradise on earth, but this feeling is only for a moment. It is so cold there that we cannot even open our eyes to see that beautiful place. We have to wear spectacles otherwise our eyes are hurt, because of the cold.

But in spite of the cold, those countries have progressed so much. They have fought against the nature and the cold climate and strengthened their countries. In spite of having a lot of sun, we have not been able to exploit its advantages. We can also produce solar energy. If we use the solar energy we will never have a dearth of [electrical] energy. Even the cars can run on solar energy. But the attention of the politicians here in India is elsewhere and due to this fact, we cannot exploit the advantages from the sun but suffer from it. If we do not go to the extremes then we can do a lot of work.

The main thing which we can learn from the sun is its capacity of giving. It always gives. It does not take anything but always gives. Due to this tremendous giving power of the sun we can have rain, we can have crops and living beings. If we did not have the sun then we would not have anything. It is due to the giving power of love of the sun only, that we have been able to reach this state. Thus what we have to learn from the sun is that we should also develop the power of giving. If we look around us we will find people who will always think, `How I can save money and keep it for myself?' Even if I give money for some programs, some people still think how they can save money from that also. Even if I have given them some money to spend they always have a tendency to save money from everything.

Why? Because there is a tendency to hold on to something. If someone goes to the market and they find that prices have risen and if we ask, “Why?" they reply that “Because the others have increased the prices, that's why I also increase the price." If the prices [cost] of the commodities are not rising then why do they raise the [selling] price? They have always a tendency to suck the energy of others.

Even if I want to make a small ceremony for a festive occasion, then others tell Me, “Shri Mataji you will not be able to succeed." When I ask, “Why?" the reply is that people are corrupt and they will eat [grab] money. As I eat the food they eat money, so maybe we will not get along together.

It is such an absurd thing. Those who are responsible for the country's welfare, those who are the administrators and those on whom the power has been bestowed by God, even they do not understand that we have to give. This quality of giving one has to learn from the sun: that we have come [on this earth] to give and not to take. This complete change from within has to be reached with an understanding that we have to give and not to take. We have to have the passion of giving. It's as if when a mother knows that “Today my son is coming” then with passion she thinks, “What can I do for him, what food can I cook for him?" This is the passion which a mother has. Even if she doesn't have the ingredients, she might borrow them from the neighbours and prepare some sweets for you. She always feel that she has not done enough.

Unless and until we have this kind of collective passion from inside and have this kind of feeling about others, no country can progress, neither our own nor other countries. But we always have the urge to take things from others, to plunder from others, to borrow from others or to deceive others.

Because of this urge our children will suffer, we will suffer and we will not be able to achieve anything in this country. In My in-law's village [UNCLEAR]... to build a lake. The government gave them money in thousands for the purpose. But the lake was never built. They said that they had dug a hole to make a lake but then they covered it again since they did not find any water.

But in fact the hole was never dug.

So where did the money go? They sent it to Switzerland [banks].

So the banks will again borrow from Switzerland and send the money again to Switzerland. If the sun acts in this way then we cannot survive even for one day. If he alone eats [consumes] everything, what can we eat? Today we are celebrating the Sankranti. Sankranti means a sort of Kranti [revolution] by which we acquire the habit of giving. Everybody says that we should have the habit of giving but most of the people believe in donating something to the priest. Also, many people preach the art of giving just to fill their own pockets. This doesn't have any meaning. There is always a question of whom to give and why to give.

In fact, in all liberty and freedom, we should see for ourselves what we are giving for our country, for our brothers and sisters and our neighbours. We should not be selfish, but give with all our heart so that we get all the joy of giving. When we give with all our heart, the joy that we get cannot be compared with any other joy.

If we want to feel this kind of joy only, then we should celebrate the Sankranti today. Our nature should become like the sun. Whatever he is doing, he doesn't have the feeling that he is doing something.

He is doing everything in akarma [without the feeling of doing anything] and constantly burning himself and giving you joy, light, the essence of living and he nourishes you.

We see the sun every day and many people do namas-kār also, but we only do namas-kār without imbibing his qualities of giving.

I told you a very small thing: that every Sahaja Yogi should plant a banyan tree in his garden. Why do we have to take money from the government for this purpose? Just to plant a tree and put a fence around that tree doesn't need much money. Even to smoke bidi [tobacco] costs more.

Try to do this small thing so that others should see that you are at least doing something. In spite of this we always think how we can get money from others, how we can plunder others and how we can save money at others cost.

Because of these tendencies within us, our country can never progress.

We did not have these tendencies before in people, in the earlier days. I can tell you that when I was young I saw people who believed only in giving and never in taking. I saw them giving only, they did not like taking. Even the parents did not like it if the children took something from others and would tell them to return it. I still remember in My father's house they had made some chairs and also an umbrella, out of silver. Everybody asked, “Why did you make these out of silver?" So the reply was, “When we have marriage ceremonies, instead of borrowing or hiring them, it would be better that we have them with us once and for all, because if we had to hire then sometimes we did not get them in time because the earlier person who had borrowed had not returned them. And sometimes these umbrellas were lost because someone had never returned them and so they got lost." So what I wanted to say is that if we have money, we should invest it into something collective. If you want to construct a badminton court, then in that court everybody should be able to come and play and we should not say that only my children should play in that court.

If somebody buys a car, we should be able to take all the children to school.

Thus we should buy a big car so that all the children can be taken to school.

This habit of being collective and being useful to everybody, one should learn from the sun. And today is a special day when we can learn this thing from the sun. And we should take a vow that `I'll do something which is collective.' I do not understand how people can eat without caring for the common public. You do not even worry about your neighbours and do not do anything for the common people. I told you a very small thing is to plant a tree. We have got so many yogis in Maharashtra, even if each one plants one tree and looks after it, this will be certainly helpful to everybody.

Thus I request all of you to do something collective and it will be useful to everybody. But one should never think how much will I earn from it and make money out of it. It should not happen like the way we give money to the priest. One should open his heart and lovingly do something for the collective and feel the joy out of it. One should make it a habit.

I do not want to say that others should have everything for free. I never said that you do something for free for the people who have come from abroad. If you look at them you will see that they have brought so many things for you from abroad to give you as presents. Of course I have contributed a lot. But they have also brought a lot of things of their own. When I saw the presents here, I thought that they were the presents which I had bought in Rome for you but then they told Me that these were the presents which they bought themselves and they had not brought My presents. They felt such a lot of joy to bring so many things for you. They do not even know in Italy to whom these presents were to be given but they do not bother. They leave it to Me to give them to the Sahaja Yogis here in India.

But in India we have a tendency to think only about our children and about our mother. Then the mother comes walking, limping on one leg. Then you start saying that `My mother did not get a high quality sarī.' Since I do not have one I give her a simple sarī. This is the tendency here. But with the people from abroad it is just the opposite. When they came here they came with so many presents it seems they brought two tons of presents from abroad. Even My hands starting paining while giving these two tons of presents.

What I want to say is that they do not expect anything from you. But your behaviour should be such as to show an example for them. And you should show them that you are in no way inferior to them, `We are here really to serve you, to welcome you, whatever is possible from our side we do not hesitate to do.' It doesn't cost any money nor any hard work. The only thing is that we should change our outlook.

If even after coming in Sahaja Yoga we are not able to change our nature in this manner then I do not feel that we can change the entire humanity with Sahaja Yoga. The biggest quality in us is to give to others. And this quality we should imbibe within us.

In Sahaja Yoga your Kuṇḍalinī is awakened and you realise your spirit but the essence of spirit is like that of the sun and this essence is of giving. If you have seen one photograph of Mine, there is the sun shining on My heart; in fact there is a sun in My heart and because of this I never feel that I should take something from them or to plunder anybody. I do not understand from which part of your head this idea of plundering them comes from. This is a very strange behaviour. Sahaja Yogis should not think in this way but on the contrary every day we must think what we can give or do for others.

In Rahuri itself I have started an organization whose name is `Sahaj Stree Sudhar' or `Samajsudhar' [association for the welfare of women]. Through Life Eternal Trust we cannot use the money for the welfare of the women thus we had to create this organization. This organization has been registered and people from Canada and elsewhere are ready to donate to it but here I do not find anybody to work for this organization.

If the local women take it upon themselves to work for this organization only then it will succeed. We have acquired land and all the facilities but we do not find time to devote for this organization.

So how can we go to this place? But one should remember that people are coming from abroad with the money to donate for your organization. They have brought fourteen machines for the women here. You can see women loitering about without doing anything. You can ask them to work so that they can earn something out of it. And they can prosper. At least these things we should try to think about. Instead of that we always think about ourselves.

So the persons who are in Sahaja Yoga should know that this selfish attitude is not accepted in Sahaja Yoga. We should think in terms of global advantage. The lives (Vibhouti) of saint are for the salvation of the world. And also for the salvation of saint lives, this world exists. Thus the saints will be blessed by this attitude... [vibhouti means Ashes with which Shiva is decorated].

Now you have become saints you should behave like saints and the first quality of a saint is giving. You have never heard of a saint plundering anybody. If a saint thinks of cheating he does not remain a saint.

Thus from our side we should always think how much we can give and what we can give, how much love we can give. And how many people we can help. All our attention should be for this purpose.

Nowadays there are welfare associations just for election purposes. We should not create any such type of welfare association. But we should create associations in which we can work selflessly and our love should be nirvajya [selfless] and we should not expect anything in return.

And there are no limits for our love, it is an endless love. When we have this kind of love automatically we will know what is to be done. The improvements should be done gradually and every Sahaja Yogi should contribute to this collective welfare.

We should try to devote our time for this purpose and work hard to achieve our goals. It should not happen that `Shri Mataji has come, She gives a talk and when She goes everything is finished.' These people [from abroad] have done a lot. They have started schools and social welfare. We should also start something in this manner.

Sahaja Yoga should not become an association of people who have realised the spirit and are swimming in the joy but are lazy lumps. It should not happen this way. We should try to see how we can help others.

We should open our eyes to look around us with love and try to see how we can help others.

Still I have not been able to move to India. Once I come back to India you will see that I will make everyone work. Thus it is advisable to start working before I come.

Sahaja Yoga is not meant only for sitting and meditating. For meditating why do you need Sahaja Yoga? You can go the Himālayas. If you want to stay here and be in Sahaja Yoga then the common people should be helped by Sahaja Yoga. But Sahaja Yoga should not become like these modern welfare organizations. We should try to achieve our goals with full sincerity and only then we can say that we have established Sahaja Yoga.

Now I heard a lot of praise for Me. I heard the songs and they gave Me a lot of Joy and satisfaction that people have recognized Me. But you should remember one thing, you should work in order to know yourself because you cannot see yourself in the mirror.

You should be able to see what you have achieved, like in the earlier days you used to look after your household, your children. In the same manner, if you are not able to work for the collective, then in My opinion, you have not achieved anything through Sahaja Yoga. You have remained where you were, you have not progressed at all.

Next year when I come, you should be able to tell Me how many banyan trees you have planted.

Secondly, you should be able to tell Me what collective or social work you have done. If you try to look around you will definitely be able to see some collective work which you can do and you should do. I'm sure you will be able to do it very well.

It doesn't need any money, only you have to decide within your heart. When I started Sahaja Yoga, at that time I'd given realisation to one lady only and I started without any money. I did not have support from anybody but even then I started Sahaja Yoga. But because of honesty of the work and the consistency, it has spread so much. Now each one of you, man or woman, you have the responsibility that when you will introduce Sahaja Yoga to the general public, you will be able to give them some proof of the general well-being. You need not break any law for this. You need not do anything wrong nor need you do anything unlawful. In a very simple way if you just open your eyes you will be able to see what you can do for the general welfare of the people, how you can help the well-being of the people. And I'm here to give you all the strength and energy to do this work. We do not need any vote nor any money or anything else. You should give you Me a promise that without expecting anything in return you will start working for the welfare of the people.

Sometimes, it might so happen that when people start some welfare work they go round asking for funds. This is wrong. We should not ask for money in the beginning. First you should start some work which does not need money. Everyone feels that without money we cannot do anything. You have got the powers so why do you need money? If somebody is sick or not well in your neighbourhood then you can go and visit him and try to soothe that person.

Instead of that, what I see is that you bring the sick person to Me. The other day, someone brought an injured person to Me. He had a broken arm. A Sahaja Yogi could have treated him in two minutes and made him well but instead of that, they brought him to Me and that too right in the middle of a Public Program and asked Me to treat his arm. You are so many and all the powers are flowing through your hands but still you do not use them. If you are not able to treat even these small ailments what is the use of you being a Sahaja Yogi? Someone says, “My mother is sick, my father has broken his leg." Instead of bringing them to Me you can easily treat them. You do have the powers, try to use them.

Thus you should be able to help the people without expecting anything in return and with full Joy.

You will be able to feel a lot of joy when you have the feeling that you do not do anything but you are just an instrument of God and you are living in this world, in this country and you are giving something special to them. It is such a big thing, such a big understanding.

With such a feeling, if all of you decide to work, then, you will be able to do something for others and other people will see what Sahaja Yoga is. Now people think what is Sahaja Yoga, just everybody meditating together and that's all. Even if there is some problem in the country Sahaja Yogis are just sitting in meditation. One man came and told Me, “My wife doesn't cook." I asked, “Why?" He said, “She just meditates." So I said, “Is it so? But who told her that?" First she should cook, for meditation even five minutes are sufficient. I have given you the power and the energy to cook well.

Thus one should have the confidence that you are capable of work. I am giving you the powers, you can assimilate them. If you just meditate every day it is not sufficient. You have to see what well-being you are giving to the others. But instead of that, you always think about your own well-being and come and ask Me to treat your son, your father, your mother, or ask that you should get a good job. And you want that I should also come to your house to eat, do this, do that. This way, you try to impose your will upon Me but about you, what can you do? You should always remember that you have to do something.

“I will show Shri Mataji what I'm capable of, to do something special." We should decide this once and for all. I have an image in front of My eyes as Śhrī Gñyāneśhwara has said “Bolte Piyushanche Sagar" [Words or sayings are like the oceans of nectar]. Where is it? I want to see it.

Thus on this auspicious day I give you all My sweet blessings that you will help everyone and look after their well-being and you will treat everyone with love and you will talk sweetly, full of love.

M. Dhumal: Everybody should put hands like this to give a promise to Shri Mataji. Shri Mataji, we will keep ourselves bound by the promise to your today's blessings [sayings also] and your love. Keep the hands one minute and give the promise to Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: He is saying you should put your hands like this to say that we are bound by Mother's words. And we'll try to do good to others and we'll be very kind to each other.

M. Dhumal: On this auspicious Sankranti day, everyone should by heart give promise to Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: I've been telling them that we have to be collective not among only Sahaja Yogis but with others also. We should see what's around us, what's wrong where, how we can help.

We have many social obligations which we'll have to fulfil. Now you have reached the stage where you can do that without forming any social organization which collects money and have seats and things, that kind of a nonsense. But you can see around yourself who are the needy, who you can help. And that is how you can really give a very positive form to Sahaja Yoga.

James, can you come here? And Guido.

One but one all the leaders can come and pour water on My feet. We can all come [UNCLEAR] here.

There's no room here, but one by one they can come.

I'll be giving this water to all of you, all the leaders and also Charanamṛut you can take it. This water is very good for all diseases of the Mūlādhāra Chakra.

Contents: 1987-01-14 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, I Know Everything, Rahuri, Maharashtra, India

Then you won’t feel the strain, because going back I know what it is to travel.

So how was the experience here were you happy? and all the married couples are they happy, you look so nice and so beautiful, now I've given quite a big lecture this morning I think and I didn't talk much about it, but we have to develop personality that's important. That personality which is of course inside, you are growing very much, but in relationship with that personality, you have to develop a personality which is, dignified, which is impressive, which makes feel, other's happy, because from you they will judge, if you are frivolous and if you are cheapish type, even because of may be your age whatever it is, still people will start thinking that something wrong with these people.

So we have to develop personality, a personality which is inside us, is that of your spirit and that is so dignified, so beautiful and so natural, but naturalness never means frivolity or stupidity it doesn't means that.

Naturally a human being, even an animal is sensible thing, so human beings are naturally very sensible, very loving, happy, joyous and good creation of God, but it is not yet known to Sahaja Yogi's that your personality impresses others much more than your talk about Sahaja Yoga. Like Dhumal went a office of collector and the way he was talking, the way he was handling, the way he was so natural and so good and kind, the people in the collector's office asked him who is your Guru, how you are talking like this, how do you know application so well, how can you solve the problems like this and he said I have no Guru but one Mother only, they said everyone has Mother. He said. There's a special Mother I have got and the whole thing worked out so well that in that collector's office now. Poor collector doesn't know how to stand against Me because everybody is with Me, so that is very important, what sort of personality you are, some of you people look as you are blasted with worries, troubles on your head, as if something terrible has happened and some of you look has if you are not bothered about anything in the world. You are not aware of what is happening in the world, or that you have to do something about it, so to be responsible to be conscious of yourself. Yesterday Shivaji's lecture was about his own son, he got dejected and he felt depressed and he felt that he has not been able to look after his family people, to put them right and that he failed them and then again he came out and he said no that's not the thing. I am here to do a job and my son whatever he has done, he's done because he's a frivolous person. He is not the one who is of my time, I'm different type of a person, I'm the one who tried always to become a saviour for the Marathas here and how can I give up, how can I forget it, for one son of Mine if he has given up doesn't matter, so he came up on his own style, he saw for himself, sometime as I told you I also feel little dejected sometimes too, now because I love you so much and when I find there something very wrong with the people who am I love so much, I Get upset, but then then again start thinking. Oh no. I am Ādi Shakti, I can't be upset. I can not give up just I can't give up, I have to continue, I have to love them, I have to correct them, I have to look after them and I have to go ahead with it, that's keeps you alright, that's what you have to always suggest yourself I'm Sahaja Yogini, I'm Sahaja Yogi how can I feel depressed about it, how can I behave like this, always if you remember you are a Yogi, you are a special type of a person, you are very, very, rare, compared to the population of this world. How many we are very few, very rare, very rare species of people and very rare type of people, we have to be very proud of ourselves and we have to always be very aware that we are this and we are this and we have to be this and we have to be different.

We shouldn't worry about people who are not like us, pity them, their fate is sleeping somewhere, something has gone wrong with their fate, they didn't do good work in their last life perhaps, may be that they are not yet blessed but they are after all, can be they are our relations and they are connected people doesn't matter. We have to lift them up, somebody has to stand up like Shivaji stood up all his family people were funny, he stood up, he said no I have to do it. In the same way one should not get dissolved or disturbed by anything that's happening around. You have to dissolve other people, you are not to get dissolved into them, this is what it is and that can come with full confidence in yourself, in Sahaja Yoga and in the love of your Mother.

May God bless you! Today I would like to announce one thing that I have thought of having two senior Sahaja Yogi leaders like James and Guido, to be selected among us spontaneously, not to any election or anything, to be consulted for anything that you want to be done, instead of consulting Me because sometimes it happens that I'm not available, sometimes may be that you don't feel like talking to Me about certain things.

So these two persons are there whom you can always contact, ask their advice and they are in charge about all the affairs of the leaders and the people who are around them and then I can consult them, I can talk to them, they can save out whatever they don't want to tell Me and tell Me whatever is to be told to Me and what argue the part they want to know, though I know everything. Even if you don't tell Me anything, even if you do it behind seven curtains, of seven countries I know everything. I must say, I just know and how do I know that I can't tell you and I think if you love someone you know everything about that person, but I know about Sahaja Yoga and I know what's happening where. Nobody should ever believe that somebody told Me something against someone, or things like that. If no one can tell Me, you see they might tell Me, but I don't listen, they are free to tell Me but I know what it is. I know much more then he knows, I'll give an example, there was an one fellow who was very active and he was trying to help us to have some programs in the nearby the village. I said that's a good idea and some of the Sahaja Yogis, local Sahaja Yogis felt that Mother don't know about this fellow better go and tell him.

So they came to Me with very serious faces all of them, five or six of them drove on motor cycles came all the way to that guest house and sat down around it very seriously. Said Mother do you know this fellow is a politician he will play around with you and he will try to trouble, I said “really?" they said, “Yes” they were very seriously and they said now all the wrong things about that fellow you know that he is capable of a debacle, or he may try to create a problem for Sahaja Yoga, I said that's all you know? I said alright I'll tell you what I know about, that this man has a wife, who is not his wife he has eloped with that lady and the child he has got from her, that's why he is staying there, he is of this caste and his wife is of another caste, all those thing they were just looking. I said have you got more to tell Me they took their motor cycles and ran away.

So you are not to be afraid of that if somebody is supposed to be a very bad man, or something evil, or any thing like, they are like frogs for Me just like a manage them without any difficulty. I just try to do the things in a way that looks human and simple, but I am quite complicated and I can manage thing so well, you won't even know how I manage, so under these circumstances you must give up all fears that anybody can put something into My head and tell Me against somebody, or that My mind can be spoiled against somebody, nothing of the kind, have faith in Me, in the system. Now some of you might be wanting, somebody might be wanting, say to marry an Indian or somebody might be wanting to marry an American, whatever was wanting may be. But on vibrations I have judged your couples and I thought this should work out well, but you must cooperative with Me, from the very beginning if you start finding faults with another person for small small things, then you are not cooperative, of course nobody is made to order you see, that now this is one person `A', so another is made to order for `B'.

Now the eight things that other person should make to order, according to the needs of `A' and the `B' things that the `A' should make to order for the person that is `B'.

So `A' and `B' have two thoughts about each other, one wants this kind and another wants that kind, now both are wanting that, that person himself is important and another person has to be complementary, you could be, you could be, if you understand that there's nothing basically wrong between Sahaja Yogi's basically alright. There could be little bit differences, there could be little bit disparities, something could be there, has to be. After all God has created this universe with variety to create joy and happiness, supposing if you see only your image in the mirror all the time, not your wife and then you say what is this Mother has married me to myself or what? so that the woman has to be different, the man has to be different, some chance of knowing each other, otherwise if you are exactly replica of yourself you are married, you say I've had enough of it now.

So one has to agree and accept with joy, happiness and also with curiosity, to know why Mother has married her to me, there must be something, this is how you can make your life much more interesting and happy, you have to learn, you have to learn, you have to see things, seeing is the point, you must see why this has come up, but immediately as soon as you are married you pounce upon each other and try to find faults with each other, that person is like this, that person like this, what is about yourself you see and another person, if you are they tell you the same defect you have, so this habit of giving certificate another to another person is not very good because there's no end to it, it's only your mind playing around with you, befouling you. There's nothing to certify other, now think about Me, if I thought like this, first of all I never have come to this earth, because human being you know they have horns, they have funny, funny things with them you see to come among them you don't know where you will land, it's not an easy thing to be with human being you know they're quite funny stuffs, easy to be with dogs, animals you know, where they stand because they have definite temperaments you know, you know the dog will bark, but a human being will bark and shout and kick like a donkey and do anything, because it has passed through many lives of these animals, It has all acquired all the bad qualities, as well as good qualities of those animals, is a bundle of all these things and you don't know what is the dominant on one person, what is dominant on another, so not easy thing, but I just thought out of curiosity, let's have a look, may be I might be able to manage and it has worked. In the same fashion if you can look at your married life, I think you can do well don't take that seriously because my wife's hair like this, because she was not wearing her spectacles properly or she was clumsy in this way isn't it, nothing so great, human being is a much bigger thing then all these small little things and that's how if you can look at other people with that kind of graciousness with that feeling of companionship, we'll all enjoy each other and also enjoy your wives or your husband whatever may be the case, alright.

So now we have appointed two person as the leaders, we should say but I will not call international leaders all that I don't know what's goes wrong with that, so now they are to be consulted, then I would say that Engelbert can now take to studies and he has to really study very hard and we will appoint Marcus as the leader for Austria. Anybody as who wants to give up the leadership just now can suggest Now, who thinks that it is too much because like Engelbert's case he Has to work very hard, he has to study now, he has to devote his Time and he should not diverted from his work in the same way if...

Anybody feels that way time comes know and say that and we can Manage, which your marriage, be courageous there's nothing to worry, It's an adventure, it's an adventure as you see, if you take adventure, if you take. I will tell you easiest adventure is to get Married easiest. You don't have to climb a mountain, you don't have To cross a river, you don't have even climb a tree, it is so simple as that.

May God bless you!

[A professor from the Agriculture University enquires how Shri Mataji's family took to Christianity.] My grandfather's sister was widowed at the early age of 20. My grandfather was anxious to get her remarried, but the orthodox Hindu community prohibited widow remarriage. Thus to remarry his sister he embraced Christianity.

[A local politician offers to restore two acres of her ancestral land that his forefathers had encroached.] Local Sahaja Yogis [dissuade]: Mother we have come to warn you about him. You have to be careful.

He is a politician.

Shri Mataji [closes her eyes and recedes within Her Divinity; after five minutes, She opens Her eyes:] Alright. That's all you know about him? Now, I will tell you about him. This man has not married his wife. She is the wife of somebody else and he has eloped with this woman. This lady was raped by him and that is how he has got this child.

Local Sahaja Yogis: Mother, how do you know? Shri Mataji [smiling]: First, you go and find out whatever I am saying is true or not.

Local Sahaja Yogis [on return a few hours later:] Mother, it is surprising that what you said was the truth.

Shri Mataji: On vibrations you can know everything. People think that when I say something about someone, it is because I received a report against him. But if I am the source of all the vibrations, what is there for Me to get reported? Why should anybody report to Me? If they want to report they may, but I know exactly the situation.

Question: How?

Shri Mataji: When I see a person, I see his Kuṇḍalinī and I know who he is.

Question: But Shri Mataji, there are thousands of Sahaja Yogis.

Shri Mataji: There can be thousands of Kuṇḍalinīs, but I know who is who, because I love them.

Contents: 1987-01-16 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Farewell, Astgaon, Maharashtra, India

[Applause.] I hope you enjoyed your stay in India and that you have been able to get out of many things that you were trying to do it. As they said in the song about [UNCLEAR Minzu Zawela], in the same way we have problems which must be corrected by ourselves. Instead of correcting in others, if we correct ourselves, we can go very fast. I am sure it will work out for all of you very well and that all of you will be able to one, each person can establish an Ashram. But don't get involved into small things! First of all correct yourself, become a great Yogi and then involve yourself into higher things, not into mundane lower things. That's all, it's very simple. You don't have to go to Himālayas, you don't have to do anything, you don't have to give up anything, nobody should give up jobs. I don't want anybody to give up jobs, or to give up their position, or their country, nothing of that. There is no need at all, wherever you are you can work it out and wherever you are you can achieve it. Especially for married people those who have to, now joined their spouses, I wish them all the best for their very happy and prosperous married life and I hope you will not let Me down, for your own individual wimps, don't try to make a fuss.

These are all individualistic thing, not collective things, so please try to have a collective idea. What will I do if I behave like this? What harm I will do to collective, if I behave like this? That is very important and to see for yourself, just to see for yourself, is it wrong? My own idea is that India is doing good to you, but you are doing good to India as well, very much. And that doing, if we are doing good to India, much more gradually [UNCLEAR as/add...] to yourself, because Indians don't have the capacity to understand their own values. In your reflection only We can [UNCLEAR proof] what India has and what your character and [UNCLEAR].

So in both ways it helps a lot.

I shouldn't say sorry for what inconveniences you have had, because you won't like Me to say that, but only thing, a Mother feels the concern, that the children should have any problems [UNCLEAR acquiring to their needs]. Next time I am sure it will be better that way. [Laughs.] I assure next time you will not have so many places to go to. I will have beautiful places selected for you where you may be able to settle down. Maybe We may have permanent places very soon established so that our expenses will also go down and We can do much better work and for long duration and We may not have to fix the two time like one [UNCLEAR mud/mug]. [Laughter and applause.] Suddenly you will find many ashrams will come up and you can go and stay there and enjoy yourself and teach other people Sahaja Yoga, when-ever you have time.

So you are all-ready Gurus, you have to master the complete principal of Sahaja Yoga. Every angle, every Vidyā you must know. It's not only talking that helps, never. A person who can only talk doesn't impress people. The one who can do the job, the one who can deliver the [UNCLEAR bhoots/boons]. That's very important, so please try also to build within you the power to give realisation to others and also to talk to others about Sahaja Yoga.

I saw this tour has made you quite capable and has matured you very much. You must achieve your maturity in those tours and should express in their own liv[es]... in your own lives and also in the Sahaja Life. Collectivity is very important, in every Nation, in every town people should arrange some sort of picnics or some sort of seminars, any kind of a collective happening. Individualistic people should be brought in, they should all work together and make it a point that they achieve collective sense, enjoyment of the collective should be developed. As soon as that happens you start rising much faster with the collective force.

I am sorry that I have to leave you now and that I hope to see you very soon, but still the bang is there [UNCLEAR and I feel] something is [UNCLEAR very/fading...] out of your [UNCLEAR]. I'll be back in London, I think in April, I don't know when I will be. I have no Ideas of My program. Whatever it is, you will know about Michael. If you need anything you can always write to Me, or telephone to Rajesh and he telephones to Me.

Anything that has happened here, I [UNCLEAR] of inconveniences to [UNCLEAR] you, you should forgive other Sahaja Yogis, they are also your brothers and sisters. I hope you will enjoy your journey back and be happy. Don't get involved too much into other things. Keep yourself very much, your attention on to the experiences here and keep that hight, maintain the hight within yourself.

May God bless you!

Sahaja Yogi: [UNCLEAR May] I say a few words? Guido: On behalf of all of us, Your children, Shri Mataji, we would like to thank You for having organizing this wonderful tour and invited us. If Sahaja Yoga is a learning process, India is the University for us. [All laugh and applaud.] We have learned so much and felt and enjoyed, most of all and now we feel to just go back and spread whatever we have achieved. And we like to thank also Mister Dhumal and all the Sahaja Yogis of India for their love and care. Jay Shri Mataji! All: Jay Shri Mataji!

Sahaja Yogi: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Now this is the problem is, that he has got this importance for you and also the water.

You can take it with you, but it has to go into the fridges and I don't know how you will manage it, but I think he will be able to find some fridge at Nasik and then in Bombay or maybe it directly will go to the airport. Maybe it can be managed. It should not get bad as far as I understand.

So please take all these things with you, one each. And one each of this and one each of that, I give it to you. And now should I make a [UNCLEAR move...] Myself?

Sahaja Yogi: Param-Chaitanya Mātājī Śhrī Nirmalā Devī ki! All: Jay! Another Sahaja Yogi: Bolo Jagat Mātā Śhrī Nirmalā Devī ki! All: Jay! [Applause.]

Shri Mataji: Wawa! [Hindi.] What's that? [Laughter.]

Sahaja Yogi: [UNCLEAR from Peru it does come].

Shri Mataji: From Peru? That's too much for Me. [Laughter.] Oh! Ah! So beautiful! It's from a special animal, you know that?

Sahaja Yogini: It's an Alpaca, an Alpaca.

Shri Mataji: Ah? What is Alpaca? Ah, ah.

Sahaja Yogini: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Ah! Thank you very much! Thanks! [Applause.] Alpaca. `Al' means `first' and `paca' means `purest'. The purest, Alpaca.

Hm, [UNCLEAR].

Thank you very much! Thank you!

Contents: 1987-01-1x Unpacking Boxes, Pratishthan, Pune, Maharashtra, India

[Boxes containing a treasures of artifacts gifted during Her global travels are unpacked. She never thought of their value but treasured the love behind them.] These are My most precious possessions. They have been gifted by My children. Whether big or small, be very careful while handling them. I don't want anything to be damaged.

[Shri Mataji built special glass cupboards for their safe custody. There were curios, statues, carvings, inlays, china, weavings and embroideries.] See how intricate the embroidery is. We should learn from the Chinese how to do such fine embroidery. It would match My bedroom wall.

[A small clay pot, gifted by a peasant from Ukraine, is given the place of honour in the center of Her drawing room. She fondly shows it to guests. Though there are over seven hundred gift offerings from the last sixteen years, She vividly remembers the occasion and the country which had offered them. When an Italian box is opened, She narrated the miracle behind the purchase of the Chinese vases:] It was a jackpot! I was going to the airport and suddenly I started getting vibrations. I turned to see where the vibrations were coming from and I spotted a shop selling Chinese vases. The shopkeeper was having a sale at twenty-five percent discount, but when I offered to buy the whole shop he gave a forty percent discount. My attention was on China and I was worried about its economy.

So Param-Chaitanya worked it out that I should give vibrations to Chinese handicrafts. I have no desire but the power of your pure desire reflects on Me and Param-Chaitanya works it out.

[Next, as the Venetian porcelain lamps are unpacked, Shri Mataji recollects:] The Sahaja Yogis wanted to offer Me lamps for Diwali but they were frightfully expensive in Rome. On the way to Venice we passed a small town where they were on display. It turned out to be the factory that was supplying to Rome. We bought them from the factory at quarter the price. Again I should say, it is the power of your love that brings these blessings upon you.

[The Divine marvels keep unfolding till three in the morning! Finally, Sudha Auntie brings Her dinner.] [Smiling]: Now you see why I have to build such a large house, to keep your gifts. Now stop giving Me presents otherwise I would have to build another house for them. From now onwards I will not accept any individual presents anymore. There should be only one collective present.

You can love God without seeing him. Like those who never saw Buddha, created such wonders in his glory. They were inspired by the power of love.

Contents: 1987-02-26 and Conversation with Doctor Talwar and other Sahaja Yoga Leaders (Marathi), Shivaratri, Mumbai, India

Sahaja Yoga was known to Me all along. It is a unique knowledge with which I was born. It was not so easy to reveal it and I wanted to find out how to reveal it.

First of all I thought that the seventh Chakra must be opened, which I did, on 5th May 1970. It is a secret in a way. Formerly, the Brahma Chaitanya was avyakta 'unmanifested'. It was not manifested. It was not expressed by itself and so the people who managed to reach Brahma Chaitanya somehow, by attaining `realisation', said, "it was nirākār ka Guṇa" "you are like a drop that gets dissolved in the ocean." No one could say, explain or tell people anything more about it. The great incarnations also who came out of this great Ocean of Brahma Chaitanya, tried their best to share it with the best available followers, which were very few and introduce them to this Brahma Chaitanya. But because the Brahma Chaitanya was not in Avyakta form, these incarnations got dissolved in it.

Like Gñyāneśhwara took his Samādhi. People said that he cannot talk. It has to be experienced.

So very few people got to swallow it. Nobody could actualise the experience by feeling on their fingertips, or feel it on their senses, or on their minds, or even understand it with their intellect.

So it was a big problem. They all tried and prepared a ground for it.

Now I have come as the incarnation of the Brahma Chaitanya as a whole. The sea of the Nirākār has now become a big cloud [Sākar]. It has taken a form. Those who came before were all a part and parcel of it. Now the whole has come. This cloud has rain water. The rain water is nourishing the minds of the people. Gradually they are brought to a level were their Kuṇḍalinīs have risen. They have got their Realisation and now gradually they are feeling everything on their senses, their finger tips. This is the reason why nobody has talked about vibrations so clearly. They managed to talk about Chaitanya Lahari.

This was so because of its Avyakta form. It was only a state. A state to be enjoyed, only in that state with no manifestation in the gross. In that State they went beyond temptations, beyond temper etc. That is proof before us. How they did it, what was this Brahma Chaitanya?, they could not show its Pratyaksha form. What they could show was only through similes or through some parable.

This is what I have achieved: its pratyaksha form. The complete form of the Brahma Chaitanya I have brought from the sea.

So now, I do not allow you to get dissolved in it. I have put it in the form of a big ghata. In that, you are smaller kumbhas. In other words, I have taken you all in My body as small cells, nourishing you, looking after you, cleansing you and working it out. But I am Mahāmāyā.

So I have to work very slowly, gradually and at the right time and right point.

When the seventh Chakra was opened, all the Chakras came to your Sahasrāra and so I could manage all your Chakras and all your deities. Any Deity you ask and you get the vibrations.

So that proves that I am the Brahma Chaitanya.

The Brahma Chaitanya is the Ādi Shakti and Sadāśhiva is also in My heart. But since I am so much humanized, it is not so easy to find it out. If you tell this to modern human beings, they will not understand. It can only be told to Sahaja Yogis because they will understand. To bear this truth is so difficult. When one gets money or position, it is difficult to remain balanced. People become so shaky.

So for them the fact that I encompass all the incarnations is too difficult to bear.

One day I went to Aurangabad, where a boy told Me that Brahma Chaitanya is beyond feeling and non-feeling. He had read about it in some book. I told him it was true, but he should forget about it and just feel it. It was then that I decided to tell about it to a few people. You see, the right time also had to come before I disclosed it. All other religions have so far been segmented and non-integrated. Now the whole integration has come. I can now explain Christ, Mohammad Sahib and others, because they are all part and parcel of the whole, which is Brahma Chaitanya.

Do not talk about Me to the Scientists. Just tell them that this is a Unique Method that has come.

Though it is a little difficult to understand, yet it has happened and we have seen it for ourselves. Like that you tell them. If you talk about Me, they will be shocked. Maximum you can tell them that, `this knowledge was brought out by Shri Mataji Nirmalā Devī, by which the Kuṇḍalinī could be risen. How she has managed it, we do not know. It is probably a secret.' Put the whole thing on Me.

Now you understand? Can you say how does a seed sprout? By putting it in the Mother Earth.

So you say, that by putting everything to Mātājī, our seed has sprouted. It is a living process and we have seen it for ourselves.

So far nobody has been able to give Realisation to others. May be only one or two have given Realisation to others. Most people have achieved it by the process of cleansing. For example Buddha got his Realisation by thorough cleansing. BrahmanChaitanya crawled inside him because he asked for it, genuinely wanted it and prayed for it and was therefore cleansed by it. But again, He went into its state. There was no communication about it thereafter. This is what is in the collective now. This collective working is now happening because this State has started expressing itself.

Supposing you discover electricity and you keep it to yourself and not talk about it to anybody. Then how will anyone know about it? It is not that the great Saints did not want to express it, but there was no communication then. It is just like if someone has no eyes to see, then whom are you going to show to or talk to? There was no one to appreciate and absorb that state at that time.

Those who did achieve realisation, their Sahasrāras got opened, but they got lost in it. The whole experience remained to be individual and not collective. Now that is over. Now it is collective. Everything has to be collective at a point.

Even to reach this point, hard testing of the seekers was done. Ultimately Christ got crucified. See how Mohammad Sahib, Nanak and Tukārām were treated?

They come from Vaikuṇṭha and see how they were treated? Things just did not work out then.

I know all beyond the Vaikuṇṭha, but I have not revealed it so far. I will slowly reveal it because people are not yet prepared to become capable of absorbing it. You see, it is like the preparation of a Khichdi. It is yet under preparation.

So let it be cooked. You are all in it. The quality of people being built up now is equivalent to the choicest of the handful of disciples of the past Prophets. Now and here everyone is destined to come along slowly and steadily. All those who will now fall into this great pot of the supreme cook will be well prepared in it. Rest who opt to remain out will be left out. It is all beyond time. Each to his own capability to achieve. Just as it is difficult to say how long will one learn to ride a bicycle, or become a C.A. or a doctor.

Some may take very little time, while other very long.

The bondage of time is created by man himself. In reality this body has no timing. Time dimension has been created by man by his habits. With the formation of habits, the kāl or time bondage is created.

When there is no habit, there is no time dimension.

With Sahaja Yoga lots of habits leave you. But this takes time too. You must therefore never justify your habits if you want to rid them. It is with justification that habits stay. If in one life time you can achieve Self-realisation, reach the point of having begun to loose your habits, then in that very life time it is possible for you to acquire that so-called state. In the event that you may happen to remain half-baked during the process of one life time, then you will come back to complete your achievement. This is how Sahaja Yoga will now work out for some time. This is now the last judgement. During the process of the revelations in Sahaja Yoga, when I still see people behave against it, I feel awesome. I continue to have such bad experiences at times but then such people leave Sahaja Yoga. This happens, but you must not get discouraged. You must go on working towards it putting in your very best efforts.

Always remain in the center. Do not worry about your growth in Sahaja. Once you are in the center, growth is automatic. It is already being nourished by Me. Daily you move from left to right. In your habits you move towards the left while in ambitions you move towards the right. To set Me in your heart, is a bhava or a feeling.

So just as you develop habits on the left side, you must practice to have that habit-like bhava for Me in your hearts. If, so easily you can acquire your habits, then why not this beautiful bhava? All this is nothing but a change in bhava. After all habits are easy to relieve, being just a mere state of mind.

Once you have established My Bhava in you, it takes its position in your entire body and carries itself through eternity. Depends on how much you are using yourself to it. It is just like if you put lots of smoke on your room then all the mosquitoes will run away.

So it depends on how much of Me you have filled in your hearts! The question that now arises is that, how does one come to stabilize the state of My Bhava in ones heart? The answer is, stability comes by constantly stopping your own attention or Chitta. Always do Chitta-

Nirodh. Just like you go out and you see something you must consciously stop your Chitta from going towards it. It comes with practice. Pull it inside. This is called detachment. Remember of the contact outside, or Samparka is always through the Chitta. Watch where it goes all the time. Always ask yourself, where is my Chitta? Actually Chitta is segregated within us as our consciousness as well as our awareness within us. When our consciousness becomes one with awareness, it assumes the form of vibratory awareness which balances you. This balancing keeps you in the center. The moment your Chitta goes out in the wrong direction, immediately you feel the heat on your senses. That is how the All-pervading Power works and grows within you.

All our habits and Saṁskāras crumple our brain formation and appears convolutions in the brain.

When all these convolutions open up, new spaces are created in the brain, having more absorption power.

The crumpled brain subtly opens. This is how the connection with the Divinity is made.

Scientists basically have to be stunned. Like I went to a Medical Institute and I told them about the parasympathetic nervous system. They got stunned. The mode of action of Stiponilan Adrenaline, they cannot explain, but we can. Now take carbon. If you see it from the left side, you can see the right side and vice-versa. On the left side you can see the figure of Carbon as in form of a Swastik. On the right side it looks like the Omkāra. If you see upward from down below, it looks like a cross. That is a fact.

Now to understand it is like you have to accept a Hypothesis that there exists an All-pervading Power above the Human Brain. This is the only hypothesis. The human brain is in the form of a Pyramid. The Parama-Chaitanya or All-pervading Power is coming from all sides and is striking the brain of a Foetus [soon after its formation].

What actually happens is that, at the apex of this pyramidical brain, the parama-Chaitanya passes unhindered and settles down the spine in the inverted triangular bone area, at the base, in three and a half coils as the Kuṇḍalinī Shakti. In the process it leaves its mark called the `vacuum channel' in the spine. Now the parama-Chaitanya hitting on the sides of the triangular brain, has to permeate the grey and the white matter. These have their own densities and so governed by the physics laws of refraction, the Chaitanya refracts from left to right and from right to left. This is also called the prismatic refraction effect. This phenomena exists mostly for human brains and not so much in animals.

During the refraction process, the Human attention is pulled out to both the sides and is driven in the outward direction. Both the attention and the refracted Chaitanya cross at the Āgñyā Chakra from both sides on their way out. As a result of this pull, an additional force called the resultant force is created. Now the theory of Parallelogram of forces [of physics] comes into play. The resultant force is divided into two parts, each being at a 90 degree angle to the other on both the left as well as the right side. The resultant force acts in the center of its two counterparts. One part creates the left and the right sympathetic channel of the foetus by pushing its way down the body. The other part pushes its way out through the senses, dragging with it the human attention both to the left and the right. The second part is also known at the action in the outer world. From the outer world, this action brings back a reaction [an other famous law of physics]. The path followed by the action and reaction is the same. On the left side this reaction builds one's conditionings while on the right side it builds the ego.

In short, our Chitta accompanied by the resultant Brahma Chaitanya's living force went to the outer world, collected a reaction and brought back with it a conditioning from the left, thereby forming the Manasa or the mind. Both the action and reaction pass through both the Āgñyā and Viśhuddhi Chakras.

The Chitta, being dispersed in nature, has the ability to flow from the whole body. The reaction of the left is the desire element, the potential of which gives birth to the Iḍā Nāḍī on the left sympathetic channel.

Similarly, the reaction of the right is the action element, the potential of which forms the Piñgalā Nāḍī. The overflow of the Iḍā Nāḍī forms a balloon-like cloud at the back of the Āgñyā Chakra called the Superego, while the overflow of the Piñgalā Nāḍī forms a similar cloud in front of the Āgñyā Chakra called the Ego.

The Āgñyā remains directly in-between these two balloons. The front of the Āgñyā is controlled by the Pituitary of the brain, while the back is controlled by the Pineal.

When the Kuṇḍalinī enters the Āgñyā Chakra, she enlightens, it. Then christ within you is enlightened or awakened. He sucks both these balloons of the ego and the superego and the whole Āgñyā Chakra opens. That is why Christ died for our sins. There is simultaneous opening of the Sahasrāra. I saw the Sahasrāras of the Virāt open. It was like tons of flame. Just like when you dissect the human brain, its cross section looks like petals or like flames. In the center of it, it looks like a yellow hole. The opening of the Sahasrāras is sudden. With a bang it opens. How can I explain, it gives the effect of one telescope into another. Normally with the opening of the Āgñyā and the Viśhuddhi, the ego and the superego get sucked in. Mind is Superego. Ahaṁkāra is Ego. Our soul or Ātmān is surrounded by all the five Elements plus their causal expression, with the Kuṇḍalinī on the periphery. The elements are mainly the Earth and the Water, while their causal is just jyotmatra.

When Self-realisation takes place, the Deities are awakened and the Chakras are nourished and freshened.

They open out and start releasing energies. At the Pīṭhas [representative points of the Chakras on our brain] all actions begin against each related Chakra. Coordination at both levels starts and all Chakras get integrated. Take an example of your mind. It wants to do something. Your body, it wants to do something else. Thirdly, your intellect, it wants to do something else. There is no integration. On realisation, all three become one.

Take another example of a piece of cloth, it represents the attention. Before realisation it is all spread out and in all directions. Now take a finger and poke the cloth in the center from the bottom and raise it upwards. What happens? The cloth is pulled up to a point and in the process it just wraps or falls around the finger. In the same way, when the Kuṇḍalinī rises, it pokes the attention, raises it to the Sahasrāra, where it gets enlightened by the light of the Brahma Chaitanya. It then just wraps and falls inline with the Kuṇḍalinī's path on the Suṣhumnā Nāḍī in the center. What has actually happened is that on realisation, our Chitta is pulled inside from wherever it is spread out in the outer mundane world. The Chitta is thereby enlighten. This is the so-called state. But in reality we humans are slaves of our habits. We, out of sheer habit, do not allow our Chitta to stay, put in that state permanently. Actually the Chitta should not go out. Here is a simple situation that I find Myself to be in with you: I am putting you in the boat to sail off, but you are resisting My help by constantly sticking your one foot in the water. Your attention is on frivolous things you see, out of your habit you put out your leg, knowing very well, I am sitting inside to sail you through. I also happen to see that your leg may be swallowed any time by an alligator, but you, in your own habits are blind enough not to notice the alligator. Now, can you imagine My plight? imagine how I feel? That is why I say “do satsang" meaning spend time with other Sahaja Yogis with the object to keep your attention in the center. It is very important to constantly keep your attention in the center. With realisation, our left and right Nāḍīs relax off upon receipt of Divine energy. Due to release of tension, the Chakras open out still further. It is a cycle. More Kuṇḍalinī fibres can then rise and soon. At this state the attention develops a quality to remain the center. You can then direct it out to perform a particular task and after achieving it, without any reaction, it occupies its position in the center. It has by now achieved the quality of not getting attached to anything.

In My case it is different. If My attention is on you, I will take all your problems into Myself and cleanse it and Myself suffer. This I will do only if I want to. Now, Sahaja Yogis, I have to fix, because I have put them indiscriminately into My body.

So I have to suffer. The Sahaja Yogis themselves are just barometric in this regard. They cannot suffer the way I do, may be a little bit, because whatever they suck, goes into the vast ocean.

Now the study of the fifth dimension of matter is going on in Russia, the study of bioplasma. This is completely a right-sided activity. Each human being has his own Aura and depending on his changing Guṇas, the colour represented by that Guṇa or Aura changes. What do you give bandhans to? To your Auras so as to protect it. Only matter can have an Aura.

So it is all materialistic. The fifth dimension is actually a microscopic or a photographic dimension.

So when you seen some lights in My photographs, it is one form of an Aura. You see Brahma Chaitanya has got its own light. This is only visible to Me.

Some people can also see it when their Āgñyā is bad. They can see it from outside.

The principle is that when you are away from it, you can see it, but when you are in it, then what can you see?

Thoughtless awareness comes when your Kuṇḍalinī crosses the Āgñyā Chakra, when there is no thought.

It happens by control. Slowly it becomes a part of you and encompasses your whole body. It becomes a state. This is doubtless awareness. You become the Brahma Chaitanya or the state.

At this state, you all need to work for Me and not just land up in the state and get into a Samādhi. I have achieved it for you without giving it to you. Then why do you ask for it? You must know that you are there and there is no doubt about it. This is now the final game. In reality this state is very easy and spontaneous to achieve, but yet I would like you to work for it and try for it. When you feel like achieving this state right now and for your own individual self, then I would say that you are being selfish and in a way you are becoming an escapist. You have to first become collective. Otherwise on an individual basis you will get lost in the Nirākār and you will not even be able to see Me. You see, you will be in that state, you will be dissolved in the ocean.

So evolving from the ocean and dissolving in it is not anything unique or great. But to become a cloud from the ocean and then soak everyone with your rain water would surely be a unique achievement. This is My aim and also My game. Just as every game has an aim, so has Mine.

To stay in the center, become sharanagata [surrendered]. Say `you are everything Mother, so you do everything.' It is complete surrender.

For a Scientific mind, you have to give them this whole Vidyā [knowledge] in bits. If their cup is small you cannot fill more than the capacity it can take.

So have patience. You cannot give them the whole ocean now. Remember that Science is only a little part of the whole. First create a craving for Sahaja in them by introducing it to them. Once they come, then watch them. Remember your time? The same thing happened with each one of you. At first you experienced it then craved more and more for it very progressively. This process is also Scientific.

In the mundane, when you work to earn money, you will encounter the māyā. Just remember that you are earning for Me. That's all. Go ahead and earn as much as you can. This I am only talking from the materialistic point of view.

People who come into Sahaja Yoga through you. Sahaja Yogis come better than through Me. You see, with Me they tend to get entangled in māyā. See, I am nobody in My human form as far as the new comers are concerned.

Epilepsy Cause: Movement of the attention to the extreme left. Collective Subconscious is the state into which you go. This happens when you develop some fear or fright being a weak person on the left side. Also when you happen to be involved in an accident, sudden fright or jerk.

Cure: Bring attention to the center. To do this, first bring it to the right by saying the Gāyatrī Mantra.

Then to the center by saying the Brahmadeva-Saraswatī mantra. On moving to the right, you start feeling vibrations, stop at this point. Do not say any more Gāyatrī Mantra because you must not go too much to the right. Too much to the right means the frequency of Vibrations start decreasing. Example, Mr.

Jalan's Mamdi's cure. It needs proper adjustment from one side to the other. It is important that you must get the Vibrations. If not, then repeatedly raise the Kuṇḍalinī till you feel the Vibrations.

Another best way is to put the left hand towards the Photograph and the right on the ground. Say Mahākālī mantra so that the Vibrations start flowing. Use of the Candle from the back side on the left will also help.

This treatment is also the same for cancer, other psychosomatic diseases. It includes Muscular Skeletal disorders. In Muscular problems, the trouble comes from your disturbed Śhrī Gaṇeśha [Mūlādhāra]. In Hysterectomy cases, where the Uterus is removed the problem is of Śhrī Gaṇeśha [Mūlādhāra]. And fear element. If somebody is not having a child, then she has a left Swādhiṣhṭhāna problem. Same problem is also true for heavy Periods, when there is too much stimulation in the Parasympathetic in the Sacral region, there is too much flow resulting in heavy bleeding.

Other results are Diarrhea and Excessive Urination Cure: use of Gāyatrī mantra, Initially, But it must also be backed by some Medicines. You can give ajwain ki dhuni [even for surgery patients]. For Lumbago you give ajwain ka pani. For Muscular Lumbago use Ajwain for intake and gheru for application only. In Lumbago the bone gets twisted, therefore use vibrated kerosene oil mixed with some other oil. In few days it gets alright.

For any treatment whatsoever, remember that the most important fact remains that everything depends on your Icchā or Desire Shakti.

So Iḍā Nāḍī is important that you must have desire and it must be the right Desire. No wrong Desires because eventually everything goes back to the Desire. If you have wrong desires and you do Action, then everything become mechanical and hypocritical. The right desire is only to achieve your growth. This is Shuddha Icchā. If you have gross desire like, I must have a son etc. you have it too, but then you will want something else also. Meaning that you are now becoming hypocrite.

In pure desire you get everything in a bundle. It is from genuine desire that you grow. This whole concept is your attitude towards your Icchā-Shakti.

Now take the Action energy or Kriya Shakti. This has two aspects, namely Physical and Mental.

Physically you must sit down and Meditate to become thoughtless. Mentally you must see that your mind does not go towards all nonsensical things in gross forms. All that you must say is: `Mother you are doing everything. I do nothing.' This is the control on you.

For both left and right-sided persons it is important to first cleanse yourself and then do your meditation.

Then you move towards the left side, you raise your Kuṇḍalinī and it just comes out. You must raise your Kuṇḍalinī before Meditation. Do not just be mechanical when sitting to do Pūjā. Your desire must be genuine to grow.

People who are from Arya-Samaj are basically right-sided people. They must use Bhakti Bhajan, seat Me in their hearts i.e. move towards the left side. Cleansing must be done only by use of mantras on the central Chakras. Mahākālī and Mahāsaraswatī, both act on the center from both the sides and are therefore interconnected. Even the Mantras for the left and right are chanted only for the purposes of raising the Kuṇḍalinī alone. There is no use of attention here. Treatment of left side through chanting of mantras for raising the Kuṇḍalinī is only to improve upon your desire energy.

Another way is to raise your right and lower it to the left by hand. This helps a lot. In addition activate your right side by mantras of Brahmadeva and of Gāyatrī. But all up to a point. You see when I have to do it I control it by raising your Kuṇḍalinī up to a point. And before it goes too much to the other side, I control by pulling it out just in time. It is all in My control. When people do not control, they just go on and on. Like Rāma, Rāma... Panduranga, Panduranga... and get lost on one side totally.

Mother is now asking you all, `Where is your attention?' First must come Bhakti Bhava and this then must move onto Shraddhā Bhava.

On physiotherapy When the vibrations flow, they relax the muscles. The muscles in reality have gone into spasms due to tensions. E.g., left Viśhuddhi or any Chakra. The vertebrae start to twist [physical]. When you put your Chakras in Me [in My care] they will be relaxed and then you can adjust by giving vibrations. Those vibrations can be given to others. You need not touch the other person, but give vibrations by using circular movement by hand using mantra.

In left-sided diseases, you get into the collective subconscious from where you collect Protein 52 viruses.

These make you beyond help sometimes. Fever is caused to those whose liver is out, who has overworked his Liver. He is heated up etc. It can be corrected by putting ice on the liver. Malarial fevers are right-sided i.e. Mosquito bites. Bacterial fevers are left-sided. These are mainly due to certain intakes of food such as fungus like mushrooms, old paneer etc. Diabetes is the action of the right side affected by the left side, right side being vulnerable. Firstly when you think too much, pay no attention and remain in your habits, then a fear element adds to you vulnerability. Just like a hard working man thinks too much. All his fat cells are used for the brain. The Swādhiṣhṭhāna goes into and neglects its left counter part. The left side gets drained. You become vulnerable. At this state if some fear comes up in you and you also start feeling guilty, then you develop Diabetes.

Correction is use Hazrat Ali's Mantra.

Source is from Swādhiṣhṭhān and Nābhī of the left. Left Nābhī gets first effected by having fear of wife or worries for her or any other family member. In addition your vulnerability at that point brings about Diabetes. Clear it by cleaning your Āgñyā Chakra. Don't think so much. Go into thoughtless awareness. Put left side to right side. Take more salt so that it neutralises the action of sugar excretion because it has got water of crystallization. Use ice on right Swādhiṣhṭhāna and Nābhī. Avoid sugar after proper tests if necessary.

Heart attacks Cause: Over active, inactive or lethargic heart. Over active heart is of right-sided people. In such cases the heart can collapse. Especially it can happen in very young age. This is because their attention is too much outside. Due to this their Ātmā departs. The Ātmā gets no attention due to their extreme materialistic nature. Over activity can also come from too much worry about family, thinking too much of the future. The heart starts to pump more blood and overworks itself. It gets tired. In addition the attention is not on the spirit. For lethargic hearts, these people take all kind of mantras and first spoil their left Viśhuddhi. They take tobacco and cigarette, creating a problem on left Viśhuddhi. This makes the pumping of heart difficult, so it becomes tired because it cannot pump. Due to extreme left Viśhuddhi, the lethargic heart gives you Angina. These are two types of heart attacks. The first type can be cured by putting ice on the stomach and on the heart on the right side. Also moving left to right. Sit in water.

Do not use light at all.

Sleep in darkness, stay more indoors. Take full rest. And repeat that `I am the spirit,' `O, Lord, please forgive me.' The second type can be cured by asking him to say, `Mother you are my bīja mantra. You are the `Māntrika'. Also `I am not guilty.' And say `I forgive everyone Lord.' So that all the hurts disappear.

Use lightened fire to clear the left side.

Asthma Is mostly a left-sided psychosomatic disease. It can sometimes be right-sided with the persons who are very dry and have always tried to dominate others, The dryness of the peritorium [peritoneum] is too much.

Mostly it also comes from the right Heart, for those whose father is dead or that, you are not a good father or that you happen to trouble your child or that you are unhappy about your own self. It can be combination of any of the above.

Intake For left side, if people eat the fat is very bad. Because the fat is stored and it is not available for circulation. For thin people their fat is available for circulation, so they can eat fat. But for fat people, they should only put fat in their nose, oil in their ears etc. for fat people oil massage on the head is very good. Thin people can massage with Golden Amla hair oil. It cools them down.

Urticaria Is also psychosomatic. When your liver is lethargic it becomes vulnerable.

Cure: use Gheru, rub it on some stone and give it to your child in honey [very little], also for grown ups. For very old people it is also very good for it has soluble calcium. Any soluble calcium is good. It is good for application and then cover it with something black. The source of its problem is left Nābhī.

You see when the liver is lethargic, the left Nābhī becomes lethargic. The person is not using much of his energies.

So it is a lethargic liver, excited by the left Nābhī.

Treatment: is again left side. Best is to cover the body with something black, so that the heat is given to it. You see, it is a form of an allergy. Most allergies are caused from cold to hot, i.e. taking bath in cold water and then hot water. To take coffee and then immediately taking cold water. This sudden change, the system cannot adjust to. In the left Nābhī area is the spleen. The spleen is the speedometer and also an adjuster. When it adjusts and it is not properly done due to sudden change, it causes problem.

So it has to suddenly provide its energies to either increase or decrease the flow of RBCs. That's how the spleen goes crazy. This is also cause of blood cancer in the people who are hectic.

When you have the back Āgñyā working, you become lethargic and when you have the front Āgñyā working, you become overactive. The balance of chemicals in the body comes from the Āgñyā. That is why you should always be in thoughtless awareness. Left-sided people are those who have troubles themselves and right-sided are those who trouble others.

So those who are left-sided, their bodies will pain and they will suffer. The right-sided people, who inflict pain in others will not notice it. These right-sided people can therefore develop problems like sorosis of the liver or a problem on the eyes.

Shakti is the Guṇa of the left. Shraddhā is of the center. The left side is very pleasant till you start getting the pangs and then you start getting drifted away, this is happening in Bhakti with some people.

When I speak, every word is a mantra. As I speak people start getting alright.

Now, all types of people are coming up.

Some are coming up very fast now. As far as I am concerned they have put Me aside as Devī and that I cannot be reached. Now it will be one of you only who will stand up and people will see you and come into Sahaja Yoga. This is the best way, to let some people just come up. This is the game. Lots of people have personalised it. They want to know what is happening about it in My family, then to others, then to people of Bombay [Mumbai] etc. Sahaj Yogis are very honest, compassionate and diligent, good natured and have lesser temper. Their character has assumed a new dimension in this process of building up. Each one of you must work hard towards it and not bother too much about the other.

Sthiti [state] is tested only when you are exposed to it. That is the time for `Paristhiti' [situation] Sthiti [state] must be clubbed with complete Discrimination.

There are deities who are in the Chakras. When Kuṇḍalinī rises, she awakens them just like seeds.

Once they are awakened, they start working it out. They know what is their job, what to work out, like they have been appointed. These Deities you have achieved through your evolution at different points.

So wherever they are settled, they do their job.

Take a seed, it is gross. It has potential to become a tree and this has the potential to become numerous trees.

So this potential is subtle to the subtler to subtlest. Its appearance is gross. The causal of Mother Earth is fragrance so when it awakens the Kuṇḍalinī, it touches the causal also just like you get the fragrance. The causal of realisation is Shuddha Icchā [pure desire]. Man is made of three potentials i.e.

gross, subtle and causal. This causal of realisation i.e. Shuddha Icchā [pure desire] enlightens the subtle and the gross bodies. Just like you put the seed into mother Earth. The mother Earth enlightens the seed and gives its potential to it, in the same way, the Kuṇḍalinī is the mother Earth in you. She rises and gives this potential dimension to your seed.

Everything has a different causal and so every Chakra acts according to its own causal. The problem is, we do not understand it even on the grosser level. Now take a very gross level, you reach a point where to take an Atom. This atom has Nucleus which has protons, neutrons and mesotons. Now if you cool down this Atom such as Helium gas, the Atom becomes collective.

So also the mesotons act on their own and even they become collective when cooled to a certain point.

So even to the grosser and grosser, this potential exists. Scientifically it can be proved.

But when we take a human being, we are talking about a living process. The human being has most manifested one on the grosser level. Now, the inner growth has to come. On grosser level he is now fully manifested. Just take a seed which has reached its grosser level and is now living and pulsating and it is then put inside mother Earth then what is to happen? In you, the subtle and the subtlest is replicated in your whole being as such. The potential is the Kuṇḍalinī. The Kuṇḍalinī is representing the causal of Mother Earth. The causal of Virāta is Collectivity.

The representatives of Sadāśhiva and Ādi Shakti in us are Ātmā [Spirit] and the Kuṇḍalinī [these are beyond the causal, in fact they excite the causal].

Take an example: Light a candle. Put your hand before it. It is awakened before My photograph. The potential of candle has come in. That is, My photograph has awakened its potential. And with it, it can now burn the negativity. You have seen a wall getting black out of such an effect.

Everything has a causal which keeps all the potential. From causal to gross you move through the subtle. Now what happens, just as fragrance is causal of the Mother Earth, through that causal all flowers and trees come out. Also for human beings it is the carbon. How the Mother Earth burns within herself, creates this Carbon within herself with the heat and that Carbon becomes a part and parcel within you to create Amino Acids.

So the Mother knows, at the causal level, she knows what you are. The causal is the Nirākāra [formless] in the Shakti form while the deities are in sakar [form], to use it. They know how to use it. The exhibition of its [it] comes on the gross through the central nervous system.

The sakar [with form] is the doer or the `Karta'. The causal is the power of a particular Deity, the unmanifested power. But as soon as the Deities are awakened, their powers are also awakened. This is a living process and how it works out you cannot explain. Now see the Foetus, how does it take its forms, who guides it? There must be some intelligence! Who does it? Who manages it? Who plans it out? Now I will question a Gynecologist: “Anything foreign in the body is thrown out of the system, then why not the Foetus?" Answer Me.

Something nourishes it, looks after it and then throws it out at the right point of time. It is growing within and it does not trouble the mother, but in fact the Mother's face changes while the whole energy of the being is transformed. Now where does this beauty on the Mother come from?, see the nourishing and looking after. It is so amazing to see its perfection, isn't it? We think no end of our intelligence. But living in the presence of God, a small seed came and at the end of each a small cell came out. The intelligence which this cell has, if it comes to Man then Sahaj Yoga would be fully established. It sees its own direction in straight way. It sees a stone, it doesn't fight with it, it just goes around it and binds it so later when it is to become tree it will help in its foundation. Then slowly and easily it reaches out towards the water. It has no premonition about where it will find the level of water.

I once experimented with a bumblebee. I applied some colour on to it as it used to make its own house at My place. Now somehow that colour came to its wings. One fine day I went to a place which was very very far away, I saw the same Bumble bee there. Then she was seen again in My house. How did she take on all these routes. She must be having some magnet! Also, how do birds find their homes from Australia to Siberia? You see they are in collective and absolutely Homogeneous. And they all move together. This all for the `Pasha' [bondage] state of the Pashu [animals]. But we human beings are no longer Pashus [animals].

We are free. Now it is in this freedom, when lots and lots is lost and gone, then human beings settle down.

This freedom was given to Adam and Eve level. If they were sensible, there would have been no problem.

Now one has to pay too much for his freedom. Now just see what is happening to me in the midst of this freedom.

But nowadays it is all working out.

This living process cannot be explained to Science. The Scientists will not accept the Deities.

So don't worry about them. If we don't have Scientists what is the harm, we will not miss them. The greatest thing for all Scientists is to see for themselves. Nothing can be explained to them. Say Sulphur dioxide has got vibrations that are electromagnetic, Symmetric and Isosymmetric. They just state what they see. They will see in Sahaja Yoga what it is, you give them the facts and let them experience it. How can you show them anything scientifically?

Contents: 1987-04-08 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, St. Martin's Lane Ashram, London, UK

Some of you can come in front, come along there's room [UNCLEAR] [laughs]. Come along, there's room here. Come in there's room here [looks at prasad] [UNCLEAR] all full of sweets. Oh God? I didn't see all that [laughs].

[Aside:]... I'd have some water, perhaps.... and bring My purse.

I'm watching all the beauty [laughs].

You looked so beautiful at the airport. Such a joy for Me to see you in that shape. It's a rare occasion sometimes that you feel oneness with the whole universe, absolutely oneness with the whole universe when you feel the love that exists within all of you.

It's the love within you, the oneness within you the way you open your heart to each other as good human beings, as realised Souls, as saints. It is the most fulfilling and satisfying thing for Me.

When a saint used to meet another saint, say in India, what would happen? There was a saint in Maharashtra that was a tailor, but he was a saint. Saint is a saint, whether he is a tailor or anything. And there was another saint who was a potter who used to make pots and all that out of clay.

So this saint, Namadeva, went to see this potter who was making some pots out of clay. And he looked at him and the feeling that came into his heart is expressed, he was a great poet, Namadeva.

So he says in Marathi, I'm translating this in English, “I came here to see the Chaitanya, the formless, but the formless is standing before me in the form." So to appreciate the other saint he said, “Now the whole Chaitanya, the whole All-pervading power of God's love has come in your form before me, I see it." How to address, just think of it. At that moment, spontaneously he said this.

That is how you are all saints and saints have to see that you are the form of that love of God's All-pervading Power. You are in the form of that, all of you.

I think that day, you were standing in the rain and sleet with all your children.

For a Mother it's too much to see, such beautiful feelings for Me. But the feelings among yourselves, the open-heartedness, the Pure love, that filled the whole atmosphere with such beauty. It's not just talking, it's not just writing letters or sending Birthday cards or something like that; it's from the heart, you have to feel each other that you are all saints.

You are different people, you have to support each other, you have to look after each other, you have to understand each other because you are the people of a different awareness living among people who are blind, who can hate you, they can do some harm to you.

The other day I was reading Gñyāneśhwara; can you imagine, he died at the age of 23 years, at such an young age as 23 years. And the Gyāneshwari he wrote was at the age of twenty-one years. And what a genius! I mean, you read it, you just don't understand, how could he penetrate so deep.

He described you all, as I have told you many a times he has described you as the oceans of, the walking oceans of Ambrose, Ambrosia. Talking trees and the forest of the trees of bliss and beauty you'll do.

That wherever you'll go you'll bless people.

Wherever you will stand you'll be auspicious, you will create harmony, peace and joy.

That's your work, that's your style, that's what you are here for. But beware, you ought to be very careful, because the surroundings seem to be quite deceptive and quite troublesome.

And from that surrounding you are coming out suddenly into a new surrounding where you have known what is Divine love, what is Divinity.

One has to be very careful because the forces that are negative are very strong and working at you all the time, because you've come from matter, you have evolved from matter and it's easy to go to matter, to materialism, to the materialistic ideas; and this materialism takes you to primitiveness. All your culture, all your beauty will drop out as soon as you take to materialism. If everything becomes money there's no place for God, no place for love, no place for beauty or for any graciousness.

Money is for us, we are not for the money. Money should be at our command. We don't have to give up anything for that.

And here then we see the materialism coming up in a very different way, very subtle ways and we do not see it. When we start saying `my, mine, this is mine,' then you are slowly drifting towards materialism.

When you see yourself in the collective, that's the only way you can get out of materialism. Because you are in reality a collective being. You are not an individual that way. But the matter divides you from each other. And when you realise that we are not slaves of matter, matter is our slave, we are not going to be dominated by any matter, then you can feel that love.

One goes to absurd limits if you take to materialism; and everything can be explained in the name of materialism. But in the name of Divine how far can you go and explain? You have to just enjoy it.

When you enjoy you don't want to explain or talk about it, you just want to enjoy. Divinity is to be enjoyed within and without. It's within you, divinity is within you, but is to be enjoyed. That's only possible if you understand that you are not going to be dominated by any matter whatsoever.

I'm sorry I'm here for such a short time, I wish I could be with you forever, which I am, I think [laugh and laughter].

But you have brothers and sisters everywhere, the whole world has this message with them. You, some of you have met them in India. All the Indians have sent their love to you, lots of love and they didn't know what to send you from there, something special; so they sent Me [laughs, laughter and applause].

Sometimes I feel all of us should meet somewhere; all of us from all over the world, from every corner of the world, all the great saints who are in these modern times should meet each other, talk to each other, enjoy each other and understand each other.

That's the time we'll think that a new era has started of love, of trust, of enjoyment of other human beings.

When you start enjoying another person then only we can say that you are in the collective.

Like My finger, if it pains the another one tries to soothe it and I feel the soothing, without feeling any gratitude or without feeling any sort of a obligation.

So always I say about collectivity. Those who cannot be collective, those who cannot open their hearts, those who keep aloof, those who think they are, some of them might be thinking `we are great Sahaja Yogis because we are very old Sahaja Yogis,' some might be thinking `we are very intelligent,' some that `we are rich and poor' and all that, all these differences should disappear.

Who is crying? She's crying? What's the matter?

Sahaja Yogi: Clapping makes him cry [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Oh! [Laughs.] One day they'll all grow up. I was thinking when they'll grow up they'll clap much more than you will do! [Laughs and laughter.] Little more time we need, somehow.

All these great people will be becoming great Sahaja Yogis and will give us such a pleasure, such a joy, such a happiness.

Today I wanted to speak about something, but I'll just put it as a question to you all. And I would like to have an answer from you. You can write to Me and let's see, or you can discuss. That as formerly, as other saints have said, that once you get your realisation you are lost, you can't speak about it.

You can just tell them by some similes, metaphors, this, that, but you cannot really give them the experience by telling them. And that's why many saints decided that after realisation it's better to disappear. Even Gñyāneśhwara took his Samādhi, he went into a room and he died in that room.

Because they could not say much about it, they could not tell much about it. But today that's not the situation.

Like Kabīra has said that “When a drop becomes the ocean, what can you say?" You are lost, you are no more there, you are all finished.

So what has happened in Sahaja Yoga, today's Sahaja Yoga, that we are all talking about it, experiencing it and enjoying it. That's the question for all of the Sahaja Yogis to solve.

[Smiling:] Ingrid, you can explain? Did you hear My question? No? You didn't hear My question? You see, what I said was that formerly those people who got realisation got lost, alright? As you were lost just now into thoughtless awareness! [Laughs and laughter.] But you can come back and you can tell people, you can talk about it and many people disappeared.

Actually they didn't want to live after getting realisation for a long time, because they could not explain, talk to people about it.

Also they said that “How can a person who has no tongue tell about the taste of the jaggery", it's a kind of sweet.

So there was a problem with them, all of them had a problem. But now you don't have that problem.

So what has happened in Sahaja Yoga that you have no problem? You think it over and write to Me, alright? So I don't know what to say anymore [laughter]. Just we are enjoying our rapport with each other isn't it? [UNCLEAR].

Anybody has any questions? Anybody who is a new person can ask a question would be good idea.

Because these people have no questions now [Shri Mataji smells some flowers].

Ask Me a question.

[To somebody:] I've heard the good news. Ah! How can we...? What? Question: [UNCLEAR].

Somebody: [repeats].

Shri Mataji: To them. Now, you see, you'll meet three types of new people. Firstly those who are yogis, or you can call them as people of previous births, who are already very knowledgeable and are there, just they can feel it, this is it; you won't have much problem with them, they know it is so. To them it's very obvious and you'll be amazed the way they are there, how they have taken to it so easily.

Now the second type are the people who may be still believing, non believing, maybe some who are doubting, maybe; or maybe some who are asking questions about it, quite a lot.

So it's not sufficient only for you to get your realisation, also not sufficient for you that you feel the vibrations and that you can give realisations to others, that won't help much. You have to know how to deal with various types of people.

Like I would say a person who is a, say, a priest, who comes to you and wants to talk to you about God, this, that and all [that].

So you must know Bible very well and know Bible in the way a Sahaja Yogi should know.

The other day Rustom telephoned to tell Me that, I told him to study Koran because, I said, Islam means surrender, but before realisation surrender has no meaning. And he's told Me that it's written in Koran that unless and until you are connected with God you cannot understand anything what is written there, it's clearly said.

Now when the Muslims talk to you, you can tell them: `This is written in Koran, are you connected with God?' Now they might say `Are you connected?' Now, then if you say `yes' then finished! [Laughter.] Then Mr. Ego will come up, you see, suddenly and you be careful! So this subject should be treated with a barge pole.

Like, [laughs] such a question if they ask... you see they will be like that: “Are you that?" Like in the beginning they used to ask Me: “What's your Father? What's your Mother? Who are you?" This, that, all those things, you see.

So at that time you have to give an answer to them...

[Aside:] Can you give this lady a chair to sit down? No? Alright.

So such a question if you answer in that manner you have not been clever enough; you have to be very clever.

Then you should say... you see there are, avoid the subject, don't answer; you just say, `See there are descriptions about a person who is a realised Soul.' Jung has said that you have to become collectively conscious. Now, what is collectively conscious? That is, on your central nervous system you should be able to feel another person.

Now Jung has said so, it's a poet [quote]. Then you have got other people to quote: William Blake you can quote, you can quote other poets or saints whom you know, it depends on what sort of a person you are dealing with.

But just don't say `Yes, I am a realised Soul.' People have been crucified, murdered, poisoned for saying that.

So be careful, put it on somebody else and say `Yes, the signs of a realised Soul's are like this, that he has to be collectively conscious.' First of all that you have read Jung or you know so much about collective consciousness itself will put them right in their own place, to begin with.

Because you have to be knowledgeable in these modern times and you should be able to communicate.

Just by telling them: `I'm a realised Soul, I have to awaken your Kuṇḍalinī,' nobody is going to believe you.

Even in India people don't believe that we can give realisation, although they know about realisation, they know about Kuṇḍalinī, they know everything, but still they cannot believe that we, like ordinary people, can give realisation to them.

So in no way you should be diffident, but try to bring them round through somebody else, because the human nature is such, the one who is living, the one who is existing, they don't want to accept. Whosoever is dead, you see and written somewhere, anything, in black and white and you say in this book this is this written, they'll accept him. That's why you have to be knowledgeable, you must read books which are supportive of your realisation, supportive of Sahaja Yoga. Then only you can talk to them. If you are just having realisation, you can give realisation, you have got vibrations, that won't work out, especially in the Western countries where people are too much here [indicates the head] nothing there [indicates the heart]. You have to tell them that we are also intelligent enough and we also understand it with our brains and logic, what is the truth is. Then after their realisation of course it's much easier, but if you say `Alright, come along, I have to give you realisation', you cannot. You cannot force them, you cannot, they have to ask for it, after all there is a protocol of the Divine also, the Divine cannot fall at the feet of people `oh please come and have your realisation!' No, that's too much.

But there are ways and ways by which you can ask people and work it out. But I must tell you one thing, that all the Sahaja Yogis before, they started... I started Sahaja Yoga in the West and especially in England also, you see, whenever I talked to them they were very anxious how to get more people into Sahaja Yoga, how to bring more people, what to do for more people, how to manage. Or they would think somebody to be very spiritual or something: “So Mother can I bring that fellow?" And he would turn out to be a horrid stuff, you see [laughs]. It would burn My hands, it would burn everything and I would say “Now how do you mean?

What made you think that he is spiritual?" “Mother, he talks so much of spirituality." That's not the thing. It is a calibre, is a inner calibre a person must have. He may be an ordinary person, he may not be earning so much money, he might be on the street, but the inner calibre has to be there. Otherwise what's the use of breaking your head against a wall? So this idea of having more and more is wrong. But to have people who are of that calibre, of that quality and who deserve it.

So many do not deserve it.

So what to do? You cannot just? it's not like a barber shop that you can make the head dress the way you like. The Sahasrāra has to open out. You see, the Kuṇḍalinī has to come out, it has to work that way.

You cannot just say `Alright now, you got realisation,' you can't say that way, all the time the Kuṇḍalinī's falling down, you should say `Alright, sorry sir, I'm sorry.' Finished.

And the more you show as if you are seeking elections for the worse, the more they'll be worse. If somebody doesn't get realisation well and good! For example a lady met Me in a plane and she said “I want to have realisation." Said, “Alright, I'll try" [laughter and laughs].

Then she wrote three letters to Me, sent her photographs and she... And then she said “I don't know why You don't write to me, I've been writing to You, this and that, I know it's a difficult task to give a realisation." “Oh", so I talked to her, “alright, when I come next in June you can come along." But there could be somebody who might be of that calibre, you can feel it, you are knowledgeable yourself, you can feel the vibrations, you can feel it and you can then take that person seriously.

So work on the people who are simple, who have that calibre.

Of course they could be very much spoilt also because of seeking, but if they are intense and sincere then the best thing is to work it out with complete assiduity and attention to such a person.

But if it's a fashion, you see, because they are going to many Gurus and they are doing some, lots of Guru shopping, then you should say: `There's no shop here, you can't pay, first of all you can't pay.' If they understand that, then it's alright. Say like one fellow from the BBC came in and he said “We can't believe in a Guru who doesn't take any money." I said “then alright you go to such a Guru who takes money from you, I've nothing to say." He said, what did he say?, “Anglo Saxon brain" I don't know what that brain is specially, made by God or not? [Laughs and laughter.] Cannot understand anyone who can do such a thing without money.

Such a person you should say: `Alright, thank you very much, I'm sorry, you see, you are beyond me, you are too great, sorry.' Not hurting the person. But such ideas, such things if they have there in brains you cannot break such a hard nut, can you? And you should not feel sorry for them.

First see their vibrations, see their calibre. Calibre is the only way you can judge how much attention is to be paid. What is to be done.

For some people it's so obvious, so obvious. And some people go on arguing, arguing with you. But all of them now are good Sahaja Yogis despite the fact they argued quite a lot with Me to begin with; now they are very good Sahaja Yogis. But now time has come for you to have a quick results and you will meet people who will be very good, I'm sure you'll meet all of them who are in England and you, you will be able to manage them. Your ways, your methods, your styles will convince them.

Today, only, Doctor Brian has told Me that many people are getting interested now in Sahaja Yoga because they can see the change that comes in, the transformation, the confidence, everything that they see.

So you should not try to force Sahaja Yoga on anyone; it's better that you see their calibre. Calibre is very easy to make out.

You just say it and it is there. They know, yes, that's it.

Any other question?

Sahaja Yogini: [asks a question].

Shri Mataji: I can't hear. What's it? Clearly, I didn't hear. You also didn't hear also? Sahaja Yogi [explains the question]: Shri Mataji?... Shri Mataji? If You could speak about sympathy and compassion towards other Sahaja Yogis who have problems?

Shri Mataji: Ah. Now. Sympathy and compassion; sympathy doesn't get involved, then it's compassion.

Sympathy. `Sym' means `share', `pathy' means `pathos', if you want to share the pathos of another person then you are sympathizing with that person.

Now supposing somebody's husband is dead and that person is crying a lot and you also go and sit down and cry louder than her [laughter]. Then people will ask you “Did you[r] husband die or her husband die?" [Laughter.] “No, no, I am just showing sympathy you know?" [Laughter and laughs.] This is lip sympathy of course.

Another is, may be the heartfelt sympathy. When it is heartfelt then you don't cry; then you develop the opposite force to put that person right. What do you say to that person? You should say `See, now if you are born you are going to die, everybody's going to die,' that's the, that's the system. Now, two persons never die together. This gentleman who has died now, he's your husband, alright, but now if you start crying like this, he won't have any peace, he'll be hovering round you and he might be in limbo waiting for you to come there, or something like that.

So no use crying over him, on the contrary you should say `I'm alright, don't worry about me, I'm alright, get your realisation as I have got it.' This is the opposite force that you put. This is the real, real way of helping that person.

But the compassion is very different, compassion just flows, it doesn't say anything. Even you don't see Me, even if you are in the hospital, you know I am with you.

It works. Even if you just think of Me it works.

Even if you make some mistakes you know Mother will forgive you. That's compassion. Compassion is just flow, you don't talk about it, you don't say anything. It just flows and covers you completely. And you enjoy that. That's compassion; it works, sympathy doesn't work, compassion works, it soothes you, it's a very beautiful touch of love, affection, kindness, protection. And you feel so confident that you are under the protection of the Divine.

So this compassion has not to be shown or to be dealt with.

Now supposing another Sahaja Yogi's having a problem. We have only two problems; as I say “how many turns there are in London, only two, left or right" [laughter].

In the same way they have two problems: either left or right. If it is the left one or the right one.

You know right one you have to beat with the shoes, that's all, finished. You don't have to go and say anything to the person, if he has right problems.

Now if he has the left problem what do you do? You need not go and talk to that person: give him a bandhan, you can burn the name, you can do what you like. But you need not face the person, you need not tell the person that `I'm helping you, I'm trying to do something for you.' That's wrong, that's ignorance, you don't have to say that; it just works, it has to work by itself.

But I don't tell you that I'm going to help you in any way, do I? Nothing of the kind.

Wherever you are you know I'm with you, all the time. In the same way this compassion will work whether you are sitting down here, if you are beating somebody with shoes that person will come round.

So they have only two problems, one is the left or the right. If you try to sympathize with any one of them you are in trouble.

So best thing is not to directly help them, but indirectly. Not to tell them that you are helping, not even mention it to them; the concern is the point, the concern about a person.

Your attention should go there, your attention is very active. It's a very powerful thing you have got, your attention acts. Just put your attention to that person, with a concern, but no involvement: that is compassion.

You have got it, you have got the power of compassion in your attention now, you haven't used it.

Without taking any credit for it, without showing it, without confronting it, just inside yourself you feel it, it will work out.

But for that you have to cleanse your own attention, that's very important. If your attention is loose type, if your connection is not alright, then it won't work out. But if you have that kind of an attention which is silent, which is witnessing, which is not involved, it's dynamic, it works! All of you have to become like Me, I'm sure you all can and achieve that calibre of compassion. Alright? Do you follow now? Thank you.

Any other question, Hester? No? Danya has any questions? [Laughs.] You never had them. Anybody else? Jason? None! Questionless people, I tell you.

Best way is to enjoy others. Best way is to enjoy yourself; and to enjoy yourself is to laugh at yourself, that's the best way.

Address yourself: `You Mister now come along, this is ego I know [laughter], ah, that's it, that's the one! No no no no no no no no no, not me! I've had enough of it.' That's how you enjoy yourself. And enjoy others, seeing their good points. Sweet, sweet things they do, very sweet things. You don't have to say anything.

And we had 71 marriages, you can't believe it. And I looked at the brides and they were all looking at Me from the angles, you see; and the eyes were telling the story of their love and gratitude and I don't know what all they said.

I was just watching them when they were walking with their garlands in their hands, slowly, slowly; the sweetness, the beauty of their feelings; very slowly they were walking. And then I saw the boys standing there, looking at Me with tremendous feeling of oneness.

You see, this cannot be enjoyed otherwise.

Even with the body you cannot enjoy, supposing you rub your hand, you won't enjoy that much as you enjoy other people, other Sahaja Yogis.

And then the friends doing the leg-pulling also I enjoy [laughter], the way they talk to each other I enjoy, everything so enjoyable, it doesn't hurt anyone, it doesn't trouble anyone.

You are here to enjoy, God has created this universe for you to enjoy.

So only thing is that you must improve your attention, cleanse your attention by meditation, always think of good things, not of bad things. You should not react too much, just be within yourself, see for yourself, witness everything. And you'll be amazed, you'll see beautiful points, beautiful things all around you.

So much of beauty which we are losing because we cannot see it.

So that deep, penetrating attention of concern will solve all the problems, I'm sure.

But `open your heart' doesn't mean that you go and hug somebody and kiss somebody ten times, it doesn't mean that at all. On the contrary it can be quite embarrassing, you know? [Laughter andsmiles.] Any other questions? I, I had a problem there, you see, we arranged a program for Me to speak to the young presidents' organization, the presidents of big, big, of big, big organizations, business organizations and I had to speak to them.

And one of the ladies, of course I mean the questions were very good and everything flowing [UNCLEAR] over and later on she says “But I can't believe it, because she's not at all serious, you see." [Laughter and laughs.] And I laughed and laughed and laughed with that, I said “Now I cannot be serious anymore, I mean, it's too much." [Laughter and laughs.] When there's so much joy bubbling out, why, how can you be serious? This is the idea of a saint that you should be very serious, stern, going out with a stick in his hand all the time hitting everyone on the head [laughter and laughs].

So, any other question [UNCLEAR background]? No. We must have a hall here, big hall we should buy somewhere, we should be able to buy.

I'm thankful to people who are working on Shudy Camp but I think we must hurry up now, people are coming for Guru Pūjā, I told them we'll have it in Shudy Camp. And otherwise if it is not ready we'll have to change the venue, so everybody must go and work it out, I think it is important. We have money, we have no problem on that.

We have to have a nice, grand, beautiful seminar before Guru Pūjā. And there are many coming here, you'll meet all of them, will be a very nice time, real festival we'll be having.

So it would be better that you, all of you combine together and work it out and also give different work to different people; and they should all try to organize it in a beautiful way that there's no quarrel, nothing.

But you'll see people, you see, will say “Oh! This is the room I would like to have for my wife" [laughter], things like that.

Sounds stupidity. “This is the glass for me, I can't give it to you." All such stupid things will be there and I think for such people you should say `You are not for Guru Pūjā, better not be here.' Everybody doesn't deserve to be there. That's you should find out, that what sort of people they are.

If they are fighting for all these little, little things it's best is to tell them that `Sorry, you'd better not come for Guru Pūjā.' So, the most important thing is that in Guru Pūjā we have to receive a special capacity to be a Guru ourselves.

A special intelligence, a special understanding, a kind of a wisdom which gives you discretion and the ability to argue out things.

That will enhance your personality, a beautiful, dignified personality can be created within yourselves, so for that you have to be there with all that dedication and understanding about yourself.

So I'm looking forward to this Guru Pūjā and everybody has to write. Now for Sahasrāra day they are working so hard, the people from Australia have printed so many posters all over the world they have sent it, they have sent it to you also the posters of Sahasrāra Day, have you brought it? No? You haven't shown them.

So next time you must show all of them, they should see that, what they have done, how much; and you must, we have no, nothing like a news from there and this thing, but all this can be discussed among yourself; and you should know about each other, what's happening, where and what ashram is doing, what is the special work they are doing and what is the new thing they have discovered; all sorts of things you can find out from each other. And you can tell others also. This is how you keep in communication with each other.

Oh, there's a very good news, that Doctor Rai, who is the Dean of the Faculty of Physiology in Delhi University, started a research work on the comparative study of Sahaja Yogis and others as far as the physiology is concerned. And he's found out that the people who are not Sahaja Yogis have a very low resistance for diseases, their skin, skin resistance is less and so many things he's found out. And he has put it on, he has tabulated the whole thing and that is being now approved by the Government and is now published, going to be published also.

In the same way, you see, we are thinking of having a research here done for people in Shudy Camp, so that we can also publish something like that with the research. That so far you see so many have been cured, so many got rid of their addictions, so many got rid of their mental problems, so many things happened; but we haven't yet recorded it, we have not put it properly on the record.

Now this is what we are going to do now, anybody who has achieved something or has felt better or has been cured or something like that must give it in writing to these people so they record it, because you see in these modern times they want everything in black and white, so that could be done very well here in England.

Another thing I was thinking that now Nirmalā Yoga has stopped there because of this problem of foreign exchange.

So what we can do is to have a Nirmalā Yog[a] published in India and sent here and you can print it here and sell it here, so that the foreign exchange problem doesn't come in.

Because foreign exchange is such a problem in that country, you have to have a proper committee, this, that, all headaches.

So you can sell them here and distribute them here, it's very easy and Paul can help you there. Paul, can't you? Paul: Yes.

Shri Mataji: Yes.

So it's alright. We get the Nirmalā Yog[a] done there and just the copy sent here, translated. You can also add to it, you can also put something into it and some things from there and some things from here; you can distribute it to all the centers here and we can start like that. Because they created a big problem out of that last Nirmalā Yoga, so I've just stopped, because you see we, we are not very good at human laws I think, sometimes you make mistakes and I don't want you people to be caught up into these human laws.

So you have to be careful. And we can do it, I think we can do it. And as England is the heart it has to circulate everything. But the heart must open out. The conditioning is very bad here, you see, that you are told that you should not express your feelings, you should not say anything, you should be very poised, you should not talk about your feelings.

That's not so in Sahaja Yoga. This is the heart and heart must speak, heart must say; you must know how to say that you love others. It's very easy to say `I hate' but it's very difficult for people to say `I love you'. Because they are afraid, they fear that if you commit like this: “Oh, so you love me? So do this for me." “You love me? So do this for me." [Laughter.] “How dare you say you love me, if you have loved me you must do all this and you must give this to me." Oh, we had some Sahaja Yogis like that. They were abusing Me also that “You said you love us, then why don't You do this for us." Then it becomes a demanding love.

Any other question anywhere? What's happening, John, about your priesthood? [Laughs.] They are getting quite exposed. Exposure is the only way, but still nothing goes into the heads of the people, they are so egoistical, nobody wants to accept that it's all exposed now within, `No, it is fanaticism, it is nonsense.' But still they go on with it, what to do? [Shri Mataji looks around at the yogis then smiles.] Beautiful children you have here. How many are new people who are seeing Me for the first time? Raise your hands please. Ah! Ah, you all look little serious! [Laughter and laughs.] Still rather serious. You shouldn't be serious at all. Good.

Nice. Get the children. He's just hitting the head. [Laughs.] Who is the child crying there so much? Whose child?

Sahaja Yogi: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: This child? What's the matter? Must be hot. Take out the sweater. Eh? Somebody: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: It's alright. I think must be hot for the child. And they feel very thirsty also, you see, these are places where you don't have any humidity much, so they feel very thirsty also in such places I think.

[Shri Mataji listens to the baby who continues to cry.] All of them cry the same, whether they are Indians, English, anything! [Laughter.] From their crying you can't make out what race they come from. [Baby stops crying.] Now better? Have you got some water or something? See! You must understand your children, they won't cry without a reason. They are all realised Souls. It's alright.

[Sahaja Yogi hands Shri Mataji a glass of water.] Thank you, thank you very much. Anything else? Someone: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Can you? Sahaja Yogi [repeats to Shri Mataji]: “How can you best cope if you have to work in a negative situation?"

Shri Mataji: In your office?

Sahaja Yogi: In the office, yes.

Shri Mataji: Negativity in the office?

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: You see, all the negativity have also, has also an aspect which I call is ridiculous and humorous; so anybody who is negative or anything you watch it, see for yourself, don't get involved, just see which part it is, is it ridiculous or it is humorous [laughter]. Then you won't be serious about it.

Sahaja Yogis have a sense of ridiculous, you see, they understand what is ridiculous is; also they understand what is humorous or what is stupid.

So just see that, it is stupid? Alright, let it be, doesn't matter, what can you do? These children are growing so fast, you know. They are so becoming all tall, girls and all that. I'm just trying to make them out one after another.

[To a baby near Her:] Feeling sleepy now. Just sleep off. Sleep, sleep. You can sleep now with light, yeah, why? Just watching Me all the time, you see, despite the laying down [laughs].

Anything else? Now this is supposed to be what? Brunch, dinner, everything put together. [Laughter.] Wah.

So wah wah.

I think we should say the mantras for three times, the Sahasrāra mantras and then we can have this.

Put your hands like this [shows Her hands in meditating position]. Straight. Hands should be straight.

[Sahaja Yogis say the three Sahasrāra mantras.] There are certain routines I think we should follow because Haṁsa is catching for the new people and this is due to this dryness I think in the room there is dryness, in the places where you work there is dryness and in the house there is dryness.

So must use this ghee for the nose. I think one drop in every nostril once in the morning and once in the evening would be good, because I can feel it in Haṁsa, the drying out, the...

If you are getting also drying out in the throat and you feel that all the time there's a kind of a coughing so the best thing for that is to put a few drops of ghee on hot milk or hot water and take that so the whole thing spreads here [indicates the throat from left to right] and it makes it smooth. As you see our hands and all that needs some cream we need this for our [UNCLEAR] we can call it the epithelial cells which are lining and when this line becomes dried out then you feel very funny.

I mean the whole attention gets very upset so I think you should get try in London, it's a good idea, to keep a bottle of ghee with you and you can heat it in the water, hot water, just like you can hold it under a tap and it will work out and then put two drops in the morning and two drops in the night, before sleeping it will be a good idea.

The dryness will go off and also in the ear I think we should put some sort of an Olive oil or something will be good idea, because all? I feel the dryness very much since I've come in London I can feel that you people have this dryness. That's a very common thing and that can also solve your problem of hay fever and all those things.

Now for liver we have found out great things and I think I'll now sit down and write all that is to be done for liver and we can circulate it to all the members what is to be.

It's very, very simple things that you have to do it and if it works out them all your liver problems will be over.

Most of the diseases are there because of the liver so I think I should circulate that and it's very simple, not much of medicine or anything but it's very simple and it will work out.

This time it's surprising all the Sahaja Yogis kept very good health on India tour, none of them had problem on the liver, nothing of the kind, surprising, every one of them.

So also it is connected, you see, with the flowing; if you have the cold which is all the time flowing and it's sort of giving you sneezing and all that, you must know it is due to liver, It's surprising! I hope the doctors will forgive Me when I tell this, that you see when the liver gives the heat the phlegm in the body melts and gives these problems. When the phlegm melts, you see, you start getting the water flowing through your nose and also you get other problems like sneezing and also hay fever. All those things are from liver.

If liver is alright... that's why it's called liver because it's connected with life? If your liver is alright you won't have these problems and that circulation we must send. [Looks at a Sahaja Yogi.] I think if you can come tomorrow sometime to write down all those things that are to be done for the two [UNCLEAR] and all those who... and also sort of your friends and all that you can tell them that for liver take this, it's very important.

So, are you not going to sing a song tome? Who? Let's be having! What about Bristol group? You know I have an idea, I must tell you, I thought in India we can start a kind of Sahaja Disco! [Laughter.] Nobody knows what you sing in a disco, isn't it? But you can give them realisation secretly! And now In India they think that you are very great people to have discos and all that sort of thing. Disco is a very big thing [laughter].

So who's going to sing? Where are the musicians? They're all distributed all over. Let him sing, he sings very well Yah! Very good! He's got it [likely to Bernard's guitar] I knew! [Bernard arrives with a guitar.] [Likely about the previously crying baby:] He's alright now, see! [To Bernard:] Where are your companions? Hmm! Let him come. Hello! But he sings! I never knew. [Someone hands something to Shri Mataji.] Oh God, that's not necessary, just give it like that, in the hands, it's alright, just in the hands, not good to eat a lot So is there any restriction in this hall? [Looks at watch.] You can come in, Danya, there's room there, just come along. Why are you standing all the time? You can come here. How is your mother? She's here, is she? How's her throat? I can't see her. How are you Magda? Better? [To Magda:] May God bless you.

[Shri Mataji organizes a little table being placed in front of Her and tells yogis She can hold a plate in Her hand.] It's alright, it's quite safe in My hand! Don't you worry about anything else.

[To Cyril, an older Sahaja Yogi from Birmingham:] I think you can sit on the steps, it would be better for you, I know it's difficult.

[Sahaja Yogis start singing bhajans `Om Bhūr Bhuvah'.]

Contents: 1987-04-19 Easter Pūjā, Ghost of Materialism, Nirmalā House, Rome, Italy

Happy Easter to all of you! It's a great day to come to Rome to celebrate the resurrection of Christ. Now we have to do the resurrection of Christianity, which is just moving in the opposite direction of Christ's resurrection. As you know that Christ was just Chaitanya, but He came in the body of Chaitanya. The whole body was made of Chaitanya and He resurrected Himself to say to the world that you can resurrect yourself also, if you can fill your body with Chaitanya. There is always a struggle between the matter and the spirit.

In human life what we see that matter is all the time trying to take over the spirit. And that is how we fail in our resurrection. We fail in our resurrection because we give way to matter. We have come from matter, easy to go back to matter. But all the Christian nations have taken to the material development, identification with the matter, not the sublimation of the matter. Why we have gone wrong is because matter has become so important to us. We are so much identified with the matter, with our body, with all that is material for us. People are so much worried about the material things. What I find that the whole culture has become materialistic and they're absolutely ashamed about it. But still they continue the way it is so shameful and so degrading. It degrades human beings. As I have come in the West I see this trend very clearly.

For example, in a household whatever they purchase is for sale, all the time.

So whatever they will purchase they will see to it that it should be of a certain standard. Like, it should be, if it has to be a diamond it has to be a perfect diamond, because it has to be sold again. If they purchase the house they are afraid that we should not spoil it or we should not make it beautiful, we should not try to do something that will lower the price of the house because we like the particular type of decoration. Everything is for sale. They never enjoy any matter, you see. The enjoyment is not there. Whatever they buy, they think that `can we sell it back?' Say, even about, I've seen even precious stones. Like in India, everyone can afford to have precious stones, because the rich will buy the most expensive ones, then the poor people can buy ordinary ones, like silver everybody can have, because some can have silver which is hundred percent, some one can have little mixed up, some can have with some other material. But if you go to any country in the West, it has to have the `hallmark', you see. The hallmark has to be there, otherwise they'll never purchase it unless there is a hallmark, is a hallmark means, it can be resold. Now, supposing in India you buy some... everything without hallmarks... there's no hallmark, but, when you want to sell it also anytime, I mean, if you have to sell it, then you go in the market and they know what is the at intrinsic value of that particular silver and that's how they say you. But we don't have hallmarks.

Now in gold, same thing they do is to have nine carat gold, with a hallmark. What is nine carat gold? Is not gold at all, but they'll have a hallmark for that. And that will be very expensive because you see they don't have much gold so they put a hallmark and make it expensive. The whole economy is that stupidly built towards materialism. That matter is not for enjoyment but for selling off.

So they do not enjoy anything whatsoever in their lives. Nowadays I don't know if plastic can be resold or not, but I have seen people who are even particular about the plastic, about stainless steel, about anything that they have. May not be resold but now the, psychologically they're built in such a manner that they want to even preserve, if there's a plastic thing, even there's a thread, anything, a pin, they would like to preserve it, you see. Nothing like throwing out anything.

All these things will lead us into unhappiness, frustration and stupidity.

So now they form an anticulture.

What is an anti-culture? Is nothing but another form of materialism, which is ugliness. Like you paint your hair, you become something anti-culture. If you wear holy pants, then you are anti-culture.

If you wear dirty clothes, then you are anti-culture. But also these are sellable. There are markets and markets where you can get all dirty clothes, `stone washed' clothes. All these fashions are coming from the two sides or two faces of materialistic attitude of human beings. And they're unashamed sometimes the way they ask for a few things. Supposing you know somebody has forgotten a spoon with someone; so they'll telephone three times, `Have you got my spoon with you? Have you got my spoon?' Unashamed, there's no culture about it.

While, I don't know, might have been better before, that what I know about India, that even now, in a good family, it is always said that “if somebody's pen is with you, be careful and return it back, but even if your gold is with someone, don't ask, it's not done, it's not cultured, it's not sophistication." But the whole sophistication has become materialistic, it's maddening and that maddens the Western mind.

For example, if you have to serve, say wines and things, you have to have different type of cups, different types of plates, different type of spoons. You've got spoons for avocado, you've got spoons for different things, I mean, you go on like mad and if that is not with you, then they'll laugh at you. If they'll come to your house, “O God! They served us avocado with ice-cream spoons!" That's the greatest sin one can commit.

So the whole idea of sin becomes so materialistic and nonsensical.

So the resurrection cannot take place when the matter is so dead and gone.

Then this matter enters into the brain. When it enters into the brain it rots there. Then you start discussing about, say, banking or about how to economize this. I mean the mantra is in London, as I say, must be everywhere `save pounds'. As soon as you go to the airport, there is big mantra written “Save pounds by hiring a taxi at Heathrow." Just imagine, they are not even aware of what they are doing. All the time save pounds, save money, save this, save... for what? Because they are so frustrated, the whole material stuff is so frustrating that they have to save money to get over that frustration. And the frustration is counterbalanced by drugs or by drinking wines and all kinds of nonsensical things and also rotten cheese or some sort of a thing that is absolutely a dead matter, useless thing which makes you dead and sleepy, so that you run away from reality, because you are so frustrated that you want to have something that will counteract it. Then with that also, when they find, it's not done, still they are extremely annoyed.

So what to do next? If you are that unhappy you have to find out something else.

As I tell a story about children who were naughty and the mother was going out, so she told that “See, you are naughty children, so I lock you up in the kitchen" because anywhere else they can break something, spoil something and she cannot sell them again, perhaps.

So, she puts them in the kitchen thinking, “What can they ruin there?" So when she came back, they said, “We ate all your tea leaves!" Like that, when they get so frustrated, they don't know what to do, so they put nails into their ears, pins into their cheeks, something into their nose, they don't know what to do with themselves, you see, so they'll pull out their mustaches or they'll paint their hair, or do all kinds of funny nonsensical things, absolutely frustrated people! But the worst part, which cannot be understood is, that so confident about it! They don't do it with any diffidence, it's complete confidence. Their attention is all over to see “Now, how we should be?", now if they see a tree which has leaves which have become absolutely sort of crumpled down because of malnourishment, so they want to be like that. They want to become people who have malnourishment.

So they look like miserable people. Their cheeks are inside, noses outside, sort of thing goes on and if you see them, they look like sickly people. That's the sign of finding out some way of expression of their frustration. But Christ paved the way, the other way round. He said, “Put Chaitanya into your matter” so you'll enjoy that Chaitanya. Put Chaitanya, the vibrations, into the matter. This is His message. He didn't get resurrected only like His spirit going out, but the whole His body resurrected Himself.

So He's talking about the resurrection of the body, of the matter, within us.

In Sahaja Yoga also when we come in, Kuṇḍalinī rises, She gives you realisation, you do feel the Chaitanya in your hands, you feel it all around, your faces shine like beautiful lotuses, your skin improves, you look blooming, everything is fine, but still there are material attachments, which may be very subtle, could be very gross. The gross could be like `This is my carpet, this is my car, this is my ornament', something like that. But if it comes to the style of Christ, you have to get identified with the matter which is vibrated, which is vibrating, which has got vibrating value, not material value but vibrating value, spiritual value, Divine value. Could be anything, could be flowers, could be water, could be a sarī, could be a seat, could be anything that becomes valuable.

So attention starts shifting from gross to vibrations.

But, even now if you have the lurking attention into material things, then it's difficult for you to rise fast. Everything that you use, is it helpful for your vibrations or not? Everything that you do, is it good for your vibrations or not? Or is it the same old fashion you are carrying?

Like the mad people I saw yesterday, they had come for holiday and they didn't know how to enjoy, they were trying everything, you see. They must have paid lots of money to their tourism, poor things, they must have paid lots of money in the hotels, they must have paid lots of money in the restaurant, but I felt they were not enjoying at all, none of them were enjoying, they were miserable and they didn't know what to do. And at the end of it I was thinking, that they might just go and break their heads with frustration.

So matter can never give you joy. Only the matter that is vibrated, that has vibrations, can give you joy. A human being can never give you joy, may be your wife, may be your children, may be your father, mother or anyone, unless and until that person is, has got vibrations, because joy is the blessings of God.

And unless and until you have connected with God, whatever you may try, whatever you may acquire, you can never have that joy. You may have that artificial confidence, because a person who is frustrated has to say, show outside that, “Oh no, I'm not frustrated. I am very happy." It's like to be tense and say, “I'm very relaxed", it's like that.

So, they may just, for keeping up the images, might say that “We are very confident” but they're very diffident people. They are weak.

So it could be your children, it could be anyone, any human being. Maybe you might think too much of that person, you may be very much identified with that person, you may think that this is the greatest thing, greatest person you have ever met, it cannot give you joy. But an ordinary person, a laborer, maybe a beggar, maybe somebody, a Sādhu, sitting alone in the forest, will be such a joy-giving personality. He may speak, may not speak, will be such a precious, valuable thing for you, than a person who is rich, well placed, highly adored. That's where Christianity has failed, coveting with the kings.

Now this Mister Pope here, My husband went and saw him and the Pope was very nice to him because he is, comes from a, he's a big man in the material world. He won't see Me! Or I may not see him! So the whole value system, the whole value system has to change and that value system is that you care for nothing else but for your spirit. Nothing matters but the spirit. The spirit gives you the comfort of a palace. It gives you the bliss of all the protection. It gives you the joy of all the relationships of the world.

Then why should you care for something which is no good? You can see it so clearly. If you have your vision clear, you can see it so much around you, that these people look so unhappy, so miserable, running after this, running after that. Now first they were hippies, then they became punks, now they're becoming well-dressed gentlemen. Everything is from this to that, to that to this, leading them nowhere whatsoever.

So clearly you see that you are away from them.

You are in a different realm and you see them.

So don't go near them. Try to show that beauty in you, so that they come to you and see for yourself, see for themselves, that you are resurrected people, you are resurrected. Spirit is always there in your heart, always there, watching you, seeing you, but now because the matter that surrounds the spirit is being resurrected, is being vibrated, your eyes shine, your skin shines, your face shines, you look so beautiful, that is what is resurrection. In Sahaja Yoga, there's no place for stupid seriousness. What are you serious about? “Oh, I have to sell my diamond and you know they said there's a little black in it." So what? Wear it! All this seriousness comes from the dead matter in your head and you know on the dead grows the fungus and also you know that this fungus gives you all kinds of diseases.

So keep away from all that is dead. Only the Chaitanya makes the matter vibrate and unless and until you are connected with God, you cannot vibrate anything. Those great saints, prophets, incarnations who came on this earth tried to tell this to all of us, that “get connected with God." Everybody said the same thing. Of course I have done the job Myself! That's good, they're appreciating it. [Laughter.] [Aside:] That's good they're appreciating it.

And you have to just think about it that this connection should not be loose, it should not be disturbed, it should not be doubting. Fix it up properly. Then you will never lose it for anything whatsoever like “My wife is like this, my husband is like this, my brother is like this." These are the signs of very weak personalities. If you are a strong personality, with those vibrations if you are strong, then you make the other person also stronger and bring the other person into Sahaja Yoga and give him the nectar of life.

So today is the message that we have to resurrect our matter, within and without.

So you are raising your Kuṇḍalinī upward, is all right. Also you have to spread it, horizontally, to your hands, to your feet, to your body, to your face, to your thought, to everything. What is a mantra is nothing but a thought which is vibrated. Any thought that is vibrated is a mantra, but the vibrations can only be carried by a particular type of, or we can say a particular coefficience is needed. In dress, in thinking, in anything that is worldly, there is a kind of a coefficience that works out the vibrations. If that coefficience is not there, you cannot catch the vibrations and you cannot also give vibrations.

So there are only two divergences, one is the left, another is the right; there are not too many: very easy to get rid of them. There are only two turns in Italy, one is right or left.

So in the same way within us if you don't go to the left and you don't go to the right, you keep in the center, you are vibrated! You can vibrate everything! But to keep in the center, not to go to any extremes.

Even in Sahaja Yoga there are people like mad, they meditate for twelve hours. What is there to meditate for twelve hours? I mean you are already in meditation. Or else they will make a picnic out of Sahaja Yoga. One extreme to that. What is needed is to think that, `I am the Spirit and I am connected with God. How much am I connected? How much I am sucking in? How much I am getting to it?' That's all. You don't have to do too much about it. Those days are gone when people used to break their heads, stand on their heads or go to Himālayas. But peculiarities in temperament is not a sign of a good Sahaja Yogi. All the peculiarities come from the matter.

So a peculiar person in Sahaja Yoga, maybe he might be bhootish or he might be egoistical. One of the two things in a peculiar person. There are no peculiarities in a Sahaja Yogi. There are individualities, but not peculiarities. Means everybody will have the nose that he had, it won't change, he'll have the eyes which he had, but there will be a light in the eye.

In the same way we can see about our clothes, we start wearing sober clothes, but not pale clothes or dirty clothes: we wear colourful things because we are colourful. At Sahasrāra there are seven colours.

Today I wore this colour, because this is the colour of spring in India, because all the flowers are yellow and there is also mustard which is yellow and this is called as a colour of the spring. In Indian culture, you see, there's a day on this that they wear this particular colour to celebrate the spring, because we're very sort of connected with the nature.

So today we have received a very nice message from New York as if they have dreamt that I'm going to wear a colour of the spring, so I wish somebody could read it out to you what they have said and you will be surprised how it tallies, how it tallies with what I'm wearing today and as soon as I wore this sarī the thing became hot and I knew this would be. That is the moment it became hot and I'm sorry for that, because you are finding it rather too much.

So, today is a day to celebrate the spring and as you know I was born in spring and that Christ was resurrected in spring.

So the spring starts after the resurrection of Christ. In the same way we are now in the spring mood, to enjoy, to be happy, to be just blissful. But not to be frivolous, not to be vulgar, not to be childish. That's the way a Sahaja Yogi should be! And I'm very happy that at this spontaneous arrangement of Mine to come to Rome, so many of you have come. It shows how much you love Me and I can't express really what I feel about the whole thing, except for tears coming to My eyes. For whatever Christ has sacrificed His life, which was a terrible thing to happen, that He sacrificed His life, He suffered so much, but the outcome of that is you, all of you here, who are resurrected today and your Āgñyā are cleared and everything is so very fine.

May God bless you!

Some breakthrough has to be found out. What is it truth you think we can do there?

Shri Mataji: And that's why it's working out that way. Because if it was one sided, it should not have worked that way. It's both the sides are there. Come in, come in, come in, move forward.

Sahaja Yogi: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: How are the children? Are they all right? Yeah. Come on. Hamid is there or gone?

Sahaja Yogi: Hamid is on the way. He is here.

Shri Mataji: He is here. I wanted to know about his experiment, what has happened?

Sahaja Yogi: I think he did not continue so far.

Shri Mataji: Hamid, what has happened about your experiment? Of saving the... Come here, can't hear you. Come in, come in, come in.

Hamid: Mother at this moment it's impossible to go there. It's also about one metre of snow.

Shri Mataji: Yes, I saw, I saw it while coming, but now how is it otherwise? Hamid: I must go there.

Shri Mataji: But in the beginning how was that till now.

Hamid: In the beginning [UNCLEAR it was nothing so bad] and last summer I was the last time there and I gave your pictures there at different places and vibrated with water and come back and now after winter I must go again there.

Shri Mataji: But why don't you take some water from here. Did you take from yesterday's Pūjā? Hamid: I did it. You have given me water from India.

Shri Mataji: What I thought that now when it was snowing everywhere the same water that is there can vibrate and I was putting My eyes to the snow.

So may it might have also.

So that's one way because when it is snowing, before the snow if you put it then the vibrations can be taken over by the snow.

Hamid: We have put it before snowing.

Shri Mataji: Then it's all right. It might.

Hamid: I am going in month or in fifteen days I am going there and have a look, what's happening got [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Then you can establish it and say something about it.

Hamid: I hope so, I hope so.

Shri Mataji: But did you publish anything in India about it? Not so far.

Hamid: We are not so far. I can write it down. I gave only this paper but I have found before this experiment.

Shri Mataji: Why not write it down? We'll publish it in India.

Hamid: Yes I will do it. And I am writing the next experiment for India. Last year we wanted to do it, I couldn't come. And I am writing down all the thing what we have to do there. May be Doctor Sangwe.

Shri Mataji: Now we have got thirty acres more, means fifty five.

Hamid: I have written already Doctor Sangwe that he must sent me some samples from the earth and I can analyze it. And he hasn't known about it.

Shri Mataji: The trouble is you see they, come in, come in, come in, just move forward. You do not spread out so much you can work out that.

Hamid: [UNCLEAR] last time. [UNCLEAR] analyze it.

Shri Mataji: No the thing what happened.

Hamid: They haven't known about it.

Shri Mataji: No the thing what happened, at first I said you must have one plantation of sugarcane.

Now for that they said to put it right you have to spend at least two lakhs of rupees and they said one lakh of rupee is needed for the plantation. I said that is too much for us.

So I said do one thing. I got some other people just looked at it, they said if you make different, different steps then it won't be so expensive.

Hamid: I have shown you Mother.

Shri Mataji: Yes you have given Me that, but the papers are with you still, I think.

Hamid: Yes, exactly.

Shri Mataji: Then you have to send them. If you send them to Sangwe then I will work it out.

Because now I have sanctioned, I said all right take one lakh of rupees to do that way and then work it out.

Hamid: Yes and I have taken more projects but we couldn't use the whole land for experiment, we need only a couple of acres.

Shri Mataji: Just to show.

Hamid: To show somebody.

Shri Mataji: But first the sugarcane let it be, so that you have some money in hand to do your projects and things. All right, I just wanted to know anyone of you know how to make the plasterboard.

The Plasterboard.

Sahaja Yogi: It's plastering?

Shri Mataji: Plasterboard.

Sahaja Yogi: I don't think so, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: It's a secret.

Sahaja Yogi: It's new for me.

Sahaja Yogi: Unfortunately we don't have any.

Shri Mataji: You don't have any plasterboard? Then what do you do? You see when you have the wood how do you plaster it.

Sahaja Yogi: When we have the wall.

Shri Mataji: The wood. You have wood that dries and we have to put a plasterboard on top and plaster it.

Sahaja Yogi: Normally we don't plaster the wood Shri Mataji. We let it like it is. Normal.

Shri Mataji: You leave the wood like it is.

Sahaja Yogi: We leave the wood naturally. We don't plaster it, in Austria.

Shri Mataji: So that would suit our project here what we want to make now. Isn't it, the hotel project? You leave the wood as it is.

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, people like it just the wood, the natural wood.

Shri Mataji: Not in here. The Italians are like Indians they like everything polished, done, isn't it? They think it is a poor matched up. But you see in a hotel you get people from outside. They would love it.

Sahaja Yogi: But we can plaster easily with panels, with plaster panels so we could cover the wood.

This is possible. Plaster panels, readymade.

Shri Mataji: That's what I'm saying. Do you know how to make the plaster panels?

Sahaja Yogi: We can get it easily, we can buy it. Buy it and cut it.

Shri Mataji: That's all right, but I just wanted to know if you know how to make it. In India how they make it I saw. What is the way they do it? If you can find out the secret. That's one of the factories we have to have in India. And also the fibreboard. The one it is called as fibreboard that you put all the fibrous things inside and have two wooden, what you call them, thin wood, like a panel and then press it together, called as plasterboard. No this is plasterboard and that's called as fibreboard.

Sahaja Yogi: We have such production in Austria.

Shri Mataji: Yeah, but you'll have to find out how they do it. Thirdly, then the solar energy. Do you have any idea of solar energy?

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, I was already asking an engineer how to do it and he gave me the exact measurements for the old project. How many solar panels we have to use, square metres, how to do it, the concept of it.

Shri Mataji: So you have solar projects?

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, yes we have.

Shri Mataji: And it can be used for air conditioning also, the same solar energy? You can cool the room.

Sahaja Yogi: We have to produce electricity. The other way round, yes. To produce electricity and use the air condition.

Shri Mataji: Really?

Sahaja Yogi: Yeah, I think so.

Shri Mataji: How can it be?

Sahaja Yogi: With the solar energy.

Shri Mataji: Solar energy becomes electricity? Yogi: Yes, that's coming from the...

Shri Mataji: Panels.

Sahaja Yogi: Panels and get the sunshine and comes the electricity out. We must do it. We must do it very well.

Sahaja Yogi: That is too expensive.

Shri Mataji: You see but we have a lot of solar energy in our country. See, so many of these countries have solar energy and if you can convert it into air conditioning it will be a better idea. Very expensive is it?

Sahaja Yogi: Very expensive. We can use maybe the wind.

Sahaja Yogi: The wind, Mother, is very good, is the wind.

Shri Mataji: Windmill. And what do they do with the windmill? They suck it.

Sahaja Yogi: It turns a generator and gives electricity.

Shri Mataji: Oh I see, I see. It's one conversion of one into another.

Sahaja Yogi: Solar energy to convert into electricity is very expensive but to convert into warm water it's easy, for example. The whole warm water supply, the heating could be done with solar energy.

Shri Mataji: I mean we have wind energy quite a lot. We have wind energy in India quite a lot. That can be utilized also.

Sahaja Yogi: Here we can use, we can have it. Especially at the new land, I have seen we have here a strong north and a west wind. That is very good for to do such a thing.

A couple of one or two kilometre distance is a wind, is there, it's already there. They have used the wind for.

Shri Mataji: It acts like a turbine. Yes, you see these things we have to think about because you see this money orientation, you see. It's so funny that see there's money like that, you see. Now, everything must go into money. Everything must become money. And then it goes from here to something else, so in this bringing this, making this available as money becomes expensive, so all this foreign exchange, this that all problems you see, everything goes to Switzerland and from there comes back. [Laughter.] So it's a very wrong thing.

So if you have to make a Barter system, a proper Barter system we should learn to use the energy of the same country and to convert it into something else. And I think when you have these also hydroelectric you can do very well in your country. Hydroelectric, because you have lots of waterfalls and thing, such thing. But you don't need so much of energy now. You have produced lot of energy in your country.

Sahaja Yogi: Where, in India, Mother or in Iran?

Shri Mataji: No, no, in your country.

Sahaja Yogi: In Iran I haven't any idea what they are doing today. I try to forget my country.

Shri Mataji: But say in Austria you don't need any energy. But the life is so expensive.

Sahaja Yogi: It is very expensive.

Shri Mataji: Extremely expensive, so to make it cheaper we must find out the ways and methods.

I think the Barter system must be used. To use the Barter system somehow to send things which are made there say to countries which are making something else and let's make a Barter system. It's very expensive, I think. The way you were describing the other day I was surprised, the building cost.

Sahaja Yogi: Yes. We are always surprised, when Guido is telling us how much he has spent for the house he built.

Shri Mataji: Who?

Sahaja Yogi: When Guido told us the extension of the small house but this we cannot build one wall out of this. He builds a house. It's very expensive.

Shri Mataji: It's all machine, that's the trouble, everything goes into a machine business.

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, Mother without machine you couldn't do, in the Western country without machine you couldn't dare it.

Shri Mataji: No, but once you become machine you see what happens.

Sahaja Yogi: The people is very, very...

Shri Mataji: It becomes expensive. Instead of becoming cheaper it becomes expensive. Because the labor becomes expensive. Everything becomes expensive with machine, nothing is cheaper. Wherever there are machines things are very expensive.

So what's the use of having the machine, then? I mean, I would say on the whole if you see Indians have lots of things with them, like they have got gold, they have got precious stones and things with them in their houses, they have got brass, they have got silver, normally, but here nobody can have it because everything is machine. They have cottons you don't have, woolens you don't have, everything is artificial. You may have ten coats but all of them are artificial. Why not have two real coats?

Sahaja Yogi: Mother, I have a suggestion. This is newly the people try to grow trees from tissue. What you think about it?

Shri Mataji: Tissues?

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, from the Meristem that is the Kuṇḍalinī from the trees. I want to try it. All the trees in Austria and Germany dying and we couldn't reproduce it and that is only one way to produce a tree from the tissue, especially from Kuṇḍalinī and I want to try it a couple of times.

Shri Mataji: If you give a bandhan to every tree it might develop into that way. If you give it a bandhan, you see.

Sahaja Yogi: That is very easy.

Shri Mataji: You don't have to go round and round and round. Try that. [Laughs and laughter.]

Sahaja Yogi: You all are going on the easy way and I try the difficult. We have got used to easy thing.

Shri Mataji: You don't want to eat this way, you want to eat this. [Laughter.] How is your Nābhī, is it all right now? [Laughter.] I wanted you to write to Arun, you see. He writes to you, does he?

Sahaja Yogini: Yes.

Shri Mataji: But he is very much spoiled. You see, he is very funny. You have to write to him what your culture has done to you. He wants you see his wife to be Western cultured, he wants her to cut her hair and to become, so stupid fellow, I tell you. He doesn't talk to her.

Sahaja Yogi: Arun Goel.

Shri Mataji: Ha, he doesn't know what your culture has done to you. She is such a nice. She is a doctor.

Sahaja Yogi: Who is it, Mother?

Shri Mataji: This Arun Goel, he is an architect. I can't believe it and he has a left Nābhī problem, he had blood cancer and I mean he ill-treats his wife like he doesn't talk to her at all. He wants her to cut her hair and he wants her to be modern, shockingly. I think you better write to him.

Sahaja Yogini: Yes, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: He is really making her so unhappy. It makes Me very hurt. You see, because I have married her to him. And such a nice girl. You see his wife? It's a very beautiful person. He says that we should have you see, he studied in a convent, he says so I am very convent oriented. I said it is nonsense all these convents are. You better write to him. He is a funny fellow I tell you. I told him if you ask maybe she will tell you all the dangers of this convent culture. Horrible. You had yourself a problem of a husband of that kind and he is becoming the exactly the same style. You better write to him. He is absurd, absolutely absurd. She has very long hair so he cut her hair quite a lot. I said if she wants to cut your hair what do you think? Very aggressive like that and he keeps quiet, doesn't talk to her, doesn't smile, doesn't laugh. You are lucky I must say to marry Midha but this one is, I don't know who will marry him. That's why I wanted to talk to you. And he has a left Nābhī problem and she is a doctor. You see he had blood cancer you know and he was cured of blood cancer, he was dying.

So I thought better to give him a wife who is a doctor. He is trying to show off. And I feel terrible because I think it's really injustice. He has not even registered the marriage so far. And better not if I again see if he is going to treat her like this I'll ask him to leave her and will marry her to somebody again.

All the children are upset. [Laughter.] So we have to decide about Austria. I'm coming to Austria.

Sahaja Yogis: Yes, Shri Mataji. Yes please.

Shri Mataji: And I think we should move out of the cities. And go to the villages and get the people there.

Sahaja Yogi: We're following already James' example, Shri Mataji. We have started already.

Shri Mataji: You are? Really? Good. And also you have to make that plan for Guido as I told you.

That's an idea, isn't it?

Sahaja Yogi: We will start tomorrow, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: So the thing that is in the upper level should look like a rustic thing and down below you can have cement if you want. That's quite four stories you can't have with wood.

Sahaja Yogi: I mean basically yes, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Yes, on the top story we'll all have wood. Lower is all, we can use the same brick business for the pillars and things. That's a hot country also we have to think from that point of view.

So if there is a nice inside a place for air to move it will be better, so you have a courtyard, it would be a better idea.

But do it fast because they have to get it passed that's all. Even if you don't do that exactly the same you see doesn't matter it is Italy like India, [laughter] it doesn't matter. They are not so particular about laws and things. The more particular they become the worst the countries, because they have no chances of producing anything nice, such a jammed thing. If you have too many laws you are just jammed into it.

International law, national law, God knows all kinds of laws. [Laughs.] Take you nowhere.

I'm very happy Austria is doing so well in Sahaja Yoga and I hope all of you will now create more Sahaja Yogis. And you are the people who can now publish about AIDS and things, where did we go wrong, why we make mistakes. Now they are saying preventive things. Now why have preventive things, why have it? What about our children? They will get it.

So why do you want to have it. Why do you want to continue with this dirty culture? Why can't we change ourselves? Can't we lead a life of say sanity? You people can write like that. And it's quite an international thing.

Sahaja Yogi: Some journalists they think already that it has been sent by God.

So that they come back to a better life, so we should may be also emphasize a little bit on that.

Shri Mataji: Yes, you see sometimes a person say supposing you write an article. I told them the trick. You write an article saying why, what is this. Why not we think of our children, are they going to die like this. What is it what are we going to give them. Like that you talk. And then somebody else answers, a Sahaja Yogi saying that this is the answer. [Laughter and applause.] So we can trick them like that, you see and we can manage you see because the people are so stony there, you have to go from both the sides otherwise doesn't work out with them. [Laughs.] You have to play tricks otherwise it doesn't work out.

Sahaja Yogi: Mother, another question. Guido has told me I must give some trees for this new land.

Have You desired which trees?

Shri Mataji: What trees?

Sahaja Yogi: For this new land give a project and.

Shri Mataji: For him. What for?

Sahaja Yogi: Not the building.

Sahaja Yogi: He wants some suggestions from You, Shri Mataji.

Sahaja Yogi: I want You give me every time. If You have a special desire I can do it.

Shri Mataji: You see it's such a vast land. Such a vast land and I don't know what is in his mind is.

But you see there they have two things I have seen is this roman pines they have here, it's very common plus the conifers are there, evergreens.

Sahaja Yogi: At these places we have more oak trees already but they are not so healthy.

Shri Mataji: All right, you come and see the land and see for yourself.

Sahaja Yogi: I have seen it.

Shri Mataji: Yes and then you see for yourself what you would like to plant here. Because you see I have seen that everything cannot be planted. That's the trouble is. Yes, but you can have olives. Avocado.

Sahaja Yogi: Avocado, papaya, mango.

Shri Mataji: All these things, Mango you can have?

Sahaja Yogi: Litchi.

Shri Mataji: Litchis you can have.

Sahaja Yogi: Mango is a little bit problem.

Shri Mataji: Mango is uncertain. Let's try some mangoes also, why not. [Laughter.] With vibrations might be. [Laughter.] Might survive.

Sahaja Yogi: With your vibrations happens everything.

Shri Mataji: So we can have lots of, now in the house that I'm building, I'm putting all kinds of things there, whether they survive or not. We'll see whatever survives we'll have it. Avocado, I am going to put olives, everything in that house.

Sahaja Yogi: Mother, the land is very good for bee, for honey. Yes, we can have there very good honey.

Shri Mataji: Honey.

Sahaja Yogi: Is it good?

Shri Mataji: Very good. But you have to be careful with them.

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, it is very far from here.

Shri Mataji: Yes it's all right. Then you have to have flowers.

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, flowers are every time there.

Shri Mataji: If you have flowers then you can have honey also. But what is the best flower for honey?

Sahaja Yogi: I think these Raps, this yellow one and Acacia is very good. Acacia is the best one at this point.

Shri Mataji: Yes, that's what you should find out what is good for that. You should plant that. But I was thinking why not try some perfumes, from India. We can get mogra, we can get jasmine, champa and then we can make perfume. It will be a better idea.

Sahaja Yogi: No problem. It is a big land.

Shri Mataji: A very big land. Yes very big land. You're very lucky. [Laughs.] But actually you see you must know that the land is going into prices very high.

So I told them, “Make the ashram like a hotel so if we have to sell it we can sell it." Now I am talking of something else, just the opposite of what I have told you. Then with that money we can buy something else. Because, you see, we need not live in a very expensive land. We can use that for a better thing, better purpose. Just now I am thinking of making it into a hotel-like structure so that in case we have, because it's very expensive and we can sell it as a hotel very much, all right.

Sahaja Yogi: Mother we can take our bees with us, we are going another land, we must have, here fifty, sixty persons in an ashram they need honey also.

Shri Mataji: No, no, why I was saying so that in that amount we can have four ashrams.

So why not we have it, you see. In that amount we can have much more so. I mean, we don't want posh places or anything for ashram. That's what I was thinking for.

Sahaja Yogi: And flowers we must have also.

Shri Mataji: Yes. I mean, you have to do a garden which is suitable for a hotel and walking paths and all that to begin with. Then we'll see about it later on. Or horses and things like that.

Sahaja Yogi: Horses, is very good. They are crazy for horses.

Shri Mataji: That's it, so that people those who want to buy our hotel can do it and we can shift from there and take another land which is more suitable for an ashram.

Sahaja Yogi: I have heard if somebody holds here a new race of horse they can get money from government, may be we can try this new race. This is traditional horse which is pure race, pure Italian and the government gives all the funds to keep the race alive.

So it's enough to have a stable and look after the horse.

Shri Mataji: We can make lots of stables there because the land, you see that is uneven you see what you can do is to put a stable six feet over the height or eight feet at the most so the ground could be made stables on top is the building you see coming up.

So the what you call them supporting pillars can be used for the stables down below.

So when you move it from there to there you see this is the house and actually you will have to raise some sort of pillars to put the house here, then again you come down again you come down like that.

So underneath you can put all the horses also.

Sahaja Yogi: I hope I haven't forgotten what I asked.

Shri Mataji: You have to come to India, also see My, this house that I am building and also to tell Me what should I grow there.

Sahaja Yogi: Mother you told me. [Laughter.] All right, Mother.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji, may I thank you in the name of all the Austrian Sahaja Yogis for this fantastic weekend we were allowed to share with You and this all the other Sahaja Yogis. I think yesterday was the best bhajans for all of us since You gave us the opportunity to reduce our ego, our superego so we really could enjoy, there were no any obstacles. We really enjoyed and I think this was very wonderful.

We thank You very much!

Shri Mataji: Yes that's really was very spontaneous. The whole thing worked out very spontaneously just on the phone he asked Me, I said, “Yes, I am coming." So it worked out like that, so fast. But what I feel about all the time is to go deep into it. Is that we do not go to the left or right, we go deep, you see.

Like I was telling that you cannot make fun of God. You cannot make like Gregoire's book when I read it I was little surprised. Because you can't use God the way you can use other people, you cannot make fun.

So what you have to do is to move in a very protocolish way towards God, is to be devoted, dedicated, venerated style, you see. It's an adoration which you must show with that idea that we are going towards God. It's God, you see, God is God. It cannot be compared with anyone.

So it's a big chance you have.

And know that you are very fortunate and that you are so lucky that you got such a nice chance to go towards God.

So with that depth we should move and then you will be surprised that you'll grow very fast like a tree grows when it goes deeper, in the same way we have to go deeper and deeper into it.

So the connection is very, very deep and sound.

May God bless you all from Austria! May God bless you! Austria means Astra. Astra means the weapon, the weapon of God.

So may God bless you! Thank you very much! Sahaja Yogis: We thank you very much, Shri Mataji!

Shri Mataji: May God bless you all! May God bless you! Enjoy your work enjoy everything that you have. May God bless you! May God bless you! May God bless you! She is very good. She has grown up so much, you see. I couldn't recognize. All the children are becoming big, big, big and I was thinking that now who is this one, then I realised.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji Olivia is our best Lakṣhmī which we have in Austria. She takes care so well about the babies and she likes it very much to do it. I must say, yes very nice.

Shri Mataji: She is like a grandmother.

May God bless you! May God bless you! Happy to see you all here and enjoy and prosper in your own glory.

Sahaja Yogis: Bolo Śhrī Dakshinamurthy Śhrī Ādi Shakti Mātājī Śhrī Nirmalā Devī ki jay.

Shri Mataji: How did you come by lift so many? Now don't go too many.

Sahaja Yogis: Now we walk. We walk.

Shri Mataji: You walk, it's better. It's better to walk.

Sometimes to walk up to God is a good idea.

[Laughter.] Sahaja Yogis: Jai Shri Mataji!

Shri Mataji: It's so nice to see you. I never expected but suddenly it happened I am very happy to see you all, very happy to see you all, the children so beautiful. May God bless you!

Sahaja Yogini: Mother in two weeks of time I am going to Lebanon.

Shri Mataji: What?

Sahaja Yogini: I am going to visit Lebanon in two weeks of time.

Shri Mataji: Lebanon.

Sahaja Yogini: Yes and You told me about two years ago that if I could organize a program there, [UNCLEAR] place, You would be happy to come to Lebanon.

Shri Mataji: Yes, you see you better go over there. It's a good idea. We need people to go there and settle because I have no way of entering that country otherwise. All right, we have to work it out. Jai, jai, jai, jai, so sweet.

May God bless you! May God bless you all! Sahaja Yogis: Jai Shri Mataji!

Meditation is a part and parcel of our lives. As far as human beings they have to breathe, you have to meditate. If you do not meditate, you can never grow. You have to meditate. Unless and until you meditate, you can never grow. You will remain the same. The growth of a personality takes place only when you meditate and become deeper. Superficiality is not going to help. This is the reason why one has to meditate, but not for a long time.

Contents: 1987-05-02 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, on Arrival before the Evening Program, the day before Sahasrāra Pūjā, Thredbo, New South Wales, Australia

So very nice to see you all here, all My children. Your love outbeats Me. I really find no words to express My feelings. The way you have taken to Sahaja Yoga and the way you have established yourself in Sahaj Yog. I know it is very difficult to spread Sahaja Yoga. Everywhere it is difficult because you know these are the times of Kali Yuga. I am not tired of the journey so much as the fighting the evil forces around us.

When I came to Canberra, I felt the left Swādhiṣhṭhāna very strong, so strong that I could not walk few steps and I asked them what's the matter? They told Me that TM, there is some Chinmoy fellow, they are very strong here.

Apart from that there are other spiritualist forces which they are announcing in the newspapers.

It's shocking that human beings take to these horrible things so easily and try to work it out. When you study the reason why they take to these horrible things then you realise one thing that these things promise quick results. Like supposing somebody's son has been lost.

So, they will say, “All right. You come to our group, we'll find it out for you." Or else, somebody says, “I am under a great strain." “All right. You come to our group, we will remove your strains." It's very easy to remove the strains by putting a entity, what we call the bhoots, into someone so that the bhoot takes over for the time being. But, here the seeker is not a deep person. Those who were deep people came back from all these horrible people. With the TM, I can tell you, we have been able to salvage some people, not all of them. When first it was brought to My notice, I had a meeting in England and we had from TM at least hundred people. Out of which we can say about ten to twelve people we have been able to salvage. But the growth, spiritual growth in them was very slow and they were just frightened of Me.

They would not look at Me. They had awe about Me. Whenever they saw Me they would shake. There is one fellow, Chinese, who came from TM and I think Rustom was there and he just took My name and he jumped under a table and landed himself outside in the lounge and they started looking at him where has he disappeared. With this Chinese fellow, we tried with him, but he used to shake and horrible [UNCLEAR], poor thing. Then he left Sahaja Yoga in a way and somebody met him in a restaurant or in a book shop and somebody met him there and they asked him, “How do you feel? How do you feel about Mother?" He said, “Oh! Ho! Ho! Ho! She is a tremendous power." So, you see, they are so weak, they are so gone down. It's very difficult to bring them to normal conditions. Within two, three years they become recluses. They are even afraid of, what you call garlic.

If you show them the garlic they start shaking. If you show them the lemon they start shaking. They become recluses. We get few people from there, TM, but their bhoots are so strong that they will not stick on to us much. Even they come down for a short time, again they go back.

So, this is the situation with these TM people.

And with this Chinmoy fellow I had an encounter in America and there the people they came and told Me that “Why this Chinmoy is here and why doesn't your husband tell to Secretary General about it?" And you know who was the Secretary General that time, [UNCLEAR Wol Dahm] and all the rest of it. And they were all crazy people. How Wol Dahm is now being cheated by people and now he is not allowed to go to America and all that. Actually his luck was not so bad but this bhoots, you see, they made him so funny that he just could not come back to his normal self. Now this gentleman was not so much into this Chinmoy but there was one south Indian gentleman who was in the U.N. and he said that “This Chinmoy is very good." This Chinmoy used to play tennis, used to swim, used to drink, have women, he was a real yanky and despite that people said, “Oh! He is great because he knows how to speak well." So, all those speech loving people he got. That's another style of people who are not seekers but who just want somebody to talk, talk and talk. He could talk on Gītā, he could talk on this, he could talk on every kind of thing. Now, the big difference is, in Sahaja Yoga you have to accept Me. There you don't have to accept anyone. As long as you accept Gītā, as long as you accept Bible, as long as you accept something, is not there, which is dead, which is finished.

So, these people are interested only in your money.

So, they don't worry about these old, we should say, prophets who are dead now or we can say the incarnations who are dead. They have nothing to do. Just they describe them, take the money. That's they want. They only want to have money, money, money and money. They are not interested in your welfare or anything. They have no idea of Kuṇḍalinī, they cannot raise your Kuṇḍalinī, they cannot give you realisation, they cannot look after you, nothing of the kind. Only thing what they want, whatever money you have they should have it. And the way they do it is a very camouflage sort of a drama they play, that they can deliver the goods. What are the goods they are going to deliver to you? Except Self-realisation. Even the people who talked of Self-realisation never gave Self-realisation to anyone. I have seen this Yogananda's disciples. The early ones, they had to cut their tongues because according to him, in his own Kriya Yoga, you had to put back your tongue here for a khechari and that's why they had to cut their tongue. They cannot speak, they cannot do anything. They are just like dogs, you see, wagging their tails. Very good people, they are doctors, architects, very good people. All these things have happened to all these great seekers, I should say, but they were stupid to accept anyone like that. First of all, you must see what are other, are doing others, say other disciples are doing. How are they, majority of them? In Sahaja Yoga also we might get somebody a very useless person and might get somebody a very low grade or a very low calibre personality.

We do get on the periphery, we do get. But they should see other people who are seriously involved in Sahaja Yoga. How they are behaving? What is their way of doing it? And how their life is? What have they achieved? What powers have they achieved? And what kind of a life they lead? That is how you should judge the person to whom they have to do.

I am sorry that this Canberra is so full of left Swādhiṣhṭhāna and if you allow these things to continue I don't know what will happen to your government. It will all go to dogs if this stupid thing is allowed to work out because all those bhoots will jump on all these civil servants and serious things can happen. I am quite surprised how it is allowed in Australia where is the land of Śhrī Gaṇeśha. As it is I am here now, I am sure something will happen and they will give up that. But as far as coming to Sahaja Yoga, I would say, it's a headache. You better give yourselves a bandhan before touching them anywhere near because they will give you lot of trouble. I have had lots of trouble with them.

So much so, we had to leave one of our ashrams. You see, we had three persons in that ashram from TM and they used to scream so much and this jumping about was so much that the neighbours told us that, “You better get out from here" and because of them we had to get out. All kinds of funny things they do.

First time I saw these TM people, were in a hall and they took the first chairs. First row they were sitting there. As soon as I started speaking they all started jumping like jack in the box. I was wondering, “What's the matter? Is perfectly alright? Who are these people?" I had never seen such a thing before. I was quite surprised that who are these people jumping like this one by one.

Then I asked them, they said, “We do TM and we are doing siddha course." “Siddha course? Stupid people you are, that's what you are." And out of these six or seven people who were jumping we could save about, I should say, two or three.

So, those people who have gone to that you shouldn't worry so much about them. But, of course, if it is gone to the government it is better to beat the government with shoes and give bandhan to the government so that they don't get entangled with it. But is serious thing and I have to work it out Myself on those lines because I was quite shocked that in Canberra they have such bad vibrations. I came to Canberra much before with My husband and I told him that “The vibrations here are very, very bad." So he said, “All the capital cities are like that." I said, “But it seems rather funny that both the centers are catching so badly." And I couldn't walk that time also and today also the same thing happened to Me.

Now, we have many other people who are seeking God. They live in the villages. These people have not gone to the villages because they wanted only rich people, monied people.

So, there are many people in the villages who haven't yet received their Self-realisation and they can receive their Self-realisation without any difficulties. You can go there and talk to them and get them realised because they are not people for whom these Rākshasas are waiting. We have to give them realisation. Once you give realisation to people in the villages, things will change. The atmosphere will change and you find lots of people coming to Sahaja Yoga.

So, I would say, I am very happy that in Sydney itself we have so many centers and in other cities you have so many centers. But now we have to reach the villages and see them. They are innocent, simple people living in the villages in a very simple manner and is better to give them proper attention because they are the ones who will get realisation.

Then the children, children should be attended to. They can be very nicely brought to Sahaj and because there may be many of them who are already born realised.

So the children can be brought into Sahaja Yoga but not without the permission of their parents because the laws and regulations are such that we may land up in the prison without asking the permission of the father or mother.

So, one has to be very careful.

The another are the adolescent boys and girls who are studying in the colleges and who are not yet exposed so much to all these bad things. They might be drug addicts little bit or may be other addiction they might be having but they are not yet touched by these horrible evil forces.

So, you can just attend to them. You can also advertise that you can look after people who are addicted to all these drugs and all that. You can relieve them. If you are allowed to do that you can advertise, get those people and if you give them realisation they might be able to get over their addiction completely. There is a doctor, Doctor Wells, in London who has now become a very big doctor in charge of a hospital of addiction.

So, I said, “What do you do to them? How do you manage this addiction business?" He said, “In their absence I beat them with shoes, that's all and they are all getting rid of their addiction." So, you can attend to those boys who are now grown up boys and are taking to drugs and things like that. They are seekers. That's why they are going to these things. I think this kind of an attitude if you have that you are not going to attend to people who are already with some Gurus and with something and encounter them. But attend to people who by their innocence have fallen into some problems or to the innocent people in the villages or children who are innocent. I am sure you can prosper faster.

So, Sahaja Yoga is growing very much faster here and in a way in a city it is growing. We can grow much faster, I think, the way there are people, so many people, are in the villages and in the countryside; in a very simple way they live. As for Myself, to come to Australia is such an excitement and such a joy because last year I could not come and this year when they said it was a Sahasrār Pūjā and had to perform here and be there, I was very happy.

Tomorrow we have to have that Pūjā. I was also a person in a way you can say, a seeker, because I was trying to find out a method, the way, by which I could really give en masse realisation. I could give realisation to many people at the same time and for that I was really working very, very hard, understanding lots of people, human beings and out of them I found bureaucrats are the worse. As you have lots of bureaucrats in this Canberra, may be, that they are not so good because they have to compromise all the time. They have to say, “Yes sir, yes sir” and despite their resistance, despite their not liking, to say that, they are poor things, pushed into a job where they have to work it out because after all job is important. When all these things become important, the person's personality suffers a lot. That's what I found that the bureaucrats who are seeking all the time power, go after the man who can give them some more power, in the sense the power not of the Divine but over the people that they can dominate more people and they can manage more people. And that's why these people fall into these groups because in the beginning they feel relaxed in a way and they dominate many people as there are booths sitting with them who give them ideas. But then they get tired of them and then they fall sick.

So, many people commit suicide also, suicide. I was told that suicide is maximum, suicide cases are maximum in Canberra. The reason is this only that you don't know what to do with yourself. You suffer from some sort of a miserable disease. You don't know how to get out of it and then you commit suicide.

So, all these things are connected with the attack of the evil forces and these evil forces attack you in a very subtle manner.

So, one should be careful as to mature. One has to mature in Sahaja Yoga so that nothing can affect them, nothing can trouble them, nothing can bother them. One has to mature. The maturity should be such as like Mine. If I catch it, I mean, I deliberately catch it and then I try to solve the problem. But if you cannot do that then you should not catch also because you will suffer little bit by catching them.

Now, for tomorrow's Pūjā I hope you will all be ready and you will all enjoy tomorrow's Pūjā. Had a very nice Pūjā in Pune which I had to perform on the thirteenth because it is the date called Akshaya Tritiya, means un-destructible [indestructible] third day of the moon. That's actually nobody knew, but it is the Pūjā of the Kuṇḍalinī. That day everybody felt very, very clear. Very clear. Pūjā was hardly for about half an hour, the real Pūjā of the Kuṇḍalinī. But everybody felt extremely clear and beautiful.

So, that sort of Pūjā we should do tomorrow also, if possible, so that we'll have the feelings of Sahasrāra completely opened out because even if Sahasrāra is opened, the rest of the Chakras, if they are caught up then you have problems. It's better to clear out all the Chakras and then the Sahasrāra.

So, tomorrow we'll do the Pūjā in that fashion and I hope it will work out very well for all of you.

I hope I have been rather late for all of you and I am not taking too much of your time here. Tomorrow I think it should be, you see, actually you'll be surprised that this is the time I opened the Sahasrāra in India. This is exactly the time because just now is 6:30 there, 6:35 and about 6:30, I opened Sahasrāra.

So, you can imagine this is the time I opened the Sahasrāra there and this is the time we are sitting on the other side of the world and celebrating that day, that great day of Sahasrāra being opened out.

It's a very great day in the history of spirituality, very great day for the whole world. They will realise one day what it was. Such a big time that Sahasrāra could be opened for masses. Not only that but you are empowered to do that great work.

May God bless you.

[The 350 Sahaja Yogis present had just finished singing `Namostute'.] Beautifully rendered! It's a song written much before, I think just after the first Sahasrāra Day. I mean, it's a very ancient song. And still is maintained so well. And you are singing so well, it's remarkable.

Written in Sanskrit, first words and the rest are all Marathi. But what surprises Me is that how you people have picked up singing so nicely. Very remarkable. Thank you very much.

Tomorrow we are going to have the Pūjā, Sahasrāra Day Pūjā. We'll start about 11 o'clock, as we say.

And hope we'll all be very much in a receptive mood and do this great job. Because I think tomorrow is very significant.

Very, very significant to have this Pūjā here and is a big responsibility on Australians to understand.

Not easy to understand Sahaja Yoga, very difficult. To understand Me even worse. [Laughter.] Because, you know, I'm Mahāmāyā.

Recently a photograph has come where My eight hands are showing. I'm just holding some flowers and there are eight hands. If somebody says, “Mother, what is this?" [I reply] “I don't know!" [Much laughter.] Now there's another nice photograph that has come. A person who was a Shiva Bhakta and he had put My photograph with other photographs. And when he took the photograph a complete linga, you see, of that shape, like an ice, was there on My feet. Meaning, the photograph's photograph he took.

So that's what it is! All are suggestions to you, because, I think, I can not say about Myself.

So, the suggestions are coming to you by so many means, by so many methods.

So many miracles are taking place for you to see.

Like, when we are building this house [in Poona]. It was, there was no water available.

So the neighbour offered his well and said “you can take water from this, but, it will only work out for one or two suckings." I mean, the water that is sucked out, only once or twice you can do it. I said “Alright, doesn't matter." So they washed My feet and put the water into that well. And the whole house we built with that water! The whole house! Then another miracle took place with water. Was that, a gentleman made a bore, he didn't understand anything about water. I told that there would not be any water in this place. Three hundred and fifty feet he went down! You know there's a draught in Maharashtra and there was no water, not a single drop. Then they again washed My feet and put the water [in the bore hole], now the water has arrived at thirty feet deep. Like that, many miracles have taken place all throughout. And, you can't explain. You can't say...

It's said that “If you can understand God, then He's not God anymore!" [Laughter.] Actually, it took Me some time to say something about Myself. Very hard. Also, I'm worried that your ego should not stand up immediately when I say somethings about Myself. May [be] that “Why this lady? Why not me?" Yes there were questions like that.

So I told a gentleman “Alright, I'm very happy I'll retire, I'll be very happy. You come and sit in My chair and deliver `the goods' !" So tomorrow! I'm going to tell you something which you have to take with a very receptive mind, something very special. But you have to have a very receptive mind. If you are very conditioned or your ego is there, it may be difficult. But truth has to be told sometime. And if truth is not accepted, it will express itself, but, it will destroy many things, So, best thing is to accept the truth, as it is. Accept it.

Put it in your heart. Is a fact. You all have known many miracles yourself, I mean, I'm not telling you something new. But, still I better prepare you for that.

So, tonight before sleeping, you must pray that you should be able to accept the great truth that I'm going to tell tomorrow.

May God bless you.

And is the Australians Who are going to receive it first they have a special temperament, I think, of innocence and I'm sure it will then go around the whole world.

So, may God Bless you.

Contents: 1987-05-02 Receiving Flowers, before Departure after the Evening Program, the day before Sahasrāra Pūjā, Thredbo, New South Wales, Australia

[All Sahaja Yogis had gone to a great deal of trouble to have a flower in the Snowy Mountains to give to Shri Mataji when she arrives on Saturday night. Everyone managed to get flowers, but Shri Mataji went straight to hoer room without taking them: neither on arrival nor before the Evening Program. Just as Śhrī Mother was leaving after Her talks and the Evening Program, She very sweetly said:] I see you have some flowers for Me. Would you like to give them to Me now? [Torn between the horror of offering these dead flowers and the longing to give something to Shri Mataji, Sahaja Yogis offer the dead blooms even though they were hanging down and completely finished. They were not just slightly dead, but utterly dead. Shri Mataji went back to Her room and after a while asked for the box of flowers to be brought in:] Bring them into the bathroom. We're going to have a miracle.

You'll see. Fill the bath with very warm water just as if I were going to have a bath.

[As the water was running, Shri Mataji puts Her hand into the bath, vibrating the whole thing.] Now put all the flowers into the bath. Make sure all the stems are down in the water.

[Once all the flowers were in the bath:] See, they're already looking better. You wait and sees in the morning. We'll use these flowers for the Pūjā.

[Next morning all the flowers were fresh and blooming.]

Contents: 1987-05-03 Sahasrāra Pūjā, Thredbo, New South Wales, Australia

Today is a very great day for all the Sahaja Yogis. It was a long time back that I desired Sahasrāra should be opened out. But waiting for a right time. It was important to do it at the right time.

A boy in Aurangabad, quite young, asked Me a question, “Mother, this All-pervading Power of BrahmaChaitanya is beyond senses, you cannot feel it through senses. How is it we are now feeling it through our senses?" This is the question he asked and I ask you the same question.

Before this, those people who got realisation could not talk about it in the way you can tell people, that you can feel it on your senses. They could not explain, they could not put it into experience. Just what they did was to tell them in words, words which were telling about something, like the taste of mango, unless and until you eat the mango how will you know the taste? By just knowing about `It's wonderful, it's great, it's fantastic,' still you have not tasted the mango.

So what has happened now, was the question.

Another thing was that these people got so fed up, like Gñyāneśhwara at the age of twenty-one, he took a Samādhi. He went into a room and closed the doors and settled down there and he died there. All of them [did the same], even Christ got Himself crucified, because they could tell a parable, they could tell a simile, but what had happened to them that they could not explain and they felt so sad and so frustrated. In a way they finished their life very early.

This was the question.

So what was the secret, can any one of you tell Me? The answer is simple, but it's difficult to digest.

The answer is that all these incarnations [who] came on this Earth were part of the Sahasrāra, were part of the BrahmaChaitanya, were part of the Ādi Shakti. They came on this Earth, gave realisation to some people who were excellent, good people who had no problems. As if they came out of the ocean of love and took all of them to the ocean of love, to enjoy that ocean. As Kabīra has said that “When a drop becomes the ocean, what can I say?", “Jab mast hue, phir kya bole?" So many of them took to mauna, that is silence. They disappeared, they got dissolved completely into the ocean of love. But you did not get dissolved.

Something special has happened to you, that the whole of BrahmaChaitanya, the whole Ocean has taken the form of a cloud, that's Ādi Shakti and has come on this Earth to shower the Chaitanya on you people, enrich you, nurture you, develop you, by manifesting the love in such a manner that you have entered into the body of the Ādi Shakti.

So like one pitcher which is in the River Ganges, you are like a cell in the body of the Ādi Shakti. Your entity, your personality is preserved. Despite that you feel the BrahmaChaitanya through your senses and you can give realisations to others, but you are in the body of the Ādi Shakti. As long as you are in the body of Ādi Shakti you can do all that.

This is the greatest thing that has happened. The whole of the Sahasrāra has opened out with all the seven Pīṭhas of all the deities, who were just part and parcel of it. The whole of it has come in the form of a Mother who is humble, who is deceptive, illusive, who is Mahāmāyā. It's the greatest thing that could happen to human beings and to the whole universe that, now, you can get your realisation, you can give realisations to others, you can understand through your senses, through your logic what is vibrations, what it does.

Just like the proof is here. All the flowers were dead last night, finished with the heat of the people who were carrying them. Then, I just put some vibrated water on them and you see how they are.

BrahmaChaitanya has revived them, but their personality is there, they are all vibrated and they are looking so fresh and beautiful. Same thing with you, you all look so fresh and beautiful, anybody can make out a Sahaja Yogi.

Under these circumstances one has to understand that there are certain limitations which you have to observe. First of all, I have taken you in My body. A foreign thing has to go in the body and it has to be looked after, nurtured. But if you become troublesome, then you'll be thrown out, I can't bear you.

Some people are extremely troublesome. They do not meditate, they have their own ideas about meditation, they do not develop themselves, they do not mature, they live in the past or in the future and such people are troublesome. A simple thing I had requested you all, to put some ghee in the nose, which is a very simple thing but is very important. You all suffer from a very bad Haṁsa and one of the things that is a symptom in a AIDS case is a bad Haṁsa. You'll be vulnerable to AIDS and a small thing like that is not observed. It has to be a religious obligation that you must listen to Me, whatever I say. Actually you must obey Me. My hand obeys Me, My fingers obey Me, My feet obey Me, what about you, who are raised to the great dignity and the great position of being the yogis in the body of the Ādi Shakti and they are acting as cells in My body? First and foremost thing is, to do this kind of a venture, to put all kinds of things in your body is a very daring thing and the process is also very hazardous. This has to be achieved with great patience, love, compassion and above all, hard labour. This has to be regarded as the greatest thing, that Sahasrāra was opened by Me. Of course I am the master of Sahasrāra, I am the master of all the Chakras, but also I'm beyond Sahasrāra, much beyond it. If that is the situation, you should be careful about your Sahasrāra, that is Me and looking after your own heart which is the Brahmarandhra Pīṭha here, which opens out ultimately when you get your realisation.

Sahaja Yoga is spreading everywhere horizontally, vertically it must also spread. And there, if you really have proper understanding of what I am, Sahasrāra should be absolutely clear-cut. And to keep Sahasrāra clear-cut you must listen to whatever I have told you, obey it as absolutely a ordained thing. To keep the Sahasrāra clean is to open your heart. If your hearts are not open, how will I fill it up with My love? Open your heart to your fellow yogis and yoginis. Don't get worried about what has happened in the past, don't get worried about what has happened in your life as far as your relationships are concerned.

Such things won't happen now in Sahaja Yoga, they cannot happen. It has been worked out that way, it cannot happen. If this hand is paining, the other hand is there to help it out. You're not alone, you are in the body of the collective being. If there are stupid people, if there are idiotic people, Sahaja Yoga is not meant for such people, in Sanskrit language they are called as `mudhahs', neither this is meant for people who are oversmart and trying to cheat themselves, intelligence has that capacity and to indulge into things which are not Sahaj. Slowly you will find your vibrations will disappear, you'll become sick, you'll have problems and you'll be in trouble.

This is not a kind of a warning but a request, because you are in My body and whenever anybody tries to be troublesome in My body I have to bear it up and suffer a lot. It's a funny type of a crucifixion where, every moment, you are hanged onto a cross by anyone who wants to do it. Sahaja Yogis have all the laws in their hands to torture My life, to trouble Me if they want to, but they have also such a capacity, such a calibre, such a potential that they can reside in My heart forever. Open your hearts, that's the thing I will say.

Now we have to see what keeps our hearts closed. Firstly, it keeps our heart in a binding, the fear of the past. In the past if you have done anything wrong, in the past [if] we have had bad experiences of people, we are very frightened. I've seen, I'm surprised, I've seen it Myself that in England where we were staying, it was that day, unluckily or luckily, it was snowing for the first time and we were shifting, so I had gone out. And when I came back I saw a lady and a little baby in the pram, standing at the door and talking to some lady. The other lady was just talking through a little opening in the door, because there was a chain on. Then I went out and came back after half an hour and I saw the same thing. The lady was still standing in the snow and this lady was talking to her through a chink. I was surprised. What is this going like Midsummer's Night's Dream? These people are talking to each other, horrible! What was it that was frightening to this lady inside the room? What this lady would have done, with the child, who had come to her door? What was there to be so frightened of? Because of the ego within yourself, you have frightened others, you have tortured others, you have dominated others, you have done all these things, so there is fear in your mind that others may do the same thing to you. Or what is there to be so much frightened, to lock your doors to everyone who comes to your house? Secondly, maybe you might have been tortured by someone or troubled by someone, so your heart is closed, you can't open heart to others. People just don't talk, they just keep mum. What has happened? Just like a dead body moving about. Supposing I was like this, who would have told you the secrets of Sahaja Yoga and Sahasrāra? So this kind of a nature comes from people who are frightened in the past perhaps, or they might have frightened people with their bad Viśhuddhi.

Aggressiveness is one of the qualities in the West and that also is inherited by you people. As soon as you put them onto something, they become aggressive. I can't bear it within Myself. Supposing I have some sort of a medicine that makes some cells very aggressive, then what happens? Ultimately I become a patient of cancer. An aggressive cell is called as the malignant cell and such a cell cannot give you proper attention, cannot give you proper depth, but you become nothing but a malignant cell, a cell which is creating a cancer. And such a person creates cancer among Sahaja Yogis.

I've heard horrible stories about how some women, some men have become aggressive. With a little position they get, immediately they become aggressive. Say somebody is a wife of a organizer, or a socalled leader's, then she thinks she is nothing but a prime minister or something, or a husband becomes something. This aggressiveness adds to the aggressiveness of another person. Then reaction starts, one says something, the another says something. We become reactionaries. We haven't got something of our own, that we should be reactionaries? There should be no reaction to anything, because we have something of our own. Why should we react to something, whatever people are doing to us or have done to us? It's finished. Open your hearts. That's why when you came to India, I think you must have noticed that in the Indian heart there is nothing like an anger for say, for English or for Portuguese, or for anybody who has dominated them. They have so much love and affection and respect and they see that what good you have done to them. Like some barristers came to India and they visited some high courts and they had holiday for one day to celebrate the visit of these British lawyers and barristers. But if you go to England they will beat you, throw you out.

This aggressiveness has to go from your heart, it has to get out of it. There's no place in My body for aggressive people, no place at all. I have not aggressed you and you shouldn't aggress Me. If you aggress any Sahaja Yogi, you are aggressing Me. But when it comes to others, they won't aggress others. Like a bad husband will aggress his wife, but not other people.

So those who are non-Sahaja Yogis, they do not aggress them.

That's a very important part of Sahasrāra, because ego covers a great part of Sahasrāra and if your Sahasrāra is covered with this ego business, how can I help you and how can I help Myself? Now so many of you are in My body, just imagine, circulating fast and most of them are fighting to be in My heart but they are settling in My ego. Well, I am egoless! Because I have no reactions. If you have no reaction you cannot develop ego. I've no reactions. I'm reactionless. I am in My own peace and glory, trying to work out Sahaja Yoga. I do not react to anything, but your reactions trouble Me because you are within Me.

Then the second part is the fear that comes from childhood. I do not know about Americans, but so many Americans who came to Me were half-mad, cracked people, absolutely cracked in the head, nothing normal about them. Either they will not talk, if they talk they talk irrelevantly, you don't know what they are talking about. Same with the French. French were mad much before anybody was mad in this world, I think; very cracky people you see, very difficult, it's absolutely can't understand, everything upside-down.

When you blame our Indian telephone, you must know they were made by French. I always say that in Poona we have got the telephone just to see, because it is called as `Puṇya Pattanam', means the, is the city of Puṇyas and only God can listen to this telephone, but even God cannot! So this kind of a crackedness, or this what you call this madness, aggressive madness, comes from ego going to the level of superego; and they get first of all `what's wrong?' When they talk you feel they are fighting. But these are love talks, `romantic' they say and we feel they are fighting. And then after some time the aggressiveness is very apparent and then it becomes as if they are off their heads, absolutely off their heads. And it's very common with Americans, very common. You can't find Americans when they are talking, any good speaker, who doesn't have twitches on his faces, on his body, everywhere, because so many nerves have been already strained with this kind of `what's wrong?' business. Going to the other extreme of deciding everything for yourself.

And the thing behind is... a ghost, I should say, a very big ghost and which is not in the past or the future, but in the present and that ghost I call it as materialism. Materialism, it's a ghost, it's a horrible devil that has come onto the heads of Americans and from them to all of us. This materialism is a horrible stuff. It's so ridiculous, shameful, doesn't even suit a human person; even a dog would hate such a materialism, to what level human beings have gone. This materialism makes a person absolutely shameless. A lady would not mind asking another lady, “By the way, have you got my spoons with you?" There's no shame in it! When we were small we were told, in India, I mean, that's our culture that, if somebody's pin is in your house you should preserve it and return it, but even if your diamond is lost with somebody, never ask for it, is not good manners. What is more valuable is not the diamond, is the relationship, is the friendship and the emotions of human beings to be respected. How can you ask? If there was a diamond they would have found it and would have given it to you, but if there is no asking for that or reporting like that then it's sure there's no diamond; and even if it is there, doesn't matter, after all, what is a diamond? You are wearing or they are wearing, what does it matter? In My father's house all the doors were open all the time, all the doors, day and night. Never a thief came in, [they] thought that doors are open so nothing is locked, there's nothing precious. Only we had one theft and the thief came and took away a gramophone from us and some records.

So My father said, “He's a connoisseur. He took the right thing from this house, so let it be. What's the use of informing the police?" So this materialism that comes in is a mad, mad, mad dog and gives you a disease which is worse than any disease that is possible. How people play on it, on this disease. As you must have known that doctors when you get some disease little bit, they'll take out your teeth, take out your eyes, take out your nose, take out your purse and take out everything that you have, for a little thing like malaria or something.

But this disease takes away everything that is beautiful within you, that is good within you.

For example, it started a fashion. With this materialism they start fashions. Ladies are more vulnerable.

Fashion starts, any sort of fashion starts, like the sleeves to be made long, in India also they started, then make it short, then make it half, then make it no sleeves. I said, “I am not running that race!" I will have the sleeves all the time, same sleeves so I don't have to bother. I can tell My tailor and he can make whatever way I want to have, the tailor, because he knows I make one style, finished with it. Why do people want to run with the fashion? Just think of it. What is the need to run with the fashion? Now new race has started, run with it! Then another race has started, run with it! Then the third race has started, run with it! All the time running with the mad race of fashions! Now a new race has started of fashions not to put any oil in the head, so you become bald, then you buy wigs. Is all entrepreneurs who are working out, it's all enterprises.

So you become absolutely bald-headed people, then you get your wigs from them, then there is a special charge for dressing the wigs, so you go for dressing the wigs. Goes on like mad.

Then there's another type. Now a new fashion has started in London because, you see, these people want to make some money. People don't even have so much of logic and intelligence left in their heads to see that, what they were preaching one day, they are just the thing against it. Formerly it was you had to wear a tail coat, you had to have your hair absolutely done with proper hair-grooming and all that, as you can see in the old pictures. Then it started striped three-piece suits. Now it is, I mean, few days earlier was tight clothes, then they developed varicose veins, you see.

So no, no, now it is the fashion to wear absolutely loose dresses. I saw the other day one lady making a dress out of a big blanket, going like this.

I thought she was some priest or someone! [Laughter.] So that stupidity has started.

Imagine, think of Sahasrāra, think of Divine, in what world we are and in what world the stupid people are going. That's another world, absolutely another stupid world where people just go after nonsensical things, changing from one to another, changing from everything: ties are changed, everything is changed, giving you such a headache. All the time you have to think, `Now what fashion is there? Let's find out in the newspaper. What is, this is the fashion now. Alright, wear this dress.' All this is befooling going on, because this ghost has entered into us.

In Sahaja Yoga also when we enter, be careful, materialism should not enter into your minds... it's nothing important. Even when somebody dies you are supposed to wear something black, or white or I don't know what else, but white or black. And somebody died in England who was a great friend of My husband and I had no black sarī, completely black. I mean we don't have such a sarī. I didn't know what to do. I told My husband I don't have a black sarī. He said, “Then You don't come." Imagine how his wife would feel if I don't go to the thing, how she would take it. All this is nothing, what is important is the black sarī! In every walk of life you are being befooled by this materialism. I don't know how you got stuck into it first of all. And the other side is, the same people are befooling you. “Alright, this is not good, this is too much", so go to the anti-culture. What is anti-culture is another kind of materialism, another kind of nonsense.

Nowadays they are having in this London an anti-culture movement which is called as punks! I think out of date now, Me, but still, for the time being as I see is punks. It costs them $40 sometimes to make that hair. I mean, is it something that you are saving money on that? So the whole thing works out just to take out your attention from reality, from higher values, to something nonsensical.

In Sahaja Yoga also people must learn to lead a life of collectivity. It's very important that we have to be collective. We shouldn't talk of `This is mine, this is mine and this I own.' Even about children you should not do like that, “This is my own child, this is my own baby. This is my brother, this is my sister." This `My, my' should go away, but that's not possible, it's not easy to forget about it because left Nābhī and right Nābhī has to be alright. The only way to do it is that `Mother, it's all Yours.' It's not dangerous to say that, because I'll never take anything that is supposed to be yours. Just to say, `Mother, it's all Yours,' to start it, `It's all Yours. I am Yours, my heart is Yours, all my things are Yours, my life is Yours.' Even saying that is a big mantra for Sahasrāra.

The deity of Sahasrāra is a very simple person, extremely simple and can be moved with very little actions, can be pleased with very few little actions here and there. Not much is needed to please the deity of Sahasrāra. It's a very simple person. Little things make Her happy. Yesterday you had brought the flowers and I didn't take them. You all must have thought, `What's it, we couldn't give flowers to Mother, holding in our hand.' But I wanted to show this miracle to you, that's why I didn't take. And I took it in the end and see now they are the best among all of them; don't they look as if they have been plucked from the tree? Just I wanted to show this, so I said, “I'm tired” I sat down and then I looked at you with the flowers, you see, in the hands, you're sitting all of you! [Laughter.] So She is Leelā Vinodhini. She plays around, makes little mischiefs here and there for you to learn lessons. Because if I tell you `Do this!' then it's not possible, but little circuitous way I can show you that this is wrong, you should not do it.

There's nothing to feel bad, I would have taken all the flowers; but somebody must have thought of it, “Why Mother has not taken the flowers today?" I don't know if you thought of it or not, but I knew it Myself that I have to take the flowers to show this miracle to them, that these flowers are going to last much longer than any other flowers, because they are vibrated with the BrahmaChaitanya. And the water was very, very, very cold, so even I opened a hot water tap. It's alright, doesn't matter, they didn't die, despite that they are perfectly alright.

So you have seen so many miracles of this BrahmaChaitanya which is showing on your photographs, on so many your lives, in so many changes that have taken place within yourself, within your family, within every one of you. All this has happened because you are in BrahmaChaitanya. All this you are receiving because you are blessed by BrahmaChaitanya. But others are not, so your attitude should be towards them that they are in the other world, What to do? How to help them? We should try to help them if possible, but up to a point. We should not drag down ourselves for others' sake. Up to a point only we can help them and we have to be very happy that Sahaja Yoga is spreading so much horizontally.

But for vertical thing we must know our quality must improve. If some people rise higher, others will also start rising with them. It's the absolute honesty of purpose should be there, absolutely understanding should be there. Open your hearts to each other, so that you open your hearts to Me. Every cell must know another cell, otherwise it won't work out. That is the great thing that has happened, when you are on this Earth, when you are the ones who have to receive this great blessing.

So many saints did not receive it, so many great people who came on this Earth, they did not receive it, even the incarnations who came on this Earth could not do it what you are doing.

So have that satisfaction and glory of your own being and of your own standard and of your own calibre. The others are not of your calibre alright, forget about it. That should not give you ego, but should give you a personality that does not react. We have something of our own, we do not react to things. We are not reactionaries. And things will disappear which are harmful. Everything will be perfectly alright, because we are standing in our own perfection, in our own glory. What do we need? Nothing, just enjoying ourselves.

May God bless you all.

Contents: 1987-05-03 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, The Ghost of Materialism, Evening after Sahasrāra Pūjā, Thredbo, New South Wales, Australia

[After the song `Onwards Valiant Nirmalites'.] May God bless you. May God bless you.

I hope today's lecture did not shock you very much. I had to tell you about it, otherwise you would not know your importance, your greatness, your responsibilities. But I must warn you about the ghost as I told you, because a mother has to warn about the ghost to frighten the children, that's important; and the ghost is materialism, as I said, which has become so important. Matter always tries to overpower the spirit, all the time. All the habits are formed because of the matter. Even the habits of drinking, say, habits of taking drugs is nothing but these horrible, powerful material things which are dead are trying to overpower us.

The spirit is paramount, it is the highest thing. Nothing can reach it. It keeps you away from all the skirmishes, all the cheap and superficial problems of the world. Materialism has grown much more today than ever before. It has become very important for people to worry about things that they possess. I find in the West it has grown so subtly and so sophisticatedly that it is difficult even to find out how far we have gone with it. It's like plastic, which can penetrate into everything and can hold it. This materialism has brought us to the cracking point now, the whole world is bothered about it. First of all there are ecological imbalances. People are watching the trees are dying out, because factories are being created out of proportion and the factories need all the time something to be fed into them; and they go on and on and on, creating things which are not so much necessary. As I told you, it's a play of the evil forces which is very much collective.

Say for a factory starts, then clothes are made, for example, then there's an entrepreneur who comes forward to make the clothes to be sold out. Now he is the one who changes, he starts changing the forms of the clothes in such a way that every year, new lot comes out of that machine and everybody has pile of clothes in the house, they don't know what to do with it. These are last year's, that's before last year's, that's that last year's, of no use, absolutely useless, all made of artificial fibre. It is hard to find anything natural in all the Western countries wherever I have been, anything that is cotton, anything that is pure silk.

There should be some balance that machines are for us, we are not for the machines. Then new types of machines are coming out now to befool the people, to take advantage of their stupidity I should say and change one after another things, thus creating fashions. As I'm told in America, every bathroom has a different type of a switch or a handle, you don't know which one to push. You push one handle and you might feel you might get all the water on top of your head, is a new style. Now I've seen the bathroom that I have, it's very interesting! You must know horse riding to get into it! And it's all surrounded by glass, I mean anybody would be nervous taking bath in there; and there are big, big holes you see, just as handles.

Of course these things will again go back, because normalcy works out. Like in our body also, if we do anything extreme we come back to our parasympathetic which balances.

So the nature brings you back again to the same thing. Like they said “have no marriages” then “have marriages with men." Men having marriages with men, women having marriages with women, all kinds of nonsensical marriage systems they developed.

So they must have varieties, you see: “How can it be that a woman should marry a man?" Then an old woman marrying a very young boy, or an old man marrying a very little girl, all kinds of nonsensical things started. Now it's coming back again. We can't have many wives, we can't be with many women, we have to be married to one woman, all those things are coming back, but at what cost? We have got already a disease which is called as killer's disease; so many problems have been created by this kind of movement towards the left or towards the right.

Before the war started it was more the movement on the left hand side. All the poets wrote about something imaginary tragic, like the Greek tragedy. I don't know why there should be a tragedy in Greece.

Itself, Greece itself is a tragedy for every one of us! But they created a tragedy, I mean, it's a horrid stuff that they have created.

So everybody is miserable, `les miserables' all of them and French people don't like Me much because I'm not serious. I should not laugh, I should be very serious. When talking about God I should be even worse than a dead body, otherwise they don't want to listen to you.

All kinds of stupidity started that move to the left, doing all kinds of perverse things. When Mister Freud came in they said, “That's a good leader for us. Now he'll give us some more varieties." I was in a very big banquet, sitting next to the ambassador of Mexico and he told Me that “I'm told You are against Freud completely." “Yes, I am” I said, “Jung was a sensible man." He said, “What is in Jung? He told us what all these our books have told, so what is so great about him that he's told something the same thing? But Freud told us something new, so he's great." I said, “All right. We have never eaten this table, should we eat that because it's a new thing to do?" Of course it was not very diplomatic, but I did say because I couldn't help! This kind of a funny idea, `it's a new idea, let's have a new idea', any new idea, you just do it.

Now in, say, in Rome they have a new idea, that they should wear all the things with the sequins all over. Now the sequins thing you cannot wash much.

So today they'll waste all their money on the sequins, tomorrow they cannot wash it, they'll get dirty, so they'll start on something else.

We have to be normal people as Sahaja Yogis, to understand that we'll not allow matter to supersede us.

Now today just to celebrate the Sahasrāra Day in full way, I thought of wearing a sarī with many Chakras. It has some symbol, it's symbolic thing; and the starry sky that you see all over, to represent that, the blue colour. Blue colour is the sign of depth. It has some symbol. It's not without any symbol, without any meaning, that you wear anything because some factory's producing these things in bulk and they must be sold. We should be out of all these things. These things should not touch us, these things should not impress us, but we should laugh at them. Oh, there is now a new craze has started, another one and now they are looking like scarecrows everywhere, I find. I mean, they can be used for that purpose very easily! It's terrible the way things are working out.

But the worst thing that happens with materialism, that your attention becomes very superficial, very superficial. You go on watching everything, you read every signboard. If you have missed one you'll turn around, “I've missed one” so you must read that. The whole attention is so superficial. You are looking at women, women are looking at men, men are looking at, I don't know what they are looking at. The attention is so stupid and so foolish and I have seen in their eyes the bhoots are passing from one to another.

It's absolutely evil to put your eyes to such a strain. Christ has said, “Thou shalt not have adulterous eyes." How many Christians there are who have, who haven't got adulterous eyes? So what you find that the whole thing becomes extremely superficial, even the religion. All religions have become anti-God, these are all anti-God activities. They have nothing to do with God, they have nothing to do with religion, they have nothing to do with Dharma as we call it. They are making all kinds of advertisements that they are very religious, that they believe in God, that they are doing all good things.

Christ, who lived under very meager circumstances, was born in a manger. If you go and see the property of Pope you will be amazed and aghast. He has more property than even the tsars had, even the great kings of China had. And now they are hand-in-glove with Mafiā, still they are heads of the religion.

Same in India, the way religion is preached with all nonsensical things going on. There's no sense in what they are talking; the Hindu religion, the Sikh religion and the Islamic religion is another nonsense. It has nothing to do with God, it's all anti-God activity. It just forces people, it just frightens people and makes them suffer and uses all the property, the wealth that they have. What is the interest of a person who is religious in the property of other people? Why should he be interested in getting the property of another person? He should not be. On the contrary he should be happy to see that somebody is happy, well-off with his children, enjoying a nice happy life. But there's no end to this greed. The greed is so much that it's impossible to call these people religious by any chance and they are the ones who are talking on religion.

Then the other side of it, not only the greed, the lust. The lust is so obvious, is so vivid that one cannot believe that these people have anything to do with religion.

So it follows with the superficiality, once you get materialistic.

Then materialism also gives you certain ideas that you must have legs like this, you must have nose like that, you must have eyes like that, you must have body like that, so everybody starts working on that. In America in the morning if you get up, everybody is running on the streets, whether old or young.

Some people died of heart attacks on the streets. They said now they are having a new craze, what is it called as, jogging. And I had an Indian girl with Me and she said, she woke Me up, she said, “Mother, get up, get up!" I said, “What has happened?" “Something gone wrong in this place." I said, “Why?" “Everybody is running." I said, “They are jogging." “No, no, even old people are running. How can it be something like that?" I said, “It is, that's their style. You forget it, let Me sleep!" Everything should be done in a way to keep fit and to keep all right, but not just to sort of fall into the traps of these people who are spreading materialism. I told one lady, she was very thin already and I said, “Why are you thinning more?" She said, “Because the modern clothes don't fit you." So I said, “Is it it's that according to the modern clothes you are going to make your body?" She said, “You have to, otherwise how will you wear the dresses?" I said, “This is horrid, absolutely horrid", horrid system that they force people to wear the dresses, whatever their standards are.

It has killed all the arts, all the hand-made things, all the real things. It has brought everything artificial, everything superficial. The attention is so superficial. Just now I was watching a film, some sort of an American film: everybody was sick, everybody was mad. I mean, I couldn't understand how could any human being behave like this? I have not known people like that Myself, but they showed a sick man behaving in a very sickly manner, supposed to be a hero. All these advertisements, all these newspapers, all this media, all of them are just here to create sensations in your body, some sort of a sensation. It has to be a sensational thing, because they think that you have become matter. Unless and until you give some shocks to the matter, it won't move. And that is what they have brought you to, that's where we have landed into, a state of matter.

So we have no feelings, we just don't talk to anyone, our hearts are frozen. We feel afraid to talk to human beings. We cannot tolerate our children. In London in every, every week, in London city, not I am saying England, they are killing two children every week. We have no love for our children, we can't bear our children. We have no love for each other, no love for cooking, no love for doing something for your husband, husband has no love for doing anything for the wife. All the time what pictures they show is husband and wife fighting, all the time, how can there be? There's no love, there's no affection, there's no kindness. What is the fight going on? “Why did you spoil the carpet?" She said, “No, I didn't spoil the carpet, the children spoilt it." “Then why didn't you clean it?" The fight is on, for what, for the carpet? What is this carpet? Is it a permanent stuff? But what is important, they have to sell the house tomorrow. They have to sell the house, the carpet must be neat, so everything is sellable, everything has to be sold, even the wife, husband, children, everything. They have to be made in such a way they are sellable all the time. Whatever you buy: you buy a diamond, all right, it should be sellable.

If you want to buy anything precious it must be sellable, you'll be surprised.

So nobody can have something that is not standardized. All the rest, I don't know, goes into waste I think in these countries.

You have to have everything standardized. Nothing you can have for your own joy, for your own happiness, for your own using, for your own love for it. You give somebody some present, say for example you give somebody a gold ring, immediately that person will go to the shopkeeper and ask the jeweler is it gold or not; whether it is, the price is all right or not, what carat gold, everything. They will not see to the beauty of the thing. They will not see to the way the feelings are being expressed. What they will see is whether it is sellable or not. “Later on if I want to sell it, even the presents, if I can sell it it's better to find out." So the whole attitude towards life is that everything is valued in money, everything is valued in money.

“What is the damage? How much it will cost? How much we have to pay?" How much for the childbearing? If you will have one child, how much it will cost? Immediately they'll go to the computer and find out how much it will cost. Now, like I'm speaking so I should find out how much it will cost My throat, that if I'm speaking so many words, like there's a computer for it. You put in the computer, you'll find out it will cost you five lozenges. All right, charge five lozenges to the Sahaja Yogis! There's no feeling. Even they sing, when they walk, even when they do any work there's no feeling and there's no involvement at all, no involvement of any kind. The artistic work that was done before cannot be done today, why? It is because there is no feeling, there's no involvement, there's no feeling that, that this is My work, I'm doing it; I'm doing it to present My own feelings, to express Myself, it's My own thing. There's no feeling.

Imagine, you have seen, so many of you have seen now Ajanta. This was built in ten centuries, cut from top to bottom. How they must have planned it, how they must have organized among themselves in ten generations, how they must have painted it. And there's nothing, no city, nothing, no television, no food.

How they lived there? They lived on dedication and love of Buddha, whom they had never seen. Such personalities they were, such involvement. Once they took up something they were absolutely dedicated with it.

But such people are lost today because of materialism. Most important thing is how much money you get out of everything, there's no end to it. And then what you take to is thieving. All these big, big people, the prime minister, today I was told that this Marcos, the great prime minister, Filipino fellow gave all his paintings to another thief from Riyadh. They're all thieves. All these big, big Johnnies supposed to be there are thieves. Why, what are they lacking? What are they afraid of, why do they do that? They are afraid that they'll be found out that they are thieves, so they are doing all these wrong things. They are collecting money because they know they have to run away one day. All right, so they must organize in such a way that they should have all these things planted in some place where they can always get hold of.

But why become the thief first of all? You become the prime minister, make a name out of yourself, your history will remember you. No, they cannot think of those things, they just think of the present. Sahaj way! It's to make money. When you are on the throne, make the money as much as is possible.

This money is going to bring them bad name. In the progeny they will not be remembered, people will not take their names. If they take their names they will have a headache.

So what's the use of leading such a life? Even today human beings in general are not so degenerated that they put statues of a drunkard or statues of a man who has been a thief, who has been managing the whole country and selling it off to somebody else. There are no statues of such people. Nobody remembers them. People don't like them, such people are hated. And even if there are statues of such people, I've seen that of Stalin, they remove them.

So this idea of materialism has grown like a ghost now into the minds of people, that matter is more important; that materially if you are all right, you are all right. The other side of it is that you must show that you don't care for matter, that you are not bothered, like these anti-culture people. But no, materialism is within them, it is engrained in them, it's in their blood, they can't get out of it. By showing off that we make our hair in such a manner that we don't need a barber, or else we dress up with dirty clothes with holes in it to show that we don't care for matter, it's not so. By changing the matter you do not change the inside within yourself. Inside is changed when you look at the matter as a witness.

Matter has a purpose. You should know the purpose of the matter. If you know the purpose of the matter then you have value, your value system is correct. For example, this has its own purpose: it has a purpose that it must deliver the lecture properly. But if this purpose is not served, it is no good. In the same way everything has a purpose. What's the use of buying fifty artificial blouses, or thirty-two thousand shoes as this lady had, Mrs. Marcos, when she's not going to use even two out of them? It has no feeling, it has no meaning, it's selfishness, it's self-centeredness. It's thinking about yourself all the time.

Now you want to give Me a sarī. In Marathi it is called as `pot zakaych', means they're covering the womb of the Goddess, the stomach of the Mother. Because She's put us there, She has given us birth, so we must give Her something to cover it, is a very humble way of saying it. Now you give Me a sarī, I don't know when I'm going to wear all these, but whatever it is, just give Me a sarī with a feeling and maybe I may never wear it, I may wear it also. But the progeny will see what you have given to your Mother.

I'm not going to carry it with Me, nobody's going to carry the matter with them. But it had a purpose, it had a meaning, it had emotions behind it. It was given in a Pūjā when so many people gathered, you gave to your Mother. When people will see it they'll be so very happy, “Oh, the Sydney people gave this” or “the Australians gave on this Sahasrāra Day." See, even the vibrations flow. Just that, this is what it is. Now, it has no purpose if you put something up in a Pūjā which is not necessary. It has no purpose at all, it has no feeling, it has no meaning. It is valueless. For example if you put this up, say, into My bathroom, it is useless, specially this one, because I can't even sing there! Quite frightening. Thank God it's being screened by Sahaja Yogis because they know My conditions, you see, but it's so sweet to see the way they have covered it, because they know their Mother would be quite nervous to have a bath in a glass bathroom. That's all. That shows, you see, that feeling, that understanding about Me. That fills My heart with such love, such oneness with you that you understand Me, that Mother may not like, you see, this kind of a glass business. It's so sweet to do those things for Me.

Little, little things here and there, whatever we do for others are so suggestive of our love, of our feelings. And this is what you have to express today, not the materialism. We don't have to express that, that we were very rich people or that we had lots of diamonds and we had ornaments, nothing. That is not needed. Know we were people of great feelings.

What they brought for Christ was leaves of palm, palm tree; singing “Hosanna, hosanna!" like the way you were singing today. What these palm trees are? Even today they are remembered. They'll be remembered eternally, the palm trees that were used for this. They didn't think about it, they didn't know what to get at that time. Whatever was available they got it and started singing “Hosanna, hosanna!" to Christ.

All these little, little things become so important, because you have given value to it. A little piece, a little clay if you take and put art into it, put your feelings into it, then that becomes expensive. Even economics can show that it has become more expensive. But if you give with feelings and if you give it to someone with your love, even that adds to the value; to that person it's very valuable.

It is remarkable sometimes how little things just move the whole ocean of My love into a turbulent, happy, joyous, loving heart. I sometimes feel that how these little things that they do and care for Me, express their love, just moves Me to the highest point of joy. Then it's not the matter that is important, it's not how much you have spent is important, it's not how it has been brought is important. What is important is how much thought you have given to it; and that is what is lacking, that there is no thought.

We think, but we do not give thought, it's two things, different. We just go on thinking, thinking, doing nothing. And to give a thought to a thing is a sign of depth and understanding.

When the matter is given thought, then it becomes important. Without the thought it is useless, it is sellable all the time, everything is sellable. It has no meaning, it has no value. I hope you will all get out of this ghost and get out of the clutches of these entrepreneurs who are trying to rule you.

Try to have things which are full of feelings, which are having some meaning and also try to give it to others things which can express your love. Matter has one great value, that through matter you can express your love, you can express your feelings for a person.

Now today at the last minute I was just struggling to get some presents for you; I mean, it was such a struggle, you can't imagine. I was in a big mess there, the house was in a mess and all kinds of things happening, the Pūjā in the morning. Until about twelve o'clock I could not leave Pune.

So there was no question of buying anything in Bombay [Mumbai].

So I had to do in a very short time through other people's help some sort of purchases and I've been able to buy some few things for you, so please accept them as a token of My love for you. Moreover I've brought some mangoes, quite a lot of them and this your custom authorities have taken them away. I was very unhappy and they could see that. I said, “What's this, are you going to eat these mangoes?" They said, “No, we are going to fumigate." I said, “After fumigation you give it to us, for My children I've brought." So they understood it and they agreed.

So I hope we get the mangoes for you on Monday. After all it's a small thing, but after all this is the time for you to eat mangoes! [Applause.] Have you got the presents here? [UNCLEAR] you have to get them [UNCLEAR adjusted].

[Aside discussion with a Sahaja Yogi].

Good. Next I would like to give them now. If you have named...

James: Yes.

Shri Mataji: Alright.

So I have left it to James' wisdom to name them for people whom he wanted to give the presents and we have smuggled them nicely into your country. Because we had a mango problem, they allowed us to bring the rest of it! [Laughter].

Now these are extremely small presents to give. It has no value in the market. No salable items. But is love, that is expressed in it. That is important.

I wish I could bring the whole of India to give to you people because you people deserve much more than anybody else. You have done such good work in Australia, that people can't understand how it has worked out this way. That shows people are very wise, thoughtful and sensitive. No doubt about it. It's very remarkable.

Now for those three persons who came to help us there [Shudy Camps] the English are so obliged that they don't know what to do.

So, they told Me that I should buy something for them in Australia.

So I have to go out shopping to see something that they would like to have, but what to do? This smuggling business is too much. [Laughter.] [Bhajan session commences with `Śhrī Gaṇeśha' song.] [During the songs Shri Mataji has tears in Her eyes.]

Shri Mataji: [You all love Me so much and don't expect anything in return.] [During some songs, Sahaja Yogis rise up to dance, clap and sing praises of the Divine. Shri Mataji laughs and laughs.]

Shri Mataji: The Divine is enjoying, the Divine is watching and the Divine is singing. All your Kuṇḍalinīs are so high, so clear.

[Shri Mataji also says that the bhajans must accompany the Pūjā talk.]

[While escorting Shri Mataji from the car to the stage, Peter Corden notices in the foyer that the floor pattern contained multiple swastikas.] Peter Corden: Śhrī Gaṇeśha is here!

Shri Mataji: Śhrī Gaṇeśha is walking ahead of us!

I bow to all the seekers of Truth.

Just now, Albert has very clearly described to you the mechanism that is within us which works out our Self-realisation. There is a mechanism, no doubt. When we are in this room we see so many lights and there is a mechanism behind this. But what we do is to just switch on and the lights are there.

So the whole mechanism is already built within us through our evolutionary process. Now we have reached at a point when we have to achieve the result of the evolutionary process.

In the West, people had the quest to find out outside this body. I would say that they tried to find out the knowledge about the tree of life, but when the life is found out from outside you can go up to a point and the tree can also grow up to a point. You have to go to your roots. This is the knowledge of our roots. Now to say that it comes from India or it comes from a particular region is not true. India being an ancient country, of course, they have been able to go deep into it, but even in the Bible you get sentences like, “I will appear before you like tongues of flames" and these centers really looks like tongues of flames. Then in the Koran also it is there called as “Assas” the Kuṇḍalinī and it is described that you have to be connected with God, otherwise whatever you do in the name of God you'll become cruel and you will be disintegrated. It's clearly said. Same thing in any religion that you read, that you have to have your Self-realisation. Every religion has talked of the spirit. Every religion has said that you must find out your spirit. Now, when we are ignorant about the spirit and there are so many people in the market which I say as a `Guru shopping' going on, people don't know what to expect and what to find. What is self, what is spirit and why should we get it? As I said, it is the epitome of our evolution that you have to become the spirit and that is the truth that you are the spirit. If you are the spirit, then you have to achieve that state, by this way or that way, that is your birthright, is born with you, that's why we call it Sahaja Yoga. Sahaja means, Saha is `with', ja is `born with you'. That is the Yoga, the union with the Divine. The Divine is the All-pervading Power of God's love, which is the subtle of subtler all-pervading.

It exists in everything and you have to feel it. That's what we call as the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost: Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost. In the Bible, there's no description of Holy Ghost. This Kuṇḍalinī is the reflection of that Holy Ghost. Holy Ghost is the desire of God, that's the power of God reflected within us as Holy Ghost, as Kuṇḍalinī, in three and a half coils: is our pure desire. All other desires that we have are impure because we have been desiring for this and that, we know economic laws are such that in general wants are not satiable. Why? Because those wants are not pure.

So this is the power of Kuṇḍalinī, which resides in the triangular bone within yourself.

Now, when I am telling all this to you, you should not have a blind faith about it, but it's an hypothesis.

If you are a scientific person or if you have a very logical mind then you must understand that you should not close your mind. You should be with an open mind and see for yourself if this proves, then it's all right. But you should not be a person who is cynical, who is already challenging Me, because what I am doing is to give you what you have, is to tell you what you have, which is your property, it's your own. I am nothing to do with it as such, but I can't also help it without telling you.

This Kuṇḍalinī has to rise from its seat, which he has shown just now, which is residing in the triangular bone called as sacrum. Sacrum itself means `sacred', that means the Greeks knew about this word, knew about Kuṇḍalinī, that's why they called it sacrum. Now when this Kuṇḍalinī rises through these various centers, she passes through six centers; the seventh center is below her and this seventh center looks after the glory, or the chastity, or we can say protects the Mother Kuṇḍalinī within us. Now the first center is the most important center and the first center is the center of our innocence. When we try to play with our innocence, this center gets spoilt which has to protect the Kuṇḍalinī and when this center is spoilt we can get into lots of problems. Nowadays you can hear a big cry about this killer's disease, Aids: we have to fight it; it's a wrong thing that we have done, one thing we must accept. And then we have to fight it; it's not difficult to fight this disease if you accept that you have lost your innocence. The trouble is when people started getting the knowledge of the tree, they really went amok. They didn't know what to do with themselves, now they have finished with this, they have finished with that, so now eat your nose or eat your eyes or eat your teeth, something like that, a maddening way rushed into people and they didn't know what to do with themselves so they started practicing also sex. I would also blame Freud for that. In India Freud won't be accepted at all; it's nonsense. Nobody can accept his theory where they say that you have all the time feelings of carnal love for your mother. Of course, this is ridiculous for us. But anything new has to be accepted: that's the modern idea. Anything new that comes to you, we must accept. Anything new may not be all right. The other day we were having a banquet and I had a neighbour who was Ambassador from Mexico and he told Me that “I know you don't like Freud and You like Jung, but Jung talked of the same old thing." I said, “Same old thing, but something new about it." Evolution takes place in that manner that first you have the tree and then you have the branches, then you have the leaves and then you have the flowers and then the flowers have the fruits. But if somebody just takes out a flower from somewhere and gives you, then you know that it's plastic. It must have some basis; it must have some tradition. It must be in our ancient books. It should be described by people who have lived before. Suddenly if Mister Freud comes along and says some new theory, it's like mushrooms.

These people come up and start telling stories and we believe in them. It's a fungus. Now, so I told the gentleman, I said, “All right, we have eaten all kinds of food before. We haven't eaten the table: why not we eat that, because it's new?" In the same way, everything that is new we started accepting because `this is new, this is a new idea, we should get to it' and it's mad race, I tell you, it's a real mad race. All our attention goes to all these mad things. For example, now, the fashions that have started. These are entrepreneurs who are materialists, who want to befool us, all the time changing one fashion to another to another. Now in England you won't find anybody with any hair now left, because poor things they tried with this, that and that, lastly they came to punks and when I said, “Now to punks, then what?" they said, “Mother, You're out of date!" Now it is all bald heads. This is what is, we are giving up all ourselves, all our thoughts to somebody who is making us play like this. Materialism is for us, we are not for materialism. Matter is for us; we have to dominate this matter. All the time the spirit is dominating the matter and when the spirit comes up, then it uses matter for its own purpose. It is not dominated by matter; nobody can dominate a person who is the spirit. But we are so much lost into it, trying new things like mad, jumping from one to another that we don't see the sense in it, just like eating the table.

We haven't got our own ideas; we are reactionaries or we accept ideas that are others'. If somebody tells us some ideas, we say, “Oh, it's great." But why, why it is great? It must be tallied by few things. First of all, we must find out does it have any relationship to any tradition, to any ancient books, to any prophets, to any incarnations who came on this earth? They were not all useless people, they were not false people, they were not telling us lies. But we are reactionaries, like we find now Christianity has failed, the churches are failing, so we react. No, Christianity may fail but Christ doesn't fail. Like yesterday we had a very interesting couple of people, one of them came for My interview and another one was a photographer. The photographer is an ardent Christian, so he said, “Do You mean to say, Mother, we got everything wrong?" I said, “No. You love Christ, isn't it?" “Yes, I love Christ very much." I said, “Then, you'll get it. If you have loved Christ, then you will get it. But if you are busy with the organizing of Christ, then it's rather difficult. You can't organize Christ. You cannot dictate Him and you cannot use Him for your purposes for making money, for making huge big palaces for yourself. As you can see what's happening now in the Vatican, big problems there are with the Mafiā and they don't want to hear it. No, nothing, they don't want to hear about it. How could these people talking of righteousness, of virtue, of values, have gone to that limit?" Same in India, Hindu religion has gone to dogs, absolutely to dogs. They're using the same black magic, the same old things which were done in Indian villages. They have come to the cities now.

In the temples now they are selling drugs which are of horrible nature to people who come there. Is that Hinduism? What about Islam? You see Islamic people, how they are quarreling among themselves when Islam is surrender. They are all fighting among themselves. Is that the religion which Mohammed Sahib preached? What about Buddhists? They are another nonsensical people: extremely materialistic. Every religion has gone to dogs. Why? Because they did not understand the main point and the main point is you should be connected with God. You are to be born again. It's not just to give a certificate to yourself, `I'm a born-again' going about: `I'm a born-again.' One lady from that came actually to beat Me! I started laughing at her! This born-again lady has come to beat Me, for what? You cannot certify yourself. This self-certificate or certificate from somebody is absurd. You have to have the powers of being born-again.

The born-again have powers of their own manifesting, they are not just born-again going around.

Now what are the powers of a person who is born again? First of all, such a person is a tranquil, peaceful person; he becomes automatically righteous, automatically. I don't have to tell you, `Don't do this and don't do that.' That's finished now with Moses. No more of that. As soon as you become the Spirit, you just give up all those things that are destructive for us, automatically. No pressures are needed, no warning is needed, nothing of the kind, automatically, because the spirit is the light, you get your enlightenment. Supposing I am holding a snake in my hand and it's not light.

Somebody tells me it's a snake, I say, `No, it's a rope, I am holding on to a rope.' But when there is a light I just drop it. In a simple way, nobody has to tell Me, I see the light and it drops out. In the same way, you are an enlightened person. You can make out what is truth and what is untruth. For example, you see someone, even from Indian jails, some people who have just come out of jails, they don't know what to do with themselves.

So they walk out with saffron clothes to Germany, maybe to Australia also and they become great Babajis here. Now these great Babajis sit on some of the important places in the city and everybody is surrounding them, giving them money, giving them their lives, you see, all big talk of love going on and everything.

Is he a realised Soul or not? How will you find out? You don't know whether he's a realised Soul or not because you are not at an absolute point. You are still in a relative understanding. Because this person is wearing this kind of a dress, is sitting very quietly there, so he must be a Babaji. You cannot recognize a person, whether a person is true or not. You can't recognize Me, either, whether I am telling you the truth or not. Unless and until you become that absolute being, you cannot make it out. Then what happens, that when the Kuṇḍalinī rises and pierces through your fontanelle bone area, then you also start feeling on your fingertips, these fingertips are nothing but the sympathetic nervous system centers, which are indicating of the truth. If the person has got cool wind or Cool Breeze coming from that person, then he is a real one. If he doesn't have, then he is not. There are many persons who claim to be great, but they are not, ultimately we find out and we are shocked the way they are. We don't know, how is it our brain has failed, how is it our brilliance did not show clearly what was wrong with this gentleman? Because we are not that. We have to accept humbly that we are still at a human awareness and we have to be at a spiritual awareness. That's the dimension we have to get, otherwise we cannot judge things properly.

In this country now we have certain problems, in this whole world we have problems, problems of atom bomb, every day you are hearing about this problem and that problem: all created by human beings.

Imagine, intelligent, such good people have created problems for themselves: killing each other, preparing bombs and things like that; protecting each other, I mean, no animal does that. Only human beings are trying to protect themselves from each other. They're all the time worried who is going to attack them; not sure of themselves. The reason is they haven't reached that state of absoluteness. The time has come now, the time has come for you either to take to constructive working out of the problem, or the destructive. By discussions, by arguments, by anything you are not going to achieve anything unless and until there's a complete transformation in the human mind. And transformation is only possible when you become the Spirit, because Spirit is the universal being within you. And you become collectively conscious, means, you start a universal feeling; you just start feeling another person on your fingertips. And if you know how to correct it, you have corrected that person. This is only the play of love of God; it's so simple, even children can do it. Many children when they put their fingers in their mouth or their thumbs in their mouth, according to Mister Freud it's something nonsense, but according to us they are suggesting what centers you are catching. To understand your own children you have to be a realised Soul because the understanding is still not matured. Unless and until you become a realised Soul, you are not a mature personality to judge anything. At that level, whatever you judge will have another point of view. You can take ten small children who are realised Souls, we have many like that and hide their eyes. Now ask them, `What's the wrong with this particular person?' They will all raise one finger meaning this, or this finger. If this finger, means that person feels guilty for nothing at all [it's the Viśhuddhi on the left hand side] or the right, means he talks too much and he has problems here.

This knowledge becomes your own. This is one of the powers I have described to you that you feel the collective consciousness within yourself. Whatever you achieve in your evolution is a living process. It is not a dead process, it's a living process by which your central nervous system can feel what is around you, what is within you. What you call the parasympathetic nervous system gets activated and you can understand the parasympathetic while, if there are any doctors they will tell you that they don't know much about parasympathetic. Now all these things happen to you and even if you are a child, you can manage the show.

The second power that you get is that you can raise the Kuṇḍalinī of another person like one enlightened light can enlighten another person. But we cannot deal with people who are nasty, who are superficial, who are stupid, not meant for that. It is meant for people who are seekers, who are intense: they are the chosen ones and they are called as `seekers' nowadays. They might be drug addicts, or they might be anything, doesn't matter. They have been truly seeking; they have taken something wrong as right or they might have done some mistakes, doesn't matter. Everything is forgiven. They will get what they want because they have been intensely seeking, truly wanting to be the Spirit. This is the pure desire of the person that works out, not a person who is just wanting it for the sake of some sort of a selfish or some sort of a power-oriented ideas.

Now the third power one gets is this, that a person becomes absolutely dynamic. He works very hard in the office time; he can do things which he has never done before. I know of somebody who has never done anything artistic, suddenly he started painting. I know another one who has never known what is poetry because he's a chartered accountant; he has been dealing with money all the time. Suddenly he started writing poetry, that too in Urdu language which is such a difficult thing. Such dynamism one develops.

Apart from that you develop a special feeling of oneness with others who are realised Souls. Friendship and fraternity are such a rare quality that you have never seen such people, even those people who go to fight in the war and all that, they don't have that love and that pure understanding and pure relationship that you find among the people who are realised Souls. There was a girl who had realisation and she went to Sicily; another one was a diplomat, she had her realisation from Rome, she went to Sicily. And they were sitting in two corners of one restaurant and they looked at each other and they felt the vibrations and one got up from there and she asked her, “Do you feel Cool Breeze in your hands?" She said, “Have you got realisation from Shri Mataji?" She said, “Yes, I've got it!" and they just hugged each other. And they were so very happy, they said, “Mother, such happiness and joy we have never felt with anyone." Such security, such help. Anywhere in the world you go, they are with you, your brothers and sisters in purity: they don't want anything, without any lust, without any greed, just feeling of oneness. Such a race has come up now in Australia, thank God, we have so many ashrams and we have so many people and Australia is growing very fast. Australians basically are in the land of innocence itself. The Deity of innocence is your Uluru, which stands there and the people of Australia I have found have a special blessing of God that they get realisation very fast, they keep it up and they grow very fast. We have other people also, I must say, that Italians and also the people from Austria. They are doing very well. I would say that English are very good [because] but you have to work hard with them. If you work hard with them they can come up well, so from all over the world from14 nations now we have people coming to Sahaja Yoga.

You don't have to pay anything: how can you pay? I mean, you think of one thing, it's ridiculous again that people think that you can pay for everything. Now, if you have to say sprout a seed, how much will you pay to the Mother Earth? How much money will She take for that kind of a thing? This is one thing people don't understand, anybody who asks for money, anybody who lives on the money earned in the name of God cannot be connected with God. You cannot earn your living in the name of God, you cannot. Is a simple thing, it's sinful. Of course, now, they have said, they have told Me that when I travel, people have to spend money. I mean, I can spend Myself, I, by God's grace I am alright, but supposing I was in the condition of Christ, then people would have paid for this air travel, it's alright, doesn't matter, He need not pay for your salvation. Air travel you can pay, it's all right, but He doesn't need anything, does He? In the same way, I don't need anything. What I need is to see that many people get their realisation, then they become their spirit. By God's grace it is working out very well in Australia.

Australia surprisingly has worked out so well and I am sure that these things will work out today also here in Brisbane.

The another good thing about Sahaja Yoga is that you settle down with good marriages. We have had 71 marriages last year and out of them 100% they are successful and they have beautiful children, very beautiful children and very sweet lives they are leading together. It is surprising how, from the muck of that nonsense that was there, the ideas of destroying the whole humanity, how these beautiful lotuses have come out. When I see that I forget that there are so many more have to come out of it. It has to work out.

There are so many who can receive it and become the lotus flowers to make the whole universe fragrant.

It's a work of few years more I think, I am sure lots of people will get realisation, but those who do not want, those who are adamant, those who do not want to have the blessings of God, will be judged because this is the Day of Judgment. I hope today most of you will get your realisation.

I would like some of you to ask Me questions, but ask relevant questions and not just questions to attack Me because I am not come here for an election or anything. Just simple questions.

[Aside:] Can you get Me some water? So many speeches, morning to evening! Yes, please? Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Is it possible that those who teach about the spirit differ on different points?

Shri Mataji: In the beginning they do, little bit, still they are not settled down, you see. They have to mature in Sahaja Yoga, no doubt, but in the beginning they do little bit differ but not much. In the beginning they do little bit sometimes differ, that I have seen, because one has to mature first of all. Once they are mature, they don't. They are very much in unison with each other. There's no difference at all.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Do you have to sit in any special posture when you are doing this or can it be done at any time, in any [UNCLEAR]?

Shri Mataji: No. You see in this Sahaja Yoga you become the Spirit, then you don't have to meditate much, about ten minutes or so is sufficient and there's nothing much particular restriction or anything in it, you can sit in any pose you like, there is no restriction of any kind because you become the Spirit. Only thing is you have to get into thoughtless awareness, that's the first state is, which we call as Nirvichara and for that state to achieve, you see, you have to sit down just and refuse to take any thoughts in your mind. Just say, `Not this, not this' so suddenly because your Kuṇḍalinī is there already up there, so you become thoughtlessly aware. Once you become thoughtlessly aware, you can stay like that for about five minutes or so, just that's all. It's not much time is needed because you are in meditation.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: He says that from his previous experience he finds that it is not possible to have a moment or so where there is no thought.

Shri Mataji: It's true, you cannot till the Kuṇḍalinī is awakened, you can't have. You see, one thought arises and falls, another thought rises and falls; there's a little space in between which we call in Sanskrit as Vilamba, very little spaces. Now what happened with Kuṇḍalinī awakening, both these thoughts become elongated and this Vilamba increases.

So you will automatically have that, you won't have to worry about that.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Is the Kuṇḍalinī awakening good for the children?

Shri Mataji: Excellent. They are the best. Children are the best, I mean, they have no complications, you see. We are complicated, we are on the left side or the right side, we have complications. They are such balanced things, they are the best. Children are the best, the more the merrier! I told them to bring all the children here and I would have been so happy in their company. They may be, most of them, may be already born realised, you can't say.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: What is the sensitivity of the children? If they are sensitive, how would the children be guarded against being hurt by others?

Shri Mataji: Oh, they know themselves, they are very clever and they are to be told how to take a guarding thing around their body and all that and they do it. They are very sweet, even little, little things they do with their hands, raising of their Kuṇḍalinī, very sweetly and they could immediately as soon as they see a horrid man they just start doing like that, they are very active. Must say, they are very good.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Would that be teaching them to put a golden light?

Shri Mataji: Yes, what we call as bandhan, is means that it's a kind of a protective thing to your auras. You see, you put with your own hands because the vibrations start flowing from your hand, then you just give it a bandhan and the children do it immediately, they do it immediately. They're very quick.

They are tremendous. They are the ones who protect. One father wanted to have his realisation, couldn't reach, so he just got so frustrated came on to My Feet, so this fellow came on My Feet but his child jumped on his back and he started using a bit of slide to take his Kuṇḍalinī up first. It was so interesting the way children react.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: How did You begin this? How were You initiated in this?

Shri Mataji: I was not initiated; I had this from My very childhood. You see, I know you would like to know about Me; it's better first you know yourself, then you'll know about Me better. All right? Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: She's asked if you would leave the present plane of consciousness just by getting to the realisation. She said that she has come here to learn but it shouldn't happen that you lose your present plane of consciousness. Is that the question?

Shri Mataji: No, you don't lose it. No, no, nothing like that. No, no, nothing like that happens.

Actually what happens that you get a additional, new awareness within yourself. You are very much there, very much alert, absolutely aware, but you get an additional awareness which is of the Spirit. You don't lose anything like that. Say, now, for example, you have a brother. Now you have not very good feelings for him, say, for example. When you get your realisation, you see that he's a good boy and you forgive him with your heart and you love him and you forget that what was wrong with him. You see the good points about him, because you become absolute. Your judgment differs. You laugh at yourself. What was wrong with him is no more. I was wrong at that time. You don't mind accepting that point: I was wrong, not now, I was.

Another thing is, supposing you have a particular habit and you can't get over it, it's impossible. Even if you want to, you cannot. Now you are so powerful that you don't look at it. You don't want to have it any more. You just don't like it. I would say this way, that an animal can pass through a dirty lane, it doesn't feel the dirt or filth or anything, doesn't smell anything, but a human being cannot. In the same way the realised Soul doesn't like anything that is wrong. It becomes righteous automatically, virtuous automatically and he's not asserting that on anyone. They are virtuous, they are righteous and they live in their own glory. This is how the awareness takes a beautiful turn. Anything else, please? Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Do You believe in reincarnation?

Shri Mataji: Yes, of course, there is reincarnation, no doubt about it and when Christ has said, “I'll come again” that means there is reincarnation.

So, but most important thing, what are you, now? And what you get, now, is the most important. We shouldn't worry about what we were in last life, what does it matter? Yes, please? Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Is your spirit one with your mental and physical being or is it separate from it?

Shri Mataji: It enlightens all that. Now can you say that this light that is enlightening us, is it one with us or without us? You see the light is separate, the spirit is separate from us, no doubt, but it integrates everything. The reason is we see. Now for example you're sitting in an enlightened way, but supposing you are sitting in the darkness, you'll be rushing each other, you would not know how you stand with each other, there's no integration.

So the light on the physical, mental, emotional side of our life is complete and completely integrated. That's a good question.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: When a person is enlightened, can you give it to someone else?

Shri Mataji: Of course, of course. When you are enlightened, you can enlighten another person: that's the power you get.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: How does it happen?

Shri Mataji: It happens because you become that. Supposing there's one candle. Now this candle is not enlightened, all right? Now I enlighten this, then with this candle I can enlighten any other candle.

So simple as that [laughs]. It is so simple. You see, everything that is Divine is simple; everything that is human is complicated. Take it like that. It's extremely simple.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: In your discourse You referred to the Kuṇḍalinī as `She'. Is that because You are a woman?

Shri Mataji: No, no no; She is the female side, you see. She is the Shakti, She is the female side.

That's why the quarrel about women and men is all falsehood. There's nothing like that; they exist together. It's like the moon and the moonlight; it's like the sun and the sunlight; it's like the God and the Kuṇḍalinī; it's like the word and the meaning.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Is it fair to say that the Kuṇḍalinī energy arises and meets another energy coming from above?

Shri Mataji: Yes, it is All-pervading Power, all right now? When the Kuṇḍalinī rises, what she does, she enlightens our subtler side of our nerves, our brain and everything, she enlightens and by that we start feeling it. Is the enlightenment that we get because of our connection with the All-pervading Power? It exists, already it exists, but you cannot feel it normally. When she rises then your nerves are so enlightened that you can feel it. All right? You might be already getting it; I think so. All right, should we have it now? All right, again, one more question.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: I've heard that there are stories that it is dangerous to arouse the Kuṇḍalinī. Why are there such stories?

Shri Mataji: The stories are because people who were not authorized have tried to raise the Kuṇḍalinī.

The person who has to raise the Kuṇḍalinī has to be authorized by the Divine. Such a person must have that pure character. These people just try to raise the Kuṇḍalinī and the deity of the last Chakra, what they call the Chakra of innocence, is the one which gets annoyed and that's how they get into trouble. As I told you, this is the Chakra looks after... Those people who are not authorized to do it, or we can say, in a very gross way one can explain this way, that a person who does not know about electricity and puts his finger into the plug, he gets a shock. But it's much worse than that. A person who does not have a proper character or a proper life and tries these tricks gets into trouble. Not by the Kuṇḍalinī but by the deity which is protecting its chastity.

These stories are there and naturally such people should, they give these sensational stories and people like it and many people follow them. I mean, it is so dangerous to be following all those wrong things.

Now, I must have given this Kuṇḍalinī awakening to thousands and thousands and thousands of people and nobody had any problem. She's your mother and as your mother has given you your birth, taking all your pains herself, She takes up all the pains. She doesn't give you any trouble at all. At the most you might feel a little tingling or something. Maybe if somebody's possessed then he starts a little bit jumping also; if there's a possessed man, starts a little bit jumping, but so far we didn't have any funny experiences of that kind. TM people start jumping, I've seen that, or people from this black magic, they start jumping before Me. Also these Rastafarians, they started jumping. There's some people who do that way, but they're all possessed, they're not normal people. But they jump for a while; you can bring them round; it's not so difficult.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: What happens to the Spirit after you die on this earth?

Shri Mataji: We'll talk about it later; it's a very long subject. You see, the Spirit, when you die, has different diverse type of existence after we die. It depends on, if you are a realised Soul you are a free bird, do what you like. But if you are not then you are different categories and according to your categories you live and exist, but I think that's a very long subject and some other time I'll let you know about it, all right? Yes? Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: I don't know why, but I'm so reluctant to be enlightened.

Shri Mataji: Firstly, you have a liver problem, Sir and a lot of heat in the body. If you put your left hand on here the heat will come down, no, no, left hand on the right side, a lot of heat and the reluctance is there. The liver is the horrid stuff, you see, that makes all the problems. Put your right hand like this and... Liver makes you think, think, think, think all the time. Anything else? Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: What makes for suffering and misery in this world and why do people cheat each other? Sahaja Yogi [adds]: He feels the distress also.

Shri Mataji: This is good, but you should see this as human beings treating each other like that, isn't it? What to do? That's the question I ask you. You see, all this stupidity, why is it there? It is there because they are not the Spirit as yet. They need transformation; all of them need transformation.

But supposing tomorrow Hitler comes and asks Me for transformation, I say, “I'm sorry, next life we'll see about it"! Yes? Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: In taking out of the stress from other people, do you get it on Your body and does it come in as pain to You?

Shri Mataji: No, nothing. I'm not taking out anything, you see. Just a state of mind which becomes enlightened by the Spirit. You just become relaxed, that's all. It's in your own will. Supposing, now, this is `on' and this is `off' [indicating microphones], in the same way, but it is nothing that I have to do about it. See, it's within you, just works out within you and the Kuṇḍalinī itself, when she rises, relaxes you automatically.

So why will it hurt Me? Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: She's asking will it hurt her if she's taking on the stresses of other people?

Shri Mataji: No, no. In the beginning I would say you should not do that because in the beginning you don't know how to do it properly, but after you are mature nothing can happen. You see, like something, which is not matured, can take the imprints, but once it is matured it is perfectly all right. First you have to mature yourself. Takes about a month to mature yourself, then it's all right.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Why did the stressed person become that? Is it because of the Chakras being blocked?

Shri Mataji: Yes, very much, very much. Blocked or imbalanced, specially imbalance. Imbalance is very much, because the Chakras are like this [demonstrating with Her hands, fingertips together] supposing, all right? Now, you push it too much this side, there's an imbalance and this Chakra's become blocked here.

Now this could be on the left side or the right side; any side it can work out. This is due to imbalances.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: I have search for the material and a search for the spiritual, but while I am young should I use it for the search for the material or the search for the spiritual?

Shri Mataji: If you get the Spirit you get the material automatically. The whole material is controlled by the Spirit. It's very surprising how you get it. You enter into the realm of God.

You'll be amazed that in England there's such a lot of joblessness, people don't have jobs at all, unemployment; but not a single Sahaj Yogi is unemployed, not a single Sahaj Yogi is unemployed. The other day one gentleman was to come from Paris to Australia for a particular seminar and he thought it was, he wanted to come because this is the other side of the world and all that, but quite excited, but he didn't have money and suddenly he got the money which he was to get for eight years. Suddenly he got the money and he's here. All such miracles work out. From Australia I'll tell you one miracle, it's most interesting.

There was a little girl, she wrote a letter to Me “Mother, I want to come and see You in India, but I don't have so much money to come." She and her mother, they both wanted to come. They had a fete in the school and she had taken a trinket for selling and when the teacher saw, she said, “This is gold, gold, yes, better take it to your mother." And when they went to the jeweler, the amount was the same as they would need to go to India.

So, in so many ways you are helped. You don't know the realm of God; is very different, so efficient. Works so fast. We haven't entered into that realm.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: These, You've talked about the imbalances or blockages in the Chakras. How do we become aware of them and how do we correct them?

Shri Mataji: That's what you have to learn; it's very simple. You see, once you get your realisation you'll have to come to our centers and we'll tell you how to do it. It's very simple. There are a few methods by which you can just clear them out. But you have to come to our center, you see. You have to respect your Self-realisation and you have to little bit pay attention to it, because people, you see, to them is like buying Coca-Cola in a bar shop, is not realisation. It's the epitome of your evolution, is the highest thing and has to be respected that way. They come to My lectures all right, but they don't try to work out their realisation. You have to work it out and you have to become masters. You have to become your own Gurus. All of you can. One more? Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: When talking about realisation, is it that when you get it you keep it or can you lose it, or just glimpses of it?

Shri Mataji: No, you see, the thing is, if you have realisation you have to look after it, nourish it and develop it. Just like a little plant, you see. When you have a little plant you have to develop it. Once it becomes a tree, then many come for the shelter under that tree, isn't it? In the same way you have to look after it. It may not diminish, but it won't have much effect and it will always be in a dangerous position.

The thing is to make it absolutely matured. It hardly takes any time, any effort, any money. One has to know how to do it.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Why have the churches not told us about this?

Shri Mataji: That was not the time, Sir. Imagine, Christ lived for only three and a half years, in the sense that, for His spiritual undertakings, He was allowed only for three and a half years to live like that. Churches do not know it, but even Christ... Imagine, for four years I was struggling with seven English boys and girls to give them realisation. He did quite a good job, I must say, still, but that was not the time. Christ actually came on this Chakra, is the Āgñyā Chakra. That was His time, to show the way of resurrection; that was His life and that's what He's done, but the churches have missed the point.

Churches have missed the point and they will go on missing the point. Their main interest is how to make money. Is not good. Or how to convert people, is not good.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Are there a lot of holy people in the church?

Shri Mataji: There could be many people who are very simple, who believe in Christ, who go to churches because they believe that they'll be saved. All of them will be saved, no doubt. They're very simple people; they give such a lot of money to the church and they give such dedication to the church, even though they are wrongly placed. But they will be saved, no doubt about it. They all have to be saved. But there are people who are just making money out of churches, trying to make an organization out of it. They are trying to convert people, trying to make a political end out of it; then such a thing won't work out. That's not proper. Churches should only deliver the goods of giving realisation to people, that's what a church is for. They will learn, I'm sure; they will have to become.

Some of them will have to become, but if they are money oriented I just don't know. They are more interested in the kings and prime ministers, princesses and all that. I just don't understand. They have nothing to do with God.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Why is there a need for judgment when some people make progress and some don't progress and why do others judge them? Why is there a need for a time of judgment?

Shri Mataji: It has to be some time, My child, for judgment and this is a particular time, because is what we call the worst time because the Man is so much in confusion. The most difficult time for human beings to exist is modern times, what we call as the ghore Kali Yuga and this was the time when it had to happen, otherwise man won't take to God seriously, perhaps, maybe. Maybe our forefathers didn't have this stress and strain and they didn't want to relax or think of God. They were quite happy with their agricultural work that they were doing, but now it is really we have reached to that point. Everything has to come to its boiling point and now this is the time for the world to get its results, either this way or that way.

Question [paraphrased by a Sahaja Yogi in the room]: Why is there a time of judgment now, because if there is reincarnation they will keep going back and coming until there is a change?

Shri Mataji: I've already told you that this is the time when the people are most confused and they have to take a decision. That's why this is the judgment time. Either they will go to hell or to heaven, all right? Is that, makes you all right? Good. Heaven is within us.

Now, should we have our realisation? Now, a very simple thing one has to do, as I said, that you have to little bit cooperate with Me. If you are adamant or cynical about it it's difficult, so if you want your realisation you have to little bit cooperate with Me, that's all. Now, for that, you have to take out your shoes, just you touch the Mother Earth, that's all, you touch the Mother Earth. Just take out...

It's all your own and it has to just come up, that's all. Now put the feet on the ground, parallel and sit very comfortably in a straight way.

Contents: 1987-05-06 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, The Need to Go Deeper and Questions and Answers, Burwood Ashram, Sydney, Australia

I am happy that you all were meditating here and were trying to develop your depth. You all have depth, a very deep personality within yourself. But we have to touch that, that's very important, because you see, we sing, have music, that's a very good thing; we enjoy each other's company, also is very good and that's a nice thing. But we have to enjoy our own company also by meditating, going within yourself.

Now, “What is the use?" one may ask. “Mother, now we have got realisation, we have a nice life, we are enjoying ourselves, we are doing so well." The deeper you go, the deeper you touch the essences of all the things, like all the elements. When you had finished your meditation you saw how the rain fell down, how the rain came suddenly.

So rain has felt your depth, or you have felt the depth of rain. Now you know that if you light one little candle and put your finger towards it with My photograph there, it acts, it reacts and it gives you a flame which burns, sometimes gives you smoke, sometimes it gallops.

So you have noticed that there's a reaction, even in the fire.

So all elements have got an effect, if a saint wants to have an effect. But first of all you must reach your own essences. Once you reach your own essences, then you reach the essences of all the elements and then you can handle all the elements as you like or you can order them as you like. First they will act, expressing that they have been touched, like today, the rain came pouring down. Then later on you can command and you can ask the rain to come.

To work out many things of that kind we have to be deep people, we have to go much deeper within ourselves to touch our essences. That is, you know very well that all our Chakras are made out of these essences and when we go deep into ourselves, what we find that we can touch the elements very well. But while doing so, actually we move horizontally. When we start moving horizontally, at the core of it we find that there are these essences placed and these essences then start exciting the essences across. Like in the radio you have seen there's ether. Now when you speak on one side of the radio, it gets completely manifested in the essence of the ether and then everybody can hear it. Now when you people just give a bandhan sometimes, you find that you have communicated with another person. But that's only the essence of the ether, we can say, the subtler of the subtlest. People have only gone onto the subtler side, we can say, by science, but you go to the subtler side and that subtler side gives you all these effects.

Now you have seen also that in some of the photographs suddenly you find light coming out of My head, or there's somebody shown as with the light, somebody's with the head the light is coming, you have seen all this. This is done also by the same method, but here the deities like Viṣhṇumāyā works out.

She's very active, She works it out, She does all these things. And you know that also that when they gave Me once a beautiful crown in Switzerland, in the sky they got the photograph of the same. Very beautifully done, the crown was there, Fātima's crown, My face, My eyes and everything so clearly. All this is done by Viṣhṇumāyā.

So all the, all the essences are working out for you, as well as all the deities are working out for you. They are very anxious that these things should be done and you are the channels for them to work it out.

Now for example, as I told you the other day, if you don't keep yourself all right. A simple thing I have told you, to put in the nose some ghee. It's a very simple thing but that helps Me a lot, because that helps My Viśhuddhi. But if you don't do it I suck in, in any case, whatever problems you have, I suck in. I suck in the problem of Sahaja Yogis, also the problem of the city where I am, also the problem of the country where I am, maybe of the whole universe. But My horizontal movement is quite large and is very subtle and I do it quietly.

But you must also understand that you can do a lot by your horizontal movement. By horizontal movement what happens that you start meditating on a particular subject which is a very bothersome subject and which is for the destructive of humanity. Anything, you just put your attention to it and meditate. If you are that deep, that means if your calibre has improved to that extent, you will immediately put an effect on that. Immediately you will see there will be a change, there will be something happening in that direction. This is your power which you have to actually develop.

So we have to meditate and by meditation we develop that strength within us, so automatically we start solving the problem. Like our antennae grow up to that point: the way we are strong inside, they grow outside to help so many things which are to be helped. Now you see that people are realizing that the world is in a great mess and there are lots of problems that have come through materialism, through wrong thinking, through emotional thinking, through stupidity we can say. We have no time for all this.

What we have to do is to develop ourselves deeper and deeper and deeper, so that on horizontal plane also we are effective.

Sahaja Yoga first of all is for personal improvement, is for the inner improvement as far as the personal side is concerned, means your intelligence must improve, your temperament must improve, your heart must clear out, your feelings must be all right. Then you should, your health should be all right, then your relationship with others should be all right, your ego should go away, your superego should go away, all these things are there. But this only helps a personality, just a personality that is very limited, that is yourself. But now this personality can become an instrument, if you can develop that depth within yourself. But normally what happens, people are very much still worried about themselves, say about their wives, about their children, about their husbands or their household, or this and that. These are not important things, because we have to be those instruments which are what you call them, like pilotless bombs, we have to develop that depth within us. That depth is possible and you can really cure many problems of your country if you could just meditate on them.

Now for today, I had actually sucked in most of the problems which I had felt were there in Canberra and later on in that conference and later on here. All these problems came into My understanding, I would say and I was trying to work on them. My working style is different because I have very sharp and very effective instruments. But I have to pay attention to it and I a little bit suffer also, doesn't matter.

Now for you also, it is important that you also develop those deeper feelings within you, deeper sense within you. But mostly people are very superficial type. They just think about their body, their impressions, how they carry themselves. At the most they'll think we have to be very legal-minded, or we have to be at the most not drinking, not smoking and all these things are achieved and we have achieved everything. But I think that is not so.

And second point is that we think that if we love each other, if we love Mother, that is the end of everything. It's not true also, because you see, your love for Me is there no doubt and it should be intense, it should be deeper; but the deeper you go into that love, then you will be surprised how you receive a special quality of correcting the things that are wrong around you. Gradually that quality improves. For example, a Sahaja Yogi goes to anybody's house, that house must become auspicious. But such a Sahaja Yogi must have a good heart. If the heart is not good, in the heart there is still anger, passion, lust, greed, then such a heart won't affect. But a person who has purified himself, if he goes into any family, any household, any society, the whole change will take place. The circumstances will change. Things that do not work out will start working out immediately.

Like they said, “Mother, as soon as You sent from this Sunday, everything started working out as far as the television is concerned and radio is concerned." I didn't do anything, in a way. But that should happen with you also. Wherever a saint goes, things are changing. But you have to be a saint and a saintly person has a very deep understanding of another person and this is what it is lacking: we don't have that deep understanding for each other. Then even if you have for some of your own friends, or maybe in the same ashram that you are staying and all that, but it should deepen much more. You should go further and further.

Now even if you think of Me, it works out. It's the other way round also. But first of all the meditative process should be increased. We all must meditate, that is very important, meditate sincerely. Not just because we have to meditate but because we have to be deep, we have to grow within to express our great powers of Divine Love; to correct so many things, which you can do very easily, I know you all can do it.

There's no need to have big degrees for that, big education for that, nothing is needed. What is needed is a deep feeling of love for the whole universe and that changes. The all-destructive forces change their course and it is then for the constructive forces. But on the whole that works out much faster if you all do that meditation with sincerity, with intensity, with understanding. All right? May God bless you.

It is much more than our music, much more than My lectures or anything, that we have to do. And now the course has to change. I am sure you people will take to the new course.

So may God bless you for that.

Have you got any questions?

Sahaja Yogi: There seems to be some difference of opinion on parts of the body that are represented here and here and there. Could You tell us please, Shri Mataji?

Shri Mataji: I see. These Chakras are represented outside also in our body, we can say, that on our feet as you know: you know the Nābhī, Nābhī is the thumb [big toe], you be seated and I'll tell you; you'll know, Nābhī is the thumb [big toe] and left and right Nābhī. Then second finger [second toe] from the thumb [big toe] is the Viśhuddhi, the third finger [third toe] is the Swādhiṣhṭhāna, the fourth finger [fourth toe] is the Āgñyā and the fifth finger [fifth toe] is the Heart. Now this is the, our basis.

Then in the hands they change, as you know. In the hands you know very well, I need not tell about the hands. Now in your hand, we can say, this one [left shoulder] here is the Lalitā Chakra, also is the part of the Viśhuddhi Chakra. It works out the Viśhuddhi Chakra, Lalitā Chakra. And then this is the Nābhī [elbow] and this is the Viśhuddhi [wrist]. Swādhiṣhṭhāna is in between, you can say. Now, Heart is here [little finger] so any time you have this finger paining too much, then you must know there's some trouble with the Heart. But Heart is not in all these things, but sometimes, sometimes it could be felt here [left upper arm]. Heart Chakra can be felt here with a reflection maybe, on this side.

So we can do like this, is to say: Viśhuddhi, Heart, then Nābhī, then Swādhiṣhṭhāna and then...

Sorry! This is the Viśhuddhi [shoulder], this is Swādhiṣhṭhāna [upper part of upper arm], this is Heart [lower part of upper arm] and this is Nābhī [elbow] and this one is, but I never use them, so I just don't know!, Heart [lower arm] and this is Viśhuddhi [wrist]. All right? But you can feel it sometimes even Heart here [upper arm], because if Swādhiṣhṭhāna is very active your Heart goes out, so you can feel it here. It's a very important thing that we should have that discrimination, because if I tell you something maybe you are not yet that level of discretion and you may get confused.

So this is the Viśhuddhi [wrist]. Now there is pain here, that means there is problem with your Viśhuddhi.

Now sometimes you have a problem, say, on your Viśhuddhi, now you can pull this finger. Just to pull the finger nicely and you'll be surprised, the vibrations coming out of left Viśhuddhi. Any one, you have any problem, you can pull them. And that is how all the Chakras are placed in the body.

In the same way downward if you move, this is the Nābhī [knee], this is the Swādhiṣhṭhāna, both are Swādhiṣhṭhāna [hip and upper part of leg] and this is the Heart [lower leg] and this is the Viśhuddhi at the ankle bone. This is Viśhuddhi at the ankle bone.

So the main thing to remember are the Viśhuddhis, because Viśhuddhi, Nābhī and Swādhiṣhṭhān: these three are important, because they go off immediately as soon as, supposing there is a Nābhī patient sitting with you, you'll immediately have a problem on your Nābhī [knee]. But these [upper and lower leg] sometimes manifest, not all the time, so they can be confusing. But Swādhiṣhṭhāna specially. Like, when I got down in Canberra I just couldn't walk, both the Swādhiṣhṭhānas went like that, you see. I didn't know how to move. It was terrible because both the Swādhiṣhṭhānas were caught up, for a while, but they were.

So it is indicative of those things.

Sahaja Yogi: Śhrī Mātājī, could You please tell us more about Haṁsa Chakra?

Shri Mataji: Haṁsa Chakra? Haṁsa Chakra is placed here [between eyebrows] where some of the nerves which are coming from Iḍā and Piñgalā cross over and is a part of Viśhuddhi Chakra. Plus the connection with Viśhuddhi and Āgñyā: as you must have read in the Devī Māhātmyam that Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa is the Father of Christ, so the connection between the two is maintained here. And this is very important, Haṁsa Chakra is, that if your Haṁsa Chakra is not all right, your discretion is very poor.

This Chakra will get easily dried out. Like if you eat very dried food, you see. Say, sometimes you also offer Me some dried food and I have to tell you that not to give too dry food. You must eat it with some sauce or some liquid thing, because if you eat very dry food also this becomes very dry. And it's very important because if this portion becomes dry, you can put some oil or ghee into it to make it all right.

But from here starts the drying of the peritoneum and the lining. If the peritoneum gets dried up, the whole body gets dried up. It can be anywhere; in the lung if it is dried up it can cause you lung cancer.

As even the peritoneum can be in a cancer state.

So one has to be very careful not to take something very dry, all the time dry food and dry things. Moreover, not to put anything to make this a lubricant, some sort of a lubricant should be there so there's no problem on this Chakra. Because first of all it loses your discretion, you don't understand things, you don't know what to do. You mean it, you mean good, but you don't do. When you achieve something, it's something not so good. The reason is, your discretion is poor. For that this must not be made dry.

I have told many a times to put some ghee every day. Get a little bottle of ghee, keep it with you with a little dropper. You can put it in the hot water, you can heat it up every day and take two drops in the nose in the night and in the morning time. It doesn't take much, but it should be done. It's for your good.

That's the only ritual I think we follow, do we, have we any other ritual? We don't even make a cross! Anything else?

Sahaja Yogi: Śhrī Mother, last two years ago when You were here at Burwood, You were saying how we've gone beyond Nirvichara and we're into savikalpa and we're reaching Nirvikalpa. Could You please tell us a little about savikalpa?

Shri Mataji: First stage is Nirvikalpa where you become thoughtless in between, then you become, again come to thought, again you become thoughtless. That's a very good stage where you start and you start growing up into that. Now savikalp can be before or after this stage, like savikalpa is, `vikalpa' means doubt and `savikalpa' means with doubt.

So you are still growing with the doubts in your mind.

There are people who still grow with doubts in their mind.

For example you see, somebody feels hurt in Sahaja Yoga, some way he's hurt that “I've been hurt in Sahaja Yoga", something, the subconscious is there. Then he still has that feeling within himself, `I'm hurt, but still I must do Sahaja Yoga, it is good.' Mentally he accepts and goes on with it, so he can get into nirvikalp state with that. Or maybe he gets to Nirvikalpa state and then again goes to savikalpa.

That's a ashback. And could be he can say, “All right, I'll do it in Nirvichara, but from Nirvichara I can go to, you see, my doubts also. After all I have my doubts, what things and this and that is possible." And some people have a hidden anger within themselves, or kind of a hidden feelings or hidden things which he's not very aware of, too, so he has also got the vikalpas with him.

So with savikalpa Samādhi is that, so it can be after or before Nirvichara Samādhi.

So I mean, you go, fall on to it sometime.

So we'll have to go beyond actually savikalpa, because Nirvichar Samādhi is not sufficient enough. All the vikalpas, all the doubts must go away, then you'll reach the state of Nirvikalpa.

Then there's no doubt, there's no problem. There are many among you who are like that, who are not yet aware that they are like that. That's why I'm requesting you to develop this new dimension in your creative work.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji, how can we sustain a deep meditation throughout the day?

Shri Mataji: You see, you are in meditation in a way. You are halfway in meditation and halfway not. Now if you try to develop a state of witness, then you are in meditation, just a state of witness.

Whatever you see, just watch it. Just watching is the best way and then you'll be surprised that you will find that you are in another world and these people are only in another world. You are seeing them from another world. Then you will have compassion for them, you will have pity for them, you may also not like them, it's all these feelings will come up to you, but you'll be a person who is separated from them.

Sahaja Yogi: Sometimes you can feel that you in yourself, in your center you are all right, but you move in circumstances that cause a disharmony in some other part of you.

Shri Mataji: That is the savikalpa state. That is you move, you see, though you are in that state of Nirvichara, still you move to savikalpa state where you again get vikalpa. But you are, you are after all a realised Soul, you see.

So they have made three clear-cut things, that you can have savikalpa Samādhi, you can have Nirvichara Samādhi and you can have pure Nirvikalpa Samādhi. Now from even that state, you see, you can get to that and that's what you have to cut out, is to, when you see such a situation where you get involved, then you say, “This is not, this is not” and come out of it. It's a practice, a little practice can tell you. Like driving, by practice you master it in the same way.

When I know something is wrong, I know it is wrong and I know that they are doing wrong, but I just keep quiet and then they know what it was wrong and what was right. It is better to make others learn by mistakes than to tell them. No one likes to be told. Then they learn themselves by mistakes, “Yes, I've done this mistake, that mistakes. I've ruined my life. Now come along." But if you tell them, they can be very reluctant or could be vindictive also.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji, could You tell us some more about the conscious mind?

Shri Mataji: The conscious mind? What do you want to know about the conscious mind? You see, conscious mind is the mind where you are awake and see things. But there is also unconscious mind behind it; and there's a subconscious mind and there's supraconscious mind and beyond the supraconscious there is also collective supraconscious and beyond the subconscious there is collective subconscious.

There's unconscious mind. The unconscious mind is in a way, we can say is the Kuṇḍalinī. Now when She enters into your conscious mind, you become enlightened. The conscious mind is the mind that is aware of the surroundings, aware of everyone being there, aware of all the things. But an enlightened conscious mind which is of a high level is much more conscious of things than you are. For example, I am quite conscious of people who are catching on the Heart and I'm quite conscious of the people who are not yet there; I'm quite conscious of the people who are perfectly there and I'm quite conscious of the people who are nowhere near. But it's all right for Me, because I with My conscious mind can raise them up.

So it's a different situation with Me.

But with other people could be that your conscious mind is all the time, depending on your level of advancement, may be worried about small, small things, like “I have to go home now and it's getting late and will I get a bus or not?" Could be like that. Then there could be another conscious mind which is thinking about how far I can meditate, how far I can go with it, all kinds of things. But there could be a conscious mind which is enlightened, if it is enlightened, it's just getting all the essence of what I am saying and developing and nourishing itself.

So when you are enlightened, the conscious mind is something like a tree into which the sap is now flowing. It may be that it is just like a leaf or it may be it is like a flower, or maybe it is like a fruit.

So it changes its forms once he gets realisation. If a person gets realisation then the conscious mind moves on, getting more and more light. Say for example when the electricity comes you can see this room, you can see another's room, you can see another room, you can go round and see and again, again you will see it all the rooms; then you become aware of all the rooms, so you are conscious of all these. But in the beginning you are just conscious of the room where you are standing, isn't it? So the conscious mind's definition cannot be given after realisation. A person like Me, say for example, has a conscious mind that might envelop the whole world. Or a conscious mind of a person who is realised Soul who is still not anywhere, just started, then he's only conscious as to where is right, where is left, where is this.

So before the realisation the conscious mind sees things around you. Out of that also there are categories.

Some people see, say, for artists can see something and a scientist can see something, another poet will see something, so it depends on the conscious mind how it is, has got the trend. But still it won't see something that is subtle behind it and that only is possible after you get your realisation. All right?

Sahaja Yogi: Mother, sometimes ego masquerades as Guru. How can we tell when that's going on in us?

Shri Mataji: You see, when ego comes up, I don't know much about it, you see, because I haven't got! We can say when ego comes up, then a person becomes arbitrary. First thing is he becomes arbitrary.

He'll start deciding, `I'll have this, I'll have that, I like this', you see? This is the one thing. Secondly it takes out itself from the collective, becomes very arbitrary, collective removes itself from you. But the spirit is the other way round. Spirit is, it cares for the collective. It doesn't become arbitrary at all and it never says `I like, I want.' Its `I' drops out. You see, you can easily see, very easily with your discrimination that egoistical person is not even liked by the person who has ego. If he sees himself in the mirror he says, “Oh God, what's this wretched nonsense? What a temperament it is!" It will not like itself.

There was a lady who was a very hot-tempered woman and once she came to My Pūjā and I said, “Now what is this heater you have brought before Me in India in the hot season?", one heater put before you. I said, “Oh God, please remove her, she's like a heater." Nobody understood it, you see, but I said, “Please remove her." So then they asked her, “You get down. Mother can't bear you." Then she was very angry and “What is this? What's wrong with me? What have I done?" After some time, you see, people said that “you may have nothing to do." Then nobody would talk to her, she was left alone and then she was also very unhappy about it because she was left alone. She thought, “What's this? This is insulting. Why should they leave me alone?" Then after some time she realised that “There must be something wrong with me, I must find out. There's something nonsensical about it, something filthy on me. I should throw it away." Then she started working it out and seeing herself and all that and she became a very, very sweet person. But she dare not face Me, was quite afraid.

So her daughter came to see Me one day. I said, “How is your mother?" She said, “Mother, she's all right." “You ask her to come and see Me." So she said, “And I have never felt such joy as I felt that day when You called me." I said, “I knew you have improved so much." She came. I had taken a watch for her. She said, “Mother, You have brought a watch for me?" I said, “Yes, I have brought a watch for you." She said, “Thank God that filth has gone, thank God! Fed up of it!" That's how when you develop, then that sweetness, the beauty, everything comes up. But you see the ego is, if you play upon your ego it adheres to you. You get identified with it and you cannot get rid of it.

But I have seen one case which is such a beautiful case is and I was sitting in My room and I could feel with the child when she came in. And I asked her, “Where is your mother?" She was herself surprised. I mean, she told her mother.

She said, “I've never had such a joy! Such a joy I had that, oh, Mother has recognized me." I said, “I always recognized you." So this is what it is.

Sahaja Yogi: The Sahasrāra is represented by the lotus and is the lotus at the moment losing its petals and the fruit developing?

Shri Mataji: You see, it is represented as lotus because our brain is like a lotus, actually. If you cut it horizontally you can see as if you have cut the petals and if you cut it vertically you can see that around the limbic area it is just like petals of lotus. But when you are enlightened what happens, they swell up and they open out and they all have beautiful colours. They look like tongues of flames and it's very beautiful.

Now the Sahasrāra is open and the lotus is open and inside you find the fruit already there kept, which is the Āgñyā Chakra which sits there. You can see it very clearly. Āgñyā is yellow, yellow-covered as we say, like a gold cap is the Āgñyā there, beautiful Āgñyā is inside.

Now the fruit of the lotus is later on we see and I would say that is called as Bindu state, where you become a bindu, a dot, it's a little dot and that dot has to then grow.

So it's the second stage starts when you become the fruit of the lotus.

Sahaja Yogi: Śhrī Mother, could You say something about the Bindu and the higher Chakras above that?

Shri Mataji: You see, I don't think you should worry too much about these. There's three stages higher than Sahasrāra. I would suggest just now let us concentrate on Sahasrāra, is a better idea. But Bindu, Ardha-Bindu and Valaya are the three stages in which one has to pass through later on and you would pass gradually when you develop yourself horizontally. That's what we have started now, so let us keep to this idea that we have to develop ourself horizontally. We should see how we affect the other person, how we influence the another person.

For example some people, you see, they are very egoistical and all that, they may come in contact with you and say, “Oh, very nice person, charming person, this, that." But actually that person is just very physically may be attractive, or may be a little brilliant type of a person but doesn't have anything much in it. But if that person standing next to you changes the mood and temperament of another person, then you can say that this person has a spiritual personality.

So let us see how you affect the nature. Flowers, you saw the miracle of the flowers that I performed for you the other day. In the same way let us see what is the effect of your character on the trees, on your friends, or in the food that you make, everything changes, it's very beautiful.

So we have to see that, how it works out.

I have known people who have never known what is poetry is, suddenly they become poets.

Some who were never musicians started singing so well. Like Christine, you know Christine, she never used to sing, she had a horrible voice. And suddenly she started singing like a cuckoo-bird! So not only you, but on others what effect is had? What others feel about you? You see, how you are kind, good and sweet to others, not superficially, but your behaviour should change another person, transform another person. Your presence should bring auspiciousness.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji, how can we develop that same heart that poets like Kabīr have for You?

Shri Mataji: Why not? See the handicap of Kabīr. You have no handicaps. Kabīr had no Mother to tell him, no Mother to love him, look after him and tell him all these things. He had a Guru and you know Kabīr's life. Kabīr wanted to become the disciple of Rāmānanda Swāmī, but he was a Muslim or low-caste or whatever it is, so he could not reach Rāmānand Swāmī. The disciples would not allow him to go near Rāmānand Swāmī.

So one day Kabīra went and slept on the steps of the River Ganges, all night in the cold waiting for Rāmānand Swāmī to come, because he used to always pass the same way. And his feet fell on Kabīra and he said, “Oh my child, what are you doing here?" So Kabīra got up and he said, “Sir, you have accepted me as your disciple today." He said, “Yes, I have." And then Rāmānand Swāmī took him and he trained him into something great.

You don't have these handicaps, where Kabīra never had anybody to support him or help him around.

Actually single-handed he fought the whole world. Horrible people were around him; even today those who are in his place in Patna or in all places where he lived, I was surprised that he described Kuṇḍalinī as `surati' and they described tobacco as `surati'. Such horrible nonsensical people, making fun of everything.

There Kabīra lived and developed that heart. You don't have all these handicaps at all. You all speak the same language, you live with the same ideas, you have your own Mother to tell you everything, so you can develop the same heart as Kabīra had.

Sahaja Yogi: Mother, when I meditate sometimes I can see beautiful, like a massive flower coming out of the head or a beautiful, sort of a golden like, almost like a vase. And I've been asking people and they don't know really the answer and I don't know it either.

Shri Mataji: That's the Kuṇḍalinī that you see. It is like a telescope, you see, like a goldenish, yellowish sort of a, like a heated...

Sahaja Yogi: It's like a furnace.

Shri Mataji: Yes, furnace, it's like a furnace. That's the Kuṇḍalinī you see and that's a good thing to see. But when you see you are not there, so it's better is not to see that. But what you see is that, is the Kuṇḍalinī. It's good, I mean seeing is very good, but to go beyond it. Say, `No, I don't want to see it.

Now I want to enter into it.'

Sahaja Yogi: Yes. Last night for instance I was sleeping with my little girl and in her bed she asked me to come.

And we meditated and it was enormous and I woke up, suddenly woke up.

Shri Mataji: In your dream you saw?

Sahaja Yogi: I don't know whether it was a dream or whether I was still meditating, but...

Shri Mataji: In dream if you see is very good, but otherwise in meditation you should not see it. In the dream if you see, is very good. It's the Kuṇḍalinī itself, it's like a furnace, it looks like a silent burning furnace.

Sahaja Yogi: Sometimes like fireworks. It's quite beautiful.

Shri Mataji: Yes. But you shouldn't see it anymore, all right? Try to avoid.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji, could You just say something about how we purify our attention? How we look beyond the human form and the differences between each other?

Shri Mataji: Pure attention? You see, your attention gets spoilt that when you put attention, say I put attention onto this glass, then I start thinking about this glass that `Oh, it's a beautiful glass so now, so it's a very beautifully done one. Now somehow or other I should manage to steal it!' Then attention moves further, `How can I manage to steal this? And what should I do, what is the best way of stealing it?' and all those things.

So the attention gives, you see, into problems and problems because I have got for this a greed, I develop a greed. How I've developed? Because you see, supposing I put My attention to it and then a thought starts from there coming to Me, a reaction as such, this gives you a reaction. Then you start seeing a beautiful Gaṇeśha there, then you say, `Oh, I have never seen one like this!' Like that the thought starts, you see, coming from all this. And that thought comes into My mind and gives Me ideas that I should do something like that, to steal the glass. All right? Now, the pure attention would be that I just watch this without thinking. Anywhere that your attention goes and you start sort of getting involved into it or getting attached to it, you should try to just watch it without thinking. Go into thoughtless awareness, then you enjoy it the most. Now say for example, these carpets are very nice. One thing would be, if they belonged to Me I would be worried how to insure them, all these people are sitting, that would be spoilt, this, that, all these thoughts will come into My head.

Supposing these belonged to you, then I'll think how to manage to take them with Me somehow and how to suggest in a very clever way something that I can manage to take them away! Now that is quite human and one can do that way, but beyond that all cleverness and cunning, best is to appreciate. How? By just looking at it without any thought. Artist has created it, he has put all his joy into it. I'm just enjoying the joy, just looking at it.

So when you start enjoying the joy your attention will become pure, very pure. Because the enjoyment of it is, makes you a very sort of a dedicated person about it, because you feel that what is in this world after all? It's to enjoy. And if I have to enjoy everything, then why should I worry about getting it to Myself or stealing it, or doing all these tricks? Better is to enjoy.

So the reward of it is so great that attention starts purifying itself.

Sahaja Yogi: We tend to sort of react to things before we even know that we've reacted. It seems to be such a fast process that we look and we react in seconds.

Shri Mataji: Yes, in the beginning it is, because you are coming from that, you see, style to the other style. But once you settle in this style, then you'll just react in this manner that you'll just watch. But it otherwise also works out. I'll tell you a story. They had given Me about sixteen beautiful crowns, of course I couldn't wear them, for this Kṛiṣhṇa Pūjā in Switzerland and all the English were bringing them, `smuggling' them into England and all these boxes were kept.

So when they reached the custom post, the custom post asked them, “What are all these?" They said, “All right, you can have a look." So they passed on one to them.

So the first fellow looked at it and then he passed to another one, then another one given. Like that four were passed on to them and they were all looking at it.

And then they said, “Now what do you say?" Nothing. They closed it and gave it to them. Then they looked back, these boys, what has happened to them where they were? They just were moving like this. And so many cars passed but these people never looked at any cars, they were just...

So they had a bliss casualty, also this can happen, bliss casualty! So better to see things which can cause bliss casualty! And once you get into that habit, then you don't take to other useless things. Then you like to see only things which can give you bliss. Your attention changes.

Sahaja Yogi: Mother, please, what is the Omkāra?

Shri Mataji: The Omkāra? Is the first sound. When the Shakti departed from Sadāśhiva, from the God Almighty, His Power, His Desire departed, it made the first sound: that's the first Child, we say, of God. That's Omkāra. A-u-m is the thing and these are the three Powers which are represented as Mahākālī, Mahālakṣhmī, Mahāsaraswatī. And also all these are combined together to form Śhrī Gaṇeśh.

Sahaja Yogi: Mother, what is Your vision for Sahaja Yoga?

Shri Mataji: This is the one, started already! My vision for Sahaja Yoga is that, that all the good people, righteous people, God-loving people will rise above all that is useless, worldly and reside in the Heavens with all the blessings of God, for ever and ever.

All right? So we can have a music, because without that you won't feel it is complete. Let's hear the song...

Did you hear the tape from Pune children? Wasn't it fine? Very good, isn't it? You have to make copies of that and send it over. It's very good music and very good songs... Such small girls they are, you see, all of them. They have made and composed everything done and sang so clearly. It's really remarkable. Nobody has taught them anything.

Now those who cannot live in the collective, are not Sahaja Yogis, by no means. Those who try to get out of collective should know that there is something lacking in them.

They should enjoy the company of others. They should enjoy working with others. They should enjoy the beauty of others. They should enjoy the vibrations of others. But those who try to think of having separate things and some sort of private stuff... then that means that they are not yet mature enough.

Collective is the way which really judges you well.

When we grow up, we Want to have our individual living, individual things. There is no joy in it, there's no joy.

So for every Sahaja Yogi to judge himself is the best way is `how much I enjoy the collective?' How much I enjoy living with others and how much I want to have my own, my own child, my own husband, my own family, my own room. All those people who think like that are not yet fully Sahaja Yogis. They are still immature and they don't deserve to be there where they are.

Until and unless you understand there is something wrong with you, you cannot cure yourself. Sahaja Yoga tells you this or that is wrong with you: these are the Chakras catching and should clear them out.

If you clear them out then you feel perfectly alright. It's your own body, your own Chakras. And it's your own life which has to be joyous.

So if you know what is wrong with it, you should try to take it out.

Contents: 1987-05-16 Quote from the orange edition of Prayers, Praises and Protocol, p.184, Auckland, New Zealand

You must all the time remember that we are realised Souls; that we have got vibrations. This is the way we have to judge. This is the way we have to understand. The vibrations, it is the only way that we can know others. Not by something; something you will feel that a person looks very sweet and nice and maybe a snake comes out of that person.

So best is to judge a person through vibrations. Judge everything through vibrations. Not through your own understanding or superficial methods of judging others.

Now also, there are so many other conditionings we have got by which we judge others. These conditionings can also bias our judgement.

So best way is to see the vibrations. Through vibrations you will have the real knowledge about what is happening.

[In late eighties it was, Peter Corden addressed the situation of mantras, as it seemed that sometimes discrepancies occurred in those days and still do about the order of the consort and the male Deities. The essence of Shri Mataji answer is presented below.] [-When we address Lord Shiva and His consort, Lord Shiva always goes first, thus we say Śhrī Shiva Pārvatī. When we address Śhrī Brahmadeva He always comes first, so we always say Śhrī Brahmadeva Saraswatī.] [-On the Viṣhṇu line (incarnations of Śhrī Viṣhṇu) it varies according to status, therefore if we are addressing a married situation the female precedes the male (eg. Śhrī Sītā Rāma), whereas with Mahāviṣhṇu (who we know as Jesus Christ) He comes first because Mother Mary was not married to Him, so we say Śhrī Jesus Mary.] [Various publications including the original mantra book show errors. Following the interaction with Shri Mataji She intended to ask that the next publication be amended also for `Shrī' to be removed preceding asuras' names at the rear of the mantra book.]

[While living in Hounslow ashram, around 10:30 in the morning Kristie Corden answers the phone.]

Shri Mataji: Mātājī here.

Kristie Corden [in surprise]: [replies something coherently].

Shri Mataji: I am coming around to Hounslow to look in the attic at some saris I have stored and I will be there for lunch.

[During the visit:] What's wrong with South Africa?

Peter Corden: I don't know what's wrong with South Africa Mother, but West Africa is very good.

[He shows photographs of the West African Sahaja Yogis and their children. Shri Mataji was keen to learn the story of the Sahaja Yogis there and the land that Cordens had purchased to build an ashram on.]

Shri Mataji: How much did all this cost you?

Cordens: $1,000 US.

Shri Mataji [to a leader]: Go and get the money.

Cordens: No Mother.

Shri Mataji: You Australians!

Kristie Corden: [asks if Patrick Sherrif, one of the Sahaja Yogis from Sierra Leone, could come to England for a Pūjā.]

Shri Mataji: Yes.

[Shri Mataji never got to look in the attic for the saris. The lunch went until late afternoon.]

Contents: 1987-06-26 Talk to Doctors or Sahaja Yogis, Treatment of Certain Diseases, Pune, Maharashtra, India

[Notes taken by Dr. Deepak Chugh.] [Shri Mataji remarked that photographs of the (patient's) eyes should also be taken. Shri Mataji said that now, taking photographs of the eyes is a recognized way of diagnosing. After Self-realisation a glint appears in the eyes of human beings.] [Epilepsy is from the collective subconscious, i.e.: from left side movement, whence attack of Protein 52, 54, etc. Occurs in the brain, directly. On the brain, ego and superego are arranged as follows: front-side is ego; backside is superego as shown in the diagram below: superego and ego.] [Incidentally, this is the sign of Doordarshan [National TV station] in India. Shri Mataji also expressed surprise, persons who are egoistical try to dominate and trouble others; while those who have superego trouble themselves (they suffer from all sorts of body aches, pains, etc.). Ego comprises pituitary gland, also. Superego comprises pineal gland.

The `protein' (bhoot) enters the superego and then affects the adjacent pituitary, suddenly.

So the whole of the central nervous system is clamped, suddenly. Saliva is excreted (a sign of the clamping of L.N.S.), pituitary is captured, there is sudden shock and movement of hands. After that, it (the bhoot or `protein') comes back to superego, then the attack subsides.] [Epilepsy patients are nervous, frightened, confused, thinking and worrying too much. Alpha activity is activity of the pituitary. Parasympathetic brings attention inside, that is how the attention is removed from the collective subconscious and the patient starts improving after practicing Sahaja Yoga.

So either the Kuṇḍalinī sucks it (the outside `protein' or bhoot) or thrown it out of the system.] [Drugs do not cure as they can only suppress.] [For Superego, use light. (No candle is necessary in case one is bringing down the ego). Ask them to sit on the floor, left hand towards the photo, right hand on the Mother Earth, with a candle at the back Āgñyā, (left hand also before a candle). When the attention is drawn inside, it will be sucked. Epilepsy is also from false Gurus. Maheśh yogi has given it to so many. (At this point, Shri Mataji remarked that there are 35 crores of deities in Her Sahasrāra).] [Medicines can't cure, as they aren't capable of pushing out the negativity from the system. Shri Mataji also remarked that these `proteins' (bhoot) which cause epilepsy, are different from those which cause cancer.

Cancer proteins are egoistical. They come from the left side, but in persons who are very active, dynamic, when these persons somehow go to the left side by sudden shock, accident, mishap in the family, sudden loss of job, when ego is hurt suddenly, at that moment the individual is vulnerable to such an attack.] [For example, in a lady, when her husband is flirting, her motherhood is challenged and Center Heart stops producing antibodies. Motherhood is expressed through the breasts.

So breast cancer develops.

Persons who are working in psychology or psychiatry, if they do not know how to protect themselves, may fall into depression.

So, cancer is contagious in a way. The bhoot can attack others, also. All the followers of `Kamakrishna' get cancer. When you go near a diseased person, first an indication comes (which Chakra is catching), but later the catches come from worrying too much about it.] [Prostrate gland diseases and Sahaja Yoga: Prostrate can be cured. Prostrate disorders are caused when Śhrī Gaṇapati is insulted, when someone leads an immoral life. This is very common in northern India. They take undue interest in ladies and at the same time harm ladies. Such people get prostrate problems. For this, keep the right hand on the floor and the left hand towards Shri Mataji's photograph.

Recite Śhrī Gaṇeśha mantra: Om Twameva sākṣhāt Śhrī Gaṇeśha sākṣhāt Śhrī Ādi Shakti Mātājī Śhrī Nirmalā Devī namo namaḥ. (At this point, Shri Mataji remarked that it is very important that our Mūlādhāras should be very strong; otherwise..... Will come in India, also. Up until now, India has been protected only because of this reason).] [Muscle diseases are also because of problems combined with Mūlādhāra Chakra problems.] [Right

Mūlādhāra problems: One gets constipation, piles, too much anger, temper and excessive heat, anger like Śhrī Kārttikeya when one is pretending to be a Sannyāsī, running from sex, austerity of the wrong kind.] [Bronchial asthma is 99.9% caused by right side problems when one is thinking too much. The Swādhiṣhṭhān has to convert fat into brain cells, so the liver is heated up. Its heat rises. The body tries to take the heat out of the system in the form of phlegm. The person may catch colds. The heat comes from asthma. Treatment is very simple: apply ice to the liver; raise the left side to the right; put the right hand towards the photo and the left hand towards the sky; both feet in cool water, without a candle (before Shri Mataji's photograph), recite the mantra of Śhrī Chandrama and Śhrī Himālaya (Chandramā is at left Nābhī and Himālaya is Sahasrāra).] [Shri Mataji explained as follows: Right side is oxygen and gold; centre is nitrogen and platinum; left side is hydrogen and silver.] [The structure of water is H-O-H. When unvibrated water goes into the liver, it is [UNCLEAR]: it can't absorb heat from the liver.

[Vibrated water is [UNCLEAR]: it can receive heat, more than normal. The whole thing opens up after absorbing heat from the liver. The liver's heat is poison of the body. Similarly, vibrated water acts on the kidneys.] [Sugar is carbohydrate (hydrogen, as they have CH4 for increasing the hydrogen atoms). This also helps to remove the heat.

So vibrated sugar in vibrated water will have double the effect. In addition, sit in front of the photo of Shri Mataji and give vibrations to the liver.] [Sugarcane juice and mivli leaves boiled and taken with candy-sugar, are also very good for the liver (Jaggery is hot)...

Some fruits are cooling for the body. (Papayas, chikus and mangoes are all hot). Sugar has got water of crystallization which gets vibrated. Salt has also got water of crystallization which gets vibrated. In response to a question, Shri Mataji said Vibrations last for an indefinite period of time. For retaining the Vibrations of a vibrated thing, do not touch it. Use a spoon, a silver spoon is best. Silver is also best for the left side.] [At the point, Shri Mataji said the vibrations are the Love of God. They combine four Shaktis: Emotional Power, Power of Chitta, Evolutionary Power and Integrating Power. They have innate intelligence and it works out, i.e.: whatever one needs one gets from the Vibrations: One Person needs whatever he will get; the other person needs something else, so he will get that. It is such a wave, a wavelength which can think and which can act. Your Chitta (attention) which has Vibrations, will act. For you to work out anything through Vibrations (or bandhans) your connection should be correct. You should not be having doubts. They will not work if you are doing a wrong work, a work against Sahaja Yoga.] [At that time, Shri Mataji said it can harm you very badly, also. It has intelligence and sharpness (these was an example of somebody loosing 65 lacs of rupees). Shri Mataji said:] You have to assimilate and understand with your intellect. God is efficiency personified. Sucking and destroying happens. It doesn't go to My brain. It is reflex action.

[First you have to established yourself on Shri Mataji's photograph, because her photograph has the right coefficient or `Vigrah'. At this point, Shri Mataji narrated this incident: Once, Mr. Bradhan's car had gone out of order at 2 o'clock in the night. Then, suddenly a white car appeared with a lady wearing a red sarī and much jewelry (looking like a devil). Her driver was very healthy with well-developed muscles.

He transferred their luggage to a taxi or rickshaw and after that the car vanished. It had to go through one way and come out the other way, but it just vanished! So, the Divine is looking after you all the time and looking at you, also.] [Once a child fell from twenty feet, but nothing happened to him. He felt that he was hand picked by two outstretched hands. It is all part of the `Om kār', right is (works out miracles and comforts you on the material level); center is (a girl from Australia wanted to come to India, but she had no money. She went to a `fate' where she got a `charm'.

Someone suggested to her that it was real gold and that she should go to a jeweler. She went to a jeweler who gave her exactly the amount needed for the travel).]

(month not sure)

[A Sahaja Yogi asks Shri Mataji whether She could help him with his personal situation. He was contemplating suing his ex-wife for custody of their son. Shri Mataji says She would help. Before the details of the case were related to Shri Mataji, She explains to him that in the English law the custody of a young child is usually decided in favour of the mother, unless there are exceptional circumstances. Shri Mataji then enquires whether the mother was unfit or addicted to drugs or mentally unwell. The Sahaja Yogi says that she was not, but that she had always had custody of the child and now it should be his turn to have custody.]

Shri Mataji: When was the last time you sent money for the child?

Sahaja Yogi: [cannot remember].

Shri Mataji: When was the last time you visited the child?

Sahaja Yogi: [cannot remember].

Shri Mataji: Do you think the child would rather live with you than with his mother?

Sahaja Yogi: [says he had no idea].

Shri Mataji [is now ready to give him advice]: I think I can help you. Give up completely the idea of suing your ex-wife for custody of the child. You will save yourself a lot of grief and a lot of time and money.

[Sahaja Yogi feels very despondent that Shri Mataji had not given him the answer he wanted to hear and sat in a corner of the room.]

Shri Mataji: Are you still sulking? Can't you see that it is not fair to remove a small child from the mother? [As he is not uplifted, Shri Mataji tries again from another angle:] If you lose the case, your reputation as a good father and a caring person will be destroyed, even your reputation as a good Sahaja Yogi would be affected because it is clear that you neglected your child, isn't it? Do you feel comfortable dragging down the name of Sahaja Yoga to the courts? [At last this Sahaja Yogi realises that Shri Mataji has the welfare of all concerned in mind and he too is being helped and a big smile appears on his face.]

Today,

I bow to all the Sahaja Yogis of the world. First, I used to bow to all the seekers of the Truth and today, all those seekers of Truth have shown that truth is love and love is truth. With the power of love, you have been able to establish a beautiful place for Sahaja Yoga in England. I must congratulate you all for fulfilling your desire so beautifully, working it out together and the collectivity which you have achieved, not only in England, but all over the world. All of you feel so responsible that Shudy Camps should be a perfect piece of art, the perfect piece of love, perfect piece of peaceful atmosphere. There's dedication, no doubt, but apart from dedication, the collective oneness, the integration of your feelings is beautifully demonstrated. Even Indians wanted to send you something for Shudy Camps and it was not ready before I left, so they were saying that they will be able to give you when you come there for your tours. Every country wanted to express their love. They say love begets love; I loved you, no doubt, but in so many faces, when you see the reflection of that Divine Love, it is multiplied beyond My expectation. I cannot describe My joy: you can sing, dance, jump, say `Jay', I also feel like saying your “Jay” and singing like... This is the beginning of our collective effort and we have to go further and further with this.

Tomorrow is a great day for Me, as well as for you, it has to be one step forward; very substantial step forward and you must be looking forward to it. I am sure something will work out in the inner building of Shudy Camps, in every Sahaja Yogi's heart. All that is expressed outside has to be expressed within and that is what we have to achieve.

May God bless you! Now, what do you have, the program? [Sitar recital.] [Two English songs (duet), `You are the ocean Shri Mataji...' and “Opening up'.] [Announce Song, `How much we are loving Mother' by Swiss and English collectives, but then two Bhajans are sung, `Be Khabar' (Hindi 2) and `Ajib. Das. Ta hai ye' (Hindi 3). May be useful to keep information in case anyone wants to revive them as they are not often sung now, if at all!]

Today, it's a great day that you are here to worship your Guru in the realm of the Heart of the Universe.

If we can do that in our domain of the heart, we don't have to do anything else.

Today, also, I feel I have to tell you about Sahaja Yoga and its value, which is related to other Yogas which were accepted in the olden days all over the world. They called it, one, as the Yoga, not Sahaja Yoga, Yoga. It started with various types of practices of `Ashtanga' [having eight stages/parts] Yogas, eightfold Yogas, with a Guru.

And one had to go through lots of hardships. Nobody who was married was allowed into that Ashtanga Yoga and they had to give up their families, give up their relationships.

They had to become absolutely without any attachments, to go to a Guru. All their property, all their possessions were given up. Not to the Guru as is done in modern times, but given away. And this was called as Yoga.

The another style was called as Sankhya. Sankhya is where all your life you have to gather things with detachment and then to distribute them completely and take to a Guru, in a way completely surrendered and then get realisation.

Sankhya was the left-sided behaviour. And the Yoga was the right-sided. Where the Gāyatrī Mantra was used was the Sankhya. Because they were left-sided, they used to use Gāyatrī Mantra. They went so much to the left side, that is to gather things, to gather possessions, to gather properties, to gather all kinds of friends and relations and societies, that they were afraid that they may be completely lost into all those things. They would go to Gāyatrī, the Mantra of Gāyatrī which teaches you the essences of all our Chakras, the centers.

I have told about this before also, `Bhū', `Bhurv', `Swāhā'. `Bhū' stands for the essence or the `bīja' of the `Mūlādhāra'; `Bhuv' for the universe that is created that is Swādhiṣhṭhāna's `bīja'; `Swāhā' is the `bīja' of the Nābhī; `Manah' is the essence of the Heart Chakra. Then, `Janah' is the people, collectivity, is the essence or the `bīja' of the Viśhuddhi Chakra. Then, `Tapah' is the one where you go into `tapasya', into renunciation, into hardships, is the essence of the Āgñyā Chakra. And then the `Satya' is the truth, is the essence of the Sahasrāra, not the truth that we think as truth, but the truth that is expressed in our central nervous system.

So, this is discovered at the seventh stage of the Sahasrāra.

So the people who did Sankhya were, sort of, not so much respected as spiritual people, because they thought these are all involved into worldly things and worldly possessions and worldly happenings.

So, they were regarded as something secondary. Or those who were yogis of the Gurus were regarded higher, because they had already given up everything and they have gone to a Guru giving up all the things that they have. But here, these Gurus had a problem within themselves because they found that those who came to them gave up everything, no doubt, but still there was lurking attachments. In their own `Ashramas' [hermitages] they found, these people had their own attachments to things. Though outwardly they had given up, but inside they had not given up.

So, they were still sticking on to these ideas that, `Oh, it's all right. But still we can have little things like that, doesn't matter.' Like that, there was little compromises going on. Like, as we have here nunneries and all that.

So both, in a way, were artificial. The one side, is the Sankhyas, were trying to ascend with all the luggage they were carrying. And another were trying to descend with all the ambitions of ascent.

So, it was a very funny thing in every aspect, in both these styles of Yoga. As you can see that now, if you go to America you'll find, `Oh God, what is this America? It's not democracy, it's demono-cracy.' But if you go from that in the realm of another country like Russia, you find, what is this? You are working here under complete pressures and fears. But as soon as a Russian comes out of that country, he can become worse than an American.

So what is this? One theory works here, another theory works there.

So which is the theory that is all right? Same you find about religion. Say, a religion, which believes in many Gods, like the Hindus, they are also believing now into the `bhoots'. And they are also following the path of possessions. If you go to a temple, every temple has got nice arrangement for you to get possessed.

Or even a church, or a mosque, where God has to reside, you find suddenly you get attacked and you come out absolutely puzzled about yourself, ending up into lunatic asylums.

So what sort of worshipping places are these, where you go to find God and you get the horrible Satanic forces acting on you? That's why, in the modern times, people have become so very confused. We do not find truth in anything, in any ideologies, any philosophies, anything that started... say, Confucius started humanism, Socrates started another thing, Mohammad Saheb started another thing. Like Mohammad Saheb said let us not worship God as an idol; let us worship Him in the `nirākāra', in the formless God. But you see the formless? How they are killing each other now? I mean, after seeing the Muslim countries, you can't believe there could be any formless or formful God existing anywhere, all must have run away, the way they are fighting. Then you see the Christian countries. Wherever they have gone, they have tried to dominate other people who were not Christians, just as if they had a right to do it because they were Christians. The Disciples of Christ, who said, “Forgive them for they do not know what they are doing." And I have to say the same for all the Christians, “Forgive them for they do not know what they are doing." And when you are shocked at all these things, one must sit down and think what is to be done, what's the problem is.

So, it is neither Sankhya nor Yoga; then what is it you have to achieve? That is Sahaja Yoga. Sahaja Yoga is a system in which first you are not given a theory, but the light in your hand to see for yourself in which both things look the same. For example, now you have got this beautiful house made for your Mother, while your Mother doesn't know how to get attached to even a pin. It's a funny situation.

Everybody has to remind Me, “Mother it is Your house." “Oh I see." And I have to be reminded I must thank you all, specially the English, specially the leaders of English Sahaja Yogis, for making full effort to get this house. But then, I think why should I thank? It's not mine, it's theirs and that's what it is.

So a new type of confusion starts and that's what I felt that this confusion is very sweet and beautiful. It's a fact that nothing belongs to us, but every thing belongs to us.

When I think about how beautifully you have done this place, it belongs to Me, all right; this house belongs to Me; England belongs to Me and above all, the whole world belongs to Me.

That's how we see Sankhya and Yoga become one in Sahaja Yoga. And it's said that when you see Sankhya and Yoga as one, then only `Sapashyati', that's the one who sees; that's the one is the witness.

So, for normal people it could be that how is it your Mother is supposed to be a Guru and She wears all ornaments? But what to do? She's also a Mother and She is also a Goddess. Another confusion. How to make these two things be? You see a Guru has to be a very angry person, wearing only single dress either upwards or downwards, I don't know how, with a big thick rod in the hand, never smiling, laughing no question, smiling. And the Gurus have to be very long faced, developing big, big beards and no ladies allowed.

In such a situation, where the women are not to be seen at all, I mean I shouldn't even see My face, it's like that. There is a big discussion in all the scriptures, not scriptures, I would say the critiques, whether a woman should be allowed to do the spiritual practices or not, imagine. Not only among Christians, you'll be surprised, even in Indian scriptures, whether is woman is allowed or not to do spiritual practices.

Now when your Mother is a woman and She is your Guru, what will you do? This is another confusion because it is wrong, the whole thing is falsehood, based on no basis at all. You may try anything to say that women are not meant for spiritual life, try any argument, it fails.

The other day I met one big John in a University, big fellow, I might say really hard nut and he started saying, “We Christians cannot accept a woman to be God." I said, “Why?" “Because..." So to put all these upside-down stories right, your Mother had to come on this earth as a Guru. I got to this point out of one little confusion I had about Myself.

The other day, somebody was after My life that I should buy a bracelet. I said, “I have no money anymore; I don't want to buy." “All right we will give it in Pūjā." I said, “But now there is only Guru Pūjā." Said, “All right, we will give it in Guru Pūjā." I said, “To buy a bracelet in Guru Pūjā is something funny I have done." After all, in a Guru Pūjā you don't give a bracelet to your Guru, do you? You can give, say, a big rod; or you might give him a sandalwood `Khada', what is it called, `Chappals', or you may give him a shawl. But here it is... I have asked... all right give it in Guru Pūjā. What was the reason? And I became aware of My own confusion and I thought of it. I said, “This is what it is, that it has to happen this way that, on a Guru Pūjā you have to give a bracelet to your Guru." Let us change it over. The whole thing has to be brought up this way that everything faces reality. All these false ideas have to be given up. Like, if you have a carpet upside-down, the whole design is upside-down. But, if you put the carpet right, everything falls in line. And that's why you needed a Mother to give you realisation and a Guru as a Mother to teach you that for ascent of God nobody can be prohibited.

That is how the Sahaja Yoga today is working out. In all directions, if you find, to put all upside-down things into right direction, to expose it to reality, to bring all real values, to abolish all rotten value systems, all political, economic systems, all spiritual theologies, all psychological and all such nonsensical ideas into its proper direction. How in one incarnation it has worked out, you can imagine.

How in one incarnation all these ideas have been put right.

Another idea exists, among Hindus, that if you are a religious people, you should be a vegetarian. All the Brahmins believe this and even the non-Brahmins. But we had a Brahmin working in one of the places where I was living and they said that for Mother we have to give meat, She doesn't eat anything else. She has to eat proteins. She said, “Yes, yes, Of course. For a Mother, She must have." Whether it's a Brahmin or a non-Brahmin, all understand that Mother has to eat proteins. Because She has to drink the blood of all these `Rākshasas', how can She be vegetarian? And if She has to kill so many devils, how can She be non-violent? So the contrast that you see in the description of the Mother, that She is the one who is the most furious personality when it comes to the killing of the people who are of the negative land, who are trying to destroy Her creation, Her own children; and She is the sweetest and the mildest person for Her own children. These two contrasts should be seen. Even in animals you'll find the same contrast, but very evident in an incarnation like this. And today, through Sahaja Yoga, we have been able to prove that Sankhya and Yoga are the same.

Whether you collect things, whether you have possessions or whether you give away, makes no difference to a person who is detached from within. If you collect them for others, even better. But if you collect for yourself and then give away, that's even much better.

Because first you collect for yourself then you think, `Oh it's good for me, I will use this one for myself, will be a good idea', so the self is there, but then, that you give away. That means your detachment is complete. Or the third personality could be liking [UNCLEAR]... which just goes on collecting and just goes on giving. Without thinking it collects and without thinking it gives because thinking is not My job. That is one thing I have given up, is to think. I don't want to think, that's your work, not Me. And without thinking, how many things we have achieved through Sahaja Yoga. Yoga and Sankhya both are products of thinking, not products of spontaneity. This house itself is a product of spontaneity. I mean, as we call the English as `Sāblogs', you see.

So I took some `Sāblogs' with Me around to see some houses and they wanted to [see] some houses with some character, means something must fall out, something must be crooked, this should not be straightforward. I said, “Now please, I can't bear all this crookedness." So, “No, no, but it has character." I said, “Now, this kind of a crookedness I don't want." Straightforward it should be.

So they were rather disappointed at Me. And the `Sāblog' had some other ideas also that, say for example, if you go to, say, to a place called Windmere, it's a posh place; if you go to the Northside, little less; then if you go to the east, it's useless, like that. I said, “Let's go the North [UK], Northeast [UK] as far as we can go." Because, you know, the Goddess has to be `Dakshinamurthy'. She has to be on the north side to be on the, Her eyes on the south. That's the reason She has to be... I mean we could not have been in Scotland, that would have been too much for you. But that would have been the ideal for all of us because then our `Drishti' is towards, our vision is towards the south and we see the whole universe under our own beautiful visions.

So that's how, spontaneously, we found this place. And `Sāblog' were, “Yes, No, No, Yes." But spontaneously we got it. And then we found out it has a history; then we found out its beautiful vibrations; then we found out the potential about it. Whatever you get spontaneously, it is full of potentials.

On this point, I have to say a few words, is important. I had to get, few points I have to say about spontaneity part which is quite interesting, the way people think spontaneity works. Like, it's mostly ego part which says, `This is spontaneous,' with so many people. Specially the very old Sahaja Yogis think they are authorities on spontaneity. Like, we had a land in Vaitarna.

So one of the older ones went there and he said, “This land is vibrating and this is not vibrating." So everybody accepted, “All right, all right, all right." Then they said, “In this part of the land nobody should eat their food." Now, from where does this knowledge come? Eating food is not a sin, is it? As if it is a sin that you are eating food in there.

Then religiously they follow a, b, c, d, e, f, g, h, z and again a, b, c, d of Sahaja Yoga to such an extent, `ki' [that] I start thinking now they have become another fanatic Sahaja Yogis.

Fanaticism is against Sahaja Yoga, absolutely.

Now they will ask, “How many times we should say this `Mantra'?" Then I say, “Zero times." “How many drops we should put, the ghee, in our nose?" Then I say, “A full jug." Then, “Oh, I should not have gone from the left side, I should have gone from the right side." Then, I would say, “You just jump up." You have to be like children. But the ideas are so settled down in Sahaja Yoga, now it's so many years of course, but they should not settle down. If they settle down, it's not Sahaja; it's not spontaneous. `If you do this way, then it is wrong; that way, it's wrong', nothing of the kind. Nothing is wrong for you people. If you do anything wrong, your vibrations will be lost, finished. What is there to be so cautious? Like, somebody said, “I don't want to look at the cigarette." I said, “Why?" “Looking at it also is sinful." I said, “Looking at it what happens?" “Then I feel like smoking." So I said, “Better smoke once for all." Or, “I cannot hold a wine bottle in my hand." “Why?" “No, holding the wine bottle is sinful." I mean, you can swim in the wine.

So this kind of understanding should be there. Though I have always said that if I say one thing, you will clinch on to it.

So I always say the other side of it, that don't stick on to something; Sahaja Yoga is not for sticking on to something. Like somebody who had learnt certain say, lessons about Sahaja Yoga in the beginning of it, certain Mantras they had learnt and still they are sticking on to the same step. No, no, no, no, you have to go ahead. This is just a staircase.

Don't get stuck at a point.

We have had so many such cases here. People get really outworn as they say. They will go on telling you so many nonsensical ideas, “You see, if you do like this, then this happens." First of all, you don't give ideas to others. That's one thing, if you decide that we don't give ideas about what's wrong with another person, half of your job is done. Because you don't have to do any job, as I don't do. Anybody who comes, “You are a `bhoot'." You better have it. I get reports from others. They say that your Sahaja Yogis are wicked people. I said, `Why?" “Oh, they tell you, `You are evil.' They tell you, `You are possessed,' they tell you, `You are this, you are that'; they are very wicked people." I am really shocked to hear that Sahaja Yogis, how can they be wicked? If somebody is suffering from something, in the phone they say, “Oh you better have it. It's good for you." That's not the way.

We have to be not only humble, very tactful and sweet to new people, if you want any more to come in.

But if you have decided not to have anymore, because you will have to put another marquee, then I have nothing to say. But if you want others to come in, then it's important that you talk to them in a very sweet and beautiful language, the way they understand. Rudeness, arrogance, showing off, is of no use.

One should understand Sahaja Yoga is where you are in complete enjoyment about it; you are just lost into that enjoyment.

Where is the time to remember how many times to give a `bandhan' to yourself? What is the need to give `bandhan' to yourself? It's all a joke now for you, should be. A little child sucks the milk from the bottle, all right, because it has no teeth. But what about you people having that kind of a thing? It's very childish and shows no growth at all.

Sahaja Yoga must grow within. You should not be, anymore, regarded as immature Sahaja Yogis. I would say: a person who is a matured Sahaja Yogi is the one who can combine so many things together, with all beautiful lines, thin lines, thin `Maryādās' [code of conduct] maintained. But, you cannot do the other way round.

For example, you shouldn't say, `All right, now I will be sweet. Then I will be angry; then I will be sweet; then I'll be like this; then I'll be like that.' It will be a hotchpotch. It is a funny personality you see, suddenly I get angry, like that [facial expression] and then I [facial expression]. People will think you are doing `Bharatnatyam' [a form of Indian classical dance] or something like that. Showing all your moods, in five minutes you show ten moods.

This is the growth within you, which will show.

So, we have to have our growth and for growth, let us be silent within. Let us not react to others, `This person is like that, that person is like that.' What about yourself? Also there... other ways. Like, I tell somebody that, you see, you have this problem.

So that person immediately goes to the second person and says, “You see, Mother told me that you too have this problem, better look after it." I didn't tell that person; I told you. Keep it to yourself.

So, `Mother says' is to be given up, absolutely. If Mother has to say, She'll say it. Why should you communicate; why should you say? I never asked you to say that.

Understanding Sahaja Yoga is very simple, extremely simple, when you understand one thing, that you have to have your innocence intact. Now, `How to get to innocence?' people will say. How to get to innocence? It's a vicious circle. How to get to innocence?, It's a very vicious circle. We have to get to innocence, through what? Your ego or superego? How will you get to innocence? Mother says, `Don't raise your Kuṇḍalinī.' I mean, I am sitting here, people are just doing like that.

What's happening? I am sitting here, your Kuṇḍalinī is up there on your head. What are you raising? Now how to manage is the problem. Very simple it is. In the beginning I said, “Let your Guru reside in your heart." How to manage, why? Let Mother manage. Mother is managing me. Keep it at that.

Your right side will clear. Your left side will clear when you say, `Nobody can manage me but Mother can manage me', two things together. Things will work out.

Thank God you have somebody like Me, who is sitting here, who can say so. Think of those who never had anyone to tell them, or to be in their presence to say that I can manage this, or you can manage that.

That now you can balance. Allow your Kuṇḍalinī to grow. Everything works out. Like this house when I purchased, or when they purchased, or who purchased, So many questions and complications, How, how, how? But it's worked; it's there, quite intact; nothing has fallen off; nothing has gone wrong. I had to shout once, all right. But let Me shout, you don't start shouting. As soon as I finish, they will take a loudspeaker, shout even louder. `Mother said so, you are this, that.' I am saying about you, [to] whom are you preaching? But only, you must know that when I tell you something, please do it; please do it. See because I know quite a lot. Because I am Guru, your Guru; because I am the Guru of all the Gurus. And those who is a real Guru, knows that my Mother knows everything. She is knowledge Herself. If She says something, it means something. And even I may test you sometimes, doesn't matter. That's how you become the Guru.

Shivaji had a Guru called Rāmdās. In those days, Gurus used to take lot of test of their disciples. I never took your test or anything. But you are testing yourself, that's all. And his Guru one day said that, “I think I need the milk of a tigress. I have to drink the milk of a tigress." Half of them died and most of them didn't hear it. Shivaji said, “All right. I'll get you." He went in the jungles. He saw a tigress and there were little little, small little children she had and those cubs were lying on the side. He went and he just said “Namas-kār" [salutation] to her. [He] said, “My Guru wants your milk” that's all, because Gurus are `Parabrahma' [God Almighty], their orders are listened to by the `Parabrahma'. “My Guru, Śhrī Rāmdās, wants your milk.

So please, will you give me your milk?" So nicely she got up, stood up before him. He milked her and took that milk for his Guru. This is what it is. Have you understood the meaning of `Gurupada' [status or position of a Guru]? When you become absolutely one with the desires of your Guru, you achieve the position of a Guru.

But if you still have certain ideas about it, then Śhrī Rāmdās has said that then God “Alpadhrishtapaye...

[UNCLEAR]" sees your little courage [UNCLEAR], “All right, go ahead. Break your heads and then come back. I'll fix them up." So it is important that we should do one thing seriously, is to take your Mother very seriously when it comes to some request.

Of course, in English language I always say, “Please, will you do it?" Or I may even say, “I am afraid will you do it?" But that should make no difference. Other day only, when we were coming for Cardiff, I said that the first class will be coming on the other side. But everybody at the platform said, “No, it is coming on the other side." I said, “All right." We sat down and then they announced that the first class is coming on this side. So we all again walked back.

It's all right for those people, but what about you? Many a times you have seen. And at the asking of a Guru, if something goes wrong also, it should be always accepted as the law of the Divine, because, Guru is the giver of the law of the Divine, not the worldly laws. The law of the Divine He gives you. The law of the Divine you understand, then you have to surrender to that law of the Divine and that's how you will become masters of that law.

Today, for a Guru Pūjā, I can go on talking to you. But today, I would request you to understand that whilst surrendering, as Islam is called, was so important, that if God is your Guru, let Him guide you; Thy will be done. Let us not guide ourselves and also, sometimes they try to guide the Guru as well.

Then the Guru plays tricks and then you fall into the trap of tricks and then you find it's too much.

It is better to listen to what the Guru is telling you and better to do it. Whatever the Guru says is all right. Gurus can ask you anything. I mean, I am quite a nice Guru. Like, this Rāmdās himself asked his disciples that, “I have got a very bad, septic, big boil and please try to suck it out because it is full of pus." Imagine.

So they didn't know what to do, you know. How to suck the pus of the Guru is too much. But Shivaji came forward. He took down his hat, sat down next to him, started sucking. People said, “How is it?" Said, “It's very sweet, very nice." Actually, he had tied a mango there.

That is how the Gurus took lot of tests. I have never taken your test and you do not take the tests of others. Leave them to Me, I'll manage all of them one by one. Whatever has to happen happens. In Sahaja Yoga, to think that 100% will be rich, healthy, wealthy and on top of the world, is a nonsense. If we become very wealthy, then there will be recession because others will be very poor. If we become very healthy then nobody will come near us; if we all look like wrestlers, who will come near us? If we become very wise, then people will be frightened of such wise people; nothing will... they cannot understand anything, it will go over their heads.

So let us be in the center. We should be wealthy, but not too much; we should be healthy, but not too much; we should be wise, but not too much.

So far, so good, that's how we should move.

So we keep to our `Maryādās' and we become beautiful Sahaja Yogis, who will be congenial to others, who will be able to get others to us, who will be able to project an image of magnetic personalities. And this is what we have to do. If we try to show off in any way, like I have seen people try to show off unnecessarily, there is no need. Just be in the background. If you are very much in the background, just be in the foreground. Try to balance yourself. Try to watch yourself and guide yourself and tell yourself, `Become your own Gurus.' Judge yourself how far you are in the center, how far you are growing, how much growth have you achieved. Are you still attached to small things here and there? Are you still bothered about small things?, `Mother, I should have got 80% marks, I have got only 75% marks.' Oh God.

Because he got 75% marks, there is something good has to come out. He has to learn a lesson, maybe. Or maybe that he has to take some other course. Maybe something that is good for his ascent has to work out, is to be seen if you have to be Gurus. If you can't see that, how can others see that? This is to be realised. Not to be put in the mind, but to be realised in the heart. In the realm of your heart you have to realise it; you have to understand it in the realm of your heart.

Nice that we are in England, the heart of the universe, that we are talking about opening our hearts.

If you have to put Me there, is the ocean of love and to contain this ocean of love, you have to have a very, very large heart, bigger than your personalities, bigger than your countries, bigger than this world, bigger than this universe.

May God bless you.

[SYNOPSIS!] [Shri Mataji talked about music, how in the Western music certain developments such as in the field of harmony had been made, “which was a good thing” but that the modern music was completely degenerate, even much Indian music. The old rags had been directly inspired by the Unconscious. She described the difference between Karnatic music from South India which uses microtones (`Śhrutis') and the Hindustani music of North India.] [Shri Mataji also talked how many great Indian musicians, such a Parveen Sultana and Manna Dey, had played before Her and had such respect for Her; they and others have begun to realise that the quality of their playing is different and better in Her presence.]

[To a young boy:] Beta [son], why you are not wearing an undershirt? It is very important to wear an undershirt.

Contents: 1987-08-08 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, the Day before Śhrī ViṣhṇumāyPūjā, Pawling, NY, U.S.A.

It's very gratifying to see so many of you Americans have gathered today and tomorrow you want to have the Viṣhṇumāyā Pūjā. I remember the days when I used to talk to chairs only, but all these years after working so very hard, visiting this country so many times, still we have very, very few Sahaja Yogis compared to any other nation.

In this country of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, is inevitable that people will put their attention to money, because He is the incarnation of Viṣhṇu and His Power is Lakṣhmī. Lakṣhmī is the Goddess of money, but that is not the money that is called as `dollar'. It is the money which means a complete, integrated form of material wealth. As it is, matter has only one power: that it can express our love to others. Like, if you have to express your love to someone, you would make a nice present or something that is useful for the person; or you may give your property, wealth to your children. In a very symbolic manner, you might even give a small, little stone, if you are a child to your mother, which you find interesting that would make your mother happy. But all the time, the idea behind giving matter to someone is to show your love and emotions, to show your concern and express your heart.

So to express your heart through something gross, we use matter. Now when this matter is converted into something and it becomes sort of an economic activity where you have to price it, then the attention shifts from emotions to matter as something that has some superficial value than the deeper value that is love.

Even in the olden days when people had lots of money with them, they used to decorate their houses, wear good dresses, to invite people into their homes to make them happy, to make them comfortable. A rich man would have a fair or something like that to make people happy. Gradually, again the attention shifted from that to something which is extremely gross, is to show off. But the purpose fails completely when you try to show off, another person is never happy. On the contrary, he's jealous.

So what's the use of showing off because the purpose is to make another person happy. Instead of that, you make him jealous. Then second steps comes in with it that you create a antagonistic feelings in another person. That person thinks that, `Why should he have and why should I not?' Because that person cannot enjoy what you have.

Thus, there are theories and theories that came out in our political systems, into our economic systems: how to exacerate [exacerbate or exaggerate] it and how to utilize it for something even grosser. And this grossness grew more and more and more. Once you allow the matter to act like that, this matter sits on our top. We are powerless people. It's the matter that becomes powerful, because it rules us completely. We can't do without this, we can't do without that, we can't do without this. And then we become complete slaves of matter. Matter sits so much upon us that we get completely blinded to what our purpose is to be on this earth and start crawling like worms under the pressure of matter. What is this? Is nothing but stones, bricks, everything is matter. What is the importance of this? Is nothing, except we have to have a seminar. If we don't have the seminar, if you are not going to do anything sensible to create harmony and understanding, no use having all this.

This is what has to be realised: that matter has its own purpose and, as Sahaja Yogis, we are not going to be ruled by matter. Is very difficult to decide because from our childhood we are taught, “Be careful! Don't touch this. Don't touch that." As if that is the God. “Don't spoil it." So the whole attention gets engulfed into this gross existence of matter.

So the person starts moving from his ascent to his descent. From matter you became carbon, from carbon you become amino acids, from amino acids you became living things, from living things you became human beings and now you have to become Sahaja Yogis. But the attention starts moving downwards towards matter and we acquire all the qualities that is matter, except for one which only we can give that power to matter, that it can express our love.

You become static, you become unchangeable; and when you start using this matter for a lower end than this, then you hurt. Same matter starts evolving into things like weapons. First must be the stone they must be hitting with, then the clubs of stones. Then came the swords, then came the guns, then came atomic energy.

So the same matter has gone into evolution into another direction. But matter could have been moved into a higher direction if you had seen the quality of matter to give joy.

Then we did that for quite some time, we made beautiful carvings, beautiful churches and temples, beautiful paintings, beautiful statues. I think it ended up in America when they made the Statue of Liberty. After that it took another form. Now if you see the women of America, you will understand that it has no resemblance with that of the Statue of Liberty. I mean, even to have a model you'll have to import some from somewhere else to make a model to create that statue. That dignity, that presence, that motherly feeling that she emits, the protection she gives with her strength.

Everybody is tired like that. Everybody is absolutely a dainty darling. They do not want to take any responsibilities, put the responsibility on to somebody else. Here stands the symbol of such great protection of a woman to man. On the contrary, the same protection today has become a domination of men.

Instead of men becoming men, they have becoming cabbages here. It's the other way round things have moved. I find it very hard to believe that the same time we had people like Abraham Lincoln. Now I don't think we can produce anyone like this. Where are those mothers who created Abraham Lincoln? Where are those great women who sacrificed everything for their children to give them such greatness? George Washington fought the whole time all his life with such a strong wife he had.

But here now the women have become nothing but matter they think that by wearing such and such dress or going to a hair dresser, cutting all their hair in a funny way they become powerful. I am talking about women today because we are talking of Viṣhṇumāyā, but not to hurt you. Because in this men are very much responsible. Let us see, see the point, where we are going. The whole society is ruined today, if you see. You feel terrible when you see how things are happening in this country. The children are shooting everyone, small little children are shooting. On the road if you go, everybody is panicked. Why it has happened to us where you have created such great heroes in this country and now you cannot create any hero? What has gone wrong, where? I know they have made a mess, these men have made a mess of all this politics and everything that they call `manly', so-called. But, Viṣhṇumāyā is the power of a woman. She's the power of a woman and they say that American women are very, very powerful. Where does the power lie? The power lies how many men you can divorce and have how much money with you? How many people you can divorce and have, under the law, so much money, that's not, that's not the power of a woman. One has to understand where have we lost our power.

The power of a woman is not enslaving for men, that they should appreciate you morning till evening, every person on the road must look at you, that's not the power of a woman. That could be the power of a prostitute, but not of a woman who stands as a symbol of liberty. The power of woman is like that of the Mother Earth. See how much She's done for you. She's given you all the greenery, the beauty. Wherever She goes down, She fills Herself up with water and She gives you such joy and happiness and bears all the problems of the world despite of whatever things we have done to Her, despite the way we extracted all Her wealth and everything, still She's giving us wealth. That's what we are! When we have lost our power, our society has come down. The society has to be maintained by women, not by men. One must understand, woman plays the most important role. She's in no way less than man, but if she becomes this kind of a power, destruction starts moving in the other direction.

The whole topsy turviness we have to correct in Sahaja Yoga. When I see the image of Sahaja Yoga, when I see when we all will be together, where we will be all enjoying ourselves, I want to see My women, My daughters, to be the symbol of love and symbol of sacrifice and symbol of understanding. And then the dynamism of this sacrifice will be shown because they are potential. You are the ones, you are the ones who are really potential and you have to give them energy to be kinetic. Those who cannot have potential energies have become potential. What's the use? While those who have the potential energies have become kinetic. What's the use? This has to shift. We have to think about it, understand. We've gone wrong, really we've gone wrong somewhere and this wrong our children will have to pay, their children will have to pay, the whole nation will have to pay.

Turn your attention to something very noble. This is the power of Viṣhṇumāyā because Viṣhṇumāyā is the One Who was the sister of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa. She came as Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's sister. Of course She is the virgin. She was born as the sister of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa. Now see, the story is very interesting. If you see the story, then you'll understand what I'm trying to tell you. The story is like this: The eighth Incarnation, as they call it, power; according to Sahaja Yoga we call Him the King of the Viśhuddhi, Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa was to be born. He was born in a jail. His parents were in the jail.

So Viṣhṇumāyā, at the same time, took birth in a village called as Nanda Gram where another friend called Nanda was living and his wife was Yeshodā. She took Her birth in that family. Then She was a very, very powerful child. When Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa was born, He was carried by the father from the jail. Because of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's powers, all his shackles, all his chains were broken, the doors opened and he waded through the river Yamuna and carried the child and gave it to Nanda.

Nanda said, “I have got a child but She is a girl, about the same time." So see the power that time this little child gave to Mother Yeshodā.

They said, “All right. Do one thing: take this child with you and replace it with Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa." What a sacrifice for a woman to give her own child at that time, a little babe, to be killed by this horrible fellow, Kansa! No mother would do such a thing. Can you think of any mother who will give her child to be killed for the replacement of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa? We cannot think of any mother, but we had some mothers like this in India who did very great sacrifices. Now, this was the greatest sacrifice one could think of for a woman. She may sacrifice small, little things or quite a lot of things, but to sacrifice your own child is the greatest thing. The woman sacrifices for her children quite a lot. She works for them, she keeps nights and nights vigil for them. She does so much for her children. But to give up Her own child is something, such a extraordinary thing, which She did. And when he brought the child, that child was the Power, was the Ādi Shakti in the form of a virgin and was kept back.

So when this Kansa came in the morning and he heard a little girl is born, he was amazed. It was going to be a son, how is it a girl is born? “Whatever it is” he said, “I'll destroy this Child." Got hold of that Child and he was about to hit the Child on the ground, when She slipped out and went into the sky and became a lightning to announce that, “One Who was to destroy [be destroyed] is still alive." He was shocked.

So behind all this what we see a character of Yeshodā Who was so sacrificing, of the father who was so sacrificing, of a society where it was important to preserve the Incarnation above everything else. And this kind of happening when it took place, Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa grew up in the house of Nanda where He then expressed Himself as a powerful personality.

But this Viṣhṇumāyā is there and She is very active these days, extremely active. She's the One which is within you, very much there, in the left Viśhuddhi She sits there. She doesn't allow you to feel guilty.

“Why are you guilty?' All the time She says, “Why are you guilty? Why are you unhappy? You are realised Souls, you are Sahaja Yogis. Get out of it! This guilty business, no good, get out of it! Come along. You have to find a way.' Yes, the destruction is ahead of you. You see the destruction of this great country, you see so clearly is working out. I feel there are two worlds which are now building up. One that is getting destroyed; one that is coming out of it like a lotus. But behind is the Power of Viṣhṇumāyā, is the Power of Viṣhṇumāyā, the Power of Sister of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa.

Now this Viṣhṇumāyā is a female Power, as you know that. She didn't care for anything mundane.

Can you think of Viṣhṇumāyā going after all these nonsensical things? And to protect Her brothers and to give all the strength to those brothers, what did She do?

What did She do? She came in Her purest form, as a Sister. You all have here so many Sahaja Yogis as your brothers. You must be having other people also as your brothers. This purity has to be brought into women. Unless and until this purity comes into them, they have no powers, they are powerless.

So we come down to main thing is that: where the women are pure and chaste, there resides the powers of all the deities.

So it's such a responsibility for us to be very chaste and to be very pure and to be sisters to our brothers so that their brothers are also protected from the temptations of the world; so that they, too, have their attention onto something higher and greater.

It's a very, very great day I feel to come down to America to do this Pūjā. I'm going to tell you all about it, but let us understand that we are power, we are power. We are not the power which can be dominated by money, by anything else. We are power because we are Sahaja Yoginis, because we have that character.

Now, it's important for men to understand the value of women. Those men in this country, all right they look like cabbages but they can be horrid, absolutely horrid people, because they have no sense of purity of their character. If the man is not all right, how can he have a sister who is pure? If the man doesn't believe in the chastity of life, for some men, I mean most of the men, there's nothing like chastity.

They never believed in anything like chastity, in the modern times. That is what we lack and in Sahaja Yoga when I think of My children, of My sons, they should be brilliant with chastity. The whole presence must shine with chastity. When people look at them they should say, `Oh, that's innocence going. See the innocence and the chastity moving together!' So that's what is in men: the innocence. It's not necessary to be too cunning. Nobody can deceive you. An innocent person, with one stroke, can kill hundred useless people.

So it is important that men must also understand the value of innocence.

She was Kṛiṣhṇa's sister, all right. Now look at Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa as a child, how innocent He was and how powerful! He wanted to eat the butter. Now why He wanted to eat the butter because all the butter that was made in Gokul, in that place, was sent to Mathura where this horrible King Kansa was ruling.

And all his military people became very strong by eating that butter.

So He didn't want them to eat the butter, so He started a kind of a tribe of small children and a game that they climb on top of each other.

And the butter was kept in a pot hanging from the roof, so they would go and eat all that up. In that little childhood He started this innocent play, so all the children used to climb up and eat the butter.

So now there's no butter left, so how will they take it to Mathura? This was done and one day His mother caught hold of Him.

She said, “Did You eat any butter from here?" All butter was here all around. He said, “How? How can I eat the butter? See, can I reach My hand there? See now, how can I..." “Oh, so You took the stick and broke it?" “No, no, I did not." “Then what is all this?" “See, these are all My friends who ate it. I put it on My mouth so that you can beat Me." So innocently talking like an ordinary child, this One, an ordinary, simple child.

So Mother said, “All right. Let Me see Your mouth." He opens the mouth and She sees the complete, She sees the complete universe, complete universe revolving into His mouth.

And She sees it. And She says, “Oh Lord, please forgive Me. I forgot! I really forgot that You are the Lord of this universe and I am doubting You!" She just fell at His feet. “There must be some play in what You're doing." In a simple, innocent way like a child would say He told the Mother.

So the innocence of a child and the innocence of a virgin, or you can say the chastity of a virgin and innocence of a child brought forth, brought forth the existence of America. Out of that, this country was created.

So you can imagine that this great country has now, see everywhere the beauty, I mean every place you go to, you find such greenery. I went to Los Angeles, it's a desert, but still you could get water and you can make it into a beautiful place. You have everything that a human being can ask for, but there's something lacking: is not to understand why it was given to us, how it was give to us. As I told you, it was created out of that innocence and chastity. And if we cannot think of that chastity and that innocence, then we can never mature into sensible, proper Sahaja Yogis.

There's nothing to feel hurt when somebody tells you that, `See, this what we are.' Basically, that's what we are and that's how fundamentally we should understand and grow into a personality that is American. But what one finds is all the instruments of destruction are created. Like small children, I mean, you find children and children. Small children, you'll find them, they fight each other. All right.

Fights is all right. But not only that, they kill their parents. They kill their grandparents. What's that going on? How is it happening? Where have we lost the innocence? What's gone wrong? Where are we mistaken? We have to just turn round.

If you really feel you are Americans, you have to save this country. It's in great danger of complete destruction. You do not realise what you're facing. It's not the AIDS I'm so much worried about, or it's not the earthquake which is hanging on them. It is complete losing of your being and becoming matter.

When you have robots, you'll become same and you'll destroy yourself in that way. It's a very, very serious matter which is not yet seen through your eyes, for you do not see it. You must really be praying that, `Oh God, please save this country!' You should be really asking for nothing else but `save this great country,' a part and parcel of Virāta and the Virāta rules in the Viśhuddhi.

It's such a problem for Me. Whole thing is so upside down. I have to start from America and where do I go? I started from America. I came here, as I told you, talking to chairs and still so many are just chairs. All the subtleties from the brain have gone away. Whatever advancement has been made, has made them primitive. And after some time, they'll become like stones. They won't feel anything, they won't hear anything, they won't understand anything. They'll not grow anymore. Then, what am I to do? This universe which was created as the working of the Virāta will have to shift to some other style of universe, which is a very big shifting.

For all the Sahaja Yogis it is necessary to understand the importance of their existence as Sahaja Yogis.

They are Sahaja Yogis first and Americans later. But, if they're Americans first, then they must work it out. It's not something sideways, you see, “All right, there's a seminar, let's go for the seminar, good", then come back home, again just the same. You have to really meditate, work very hard. You are the people who are going to change this country; and, ultimately, the whole of the universe. Is you who has to understand. It's not Me. You have to see it and understand that your position is very important. In Sahaja Yoga, Americans have a very great position. Remember, in the beginning we paid everything for these Americans to come down to India. They were treated with such lavishness.

And everybody was saying, “Mother, why are You paying for their fares? Why are You paying for their food? Why do you want them to be so treated? What's so great about Americans? Again they'll develop ego." I said, “You don't know." Of course all those are lost now. I don't see them anywhere, but whatever it is, My desire, My anxiety, My concern has worked. I'm very happy you all are here. I could come here for the Viṣhṇumāyā Pūjā.

It's something I hope we should work it out. I don't know how far we have gone now. In the subtler way I think Gaṇeśha Pūjā has helped a lot and I can see the two worlds coming up very clearly. One which is living, which is pulsating, which is full of vibrations, which is becoming the lotus; the another one which is becoming the worm, the mud, the mire. I see it so clearly, separated by this Gaṇeśha Pūjā. Now by this Viṣhṇu Pūjā, let us see if we become those dynamic, loving, affectionate, compassionate Sahaja Yogis and pure relationships with each other, so that people see you as something very great like the lightening, they should see you shining in the sky and they should then come down to Sahaja Yoga and come up to the expectations of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa.

May God bless you.

Now, any questions?

Sahaja Yogini: I have a question.

Something that I'm encountering in my life and I and this guy who I introduced to Sahaja and we went together. He became very frightened after the first meeting and he became very much against Sahaja.

Shri Mataji: Me?

Sahaja Yogini: Yes, saying that You were bad. And I, continually I have had great results with another woman whose experienced. And he, on the contrary is very much against it and we were involved a lot with channeling and a spiritual, you know, man that channels spirits. And I seem to think that he is still involved with that in some way. I seem to think that is what is holding him back.

Something is holding him and I don't know that if it is my place to help him or just be a light or... I don't know what to do.

Shri Mataji: Now to be very frank, no American is afraid of anything. Every world is afraid of them.

It's a wrong idea they have. It's very surprising that the people who give sense of insecurity to everyone always say, “I'm insecure." Very surprising. That's the way they can just say. I haven't met any American who is insecure. On the contrary they are extremely aggressive people, very, very aggressive for nothing at all.

I'll give an example. The other day we had gone to one lawyer and we were waiting for the lift to come down. When the lift came, such a hefty, tall man, six foot at least seven inches, very hefty man was in that. And we were standing for the lift to come, we didn't know there's somebody inside there.

As soon as the lift opened, he says, “Who are you, like a bunch of thugs standing here?" Can you imagine? We were amazed. There was no need. He had a chance to say something to us, he just said it.

“So please” we said. “It's all right." What could you do? This is the kind of fear they have. Russians and Americans. Both are just the same, I would say. Let them fight it out among themselves. But to say that an American is frightened of something, that's the biggest joke. They are not frightened. On the contrary, they always fall into problems because they go to something which is challenging. All the false Gurus take money from you. All right. Now they say, this one, recently somebody told Me she paid so much money to the gentleman. He took her into a room all alone. She's not frightened! I mean an Indian woman would be frightened of a man who takes her into a room alone.

She says, “No, no, no. You'd better do whatever you like." She's not frightened. She went inside the room.

He said, “Now take out your clothes." She took out her clothes. Not frightened.

He said, “Now you sit here and jump. Jump, jump, jump!" She started jumping. Not afraid that she'll break her bones or hands or feet or anything. Just started jumping.

“Hāh! I feel very fine. I feel very nice." What are they afraid of? Doing stupid things they are not afraid of, doing nonsensical things they are not afraid of, but to do sensible things they are. That's basically wrong thing. You know in Brighton we had a nude, a nude, what do you call that?, swimming pool. When it's such a cold time there. I don't know why in a country which is so cold people want to take out their clothes.

Some sort of, I can't understand. I mean in the night we sleep with all our clothes on in a place like India. What is the need to take out clothes, I still don't understand.

All right.

So, there was a, one swimming pool they started, a very big venture, you know. All the television, everything focused and everybody watching, is for the women and men who become nude. What is so great? Anybody can become. But, there was an old lady, of My age, walking into the water. It's very cold, you know. I was wondering, “This woman will get cold or something like that and pneumonia." They said, “How do you feel?" “Oh, I feel very hot." This stupid woman was feeling hot, you know. This is what it is. `What's wrong?' To do something stupid, nonsensical they have no fear. How is it you think all these Gurus have prospered with all their tricks where people have become mad, have become lunatics; they've lost their money, sold their children out. How? For Sahaja Yoga, they're frightened. Why? You see the point? See the point? This is exact is the character. Such people cannot do Sahaja Yoga. We have to have people of strength, people of character, people of dignity. We can't have such people who go after this thing.

Like the other day, one boy came and he asked Me all stupid questions and he was saying that, “You see, what about flying in the air?" I said, “It's all right. But supposing you are suddenly dropped down. What will you do?" He's willing to fly in the air. Supposing, you see, he has no wings, nothing, no parachute. How will he come down? Even the children understand the joke.

So this is what it is. To be like a clown, they have no fear at all. But to be sensible, balanced and dignified, they're afraid.

We are not here to ask for elections, are we? Sahaja Yoga is difficult, for people who are stupid, naturally, people who want to have a life of destruction. It's for people who want to evolve, people who want to become more compassionate, affectionate and humble, which is very difficult. Here the training is, if you are humble, anybody will trample on you, you'll be finished, you'll be killed. All right? You have to be aggressive.

To say an aggressive person is afraid of another person, then you'd better change the meaning of the word `aggressive'. I would not say only Americans, even English. In English language, “I'm afraid." What are they afraid? Everybody is afraid of an Englishman. If he comes in your house, be careful. He'll create problem between husband and wife.

What is there to be afraid? Afraid of that is Divine, of that is blissful, that is such an advantage to you? Sahaja Yoga is nothing but blessings, blessings, blessings. Nothing to sacrifice, nothing to give up, nothing to sell out. Even small, small things like children, their problems, this, that is looked into.

Somebody who cares for you, Somebody who manages things, Somebody who makes you powerful and confident and secure. What is there to be afraid of? But the brains are upside down. They are not afraid of a tiger, but afraid of a cow. What do you say to such a person? Say, “What are you afraid of?" “Afraid of a cow." “And what you're not afraid of?" “Not of a tiger." “All right. It's all right.

Sorry. I'll go to some other place." That's what you have to say.

I mean, this is what it is: people are just upside down. Their value system is upside down. Example I'll give you, very simple example, this Mister Hart lost his election because they said he had some relationship with some woman somewhere. It's so common in this country. What is there that he should lose? I mean, if he had done something else, like if he had taken some money of the government or must have cheated them, then it's all right. But on a point which everybody does! It would be tomorrow, “Why did you eat a sausage? That's why it lose you." It's absurd. They're upside down. Brains are upside down. See, what is the logic? So [to] those who say they're afraid, you say, `You're right. You go and bang your head with something.

That would be better for you.' It's all stories, I tell you, is the way they put you down. There's nothing to be afraid from a fragrance of the flower, it's like that.

There's... we have a Guru who cannot bear any flowers. No fragrance. But if you take the water from the gutters, he's very happy. Now, what do you say to that? I mean we are not here to please such people, are we? You know there's a Guru like that. He can't bear... He got how many Rolls-Royces? Sixty-three Rolls-Royces. And they used to take gutter water for him, instead of giving flowers. And there are many Americans who did it, thousands and thousands and thousands. Imagine, to buy sixty-three Rolls-Royces out of American money. What do you say to them? But they're afraid to come to Sahaja Yoga. See? This is self-deception.

There's nothing hiding in Sahaja Yoga. We have to say what one has to say. We have to face what one has to face. You should not have any conditionings about it. You should not have any ego about it. Try to understand that this has to be understood: that we have to be ourselves. We have to grow. Whatever is wrong within us has to go away. But it's only possible when you become the Self. Like, if I have something wrong on My sarī, I can only see it if I have eyes, otherwise anybody says, `You're wearing a sarī which is dirty,' I might be angry. If I'm identified with the sarī, I'll be angry. But if I see, `Oh God! I'd better clean it.' So it's a vicious circle how to open their eyes, because to open their eyes is very difficult, impossible, because they are afraid. They're afraid of the light, happy with the darkness. Now you cannot please them. Also, you must know that if you put the whole American people together and all the Western people together, we have manifold more people say in India and other countries who will become realised Souls. God doesn't bother from where they come. If they want to accept such horrible Gurus, let them have it and go with them. As they say, “Take two running jumps and go to Hell!" That's the attitude of the Divine, I really tell you. But not Mine, because I am the Mother so I have to make the compromise between the nonsensical people and the Divine, which is nothing but sense. There, that is common sense.

So what I have to do is to: `All right. Doesn't matter. Let's try. Let's try. They'll come along. They'll be all right. They are created by God, that's why they are loved.' But not because you are seeking any elections. You must realise it. We are not the only human beings living. We are not the topmost people. Let's see where we have gone. I don't want to condemn anyone as such, because they are all My children, but I would like you to see where are we. We must understand, we are getting destroyed, our children are getting destroyed, our society is getting destroyed, the whole thing is getting destroyed. Where are we? What's the use of calling ourselves great? Now AIDS, you'll be surprised, there's a war on AIDS, what is the war on AIDS? Once upon a time, you see, these tourists used to bring their clothes and their, what you call, sleeping bags and everything and sell them in the border of Nepal. My daughter lives there. Once they got the news of AIDS, not that they don't purchase this, but they've thrown everything, whatever they had in the house and burnt it up.

This is the situation. Nobody wants to kiss an American these days, to be very frank. I've been warned.

That's what you are. That's what we are going. Let's see where are we going, relatively. But we think still we are great. Then who can help you? You are just holding on now to something. Any moment you'll fall down. Supposing that is the situation, then try to understand you are in a difficult situation. I want to warn you again, just like Viṣhṇumāyā, be, not only that you should understand, but be in possession of this understanding that we have to save others.

If they are afraid, tell them, “What are you afraid of, stupid fellow? Come along." They like it, I tell you.

“But I am afraid..." Then you also very sophisticatedly say, “Oh, I am sorry you are afraid. What are you afraid of?" All right? That's how it will work. Otherwise it is not going to work out. I've tried all tricks. Nothing works out unless you tell them, `Better join Sahaja Yoga otherwise you'll be destroyed tomorrow. You'll get cancer, you'll get AIDS, you'll get this. If you want to save yourself, come to Sahaja Yoga.' That's what they understand and that's what the Gurus do to them. “If you do not jump, I'll throw you out of the room." So they start jumping. It's a fact. Till they break their bones, they jump.

So you should know that you're Sahaja Yogis and that you are building up a new society of people who can save others. For that you have to know how far people have gone, how you have to pull them out, how you have to work it out. Any style of compromise, any style of explanation, discussion, try everything, because after all, I don't want them to be destroyed. But don't think what they say has any sense in it. You must have a higher understanding than they are because you know that they are catching on the Āgñyā and they are afraid. All right? Some of them do say, I've heard, that, “Supposing we get transformed, then we cannot enjoy the life of every day life." What are you enjoying? On the road you are walking, when I came in Los Angeles, they told Me, “Mother, do You know, serious things have happened." I said, “What serious things?" “On this road three people were killed last week." I said, “How?" “Just they shot." “What's so great about us?", you should ask. “Aren't you worried about this may happen to you, to happen to your children? They'll be killed. Anybody can kill you. What are you doing about it?" Talk like that as if you understand the problem. You express your concern, your heartfelt concern. Definitely they will understand.

Because they told Me that “In Sahaja Yoga it's very bad because we'll be transformed and then we'll not enjoy." So this is what you're enjoying on the street, go ahead. Enjoy the fear, the scariness of it.

You can't make your children play in the front door. That's what you're enjoying? They enjoy, if they're stupid they say, “We... this is our fundamental right to be stupid." But you have a fundamental right to enjoy joy, to meet joy. Have you met joy? That's your fundamental right: to be the Spirit. Have you become the Spirit? It's fundamental right, what sort of a fundamental right it is to be stupid? And they say it openly, shamelessly, without any respect of yourself. They have no respect of themselves, so they have to first have their own respect. For that, they have to understand that they're human beings at the epitome of evolution. They don't have to become worms now anymore.

All this you can talk to them the way I'm talking to you, all of you and tell them, “See, now this is what it is. What is happening? What are we doing about it?" All right? Even then if they say so, all right. Don't waste your energy. We have to work it out together. Try any tricks that are possible; you are permitted. But in Sahaj Yoga there's no need to tell lies, no need to do any harm, to torture someone.

There's no need at all. But better bring to their understanding, in their vision, what is going to happen to the country. That's your job as Sahaj Yogis.

I don't want anything from you, as you know. But, you have to understand that Mother has given us realisation, that we have become Sahaj Yogis, for what? We have become Sahaja Yogis to be the light, to show them the light, show them the darkness, show them the way they will fall down and will be destroyed. That's our job. All right? May God bless you.

Any other question, please?

Sahaja Yogi: I was wondering if You could talk about what we could do to form a school for our children here in America. Many of us now with small children [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: That has been My primal problem here. I know, it's terrible, I know! You see it's going to be very difficult for you to have your children sent to these schools because the atmosphere is so bad.

For the time being I only feel that you must develop your children in such a manner that they become strong, self-confident and also they have good examples before them, as you people are, to begin with.

And you will find many Indian families are here, but what I have seen is that the children of at least sixty percent of Indian families don't learn bad things, normally. This is My own experience. The reason is because the Indian family people are all the time talking to their children, having a nice family meetings together, taking them out, telling them about good things, of sharing; because those people who are here from India have had that kind of a training, so they are trying to train their children in the same way. Now the families which are so-called `advanced' here can be too hollow in nonsensical things. Because when it comes to advancement, they don't know how to relate it to anything else. But those who are not that way, those who have been going through a lifestyle, still maintain their own ideas and their own behaviour, their own principles. They are imbibed by children and they just think, `These are another category of people; these are not our style, these are different.' They don't change. I've seen many families like that.

In the same way, first of all you must pay full attention to your children, talk to them, bring them up in such a manner that they have another value system. I mean, I can say about My own daughters or grandchildren, you put them anywhere in the world, they will never become like others, because they have their roots.

So you must try to make their roots very strong into great principles. Then they won't be that much in difficulty.

Like as I was discussing today... people that... see the... as I said that Indian society has built up itself in traditional... now ages it has built in traditions and things.

So it must have made mistakes, trial and error and all that. But it has reached certain really some very fine points. One thing about children in India, say, we don't tell them, `Don't touch this! Don't take this! Don't open this!' Never. We also don't allow them just to behave like a bull in a China shop.

Supposing now I want to have a Diet Coke. All right? So I tell a child, “All right, go and get one tin of Diet. Now bring this glass. Slowly, because it is very cold, so beautiful, you have to use it very carefully.

Now keep it there. Now open the can. Put it in there. Now you have bring it and give it to a friend or anyone." So the child carries it very carefully. But supposing it falls down, doesn't matter! He'll have another one.

So the child develops the deftness of handling it, the respect for it and not the sort of a fear of it.

The cooking, same way. Today there was a big complaint about the way people cook here. And in the discussion then I reached a conclusion that the mother cooks that way.

So what mothers says, all right, she... the child doesn't sit in the TV room if mother is cooking, in Indian homes. Is the child is in the TV room? No, is with the mother.

The mother says, “All right. Now what you do, we'll cut some vegetables. I'm cutting. Now you'd better do it. Now whatever is left out, which is not to be used for cooking, we'll have to put it in this thing. Now, this has to go into the wastepaper basket." And Indian kitchen is all the time clean, spic and span, every minute. Every room is spic and span.

House. Outside, what can we do? It's the government, the management nonsense. I mean the people here think they're very clean; I think they are not, only the government is. The clothes are hanging here, this, that. In Indian homes, even in the poorest of poor you go, everything looks spic and span, clean. Because the child is told to keep it. Now the child has, say, a paper in his hand. He won't throw it everywhere.

Carry it, take it to the... How? Because the mother will say, “All right, now this paper is here. Where should it go?" All the time the mother and the child are together, or the father. All the time. Wherever. It's not that the children can't go to this place. Here the beginning itself is wrong. When the little child is born, you put him in another room and the parents are sleeping in another room. It's the worse thing that you can do to a little baby. That's how the child will become very insecure, unhappy, abnormal. In the subconscious, the child will have a very funny feelings.

After marriage, after having children the parents have to accept parenthood. They are still in the bridal dresses, or the men are still thinking they are romantic heroes going around. You are parents now! Otherwise don't produce children. If you produce children, be parents. That doesn't mean you should become absolutely boring type people. But, take interest in your children; keep them with you all the time; talk to them; tell them how to behave. I mean the behaviour here of children is abnormally funny I find. For that, one has to blame the training. And all the freedom is to be given to children. Now the carpet is more important than child; a door is more important, wall is more important than the child.

Then what happens, when the children grow up I've seen, when they go to somebody's house they start using everything as if their own. In their house they are very comfortably seated. And also every way you have restrictions on children, which sometimes shocks.

Like I'll tell you the example of My own granddaughter, she was telling Me that “Nāni, I'd invited some girls for my birthday party. And you know they liked it very much." And she asked Me, “Can I have some more?" I was surprised. It was all mummy had made for them and she had such a lot inside and she was enjoying, they were eating.

So they came and asked, “Can I have for some more?" They're not beggars; they are children. They should rule all their wants. They should ask for. But then you'll get some toys, put them, the toy is with the child. The child doesn't know the parents. Toys, fill it up with the toys. Then by the time you go in the garage, there's no place. All the toys are kept there, you see.

So the whole training system is wrong. You must take your child with you. You must take him out.

You must show everything. Who else is going to teach them? I see a mother who is, say, a person who has done, say, M.A. in Botany and the child doesn't know what is a leaf and what is a flower. Involve them with yourself. You go to work, tell them what happened, `You know, today this thing happened in the work, this is what.' They are something separate from you. How can they grow? At this time, they depend on you for all their nourishment. Every time. And in that you have to teach them how to share things. But I think very little time is spent with children, which should be much more, much, much more.

Continuously it should be. I mean even My girls who are, one is forty years of age, even now she comes and sleeps with Me in the morning time. She must hug Me, sleep with Me; and when I come, she cries like a little baby, what to do? I did the same with My mother. But I knew everything about My mother and I knew so many things that she liked and what she didn't like and what should not be done. And there's such an attachment to the mother comes in and father. You don't want to lose that love.

Once My daughter asked Me, when she was in college, “I want to wear sleeveless blouses." I said, “Go ahead. No harm." She said, “But why don't You wear?" I said, “I feel shy. I feel shy to expose My arms." Then she said immediately, “Then this is no criteria, because I've asked You, You should say `yes' to me? No, that's not good." She, herself, corrected herself.

So first a complete integration of the children with yourself. Now, the films, they have films for children, for adolescents then I don't know what else is there. No, all the films should be for everyone.

But if you have to show filthy stuff, then you have to have it after twelve o'clock in the night. Why to see filthy stuff? Whatever you're children cannot see, why should you see? It's not something very mature, is it, that you want to see and the children can't see.

So the whole shifting starts, like a mother is seeing the very mature thing is about God, is about some great Incarnation, of some philosophy. Children are also sitting. And they start asking, “What is collective consciousness?" at a very young age. “What is Chaitanya? What is Omkāra?" The whole attention moves to something else. Otherwise you show them the thing for the children in that they show you this doll coming today, that doll. “Mommy, I must have that doll!" Get them the doll and be finished with them.

That's wonderful.

Bring their attention out of all these things. See these all medias, everything, are working on your children morning till evening. Now they have a doll in America which even have a birth date. And then you have to join a club and for that club you have to pay so much, so much dollars. Then you become a member of that and they write to you, “What is the name for the child and when was she christened and this and that." They are playing upon your children. And you are happy as long as children don't trouble you and when they trouble you in England, I don't know in America what do they do, they kill their children. Then the children kill them. Whole thing is upside down. India it might happen if they become developed and advanced.

So we are different people; we come out of it. Now let's start another way. Let's not identify ourselves with that nonsense. Let's be something extraordinary. Let's make our children something different. That's what is to be given to your children, not money, wealth, toys. No! Personality. Roots. You are their roots.

If you are shifty like this, how do you expect your children to be all right? You have to nourish them. All right? So first of all, the education of the child starts with the father, mother and the family and the respect for elders. Supposing your father is there, your mother is in the house and if you will ill treat your parents, they will ill treat you, naturally.

There is a very interesting story: There was an old lady and she had a father-in-law who was very old and the son always used to carry his broth in a bowl made of ordinary clay. And she used to treat him like a dog, the daughter-in-law. One day that broke and this boy fell down and it broke and he started crying.

So the mother thought he's very badly hurt the way he was crying.

He said, “No, I am not hurt, but this thing is broken." “So why are you crying for that? We can get another one." “Sure you can get another one?" She said, “Yes." “You know because I was worried how will I give you food when you will be old. That's what I was worried, that when I have to send you food, how will I manage?" Then she understood.

How you treat others, how you behave towards others, how you live neatly, clean ways and things, that's what children learn. Greatest thing, more than precepts, are practices. Here the husband, wife will quarrel in the presence of children, beat each other. Can you imagine? I've seen that. I mean if you see any film these days, it's the quarrel between husband and wife, put this way, that way, that way, this way, this way, that way. That's all, get fed up with it. No respect, no love, no affection. Or some sort of a destruction. Then the children, themselves, don't want to see any picture.

You see, when My daughters were small, I would only take them to religious picture like Śhrī Rāma's life, this, that and all that.

So they developed a taste for that.

So when they went home to My mother's place they said, “We will not go to this picture. If there is any Rāmas, HanuManas, then we'll go." So My sister said, “You see, first of all we can't leave them alone in the house. You can't take them to any picture, they don't like any other picture but that of God's pictures.

So, I mean there are not so many, so what to do?" I said, “All right, why don't you also see with them the same?" She said, “But there are some nice social pictures, but they don't like it." So what sort of books you give them, what sort of things you talk to them, always be with them, keep them with you. That's the best. Or even if they have to go to some school, it should be a school where there's love, affection, good company, they talk of Sahaj Yoga, sort of a thing. I wish you could start a school of Sahaja Yoga in America. But you know how difficult it is to start anything sensible? Everybody is afraid. But if you want to start a school of nonsensical things, they'll give you grants.

It's very difficult, even in England, same thing, can't start a school. If you want to start some sort of a disco, it's very easy. Many schools are closing down in England. Actually, there was a school for sale. I wanted to buy in My own simple ideas. They said, “Mother, first think why it is closed." I said, “Why?" “Because of the different rules and regulations, it is closed." I said, “Then, you're great grandchildren might be able to go to that school. It will take so much time." So first thing I'll say, you should look after your children. Tell them when it is wrong, you must tell them, “This is wrong, it should not be done." Like your child doesn't respect others, you must tell them.

If he doesn't do, if he spoils something or does something wrong to others, then you must tell him. If he doesn't share things, you must tell, “You must share your doll. You must share this." But when it comes to correcting him for nonsensical things, you should not. You'll see, it will change. Then later on, of course, we have to think of school and all that, trying to do something. Let's work it out, maybe, then we'll take over.

Basically they should be all right. Otherwise, they come to India and slap all the teachers. What's the use? It's not easy. Western children are not easy, you know, to manage. Actually, then definitely they'll be frightened of Western children coming to India, rather difficult. Because you must discipline them.

And the main thing is, they should like the discipline, they should want the discipline. That's how you should be. This stupid idea of freedom, means license, should go out. They should like it.

I remember My parents, the way they disciplined us, we would like it. Any child would remember that, “Oh my father, very particular." But here they'll call a twelve-year-old son, I know a friend of ours, such a shocking story! The lady come to -friend means in the official way. She came to London and she said, “Have you seen the pubs?" I said, “No." “Wonderful, interesting pubs in London." I said, “Really?" She had a list of them. She said, “The best is this one." I said, “What is so special?" “It's called as the Hermit's Pub." “So what is great?" “You see, a man died in this place and people did not know for months together. Then the smell started coming out, so they came in, took him away and buried him. But all the cobwebs and all the smell is still retained. And that's the most expensive pub in London." I said, “Oh God. What's this going on?" This lady said, “You know, we are very free with our children. We allow them to do what they like." And she had two sons, I think, one was twelve-year-old and one was eleven-year-old.

And these husband, wife were sleeping upstairs, in America. These two children were having a party and the father had given them alcohol, beer, all open drink. “Oh, enjoy, we are one!" And these children of that age group started drinking and then I don't know what happened to them, they put fire to some alcohol and the whole house was burnt. One child ran out, eleven-year-old. The mother, father, one son all died and so many children.

This is no freedom. You have to teach your children discretion; you have to teach them. This is what one has to learn.

So I think before starting a school for children, let us start a school for parents. What do you say? All right. What is next? Ursula: Shri Mataji, You had suggested that we can try many tricks, or different tricks for approaching seekers to find our brothers and sisters. And in Australia, when someone has...

Shri Mataji: No, no, no. I can't hear you. Just come here. Yes, Ursula. What is it? Ursula: You had suggested that we could try many tricks to find our brothers and sisters and different ways and approaches. And in Australia, each idea seems to be... they're so enthusiastic and they, they support the idea. And this is, I don't know if it's just my feeling, but there's a feeling here that when there's a suggestion or an idea we're very “Oh, no." One person may say, “Yes, good idea." Another person may say “No, no." And then you don't want to do anything wrong, so you just don't do anything, you just wait. And then nothing happens.

Shri Mataji: Among Sahaj Yogis, you mean to say? Ursula: Among Sahaj Yogis.

Shri Mataji: See, it comes from the individualistic attitude about ourselves. I mean anything you tell them, they cannot live collectively, that we know in the West.

I know what I have to go through when we have to organize their programs with three hundred people coming, this and that. But... this individualism is so much, like every bathroom has a different tap.

You'd better ask somebody, otherwise you'll land up into difficulties. Even the ties have to be different; everything has to be different.

Now, if there's something fundamental, then you can ask your leader. But if it is something mundane, all right. You want blue colour? I have blue. You want red? Have red. Like that you can solve your problem. If it is something fundamental, then you should ask your leader. But if it is something which is not fundamental, which is very simple, let them have their own way, then gradually they'll grow into it.

Because this is the basic problem of this country is.

So-called individualism makes them feel that, `Oh, this mine. I'll do it the way I like.' Now say a motor car has a different handle. Now a person who's sitting inside must know what sort of a handle it is. Tomorrow something happens, you can't even open it.

Otherwise, they're not at all individualistic, I'll tell you how. Like in India, supposing I'm wearing this sarī. Maybe there's another sarī like that. If another lady's wearing the same sarī, she'll go and change and come back. She won't wear the same sarī. But, here when fashion, if somebody's... now that our Princess of Wales has this kind of a hairstyle, all English girl's have the same hairstyle. You don't know from one to another.

So what is so individual about them? If some fashion starts, now this is the fashion, very fashionable. What is fashionable? Is to cut your hair this way and make a punk.

So everybody is a punk. Suddenly you find Sahaja Yogis walking as punks, you want to know who is who.

So what is the individual character there? Where is the individuality? On principles you should be individuals, on principles and not on artificial things.

Now this one has a principle. Supposing I'm wearing this sarī. It's made by hand, it's one design by one person.

So I'm giving importance to one person. Now he might have made two or three or four at the most. Now if somebody repeats the same sarī, that means I have not encouraged that man so much. Like you can have the same sarī made out of a, say, machine. Then you'll start, “All right have ten sarīs like this, twenty sarīs like this, all made by machines." But here, because we want to have a sarī separate, it has to be made with hand. In principle, see? How it helps! This is what it is. In principle you should be collective; in principle you should be individualistic. In Sahaja Yoga we don't want you dressed up the same way. I mean I don't want Americans to go about like something Chinese. Let us have our own dress, dress up the way we like, everything. That's all right.

It's nothing important. But in principle, we have to be the same. One principle nourishes the tree, the sap. It has many flowers, fruits. It has many leaves, it's all right, outside.

So in principle you have to be collective. All right? For mundane things, why to fight? But in any case, somebody who is an elder, who knows better, who's wiser, listen to that person. We always have an awe and a respect for elders. Like I see, thank God, you have now Sherayu, supposing, take one case, individual case. She's come all the way from India, now she's staying. She knows quite a lot about Pūjās, things like that. She knows how to do many things.

You should be prepared to know from her. Otherwise sometimes it's very embarrassing the way things happen. Now she's here, she can teach you. There's nothing wrong in learning. She has learned many things from you. But there's no respect, I think sometimes, for her, at all. She's an auntie somewhere sitting on the shelf. No, she's here for a purpose, one should learn, respect. But that doesn't mean you be her slave or anything, but you gain something out of her. Another person who comes here should learn.

Like from Americans, we have to learn a lot. Tell Me what.

Sahaja Yogini: I don't think we're doing much about communication.

Shri Mataji: The communication is not there because of individualism. But, that's not so. There's no individualism at all, because I've seen, once the fashion starts, everybody looks the same. The other day I came, I saw ladies looking like men with muscles like this, walking like that. I said, “What sort of creature is this?" One came, two came, three came, five came, ten came.

“What's this going on?" I didn't understand. They are all walking like that, like Draculas. I said, “What is this?" “Oh, this is fashionable." What is fashionable? “They're developing their muscles." What's the principle? That's it.

So, in such things we do not argue. Means in stupidity we don't argue, but in sensible things we argue. In sensible things, we have to understand what is sensible. After all, we are realised Souls; we are not like other people. We must understand what is good. When I say something, you agree. I don't know how. You like it. I may say something also which may not be so palatable, but you like it. See, think must have it, it's a medicine. In the same way, one should see to things which you may not like so much, because maybe you're conditioned, but see to the sense of it, the common sense, the balance. You can understand and you have something very great called vibrations. But even that also, I have seen, horrible things they do.

Some people went, husband-wife, went to stay with some lady because her husband had gone to India. Threw all her furniture out, all her carpets out, everything out. I said, “Why did you do it?" “Very bad vibrations." I said, “Really? Now will you please pay for all that, for the bad vibrations." I mean anybody else's things, who are you to decide good or bad vibrations? You look after your own vibrations.

So they also sometimes use the vibrations just to, sort of, express their ego.

So let us try on ourselves, everyone, “Am I doing it just for ego's sake? Am I quarreling because of ego? Am I saying `no' for ego?" As far as possible, try to concede. You'll feel much better. You'll learn much more. I mean, I've learned so many things since I've been abroad, I mean, I didn't know so many things. I don't know even now.

For example, I didn't know how to operate a TV. Even now, I don't know much about it. Really. I didn't know how to operate a telephone of a particular type.

So, I had to learn. I had to learn how to book a ticket, which I don't do even now, but still I have to learn.

So many things I have to learn and whatever I can learn I would like to learn. Cooking I know, but I never knew how to wash utensils because in India they, I mean normally you have servants. But I learned it, your style with Ivory liquid. I had to learn.

There's nothing wrong in it.

So one must try to learn, than to argue.

Ursula: In Australia, the enthusiasm and the joy that they have! And if someone has an idea for something, there's just so much support for that, that they all go out to help each other. It becomes a very big, collective effort.

Shri Mataji: But Australia, Australians are very wise people. They understand wisdom. That's what we have to be, wise, very wise. And if any Indian is there, they try to ask, “How do you do?" Particular things, on principle as a Pūjā things, they'll ask an Indian. But booking the seats, never ask Indians.

They're no good. Cooking, kitchen, cleaning, very good. Maintaining house, all right. Looking after children, all right. But driving a car, an Indian? Save Me. I would never sit in a car which is driven by an Indian in America. Because crazy the way people drive. You know this fellow won't know how to do it.

So it is just wisdom and discretion one has to use and not to fight. It happens, I'm happy, I've seen this in Australians. They were declared as people of, people who were criminals, the children of criminals.

They are so sensible. Discretion must be used, that's important. It's sad. But it will be all right, I'm sure one day. Never argue on things which doesn't involve any principle. It's the best way; it's the happiest.

Even now, you see today it was so warm. I wanted to wear a cotton sarī, you see. But My children said, “No, must wear this one." I said, “Wore it." I was perspiring, this, that. All right, doesn't matter, what's the difference, perspire for a while. Came out with this sarī. They liked it, so it's all right to please them.

Nothing, no principle is involved in it. When you think about others, then you will get rid of this problem.

But so many people try to preach also Sahaja Yoga to others. They should not. It's a very serious thing, they will start teaching. It need not be taught that way, then people don't like it. But your own behaviour, in your own character, in your own responses, people should see “this person is like this." And they should imbibe it. That's the point, I think what we lack is discretion. If you are discrete, you will learn very fast, it's not difficult.

Ursula: We still can be very judgmental of newcomers. If they have particular problems, we get all...

Shri Mataji: The newcomers. Agreed. With the newcomers, you should not be harsh with them.

You should be kind, you should try to understand this thing. But, you know still, I tell you sometimes... The other day I had some boy who had come, all right? He asked Me at least twenty questions. I answered them properly, this thing, that thing. And he got so pampered, he sent Me news, “I don't want to become Sahaja Yogi." I mean, but for Me, anybody would box his nose, for such an answer. You see, you have to take it in a stride. Situation is so bad; situation is very bad. Must understand we are on a warpath, whatever is possible, we can do it. But every country has improved so much.

So what's wrong here is: people don't want to learn; people don't want to understand the sacrifice of giving up your ego, giving up your decisions.

“All right, let's see, let's see." Like that. That's why it doesn't grow.

Now one thing I must say, in America if you have My program, hall will be full, I won't be able to enter in and when I get out, I'll be pushed out like a piston. I've seen it. It's the people are so much I don't know how to get in and how get out. It's terrible! And when I go away, they just disappear. Because, there's something lacking, of course, I agree, among Sahaj Yogis, that we have to see. After all, nothing special about Me as such, I mean, they just see My photograph and come to the programs and sit down there. Even if I have three days program, it goes on increasing. While there are Sahaj Yogis who may not even be able to have one person in the hall. What's the reason? They don't know Me. All right? So there's something lacking in us, also, when the newcomers come in, how we treat them, we talk to them, how we appeal to them. Once in awhile of course there will be somebody who will rude. Doesn't matter. But try to be nice to them. On the whole I think the newcomers, I won't tell all these things to a newcomer if he comes. If a newcomer come I say, “Oh, very nice. How are you? This, that." You see? Settle him down.

Any other fundamental differences you find, you can ask Me, fundamental.

Sahaja Yogi: I'm just little curious about, well, future little bit. Are You going to manifest Yourself in some different way as Śhrī Kalki? Or are You going to sort of let the change happen a little more gradually?

Shri Mataji: Direct questions. You tell Me, what should I do? Tell Me, what should I do? Any other form won't be suitable. Try any other form. Take Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's form, You have to take the Sudarshana and just kill off all those who don't believe in Sahaja Yoga. Is it all right? Take form of Jesus Christ. Hang Yourself nicely, finish with everyone. Then think of Kalki. Finish everything. After doing all this work, beautifully creating all this world so beautifully, don't you think One should manage it, try to manage it, as far as possible? That's My style.

Which one would you prefer? [Laughter from the Sahaja Yogis.] What did he say? Voice from the crowd: He likes Your style, Mother.

Shri Mataji: Aha! That's it. You see that's what, nothing else. Of course you should know that Kalki's acting, everybody's acting, everybody's acting but is on a low key, as they say. One has to be very careful; it's a very delicate job.

So many are lost. These Gurus have taken over so many. It's a very, very delicate job. All right? But if necessary, I can do something.

Now, any other question? What time is your dinner? Any other question?

Sahaja Yogi: Mother, it seems that many of us here don't really know about the Haṁsa Chakra, in terms of understanding how it relates to the Viśhuddhi and what we can do to strengthen our Viśhuddhi.

Shri Mataji: Haṁsa Chakra stands between Viśhuddhi and Āgñyā as you can see clearly positioned like that. But from Viśhuddhi there are many nerves which pass through Haṁsas and end up here. They don't all go to the brain. Or we can say that at this time, at this point, all our reactions which are what you call reflex reactions finish off.

So supposing now I get some dirty smell, I'll close My nose like that, or if I can't hear, I'll just pull My ears like this; or if I see something dirty, or if I see something jarring, My eyes will close automatically. If somebody tries to put a pin through Me, immediately I'll... spontaneously, it's all built in, within My system and your system, too, that you react with reflex action.

Same thing may not happen to animals. Animals are different.

Some animals have certain reflex actions, some have some reflex actions; but we are different and our reflex actions we are all practically just the same. There's not much individuality. There isn't much difference in our reflex actions. At the most, with conditioning somebody might say “Yah!", somebody might say “Oh!", somebody might say something, that's different. But the reflex actions are just the same.

So up to the reflex action, we don't have to use discretion. Then starts our discretion part. Discretion starts when we are using these two Nāḍīs which meet here, without going to the Āgñyā.

So when these two Nāḍīs meet here, what happens we start seeing through our experiences. First would be a reflex action, automatic reflex action. The second is when, supposing a child, if you tell the child, `Now this is hot; don't put your hand there,' he won't listen. Put the child. With experience, he will develop reflex actions, the conditionings of it.

So thus reflexes are built in within us. Also, they are built in within us with, we should say, with other conditionings like, you see, in a country supposing there's racialism, or in a country like ours there's a caste system. Then person react according to what they have learned from childhood.

All these conditionings could be of the present day, when you are born. You could have been, yourself, born in last life in, say, Africa. Today you are born with a white skin, so you have started sort of calling that African you have become. All these conditionings can be built in, into your Haṁsa Chakra, which have come from your training of the mind, you can say the experiences of the mind, the experiences of the society, of your knowledge, of your education, the way you're conditioned can be built in here, in the Haṁsa Chakra. And it reacts to things which has no meaning. If you were... `I hate someone!' Why? Because that person wears a blue jean, or something; or you can say a green shirt. Now this is built in your mind. Or sometimes this falling in love, also, comes from the same kind of a conditioning. Supposing you had met somebody who had, say, blue eyes and was kind to you.

So you have fascination for a person who has blue eyes. There's no pure idea about beauty; there's no pure idea of happiness; there's no pure idea of esthetics. All is condition. For some people, this is beautiful; for somebody, this is not beautiful.

So this is the place where these interchanges take place between both the naffdīs and here the Haṁsa lies outside the path of Kuṇḍalinī. They sort of come out here, out of the path of Kuṇḍalinī. It's very surprising. When the Kuṇḍalinī moves, She goes from Viśhuddhi direct to Āgñyā. Now, how can we improve our Haṁsa then? It's a big problem, because if our Haṁsa is sick, is overconditioned. The Kuṇḍalinī cannot work on it; it just gives up. Now, so for Haṁsa we use all these physical things. Like I said, put the ghee in the nose. Keep it in a way that it is nourished properly. Because Kuṇḍalinī, if it tries to too much attack the Haṁsa, it will have problem. Problem because, as it is most of our time we spend in such a manner that your Haṁsa things become, what you call the epithelial cells, the linings, become dried out. When the Kuṇḍalinī rises, She may try to create a problem more for that dryness, maybe.

So it is kept out, but it has an effect in the sense that even if there is a light outside, it can fall inside.

So it's not the Kuṇḍalinī directly that affects your Hamsa. It is like when the Kuṇḍalinī awakens, you yourself see now that a person is, whether he is fair complexion or dark complexion, he is a human being.

You reason it out and Haṁsa clears up. Then you see yourself that, `Oh, I'm very egoistical.' You start seeing yourself through your Āgñyā, start seeing that, `I'm so conditioned.' So you reason it out and that's how you correct your conditionings. This is what is Haṁsa Chakra.

So Haṁsa Chakra cannot be done if just you're a realised Soul, but is an effect, is the symptom of your Kuṇḍalinī awakening.

Some people think that you develop discretion just as the Kuṇḍalinī rises. Is a wrong idea. No. That has to be deliberately seen that you build up that discretion within yourself. But once it is built, for example My discretion is absolute, I just know what it is. You see My conditioning here is absolute, is one with the Kuṇḍalinī, one with reality. But for human beings, it has to be reflected by understanding. Like a child who touches something hot, then it is hot. Now this is hot, because it's heated up.

So you see a person is catching on the right Heart. Right. He's catching on the right Heart means he's got a right Heart and he is suffering from such and such thing. You have to see it yourself.

Now if you tell the person, “Are you suffering from, say, asthma?" He says, “Yes, how do you know?" “I know it because I've learned it through my finger which was burning, that's why I know it is." But supposing somebody has an asthma and in that plays the part your Kuṇḍalinī, you will get asthma immediately. You see the point? The conditioning cannot come to us unless and until it passes through, or sieves through, our reasoning and understanding. Are you understand the point? It cannot work. The reason is, it filters your collective consciousness. Otherwise, you go near a person who has AIDS and you become collectively conscious that he has AIDS. And if you imbibe all that into you as a conditioning, you will get it. But you are separated. Like person who reads a, there's a very nice story about this, Jerome has written. Like one man, he went and read Materia Medica.

Went and told doctor that, “Doctor I have all the diseases except for one, which is housewife's knee." He said, “How is it you haven't got it?" “Because I am not a housewife." So he got conditioned into all the diseases. That's how many people get diseases, but thank God there's a filter. If somebody has a disease, you don't get it, because you can filter it.

But Haṁsa Chakra could be affected by baddhas. That's one problem, if some baddha passes through the nose, you might; some viruses pass through the nose, you might. Affected, means it can get sick. But one must understand the discrimination between the two. Say there's a virus infection outside. It can pass into your Haṁsa Chakra and can give you a problem of sinus, this, that, physical. But you won't become like a person who has given you virus infection.

So there is a filter. But supposing there's a person who is very hectic. And you come in contact with that person, he's very hectic, so your Swādhiṣhṭhāna can take over. You can become hectic with that person. Being with that person, you can become hectic. But as far as the Haṁsa is concerned, with anybody you live, your Haṁsa doesn't carry the complete impact of that because there's filter.

So now, if you have to develop the discretion, you have to learn, you have to understand. It doesn't come automatically. But with children who are born realised, their Haṁsa is so developed that they know it, what is right, what is wrong. Because their Haṁsa is so much trained that way, they don't have to use much understanding. But those who are now growing up, have become now Sahaja Yogis have to know through their own experiences their Haṁsa. It's a filter, also. But for a child, he knows what is right, what is wrong, because his Haṁsa is developed. In India, when the child is born he's massaged nicely. Oiling is the best way to have a good Haṁsa. Oil his hair, oil his body, put some drops in the nose, everything.

They try in the ear, in the nose and that's how they build up.

So what I have to say that physically you should have pure Haṁsa Chakra by using ghee and all that and mentally you should use it by learning things, in experience, what to do, how to do it, how to work it out, how to establish. That is how Haṁsa Chakra grows and makes you discrete. That's why tradition is very important. Tradition gives you the growth of the Haṁsa Chakra and then you go on discarding whatever is wrong out of that tradition. Then again, you keep whatever is good. Give it to your children, to your children, to your children.

So the discretion comes to a person who is traditionally built up better than a person who has no traditions.

Now, for example, this morning I was discussing that people take, fill the wash basin and wash their face, in the West. In India, we cannot conceive of it, cannot even think of it. I mean, people don't know it can be done. Because in traditional way it has come out that if you're washing your face and again the water goes into there, then all the dirt is in it, again you're using the same water.

So you cannot have complete.

So always use running water. Traditionally we've learned it.

So it's so much in our heads, in our discretion, that we cannot even think of such a thing.

Simple thing that Mūlādhāra must be cleaned and washed. Any Indian, you take it, he knows that is, because they must have had some problems before. Whether he is in the north, he's in the south, east or west, ask him. Auspiciousness is another thing. It's so much imbibed in the tradition. But if you have a tradition, say, of doing things which are absurd, also you can have traditions like that. Like very primitive people have all kinds of traditions which are very absurd. I was told that if you go to Ladakh what they do, somebody dies, they keep the hand of the dead person in the house all the time like that.

They think that that helps. With tradition which is wrong by discarding that, they will understand that is wrong.

So the more traditional you are, the ancient you are, you learn many things.

Like we have seen English are, in a way, very traditional, so they, supposing theirs a lady coming down and you are coming with the lady, then the man will be in front, automatically. He'll just move.

But if she's going up, then man will follow her. Just happens, automatically, because traditionally they have learned that if you're going down, the lady may fall or something, so we should be in front.

So what you call as the traditional habits of person gives you this Haṁsa. And these habits are built better and better with trial and error methods. And that's how you develop it. Now for people who are Sahaj Yogis, it's much easy to imbibe them, because if you see something, “Yes, that's wrong, should not do it, finished." But you should be so clear-cut about it as you determine. It works out. You're Haṁsa will be all right. But you tell them ten times, still they do the same thing. Then that means their Haṁsa is not willing to accept. But you must nourish it, you must look after it, you must, as I said also this kajal is also very good for Haṁsa Chakra. All kajal and the oil in the nose, ears, it's very good. All acts for that.

Even, say, talking to another person, to talk discretely is to say something which doesn't lose its power of affecting that person. Like if you say something very harsh, then you should know how to neutralise it so that he retains that into himself.

All these discretions only come also by tradition. When you find something that is futile, in a collective way in a tradition drops out.

So the blessings of the tradition is great, but greater are the blessings of your Spirit. And the blessings of the Spirit are such that through your vibrations, immediately you know this is wrong. But you have to be honest about it and you just give up. You want to ascend, you want to improve your vibrations, so for that whatever is needed you will do.

Contents: 1987-08-09 Śhrī Viṣhṇumāyā Pūjā, Pawling, NY, U.S.A.

Today we have assembled here to do the Pūjā of Viṣhṇumāyā.

Viṣhṇumāyā is created through human effort, also. As you see the clouds, when they rub against each other, then the electricity is created.

So first the clouds have to be created. The sun acts on the sea. See how many Chakras come into play! Sea is the Void and the sun acts on the sea. Also the moon acts on the sea. As a result of that, clouds are created.

This electricity is not created in the ocean, that would create problems. Is created in the sky so that everybody can see it, can hear it. They see it first and hear it later. It's all well organized, well calculated, that is Viṣhṇumāyā.

But it was created, also, with some understanding by human beings on this Earth. First of all they saw the two clouds rubbing each other.

So in the primitive stage, human beings tried to rub two material things to create electricity.

So two material things, that is two parts of matter, when rubbed created the electricity.

It's very significant to see: matter can be used to create electricity! The spark of the electricity comes from the matter. Without matter, they could not have started cooking the food.

So how it has helped the Void.

First from the ocean, it went into the sky, gave the message to the people to create the electricity. See the love! Then people learned how to cook the food for the digestion to be easier for human beings. How it comes back. From nature, how human beings learn and do it for the good, betterment, hita, of human beings.

This benevolent energy, which was meant for the benevolence of human beings, again was utilized. As you see, this is the creation, all this is of Viṣhṇumāyā. That's why it's a māyā. With electricity you can create a māyā, you know that very well, how you can create it.

So many are here, luckily in such a spontaneous way, so many who are dealing with this electricity in creating māyā.

America is so much helped by this electricity, by Viṣhṇumāyā. You're not thankful to it. Like you have got Niagara Falls, you have so many falls here. Again, the water when it falls, it's come from water, when the water falls on the lower level, very lower level, then it moves the turbine and those movements can create electricity.

So you have hydrostatic electricity. Also the electricity is produced, as you know, through coal. Now here, again, the Mother Earth works out for the betterment of human beings to create the coal in Her Being. I think She must be taking all the baddhas, absorbing all of them in Her stomach and must be burning the stones inside Her to make the coal. And then that coal is used for making electricity.

How much the Nature is working for our betterment! Your New York would not have been there but for electricity. It stopped for fifteen minutes and you knew the power of electricity.

You cannot move without it, you cannot exist without it. That's why it had to be used and created, given you so much of benevolence. You cook with it, you see with it, you listen with it, you enjoy with it.

You wouldn't have your televisions, you wouldn't have anything without electricity. You won't even have these `Exits' here written. You would have walked into the walls! So much of this Viṣhṇumāyā has worked, but She is a māyā. She can create a māyā. And this has created a big māyā in the minds of human beings that `We are on top of the world!' You are not! If electricity recedes from you, you'll become again the same primitive people making electricity out of rubbing the stones, take it from Me! This flow of electricity is available to you for your good and not for your destruction. But what has happened today is, that using [of] this electricity for your destruction. I remember about, say, thirty, forty years back, or even earlier when we saw the films, they were not coloured films, American films were beautiful films with substance in it. They wouldn't show one married man running after another married woman. None of these stories. Very pure form of beautiful family life. Everything nourishing was shown.

We don't hear of any such thing where they showed evil winning over. Now you find they show a thief and the thief becomes the hero. Then the people see those films and the children, specially I've seen, have that thief as the symbol of something great.

So they are going against the Void completely, against the religion that is within us, absolutely! The thing that was to nourish the Void, the one that was to sustain you in your valencies, is now disturbing the Void completely. That's the māyā part of it. The same electricity which was to give you the right path, the light in the darkness, is now sucking you in like a magnet towards your destruction.

This is the Viṣhṇumāyā who came to this country in such a big way and then spread all over, has given ideas to everyone. People picked up all your techniques, all your styles, even you have Hollywood and all these very famous people here who have thrived on this electricity. But without thanking the Viṣhṇumāyā, they started doing things which were against Viṣhṇumāyā. This Viṣhṇumāyā is the one who has helped you because She is the Sister of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa and because this is the domain of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, She came down here to help you.

Now She's the Sister, this must be understood very well. Now sisterly relation is a pure relationship.

Now, of course, everything is so confused, but that's the purest relationship between the brother and the sister. The brother is protected by a sister and the sister's chastity is looked after by the brother. A brother who doesn't feel hurt if his sister's chastity is in danger or she plays about with her chastity, he's not a brother. He's not a brother anymore. He's responsible to see that his sister keeps her chastity. Only her chastity can protect him, it's a mutual working.

This feeling, if it does not develop that `She is my sister and that I have to look after her chastity, for that I have to behave myself well, so that she doesn't find faults with me.' It's such a cleansing process this relationship has, as much as the electricity has the cleansing process for you.

Everywhere what the electricity does, a sister does for her brother, she cooks for him, she tells him the right path, she enlightens him and sometimes shocks him, also. They have to have certain shocks, otherwise they will not know how to work it out. And the best of all, she's the one for whom you have to be very careful to know the technique how to handle your sister. If you do not know how to handle your sister, you can be absolutely wrong and you may get it, something that you would never expect to get.

So one must understand how to handle a sister. In this case, we have to know that the same [Viṣhṇumāyā] was born again at the time of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa as Draupadi. She took Her birth as Draupadi and when Draupadi was attacked by the Kauravas, they wanted to remove Her sarī. To remove the sarī itself is a symbol that they challenged Her chastity. Now if you see in the Māyā Nagari, women have no sense at all that they should cover this part of their body. In this Māyā Nagari, the other way round. When I heard a very responsible person saying that “In our culture, women must expose their body." What is this culture? Is anti-Kṛiṣhṇa, completely anti-Viṣhṇumāyā.

Such people will get into trouble, I'm sure, with electrical problems. The brothers who do not bother about the chastity of the husband of their sister and also support him and asking to do wrong things, hide his things, are also equally responsible.

Like in Sahaja Yoga, you know that a sister is to be protected and the sister's husband, if he's doing anything wrong, he's to be told off by the brother.

Like once in India, one newspaper passed some remarks about Me. My brothers were up in arms. I thought, “Now, it's going to be terrible. How am I to manage it?" It was a big problem.

They were going to go to the courts. When I told them, “I'll not go to the courts." “All right, don't go. But we'll go." They told My husband also. My husband and My brothers put together was formidable! I didn't know what to do. I wrote to one Sahaja Yogi that “Go and see the editor of the newspaper. Tell him that these are My brothers, be careful. They are very powerful people in India and from here My husband. It's terrible” but they would not apologize.

So I thought of another Viṣhṇumāyā that there was a big strike and the paper was closed for exactly six months. And they had to go in for a big, very big losses. And when they started [again], the people who were working there came back and said that “Why did you write against Shri Mataji? We're not going to come back." And they had to apologize.

So how the brother's love can compel even Ādi Shakti to do things that She would not normally do.

In the same way, when Draupadi was challenged, Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa was not in Hastinapur where it happened.

He was thousand, at least more than thousand miles away from that place. But it's said that “Śhankha Chakra Gada Padma, Garuḍa lai sidhare." He came on His condor with all His weapons, Śhankha-‘conch’, Chakra-‘discus’, Gada-‘mace’, Padma-‘lotus’. All these He brought to save the chastity of His Sister.

There are many incidents in our history, I don't know if I can cite anything in your history. But I would say when I see Abraham Lincoln I think he was a great brother to the Statue of Liberty. The way he fought for women in such pure love and without taking any money, without charging them anything, to punish the husbands who were drunkards. That's just like a very good, powerful brother to behave. But those feelings are now dying out I think.

But, say, in Russia, when I went, went to see Lenin's house and throughout, apart from his wife, was his sister who helped him, to type for him, to do all his official work. He has written volumes and volumes of books in that small age of fifty-four years, volumes. First of all he was in Siberia and just imagine, this sister of his has typed most of it. Throughout in the whole tour, we felt the presence of the sister and the way she has helped her brother.

This relationship is so pure which doesn't want anything. A wife may say that `If you don't give me a coat, I'll divorce you.' May in England and possible in America, they say so. But a sister cannot divorce.

She cannot divorce it. This time in the newspaper, they published the name of My brother.

So I said, “What can I do? He's My brother, so he's My brother. Whether good, bad, anything, he's My brother, I cannot divorce him." Is something, a relationship which you cannot break. Nature has given you this relationship.

But when you come to the collective, is very important that we must respect this relationship. If you do not respect this relationship, you cannot work out collective living. Like in a party I go and I feel something very funny happening.

Somebody's wife is entangled with somebody's husband. All sorts of funny things happen. But in collective if you know, except for my wife the rest of them are my sisters, the purity settles in like that, you don't have to worry, “They're my sisters!" And your eyes steady out.

Innocence starts pouring out of your eyes. It's a very, very simple thing.

So in the eye, when you get your realisation, you get a glint, must have seen, there's a shine, that is Viṣhṇumāyā. That is the Viṣhṇumāyā which shines through your eyes and She's the One who makes you through the māyā of Viṣhṇumāyā. This glint in the eye you must have seen in people who are realised Souls and this glint in the eye is the one that makes you understand and feel the beauty and the power of sisterly brotherly relationship. In the beginning of Sahaja Yoga, I found it impossible to establish this.

So I said, let's try the Viṣhṇumāyā. And it worked. Actually, naturally we know this is wrong. We know that it is wrong, naturally. We don't have to have a law for it.

One lady came to America with her brother and she told Me when I had not come to America, “It's a funny place." She said, “I went to America and we wanted to stay in one room” because they wanted to save money.

They said, “No. If you are brothers and sisters, you can't stay." She said, “Why?" I mean in India if you are brother and sister you can always stay. If you are not brother and sister, then of course you can't stay, you don't stay together, the other way round. If you are brother and sister you cannot stay in one room here, in a hotel, under law! And [if] it's a father and a daughter you can't stay in one room. Absurd. I mean for us Indians it's a shock.

I said, “But why?" I just couldn't understand. Now I know what it is! That it has become now a law, to that extent. To us, it is absurd to have such a law.

And, as we have learned so many things from you about electricity, you also better learn from us certain thing about Viṣhṇumāyā's powers. There's no harm in learning something for the roots, because if the tree has gone wrong, it has to learn something very much essential from the roots and that is it, the purity of relationship between brothers and sisters.

But the sister relationship always gives a very big cementing force for the husband and wife. I know if My husband tries to trouble Me, his own sister will be after his life and he'd better be careful about it! And same with Me, if I do anything wrong, My brother will side with My husband and not with Me.

So it cements the relationships very well.

In the history that I know of, two very beautiful incidents I'll tell you which come to My mind today is one of Shivaji. When Shivaji, it's twice it has happened in his lifetime which is very remarkable, he was once presented with a lady who was very beautiful and people had plundered her things and all her ornaments, because she was a daughter of a Muslim courtesan, as you call the courtier. And they tried to plunder him and they brought this beautiful woman before Shivaji.

So Shivaji looked at her and said, “Please remove your veil” because Muslims have a veil. And when she removed her veil, he said that “If my mother was as beautiful as you are, I would have been equally beautiful." What a thing to say, what a poetic thing to say: that is that “If you were my mother, I would have been as beautiful as you are” means you are my sister. And then he got very angry with all these people and asked them that “You better take her away and never do such a thing to any woman!" And not only, but he gave lots of ornaments and lots of things to her to say that she's a sister going to the husband with all respect and regard. And this gentleman, her husband, was a very deadly enemy of Shivaji. How he solved the problem with such purity and then this gentleman became sort of a milder person with this gesture of his.

Second in his lifetime we hear about a fort which is now very close to My house in Poona was, there was a Rajput lady called Kamal Kumari, who was entrapped by the man who was the officer of that fort, who was a Muslim and he was telling this Kamal Kumari that “You must marry me." And she would not accept. They had brought her from somewhere, sort of, by force. And she would not accept; she was Rajput. And he said, “By tomorrow, you'll have to marry me." This lady didn't know what to do, so with someone very secretly she sent a letter to Shivaji with a rakhi. But it reached the mother of Shivaji. Mother sent a letter, sent a message, to Shivaji on a horse that “Come here as fast as possible, if you are eating your food, then come here to wash your hands” to that extent. And Shivaji was so obedient to his mother, very obedient. One has to learn from his character.

He rushed there, because obedience was his power. He rushed there and asked, “Mother, what is it?" So she said, “No, I want to play chess with you." He said, “Why now?" “I must play chess." He couldn't understand. And she played chess and she won something. She could have told him, but she just wanted to sort of put a Viṣhṇumāyā on him. He lost.

“Mother, what do you want?" She said, “Today I want you by night to capture this fort." “Today?" “Yes." Then she showed him the letter and the rakhi. Rakhi was so powerful that a mother had to ask her son, who was responsible for the deliverance of Maharashtra from the clutches of the Muslims, that he should go to this fort and capture it. Such a powerful message out of that string.

So. All right. Came out.

He was quite upset how to do it. Suddenly there was one gentleman called Tanaji, had come to invite him for his son's wedding with his uncle. And he saw him so upset; he said, “Why are you so upset, sir?" He said, “My mother has asked me such and such thing." He said, “All right, I'm going. You don't have to go, because we'll have many Tanaji's like me but we have only one Shivaji. I'm going to do it." He said, “But your son is going to marry." He said, “First let my sword marry this fort, then I will marry my son." Such people we had also. Such sacrifice. Only on that rakhi. Think of that, only one rakhi. All right.

They didn't know this girl, they didn't know her father, they didn't know anything about her, they had never seen her. Can you think of somebody who will do like this in modern times? We are supposed to be very evolved, powerful, great people. Even in the pictures we need not show it. Nobody will come to see such a film because they'll feel so low.

And he went there and he used a kind of a big lizard which went and fixed the nails. With a rope he climbed up and they conquered and won that fort.

It was decided that if they are successful they should lit fire which Shivaji can see and come down. He saw the fire early in the morning so went there and under a tree the dead body of this Tanaji was lying.

He looked at it and he said, “We have got the fort but we have lost a lion." That's why it's called as the Fort of the Lion, Sinhagad, which you can see from My house very clearly.

But these are the monuments of a small thing called a rakhi. A small symbol of expression that can capture forts after forts.

Another one where, I've told this story before but I'll repeat it today, was when Alexander the Great arrested one king called Puru. Alexander had married an Indian lady and the great Alexander was in jail.

That was the day of Viṣhṇumāyā.

So she sent, this lady was very clever, his wife, she sent a rakhi in a small, little thali covered nicely to the King Puru. And, as the rituals are, that day this was presented to him.

So he had to accept. If it is sent, you have to accept. The sister sends it with deliberations but you have to accept. And he accepted it and it was tied, then he said, “Who is my sister?" They said, “Your sister is the wife of Alexander." Said, “Oh God, that means I have arrested my own brother-in-law." Immediately he becomes a brother-in-law, immediately! No marriage took place, nothing, he's a brother-in-law. He rushed to the jail, fell at before the great emperor. He couldn't understand, “What's happening to Puru? Why did he do all this?" He said, “Sir, I am sorry” in his own language, “I'm sorry I didn't know you were my brother-in-law. I'm sorry whatever I've done. Will you forgive me?" and all that. And he brought him, asked him to sit on his throne. He couldn't understand, “What's this going on?" “Please." Made him sit there, garlanded him, did his Ār.ti, gave him ornaments, gave him big garlands of diamonds and rubies and things and touched his feet, washed his feet and then, with great honour, sent him home. He couldn't understand, “Has he gone mad or he's possessed by someone?" He must have thought some Greek has possessed this fellow, the way he was surrendering. When he went home his wife was smiling. He said, “Why are you smiling?" She said, “I knew the trick will work with Indian mind." “What was the trick?" She showed him one string. “This was the trick." He couldn't understand, started looking at it. “What is this?" She said, “This is the rakhi. This is the thing I sent him. This has the symbol of a sister, that's how you're released." Alexander sat back. He said, “Oh God, these people can release their enemies on a string? I can't capture these people. They are too good. They are too subtle. These subtleties we cannot understand." And he turned back. But he took some poets with him who sang his praise, how he was, what a generous man.

But I must say it's rather surprising to see such a subtle man in Greece. But maybe that was the time for them to understand subtleties, but today I don't have much hopes. As I've seen them, they are not that subtle. They only have people like Onassis who are their heroes, whom they worship.

From where to what we have come? How we have used the same good things from horrible things now.

How far we have gone. And I would say the same Viṣhṇumāyā has now put into this māyā that you go to hell now! Finished! It is She who has arranged this for you. She doesn't think that Americans deserve to be in Sahaja Yoga. It is She who is fighting Me. She says, “Mother, forget it! Forget it! Forget it!" See the films, one worse than the other. You see the recent pictures, the modern ones, you can't even see them, you have to close your eyes. The same power now is for your destruction, used by you only. You are using it for your own destruction.

All these films are working you out to fight each other, destroy each other, how to kill each other, how to be violent, how to be ugly, how to be shameless, how to have no self-respect and no respect for others, is all coming through these medias.

Your children are so rude. Nobody listens to anyone. Nobody respects their elders. If somebody is a simple, honest, intelligent, brilliant man, they think he's a fool because he doesn't know how to outwit you. He doesn't know how to talk sharply, because he doesn't know how to insult you all the time.

The whole film industry is now working out how to coin more insulting words. The more insulting words there are, the better it is and that's what the public wants, because now it has become a economic thing to use films for economic purposes.

When money becomes everything, what is prostitution? You get money, what's wrong? What is wrong in destroying your families? You get money. It's all right.

Now, are you going to take this money with you, or are you going to leave this barbaric children on this country? What are you going to achieve? And the money orientation is so much that people say that Americans are the most miserly people, they are very self-indulgent and the most miserly people, while here it is the Viṣhṇumāyā which is the most generous thing. She burns Herself up to give you light. And the miserliness also comes with moneyorientation.

They are also very mischievous, sometimes they try to play such tricks which are very heinous and horrible. Then electricity has to work and I don't know, I don't know about Her, how She'll work it out, but She's very angry, with Americans specially, because this is the country of Her brother. This is the country where Her brother rules and She wants everything to be all right, because from here is generated all these nonsensical films, nonsensical things which are destroying the whole world.

When people start feeling guilty, they should face it and get rid of it. Of course it starts, as you say, with right-sidedness, but this right-sidedness ultimately ends up into left Viśhuddhi and then the residual part of it starts generating this kind of a weakness in a human being, because it is also the pure form of motherhood, is the center Heart, is the pure form of motherhood.

You see a child, you see a girl who is innocent. What interests her is her little dolly. She's a mother, out and out. If she's properly brought up, from very childhood she's a mother. And motherhood is the epitome of womanhood. There are some Sahaja Yogis also who are so stupid they don't want to have children after marriage. They should get out of Sahaja Yoga, immediately. We have not done all this to have people here who cannot produce children. If they can, they should. The reason is there are so many great souls who want to be born. These are the great fruits which are going to be prospering on the tree of your family life and if you do not want to have any children, then what are you doing here? So the Viṣhṇumāyā's main thing is that a woman has to be a mother. Then that motherhood gives her that special capacity to shine.

Now it starts with the left Viśhuddhi, the AIDS goes to the center Heart. The Center Heart is challenged, the motherhood is lost. That's how the antibodies become weak, once they are attacked, they become weak, they cannot fight the disease and that's how the person who gets AIDS has to face things in such a manner that it has no antibodies, so he becomes allergic to everything and he dies.

To fight the AIDS, the sisters' and brothers' relations must be established so that sisters can look out for men, the way they are behaving and they should look out for sisters, the way they are behaving.

In this whole Satanic movement I find the men become physically attacked and women become mentally attacked. And it's such an attack that women are difficult to get out of it.

First of all, we have to decide what is our goal, is to become the Spirit and not a sex point. This māyā has changed your goals completely, is going to make you into worms or I don't know what else. Actually, this is what the Americans have to understand: where are they going? Everybody thinks that Americans are half-mad if not full-mad. Any American coming into any organization, “Oh, beware, American." Americans may not know about it. They never consider an American as a completely sane person. What is the reason? Because of this queer, weird, stupid ideas they have.

But I heard that here the people claim that we have a fundamental right to be stupid and mad.

This kind of a thing that is moving today in the country where you live and if you have to save it, you have to turn their faces towards God. You have to turn their faces towards Self-realisation. And this is a very, very difficult task for which you all Sahaja Yogis, I request you and I pray for you, that you develop that kind of a power which is the power of Viṣhṇumāyā that you shine with the power of Viṣhṇumāyā.

When I see your Statue of Liberty, I think she is the Viṣhṇumāyā here standing. Why didn't they make a man stand there, why a woman? She is the symbol of the sister, of Viṣhṇumāyā and if you have to have your liberty, have it, but liberty of wisdom, not of stupidity.

And this is what I have to tell you today in this great country of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, that you'd better be on the lookout. Better be on the lookout. You can say that She really rules in a proper way in South America and that was Her domain, too. And there electricity is not so prevalent. But the perversion has started because they started producing cocaine and other horrible things to spoil your left Viśhuddhi.

One feels guilty with one thing in the North America and another one makes it bad through cocaine and is nicely transported here for you to spoil your Viśhuddhi. This is an attack on Viṣhṇumāyā, another attack on Viṣhṇumāyā, from the South [America], because they are exporting.

And once I asked them, “Why do you export it?" They said, “That is their lookout to save their people; it's not our lookout." In Colombia, officially! They feel that: if the Americans cannot look after themselves, how can we look after our people? And they're making a big money out of you because, you paid so much attention to money, “All right, have it. We'll also have money by giving you this horrible thing to spoil your Viśhuddhis and take all your money, if you think money's that important." It's something, a very big play, it's a māyā, it's a horrible māyā into which this country has gone into.

And you have to do it by shining examples to show how starkingly it is horrid the way we accept things so easily.

I'm sure this Viṣhṇumāyā will crack certain nuts here and I hope it will create a new path for Sahaja Yogis to follow, to get more people into Sahaja Yoga in a proper, dynamic way and settle them in Sahaja Yoga.

May God bless you.

Before we start the Pūjā, I really admire the way you have created this māyā here. I hope this will cover the blinding māyā and put people into their right path. I must say I admire it, the way you have done it. It's beautifully done.

May God bless you.

One of the names of Devī is also Mātājī Nirmalā Devī, because means pure, also these days people are talking of Khalsa and Khalistaṇ. Khalis means `pure'. Khalistan is the place where the pure people have to settle down, that is Sahaja Yogis. That's what was said that only the Khalis people, means the people who are pure have to form Khalistan, not those who are violent or those who are stupid. Is meant for the people who are Sahaja Yogis. It was said for the Sahaja Yogis. The saints would never tell that those violent people should have their Khalistan.

So, as they call it Nirmalites are the Khalistani people and they are the Khalsas. Such a misnomer under the influence of Viṣhṇumāyā.

Let the little girls come in first. Not very small little girls you see. Say, those who can walk on their own and can do things on their own.

Sahaja Yogi: Should we do Śhrī Viṣhṇu's names first and then the Devī's... mantras?

Shri Mataji: Ah, all right, can do that way.

So fifty-one and...

Sahaja Yogi: There are twenty-four names for Suṣhumnā, for Śhrī Viṣhṇu.

Shri Mataji: That's not Viṣhṇumāyā. What you have to do is to... Viṣhṇumāyā is the one which is the Virgin.

So if you take the Devī's names is sufficient because we have done Kṛiṣhṇa's names here.

What are the Devī's names you have?

Sahaja Yogi: Yes we have the Devī Māhātmyam,

Shri Mataji: “Ya Devī sarva bhooteshu, Viṣhṇumāyā'eti shabdita."

Shri Mataji: Those who have to read the names, you see, should not tell what is to be done; should sit down with this immediately.

Contents: 1987-08-1x Arrival, Airport and Hotel, Paris, France

[In 1987 Shri Mataji was coming to Paris and we were looking for a hotel to receive Her, as the Pūjā was too far from the ashram. We had a specific idea about how to decorate Her bed. We wanted to put a crown and a white veil above the head of the bed, but as it was a hotel we thought that it wouldn't be possible, because we couldn't make holes in the walls.

So we surrendered and forgot about it. One, week before Shri Mataji came we found a beautiful hotel which had just opened a month before. This was already a miracle because it had the same style as Shri Mataji's house of Shudy Camps and the cook was on holiday for the week when Shri Mataji came so we were allowed to cook for Shri Mataji. They also had two huge bedrooms. One was more for a lady and the other more for a man and as Sir C.P. was also coming, this was perfect. But the best was that when we first entered the room for Shri Mataji, to see if it was acceptable, there was a crown above the bed with a white veil, exactly as we wanted.] [When Shri Mataji arrives, Sahaja Yogis tell Her about their desire and how the crown and veil are there automatically and how the kitchen is free.] Yes, the Goddess is always preparing Her own place when She is coming.

Contents: 1987-08-1x Visit of Chartres Cathedral with Sir C.P., Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa Pūjā Seminar, Paris, France

[Inside the cathedral, Shri Mataji is asked if the fabled veil of the Virgin which is kept there is genuine.] Shri Mataji [after some time]: Yes it was Mine, I can remember it now.

[Once exiting after a long time inside, to Sahaja Yogis who are just arriving to visit the cathedral:] This is a beautiful place, have a nice time.

Contents: 1987-08-15 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Evening Program, the day before Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa Pūjā, Saint-Quentin, France

Huge thing... ah? Sit down! Sit down! All on the grass? Is there a grass or something? Very good! [Laughs.] Be careful! Be careful! Be careful, all electrical things are there. Please see the children don't touch it. Can you, somebody look at that? Move out! Move out! Move out. Thank you. Hallo! [Pause.] Ah, who will translate? In French? Come along, take the mice! [Pause.] There are loudspeakers that side? I don't [UNCLEAR] hear.

Sahaja Yogi: Yes. [UNCLEAR] on the corner of the stage.

Shri Mataji: All right, that's sufficient.

[Pause.] It's very nice to see you all here assembled in such happy mood and the nature is also very happy with you. I've tried to learn French but I think it's a very difficult language.

When I came first to France they told Me, Mother you should never say that you are a happy joyous person. I think I practiced to Myself. Now the idea was that, in France people believed that the whole world is full of misery, we are all sinners and we should all suffer and we should be all miserable, so everything that was grey and very gloomy was regarded as the highest art, I did not know what to do because I enjoy, what am I to do. They said because they'd think that you are ignoramus, you don't know what is going on in this world, that's why you are joyous. But I said I know everything, so I started addressing them with `Les miserables' and today I say the joyous, you are the joyous people here sitting down in France, because you have found out the truth and that is the source of joy.

We are here to celebrate the birthday of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa tomorrow and is the most suitable thing to celebrate his birthday in France. Because he came on this earth to establish the fact that truth is joy, when he came on this earth, at that time there were people who believed that one should be very serious and one should be very ritualistic and they believed in all kinds of restrictions on life, they had reached the same conclusions as the Christians that you should not have a married life and you should be an aesthetic if you have to achieve God. I don't know how all of them reached such conclusions.

So he established a new way of expression of joy, now his power was Rādhā, Ra is the energy, Dha is the one who sustains the energy, but she was the source of joy, as they say in Sanskrit Alah Bedinigh.

She was the power who started a new style of understanding God and the child Kṛiṣhṇa used to sit on a tree when these ladies would be bathing, he was about hardly four or five years of age and when they would come out of the water, of the Yamuna, he would just break their pitchers from the back, because she would put her feet in the water while filling the pitchers, the water would be vibrated and then the same vibrated water would flow on their back, by which their Kuṇḍalinī would be awakened.

Because there was no way of telling people in those days that you have a Kuṇḍalinī, you better sit down and meditate, people were very gloomy, just like French, at that time.

So he had to play some tricks, then he would have a dance called Rasa, Ra means energy and Sa means with, to dance with the energy.

So he would hold the hands of all the Gopis and would dance, passing the energy through Rādhās hands into all these Gopas and Gopis who were there.

So the traditionally, what they were had come down as a very morose, gloomy religion, he wanted to transform it into a joyful fun and that is why he also used other methods, to create great fun. His Alah Bedhini Shakti that is Rādhā, he would play with her and with other friends and the friends of Rādhā of what you call Holi, which is with the water, coloured water, because you must have seen when the children get to the water, they just start playing with the water all the time, throwing water on each other and enjoying, like Christ has said “You have to be like children, if you have to enter into the Kingdom of God." So he started such nice childlike play, like Holi, to make people very joyous and happy, because very strict type of discipline started emerging out of the religion. Even the other day I went to see the Mahārāja of Travencore, who is the one who is residing in Kerala, he told Me he has to be everyday get up at 4 o'clock and take a bath in a lake which was very dirty I have seen it not a lake a pond like a stuff and he has to stay there for everyday for one hour and then he has to come of it and with those wet clothes he has to walk at least quarter of a mile in a temple to worship the Goddess and whenever he went out of Kerala to say foreign countries anywhere, everyday he had pay has a penalty fifteen hundred rupees, I said that even if you give Me everyday fifteen hundred or any amount I will not jump into the dirty ponds.

So in Sahaja Yoga I find also when people come for the first time they get to the extremes, all the time they are giving bandhan to them even if they are facing just a tree, they are meditating hours together not eating any food going miserable, even in the programs I see when I am giving lecture or something they are still giving bandhans raising the Kuṇḍalinī and others looking at them, the new people thinking what is happening here, there are two types of people one are those who want to go deeply into Sahaja Yoga and another who are frivolous and are abandoned type so the kind that goes into too much ritualism is also not correct.

That's not the proper way to be in Sahaja Yoga, you have to see spontaneously at that present moment whatever is to be done, their best thing is to be, in the Nirvichara, in the thoughtless awareness as soon as you face a problem get into thoughtless awareness and that is your fort, that will make you grow and your discretion will improve, your attention will become discrete, the people who meditate for hours together I find them, have not finished anywhere but those who meditate for a short time in the morning and evening achieve a lot, the reason is you must understand the law of the Divine.

The laws of Divine work when you are in thoughtless awareness, not by putting any effort into it, but a strong desire to be thoughtless awareness the other type are rather difficult because they are still standing on the back of a crocodile and try to come in the boat of Sahaja Yoga their head is still filled with all the ideas of the past, either they are self pity, they think that we can never achieve anything, or they think that, we should not change much and we should try to have all our old ideas.

Now in Sahaja Yoga everybody has passed through that stage and those who've been called as leaders have passed through it also and they know what it is. I've known some of them as very hot tempered, some very quarrelsome, one some very extremely gloomy type and some were very aggressive, some were idiotic, some were, all kinds of things, all kinds of colours and hues there were. Now the work of a leader is rather difficult, it was easier for Me to do this job because I know how to manage, maybe I have some more powers than the leaders have, so if you deny your leaders, if you try to argue with your leaders, if you don't listen to your leaders and if you don't want to imbibe what they are saying, it's going to be very difficult for you and them and I have told you many times I know your leaders very well, because I know their vibrations, if theres anything wrong let Me handle them, you don't have to worry, but if you have to grow in Sahaja Yoga and if you have to stand on your legs, first you have to hold the hands of your leaders.

Now many people think that we have to bow to someone if we listen to someone, but listening to yourself you have not been able to achieve anything and yourself itself has not yet expressed, because you have not reached the state of Self-realisation, to achieve that first of all you have to listen to your leaders, when you say I believe it is your ego is saying that, or if you say I like it, it is your conditioning, it is your superego that is saying that, it is not your spirit, so to reach the state where you can feel your spirit you have to take help from others and theres nothing wrong with it, as in childhood we have to take help from our mother, father, teachers, in the same way in Sahaja Yoga also, you have to take help from your leaders, so there should be no problem in following the leaders because they are there for your good.

We are again once Kṛiṣhṇa was asked, that it is said in the Scriptures that you have to tell the truth and something that is Vihah Saptumbah Vihah Tiumbah Vihah, so they said how can that be? If you tell the truth it may not be liked by another person, so how can you tell the truth. He said that there is a word in-between is Saptumbah Dihah Pitumbar Dihah Priumbar Dihah. That is the truth, then Hitah is benevolence and Priah is Dihat, which is light by others.

So these three things are combined together if you just put your attention to the benevolence of the person. Now if a leader tells you something it is for your benevolence, that is why in the long run it will be dear to you, in the beginning you may not like it, but ultimately it will be very dear to you, because only through that you will achieve your complete freedom, thus I have to thank the leaders here, for they have got so many French people as Sahaja Yogis and all others from all over Europe and England all those who have come here, they all are so proud that there are so many Sahaja Yogis in France and you will see that everything will change when we'll have more Sahaja Yogis and you all will all establish yourself as great Gurus of Sahaja Yoga, but you have to be responsible and you have to be earnest about it, that's going to help you very much, as it is the leaders have to judge, that whatever they are doing is out of their love and with the idea of benevolence. I am sure France will give such a big lead now to all the Europeans here and show how we should gather more Sahaja Yogis, in one year to have hundred and fifty like this is very surprising isn't it and all others must give them a hand for it.

Now you are going to listen to some very good Indian music and this gentleman [Bismillah Khan] who's going to play to you is a very well known musician from India, it is a great surprise for Me and I'm very much thankful to you, because he has played for so many places where Auspiciousness was needed and I am happy that you have honoured him like this.

Thank you very much. [Applause.]

Shri Mataji: That's good.

Sahaja Yogi: Honored Shri Mataji, Mister Shrivastava, dear Sahaja Yogis [UNCLEAR].

Another Sahaja Yogi [concerning the mike]: It is not working!

Sahaja Yogi: I have a great privilege today to introduce you to a great Indian music master Ustad Bismillah Khan. In fact he does not need any introduction, his music, it speaks for him. As far as Bismillah Khan is concerned, he said tradition is handed. His father [UNCLEAR Hazirad Patemba Bakshad] himself a very great Shenai-singer. His grandfather, his great-grandfather and his great-greatgrandfather, they were all playing Shenai in India and abroad, all through. Here today you will see three generations here: [UNCLEAR Hazirad], his sons and his great-son, they are all here and they are still carrying the same tradition as well Mister Khan is concerned. If I start telling you about the rewards and the big name he has got in India and abroad it will take quite a sometime. And only say one thing that in India he was rewarded as one of the greatest awards of Padmba Bushan. He has travelled all over the world, not only once, twice, thrice but maybe thirty, forty times everywhere. And down there he keeps travelling. It's really a great thing that [UNCLEAR Hazirad] gave us time and today he is with us. I know that you are very keen to listen to him, before, before that I would like to introduce all those persons who have come with him. You know Hazirat is sitting in-front of you. Ustad Bismillah Khaṇ[Long applause.] Mister Jamin Hussein, his elder son. [Applause.] Abdhul Hussein, his nephew. [Applause.] He will play on Shenai. [UNCLEAR Mumbad] Hussein, his nephew. [Applause.] He will also play on Shenai. Mohammad Hussein, his grandson. [Applause.] He will perform on [UNCLEAR Surkh-Pheti].

Habib Hussein Sahib, he will perform on [UNCLEAR Surkh-Shenai]. Kayam Ali, he will also perform on shenai. [UNCLEAR Nazahir] Hussein Sahib, [applause]. He will play on [UNCLEAR Murthak].

And Nazhir Hussein [UNCLEAR Khan-zar], he is the youngest son of [UNCLEAR Khan-zar] and he will play on Tabla.

Shri Mataji: [UNCLEAR you say Bismillah Khan-zar].

Sahaja Yogi: Microphone please!

Shri Mataji: Is it all right? All right? Is it all right? [Hindi.] Musician: [Hindi].

Shri Mataji: [Laughs.] I just told him about, ah, what a great service he has done to all over the world. Because for every auspicious occasion, for any marriage, wedding or, or any other auspicious Pūjās or anything that we do in India, whether it is a religious thing or it's a marriage or any social thing his shenai has to be played first because it's auspiciousness. The thing is the breath, the breath is the ruh and when it, through the breath, as you know Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa used to play the ute, in the same way this is another kind of a flute and when that is played only shenai is the only thing that has to be played in any case whether we have other music or not, in any place like a City or a Village.

So I was telling him that you have been serving God all through by spreading auspiciousness and if these children of Mine have done anything that's not proper or might have done some mistakes in entertaining you, because you are such a great artist from India and all your people are here so please forgive Me.

So he said that he makes such mistakes again and again. [Laughter and applause.] [Shri Mataji and the musician talk in Hindi. Shri Mataji laughs, Musician laughs. Applause. Shri Mataji and the musician talk in Hindi again. Music starts.] [After the performance of Bismillah Khan.] You have been serving God by spreading auspiciousness. Before every auspicious occasion your music is played..... please forgive this audience of Yogis if they commit any mistake in your honour as they are like your children.

Bismillah Khan: Please, may they commit such mistakes again and again!

Please be seated.

What is shaking?

Sahaja Yogi: The stage...

Shri Mataji: It was very beautiful of [the] children to come and receive Me in this beautiful manner.

It can take you back to the days of Kṛiṣhṇa when, in his childhood, he was very much respected by his friends and they tried to do all the honour that was possible. You know the story of his birth. Also you know the story, [Aside:], again if you stop, the water, otherwise My speech might be little bit, You know the story of his birth. And here we have the flowing of water, both the sides. The way he used to play his flute, along with Jamuna River. The all thing looks, sometimes, so human, but it is not.

And, at the right time, whenever he needed, as a child, he manifested his powers: that he killed a woman who was a devil [Pūtana]; ultimately he killed Kansa.

After that you know that he preached Gītā, but it's not so fast as that. After killing Kansa, he went down to Dwarika to rule there. And there he had to marry five more wives. First he had sixteen thousand wives.

So many people can ask a question, “Mother what sort of a husband he must be?" [Laughter.] These sixteen thousand should explain that he has sixteen petals on his domain of Viśhuddhi Chakra and theses sixteen petals, multiplied by the one thousand petals of the Sahasrāra become sixteen thousand.

So these are sixteen thousand powers, which are available to us also.

These sixteen thousand powers are working in the brain. These powers could not come as Sahaja Yogis, so they came as women who were entrapped by a king, exactly sixteen thousand and he married them because by marriage, it was all very Dharmic. Also he married five wives later, who represented the five elements.

[An] Incarnation cannot be understood from human angle, can never be understood, I should say, because their ways and methods are different. They have ways and methods of their own and they do not expose them to other people. Not that they are afraid to expose or they don't want to expose, but it will not be intelligible, it cannot be understood by human beings. If you ask Me a question, say, “Mother, how do you manage that?" I may just change the topic very cleverly.

So now, I am going to tell you about sixteen thousand petals of the Sahasrāra and now we can start the translation.

[Aside:] In gist you can tell them [what I have said so far].

So now, to understand the sixteen thousand powers that you have got in your brain, already manifesting: As soon as you get your Realisation those sixteen thousand powers start manifesting. Every petal of Sahasrāra has got sixteen powers. And these are, I mean the petals, are made of the five elements.

So these five elements, which create these one thousand petals, have got sixteen powers on every petal.

Now the five elements is the right side, which is the content or, we can say, the matter of the brain.

The matter of the brain is created in such a manner that it has a protective matter also.

So we have grey matter and also the white matter which is outside to protect the grey matter.

Now the sixteen powers which are expressed in every petal are coming from the left side. Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa is an Incarnation of the left side.

So the sixteen powers which are coming from the left side adorn the petals which are made of five elements. But these powers already exist in the brain. By these five, plus sixteen, powers we do all our nervous system work. For example, if you have to lift your hand like this, then it is worked, first of all, through the left side which desires that it should be lifted. And then is ordered to the five powers or five elements: they go into the action. Also we have in our system a special type of arrangement where there is a reflex action, which is built earlier in our evolution.

So, in a human consciousness whatever works is not a reflex action. But now, when your Sahasrāra is enlightened with the Kuṇḍalinī, all these one thousand powers multiply it into sixteen thousand.

So all the nerves in the body get enlightenment. Your attention becomes enlightened. With these one thousand dimensions you become collectively conscious. We can say like this: if there are sixteen people staying in five houses and they are working separately and sometimes coordinating. But [then] a flood comes in.

Sahaja Yogi: Flood?

Shri Mataji: Flood, flood.

As a result of the flood all these houses are brought together and get enveloped into the energy of that flood. Then they join hands together. They forget their houses and they start using now a new energy of collective consciousness. This is exactly what has happened in you, that has soon as the Kuṇḍalinī has risen within you and given you Realisation, the flood has brought, these dormant energies in you, into play. You don't have to think that you have to hold each others' hand when there's a flood, you just hold it automatically, spontaneously.

So all the energies suddenly start getting into motion.

So this power where the one thousand energies of the brain [are] suddenly awakened, is the power called as Virāt-āñgana. She is the power of the Virāt.

She is the power which makes Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa a Virāt.

So the sixteen thousand powers which She achieves in your being is done through the power of Virāt-āñgana. And at this modern time you know who is that! So the Ādi Shakti takes the form of Virāt-āñgana. With that enlightenment you achieve your Realisation.

So the Kuṇḍalinī passes through different centers, enlightening the different energies, ultimately comes to the brain and enlightens the Virāt-āñgana power. At this point, at the brain point, the Kuṇḍalinī starts spreading in the head. She of course shoots off from the Sahasrāra but also she trickles down through this plate of the brain [medha] downwards on the sympathetic. That relaxes you. That's why you feel relaxed.

It relaxes the sympathetic. That enlarges the centers. It brings it back to its normal positions.

The enlargement of parasympathetic, or Suṣhumnā, makes the Kuṇḍalinī rise in more quantum. It is all done by a reflex action of Kuṇḍalinī.

So the Kuṇḍalinī is already built in such a manner that, when she rises, she automatically does all these things.

So your Kuṇḍalinī has got the power to enlighten all your centers and to enlighten your brain and to relax you, to increase the size of the centers and make the Kuṇḍalinī rise again! But the Kuṇḍalinī has a very special power: that every human being's Kuṇḍalinī knows Me.

Many people who have just seen My photograph have got their Kuṇḍalinī awakened. But if your centers are very clouded, or exhausted, or jammed together, or separated away from each other, then the Kuṇḍalinī stops there [shows the ground]. That's why some people get Realisation very fast and some take time. These conditioned minds are the most difficult.

[The mike is doing a strange noise].

Shri Mataji: What is happening?

Sahaja Yogi: I don't know.

Shri Mataji: Is it touching each other? Energy joined together [smiles and then laughs.] What is happening? [One cannot see on the video.] Now the rising of the Kuṇḍalinī is achieved better in a place which is frequented or visited or lived in by saints, also for people who are not so complicated. For example, today only, I discovered that the Catholic Church has complicated your lives so much. I did not know that they have been preaching that sex is a sin. Then, if that is so, that means only Adam and Eve would have lived on this Earth. And these people were not with Adam and Eve to know what they did. And this absurd idea was very much there also at the time of Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa among Indians. And as a result of that we had ascetics who were very hot tempered. They developed one sided personality, of say, a sun-like, if they looked at somebody, they could just burn him off, bhasma ashes. And such austerity they had that, if you had to talk to them, you had to use a distant pole bargepole, hollow pole, such horrid people. But Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa when he was born, he found out that this imbalance is being created.

At the same time his cousin, whose name was Neminath, who was a Jain Tirthankara, developed an aversion to meat eating. As a result of that another extreme nature started and people thought that eating meat is a sin. All kinds of varieties of `sins' started prospering. And they had brands [of sins]; this brand, that brand. As you have brands like Christian Dior, like that: this sin, this sin, like that. But underneath, they were very much infatuated by sex. They are the ones who started these erotic temples in India, Jains.

Now the other side of it is, that the horrible Hindu `saints', not saints I should say, what should we call them?, ascetics and the terrible, these Jain people, all put together, formed a formidable idea about religion.

So Kṛiṣhṇa took an incarnation. It was not only to kill Kansa but to tell people that this kind of stupid conditioning is not religion. Religion can never be against the natural laws. But the ascend starts moving from a sex which has no Maryādās, or in the lower animals it is even worse than that, going up to a point in human beings where it has to have Maryādās: to be devoted to one person and be faithful to that person. And then he brought forth the religion of natural Maryādās [where] you have to marry the person.

Sahaja Yogi: You have to marry? [He doesn't understand the word `marry'. People translate.]

Shri Mataji: He gets nervous with the word. [Big laughs from every one.] Alright. Yes, people do get nervous. [Big laughs from every one.] Now, he had married five wives and sixteen thousand more.

So they challenged [him], “What do you say of one marriage with one person? You already have so many wives!" Then, I have told you already a story [of] how he proved that he was a Yogeshwara. He was beyond all these relationships. And this shows that, for Yogeshwaras, it does not matter how many times he married or, for a Yogeshwari like Me, how many children I have.

So the times, or what we call the samayāchār, makes a person behave in a particular manner which is an Incarnation.

There was a murder case for a man who was following Hare Rāma Hare Kṛiṣhṇa [cult]. Of course it was not established, but he felt that, after all, he's Kṛiṣhṇa, so he can kill people. Now, Kṛiṣhṇa was an Incarnation, he knew whom to kill and how to kill. He said that, “Nobody is living, I have already killed them." The discretion of an Incarnation is perfect.

So one should not immediately think that because an Incarnation has done like this, so we can also do. But human beings always take over. That's the stupidity part of all the human beings I must say. Like the Christians, all of them believe they must get crucified and they must suffer. Are you Christ? By so many crucifixions of so many stupid Christians what are we going to achieve? All sorts of complicated ideas come out of all this kind of a nonsensical thing just to say [that] there has to be gloOm Like yesterday as I told you, it's miserable people. Christ crucified himself so that your Āgñyā could be cleared and that you enjoy life, because Christ himself was an Incarnation and whether you crucify, or do not crucify makes no difference to him.

So the difference between an Incarnation and a human being is to be understood first of all, in Kṛiṣhṇa's life. When it started raining heavily and when Indra wanted to put down Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, the rains were so strong. He just lifted one mountain, Govardhan, on his one finger.

So the others, who were his followers, his Gopas, they also had some sticks with them, so they also put some sticks you see. [Laughs.] But they were children! Now, I don't understand the people who are so grown up, who look grown up and behave worse than children! Nature teaches us all the time. See now, people are understanding that whatever they have done, as far as the marriage is concerned, is a wrong thing and now they are coming down to what Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa had said. [People laughs because the translator does not understand the word `marriage'.] [To translator:] What did you say? Translator: “As far as what is concerned..."

Shri Mataji: Again marriage. [Big laughs from every one.] It's like a red rag [to a bull] to him! And to many! That's also, I think, is this Catholic Church. But why did Christ attend a wedding? I mean, this should be understood: if he was against marriage why did he attend a wedding and also made wine for them? But they used that incident just because they want to drink wine! [Laughter.] But even there, Christ was very careful, what he did, he made water into wine, in a second like that, but to make an alcohol, you must ferment it. I can also do that, so what? But I can't make an alcohol, I'll have to put some fungus into it.

So this is what it is: how people have made God or Incarnations into, according to their small minds and according to their selfish ends. Because if you say you are originally a sinner then you say, “Now what do we do?" “Now for atonement, you give lots of money” and God doesn't understand money, what's the use? It's all wrong, absolutely wrong. You have committed no sins. These are all non-existent things they are talking about. But I have seen in the West, people would say, “How can our Kuṇḍalinī rise? We are sinners." Better give up all these conditionings! Nobody is a sinner: that's what Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa has said. Of course, he divided people into three categories basically. But he said that anybody can get Self-realisation and could be enlightened. If he had believed that people are sinners he would not have said this. This is absolutely anti-God and anti-Christ and anti-Kṛiṣhṇa. Here you are, the Virāta has created you, up to a point, brought you to a point. Now you are just about to flower out and already you are told that, as seeds, you had some disease in you.

So all the great work of evolution, the great work of taking you to the Kingdom of God is completely cut out.

So today is the day to be joyous, to be happy, but not jumping in the sea [but] keeping to your boat of Maryādās, because you have got now your brain enlightened. This brain is now such a powerful thing you have got, that it pierces through all the five Koṣhas you have around you, all the five auras around you, made by the five elements. This brain touches the subtle of the ether, the subtle of the Mother Earth, the subtle of all the elements. By this enlightenment you have become subtle.

So we have to forget about the gross things. Gross things just follow anything that is subtle just like magnet attracts.

Once in Australia it was a Pūjā of Śhrī Gaṇeśha and the hibiscus, red flower, is the flower of Śhrī Gaṇeśha. And when we were going for the Pūjā, all around I saw this hibiscus flower coming out.

So I told the Sahaja Yogis, “Better stop the car somewhere and get hold of some of these flowers for the Pūjā." But then they forgot! You know the mantra, “Ya Devī sarva bhooteshu bhranti rupena samsthita” so the illusion [To the Devī that exists in every one in the form of illusion]. And then, they suddenly remember, “Oh Mother, we've forgotten the flowers!" I said, “It's nice you've forgotten, somebody has taken over from you. That's why you've forgotten." When we reached the Pūjā thing, the whole place was filled with baskets and baskets of those flowers! So when you forget, don't think that you have forgotten something, so something has gone wrong with you. No, it has gone to your subtle understanding, which works out in a reflex manner, but into sixteen thousand dimensions. Can you imagine an instrument with sixteen thousand wires connected with another sixteen thousand wires with another sixteen thousand wires and all the time working so efficiently? This is the work of Virāta and this is the work of this enlightened mind.

So you don't have to worry about the gross part. You want an ashram, you'll have it. [Applause.] Anything gross, mundane, will work out.

But, at this stage, you must remember that you have to just put your attention to it for a minute. Just an attention, what we say is the bandhan and it works. But the main thing one has to remember [is] that we are Yogis, we are enlightened souls. We are specially blessed people with special powers. And there are very simple ways by which can control all these mundane things. And the whole thing will happen so beautifully that you'll be surprised.

That is what one has to realise: the powers of your Sahasrāra. I've told you that sixteen powers already were there [puts Her left hand on Her heart].

So, sixteen powers that were there, were twelve of the heart and four of Śhrī Gaṇeśha, were in your brain already. And that is how you were an emotional person and you had relationships of emotions and also relationships with others of innocence as well as relationship of marriage. This was all built-in within you. But because of these kind of stupid ideas, all these natural feelings were suppressed, that nobody was a sister, nobody was a child, nobody was a brother and all these stupid ideas have finishes those beautiful feelings of flowers, of fragrance, completely destroyed it.

The false fears and the false ideas and the false prohibitions, all have ruined that part of the brain [shows the left part of the head]. The `gauche' [means left in French], correct. And the right side started working. Only

Only the right side and the connexion with the right side, with the things that we do with the right side.

Also to add it up, so many things came like industrial revolution and the war and all that, so the right side became the dominant part. And this ego developed. Ego makes you very, feel very important and you just, love becomes nothing but egocentric. In addition to that, when money became very important, then it is like somebody who is already a drunk man and a scorpion bites him. The situation was very bad. All the ways and methods, permutations and combinations, of escalating this situation, escalating this ego, was created by the same ego.

This is the most dangerous thing we have in the West. For them, even a love for a wife...

[A lady comes to give water to Shri Mataji. To the lady:] Thank you, thank you, is, it's alright.

... is a thing to be valued in money. Everything is business, whether it is church, whether it is Mafiā, whether it is politics, everything is money. Money becomes the power. Then, if money is everything, why care for chastity? Why care for innocence? Why care for art? Whatever can sell is [regarded as] art! Whatever can fetch money is a relationship! So the whole dryness on the left hand side created a problem again for the left-sided extremes to be sucked in.

So the Collective Subconscious was sucked into your subconscious mind and then to your conscious mind. And you can say that the ego reached such a point into your brain that it started getting into superego and a very messy personality was created.

So I have to tell you one thing: you are in for your ascent, you are in for getting all your powers and you are in for your Kingdom of God, but you must work out your left side with understanding of purity, pure relationships and the right side by facing it, the facing [of] your plastic ego.

When you don't want to do something, ask yourself, why am I not doing it? And when the left side is sucked in, a lethargy, an inertia sets in. All the right side gets completely drenched or completely overpowered by the left side powerful entities. People feel very tired all the time and they want always to drink or to take drugs to go to the left side and the inertia sets in. That's why there's a problem. But collectively, if we understand this is the problem, we all can work it out together. Not despising anyone, not correcting anyone, but correcting yourself and not correcting your leaders. It will work out, I am sure it will work out.

Today is a great day and I remember this France, such inertia like rock of Gibraltar. I didn't know how to move their brains; brains were made of plastic, what to do with them? Can you believe, in the first year I came three times! I went on banging in France and even English people said, “Mother why do you go to France so often?" [Laughter.] Now... even the English are comparable! I should have been equally dynamic about them and I was. It was a work of tremendous patience and love, of understanding that they are deserving cases lost in the wilderness of ego; but they are the ones who will save Europe, England and America.

May God bless you.

Contents: 1987-08-17 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Criticism, Ego, Right-sided Dangers, Ashram, Le Raincy, Paris, France

And I must say I was really amazed how in such a short time you could arrange such a nice program and such nice music. Especially the music surprised Me very much. I've never had such good poetry and such good music from the French. And this time it was really remarkable.

Now why I have called you to talk to you, because I've had no time to talk to the French separately. I thought I better talk to you here. And you are so many, I'm very happy to see that.

I must tell you that France has been the most difficult country for Me to work out Sahaja Yoga. To begin with we had Marie who was in charge of the France Sahaja Yoga and somehow or other she found it impossible to manage things. When I came for lectures there were so many people, but when I went away they all attacked her very much.

So, every third month she used to telephone to Me, “Mother, You come along otherwise I'm going to give up Sahaja Yoga. I'm not going to work with them." And whenever I came here they always used to tell Me against her, “She's like this, she's like that” and to such an extent that I told them, “Have you any replacement?" She was a very generous person. She has given her own house where I used to come and stay with her and between Me and her we would pay for the hall, for all the arrangements, for advertisement. She paid part of the money. Of course I did pay, but she paid part of the money. But the criticism was so much that I could not understand that instead of going into Sahaja Yoga, learning about Sahaja Yoga, they were just criticising her. That was their job. She had a friend. I mean she was a real good friend of hers. She also started misbehaving.

So the person who was criticising her was Alexander, very much.

So I told that, “All right, you become now the leader." Though Marie was a very deep person and was a real seeker and very truthful person and she was very generous and she never asked people for anything. But small, small things they would ask her like, “Where did you spend this money? Who has done this?" Like, I mean, it was terrible, as if they were supporting her you see. And I reached a conclusion that we have to change the leader.

So I got Alexander, because he was very critical of her. And then Alexander started staying here with his wife who was Indian. But he was much worse. He started making money here. He bought a car out of that money, did all those things. No complaints for him. No complaints. Nobody complained. Nobody told Me that he was making money like this, nothing of the kind. Nobody criticised him even. The father-in-law of this, he came here and stayed with him. And he's an Indian. He came and told Me that, “Mother, I'm really shocked. This Alexander is a cheat." And all the five, six who were living with him had joined hands with him. His wife also, she didn't know what to do, but she has confessed to Me. I didn't know what to do.

I said, “Where is Sahaja Yoga and where is this horrible leader?" He used to send Me a big bill every time I visited this place. He got a hall which was for 1,000 pounds per night. For two nights he got it and I had to pay that money. My husband used to joke that other Gurus make money, here my wife is sending money [UNCLEAR to France/for us]. I told him that, “You see, this is only for France. I'll have to work out because I'm worried about French people and I must work it out, so you please don't mind." Then, when I talked to Alexander about it, he said, “I'll have to send back my wife because now I can't afford her without the ashram, without being the leader." I said, “Don't threaten Me. If you want to send her, you send her away. I'm not going to be threatened by these things." And in Sahaja Yoga nothing is hidden, nothing is kept secret. But I didn't want to expose him or to talk against him, because, you see, it would not have been graceful to do, but I mean I was not afraid of him. I was surprised the way he was criticising Marie. He himself was such a wrong person.

So I reached a conclusion that those who criticise a good leader, there's something wrong with them and I sent a circular all over saying that no leader should be criticised. Do not try to find faults with the leader. I can look after the leader Myself.

And you better look after yourselves.

So I wanted to find out why there is so much criticism of the leaders in France. Nowhere it happened like that. Maybe that, you see, you had a revolution, French revolution and the king and queen you criticised so much and you got you freedom, so-called, from the queen.

Maybe that is one of the basic historical reasons, might be, but to criticise somebody is a sort of a historical upbringing. But, even then I would say French were wrong because Marie Antoinette, whatever she did, she did as a queen. And in Russia I went, even the czars did the same. In every country where the queen and the king lived they did the same. But she was very creative. If you see to the good points of her; you must try to see her good points. She was extremely creative person. She gave so much work to the artists. She gave them so many ideas. She made beautiful furniture. She decorated her palaces with such beautiful things. She actually gave a complete [UNCLEAR] to the renaissance development in your country. I mean, when I went to see her palace, everybody told Me, “Oh, have you seen her palace?" I mean there's nothing else to show but her palace to people now days. I mean, that's what she's done, the job. When I went to see, I saw the greatness of this lady. And I'm sure somebody must have deceived her and people criticised her for nothing at all. I just don't understand, what was there to criticise? That was the pattern of those days.

Every king and queen did the same as she did. She didn't do anything worse. She didn't kill anybody.

She didn't do anything very bad.

And if you see, say, the kings of England, horrible kings and queens; Bloody Mary and then there is, we have got this one man who marries seven wives, kills them. Horrible things they have done. And still the royalty's on. Even now the ladies make their hairdressers, like this Princess Diana and all that. All over the world they go as king and queen. The British have put their king and queen who are at a very great height. You see wherever they go, such a little country like that, you see, people call it [UNCLEAR `Ex-Great Britain']. But still, how much they are propagating and English are very proud. They would never criticise their authority of a leader. Never. While the leader who was Gavin, had a mad wife and quite a problem we had, I could see, but nobody would say a word. If I said [UNCLEAR so] they would keep quiet. And that's how today you find Sahaja Yoga has spread so well.

So, one has to remember that this is not politics. This is not some king and queen ruling you. Sahaja Yoga is a very different thing. It is your Mother loves you very much and She wants you to rise higher and higher to enter into the kingdom of God. You know what French life is, where your children are going to go, what's going to happen to them. Think of it. It's hell here; was hell once I came here. Nobody's wife is safe. Nobody's husband is safe. Everybody trying to break the family system.

So many divorces coming up. Everybody getting drunk and addicted to drugs and all kinds of things. Now AIDS coming from America. Everything is surrounding us. We are in a very big mess. We have to save our children. We have to save ourselves and we have to become pure. But with our own understanding about life, whatever they have tried has failed. You can see it around. People now believe in anarchy.

So when God's kingdom has to come on this earth, we must understand the nature of Sahaja Yoga.

When you come to Sahaja Yoga you are coming into the temple of God. All the deities want to welcome you. They want to look after you. They want to give all the blessings. And they want you to give those powers by which you can give realisation to others and improve their lives.

Now, I know that maybe this historical factor, or whatever it is, or maybe the style the media is, the way the politics is in every democratic country. We always judge others. Now the ultimate judgment that is before us is the judgment of God Almighty. We have to judge ourselves. In the Koran it is written your hand will give the witness against you. Feet will get witness against you. At the time of Qiyamah, meaning the resurrection.

So that is this time. You allow your hands to speak and they'll tell you what's wrong with you. Allow your feet to speak and they'll tell you what's wrong with you. You become like a mirror. You can see yourself clearly what you are and you can also cure yourself, correct yourself, cleanse yourself, because you've got the power to do it. You are such powerful people. But this power cannot come to you if you challenge the authority of your leaders. I have given them the authority and if you challenge them you are challenging Me directly. Moreover, how can I help you individually? You have to help yourself. And your leader has to help you.

Supposing you go to university and you have to learn something from your professor and as soon as you see the professor you start criticising his suit, or his nose. [UNCLEAR] understand the joke.

So, that is not a sign of intelligence, of pure intelligence. It's a sign of ego and ego makes a person stupid.

Is a nice story written about this in the Rāmāyaṇa, by Valmiki. [UNCLEAR It's a] Nārada, once got into the realm of ego and he started saying that, “What do I care for anyone? I am such a great celibate person. I have never married. Even Shiva had to marry. I have never married. I'm such a great Brahmachari." And, when he was walking on the road, he met two people who were sent by Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa to befool him. And Viṣhṇu had sent Him to befool this fellow, his ego.

So, these two persons came and started telling him, “You are such a handsome man. You are such a great person, greater than Shiva, greater than any of the Gods." So he became greater stupid fool. Ego, you see, swells up like this, start floating in the air. It's like a plastic. You can't see the reality. You think no end of yourself. “Ah, I am so great." And that's not reality. Now this fellow believed that he was the most handsome man going.

Then they said, “We have come to tell you that there is a beautiful woman. She's the princess and her swayamvara is going to be performed, for which you are the most suitable man, because she said she will marry the most handsome and the most intelligent and you are the most intelligent and the most handsome man." So he said, “Where is the wedding?" He said, “In Māyā Nagari." Māyā Nagari actually means a city of illusion.

So they took him there and he saw a big pandal and every arrangement made, big, a music was on and all that. And then they all sat in line, you see, waiting for the princess to come in. When the princess came out with her garland and she went round and which she was, I mean very shy. And when she faced Nārada she just laughed, she [UNCLEAR] laughed aloud, you see. Not only giggled, but laughed. And then she went ahead.

So, he asked them, “What's the matter?" They said, “We don't know. She might come back. Let us wait. She must have been very happy to see such a handsome man." But she never came back.

So they went to the, they went out and He said, “Now let me go and now rest for awhile." So he wanted to wash his face in the lake. When he looked into the water, he was amazed he was looking like a monkey.

So he got very angry with these two persons and He said, “Why did you befool me like this?" They said, “Sir, we did not befool. It's your ego which makes you out into a stupid personality. You were sitting there and criticising everybody, saying he's ugly looking, he's useless, he's good for nothing. You were the one looking like a monkey. And you were such a stupid fool, even when we told you this is Māyā Nagari you did not think that Māyā Nagari's just an illusion.

So you lived in a illusion about yourself and there was no princess. There was nothing of the kind. Only your illusion created all those things." So this is what ego is. And this ego cannot give you anything but illusion and stupidity.

Now this has to be understood very clearly, that you have to be prepared to face yourself. You are people if you are really French and if you really love your country and your countrymen, you have to become something special. Those people who are getting drowned, if you have to save them, you must know how to swim.

So, I have to tell you that please try to understand that whatever your leader has to say to you, you have to listen and you have to work it out.

Now, it happened once in Switzerland. There was one English girl married to a Swiss. She was a bhoot, absolute bhoot and she started telling people against Arneau. And they found a big majority. They all signed and sent Me all the complaints against Arneau. And then their leader telephoned to Me.

So, they said, “Mother, please ask Arneau to resign, otherwise we all will resign." Threatening Me. I said, “You better all resign. I will have Arneau." And they were shocked. I said, “And if I have made Arneau the leader, I must have seen something in that person” and things changed.

So this is one thing, because when I tell anything to Patrick, he says, “Mother I'll [UNCLEAR sell], but I don't know." He's not so sure that you will listen to him. That's why I could read that very clearly.

You like a lot other, other's, other leaders. He doesn't talk like that. And I feel very sorry. And, as you know, I play tricks. And yesterday I played a trick on him. When he told Me that some ladies used to fight and he gave them to make a nice, what you call, a quilt for Me. In that creativity they became very friendly.

So I said it openly. That's My trick. And I said that's the trick of a leader to see if he's going to be criticised. And I knew that he was criticised. Didn't like that he told Me this. He is there to tell Me about it. He has to report to Me. But if you have faith in My love, you should not doubt anything.

Now, we are here to judge ourselves and not to judge others. I know the French are very individualistic, but all the individuals now have to enter into My being. You have to all become part and parcel of the Virāt. The microcosm has to become the macrocosm. For that you have to give up your small, limited personalities. Have to become very large, big, but what do you have to surrender is your e-go. That's the stupid thing which covers you up completely in the head here and doesn't allow you to grow.

So, if you fight with it, it will exhaust you. For example your ego is here and you are here, so light falls and you fight with your own image or your shadow. Then, you're exhausted, then you say, “Mother, I've been fighting with my ego, but the ego doesn't go." It's an illusion.

[GAP]... thing is to stand under the light, under the light of enlightenment. [UNCLEAR] shadow. You don't fight yourself.

So you don't fight your ego. You must only know that it exists. You stand before the mirror and say, `Now, how do you do Mister Ego?' Now a stupid idea comes, you say, `Oh, Mister Ego, now don't tell me anything. I know it's all right, it's all right.' So, you start detaching yourself, like you say, `All right, I forgive, I forgive, I forgive. I forgive you. You get out. You get out.' Best thing is to shoe beat yourself. Then this ego business goes away. Now any idea comes into your head that, `This is very wrong. This should not have happened.' It's all right. Forget it.

Like, you see, supposing I see anything black on My sarī, I won't have it there. I'll wash it off. Supposing I think this, My sarī is Me and this, whatever is dirt on that is also Me. Then I won't leave it there. But ego is even worse that dirt and filth, because it attacks others. Also it attacks you. It comes from over activity of the brain. First thing is attacked is your liver, by which you sometimes get bilious, you don't feel like eating food, you go on throwing food, you become very fussy, you don't like this, [UNCLEAR] should not be kept like that, should be kept like that. You become, your attention becomes all the time mad.

Especially food; you don't like English food, you don't want, like Indian food, you don't like Russian food, you just like French food and then you don't even like French food. Then you go to somebody's, `Oh, I didn't like that. All very bad. This should not have been there. This carpet was really bad, that one was not all right, this one was not all right.' And that you don't like anything. You have no taste buds left in your mind. Don't like anything, how can you enjoy anything? It's like a tongue which has no taste buds, you see, doesn't like anything. And such a waste of energy I tell you. Same with dress, `I don't like this. I don't like that.' You'll get to ten store rooms, stores. You won't like this. You won't like that.

You won't like that. Then you'll be exhausted and then you'll buy something stupid and hippyish thing and come out with all your hair standing [UNCLEAR on your]. Absolutely [UNCLEAR]. I saw today one. Hairdressing, you'll go to the hairdresser, he'll be fed up. He'll just shave you off. Your attention becomes extremely disturbed.

Today we went to the stores. Every, say, I was talking, say, to him but looking at another thing.

Govinda, I'm talking to you. Looking here, there, there and the person to whom I'm talking also looking all over. The attention becomes so funny that you tell them something, they do another thing. Like in America you ask him, “What's your name?" Simple question. That person looking somewhere else. They'll say, “Did you say what's my name?" Then we'll look at another thing. I'll say, “Yes, yes. I want, just wanted to know your name." Then he'll turn another, “Did you ask for my name?" He'll go on for five minutes, then I would say, “All right, I don't ask you anything, I'll stop." You tell them something. A French lady came to Me criticising all the people here. Just to see Me she just forced into My house, came to Me and all that. I made her sit down. She was quite a big ego and all that. I gave her kumkum and I said in the night you put it here. Next day she telephones to Me, “Kumkum is very sour." I said, “What are you doing?" “I'm eating it." She said, “I didn't understand English” she said.

But I said, “I applied it here. Didn't you also see My action?" I put it in her mouth. I said, “Don't eat kumkum." Then she asked, “Did you say I should not eat kumkum?" And she's a very famous woman.

Very big people are fond of her, this, that. I don't know what sort of a woman she's in, what's wrong with her. I just don't understand it. But not only that attention gets like that, they don't have proper memory's left. They'll come and stand before you, say, “Where is Mātājī?" I'm standing there. Such a big womaṇ”Where is Mātājī?" I said, “Get a microscope now." The eyes become upside down.

Now, the attention part is all right. Now, forget about the attention. Physically what happens? You vomit every food you eat. You become thin like a TB patient. There are so many like that because there, means, what you call, cheeks gone like that. And what you see in your shops, you see, they have made models out of these mad people there. And they look so old at a young age. You see, there was a lady who was travelling with Me in train. She was a French lady and quite thin, you see and like that, so I thought she's a old lady, naturally.

So we had a seat, so I said, “I'll sleep upstairs. You better sleep downstairs." In the morning I said, she said, “Thank you very much" and all that.

I said, “No, no, after all, you see, I must respect your age and this and that, yes, yes, yes, you know." So I said, “What's your age?" She says, “My age is forty years." I said, “That's My daughter's age." What did I do with this woman, all gone like that, all wrinkled, here wrinkles. I thought I'm older I, younger than her, so I went up and she slept. She said, “I'm forty years." Really I can't believe it.

[To translator:] You told the whole story? I must say, the Italian is better than English, because you can put it in proper [UNCLEAR]. All right.

So now, [UNCLEAR]. All right.

So now, this is what happens to a person. He, such a person gets old very soon. He is such a bore.

Nobody likes such a company He may not like anyone, but such a bore no one likes.

Now, the physical side of it, that you may develop a ego by which you might get diabetes. Then you might get high blood pressure, high blood pressure. Kidney can stop working. You can get blood cancer.

You become vulnerable to any cancer. Or, your heart, you'll get heart attack. You might get palpitations.

You might get asthma. You might get cirrhosis. You might get on your hands and all that all kinds of eczemas. You might, also, ultimately end up in a state, as you call it, `ga-ga state'. Nowadays in young age. Now a disease which I say is going to come has already started. I told about that, that your conscious mind becomes helpless, that is you can move your hand if you're unconscious about it, but consciously if you want to move your hand you cannot. You get paralyzed [UNCLEAR]. With these things happening, I don't know what other things can happen. One can develop eye problems. You cannot face the sun.

And your nose and ears can get absolutely all the time sneezing, and, because the phlegm melts away, so nose starts, I mean sort of all the time it's flowing. And from your ears also you might get puss. Puss will start coming out [UNCLEAR]. Now, that's the blessings of Mister Ego.

So be careful.

To correct your ego, first thing, you should never criticise others. Never get irritated with others.

French are known to be very irritable. Once I came by My car which has a right hand driver and Doctor Szpiro driving it and it always used to go on the right hand side. Even the slightest movement, pam! pam! poom! pom peem!, everything going on all the time and they become very impatient.

So try to pace yourself. Now then be patient. You're a Sahaja Yogi. Be patient. Be patient.

But for the ladies it is even worse. In My experience I've seen when women try to dominate. Actually, a woman is like this Mother Earth. And if the Mother Earth thinks that these trees are dominating her, then what should we say? Same way if the women think that the husbands are dominating, I must say they are very wrong. Now, it's very easy to handle husbands. Mine is there, out. But if you are not wise and stupid, you think by dominating, saying things, bad things, you can manage him, you cannot. But to handle your husband, it's important that you should show that you are very submissive. And it's nice to be submissive that way. You see, because men are very simple, they have no angularities. Women have angularities because they don't live together. You see men live together so they have no angularities.

So you must know that all of them have the general [UNCLEAR friends].

First of all they must see their watch. They'll take you to the airport one hour earlier. Without getting ready they'll say, “Now, five minutes left. Three minutes left." Like that, they keep the time. Very common. Now there's a trick. These, also, boys do that to Me. Once, you know, Warren, horrid, he was, always used to take Me to the airport at least three hours early. Because airplane and airport, you see, the men become mad like that.

Airplane, going by air, to the airport means men are all mad. I mean, supposing you miss the plane. You miss the plane. That's all. You can have a nice meal there. You can talk to people. There could be some new people you might meet.

Something good might happen. Nothing of the kind. Airplane means, must run. Even they have become Sahaja Yogis, this is a bad habit they have.

So I told Warren, “See, now don't hurry Me. Now this time I'm going when I have to go. You go early." So one hour before he took all the luggage, everything, got into the new car, sat on it with somebody else and all of them drove off. I'm a housewife. I have to do lots of things in the house. I nicely did it. After one hour I started. On a much older car, which was an older car and Doctor Szpiro was driving and he said, “I'm enjoying now Mother. It's so nice. It drives so slowly. I can see the nice scenery." I said, “Very good." We reached the airport. There was no Warren. No luggage. There were two Sahaja Yogis waiting.

They said, “He called us one hour earlier. We are waiting here for one hour." After twenty minutes we find Śhrī Warren and company coming. “How are You here?" I said, “Why? I am here. What about you?" “Which way did You come? “I said, “The same way." [UNCLEAR] saw the way. “But” he said, “I never saw Your car." “I said, “I disappeared into thin air and crossed over your car, crossed over and came here." He said, “Mother you did some tricks to me I must say. You must have given a bandhan." I said, “No, [UNCLEAR] nothing. I just..." What you have to do when your husband is [UNCLEAR arguing] you off, just give him a bandhan.

Finished. For Sahaja Yoginis it's very easy. Give a bandhan to the husband. No problem. There's no need to dominate. Because you are gṛuha Lakṣhmīs, you are Shaktis and all the deities are going to help you first, before they help your husband. But, the condition is that you have to be a gṛuha Lakṣhmī first of all. You must have all the qualities of a gṛuha Lakṣhmī. If you are a dominating woman, find faults with everyone, then you are not a gṛuha Lakṣhmī at all. Especially the leader's wives are like that sometimes I've seen. They are much more dominating and much more criticising. Even no leader can do that way.

And they live in a fool's paradise. They are not leaders, but a fool's paradise, thinking they are the, what you call, the whole soul of Sahaja Yoga. These stupid women must come round and behave themselves, I'm telling you, because I've known such women become schizophrenic, because they live in imaginary world. Not leaders and they have no business to behave like that. The wives of the leaders have to look after everyone, to be kind to them and they should stand in between the leader and others, so that if the leader if supposing angry, she should say, `Now it's all right. Forgive. Forgive,' like that. That is the duty of a leader's wife.

Try to pacify. You see, that is her job, not to criticise others. On the whole, a lady should never be right-sided, because there are so many problems she will jump into... [UNCLEAR] seen these things happening in Sahaja Yoga. There was a girl who was very right-sided and she, her husband became important. Then I told her, “You better become all right." So she tried to be all right, so she had a child, but the child was born like a devil. Then the right-sided woman might have abortions. First she will not conceive. Even if she conceives, she'll have abortions. Now, if she does not have abortions and even if she has children, still the right-sided women will create children who will be devilish. They'll be spoiled children, dominate other children.

Now if you see why in the West there is so much of violence. I would blame the mothers. The mothers, instead of giving love to their children, try to dominate. You must discipline your child, but with love and should not be a dominating person to the husband and to the rest of the family, because then the child picks up. Then the children cannot be changed easily. Always right-sided children may have also physical defficiencies. [UNCLEAR] right-sided mother's children might have blood cancer, born with the blood cancer, could be born with a bad liver; all these defficiencies. And also, could be, say, born with physical handicaps. That's what you call [UNCLEAR autistic] children.

So when people say, “What's wrong?" Everything's wrong.

A pregnant woman should never see the eclipse of the sun or the moon, because if they see the sun eclipse, they'll have physical problems. The children will be born with hands like this, feet like that. And if they see the lunar eclipse, the moon's eclipse, then they will have mental problems.

So they should not spoil their children at all, but they should not also over discipline their children or shout at husbands and shout at children. They should develop a very mild, beautiful, congenial personality. I have two daughters.

One is forty years and then thirty-eight years. All these lives I've given two slaps to the younger one, very small and once to the elder one. That's all. And they're very well behaved and even now, if I say “No" to something, means no. Once My younger daughter, when she joined college, she said, “Should I wear sleeveless blouses?" So I said, “All right, go ahead." So she said, “Why don't you wear?" I said, “Because, see, I feel shy. Why should I expose My body first of all and secondly that there are Chakras which are important. They must be covered." So she says, “Then it is no criteria. Why should you have said, `Do what you like'? You should have told me that just don't do it." And she was about eighteen years of age. Not small girl. Another girl, when she was, you see, in India also they started this `teenage'. We don't have `teenage' in India, but there is a continuous life, isn't it.

But they call it `teenage'. Certain age is `teenage' and they wanted to start a magazine and they came and interviewed her and asked her, they said, “You go away, I will ask her." She was only thirteen. They said, “You have boyfriends?" She said, “No. Why should I have? I've lots of girlfriends and my cousins are there and we are very happy [UNCLEAR with each other] I don't want to trust somebody who's not known to me." So they said, “Did your mother tell you not to talk to boys?" So she said, “No, I can understand myself. Why, my mother always, if she tells me..." There's no need to tell her, but “if she tells me, she, it's for my good she tells me." The last question they asked her, “Then, but don't you feel like flying in the air like a bird?" So what she says, she says, “But let me grow my wings first." And this they published and said that she was the youngest among all the teenagers and was the wisest.

So, what I'm saying, you shouldn't spoil your children. But you shouldn't also dominate the children and your husband and the family. It's not a good thing for women at all. It's not very sweet also. You won't go to a house where everyone is standing with a broom in her hand, you see. Run away. No one likes.

Our attention should be on our spirit, on to higher things. Not how you keep your spoon, how you keep your fork, what the, no, higher things. All the time attention should be on our spirit, because we have to grow. [UNCLEAR your] vibrations on photograph in the rooms. Don't judge others' vibrations and don't be harsh to others. It doesn't behoove a Sahaja Yogi to talk harshly to each other. Doesn't behoove, leave alone meanness, selfishness, miserliness. It should be a character which should show as if there's light in that person. The meanness, talking at the back, “murmuring souls" as Christ says, criticising others, that's danger to you and to Sahaja Yoga. Meditate everyday. Be in thoughtless awareness. Any thought comes in, say, `Forgive, forgive, forgive,' and grow. Unless and until you are matured in Sahaja Yoga, you cannot really enjoy the taste of the bliss of God.

So, I congratulate you people that you've got so many people in Sahaja Yoga. Now see that they all settle down properly. Achieve what they are here for. And good news is that you are all invited to India.

Now the first chance is to be given to French this time. And be careful, because they always have bad livers.

So, we'll make all arrangements that you don't suffer from it. We'll see to it that we'll give you all that is necessary to keep the liver cool and nice, but come with the idea that you have to enter into the subtleties of that country where lots of saints have lived and feel the vibrations and not there to criticise, `Oh this telephone in bad, [UNCLEAR that] is bad, road is bad.' You can't help it. You come with the idea of enjoying it. Otherwise, you spend so much money and what comes out of it is nothing but frustration, anger, temper. What's the use? And so those who want to get married and engaged should give your details to the leaders here.

Truthfully and should tell truthfully if you want to marry outside or not, everything truthfully. There should be no hypocrisy. In Sahaja Yoga there should be no hypocrisy. If you have already a boyfriend or what, everything should be written clearly so I will know that this is the kind of a person you are. In India, nobody below the age of eighteen, a girl and below the age of twenty-one, a boy, can be married.

We can engage them. All right. And those who want to, cannot go to India and get married, also we'll arrange something for [UNCLEAR you].

Don't stick on with people who are negative. Stick on with the people who are positive, talking positively about Sahaja Yoga. Always I find, as soon as I see, I find one negative person walking to another negative person, sticking together. They've become friends. Anybody who is trying to form a group, like Madame DeFarge, you see, she was sneaking and was forming a group of people to fight. Such people we don't want in Sahaja Yoga. Anybody who tries such tricks, you should say, `I have nothing to do with it. I've had enough of it. I want to enter into the Kingdom of God.' Just one positive lecture.

Also, those who have got liver problems should take a treatment. It's very simple. For one month in summertime is the best.

No problem. Anything else? If you have any personal problem, anything, you must try one thing first of all, is to write the problem, put it in front of My photograph and say, `Mother, You look after this problem.' If it is not solved, then you can tell your leader [UNCLEAR going forward].

There are certain things which you may feel a little different, but you shouldn't get a shock. Like in Sahaja Yoga we have to respect our chastity. Women have to respect and men have to respect, because our Gaṇeśha has to be all right. Those who have come to Sahaja Yoga will be amazed, after coming to Sahaja Yoga, nobody has got AIDS. In India, which is such a large country, they found only one woman having AIDS. Then they went very thoroughly into it. They got only twelve people who have got AIDS. They too have contamination from abroad.

So this Gaṇeśha has to be strong within us. Also, like it's not inhibition like in the Catholic church. Sex is nothing in Sahaja Yoga, but a sane sex with your wife, with faithful relationship. Though it is neither Freud nor Catholic church.

Question: How long everyday should we meditate not to make any mistake or going on ego or super ego?

Shri Mataji: That's one thing you take out of your mind. You can never make mistakes. Your Kuṇḍalinī doesn't make any mistakes. It is not what time. You see it is just, if you sit before the photograph and you are getting Cool Breeze. Say about, take the Cool Breeze for about two minutes, say `Namas-kār', finished. There is no ritual about Sahaja Yoga. Like some people say, “I've not washed my hands. I've not had my bath. How will I put my hands to Mother?" She's your Mother. You can put your hands to Me any time. But you have to respect.

Question: For instance, if we didn't have respect for You before realisation?

Shri Mataji: Doesn't matter. No no, doesn't matter. Mother is very forgiving isn't She. She's the source of all forgiveness. Even after realisation, don't have respect for the time being, it's all right. Till you have not known Me, ignorance is not to be punished. But after knowing Me, after seeing the photographs of lights and everything, after giving realisation to few people, if you start misbehaving, then I can't help it. [UNCLEAR The fact is] you're climbing a mountain, slowly, slowly, when in the beginning if you fall, doesn't matter. You can again climb. But you go higher and then you fall very fast.

So your attention should be always at higher things. And doubting should be less about yourself and about Sahaja Yoga, because you have to learn so many things.

So many things people start doubting, like you say for the Pūjā, “Why this Pūjā? Why? What is the need? Why to worship this Lady? She's like us." But why these people are so anxious to do the Pūjā? [Why] do they come miles together to do the Pūjā? What is in there? What do they get? [Translation edit in tape]... when you suddenly jump. [Translation edit in tape]... I'm the person who suffers. And if by somebody says, “Pūjā, oh God” I say, “Now let's see, doesn't matter, all right, we'll have it." Now in the Pūjā they give some money. That improves your Nābhī Chakra, but I don't take the money.

Found out the solution. Whatever money you give Me, I write it down and in addition to that I put My own money and buy silver for your Pūjās, which I give to all the ashrams. Of course that's My property you see, that's why the deities are concerned, My [UNCLEAR]. And so, because first, formally people used to use plastic, you see, to give Me kumkum in a plastic. And that's not auspicious. Deities are not happy. They won't emit vibrations. Big problem. That way they are French in a way. As the French don't like it very much either.

So these questions are to be asked. In the beginning people do feel that way, but actually I don't need any money and neither I'll, you cannot give Me anything. Even if you want to give Me something I may take it, but I return it in a big way. And My husband doesn't mind it. And in a big way, in a big way. You can find out from them in every ashram what things I have given them. You can tell yourself, I mean I don't even [UNCLEAR].

Interpreter: So many things Shri Mataji you gave us.

Shri Mataji: It's like that.

So that is, this is not a money making proposition. I'm not interested in money and you shouldn't think of those little, little petty stuff. In the beginning, of course, you can't understand somebody, but later on also if you don't understand, then you cannot do Sahaja Yoga, because you're petty minded. And even if something is so obvious and you don't want to see it, that means you're blind, so what's the use of telling about some beautiful colours to a blind person.

So first try to understand your leaders, try to understand what they are telling you, try to become sensitive and try to enjoy and then I won't have to tell you anything. Also you can test your power. You see when you give vibrations to somebody does he get realisation or not? Or somebody who's sick, you put your hand and see, does he feel all right or not? Now supposing you give Me French money and I don't use it at all, then how will I know its value? If I say that you got the power and you don't use it, then how will you know if you have got power or not? Use your power on trees, on flowers, anything. You'll be surprised that it makes a difference to them. All right? So next time I'm going to see lots of French, more, brought in by you for your friends, your relations. Tell them that this is the greatest thing that they should have. We give them alcohol. They'll give them dinners. Instead of that, give them the alcohol that is eternal, because when you take this then it never comes down. You are there all the time.

[GAP] Question:... there is a problem, since he was three months old he could not drink any milk, so even in the Amṛut there is milk.

Shri Mataji: In what? Question: In Amṛut there is milk.

Shri Mataji: And did you drink that? Nothing happened? Question:... [Much laughing.] He tried to drink it yesterday, but he doesn't know what happened...

Shri Mataji: He should have taken it. But he can take now, you see, vibrated water. After some time he'll get over, all you allergies you can get over.

All right, now I think we should give some time to the other people. Are you all satisfied? And alcohol, I must tell you about alcohol one point. They always come out with Christ saying that Christ created wine in the wedding. Of course now, you see, the main thing is I have to explain all of them because there's no difference between Me and them. But it always happens that when a person lives, like Christ lived, nobody believed Him and when He died we have so many Christians now.

So now I'm living, better listen to Me. Be wiser than others. Now Christ didn't make an alcohol. What He made was the juice of the grapes which called also wine in Hebrew. The answer is it was made in a short time, you see, just like that and alcohol has to be rotten.

So it takes time.

All right? So like this many such things will come. You are Christians, you'll compare Me with Christ.

If you are Islam, Muslim, you'll compare Me with Mohammad Sahib. If you are Hindu you'll compare Me with Kṛiṣhṇa. Like they said, “But Kṛiṣhṇa never did raising of the Kuṇḍalinī." But I would say like this, that that was not his job. Whatever is My job I'm doing it. Like that, you see, it goes on and on and on.

So you shouldn't worry about all those things. First of all you become a realised Soul. You will understand everything. You'll reach the state of doubtless awareness.

So only aim should be that we should achieve that state. That is it. And whatever is needed has to be done. All right. May God bless you. Now can meet the other Austrians.

[GAP]... the reason was like this. This is the reason that we wanted to make a place like a hotel because that place is that area, according to Guido, is very rare now and people won't be able, won't be allowed to build anything there.

So I just thought best is to make some proper place, supposing if that place becomes very expensive, we should be able to sell out this, so I said make like a hotel. If you can sell that out and if we can achieve the price of the land also, then we can use that money anywhere.

So from that point of view I've changed it. All right? But now for that the money we have to collect. And those who are not going to India must donate at least a hundred pounds per year so that we can start this project here in Rome where our children are to be educated. And also we can start, later on, other projects like this wherever we have to.

So it's not much in one year to collect, people can give a hundred pounds and those who can afford should do it, or can be also fifty pounds, those who can [UNCLEAR].

So fifty to a hundred pounds is not much per year and all this money has to be sent to Arneau and we please ask Arneau to start a new account.

So the money's with him and whenever you need anything we'll try to send. [UNCLEAR You] have to make a complete idea as to what is needed, how much is needed and we should work more on barter system.

Like you can send very nice timber, say from England. And Austrian timber also he was saying there's some lady whose father wants to [UNCLEAR sell]. But first you verify what is the price, the cubic feet, because in London it's very, very cheap. Specially for these, all this, it's very cheap [UNCLEAR you have it]. Maybe there is some wood that, did they tell you that [UNCLEAR there is] for show very good wood they have got; cedar also. Oak, very good old oak they have got which you can use for making something.

So, in any case somebody can go from Italy and have a look at it, what things they have got. Note it down and what we can sell. They'll be sending you pine for other things, roof and all that, so that you will know how much you need, what you need more and they'll send it.

So this has to be first started by Italians themselves. See they should try to give hundred, all of them. Italians have to start it and then others can do also. Indians cannot send you money because that money is not working out, but they can send you chandeliers. They can send you, say, other thing like brass things. Also they might send you, I mean, if you think it's proper is another thing what we call as the furnishing. You can send it [UNCLEAR]. This is the next important thing one has to do, is to pay attention to that.

Comment: Being a collective project, there's a great value.

Shri Mataji: Going to be wonderful. That would be the first beginning of a proper ashram because we have got Shudy Camp, no doubt, but Shudy Camp has given lot of troubles and, actually I had put in lot of money in that to begin with. But here if we start in a very nice way and... Now, regarding Milano, everything is all right; working out all right.

Comment: Now we have a new ashram in Sicily.

Shri Mataji: [UNCLEAR] Milano also has a very good ashram.

Comment: Yeah, it's beautiful.

Shri Mataji: So much of left is there. What else? Any question? No question? You all have reached the state of thoughtless awareness, doubtless awareness, everything. I'm sure French will come around also. All right.

So what about you having some children? Comment: We will. If You send us some.

Shri Mataji: We must have some Dutch children also. Don't have any. Now, those people who have been with Alexander, are they still here? Please raise your hands. I would like to see.

Comment: About fifteen, twenty.

Shri Mataji: All right. I have to warn you people. I must warn you because he had a very bad effect on all of you and he was a very, a person with great inertia. And I have seen that such a person, if that comes, even may not be as a leader otherwise and has relationship with someone, then such a person doesn't go much into Sahaja.

So you have to make a deliberate effort. Beat him with shoes every day and just don't think of him, because you have to progress further. The first effect will be, that those who are new comers will see you and run away, because they'll find out. A little trace will be there of Alexander.

So it is important that you become an example for the new comers because you have been old Sahaja Yogis.

Now you remember Christ has said, “First will be last." So anyone of you thinks that, `I am the first who came to Sahaja Yoga and the person who got realisation first, I've been with Mother for so many years,' must know there's a puzzle on that. Whenever somebody tells Me, “I was the first, Mother I came to you. I was the first at the airport. I was first like this” they're saying like this. I'll tell him what I say, give this who says, “First, first, first, first, first." So I tell them, tell him that, “You are first of the first is first of you. Second and third are zero too. First of the last is last of you. First of the last is the last of you." And, please tell Me what are you. What is the first? What is the first of first? You, none of you have been guessed? Comment: The first of the first is just the first.

Shri Mataji: No, F. Second and third are zero too. And first of the last is first of you, last of you, F, o, o, l.

So, those who say, “First, I was the first. I was the first” all right, so, first of the first.

Like I reach at an airport, fellow comes to Me, “I came first to the airport. I was the first to see You.

I was the first to garland You” all right, “and I was the first to talk to You." So I would say, “I was the last to see you." So, this kind of idea is very wrong. How far are you in your realisation? How far are you in your collectivity is the point. Hear My point? How much you enjoy collective living? Now, for example, this place there are very few people who want to stay together because French cannot live together some how, but Austrians want to stay together. Now look at that. French, as the first of the first, F is there. It can mean `fine', it can mean, what else, `fantastic'.

So first I came to France. That's the first country I came to from India. And the first leader that you had was Marie. She was one of the seven first I had; broke My neck. Now, so with all that first, with all that first, first, first, be careful. Though Australia, Austria starts with `A' they are one of the last and they are doing so well. You all have to remember that we have to be first in Sahaja Yoga, first in vibrations and topmost in collectivity. That's the sign. All of you should remember this and try to beat that Alexander with shoes, [UNCLEAR] he may get a chance to come back. All right? And accept the newness of Sahaja Yoga in France.

[Shri Mataji then asks the yogis about the upcoming program of Her touring in different places, if they have seen it and if it is all right. She says:] Now, I think, anybody has any personal problem can talk to Me separately.

[Almost all Sahaja Yogis and Sahaja Yoginis receives a name.]

Contents: 1987-08-00 Guidelines for Nirmal Shakti Yuva Saṅgha, Train Trip from Mumbai to Pune, Maharashtra, India

[During Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa Pūjā in Mumbai, A.M. Pradhan made a suggestion to the collectivity in Mumbai to establish a youth organization in the city Sahaja organization in order to channelize their energies and enthusiasm in a useful and systematic manner. It was widely welcomed and it was decided to seek Shri Mataji's permission and blessings for this novel venture.] [A few days later Shri Mataji is in Bombay and on Her way to Pune in the train, Mr. Pradhan introduces this topic to Her. Shri Mataji is extremely happy and immediately gives all Her blessings and christens this organization:] Nirmal Shakti Yuva Saṅgha.

[During the entire course of the journey to Pune, for about three to three and a half hours Shri Mataji gives Mr. Pradhan the guidelines on which the development and growth of the Yuva Shakti and the individuals who are its constituents, is to take place. It is observed that as the boys and girls differ in socio-economic strata, some of them are not fortunate enough to get the much needed guidance at that age from their parents. Therefore in Sahaja Yoga it is proposed to present an opportunity to them to overcome this lacunae through the formation of Nirmal Shakti Yuva Saṅgha. Therefore the emphasis has to be on the development of the personality in order to make it much more complete so that such developed individuals could prove to be great assets to Sahaja Yoga for its propagation and serve as shining ideals for others to emulate and derive inspiration from.] [Hereafter general requirements as mentioned by Shri Mataji are listed. In particular, Shri Mataji emphasizes the importance of the knowledge in regard to the following things.] A. The Complete Story of the Divine Life of Shri Mataji This should specifically include: All the aspects of the Shālivāhana Dynasty, about Shri Mataji's time and place of birth.

About Shri Mataji's unique parents.

About Shri Mataji's role in the freedom struggle and association with greats like Mahatma Gandhiji.

About Shri Mataji's childhood and education.

And above all Shri Mataji as a Divine Ideal in Her various worldly roles as a daughter, housewife, daughter-in-law, mother, sister and also as an extremely patriotic citizen of this great country.

B. Sahaja Yoga Everything about the genesis of Sahaja Yoga (from 5th May 1970 at Nargol) to the present day status.

Everything that has been told by Shri Mataji about the subtle instrument (Deities, Nāḍīs and Chakras) in all these years through Her discourses and writings.

Everything about meditation and its various techniques and methods to keep oneself in balance and purity.

Everything about the prophesies, references and explanation about Shri Mataji and Sahaja Yoga through the ages by the various Incarnations and Saints in their utterances and writings eg. The Vedas, The Bhagavad Gītā, Koran, Gyāneshwari, The Holy Bible along with the prophesies of Śhrī Bhrigu Rishi and Śhrī William Blake.

Knowledge about the Great Swayambhū Pīṭhas (seats) of the Divine in India, especially in Maharashtra i.e. the Ashtavinayakas, the three and a half seats of Śhrī Ādi Shakti and the twelve Jyotirlingas, spread all over India.

Knowledge about the ten great Ādi Guru Incarnations and Saints like Śhrī Gñyāneśhwara, Śhrī Tukārām, Śhrī Kabīr, Śhrī Ādi Shañkarāchārya, Śhrī Rāmdās and their truly phenomenal contribution to the cause of Sahaja Yoga.

C. Art and Culture: Sahaja Yogis should know the unique and exceptional heritage of this great country. Yuva Shakti boys and girls must make every attempt to make themselves familiar with the various facets of the beauty and variety of art from different parts of India and also our great cultural traditions of hospitality, kindness to others, service to society, obedience to elders, respect for an individual's freedom etc.

D. Music It is imperative that we should be able to appreciate Indian classical music, both vocal and instrumental, as is practiced in different parts of the country. If possible, every boy and girl should be able to play at least one instrument to a reasonably competent extent.

E. Dance and Drama Classical dance forms of India are truly an expression of devotion to the Almighty and its appreciation is also essential. Drama as an expression of human values, social relevance and contemporary reflection can be studied and practiced.

Thus, in short, everything that has the Divine aesthetics as its integral feature has to be admired and understood by the Yuva Shakti.

[Hereafter general awareness items as mentioned by Shri Mataji are listed.] A. History and Geography It is important for the Yuva Shakti to be aware of the great historical figures like Śhrī Shivaji, Rani Lakṣhmībai, Rana Pratap and others along with all the great personalities produced by the Indian struggle for Independence right from 1857 to 1947. They should be able to speak about them with respect, reverence and understanding.

It is very much desirable that Yuva Shakti individuals should be familiar with the geography not only of their respective states but also their country and in fact the whole world.

They should be conversant with the agricultural produce, physical attributes and climatic peculiarities of the various parts of India and the world.

B. Current Awareness Shri Mataji expects that the young generation should be completely aware of the social, political and economic climates from a regional as well as universal point of view. Current affairs, new developments in various fields and an awareness of things around them, in general, is most desirable.

C. Communication Skills It is important that the Yuva Shakti individuals should be able to speak and understand at least two languages, apart from their mother tongue and those are Hindi and English. Ability to communicate ideas, experiences, thoughts and emotions through writing or preferably public speaking is a quality that is highly needed. For building a very strong collectivity these qualities are essential.

Apart from this Shri Mataji states that boys and girls have to specifically know the following things.

Boys should be conversant with the basic principles of electricity, household appliances and methods to repair some of the basic problems that might crop up therein. Also they should have a working knowledge of carpentry, plumbing, gardening, painting of a house, car driving and most importantly cooking.

Girls ought to know cooking. Apart from this knitting, sewing, principles of interior decoration and gardening are things that they should be familiar with.

Shri Mataji finally mentions the most basic and the most important tenets for the Yuva Shakti: 1. Yuva Shakti is an absolutely integral part of Sahaja Yoga and not a separate entity in itself.

2. Preferably Girls and Boys between the ages of 17 to twenty-five should be its members and should not be married.

3. Yuva Shakti is One i.e. Universal, in the sense that its members should not claim affliation or special attachment to any centre, city, state or country. Wherever they may go in the world, for any Sahaja function, they should always volunteer their services to the collective.

4. For smooth functioning of the Nirmal Shakti Yuva Saṅgha, coordinators who can get things organized can be appointed.

5. Yuva Shakti members have to be polite and respectful to senior Sahaja Yogis. Their hallmark should be `madhurya' or sweetness, which is a very important quality of the Viśhuddhi Chakra, which again is extremely important in strengthening the collective.

6. Boys and girls of Nirmal Shakti Yuva Saṅgha should first take care of their studies, exams and respective careers and on no account be allowed to neglect the same in the name of Sahaja Yoga work. Shri Mataji was extremely emphatic about it and said that no excuses in this regard would be tolerated.

7. Lastly Shri Mataji said that the self respect and self esteem of N.S.Y.S. members has to be respected and maintained. On no account should that be compromised.

Also please remember that nothing precludes the use of common sense.

Contents: 1987-10-04 Śhrī Rāma Pūjā (Dussehra Day), Centre International, Les Avants, Switzerland

Today we are celebrating in Switzerland the coronation of Śhrī Rāma on Dussehra Day. Many things happened on Dussehra Day. The most important was that Śhrī Rāma was coronated as a king on this day. He also killed Rāvaṇa on this day. Many may say that how can it be He killed Rāvaṇa and He was coronated on the same date? In those days in India, we had supersonic aeroplanes and, is a fact and the aeroplane's name was Pushpak, meaning the flower. It was called as Pushpak and it has a tremendous speed.

So after killing Rāvaṇa He came to Ayodhya with His wife and that was the day He was crowned.

On the ninth day, He worshiped the Goddess to get strength, Shakti, for his weapons and the tenth day He killed Rāvaṇa.

So, you can imagine how much advanced people were there at the time of Śhrī Rāma and His kingdom. The reason was the king was an incarnation; also He was a benevolent king as described by Socrates.

Śhrī Rāma's story is very interesting throughout and we have now a beautiful series about Him done by our television in India, which is sold for a very good price, maybe we might be able to present you all with one when you come there. But the story of Rāma they say was written before He was born. Even before there was any inkling of it the seer, Valmiki, wrote the whole story of Śhrī Rāma. Śhrī Rāma's birth and all that are brought forth by the Agni, the fire and He was born in the Dynasty of the Sūrya, is the sun.

So with all that, born out of the blessings of the Agni, that is fire and also was born in the dynasty of Sūrya, He was one of the mildest Avatāras you have ever had. He's known to be a very, I mean English language, formal person, in the sense sankoch, that He would go to any extent to bear upon Himself the problems than to tell others to do something. We still had many people in India like that. Like we had one prime minister, Lal Bahadur Shastri and if he was sitting in the room and there are people sitting and there's electricity was on somehow, say by light or something and he wants to put it off, he would not ask anyone to put it off. Slowly he'll get up from his seat, walk up to the switch and just put it off so that he shouldn't ask for anything. This is one of the greatest quality of Śhrī Rāma that He would not make anyone do anything for Him or order anything or would use someone for that purpose. See, He was the blessing of fire and born in the Sūrya. But what we find, those people who are born, maybe in very lowly families, in the negative families, the left-sided as you can call it, with all kinds of problems, have a terrible Āgñyā and a terrible Sūryada.

The person who is born in the Sūrya has to be extremely humble. He is the one who shows that nothing can affect him, nothing can make him feel that he is something great. Now, when we see His life further, He was a very humble man. You seen now people who try to despise others, I don't like you, I don't like, It's not good, It's very difficult, is a sign that such a person is extremely low in character, has no character at all but is low in character. Anybody who has any character is shown by the tolerance he has of other people. Intolerance is a sign of a person who is extremely egoistical and is vain, there's vanity.

Śhrī Rāma was so much loved by the people where He ruled in that state and He had the most beautiful wife of the most venerated father, Janaka and who was the beloved son of His father. But He was such an humble man, such an humble man, that in all His character you see the beauty. Like, He was going by a little boat when He went for His exile. And the one who was taking Him was an ordinary boatman.

And the boatman was feeling very much upset that he's sitting before the king of Ayodhya and he doesn't have proper clothes.

So Śhrī Rāma, who was Himself was wearing nothing but valkalas, are the clothes which are worn by the village people or worn by the people who live in the primitive areas, only kind of leaves that they have. He had to wear that because His mother, the stepmother, asked for that kind of boon from the father.

And then Śhrī Rāma just told him, Why are you worried? I am wearing this. I am no more a king.

I am sitting before you like this. You should be quite comforted. And I really don't know how to steer the boat while you know how to steer the boat so why should you be worried? Like that He kept even the people who we would call as low in society at a very high pedestal, which shows that He respected human beings. He Himself is called as Maryādā Purushottama, means He was the one who knew how far to go with someone, Maryādās, how to talk to someone, how to approach someone, while we find people who misbehave, even with their husbands, with their wives, with their children, with everyone and also outside they are about to jump on others, that's absolutely against Rāma. It's like Rāvaṇa. Even Rāvaṇa was not like this, he was also of not that nature because he had certain Dharmas within him. He was a realised Soul but he had become a Rākshasa because he became arrogant, but even his arrogance cannot be matched with many modern people and modern girls and men that I hear and see, that it is surprising they have really surpassed Rāvaṇa. Rāvaṇa only had ten heads but sometimes I feel that the modern men might have, or the women specially, might have hundred and eight heads. The arrogance, the amount of expression of hatred, is so ridiculous and makes a person look so useless, but I see such people very common and in Sahaja Yoga also they crawl somehow. Actually, such people are absolutely despised by God Almighty.

You go further with His life, see He went into the village where a very old woman who was belonging to the primitive class of beings, had very few teeth and she brought some fruits, little fruits we call as ber and she brought and gave it to Him, that Śhrī Rām, you see, I have got these for you. I don't have anything else. And these, I've tested all of them.

Actually in India, if you put in the mouth it is utishta, nobody will touch it. But she says, I have tasted all of them by piercing my teeth into it and I have seen that none of them are sour. Śhrī Rāma didn't like sour fruits, she knew, so, None of them are sour and you can have them. I mean, in a way, if it is done to somebody in the west they will hit you hard.

Immediately Śhrī Rāma rushed forward and took the bers from her hand, kissed her hand, said, All right, all right, I'm going to have them. With such enthusiasm He ate them.

So Lakshmana was little angry at that lady, What's this going on? So Sītājī said, Oh do you like them very much? He said, Yes, but I'm not going to give you anything.

She said, “No, I am your half body. You have to give me." So He gave some to Sītājī.

So Sītājī ate, Yāh, what a thing! It's like nectar of heaven I am eating.

So Lakshmana felt very jealous. He said, “Sister-in-law, can I not have a little of it?" She said, No. I can't give you. You ask your brother. I'm not going to give you. I have a very little share. Why don't you ask your brother? So he goes to his brother, he says, Can I have some more? So Śhrī Rāma smiled and gave him that ber which was eaten, or touched, or was pierced, by the teeth of a primitive woman, who is actually an outcast according to the Brahminic laws of India.

The sweetness of Śhrī Rāma, the way He used to make people feel comfortable, like I would say, an example of a oyster who gets a little stone into the body of the shell, takes out a kind of a shiny liquid and covers it with that shiny liquid and makes it into a pearl to be comfortable. Now, He didn't want His own comfort. Rāma is a little bit different that He wanted to make everyone into a diamond, or a pearl, so that the other person would shine and would look nice and that's how He felt comforted.

His qualities, if you have to imbibe, first of all we have to understand the innate situation of Śhrī Rāma.

Śhrī Rāma is placed on the right hand side of your heart, right hand side, right Heart. He's placed there.

Now in a human being there is no right Heart. If you tell somebody there's right Heart, they'll say, What, there are two hearts, or three hearts? In our Sahaja Yoga we have three hearts: one is the left, another is the right and one is the center.

Now the right Heart is a very important thing. The right Heart looks after the whole lungs, both the lungs, all the throat, the trachea, the nose, the inner part. The outer side is looked after, we can say, the features are given by Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa but the inner part of it is all done by Śhrī Rāma. They are the same, but one acts as an inner part, another as the outer part. It gives you the ears, from the inner part, Śhrī Rāma does. He gives you the eyes, in the inner part of the eyes. Now, it's so important to have the inner side all right than the outer side. Is an example of Śhrī Rāma, He never cared for the outer side or the outward looks of a person. Because He came before Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, He tried to build up the inner side of a human being.

So we can say, though He is on the right Heart, He acts through your Haṁsa Chakra and partly through your Viśhuddhi Chakra in the inner side of it. Because Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, in the inner side of it is Śhrī Rāma, is Śhrī Viṣhṇu.

So, when somebody is, say, not good looking according to the Western standard, according to Me the Western standards are rather funny because Western standards don't look like, neither like Kṛiṣhṇa or Śhrī Rāma. The person like Śhrī Rāma was a very healthy, tall person with his hands up to the knees, ajanabav, means the one who has ajanabav and He was plump, both of them were plump. They had to be plump people, because though they were born of the Agni, He was born of the Agni, but the water is the main element of Śhrī Viṣhṇu.

So they were all plump people, they were not thin like sticks as today's modern ideas are, to be thin like sticks and like TB patients.

But it doesn't mean all plump people are good. We always logically think that plump people are, if Mother says so, then plump people are good. Is not the point, the inner side of it I am saying, the inner side of it is just the opposite. Inner side of it is absolutely beautiful and absolutely full of love, affection and warmth. A person who doesn't have these things, is a sign of a person who is not a Sahaja Yogi, first of all. A person who is very loud, talks loudly, speaks loudly, laughs at wrong places must be half mad but cannot be a Sahaja Yogi.

See this softness of Śhrī Rāma goes to the extremes where I call the sankocha, the formality, the formal, but it is English language, formal is not the word, sankoch. He was once, when He was fighting Rāvaṇa, He was taking out with His arrow his ten heads one after another. And if He took out one then took out the second, the first one would come back so because he had a kind of a blessing that nobody can kill him by hitting him on his head.

So Lakshmana says, You know for definite that this Rāvaṇa cannot be killed by hitting on his head, so why don't You hit him in his heart? So He said, The reason is this, that just now in his heart is Mahālakṣhmī, the Sītā. Sītā is sitting in his heart. And how can I hit him on his heart because She's there. She might be hurt.

So what's the use of hitting on the head? he said.

He said, Because, once I start hitting him on the head fast, his attention will go there. As soon as his attention will go into his head then I can hit him on his heart. See the sankoch? See the sankoch, the way He talked.

Now, then what happened, that He was so kind once when a very ugly woman, Shūrpaṇakhā, came to entice Him. And she said, she came to entice, she said that, Rāma why don't You marry me? I mean, to a person like Rāma who is Maryādā Purushottama to ask such a horrible questions, somebody would have really beaten her up if not anything else.

So, Śhrī Rām smiled.

He said, Madam, I'm sorry. I have a wife and I believe in one wife, aika patni vrat.

So I'm sorry I can't marry you. But mischievously He says, All right, My brother is there. His wife is left in Ayodhya. You can ask.

She went to him and asked, Lakshmana why don't you marry me? She had become very beautiful. She has transformed herself to a beautiful woman. She must have gone to some beauty parlor or something, but she made herself like that and she was there.

And he looked at her so angry, he said, You, the ugly, why do you want to ask such a question? He cut her nose. When he cut her nose, that was in Nasik and that's why, nasika, means the nose and that's why you have been to Nasik, that's the place where he cut her nose. He was very angry. But Śhrī Rāma did not. He said in a way that's very convincing that, See I have a wife and I am a person who believes in My one wife.

Now the another character about Him was that He was consistent. He was never inconsistent like Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa. Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa was a diplomat and diplomacy is in being inconsistent. Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa's style was different. But in Sahaja Yoga, you can't carry on like Śhrī Rāma.

Sometimes you have to be like Parashurama also, otherwise things don't work out. Now, when it went ahead with it in His character, which was so beautiful, that you find He was such a consistent person. Whatever He said, all the life He carried that. For example, He said, I am the one who believes in one wife, aika patni vrat.

Now He had a very nice wife, no doubt, very beautiful wife, but She had gone to Rāvaṇa and He was left alone. When they wanted to start a kind of a yĀgñyā called as RājaSūrya Yagñya which was meant to be conquering the whole world, then they asked Him, You have to marry because you have to have your wife.

He said, No I can't marry because nobody could be like My wife and I can't marry. I can forego this kind of a yagñyā but I can't marry again.

So, then they said, All right, there's only one thing you can do is to make a statue of Sītā in gold and you have to use Her, that statue, as a wife representing.

He said, That I will agree. He took away all His ornaments, everything and made that statue and He did this yagñya.

So whatever He said He followed thoroughly. In His Dharma He was perfect.

Another incident is that when Sītā was lost He never slept, He never slept on a bed, always on the Mother Earth. Never slept on a bed, always on the Mother Earth. The pain He had of His wife is very well described by all the poets of India. And when Sītā left Him ultimately in a very mysterious way, She just disappeared in the Mother Earth because Mother Earth had given Her birth so She disappeared into Mother Earth. Then Śhrī Rāma became absolutely lost and He jumped in the river Sharayu and disappeared in the water element from where He had come.

Now this man had to give up His wife. In this contrast you can see the wave rising and falling of a personality. The society in which He lived, the state which He ruled, had an objection for a wife who had lived with Rāvaṇa and the public started talking about it.

So, as a good king, He just decided that His wife should be left forever. And then He sent Her on a beautiful chariot with His prime minister and His brother, Lakshmana, who took Her down and left Her, told Her, this is what has happened and that Śhrī Rāma has asked us to take you down to the ashram of Valmiki. As a result of that She got very upset and She said, She was Ādi Shakti so She doesn't have to bother. She said, You just leave Me here. Very self-respecting person. She didn't say, No, no, no, no, I'll come to Him or I'll sue Him. I'll go in the courts, get all His money. How dare He throw me out. Nothing of the kind. That's the grace of a woman.

Graciously She said, All right, now you have listened to your brother. I'm your sister-in-law, elder too.

Now you obey Me. And I tell you, as your sister-in-law, that you can now go. Leave Me here alone and I don't want you to go any further with Me to deport Me with somebody. And She was pregnant. Here if it happens, of course horrible things can happen, but in India if such a thing happens, the wife will kill herself or she won't be able to bear it. I think both things are just the same, an escape. If there's no aggression then there is recession.

But She said, No. I have to give birth to these two children. I can look after Myself, all right. Graciously He's done it, I have nothing and please tell Him not to worry about Me. And She told Śhrī Lakshmana that, All right, you look after Him, that's all I want. And She told the chief minister, the mantri, that You must look after the kingdom.

See the dignity, see the balance, see the character, the personality of Śhrī Rāma. He was called as Maryādā Purushottama. And look at His wife. She was equal to Him in every way. When She was kept by Rāvaṇa, Rāvaṇa was so frightened of Her Shakti that he would not touch Her. He used to frighten Her, say I'll do this to the women of India. I'll do this to the women of the world. I'll do that kind of a horrible thing. I'll take another birth. I'll misbehave.

She said, Do what you like. You cannot touch Me.

He could not touch Her hand, he was so frightened. And when Hanumāna brought the ring of Śhrī Rāma and presented to Her and said that, This is the ring of Śhrī Rāma.

She said, Yes, I know. How is He? He said, All right. All enquiries She had about Herself.

So He said, “Mother, I can take You on my back. I can easily take You. You come on My back and I'll take You." She said, No. I won't go with You. It's Śhrī Rāma who is a brave king, He should come Himself, fight this Rāvaṇa, kill him because he's evil and then I will go with Him with all the glory.

She was not frightened of anything. For Her, the important thing was that Rāvaṇa should be killed.

He's evil and he should be killed by Rāma. Such a great courage for a womaṇ. Both sides if you see you'll be surprised that how a woman's character is such a powerful thing. It's not a reactionary thing, My husband is like this, that's why I'm like that. Or my husband doesn't do this for me, that's why I'm like that. My husband is gone away so I'm finished. What am I to do without my husband? Nothing of the kind. She stands on Her feet.

She said No, to Hanumāna and She stands on Her feet and She says, When Rāma will come and kill this evil and remove this evil from this earth, then only He can take Me with Him. I won't go with You.

I won't escape. I won't run away. Nothing. I am going to face it Myself here. For a woman it is too much to say, to be imprisoned in a horrible person's jail or in a place which is so dangerous for Her, to say that I won't go. Whatever you may try, whatever tricks you may try, whatever you may say. I won't go. Just imagine. And Rāvaṇa was such a horrid fellow. He did all kinds of things to Her but She kept absolutely calm and quiet, waiting for Her husband to come back. Can we think of such women in modern times? So satisfied with themselves, so much in balance, so much full of confidence and strength. This is the message of Sītā's life.

The benevolence of Śhrī Rāma was shown when He started ruling the people. He was the one who cared for the needs of the people. For Him, it was important that the people whom He ruled should be happy and joyous. He looked after them with great love. He had two sons whom He looked after for a short time because they were lost with the mother, Sītā and they are the ones who found Him out in a way that Valmiki taught them how to sing the Rāmāyaṇa. And they went to Ayodhya and sang the Rāmāyaṇa. Rāma went with them. And one day in one of the yagyas, when they caught the horse of Śhrī Rāma, Hanumāna found it impossible to fight those two boys and He couldn't understand. Here now, the character of great Hanumāna One has to describe. He went and told Śhrī Rāma, I can't understand, these two boys, I can't face them. I don't know who they are.

So, Śhrī Rāma went there. And these boys were standing with their arrows. Then Śhrī Sītā appeared before them and She said, You cannot fight. He is your father.

This made Hanumāna realise it. And He said, All right, I can fight Śhrī Rāma now. Why did He leave you like this?

See the sweetness of Śhrī Hanumāna who was such a great devotee, such a great devotee of Śhrī Rāma, could see that, He has done injustice to My Mother and He stood for that. Is very sweet of Śhrī Hanumāna to do that. Hanumāna is, as you know, is the angel Gabriel who is innocence, simplicity and dynamism. His dynamism was such that as soon as He was born, He said, Better eat this sun because the sun is scorching the people in India.

So He went and gulped down the sun.

People had to say that, You see, though too the sun is scorching but it's of great help. Please release the sun. Why did you eat it off? So then He released the sun.

Hanumāna's whole life was spent in serving Śhrī Rāma. And He was such a dedicated bhakta of Śhrī Rām. Now here the contrast is also that Hanumāna had navadha, navadha siddhis, navadha siddhis, nine siddhis, anima, garima, raguma and all sorts of things, that He could become small, He could become big, so many things He had. Despite all these siddhis and the amount, the power He had, that Śhrī Rāma once asked Him that, My brother, Lakshmana, is being hit and he's very sick. I mean, he's just dying, so you go and get a particular kind of a sañjīvanī, a kind of a herb, which I want to rub on his head.

So He went there and He couldn't find it so He brought the whole of the mountain on His hand and gave it to Rāma, Now You select. I don't know. I can't find it.

That is the Hanumāna Shakti. And with all that power, He was such a humble person and such a dedicated person. This is the sign of a powerful Sahaja Yogi. Anybody who is powerful has to be humble and non-violent. Mahatma Gandhi used to say that, What is the non-violence of the weak? A weak has to be non-violent, what's so great? That's a policy or a kind of a protection that he has.

So a weak person has to be non-violent because he cannot face, he cannot protest. But non-violence of the powerful is the sign of real non-violence. Those who are powerful, if they are non-violent, that means they are quite confident of their powers. Those people who are confident of their powers, why should they aggress others? They just stand, All right, come along, what do you want? Even saying that, people run away.

So those who are violent, angry, hot tempered, jump at everyone, torture everyone, trouble everyone, are the people who are very weak charactered. Their character is weak. If their character was all right then they would not have done all these things. That's the sign of a person who is either possessed and under the influence of the possession, he's doing that; or he's too weak and he's possessed by his anger because he doesn't have that much power to bear anything.

The most powerful thing is the Mother Earth because she has a power to bear. The one who has the power to bear, is the powerful. The one who does not have any power to bear, I can't bear. I don't like. I this... Such a person is a useless thing for this earth and sometimes I feel, Why God created them? It's a headache to have a person round you, I can't eat this. I don't like this. Then why are you here? Nobody likes you either. No one likes such a person and that's why that person is always, I don't like this. I don't like that. I.

So the power of a person lies in bearing things. How much you can bear, how much you can undergo without feeling it? Like, you are say, in the jungle, you are happy. If you are in a palace you are happy. If you are with the this colour or that colour, if you are with this race or that race, if you are with this kind of life or that kind of life, you can bear it. And that bearing power gives you the calibre, the calibre to have Sahaja Yoga. It's not that this is shown, it's not that is being suffered, don't have to say, I suffer being like this. No, you don't suffer. It's just by the way. For a person who wants all the comforts, a person who wants to live with all the luxuries, but not with any kind of defects or any defficiencies, is a person is a beggar, I would say, in every sense of the word.

I mean, best things to get rid of problems is not to have them. In the sense: now I don't drive so I have no problem of driving. I don't have, I never telephone, so I don't have problems of telephones. I don't go to the banks, so I don't have problems of the banks. The best is: I don't have any income so I have no problem of income tax. Whatever bothers you, you just don't have it. Why do you want to have it? Have it and then bother about it? It seems very funny that you can get rid of anything that bothers you very easily in this world, so you need not have that kind of a thing on your head. But when the word `problem', specially in the European community `problem' is a very common word, but in English language we never learnt this word `problem'. You see only the `problem' was used when we were studying geometry, geometrical problem, but we never knew there's a problem in life. Later on when I came in contact with European community, they'll say, There's no problem. This is the problem. At least in one day hundred times they say `problem' word.

So, for a problem the solution is not to have that thing which gives you problem. You can give up anything. Anything that you want, you can give up if you know how to detach yourself from that.

Many people come and tell Me, Mother we have an ego. That's the problem.

I said, Then give up.

I mean, is simple, why do you have it? As if, you see, they want to say that, We have trouble with this thing but still we are clinging on to it. Like we are afraid of a crocodile but we want to put our foot into the mouth of the crocodile. And we have a problem that our foot will be eaten up by the crocodile. Now give up. But they will search out a crocodile, open the mouth and put the foot in it and then come to Me and say, Mother we have a problem. My foot is in the mouth of the crocodile.

To get to problems you have to get to it. But without getting to it, how will you get a problem? Say, for example, people have very silly, stupid problems. Now, the first problem somebody may have, Oh I have to get my clothes pressed. What's the need? No problem. Wear them as they are. Who looks at it? You see there are all the people who have pressed clothes. Doesn't matter what is there. If it is not pressed, it's a problem for them. It's silly things like that, you'll see very silly things.

But the greatest problem I think you have is your watch. In Switzerland, I shouldn't say so. You see the problem is like this, that now you have to go the airport. Now as soon as you tell somebody we have to go to the airport now, I have to go, you don't have to, everybody gets sort of a jumping as if standing on a jumping board. You see all of them jumping like that.

What's the matter? Mother you have to go to the airport.

So, it's all right. I have to go. What's, wrong with you? Is a problem.

I say, What's the problem? I have to go. You just know that you don't have to go at all and don't have to come to the airport. And the aeroplane, if it comes and doesn't take Me, I'm not going to come back on your heads so I'll stay in a hotel. Don't you worry.

But why are you so excited about it? The way people are excited that I must catch the plane, sometimes I feel as if they want to get rid of Me.

So, this is a problem for people who are very meticulous. Now, supposing I say, I know that the plane won't leave Me. I know, because I know many things so I have no problems, but supposing even if you think the plane you may not get, so it may not get. But if it gets you, all right. If it doesn't get you, it's all right.

So where is the problem? Either it will take you or it will not take you. What is in between? Where is the problem, I still don't understand. Either it will work out or it will not work out. Keep two possibilities. That's the only two possibilities. What is the third possibility that gives you the problem? You tell Me.

Say somebody flowes Me money, all right, so either he will give Me or he may not give Me. What is the problem? The problem is that you call it a problem and want to avoid to face the truth. If you face the truth, you will know one thing that see now this man has to give me money. All right, I'll go and face it.

I'll tell him, Sir, you have to give me the money. You have to pay me. This is your duty and if you don't pay me, you are doing wrong. You get at him and face him and tell him. But you won't do that. You'll sit at home, Oh God, it's a problem. I have to, you see, that man is not giving money? Oh God. That's a problem. Sitting here, hitting your head all the time, how will you get it? If you face it directly then you'll be amazed, there's no problem for anything. Say your car fails.

So it fails, get down, enjoy your self nicely till somebody comes along, takes you. Or, if supposing you don't get some lift, all right, stay there overnight. What is it? No tiger is going to eat you. And if the tiger has to eat you, it will eat. Where is the problem? Still I can't see. I can't see the problem. If tiger has to eat, that's already destined that the tiger has to eat. In any case, nobody dies. You'll be born again. If you look at it from that angle then you'll be surprised, most of the problems do not exist. They are like bubbles created by our own thinking, the waves of our thinking, This is the problem. That is the problem.

Like today, they said there is no hall on such and such date. All right.

Where are you having the hall? There.

If there's no hall, let us have it in the open.

So to make the best of it is, is the way Śhrī Rāma shows you. Now, what is the way He has helped us, let us see. Śhrī Rāma by His character, by His balance, His peace and His mildness and His sweetness has shown us how a king should be a benevolent king and at the same time a very loving husband and a loving father and a person in Dharma. But apart from that, He went down to Maharashtra. He arranged all these things so that He could walk down to Maharashtra bare feet to vibrate the land because Sahaja Yogis will be going one day to Maharashtra and the Maharashtra has to be a vibrated land. In Ayodhya, He never took out His shoes because He was the king there. But when He went and Śhrī Sītā, both of them, when they went to Maharashtra They took out their shoes to vibrate it. On His way, He saw a big stone which was nothing but a lady cursed to be a stone, Ahilya. And He made her, just by touch, she again came back to life. Like that, one after another He was just, by the way, as if was doing, but that was the purpose of His life to go there. And that has helped a very great achievement within ourselves, is the Śhrī Rām.

Śhrī Rāma stands for the Praṇavai, is for the vital air that we take in. For the vital air and that vital air when it gets heated up, we have to know that we are not any more with Śhrī Rām. It has to be the cool air to blow through your nose and your mouth. I don't know about you people, it happens with Me all the time. When you are angry the nostrils go up, swell up and the hot air, the hot words and everything hot, the heated eyes and everything goes up like that, curled up and you become ferocious Rāvaṇa because you have forgotten the beauty of the nature of Śhrī Rāma.

What has He done to our Center Heart is the greatest thing, that He has given you a fatherhood within yourself because Śhrī Rāma represents the fatherhood. Now what sort of a father you are, you have to decide. Those people who are not good fathers develop problems of the right Heart. Also those people who are not good husbands also develop the right Heart. This right Heart is so important because, specially in the west where the climate is so funny, you have to keep inside your rooms and closed all the time that you get all dried up inside at that time if you don't have that sweetness, that warmth, that kindness of Śhrī Rāma, you get the trouble of asthma.

So many people die of asthma in the west. On top of that, you fight with your wives, ill-treat them, you take away their money, you cheat them in their money and every way you torture them then it becomes even worse.

So it has something to do with money, in the sense, because Sītājī was Śhrī Lakṣhmī and Sītājī was the one who was the power of Śhrī Rāma.

So the Śhrī Lakṣhmī also gets annoyed with you when you are a bad father or a bad husband. That's why the Gṛuhalakṣhmī is very important. But the woman has to be the Gṛuhalakṣhmī. She should not be a shrew and then the husband is supposed to be kind to her. Then it's spoiling. That's very bad. The woman has to be a Gṛuhalakṣhmī, a beautiful woman with a very sweet nature and talking to her husband in a very sankoch manner and also looking after the children, looking after the family and looking after the guests who come to their house.

But if you encourage and run after such women who are no good, means collectively they should be good; if collectively they do not act well, collectively if they are aggressive, collectively if they are tormenting others, then such women should not be encouraged at all, but then, Tulsidas says, they should be beaten up.

Is a thing looks very bad in modern times if somebody says like that, that women should be beaten up in case they have all such qualities which disqualify them from being Gṛuhalakṣhmīs. Of course there's no need to beat, but I mean to say that what is it that you have to drive out all these baddhas from your women, very important, otherwise if you fall in this activity of keeping your wives on right lines, you might also get a right Heart and asthma ultimately. Because your wife and you are part of the society. And the society has certain laws which are very important.

There's something like Śhrī Dharma, there's something like pati Dharma, there's something like mātā Dharma, pita Dharma, everything has a Dharma. Those men who torture their wives have very bad heart.

In the same way, those who play into the hands of their wives also have a very bad right Heart. You have to be in the balance. You are the husband and she is your wife and both are responsible for keeping a very good family relationship. It's not one-sided. It's not the husband only or the wife but both of them to be in such a manner that they act according to their nature of woman and man and respect each other, love each other, share everything with each other and exist in a way that people should see that there are two wheels of a chariot, one on the left, one on the right, there's no imbalance. They are equal but not similar as I have told many a time.

Now in the case of Śhrī Rāma, He left His wife. When it came to Sītā, She left Him too. But She left Him as a woman would leave and He left Her as a man would leave. She also left Him but in a way that is suitable for a woman to do. And He did it in a way that is suitable to a king. In the same way, a woman when she acts, she has to act like a woman. The same thing she may do as the man does, but she has to be a woman or a man has to be a man.

So that's the Maryādā Purushottama, is the one who is the highest among all the men, which is all the Maryādās, all the boundaries that he observes. The boundaries are such that you do not try to overpower others or you do not try to take their seats. For example, I've seen those who are aggressive also show up in our programs, they will be the first before Me. They will be, as soon as I open the gates, they'll be somewhere there standing. They will be the first in everything. That's not being Maryādā. You should be at the back. Should be [UNCLEAR], there are leaders you have got, they can sit in front. Try to be on the back. I want to be first... then I've said once the first of the first. You know the story of first of the first.

So you become first of the first and that's what happens to you when you try to show off. And I know all of them who are like that. To be in the background is the most respectable thing to do. To go forward first, to jump forward first, to stand near the door if Mother is coming, you see. As soon as I see the person, I said, Oh back again. There's some who do Ār.tis just because to show off, some throw flowers to show off, they must be the first and, somehow or another, they get also the position because of their assertions and askings. The leaders have to be careful not to give such duties to people who really upset Me very much because of their arrogance, because of their showing offs.

I have to say one thing today that, under the circumstances, we have to decide that if the leaders don't have wives who are humble, who are kind, who are compassionate and who are Gṛuhalakṣhmīs, who are very sweet with the Collective, we'll have to cancel the husband as well as the wife from the leadership.

We cannot have leaders who have wives who are horrid. We cannot, because the wife of a leader is like a mother. There are five types of mothers described, one of them is the one who is the wife of the Guru or of the leader. And if the leader has a wife of that kind it's better in all sense he should withdraw.

Improve his wife. Do whatever is possible. Till she's all right, he should not be the leader. Is a very important thing because I have seen such women bring down the men, not only that, but bring down the Sahaja Yoga, Sahaja Yogis and the whole organization of God.

So one has to be careful and the women have to understand that if they are the wives of the leaders they have to be extremely good, kind, generous, sharing, looking after, absolutely motherly and should not tolerate nonsense and should correct when people are doing wrong. They should not report anyone to their husbands, should not take over themselves the responsibility of doing things which they are not supposed to do. If they are not of that level, they are of no use to people and they have no business to be proud of being the wives of the leaders.

From Śhrī Rāma's life we learn a lot and from Sītājī's life also. Both of them have done so much for us, bring forth such a great life. All their lives they suffered and suffered and suffered. They lived in the villages. They lived in the forest. While they were the king and the queen they had never known what is discomfort. They travelled all the way bare feet. They went through all kinds of tortures of life. Sītā was taken away by Rāvaṇa who was a horrid maṇ. She had to live with a Rākshasa, can you imagine? She lived with a Rākshasa and there She showed her greatness. The characters of different nature, like Sītā and Śhrī Rāma, they were showing the complementary attributes that there, very complementary and if that is so then the husband wife's relations are beautiful in Sahaja Yoga. That's the way it should be. I find some people are very nice.

Some leaders are extremely nice, but wives can be very hard, can be very stiff, or could be very mischievous, could be troublesome, selfish. You cannot grow in Sahaja Yoga with these qualities. It's such a luck and chance that your husband is the leader, is the highest man in your nation in Sahaja Yoga and where you have to be up to his ability, capability and his name, otherwise you have no authority.

That's why I have to tell you that on this day of Dussehra, let us decide that we are going to have Ramraj in Sahaja Yoga, where there is benevolence, there is love, compassion, security, peace, joy, discipline among ourselves. The whole disciplining is within ourselves.

What I say about Śhrī Rāma is that He Himself has put Himself into the discipline of Maryādās. In the same way, we ourselves should put ourselves into the discipline of Maryādās.

Is a very great thing that it should happen in Switzerland because Switzerland needs it the most, the blessings of Śhrī Rām. The way it is going on in this country, this very selfish, non-benevolent activities going on, ruining all the poorer nations by this kind of a selfish attitude, a very narrow attitude, very low level attitude towards the money of these poorer nations. Is important, very important for us today to pray for the emancipation of the hearts of those people who are just butchering. In these modern times, we don't have wars but financially they are butchering people, they are killing them by depriving them of their own money and their own benevolence.

So, if Ramraja has to come, then Rāma is to be born in the hearts of people who are at the helm of affairs. And that's how we have to pray to Śhrī Rām that, Be kind and compassionate so that you could be born into the hearts of these people.

May God bless you all.

And meditate, in the morning and in the evening. Then you should understand the collective temperament.

If you are not very collective, if you cannot talk to others well, if you cannot be friendly with others, if you find this kind of an inhibition in you, or a kind of a barrier, then know that you need more of collectivity.

It's not how much you adore Me and love Me, it's what how much you are a Sahaja Yogi. That's very, very important for all of you. That you have to be great Sahaja Yogis. That's My aspiration is. That's My only asking is.

Actually as you know, I am a lonely person, lonely in life and I want companions. The companions can come out of you but you have to have a level to be My companions. I am sure you will definitely achieve that level. Through humility, love, compassion, openness and softness of temperament, warmth in your utterances in your heart. A day will come when I will see you all, beautifully knit together. No quarreling at all, no arguments, no analysis, nothing needed. There is nothing to argue. If you find somebody is quarreling with you, you better report it to the leader. Not that you quarrel with each other and next day you say sorry, sorry, finished. It's like any day mundane sort on a street. You are not to fight. You are not to quarrel. At the most you can pull each others legs a little bit.

You should live in a open way, no doubt, but open way doesn't mean that you take to all bad ways and indecent ways and misbehave here. Know that you are yogis. It's very special category of people who have to have that dignity about themselves. You can't cheapen out yourself, you cannot. Whatever may be your backgrounds, past, everything, forget it. At present, before Me are sitting great yogi janas [people] and I bow to all of you.

May God bless you all.

I want to thank the Sahaja Yogis of Switzerland for organizing this so beautifully, the whole. I am still wondering if they have done this pillar for us. I mean, I can't imagine how it's done. And whole thing has worked out so well. I've been wondering about this great Singhasana [throne], they have made for Me.

They are doing everything with their heart. Full of love for Me. I mean even if they bought the gold, it is alright. Like because they have done it from their heart. I am going to leave all that for the European and the English to be used for their Pūjās. Because I know what belongs to Me is you, nothing else.

So may God bless you all. May God give you all the strength, all the courage, all the wisdom to be great Sahaja Yogis of today.

Sahaja Yogi: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: I know, I know that. All those who want to come to India must give your names as soon as possible. Those who want to get married also must give your names and fill up the forms with honesty.

Nobody should try to hide anything. It is better to be open in Sahaja Yoga. Thank you.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji, it's a little adventure that we did but I hope You will agree. We have the feeling, Shri Mataji, that only as an individual, let us say [UNCLEAR], let us say anybody else, we can't express our feelings of gratitude towards You, because You are too much higher than me, us.

So it's impossible to express through words what greatness You have given us.

So we thought we have to have, all of our brothers and sisters, because in the combined collectivity, the combined hearts, may be the quality of the expression of our gratitude should be such that You will receive that anyway. And because it is the crowning of Śhrī Rāma, it's of course Your crowning Shri Mataji. And the crown there was some little jewels Shri Mataji, we didn't tell You.

Shri Mataji: I saw all of that. I won't miss anything.

Sahaja Yogi: So it [UNCLEAR], should be little bit other than heart of Your children and the expression of the gratitude for Your protection, Your love, Your greatness and I don't know. And the second thing, what we feel through this coronation is, You are the Queen. You are the Queen of the universe. And we are Your devotees, we are Your disciples.

So if we are allowed to crown You, it means that we have to have complete adherence, allegiance and surrender. Otherwise how can we crown You? We are not even able to reach Your head because your head is reaching the Universe.

So in our heart we have tried the songs, little poems, give some little things, Shri Mataji. And some pictures and photographs from You. And through this, whatever may be the quality Shri Mataji, I am sure that all of us will be able to make this pledge of complete obedience, complete adherence, complete gratitude for You. And finally, we thought that through the image of Your photographs, through some poems and through music, we could express what I cannot express, our love for You, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Thank you.

As I told you, these are modern times. And in modern times this en masse realisation was to take place.

That was to happen. In modern times only, when people get frustrated, when they get lost, they don't know what to do, when they are deceived and cheated, then they start looking for something that is the support. This attitude of seeking was never before so much as it is today. This attitude of finding out the Truth never existed before. And this tremendous true desire to find out something beyond human life was never that in the masses.

So they are now a special category of people, a special type of people who have developed this inner sense to find out the Truth. Of course, in contrast to that, we have many more crooks these days than we ever had, many more evil people and money-makers and also we have a trend of mind which is after self-destruction.

So, it's a serious thing that happens. When a person finds he is getting lost in the mire, whatever he gets hold of he clings onto it to save himself. It could be something more dangerous than mire.

So this kind of attitude and this kind of new dimension in your awareness starts expressing itself and it shows much more sharply because of the bad background that it has. Because of the contrast we see and we feel that today's world is such a chaotic world, full of problems, full of negativity, full of cruelty and also very evil intentions. Thus we are faced to accept either to go to hell or to heaven. But this hell is created by us, by human beings for something very frivolous, useless, for something very destructive. But in our ego, like Hitler, we forget that we are in for eternal hell. In the olden days people never had heard about drugs, about AIDS, about cancer. But today it's different. That's why it is essential that Sahaja Yoga must grow fast by which you achieve mastery over yourself, that you develop a personality which is superhuman, that you develop all your powers of love and compassion to make this world beautiful.

Already you have been told about the different centers we have and about the different channels we have. Due to the modern life the imbalances are too many. Either we move too much to the right side or to the left side. When we move to the right side too much we become dry people and we develop funny diseases. And if you move to the left side you become people who could be insaned, schizophrenic or mad.

All these things come to us so natural, we take to it so naturally, we accept it so naturally these days because we have lost our balance.

To establish the balance we have to understand ourselves. And to understand ourselves we have to awaken our Kuṇḍalinī. How can you know yourself unless and until there is light within? If there is no light within, you do not know anything about yourself. You are paying attention to Me, if I say, `Please pay attention to yourself,' you cannot. Now the subtleties within us, the subtler being within us is the Spirit. The Spirit is the reflection of God Almighty in the heart and the Kuṇḍalinī is the Holy Ghost, is the Power of God which in Sanskrit language we call as Ādi Shakti, the Primordial Mother. The Primordial Mother. They say that there is God the Father, God the Son and the Holy Ghost which is a pigeon. How can Father have a Son without the Mother? But somehow they didn't want to talk about Holy Ghost being the Primordial Mother. And the Mother who specially was under challenge throughout.

Then came Mister Freud, people like him who were worshipped like, more than Christ. They spoiled the complete understanding of human beings and made them into sex points. They are nothing but sex points. How can that be? Whole animals have it. Is there no speciality of human beings? Is there nothing great about human beings? But the way this destruction started from giving stupid ideas to people went down and down and down to such a limit that people find it difficult to get out of that misidentification.

This bad misidentification comes to human beings, because he is in imbalances.

So we can say that now, in modern times there are two powers working: one which is going towards Heaven, another which is taking you to your destruction.

But God has made a beautiful instrument within you to achieve your Self-realisation, to understand it, to redeem you, to comfort you and to counsel you. Sahaja Yoga has come into existence. Of course with our mental understanding we cannot see all those things. But when we see a cancer patient being cured, an angina patient being cured, then we start thinking, `Oh God! How it has happened in ten minutes' time?' But with your naked eyes you can see the pulsation of the Kuṇḍalinī in your triangular bone, which is sacrum, if there is a obstruction in the higher Chakra. You can see the Kuṇḍalinī rising also like a movement of a current and some people can feel it also the pressures on their heads.

Some people feel their heat in their hands, some people feel the tingling if they are sick. Ultimately you can feel the Cool Breeze coming out of your head. But that's just the outward expression. Inside what happens? The first and foremost thing that happens to you that you get cured, you get physically cured, you see the cure.

You also see in your eyes a light, a twinkle. Your skin improves. Now, I'm 65 years of age, I've no skin problem and no wrinkle problem, nothing. And I've no time to look after My face at all. All troubles which are decaying, like teeth trouble, this trouble, all disappear. Then you don't become so conscious of your body, of your looks. If you see the group of Sahaja Yogis, you'll say that their faces are like lotuses, all pink, all smiling, enjoying.

So this is the first thing that happens to you that physically you get cured.

I must say in the West, though there are lots of crooks but there are many very high calibre saints born and there are many people who come to Sahaja Yoga and overnight they give up drugs and drinking and all those habits. Just they give up. It's so simple.

So many have given up smoking that I'm amazed how suddenly overnight, because you become powerful. People become extremely law-abiding, loving and compassionate. They do not indulge into such dirty habits or like the one who is now being troubling everybody. They do what they profess. It's not like, `I'm with this organization, I'm with this Guru, I'm with this church, I'm with this mosque' and indulge into criminality, get into fundamentalism, fanaticism, hatred, not at all. They are very brave people and forgiving, extremely forgiving. Forgiveness becomes their power.

Now, after that it is very amazing how their character changes. Those who hate each other: husbandwife, children-parents, family relations, bosses, with whom you are connected, you start liking everyone, seeing the good point in another. As a result, the greatest devilish people, if you forget them, everybody changes their attitude. I have seen some artists suddenly become very well-known artists. In India we can say there are ten artists at least who are today of international repute in music, have got it through Sahaja Yoga. The creativity starts expressing itself in such a beautiful manner that many architects become suddenly very well-known. Then there are painters and artists who become extremely honest, no hypocrisy. Their creativity opens their heart and when they produce, they do not think how much money they will get but they want to be honest: what they have to say they want to say. The attention from money moves towards the Spirit, which is detached. But surprising, with that detachment all money problems get solved. For example, you'll be amazed there are thousand and one miracles, I can tell you.

You never have problems with your money. You become very honest and generous and very fair. We have seen in England, where the unemployment is so high, it is impossible to get a Sahaja Yogi in England who is unemployed. It is impossible to get a Sahaja Yogi who is sick. It's impossible to get a Sahaja Yogi who indulges into criminal acts. It is impossible to get a Sahaja Yogi who is the one responsible for any kind of destruction. They do not indulge into ugly competitions. They are satisfied people. And they have told Me that they feel they are looked after so well, so efficiently. And they know that they are now the members of the Kingdom of God.

They are now the citizens there. It's not like worldly government which plays all kinds of tricks, but the Kingdom of God. Through the All-pervading Power which thinks, which organizes, which cooperates, which nourishes, above all it loves. People start singing suddenly beautifully, they start speaking English very well or French very well, or any language, suddenly they start speaking very well. Such dynamism comes and you always become very concerned about the well-being of others than your own. Apart from that you become a part and parcel of the Collective being. Now supposing, if there is a Sahaja Yogi who wants to build a house, now there are people now who are trying to build an ashram here in Switzerland.

From all over the world, all the artists, all the architects, all the workmen will come. Without any quarrels, without any problems, they'll build it with such joy as if that belongs to all of them.

So the idea `this is mine,' `this is my position,' `they are my children,' `this is my carpet' just goes in the thin air.

So when you see a beautiful carpet laid like that, you watch it without thinking, you are in thoughtless awareness. I do not have the idea of possession about it.

So I don't have to go for insurance, I don't have to worry as to it'll get dirty or what and all such ideas, all such thoughts, I just watch it and enjoy, the joy of that one who has created it. I've no headaches of My possessions, but you get so many possessions that you don't know what to do. You give it from one side and it starts pouring from the other, now you don't know how to stop this.

I give an example. Once I had two special types of sarīs, which are very rare in India and there's a particular day on which you have to give to your elders something in India.

So I was saying to My niece-in-law that, “I think this time I'll give away both of these to such and such people who are elderly and who appreciate these sarīs." So she said, “These are so rare, You have got now two only left, You want to give away all these two again?" And we were discussing in the kitchen and the bell rang. When that man came to see Me, from Benares and he said “A lady whom You had given very beautiful sarīs when she visited You last, has sent two sarīs for You." I said, “I will not take." He said “No, You have to take, she has sent it, if you give it back she will cry and weep. These are very, very rare sarīs and she has sent to You with her love." When I opened the sarīs, to My amazement, they were exactly the same that I had, those two! But in India the sarīs are never made alike, because they are made with hand, have to be all different and such rare sarīs are never alike, they are unique, but here as I saw, I was really amazed that I looked, I said to My niece-in-law, “Now see, what do you say?" She just fell down, she said, “I'm sorry." So the generosity of heart becomes absolutely genuine and enjoyable. Actually you enjoy your honesty and your virtues, you start enjoying the virtues that you have, which you were condemning yourself once upon a time. But the more is that you enjoy others who are realised Souls.

There's a beautiful incident in India where one saint, his name, he was a tailor, saint who was a tailor, but a great saint and a very deep personality. He has written many beautiful poems.

So he went to see another saint, who was just a potter, who was making the clay with his feet.

So he says, he looked at this potter and he says, in Marathi language it is, that “Oh, I came to see the Formless and here the Divine is in a form. What is my fortune that I see the Divine in form." How he appreciated, admired and adored another saint with love and genuineness. But human beings, oh, when they meet each other they'll say, “Hello, how do you do, very good, you are nice, you are excellent, this." As soon as the back is turned “Oh God! What a man, this horrible fellow, you know" and this and this and this. You cannot trust anybody what they will say on your back, you cannot trust. But Sahaja Yogis feel embarrassed to say things, good things about others but in the back they come and tell Me. This is the greatest joy-giving thing for Me that one flower can enjoy the fragrance of another flower. Is real poetry, I take it. Such beautiful people! All this happens to you, but you become such a peaceful person within. There will be turmoil all around, you'll find there will be all kinds of problems around you, but you'll be at peace with yourself, because when you are standing in the waves of water, you are frightened that these waves will eat you off. When you are in the waves of thoughts then you are frightened. But when you are in a boat, you enjoy the waves and when you know how to swim you enjoy them even better. This is the mastery you have to have. And when you are away you can see clearly the problem and you can solve it also. Not for yourself, for everybody else. Such a person is auspicious. This word has gone out of the dictionary of modern times. And auspicious person is such that when he enters the family or enters the household, enters any atmosphere, the whole thing becomes blissful. Even one glance of such a person can make a person peaceful. Because the glance has to be pure, most non aggressive. As Christ has said, “Thou shalt not have adulterous eyes." We have to really find out Christians who have no adulterous eyes, very difficult. Your eyes become so pure, so loving and so effective. Your attention becomes so enlightened that in collective consciousness you can feel the problems of another person, problems of all the group, problems of the world and with your attention you can solve it. Such an attention you develop. Then Spirit is the Absolute. It is not a compromise, it is not relative, it is absolute.

So when you ask a question, `Mother, is this the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost?' the Spirit opens out Its venue and you start feeling the All-pervading power on your fingertips more clearly, the Chaitanya, the breeze, much more, the Cool Breeze much more. You want to know if a person is a crook or not? He may be a very sweet speaker and may be a criminal. How will you make out? Through vibrations! If the person has bad vibrations, then he is a bad man. If you can make out the centers of a person, you can immediately say what is the disease, what is the problem, because whatever you feel on your fingers, fingertips, is the absolute Truth. But all this you do as a third person, you don't say, `I do it,' you say, `It is happening.' There was a lady from America, she brought her son, she is a realised Soul, she said, “Mother, give him Realisation." He could not get Realisation, so she says, “Mother please give." I said, “You give!" She said, “It does not work out, it does not work out." Third person. “I cannot give false certificates" she says. I said, “That's what it is." You cannot certify falsely someone because truthfulness becomes part and parcel of your being.

The last but not the least is the joy. Joy does not have the duality of happiness and unhappiness. It's a enjoyment just cannot be described in words, it's to be enjoyed. It's the joy that you cannot get from anything else but yourself. I mean, you are never bored, you enjoy yourself the best. It's such a feeling which cannot be explained or expressed. That shows we are all invited into the Kingdom of God to have the joy of your life. But you may say, `Then Mother, why is it many people do not come to Sahaja Yoga?' You'd better answer this question. Now see, some people who came here are stupid. What will they gain by putting this smoke here? But by getting Realisation, they'll get the blessings of God and their Spirit.

Maybe somebody has paid them little money, or maybe belonging, blindly, to some organization stupidly.

But what will they get? Not Self-realisation, not the joy of the Self, because that is the last breakthrough of your evolution. All of you have to get it, but how many will ask for it is the problem. That's your freedom.

May God bless you all! Today I don't think we'll have questions but I would suggest that please write your questions and send them over to Me, I would like to answer them. This is not on mental level you have the experience, you have to have the experience on your central nervous system.

Some did not feel, does not matter, you'll get it today. Formerly, people used to go to Himālayas, stand on their heads, starve themselves, do all kinds of penance. But today you can get it without any problem.

Now, we will have a little program by which your Kuṇḍalinī will be awakened today. It takes hardly ten minutes, have some patience with yourself and devote little time to yourself. You have to little bit understand, when I tell you that you have to take out your shoes, because this Mother Earth helps us a lot.

[Aside:] [UNCLEAR].

Now if you have anything tight, too much tight somewhere, then little bit loosen it. Be comfortable, be comfortable. You need not loosen your body, you can sit straight but not like this or like that, in a simple manner.

Now as you know the left hand side is the power of desire and the right hand side is the power of action.

You are going to use the left hand side just symbolically to place towards Me like this, expressing your desire and the right hand to be used for opening out your Chakras yourself.

So that tomorrow, when you go home you can also raise your own Kuṇḍalinī. There's nothing to be afraid of, Kuṇḍalinī is your own individual mother: She gives you your second birth without any trouble to you.

So put your left hand towards Me please, like this and before closing the eyes I'll tell you what we have to do.

You have to put your right hand on the heart first, let's now start, on the heart, keep your eyes open and in the heart resides the Spirit. Then take down this hand in the upper part of your abdomen on the left hand side. Then take this hand on the left hand side in the lower part of your abdomen. This is the center of all the Divine Laws, of the Pure Knowledge. Then raise your hand in the upper portion of your abdomen, on the left hand side. Then raise it again higher onto the heart. Then raise it between the neck and the shoulder, the hand like this and put your head on the right hand side, right hand here, left hand like this and the neck like this. This is the center mostly people catch in the West, because they feel guilty.

All right. Then take this hand and put it on your forehead and press it on the sides. Then take this hand out and put it on the back side of your head and put your head balanced on this hand, back like this. Now take out this hand and stretch it, stretch back the fingers. Now the center of this palm is to be put on top of the fontanelle bone area where there was the soft bone in your childhood. Bend your head a little and now press it hard and move it slowly, very slowly seven times, put your left hand towards Me, seven times, without feeling guilty. That's all.

Now, it's very simple, we start. Close your eyes, please. Don't open your eyes. You can remove your glasses. Don't need them. Your eyesight may grow.

The left hand towards Me. Now the right hand you put on the heart. In the heart resides your Spirit, so please ask a fundamental question to Me, you can call Me Shri Mataji or Mother, whatever you like: `Mother, am I the Spirit?' Ask the question in your heart three times. Three times.

This fundamental question leads you to another very fundamental question that if you are your Spirit then you are your master, you are your own Guru, you are your guide. Now take down your right hand and put it in the upper part of the abdomen on the left hand side. Keep the left hand towards Me. Press it hard. Now here you have to say or ask another fundamental question three times: `Mother, am I my own master?' or, `Am I my own Guru?' or, `Am I my own guide?' Ask this question three times please.

After this put your right hand on the lower part of your abdomen on the left hand side and put the left hand towards Me. Here is the center for the Divine Laws to be acted upon. Now, I cannot overcome your freedom and I would request you to ask in your freedom a question or a request, `Mother, can I have the Pure Knowledge?' This you have to say six times because this center has got six petals. After asking this question six times, your Kuṇḍalinī will start moving. Please keep your eyes shut.

[Aside:] Mathias, please come here. Call Mathias.

Six times please. Now the Kuṇḍalinī has started rising.

Some might feel, some will not feel at all if they have no problems in their higher Chakras.

Now, raise your hand to the higher Chakra on the left hand side of your abdomen in the higher part of your abdomen and press it hard. Placing the hand there, press it hard and put the left hand towards Me, this is the center of your mastery. To facilitate the Kuṇḍalinī, you have to say, with full confidence, `Mother, I am my own master.' Say it ten times.

Now raise your hand to your heart. The Kuṇḍalinī has started moving up to the heart point. Here you have to say with full confidence, the greatest truth about yourself, `Mother, I am the Spirit.' Please say this twelve times.

I must say, those who do not want to meditate should kindly leave the hall and be civil about it. You shouldn't trouble others by attention which is outside. And those who don't want to have Self-realisation, why are they wasting their time here and ours? Now, so, on the heart you have to say, again twelve times with full confidence, `Mother, I am the Spirit.' Now raise your hand in the corner, in the corner between the neck and the shoulder. Now put your right hand, put your head to your right side and put your right hand quite at the back, push it quite at the back. Here you have to say sixteen times, `Mother, I am not guilty.' Please say it with full confidence.

You have to know, you have to know that God Almighty is the ocean of grace and love, but above all He is the ocean of forgiveness: you cannot commit any mistake which His power cannot forgive.

So with full confidence say, `Mother, I am not guilty' sixteen times. Very bad.

Now, please take out your right hand and put it on your forehead and press it on both the sides and bend your head. Here you have to say, `Mother, I forgive everyone,' from your heart, how many times is not the point. Now, do not think that it is difficult, because to forgive or not to forgive is a myth. But if you don't forgive, then you play into the hands of wrong people.

Now, take the hand back, on the backside of your head, put the weight of your head on it and put it back. This is the backside of the Āgñyā. Keep the left hand towards Me, without feeling guilty, you can ask for forgiveness. For your own satisfaction you can say `Oh Divine, please forgive me if I've done any mistake,' without feeling guilty, only for your satisfaction.

Now, stretch your hand, put your left hand towards Me please. Now put the center of your palm on top of your head where there was a soft bone in your childhood called fontanelle bone area. Stretch your fingers upwards and press your palm onto your scalp. Move your scalp carefully, pressing it hard, very slowly in a clockwise manner, seven times. Here also I cannot go beyond your freedom, you have to say, `Mother, please, may I have the Self-realisation.' I cannot force you. Go on pressing it, do not give up, seven times.

[Shri Mataji blows into the microphone.] Now please take down your hand, open your eyes slowly, put your both the hands towards Me. Put your feet parallel on the ground, watch Me without thinking. Now please, put your left hand, I said the left hand on top of your head, even bend your head a little and see if there is a Cool Breeze coming out.

Now bend your head and take it little forward, I mean, it should be above your head. Bend your head.

Bend, Bend... little higher, little higher. Higher, higher. Bend your head a little more. Bend. Now. Now, put the left hand towards Me. Again bend your head and put the right hand.

Now, again, repeat, put the right hand towards Me and put the left hand on top of your head. Try to feel the Cool Breeze that is coming out of your head.

Now, please open your eyes and stretch your hands up there like this and say, or ask a question, `Mother, is this the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost? Is this the Chaitanya Shakti? Is this the Love of God, His power, the All-pervading subtle power?' Now bring down your hands please. You feel relaxed.

Now don't think.

All those who have felt the Cool Breeze out of their head or in their hands please raise both your hands.

Those who have come for the first time today might not have felt. But it does not matter, it will work out.

I would like to meet some of you, you can come on the stage, I could meet you. Most of you have felt the Cool Breeze, but it's important that the whole being should be cleansed that this tree of Divinity is established within you. For that you have to come to our center. Respect your Realisation, because it can be lost. Work it out, be humble about it. You'll feel extremely well, but it has to be brought to a steady point.

May God bless you all! I'll come next year again and... [Applause.] I would like to see you grown up as great trees of life, helping others, raising their Kuṇḍalinī, becoming great personalities.

May God bless you! If there are physical problems, they should come to the Ashram, it's better.

Contents: 1987-10-09 Śhrī Mahālakṣhmī Pūjā, Upper Room, House of Trees and Willy Maes, Masstrāt, Mechelen, Belgium

It was so very nice to come to Belgium and have so many people for our program and I must say, now we are getting to people who are very sensitive.

[After the translation:] Yes.

It is a... it is a new dimension I think, I feel, we are entering into. Because now we are really getting people who are seriously interested in their realisation and are very respectful. And that aggressiveness is much less. You don't find anybody being aggressive.

So we can say, that now the road is paved for all of you to work it out in a Sahaj manner to bring them properly to Sahaja Yoga and settle them nicely. Now this Sahaj manner should be understood. In a Sahaj manner, when they come to you, you must know they are absolutely new to Sahaja Yoga.

So first and foremost thing, you should not talk about Me. You should not tell them anything about Me; but you have to tell them about Sahaja Yoga and about yourself. Like you can say, `I had the same problem as you have.' Or you can say that `See, it took me more time then it took you.' It's a little lie, but doesn't matter. [Laughs.]

You see, because first of all, you must understand human beings. If you tell them directly `You are bad' or `You are evil; you are bootish' then they will run away, though it is true.

A lady from France came to see Me. She said that “They told me I'm evil." So I said, “No, no you are not. Who told you that?" And gradually she improved.

So you have to tell them that `You are the Spirit' and whatever is hanging on to them will be dropped out and will be cleared out by their Kuṇḍalinī.

So if that happens they feel happy and they get their benevolence. It is how beautifully you handle another person.

Now there maybe people who want to argue. With them you should say, `You know, you cannot argue it out, because it is beyond human awareness.' And you better tell them that it is... `You better take your Realisation, then we will talk about it. Not before your Realisation.' So then, if they are not getting any Realisation, you don't tell them that `There is a bhoot sitting in your left Nābhī or right Nābhī.' This is our language, Sahaja Yogi's language, not their language. Ya, so you have to be very careful to handle them very carefully.

Now there could be a problem between, say, a sad man's parent's mother and a daughter or maybe husband and wife.

So...

[Aside:] Just a minute, this side, listen to Me, all right? All of you should pay attention to Me. All right? No, no it's all right. Let her be there. It's all right, but she should pay attention this time, all right? Sit down.

So we have to tell them that `You carry on, don't worry about it, because the inner joy will start giving you strength.' Then gradually the another partner will understand you, see you're honest, your purpose and would try to appreciate you. Gradually it works out. But if it does not, then we'll see about it. Now when you handle them with love and care, you can establish them. But if they start misbehaving you also should not lose temper at all. You should be very forgiving.

Now I must say, that in Sahaja Yoga you have to respect your leaders. Of course, you might not find them perfect, maybe. Or maybe you may find them to be little bossy, possibly. But you need some bossing sometimes. And leaders must know how to also correct people, because you need correction. I met a lady, I was telling you, we had told them, that you need not have a Guru.

So, she said “No, no we must have somebody to guide us. And that Guru will guide us and also will support us, so we would like to follow him. In spite of the fact he is a very bossy fellow and he always gets annoyed with us and he takes money from us. And it's not a Guru, if he's not, if he is very soft, means he should not be kind." So we have another kind also of people who want somebody to dominate them for their spiritual ascent.

They are better people, because they want their ascent in any case. And they accept corrections, because they want their ascent. That's the first thing.

So even if the leader bosses, they like it very much. In some places people told Me, “Our Guru is very soft, we must get some strong fellow." So I leave it to the leaders, who are called as Gurus by some people to be kind, compassionate, good. But should not compromise with nonsense and laziness. Because the first thing, people get into is laziness after Sahaja Yoga. We have to be committed. Now I too have a family and I have grandchildren. My daughter has come all the way to see Me in London. She's been there for one month and I haven't been there yet. She's waiting for Me.

So it's all right, one has to do it. This is My commitment, because this is your purpose of life. And the purpose that you have mainly is to ascend and help others to ascend. You are special people, who have to do such a tremendous task. Otherwise how can we have lots of people coming to Sahaja Yoga? So the Sahaja way is to yourself improve with meditation and introspect yourself and see yourself. You must meditate and you should not see the defects of others.

The second thing to be Sahaj is to be collective. If you do not meet collectively every day, then there will be a problem. In the collective only the maturity starts. It is a living process as I told you. Now supposing a tree is growing and you take out a leaf from there and the leaf will say, `I'm going to grow by myself.' It cannot grow. It will be left out.

So that is what one has to remember: that it is a collective happening. We all have to meet and grow together.

Now, those who are not collective will disappear one day into thin air, like a dead leaf. I think people don't understand the meaning of collective happening. It is just like a tree growing and with the tree everything else that belongs to tree also grows.

So for the growth of this tree one has to remember that you have to stick onto the tree. But the tree is not going to run after you, `Stick on, stick on to me, stick on to me.' For that whatever has to be done, has to be done. You know, when the winter comes, all the leaves fall off. What they do is to create a barrier between themselves and the tree by some living process.

They create a barrier in between, there's a little bark that comes in between. Now when that happens the leaves fall off and the tree becomes barren.

Now same thing happens in Sahaja Yoga. When you do not accept the principle of Sahaja Yoga you put a barrier in between the sap and the leaf. Now when that happens, the leaf falls off.

So you have to open out yourself, your heart, everything to suck in the sap to nourish. You have to give up your Ego and Superego, your conditionings and ideas you have had from before. This is what is the surrender, is the Islam. And that is to be achieved. But that is not going to help the tree, it is going to help you.

Now some people say, “I'm not ready." Then how will you grow? Actually when a little child is born, immediately it wants to suck in the mother's nourishment. It feels it has starved all this time and it should suck mother's milk immediately. And all those are seekers, once they find their Realisation must behave in that manner. They should all give up all the conditionings and all these nonsensical ideas and immediately push themselves and also cleanse themselves fully to suck in more and more of this nourishment.

But it does not happen that way. That's why some people do not grow that fast. It is a pure intelligence that gives you that sense I think. Pure intelligence comes from pure heart and if you pay more attention to your heart, your Spirit, then it will work out. In the course of your movement in Sahaja Yoga you will see you'll be blessed. Not only that you'll have the blessings but you will have jobs, you will have money or else children will pass with flying colours. They will become obedient. Your health will improve, you will get money, you will get married, you will have nice children, wise wife, you'll get homes and ashrams.

But these are all temptations. Many people get lost in one of those. Now supposing I've to catch the plane and on the way I see very nice gardens or things, then I get down to enjoy the gardens, how will I reach the airport and the aeroplane? So these temptations must be seen as just entertainments... as entertainments. Entertainment, all right? Now our understanding of Sahaj is simple if you do not think about it. But if you start thinking you'll go mad. How can you explain that a person just like you can give Realisation to thousands? How can you explain that you can see the sun on My heart in a picture? All this pictures which are there, how can you explain? For example, you get My photographs in the sky, is a fact. How will you explain that? So it is beyond your brains.

So better not think about it. Just gradually accept the joy. I always say I've done the cooking for you and very good food. Now only thing is for you to eat it and taste it. Why do you want to know, how it was cooked, when it was kept and what else has been done to make it so tasty? You should just appreciate and enjoy. Like a painting you have, you don't think, `From where did he get the paint, how did he paint and how was he sitting, what food he must have taken, before or after?' But in Sahaja Yoga we do these ridiculous things, you know. It's very surprising, that people do not understand one simple thing: that Kuṇḍalinī has risen without thinking and not by our effort. The Kuṇḍalinī has given us this good health, good temperament and has changed us so much.

So She is going to do the job, only thing we should try to support Her and to keep our central path clean. It's very simple.

So now I feel very much encouraged to that from Holland and from Belgium we have such nice Sahaja Yogis here and also I would say it is rather difficult for some people to come to India. But try to come, because those who have been to India have settled down much better, because India has got something magical about it, that it transforms people to a deeper level. You should not come half heartedly. I feel that those who can come on [UNCLEAR literally] should not find excuses, `I'm not ready, I'm not thinking,' because such half hearted people are not going to gain anything. You have to come with full force, as I told you the newly born child, otherwise it is useless. Don't play into the tricks of your mind.

It's like a donkey, if you take a donkey lightly, then it will just start grazing anywhere it finds grass. And if it knows that the person sitting on his back is a lousy fellow or a lazy person, it will drop him. And when it knows that it can go ahead of the person then it can even kick you back. That is how your mind is. It dominates you, it sometimes starts grazing on pastures and you think that's a very good thing, you are very peaceful or else it starts dominating you.

So how to manage this donkey? Best way is to catch hold of the ears and carry it with you. Donkey is for you, you are not for the donkey.

So this is one of the hurdles, that we have very much.

As far as you all are concerned you have to know that Sahaja Yoga is to be understood not by brain, but by heart. I have known people who can give big lectures on Sahaja Yoga, can write books, but have no vibrations.

So this is not the way Sahaja Yoga is. You have to be a Yogi. That's a religion in a way in our being. That's the religion of a Yogi. Like human beings have ten valencies, a Yogi must have at least eleven valencies. And the eleventh valency integrates you with the religion. You get identified with righteousness, with compassion, with love, with assiduity, perseverance, or also detachment. That means you do not expect anything. You do it for doing's sake. You love for loving's sake. That's the best way to enjoy. You enjoy your loving capacity. You enjoy your generosity. You enjoy your forgiveness. Enjoy all these great qualities of righteousness. You'll never feel hurt. I do that all the time. That's how I'm always happy and full of joy.

May God bless you.

I bow to all the seekers of Truth.

As I have been telling before, we cannot conceive the idea of Truth. It cannot be a conception of human beings. It has to be felt on your central nervous system. As you can see Me with your eyes and can feel Me, you should be able to feel the Truth. There are many wrong ideas prevalent about the Truth.

But all the great Incarnations, all the great Prophets have said that human beings have to jump one more stage in their awareness to understand the Truth. This jumping or this breakthrough is a living process. We've got our human awareness trough our evolution spontaneously, effortlessly, through a living process. And to go further with it, it has to be a living process, which acts spontaneously.

As we have not paid anything for our evolution as human beings, we cannot pay for anything that gives us a higher life. There can be no courses about it. It's the built-in quality within us, like a seed which sprouts by itself. We don't make the seed go through any courses, nor do we make it stand on its head.

Nor do we pay any money to the Mother Earth because she is giving us such a lot of beautiful nature. But it has not been understood so far by human beings that God is not for sale. Nobody has the business to earn money in the name of God. And God's work is a living work. It is not a dead work like making some buildings or anything else of that kind.

The living work of God is to give Self-realisation to people. They have to be given the power of their Spirit, which resides within them. If this power of Spirit is not manifested in the human awareness then we can say that the evolutionary process is still incomplete. As the desire of every flower would be to become the fruit, it should be the desire of every human being to become the Spirit.

But we find human beings are lost in other types of pursuits. Pursuits that do not give you any joy, they do not give you any purpose of life; they keep you on a very mundane level of existence. Slowly and steadily human beings are realizing that now they have created a world which is like a big shock. Nobody knows what is going to happen to this world which was created by the Divine for a very great purpose.

But people do not want to budge out of their mundane living and mundane understanding of life.

But there is a category of people who are aware of this life which is not yet complete and are looking forward to something that is beyond. But perhaps they do not know what to seek. They do not know what is awaiting their seeking. They are going into all kinds of ways and methods. Any book that is published becomes a bible for people. Every book is not a bible. Anybody can take a pen in the hand, write something and publish it and also give some sort of authority of science to prove that that is the best. But which science is complete? Like people write books about food; this should not be eaten, that should not be eaten; that should be eaten. And they do not see the health of the person who has written the book. That person may be overactive; because that person has paid more attention to food, to the right side. It must be a person who lacks softness, tenderness, kindness. The variety of books that we see on the shelves should confuse everyone. The less we read would be a better idea.

Now within us lies the brain, as you know, which has got one thousand petals according to Sahaja Yoga.

So some doctors came to fight with Me; “It is not one thousand but 998 nerves." But maybe two you might not have seen. Now whatever is said by Sahaja Yoga can be proved.

So it comes to you as a hypothesis and this hypothesis is to be accepted as a hypothesis first. And then is to be verified if it is true or not. But from the very beginning, if one starts saying, “This is all no knowledge" or something like that, then how can you tell the person what is within yourself? The refusal to know anything means people are unscientific by temperament. They don't have an open mind to see for themselves and they have no courage to see for themselves.

For example, if somebody sets up a shop for spirituality, people think it is rather secure. They think that if he cheats us, we can take him to the courts, so it is better to go to a person who takes money than to a person who doesn't take any money. Now, the dilemma is this; how much are you going to pay your Kuṇḍalinī? She is your own, she is your mother and she wants to give you your realisation.

So how much are we going to pay her? You can't pay Me because I am just a catalyst. It is your Kuṇḍalinī, it is your own Spirit and it is your own ascent.

But as I said, this is the knowledge of the roots. We have the knowledge of the tree, but the trees must have the knowledge of the roots or they will become like this [pointing to pictures of trees on the walls of the hall] without any leaves and after some time they will die. Now to reach the roots, we have to be a subtler being and all the arrangements are made within us to be that.

Even a psychologist like Jung has talked about it. He got his realisation but he did not know the full knowledge about it.

So he says that we have got the unconscious at the lowest point, which is the Kuṇḍalinī perhaps. Then on top of that he thinks is the collective subconscious. Then he says there is also, above that, the subconscious; then is the conscious mind.

Because of this little mistake people think that if you go to the subconscious you will reach the unconscious, but it is not so. You can see here [Chakra Chart] in the centre is the ascending road. As you have put a central path for Me [central aisle through the hall], I don't have to jump over you or go through you to come here. And God is the greatest sensible organizer.

So the left hand side, at the extreme left hand side, you have got your collective subconscious, which is built in you from your very creation. Next to that is your subconscious. After that is the present subconscious. Now after that is the present which is the centre.

Now if you start from the right side, we can say, at the extreme right we have the collective supraconscious and then we have got the supraconscious and then we have got the conscious mind which is the present.

Now on our nerves, we have got the effect of our subconscious mind and collective subconscious mind.

Also we have got the effect of the supraconscious and the conscious mind.

So all that is dead since our creation; since we were just matter, then animals, then human beings; everything lies in the collective subconscious. And in the subconscious lies whatever we have been conditioned with. Like now I was born in India so I am an Indian. You are born in Holland so you are Dutch, like that. This is all a conditioning.

But actually we are human beings. All human beings smile the same way; cry the same way.

So first of all we have to be human beings in the purest sense.

So the conditionings from the left side have to be dropped out. But if you fight with your conditionings, they do not drop out. New habits are formed. Like the young people felt that it was too much to wear traditional dress so they took to hippyism, say to anti-culture. Then anti-culture became their conditioning. They could not get out of it. Now if they take to something else then it becomes again their conditioning. And human beings like to carry brands on their heads. They will be materialists or they will be communist, they will be capitalist or `something-ist' they will be. What about being a human being? If you are a human being, then all these things exist within you. Whatever brand you may wear, all these centers are within you. Now only the residual power of Kuṇḍalinī has to rise.

I must tell you also today, because I am here only for one day, as a result of Self-realisation what happens. The first and foremost thing that happens is that many incurable diseases get cured and you never get again sick. The second thing that happens is that many people, who want to be creative, become very creative and have a creativity flowing into them. Many people have the technique, but they do not have the creativity. And the power of creativity starts flowing through the second centre of Swādhiṣhṭhān.

By the first centre a person becomes innocent. What Christ has said, “Thou shall not have adulterous eyes." Those innocent eyes get the light in their eyes, the light of innocence. And such a person has no lust or greed in their eyes. But such powerful eyes of love that even a glance of such a person could cure you. Even a glance of this person can give you peace and all the auspiciousness could be bestowed upon you by that glance. Innocence we have lost, but it is not dead, it is there existing within you. It is like a moon covered with the clouds, but it exists and it gets awakened and enlightened when you get your Self-realisation.

In the other centre when you approach, the third centre of Nābhī, your material problems get solved.

You become a satisfied soul. You don't cheat people, you become honest. There are ten valencies [qualities, as elements also have certain properties] within us. Every human being has ten valencies while carbon has got four valencies. All these valencies are actually the inner religion within us.

Now people talk of religion. You ask somebody they will say; “I am a Hindu. I am a Christian. I am a Muslim. I am a Sikh." But they can murder people, they can steal things, they can tell lies, they can do whatever they like, like a Satan. And they think they belong to a religion. But the religion does not belong to them. The religion is so superficial and that is the reason why many people have discarded God.

There is nothing wrong with God; there is something wrong with the people who profess that they follow God. Here they are following a Satan and saying that they are following God. Then what can you do? It is just a lip service people are giving.

So the religion within is enlightened and such a person becomes extremely joyous. He enjoys his virtues and his righteousness. He enjoys his honesty and generosity. He enjoys his straightforwardness. He is rid of all the fears. You can see in the life of Christ, where Maria Magdalena was to be stoned, he had nothing to do women of that kind, he stood up before her and said that “Whosoever has not committed sin can throw a stone at Me." That is the fearlessness of a great soul.

So the fears disappear and physically the problems, also in the stomach, are completely removed. Above all, you become your own master, no habits can dominate you. We have seen people giving up their habits, even of very serious drugs, overnight.

It's like this, on my sari you say there is a black spot and I am blind I can't see; so anybody who says `You have a black spot on your sari,' I am not going to believe it. As I am identified with that black spot, I am not going to take it out either. But as soon as my eyes are opened, I see it and I clean it.

I have been speaking continuously for the whole month and somebody is smoking here. Is there somebody smoking? Please don't smoke. Please to be civil don't smoke. I can't bear it. Thank you.

Gentleman [shouting]: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: You can go at the back and smoke. Are you smoking now? It's alright. Please, don't smoke.

So you drop out all the bad habits. That is the best thing that can happen to human beings, that they become so powerful. Once you get your habits you have no will power to drop it, you become weak and you start justifying it. But when you become a very strong personality, you love yourself, love your being and you don't want to harm yourself at all. All those things that are harmful to you, you just drop out, because these are self-destructive things. But before realisation if I say that you should give up your bad habits, half of you may walk off.

So the first thing is to give you realisation. If you get your realisation, then there is no problem. I don't have to tell you. You automatically do it.

Now, another thing that happens is very important... is by the centre of the heart, which is the centre from where the antibodies are created, the antibodies to fight the diseases, to fight the foreign matter, to fight anything that is destructive. That is done until the age of twelve years; then all of them spread in the whole body and wait for orders from the centre heart below the sternum bone. Now when you get your enlightenment, in that area, the messages which are given are empowered.

So whatever messages go, they are empowered; and they make a person so powerful that he does not easily contract any disease. Say like AIDS now, Sahaja Yogis don't get aids at all, wherever they may go. Like cancer, it's curable in the early stages. Because a person gets a balance most of his physical problems are over. But the greatest boon of this centre is that such a person feels extremely secure and peaceful.

Above that is the centre of Viśhuddhi Chakra. This is the centre of collectivity; where a person realises that he is a part and parcel of the whole; that he belongs to the whole. Like this hand is serving this hand, it's actually serving itself. At the Viśhuddhi Chakra, when the Kuṇḍalinī comes, you start feeling the Cool Breeze in your hands and the power which is all pervading you start feeling. But when the Kuṇḍalinī even crosses this, but it is not fully opened out; then you don't feel in your hands, but you get your realisation alright. Such a person develops a beautiful face, very sharp eyes, nose, ears and a very dynamic brain. He doesn't think so much but ideas start pouring into his head.

When the Kuṇḍalinī crosses over this Chakra of Āgñyā... This is the Chakra of Jesus Christ, which is a cross. Both the sides of the cross you see. Your conditionings and your superego on the left hand side, as you have seen [on Chakra Chart], go to the right side as the blue conditioning. And the right side goes to the left, as the ego, yellow like bile. Both these; ego and superego, the conditionings, the sacks, are sucked in when the Kuṇḍalinī pierces through the Chakra of Jesus Christ. And you become thoughtlessly aware.

There is no thought. If you want to think you can think, but there is no invasion of thought upon you.

You develop a witness state. You start seeing the whole thing as a joke or a drama and then you solve your problems better.

Supposing you are in the water then you are afraid of the waves; waves of thoughts. But supposing you are in the boat then you can enjoy the waves very well. On top of that you solve your problems better.

You can see them clearly. But if you become the master of swimming then you can jump back into that water and can swim in it and enjoy the waves.

Now the Kuṇḍalinī enters into the one-thousand-petalled Sahasrāra. It's the brain. If you have seen the transverse section of a brain, it looks as if a lotus flower has been cut.

So every nerve has got an aura like a petal. And when a nerve gets enlightened all these petals get the beautiful light of different colours.

They look like flames, but very silent and very gentle, flames that give you a Cool Breeze.

Then the Kuṇḍalinī crosses the fontanelle bone area. You start feeling the Cool Breeze coming out of your head. The Kuṇḍalinī is the Holy Ghost, is the primordial mother. The Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost you can feel clearly on top of your head. That is how you get connected with the all pervading power of the love of God. This is real Yoga, not standing on your head and breaking your necks. You become a beautiful person, a dynamic magnetic personality. You get completely integrated; there is no quarrel between your heart and your head and your attention. Actually this is what you are. Like this instrument is made to be connected. If you do not connect it to the mains, it doesn't work. That is the situation of human beings.

So this happening is the second birth of human beings. This is the second birth. And the second birth is given to you by your own mother, individual mother, your own Kuṇḍalinī. She is very anxious to do it. And so far I have seen those who come to Sahaja Yoga assiduously, all of them have got realisation.

Maybe in one day you may not get it. It does not mean... you might get it also. But you have to settle it.

Like one light which is enlightened has to be first looked after till it is steady and the maturity is reached, then nothing can disturb it. You become the master. You yourself can raise the Kuṇḍalinī of people, you yourself can give them good health, you yourself can give them joy and happiness. There is such a lot of glory and beauty within, which has not yet manifested. You must just allow it to manifest. It is a very simple method and I am sure it will work out tonight.

So may God bless you all.

Question and answers Now if you have any questions you can ask for a little time because we are a little late already. Already feeling it? Do you speak English? Question: Yes a little bit. I was in different kind of situations and now it is here behind my eyes.

Sahaja Yogi: She has a catch on the Āgñyā Chakra she says.

Shri Mataji: I know. You have been to some Guru? Drugs?

Seeker: No. I was always by myself, in a lot of situations.

Shri Mataji: So at home? Ah, that's the wrong thing, very wrong. Sit down, sit down. I will tell you.

This kind of mistake we always make. Unless and until you are connected and if you start saying some mantras, it is like spoiling your telephone without a connection. You must, logically, get connected. I will correct it. Don't you worry; in no time. What else? In no time! The only persons we cannot help are the obstinate ones. They also join in later on, when they see others are having a nice time. Like adamant children, you see.

Yes please. Just get up; get up please, if you don't mind. Yes? Question: So many times people say that Tantrism is necessary to awaken the Kuṇḍalinī. But you don't say like that?

Shri Mataji: It is a wrong idea. By Tantrism you cannot. Tantra means the instrument and when people say Tantrism they are doing just the opposite of what should be done. For example, if you have a car and if you take out the wheel and start moving it, will it move? Tantrism is just like that, is to take out the wheel and start moving it.

Then all kinds of nonsense they do. The worst thing they do is to put dirty habits into you by mesmerism or something. The worst thing they do is to tell you that Kuṇḍalinī can be raised by the sex act. Now all the animals do the sex act. Are they going to get their Kuṇḍalinī awakened? Now if you see it clearly, the Kuṇḍalinī is placed in the triangular bone. And there is the Chakra of innocence which manifests the pelvic plexus within us. It is called the Mūlādhāra Chakra. It looks after all the excretion of the body. Now, it is placed below the Kuṇḍalinī, not above the Kuṇḍalinī.

So when the Kuṇḍalinī has to rise, it does not have to go to the excretion side. On the contrary, when the Kuṇḍalinī is rising the excretion stops automatically. The whole thing is called `urdugavati', which means going upward.

The attention goes upward.

So sex has nothing to do with Kuṇḍalinī awakening. She is your Mother and the Mother which is the purest of pure. Purity is the quality of Kuṇḍalinī, because she purifies you. If the soap that purifies you is not pure, how can you be purified? So Tantrism was accepted by the West much more than by the Indians. Indians don't like the word; because they promised they will grant a kind of an evil control over people. They also put spirits and do all kinds of things. Go and see the lives of the Tāntrikas and you'll be shocked.

What is the purpose of Kuṇḍalinī awakening? It is to become godly, to be purified. By getting into the gutters, how can you become purified? It is a logic. One may claim anything, but what have they shown? Moreover those who go to Tāntrikas are really doomed people. I have had very bad experiences of such people and they have suffered a lot, physically, mentally and materially.

So don't go near them, they are just money makers.

In India anybody can come from jail, wear that kind of a dress and walk about saying “I'm a Tāntrika." And in Germany he goes, sits in a square and all the Germans are at his feet. I mean even there are people who give horrid mantras. Like there is a Guru who gives, for 300 pounds, a mantra called `inga'.

`Ingea' or `inga', which means the scorpion's sting. And all other such stupid words, which are accepted by Western people because they don't know what it means. And they are not allowed to tell anyone; it's a big secret, a very, very big secret; because if they tell this to Indians they'll be shocked. Mostly such people are sorcerers, they call themselves Tāntrikas but they are sorcerers. They are anti-Christs and are fake and false people.

The purpose of Kuṇḍalinī is to make you godly. And if that is not achieved, it is not a Kuṇḍalinī awakening but some sort of a horrid experience. Like one fellow had blisters round his neck, up to here, on his back. And he said “My Kuṇḍalinī was awakened by somebody from Kashmir who has written books." This gentleman himself is leading a horrid life. It is when people try to do all these things to the Kuṇḍalinī, she doesn't do anything, but in the centre is sitting the deity of innocence who gets angry. And all over the sympathetic nervous system, on the left and right, the heat flows; tremendous heat. And that heat makes a person shake. They shake their hands and say these are vibrations! Not only that but they mesmerize, because people cannot see, they're no good. They stick on to wrong things and suffer.

In India we know them better than you people know. Recently one of them was arrested in Madras, who was very friendly with very rich people from Iran, rich people from the United Arab League. I can't understand how these Muslims have taken to him. They all get exposed, one by one, all of them. That's the good point about them and they quarrel among themselves, that's the second point. And the third point is that all their disciples become so weak and useless that they can't do anything with them. They all become recluses, so one should not worry about them. Actually a Sahaja Yogi is the one who is the master of the `Tantra', is the master of the instrument.

You can come forward because some people can move in. Just come forward a little bit, little bit.

Come forward. Yes, sit down. Also you can come this side. It's very cold that side. The lady should sit on the carpet. Please madam. No you are alright. I am saying for the other lady. Can you sit on the carpet, please? It's rather cold there. It's very cold. All of you should sit on the carpet, please. You see as a Mother I feel concerned.

Question: My question is, at one time I found a certain spiritual climate. Like I sort of think you're telling me about. And because of certain reasons, things that I attached it to, I forgot about it, it was lost.

And for some years I've sort of been looking for the reason, no, for the right path that I was on before.

Shri Mataji: What is she saying now? I can't hear her.

Translator: Can you ask your question in a short way?

Seeker: My question is, if I find the same that I had before, how will I know?

Sahaja Yogi: She said she had one spiritual experience some time ago but because of certain attachments she got lost, so she says “If I find it back, how will I know it's the right way?"

Shri Mataji: Now, the first thing we must know when you go to some Guru or somebody, does he take money from you? Then secondly, how is his own life and character? Thirdly, does he talk of Self-realisation or not? Fourthly, you must see his disciples; have they got any power or not. Can they give realisation to others or not? What sort of life do they lead? Are they lost people? This is the Guru.

But when you have your Self-realisation, you start feeling it on your central nervous system, the All-pervading Power of God, as a Cool Breeze. Now this is described in all the Shāstras [Scriptures]. It is described by Ādi Shañkarāchārya, as Saleelām, Saleelām means the Cool Breeze. It is described in the Bible as the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost. It is described in the Koran as “Assas." It is described in the Sikh religion, in the Zoroastras, that God's All-pervading Power is like a Cool Breeze.

Also we know that when we say you become a Christian, you are baptized here, that much they know in the church. Even the Hindus have a kind of ceremony that you are born again and the Muslims and the Jews, all of them have. But it is an artificial ceremony. Nothing happens when the priest puts his hand on your head. When you experience a true spiritual experience, you feel extremely cool, calm and beautiful. And as you allow it to grow you understand the value of your realisation and the value of your personality. Like supposing you give me some Dutch money and I don't understand what it is. I'll have to go to the market to find out the value, isn't it? In the same way when you get realisation you have to try it on others, if you can give them realisation or not, if you can work it out on them or not. Alright? Question: A question from a man who feels a bit suffocated in the city and asks whether he should leave.

Shri Mataji: No, no, no. You see, like a lotus is born in the mud and there are lots of worms and things; and then the lotus comes up and many lotuses come up and they become so fragrant that the worms run away. That is how you have to be a lotus in Amsterdam. And here you know they cut diamonds and Sahaja Yoga will make beautiful brilliant diamonds. Don't be that disheartened. You can always come and stay with Me. Alright? Question: Could you tell something about the work of the United Nations? Shri Mataji [laughing]: Naughty boy! You know My husband, do you? Do you know where he is posted and all that? My husband is one of the Secretary Generals of the United Nations. Better not say anything. No comment! But those who talk of peace have no peace within. Those people who give Nobel prizes. This Nobel Company is making all armaments; giving bribes to our people in India. Giving Nobel Prize, prize for what, peace? Another is the United Nations; it is united but not integrated. And there should be some people who are realised Souls, who can do better. Maybe it might happen.

Question: The Belgian man who was here said that you will give us realisation but afterwards we have to train ourselves because the Kuṇḍalinī can go back again. What do we have to do to continue in the state of realisation?

Shri Mataji: What's he saying?

Sahaja Yogi: He says first you get your realisation but afterwards you have to work it out. He says, what exactly do we have to do?

Shri Mataji: That we will tell you, that's correct. You have to work it out means, when the Kuṇḍalinī rises, with a force she goes up, alright, crosses over, but then you have problems; say physical, mental, emotional; so she attends to that. And if you know how to reduce her pressures; that's a little bit you have to learn. In a month's time you become an expert.

So it's not working out so much, just understanding yourself and others, just understanding. You don't have to work with your hands or anything. Just you have to understand, `What is the problem with me?', `Why the Kuṇḍalinī is not moving up?' For example now, you have a problem with your Viśhuddhi Chakra, so how to work it out is to be just understood, that's all. There is nothing much to be done.

Like, I would say, your problems you know, but some problems you don't know, which are there within yourself; and they start manifesting, you start seeing them. You have to understand how to remove those problems. And for that you have to come to the centre and ask them.

Question: Earlier you said that Sahaj Yogis do not get aids or cancer? How is it that they don't get that?

Shri Mataji: I've already told you, madam, that they don't get AIDS, because they have powerful Chakras; this Heart Chakra which produces antibodies and these antibodies get the power to fight the AIDS, so they don't get it. And they don't indulge into bad habits also.

Now it's getting late, so should we now have the realisation part? It takes about ten minutes.

You have to take out your shoes for the Mother Earth to help us a little. Those who do not want to do it can go, because you see you cannot force it on anyone. You also must know that when others are doing it, it is not civil to sit down and watch others.

[Self-realisation follows.]

Contents: 1987-10-12 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Arrival at Ashram, Josef Melichar Gasse 20, Vienna, Austria

Shri Mataji: My husband has asked Me to go there and bring that all. I told them that [UNCLEAR] small children [UNCLEAR] worked very hard. Nābhī is there why? Too much [sugar] all of them.

[Laughter.] All have worked very hard. [UNCLEAR] very hard. Nābhī should be all right.

It is such a pleasure to see you, Sabine. [Laughter.] [UNCLEAR] I've never expected, just imagine [UNCLEAR]. And I had nice lunch, very nice lunch I had. I had very good lunch, so no more lunch.

So when can you have time to go [UNCLEAR Rahul] to do this? He has to go to India for that work of; you see he has got some sort of an order to do with some stamps in India. He has to go to organize that and also he wants to help in the house because I am here.

So he was saying that you people have planned the whole thing. Akbar is there so you can go and help him a little bit, it can be done. I mean, it doesn't take much time. But for having this what you call that anti-dampness there, you see for removing the dampness. In India, we put a thick layer on the wall which is done in one day. He said the foundation must be laid that's all. Both of you should do some justice. He has gone for another work so we have to help him, in collective, isn't it?

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: I will give a very good example of the collective. It's all right.

I said you have to consider that we are like a tree, all getting the sap from one tree. Now supposing a leaf which falls off during say winter time, what she does that in between the leaf and the branch they create a kind of a cork and because of the cork nothing can go to the leaf and the leaf falls off. In the same way, if you continue with our conditionings and our false ideas, I want to have a separate house, I want to have a nice family, to have a car of my own, of my own business then you become like that leaf and then you don't grow.

So those people who say, “Oh we are meditating at home, we are doing this at home” they don't grow, because they are not getting the sap. You see they are just getting separated.

This is the point many people miss and don't understand that how is it in the collective we grow better and not out of collective.

So those who try to have their houses of a separately or say that, “No, no we would be alone and we'll have our own meditation, all that” never grow, this is the point is, never grow.

You may have but you should always be the collective. You may have, is different.

They said they've got still the money for doing the foundation and My house is now being offered for a price but you know in London it takes at least one month or one and a half month for to get the money in your hand. But he says that once he has made the foundation then he does not have to do anything in the winter time. Then he would like to wait till he comes back from India in the month of February or March. Then it's all right.

Sahaja Yogi: When should it be done till Shri Mataji?

Shri Mataji: Beg your pardon?

Sahaja Yogi: Before Christmas, before the winter, the foundation. When should it be done?

Shri Mataji: Foundation is to be done.

Sahaja Yogi: Before Christmas.

Shri Mataji: Yes. That's the problem and he had to go for this work there.

I think there has been a cosmic change because the way program was attended in Switzerland I was Myself surprised. Switzerland is the worst place for Sahaja Yoga and it was so many people, very serious people, seeking people and they sat down, they wanted to know, I mean really wonderful people came, very surprising. And then the second was this Belgium, which where I never expected even twenty people to come in, there were about four-five hundred people, very serious, very good people, very sensible. We were amazed at them. Then came this Holland, same thing. Two programs, all full. Tremendous it was, can't believe it.

And the people were so nice and also asking very nice questions and after the thing was over, they stayed back, some of them did not get Realisation, they came forward, others were sitting down nobody would leave the hall. We had to tell them, “Now it's finished now. [Laughter.] Better go home." [Laughs and laughter.] They would not go home. It's done-finished. [Laughter.] Same thing happened in Calcutta [Kolkata]. The Lions Club had arranged a program. They all got Realisation everything, everything was over, the music was over and I was about to leave. They were still sitting there.

So they told, “Now it is finished, so you can go home." You see I think it's a bliss casualty.

That's something surprising.

Our aim should be now to give Bandhan, to do Yagñya to get good people. Because if you touch the right type of people then there is no problem, but Austria is very lucky that way I must say. You get right type of people all there, you are very lucky people. But in England I have to see, we had one program arranged but now it is being decided, I have to leave for India earlier and American tour has been cancelled, because so many things are to be done still in India and I am sitting down here.

So what will, so many people coming you see so many things to be organized and, right from your kurtas to your sarīs.

[Laughs.] Such a lot of work is to be done still.

So I was thinking if I can leave by 25th or so, 24th or 25th, so if you people could just send away all the money everything in time. Then I should go and try to organize it. Because organizing itself is quite a big problem.

All right now, I think the Nābhī is better.

Sahaja Yogi: Better Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Improved. Yes it's still numb. But new people should be asked to come because what I have seen unless and until you go to India don't settle down, isn't it? There is something about it. It's a fact. One has to go to India otherwise they won't settle down. They should be prepared and be put on liver diet. [Laughter.] So as it is this is the condition. Then they go there and they have the sun then they vomit [on].

So it is better that they should be prepared here and they should be told that what caution they have to take. Of course food matters, I always tell them to give them simpler carbohydrate food as far as possible.

Sometimes of course they give you little fried things, but sometimes. But it is to be prepared in the sense that you have to take a course for about a month on liver. Better go on a liver diet.

This is a hot country after all, but better to be there because what Sabine told Me that last January when they returned it was minus 25 degrees. [Laughs.]

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, Last year.

Shri Mataji: Really?

Sahaja Yogi: Yeah, it was heavy snow fall and it was extremely cold.

Shri Mataji: He'll be back by the, I think twelfth or so you'll be back but those who want to stay on, we can arrange your stay there; no problem, to avoid the winters. [Laughter.] Minus 25.

Sahaja Yogi: Yes it's very, very cold.

Shri Mataji: That's going too far. [Laughter.] Something should be done about it, isn't it. [Laughter] It's like worse than Himālayas. [Laughs.] Yeah? And before going to London do you know that London was all drenched and there was water up to this much, the whole of south of England. People were wading through and were going in a canoe from places to places. It's terrible. But when I reached there the rain stopped. And today it was such a nice sunny day, unbelievable. Switzerland is even worse, you see. I was saying that we should have our programs in January, because January is the worst month here, than December. But they thought because of Christmas holidays it's better. But January is a much colder month.

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, it is a very cold month. It is the coldest month in fact, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Hm. Now better.

Sahaja Yogi: I think Shri Mataji the ashramites are a little bit to be blamed, we were drinking coffee working really very, very long.

Shri Mataji: That's why Heart and Nābhī is catching. Yes. It's so beautiful. But there was no need to work that hard. Worked very hard, beautiful. You see, but one thing I've seen that all events help you to improve, isn't it. Like when I went to Shudy Camps, they said half an hour before that [laughter], the situation was very bad. And I saw all of you with the tape this running [laughter] and

My husband was saying, “Let's go, let's go." I said, “No, no, no, just wait. [Laughter.] Still time, still time." He said, “No, no, they must be waiting." I said, “No, no, no, I know, I know." So I was stopping him from going.

Because I knew that there was some problem going on, still people running up and down. [Laughter.] So I came at the right time when it was all done and I said, “Now right time." [Laughs and laughter.] They were all rushing around. I know that, last minute. [Laughs and laughter.]

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji when we arrived in Shudy Camps on Friday night it was 3 o'clock in the morning and we thought everybody will sleeping but everybody was up working, from each window people were looking out and welcoming us nicely. It was such a surprise. [Laughs.] It's very good for us that we were.

Shri Mataji: Shudy Camps has done good to England very much. There's a lot of collectivity working together they have developed, this is good idea. They had finished with money, I don't know what they have done. Now they have got it they said for the kitchen. I made another type of a kitchen for them but the architect has done something else, doesn't matter whatever it is, after all architects are architects.

[Laughter.] My house was planned in India that the house was the zero point they took it the highest point, that was only where the car can arrive, highest point was zero. From there they made a big platform so the lowest point was twenty two feet and that was My room, so I would be hanging in the air. Only when you arrive in the house, when you jump out of your car you are on the ground, otherwise you are all on top. I said, “This is too much." So when the architects had gone for leave for two, three days, [laughter] I made that fellow start the house from the zero which was the lowest. I said, “You do it as I tell you, you do it." He said, “But they'll come and shout." I said, “They'll not come till I really finish all this." So I made the foundation from that point and we got a complete twenty feet height halls underneath that.

Otherwise imagine what an expense it is to build such a big platform and what a waste it would have been. Good for nothing and I have bought this land just to be on the Mother Earth, because all My life I have lived like this you see, so just to touch the Mother Earth and here you are hanging at twenty two feet with the architects' Krupa, grace. [Laughs and laughter.] So the architects came back, they were amazed. They said, “What have You done?" I said, “I have put one Tiffin carrier box on to another that's all, done nothing." They had spread it like this, one this side, one this side. What I made I put this down and put the other one on top of that. [Laughter.] Turned out very well. And we saved lot of space and all that and we could do lot of justice to the whole area. But they didn't say anything they didn't know and then they said, “Mother, now we have learned this is the way the house should be." I said, “Yes, the house should crawl upon the land, it should not be some sort of a hanging in the air business, no good." But that's labor saving, you know, but not money saving. It looks very nice because you come up and then you come with few steps down and then you come with few steps down in the drawing room see it looks very, what you should say, full of character and coziness, looks very much better than to just walk like a hospital from here to there. It has turned out very well.

Now when you will go and see, then you will know what your Mother has done.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji this is the limitation of our three dimensions, we cannot see it sometimes.

Shri Mataji: He said it. He said it. You have said it. Today only when we were coming the little box would not fit in. In the four dimensions I knew it will fit, I said, “No, it will fit." [Laughter.] And it fitted. Like you see Laurent was there and I had planned one staircase you see, you saw My staircase in Brompton Square and I told him, “Now I am resting for half an hour you fix this up." When I got up he said, “Mother this cannot be fixed." I said, “Why, why cannot be?" He was measuring it, again measuring that, measuring. I said, “Just bring it I'll fix it just now." He brought it and it went [UNCLEAR khat] into it and just fixed. [Laughter.] But the best was, this is the best miracle which cannot be explained but somebody can explain, you better explain it. We left Geneva and My vanity case and another bag was left somewhere there. When we got down in Belgium we didn't find anything there.

So these people looked into, they went up into the aircraft. It was not there. They said Mother we never brought it. It was left there, these people never gave us, we remember for definite. We had other things, flowers, this that, four five things in our hands.

So then they went to the lost-and-found, they didn't find it. We came out, we got into the car, suddenly they showed Me, “Mother is it Yours?" I said, “Yes." They said, “There was one man Indian, he brought this and he said this belongs to this lady. And he gave it to us." I said, “Who was he?" He said, “Don't know." And it was written on that Air Canada and My name. I never came by Air Canada. Now how do you explain? [Laughter.] Can you? Just can't understand. This cannot be explained. I never came by Air Canada all these years and just can't understand. And this Indian didn't tell his name, he just disappeared in the thin air, we never saw him.

Now better. What do you say?

Sahaja Yogi: It's also less thought now.

Shri Mataji: Left Viśhuddhi. That is one thing is a problem. Left Viśhuddhi is so common. Every country [no, not only] but worst was in Switzerland I think they are feeling guilty because they've got those banks.

Better now.

I don't know why you feel guilty. I think the young people feel guilty, the old people are doing wrong things, why what's the use for young people feeling guilty for the old people? You see the old people should feel guilty about it what they are doing because it's a vicious circle, you see. They lend money to this bank, what you call World Bank. Then World Bank lends money to us and it comes to all the thugs in our countries. And then all of it goes back to Swiss bank and then the Swiss bank again lends it to World Bank.

So we are in debt without doing anything about it. Isn't it funny, isn't it funny? Absolutely the way people go on doing things like that openly and they have a red cross. It's quite a contradiction in life. Like Nobel Peace Prize and this Nobel company is making weapons of war. And they give Nobel Peace Prize. What do you say to that? So now who is the other architect? No, that I know. I know you also. Who else?

Sahaja Yogi: Youcef. Is he here? He was at the airport Shri Mataji. But he is not here.

Shri Mataji: Yes, Youcef.

Sahaja Yogi: He will finish soon.

Shri Mataji: About to finish.

Sahaja Yogi: Yeah. About to finish.

Shri Mataji: Better. It's peaceful now. I think today when you sang all that we were all also became very emotional. Didn't expect all that, it's most unexpected, just unexpected.

So many things happen in Sahaja Yoga unexpectedly, such joy and happiness. Just the other fingers are now releasing.

Now I couldn't get much for you people from India because we went down to Switzerland which is a place where even if you are carrying a fountain pen from India they'll stop you, very horrible people. But I've got a little present for your leader. [Laughter.] Where is he gone? Derek? Will you bring that plastic bag. I hope it fits you, I mean I just.

It's quite a lot of left Viśhuddhi. What to feel guilty I just don't understand what do you feel guilty about? You have done nothing wrong. What have you done? Are you feeling guilty?

Sahaja Yogi: At the moment I don't.

Shri Mataji: No, no. Rather serious. What's the matter? [Laughter.] You're not to feel guilty. Who is feeling guilty? Please don't feel guilty. Don't feel guilty. I catch on My left Viśhuddhi, then on right Viśhuddhi, then on left Viśhuddhi, then right Viśhuddhi. All right, don't feel guilty. Just say to yourself, `Mother, I am not guilty.' For what to feel guilty I just don't understand.

Austria is doing the best. They say that in the whole of Europe Austria has done the best. Now what is there to feel bad. All very proud of it and that we have such good people in Austria, such good people are coming to Sahaja Yoga. Really some very substantial people are here. Alganesh telephoned to say that we have got a huge big lined up people for interview for this, for that. [Laughs.] As soon as I arrived there they are going to stand with Me asking this is this, this is this, this is this. I tell, “Baba, give Me some time." She said, “Mother, they are so many I don't know what to do with them."

Sahaja Yogi: We have tried our best with the press Shri Mataji, but we are still not comparable to Italy, what this is concerned. The public relation is still very closed.

Shri Mataji: It's good, there's no need to bother. See mostly they're very rude people, give distorted things, better not to have them anywhere there. I don't like them at all. They're not at all constructive.

Not this one no, no, no-no, no, no, no, not this one. The other one, the other one with My shawl. Not this one. This is for India.

Now has he got it or not? I hope he's not lost it.

Sahaja Yogi: No. I think we put it in.

[Applause and laughter.]

Shri Mataji: It's a silk coat. It is not from Delhi, it is from Paris. I hope you like it.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji last time I got a golden tie and this time is the jacket, it fits fantastic together.

Thank you very much Shri Mataji!

Shri Mataji: May God bless you! [Applause.] You see just see how I know My children so well. [Laughter and laughs.] Fitting so well ah. Beautiful it looks. Like, it's very good.

Sahaja Yogi: Exactly the right size Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Ah.

Sahaja Yogi: Bolo Śhrī Ādi Shakti Śhrī Nirmalā Devī Ki Jay! [Shri Mataji is laughing.]

Shri Mataji: What a pleasure. This is My shawl for Me.

So now I'll go and take some rest. But no lunch for Me please, because I had lunch. She arranged a very good lunch for Me and I ate a very good cake also. I never eat cake normally, you know, but she had made a special one which one was made out of just nuts. Beautiful it was, very light and nice she had made. Looks very nice on you, I must say.

[Laughter.] Even the hair goes well. [Laughter.]

Sahaja Yogi: I mean if you see with the other tie Shri Mataji, it fits exactly. I got a tie from You, it fits exactly to this jacket.

Shri Mataji: Really? [Laughter.] But how it fits you just see. And I bought it in America, made in Paris. [Laughter.] May God bless you! May God bless you all! Thank you very much! Thank you! Ah hello, how are you, these two babies and [UNCLEAR] everyone there.

Sahaja Yogi: This is the Viennese ag, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: That is what I asked what is your ag?

Sahaja Yogi: That's the Viennese ag, Austrian ag.

Shri Mataji: It's the mothers' colour.

Sahaja Yogi: It's from the Monarchy, the crown and the symbol of the labor and those are the. Also the liberty, the chain which has been...

Shri Mataji: Broken.

Sahaja Yogi: Broken, yes.

Shri Mataji: [UNCLEAR] you feel you are walking in the garden [UNCLEAR] you won't believe in My garden [UNCLEAR] flowers with beautiful fragrance because they are vibrated. But I don't know what happened. [UNCLEAR] they say they have never seen that [UNCLEAR].

Contents: 1987-10-12*, Public Program, Day 1, Auditorium Maximum, University, Vienna, Austria

I bow to all the seekers of Truth. The truth is beyond human awareness. Whatever we know about this world, what we see, what we feel, is a very wee bit. The truth is that in your evolutionary process you have not yet touched the Absolute. And the truth has to be absolute. Now you see those plants here, everybody sees the plants and everybody knows it is the plants. But everybody asks Me why there are so many ideologies and philosophies about reality. Reality has to be one and absolute. And is seen, felt by everyone.

Now what you have seen here, what he has told you I would say is the knowledge of the roots. In the West we have grown outside like a tree, but in the East people had time to find out the roots. As Indians had to learn a lot about science, I think it's important that all of us should know also about the science of the roots. A scientific mind has to be an open mind; it should not be a closed mind, which does not want to see the other side of it. If a hypothesis is put before a scientist, he works it out and if it is proved correct he accepts it as laws.

So the hypothesis is first to be listened to, then if it is proved that it is absolutely correct then we have to accept that there is a science of the roots.

This is not a new science in India. Fourteen thousand years back somebody called Mārkandeya wrote about it. But it was not available to every person. We can say that it was a secret science. And was only bestowed upon very, very few people at that time. As we can see the Tree of Life has few flowers to become fruits in those days, but today is the blossom time, where people are trying to find out something beyond.

They sometimes see the futility of their lives and want to know what is beyond, that is of permanent nature.

So there is no harm in turning to our saints and great prophets and great incarnations who have talked about this knowledge. It is mentioned in all the scriptures that “You have to be born again." But that does not mean that you just put a certificate on your head saying “I'm born again." Nor to form a club of saying “We are born again." When you are born again, means if you have jumped into new awareness, into new dimension of awareness, you should be able to feel the All-pervading Power of Divine all round you. Minimum of minimum that should happen to you, because your nerves get new dimension.

And when you get your Self-realisation or your second birth you become entitled to an awareness by which you can find out the roots of everything. You can find out the roots why people get sick, you can find out why there are incurable diseases, you can find out why there are psychological problems, you can find out why there are moral crisises [crises], you can find out why there are political problems, why there are economic problems: because the tree has grown too big and has paid no attention to its roots.

All these problems are shockingly, standing in danger of destruction. You can see clearly people are announcing that we are all going to die or something is going to happen. Recently, just now, before coming to this hall, on My advertisement these people had put up there was another red caption put “Vienna is dying." But it is necessary at this juncture of modern times to look into the roots, the problems, why they have come and how they can be eradicated. The way we are confused, the way people do not know how to balance their ideologies one starts thinking that there is something wrong in the whole understanding.

And we have to think what have we achieved for the benevolence of the whole humanity? We have big, big organizations, which talk of peace, but the people have no peace within themselves. We see governments who arrest thieves, they themselves are thieves. They talk of something and do another thing.

So they have missed the point somewhere.

That point is very simple. The truth is: you are the Spirit. You are not this body, not this ego, nor these conditionings, nor Austrians, nor Indians, but you are the Spirit. Above all that you are a human being, you are the Spirit.

Now, English language is again confusing. The Spirit means the Ātmā, the reflection of God Almighty within us. Also it means alcohol, also it means a dead body. But I mean the Ātmā, the Spirit. We have to be the Spirit. That means our attention, which is outside, which we can understand through our senses, has to go inside. You're paying attention to Me. If I say, `Pay attention to your Self,' you can't do it.

So something has to happen.

And that happening is called as the awakening of the residual force within you. This residual force is called as Kuṇḍalinī, because Kundala means coils in Sanskrit language. And also in so many other languages, like Koran it's called as “Assas." In the Bible it is said, “I will appear before you like tongues of flames." These are the centers which look like tongues of flames burning. But it is called in the Bible as the Holy Ghost. But they cannot explain what is Holy Ghost. Again the English language seems funny, holy and ghost, one can't understand. But in Sanskrit language it's called as Ādi Shakti, means the Primordial Mother. They say of the Father and the Son and not of the Mother. How can you have a father and a son without a mother? It is illogical. This Mother is the Primordial Mother. And this Mother is reflected within you as Kuṇḍalinī, as the pure desire. This pure desire is to be one with the Divine All-pervading Power. And all the rest of the desires are impure. Because whatever we desire gets satisfied, but in general desires are not satiable.

So the pure desire that is within us is the fourth power lying within us, in three and a half coils. Can be also seen in some people pulsating in the triangular bone of sacrum. If there is any obstruction in the higher centers then you can see that pulsation very clearly, like a heart. And then it rises like a, we can say, like a serpent, as they say, because it moves, the energy moves like that. It passes through six centers and when pierces through this fontanelle bone area you start feeling the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost coming out of your own head. And you start feeling it all around you, the Cool Breeze, very gentle and soothing Cool Breeze.

This is something has to happen to all of us. That is the epitome of our evolution. But if you are identified with falsehood, if you belong to certain ideologies and philosophies and organizations and stick on to them, it creates problem for the ascent of Kuṇḍalinī. And even if you are sick, mentally deranged, also the Kuṇḍalinī stops at that point to get you all right.

It's such a remarkable thing and it's such a wonderful thing is to be a human being. Human being is made with great care and love. But in their freedom they try to go to extremes. Like now they are sitting in the sun burning their skins. Why? Or they are running on the streets...

[Aside:] what do you call that, when they run on the streets? Jogging! I'm rather out of date, jogging. Running like mad. They get heart attacks. If they start in a romantic way they just cross all limits, go on crying, weeping for something nonsensical. Then they get attached to things and possessions and waste so much energy on those things which we are going to leave everything here on this earth. The whole exhaustion works on the being and it makes you very weak and fragile for your ascent. Then any new fashion starts, any new idea starts, it is regarded as something religious to take to something new. Like when I was criticising Freud one day and praising Jung, an ambassador told Me that “You see, after all, Freud gave us something new. And Jung gave us something traditional." I said, “The thought is a living process and it doesn't hang from air, it starts like a little seed, grows and then becomes something like a flower, then a fruit. It has to have a base." Still more.

Yes, see, it works on the traditions which are good and which are bad, it goes away and grows into a tree. But everything new need not be all right.

He said, “But we should try." I said, “All right." We were on a dinner table. I said, “We had all this dinner before, but we never ate the table.

So why not have a new taste of the table?" It was undiplomatic, of course, but that's a fact. There is no logic in accepting everything that is new and jumping into everything that is dangerous.

To make this beautiful body that God has created into a shell of funny ventures. Perhaps we do not realise how many years have taken to make this body and to create this human atmosphere. Even how many human beings have worked genuinely to give benevolence to humanity? If we can really respect ourselves and understand ourselves, then it's the best way we will see ourselves ascended to that absolute Spirit. But if we do not think much about ourselves, if we do not understand ourselves and if we want to degrade ourselves and feel guilty all the time for nothing at all, then it gives problems.

Tomorrow I'm going to tell you about all the funny problems we have due to our funny ideas. All the diseases of cancer to AIDS and schizophrenia to madness. You'll be surprised, in Sahaja Yoga those people who have come are very wonderful people. They don't get any diseases, they don't have to be that protective, they don't get mad or schizophrenic, they are healthy, wise, peaceful people. They enjoy their virtues, they love their righteousness, they are full of courage and they are extremely humble. They are the ones now whom William Blake has called “Men of God." You are a special category, because you are seeking something special. And once you achieve it, you become entitled with the powers to give Realisations to others, to cure others, to be dynamically creative, to be healthy and to be the citizens of God's realm. That is what human beings are to be. That is where we have to enter into. That should be our hope. The world that is created with such care cannot be destroyed, whatever human beings may try, they cannot destroy. Partly they may, little bit here and there, but nothing dies. They'll be all revived and a beautiful world has to be created by creating great individuals among yourselves and making them understand that they are part and parcel of the whole.

It's not just a mental process by which you understand, but it is a innate knowledge that is born within you. On your central nervous system you can feel what's wrong with another person and what's wrong with you. And if you know simple ways and methods of correcting those problems on the centers, on the roots, you can solve your problems and problems of others.

May God bless you! Tomorrow I will explain to you at length how do we get into troubles and how we have to get out of it. Thank you very much.

Question: May I ask you a question?

Shri Mataji: Now. Just a minute, not in such a hurry, I have not yet asked you to ask the questions.

Now the time is such that we can have about ten, fifteen minutes for some questioning and please stand up and say loudly so that I could be...

[Aside to the translator:] Can you come here just to tell Me the questions what they have to ask? Now just a minute, just here.

All right, now you can ask the questions. Come along, now. Loudly. It's all right, from there.

Question: If you are afraid of English language, he can switch to Marathi or Hindi.

Shri Mataji: This is not your suggestion, is it? Question: Which language do You prefer to talk to him, Shri Mataji?

Shri Mataji: To you I'll talk to in some Sanskrit, would be better, but or in Marathi or Hindi. But you know, English language has its own problems. Worse is French. We cannot explain so well in French so many things. But still if you say that this is the problem people understand. All right? May God bless you! Please be seated. Now let others talk. That's not so important. That's not so important. Ah, now, what is it? Question: Because it's written Vishwa Nirmalā Dharma, is it a new religion?

Shri Mataji: Yes it is. It is, I'll tell you tomorrow about it.

Question: If it's, like Rajneesh, a new religion?

Shri Mataji: I tell you, this gentleman has come from somewhere. Do I look like Rajneesh, by any chance? I don't take any money from you, all right? Sit down now, will you, please? You are an Indian.

You have come here to attack Me here? Then why are you asking such silly questions? You know I'm against Rajneesh and all the false fake Gurus, I've said it a hundred times. You don't know anything about Me? Then you better find out, you better find out.

You are the authority, are you? All right, so you... Ilme Rouhani is different. I said, I understand Ilme Rouhani is different. Ilme Rouhani means the knowledge of the Divine. No, not at all. You see, we have, all right, sit down, you are the Muslim. What the Muslims are fighting among themselves. Why are they fighting? If they were so much with the Koran, they are not supposed. But I'm not a Hindu or a Christian or a Hindu or a Muslim. Yes, now, I'll tell you.

He is really off his head, a fanatic. He's a fanatic. [Applause.] You see, I must explain, because it's better to explain these things, you see. Fanaticism leads you nowhere. As we have in Hindus, Christians, Sikhs, Muslims, everywhere we have fanatics. And they have got blinds on their eyes. They can't see anything else. Now what Dharma he's talking is about the valency within us, of ten valencies we have got in our being, which as human beings we should have. And they are to be awakened within us. When it is not awakened, I mean, Mohammed Sahib was a great exponent of Sahaja Yoga, because He told us to do Namas, which is nothing but Kuṇḍalinī awakening. Absolutely a Kuṇḍalinī, but Muslims don't understand anything. They don't understand that they have to become the Pīr as He has said it. They are not Pirs. That's why they are fighting, same with Hindus, same with Christians, with everyone. And that's why bad name comes to God. God Almighty is all right, but the fanaticism has led to this kind of struggle, fight, quarreling, everywhere.

Now when he is talking about Vishwa Nirmalā Dharma, means the Universal Pure Religion within yourself. Is a religion which is not just professed, `I'm such and such' and all that, but it's enlightened within you. You become the religion. Like Mohammed Sahib Himself, He would not do something that was wrong. In the same way, when you become that you don't do anything wrong. It's not a fanaticism and fanatics have nothing to do with ascent, they can never ascend, any fanaticism. Any idea of fanaticism is not going to help.

You see, there are so many Muslims, you can go and fight with them, why do you want to fight with Me? I've not come here to fight. If you don't want to listen to Me, you can go ahead. Go ahead, you can go away, it's all right. If you don't want to listen to Me, it's all right. There are many like you, you are not the only one. Many like you. All right, you can go away, there's no need to be here. All right, what else? Some sensible questions.

Question: How do You awake the Kuṇḍalinī? What are You doing when You...

Shri Mataji: That's a good question. Where is it coming from? That's a real good question, how the Kuṇḍalinī is to be awakened. Now, it's a living process in a human being. And acts spontaneously.

It's a living process, it is not a process of some sort of a mechanical thing. It's a living process, just like sprouting the seed. And it automatically works within you. Only thing is like a seed you have to put in the Mother Earth and She sprouts it.

So those who have got the authority to do it from the Divine, not from any theological college or anything like that, but from the Divine, they also can raise your Kuṇḍalinī. Then, once you get enlightened you can enlighten another person. Just in the presence of that person it can happen.

Question: How much time does it take?

Shri Mataji: Just a split of a second. Just a split of a second, really. But, if there are problems in between in the rising of the Kuṇḍalinī it takes more time. And in some persons it does not rise.

Question: Has everyone got problems?

Shri Mataji: Doesn't matter, those problems are all right. Serious problems like fanaticism and all that, it doesn't work out, Kuṇḍalinī doesn't rise. You have to be a balanced person. Little problems here and there, doesn't matter. All right, now translate it. Not this fanatic fellow.

Question: If there is an operation, does it harm the process of Kuṇḍalinī awakening?

Shri Mataji: Not at all. It does not harm at all. It is your Mother. And a Mother never harms the child when she gives the birth to the child. It's your Mother and it's a very gentle happening. In some people you do feel little heat coming out of your head, because there is lot of heat in the body that comes out, actually. But once the heat is out then you start feeling the Cool Breeze. But apart from that there is no harm at all.

Question: Value, according to Sahaja Yoga, of the thoughts and of our whole culture? If you become thoughtless what about logic and books and our culture, does it not have any value?

Shri Mataji: You see, it's a, one should understand in its right sense. You see, when we are thoughtless, not that we cannot have thoughts, but thoughts do not invade us, we are free people. If we want to think we can think, but if we don't want to think we can stop thinking. That is thoughtless awareness, first of all. The secondly, the inspiration comes to us only in thoughtless awareness. Then the third thing is the culture is of the Spirit, which comes in us, which is a universal culture.

Question: He is saying that there are lot of other methods which turned out to be very harmful to people. They got schizophrenic, he is a doctor. How we could help such people to cure schizophrenics?

Shri Mataji: Oh, now schizophrenia disease comes with the movement of our attention towards the left hand side, you see, that is called as the channel of the moon. Or, you are a doctor, you will understand the, doctors don't differentiate between the left sympathetic and the right sympathetic, but it's the left sympathetic nervous system, which looks after the emotional side of it. Now, out of fear or some sort of an emotional outburst or a kind of a mental stress, or...

[Aside:] You translate, I am sorry.

All right, now what happens that through the Kuṇḍalinī awakening now, see this is a Chakra, say, this is the spinal cord and this is the Chakra inside it. Now, what happens if you move too much to the left or to the right this breaks and the connection with the whole is broken. Now, when the Kuṇḍalinī passes through that, you see, when it passes through that then it brings it back to its normal condition.

So the attention which has moved to the left comes in the center and people become all right in schizophrenia.

It's worth trying. You'll be surprised, we have so many people who have been cured.

Question: If it's also possible to regenerate degeneration of the brain cells, atrostrophy [atrophy] of the brain. Alzheimer disease.

Shri Mataji: Yes, in a way it is. In some cases it does not work out. If something in the organ is dead then one cannot work out, but if it is still living one can work out. Say, for example if you have put a steel bar in the leg for somebody then we cannot do anything about it. But if it is still living then we can manage. Another thing like a cataract if it is formed in the eyes we have seen it doesn't work out.

But most of the things can be worked out, but if there are very gone cases then it is difficult, because the people also don't have willpower.

Question: Why [do] we have mass marriages?

Shri Mataji: She knows that. We don't have actually mass marriages. First of all, you see, marriages are to be done after Realisation, when the people have lived at least two years with Self-realisation. That's important. Because there are many great souls who want to take birth on this earth. But we give full chance for these people to know each other and everybody cannot just get into it. They are nicely scrutinized and found out whether they are capable of a good marriage or not. As a result of that ninety nine percent marriages have proved extremely successful. Very happy relations and also very beautiful children. You cannot force anything or anyone. They have to offer themselves and then we have to scrutinize the person, because we don't want to have marriages which are of no use. And these marriages are also performed with a very cheap price, a very cheap price and they get very expensive presents, because so many give them presents. [Laughs.] It's a good business. [Laughs and laughter.] Question: When we are a realised person we are more sensible and negativity can attack us more. How we can protect ourselves? Are those persons who are not realised attacked as well or they just don't realise it?

Shri Mataji: You see, when you are a realised Soul you can feel the negativity much more than others can. For example, if it's a clean cloth then anything black on this shows clearly. And as soon as you see an attack, you know it and you know how to protect. Then there is no problem for you. But the normal people, even if they get cancer or they get mad, they don't know. When it happens to them they are not at all aware. You become very sensitive about your centers and anything goes wrong with your centers, immediately you discover.

Translator: He is meditating for years.

Shri Mataji: With somebody else? Translator: Yes and now something again new. Should he stop the other thing? It is difficult to make a decision?

Shri Mataji: First let us see if you get your Realisation, that's important. First you must get your Realisation then you will be able to decide, because if you don't get your Realisation then we'll have to find out where is the problem. Actually you do not meditate; you are in meditation. Like this instrument.

When it is connected only you can use it. Without connection, whatever you may do is useless. It is true about every religion, about everything. Unless and until you are connected with the Divine, whatever you do is artificial.

Question: Is it the one way, Sahaja! Is it the fastest way, or are there many other ways?

Shri Mataji: There's only one way. Now the only way to connect this instrument [microphone] is through this, isn't it? In the same way. But it's spontaneous; it's living process. And it changes. When there is a problem then it stops, it sometimes it doesn't go ahead. There is a possibility.

So one can't guarantee everyone. If it works, well and good. You cannot pay for it, you cannot order it. It's like a living process. Supposing a seed is not sprouting what's the use of paying money to the Mother Earth? She doesn't understand money. Nor if you stand on your heads also, the seed won't sprout. If it has to sprout it will sprout. All right? Question: Does it mean now that other forms of Yoga are not as good, not as fast?

Shri Mataji: No, other forms of Yoga, like Haṭha Yoga is used also in Sahaja Yoga later on, but in scientific way. It's like taking the medicine wherever it is needed. Now, supposing, your Kuṇḍalinī has not started, how are we to know where it has stopped? Supposing it has stopped on your stomach and you are doing the exercises of your neck. What's the use? It is very practical. These days the people, the way they do their Haṭha Yoga they take all the medicines together from the medicine box without any discrimination.

Question: Regarding movements like vegetarianism, is there a rule how we should eat?

Shri Mataji: No, in Sahaja Yoga you have to eat a balanced diet. Supposing you are a right, sided person, then you must take to vegetarian food more. If you are a left-sided person then you have to take to more right-sided food. It is a very balanced, open, fair understanding of the whole thing. It's not hard and fast rule for something. Now it's time.

Question: Are there no limitations to eat animals in Sahaja Yoga?

Shri Mataji: No, only thing you yourself will judge, you will know what problems you have and accordingly you will eat your food.

All right, now I think, Doctor, you can come and see Me personally. What is the question? Last, you can come and see Me, it's better. I'll tell you all about it. You see, I also have done medicine, so I think I can talk to you better.

Now there has been a research done in Delhi University that about, we have done a research on physical aspect of Sahaja Yoga. It's been proved that a Sahaja Yogi is physically much more fit. And the doctor has got a degree of Ph.D. There's another research now going on in India about the liver and angina on these two, three subjects. But in London, with the help of Cambridge University we are going to start a proper recording of the patients whom we have cured of various diseases like cancer, blood cancer, all that, because we have no record of it. Because it requires no money, no, I mean, you don't have to enroll in a organization or anything, it's your own. Is your own property. And just you have to know how to use it.

Thank you very much.

Question: What is Your opinion about Mantra Yoga?

Shri Mataji: You have to know what mantras are to be said, again, in different centers. Any mantra given can be very stupid also. You have to know your Self. All these Shāstras, understand them, verify them on your Kuṇḍalinī, on the Kuṇḍalinī of others. And then you have to believe into it. Not just like this: I give you some mantra. It's nonsense.

One question? All right, tomorrow. We can have it tomorrow. You can give it in writing tomorrow morning, all the questions and I will answer it.

Actually, anxiety should be to get Self-realisation. See, when we are blind what's the use of knowing about colours? We have to become awakened. And then automatically we know all about it.

Now, it's a very simple thing which we have to do. If you do not want to do it, please leave the hall.

Be civil and you have not to sit here to be aggressive with others. Those who want to do it will take about ten minutes at the most. If you want to do it, then please sit down for about ten minutes more. But those who want to leave should leave and should not try to be here and not to do what I tell them. As I told you, I don't take any money, nothing, you don't have to give Me anything. It's your own for which I have come here to give you. If you want to have it then have it. It cannot be forced, it cannot be branded on you. I cannot call you, like a Christian, Hindu, Muslim or anything, like a `Yogi', you have to be, it's the becoming.

So, only such people who want to become the higher personality should offer. Otherwise, sorry, I do not want to force on anyone.

There is one thing we have to do is to take out our shoes, because we have to take the help of the Mother Earth.

You also try, you might get it, please try, you're trying.

All right? Better try. All right, try to learn, if not you can go. But if you want to learn you can learn it. All right? This was done to Mohammed Sahib, is done to Me also, it's nothing new. To Me, I know, it is always like that. But if you want to see something that is there then you do it. There are so many Muslims who are Sahaja Yogis. All right, so then I would say that you should see for yourself if I'm doing the work of Mohammed Sahib or not. All right? How do you know from outside? You are not even realised Soul, you are not a Pir, are you? Are you a Pir? Then, how do you say? Only a Pīr can understand Me, you are not a Pīr. You better become a Pīr at least. You try to become a Pir, then I'll talk to you, not at this level. All right, now, if you want to go you can go. Then you can't sit here, I am sorry.

No, I will not allow you to do that, it's not here some sort of a show going on, you can go out, you are not here to see anything. Will you please go now? Thank you.

[Audience asks the gentleman to leave the hall.] Just send him out, that's all. Let him go, you see, it's all right. There are so many who come to Sahaja Yoga later on, you have to forgive, because they are still under the influence of fanaticism. You must forgive them. That's very sad. The whole world is like that today.

So many are fighting, such problems, how to take them out of that fanaticism is a big problem.

So first of all I have to tell you that you have to be pleasantly placed towards yourself. Not to be angry with you. Not to be guilty. Not to count all the mistakes you have committed. And don't believe that you have committed any sins. That is one promise to Me. Then it's much easier. Now, both the feet are to be put onto the Mother Earth, parallel to each other.

Now this left hand, as I told you, represents the power of desire and the right hand is the power of action.

So when you place your left hand towards Me like this, then you express your desire to get your Realisation. Now you have to put your right hand on your heart. This is the abode of the reflection of God Almighty. And the Kuṇḍalinī is the reflection of the Primordial Mother.

So, in the heart resides the Primordial Father and in the Kuṇḍalinī resides the Primordial Mother. And here the reflection within us is the Spirit.

Now you have to put this right hand, we have to work only on the left hand side, so put the right hand in the upper part of your abdomen, on the left hand side. Now, this is the center of your mastery.

And so then we go down in the lower part of your abdomen on the left hand side. Now this is the center of the Divine work.

So you have to have the Pure Knowledge. This is in your consciousness, it should work.

Now, again you go back on the upper part of the abdomen. Now, then take your hand to your heart again, please do it. Yes, yes, inside, inside your coat, it's very good. Now, you have to place your right hand in the corner of your neck and your shoulder, from the front, not from the back, from this side. And turn your head to the right.

This is the center is caught up when you feel guilty. Now please take your hand on top of your head and press it on both the sides. Then you have to take this hand on the back side and put your head resting on your hand. Now, stretch your hand, push back your fingers. The center of your hand has to be put on top of your head. And you have to press it and move it seven times slowly clockwise.

Now take down the hand. We start it again, you have to close your eyes. And not to open them till I tell you. Please put your left hand towards Me. Both the feet on the ground and close your eyes. Now put your right hand on the heart, keep your eyes shut. You may take out also your spectacles because sometimes it will help your eyesight.

Now put your hand on your heart and here you say, a question to be asked, a fundamental question.

You can call Me Mother or Shri Mataji, whatever suits you, saying here, `Mother, am I the Spirit?' Ask this question three times. Ask this question three times.

Now the second question follows. If you are the Spirit, you are your master.

So put your right hand on the upper part of the abdomen, on the left hand side. At this center you ask Me another question, `Mother, am I my own master? Mother, am I my own guide? Mother, am I my own Guru?' Ask this question three times.

Now put your hand in the lower part of the abdomen on the left hand side and ask a question, or I would say, you have to request. I cannot force on you this Pure Knowledge, the consciousness of this Pure Knowledge.

So you have to say, `Please, Mother, may I have the Pure Knowledge?' Please say this six times, because this center has got six petals.

As you say this your Kuṇḍalinī starts getting awakened and is going to higher centers. Now it moves up to the higher center, in the upper part of the abdomen on the left hand side. To facilitate it better you put your hand on the upper part of the abdomen on the left hand side. And with full confidence say ten times, `Mother, I am my master.' Ten times. With full confidence.

Now please raise your right hand to your heart again. Now here, with full confidence, say twelve times the greatest truth about yourself, `Mother, I am the Spirit.' `Mother, I am the Spirit.' Now you have to know that the Divine is the Ocean of love and grace. But above all it is the Ocean of forgiveness. And you cannot do anything that Divine cannot forgive.

So, please forgive yourself completely.

Now, put your right hand on the shoulder, on the left hand side between the corner of the neck and the shoulder. And turn your head right, on the right hand side, absolutely on the right hand side. Here you have to say with full confidence in the forgiveness of God, `Mother, I am not guilty.' Please say it sixteen times.

`Mother, I'm not guilty.' Sixteen times. Say it from your heart.

Now raise your hand to your forehead and press it on both the sides. Here, put the left hand towards Me and here you have to say, `Mother, I forgive everyone.' How many times is not the point. The point is: to forgive or not to forgive is a myth. Whether you forgive someone or do not forgive, you do not do anything. But when you don't forgive then you play into wrong hands.

So just say, `Forgive, I forgive everyone,' from your heart. Now take this right hand on to the back side of your head and put your head, load of your head, on that hand. Put it upward. And now you have to say, for your own satisfaction, `Oh Divine, if I have done any mistakes, please forgive.' But don't feel guilty at all. Now, not to count your mistakes.

Now stretch your hand, stretch your fingers backwards and put the center of your palm on top of the fontanelle bone area, which was a soft area on your head. Now, here, sit straight, put left hand towards Me, put both the feet on the ground and press your scalp slowly seven times, very slowly saying, `Mother, please give me Realisation,' because I cannot force on you. Press back your fingers and press hard.

[Shri Mataji blows into the microphone.] Now take down your hand please and open your eyes slowly, slowly. Take down your hand. And open your eyes please. Put your hands like this please. Just watch Me without thinking. Now put the right hand like this and the left hand on top of your head, on top. Not here, over your head. Left hand, left hand here, right hand towards Me. You can bend your head and see if there is a Cool Breeze coming.

Now put your left hand towards Me and right hand on the head, but bend your head and see if there is a Cool Breeze coming, or a hot is coming.

Again put your right hand towards Me, please. And left hand again on the head and see if there is cool or hot coming out of your head. Now both hands to be put up, like that. And push back your head. And ask a question, `Mother, is this the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost? Mother, is this the Brahma Shakti? Is this the All-pervading Power of God's love?' Ask this question, please. Now bring down your hands.

Now, those who have felt...

[The feet of Shri Mataji are washed and she is offered some rose oil perfume. Shri Mataji puts some on the back of Her hand and asks all Sahaja Yogis to smell the back of their hands. Everyone can clearly smell the scent of the perfume.] Now you have to believe that you are all in My body.

Contents: 1987-10-13*, Public Program, Day 2, Auditorium Maximum, University, Vienna, Austria

I bow to all the seekers of Truth.

As I told you yesterday that truth is not a concept. When people start establishing something as truth there arises the problem. Because truth can not be organized, can not be ordered, can not be changed, it is what it is. And today the truth is that the time has come for people to get their resurrection. That's the time has come where people have to ascend to their higher being. As in Koran described very clearly as “Kiyama", is the time of resurrection. Said very clearly that your hands will speak. And they will give witness about you. This is the time of Last Judgment. God is not going to weigh people or to judge them. It is you only in your ascent are going to judge yourself. And there are people who are a special category today, who are seeking something higher.

Now yesterday a question was raised about the religion part. All these religions which have come on this earth are product of Divine force. All the prophets and incarnations, all of them came on this earth to propound a special milestone within us. On the Tree of Life all of them grew one after another. But people took out or removed them from the Tree of Life saying, “This is my religion, this is my religion." So believing into something that is dead.

So, what we see today is a mess. And people can't understand how those who profess a particular religion act just the opposite of it. I've seen people who live say in Riyadh. They don't drink, they don't look at woman, because they are frightened their eyes will be pierced through, or they will be put in the jail, if they do these things. But when they come to London they drink like nobody's business. They have all kind of relationships, which are very ugly. What happens to them that under fear they work this way and under freedom they behave in a different manner. Same we can say about political theories. I went to Russia and Russian people in Russia are quite all right, under fear. But when they are given freedom, when they are given freedom they behave like anybody else. And also in America if you go the freedom of people is abandonment. You can't walk on the street of New York with your purse in your hand. They are all crazy people there. They are so immature, worse than children even.

Sometimes you can't understand them.

About two years back we saw a feature from Hollywood where they showed the very old, above 80, all the actors and actresses coming for a dance. They were very stupidly dresses with all their bones are showing. And they had come for a shake dance. Right from the limousine where they were getting out they were already shaking.

So they tried to compete with the young.

So there's no maturity in their freedom. It's such an abandonment of all value systems, of all relationships, such impurities. I went there in the year 1973 [1972] and told them about this AIDS will be coming very soon to them. And all the homosexuals were so angry with Me, they were about to beat Me. And even today it's a martyrdom there for them to get this disease. Schizophrenic are so common.

So what's the use of this freedom? Man has no wisdom to use his freedom. Nor has he any wisdom to use his money. Anybody who gets an extra money he goes to something which is self destructive. The wisdom is so much lacking, there's no discrimination also to decide what is right for you and what is wrong for you.

So under these circumstances the religions, so-called also have to take the shapes. They are not religions in any way because there is no enlightenment within. You do not become anything.

In Sahaja Yoga we have Jews, we have Muslims, we have Christians, we have Hindus, people coming from all sides. But they do not fight, they do not quarrel. There is no hankering after positions. Because they can see themselves clearly and they can see others also very clearly. This is wisdom. In the animal kingdom no animal kills another animal, even a tiger doesn't kill another tiger. There are certain qualities of a tiger will remain with the tiger. But human beings are so unpredictable because of their sense of freedom. They could be a scorpion one day, tomorrow a tiger and third a serpent.

What is the reason for this kind of absurd behaviour? The reason is that we live with rationality and not with logic. You know even if somebody murders someone there is a rationality behind it. The logic can only come when you have achieved an absolute sense. As you see here the flowers, everybody sees there are flowers here, nobody is going to quarrel whether it is flower or wood. Because they see it, absolutely they know it is flowers, everyone knows they are flowers. In the same way unless and until you have knowledge of propriety of right and wrong how will you say what is right, what is wrong? One goes on compromising with wrong. And thinks they are doing the best things in the world. Everyone thinks they are the chosen ones of God. Jews think they are chosen ones, Muslims think they are chosen ones, the Christians think they are chosen ones. These brands are not going to help anyone. In the Bible in the second verse of second chapter of Matthews, Christ has clearly said, “You'll be calling Me Christ! Christ! I won't recognize you." What is written between the lines is that just by calling yourself that you are a follower of this one and a follower of that and a follower of that, doesn't give you the right to establish yourself as a religious person. A religious person has a religion within himself. Who has no temptations, who has no weaknesses, who doesn't consider money that important. Who is love and compassion and generosity. Who is peace and joy. Such a person has the whole personality which is so auspicious. Auspiciousness is a coefficience, which emits the rays of Divinity all around. And such a person wherever he goes or wherever he moves, he spreads auspiciousness. Christ has said, “Thou shalt not have adulterous eyes." How many Christians we'll find who don't have adulterous eyes? It's a very subtle thing Christ has said. The eyes of a religious person has to be innocent, devoid of lust and greed. He doesn't profess any religion whatsoever, but he's religious. And the eyes are so innocent that when such a person even looks at someone, he can bestow benevolence on that person. This should happen, then we can say that there is a person who has religion built in his central nervous system, in his whole being. But everybody can be enlightened. Everybody can get to that state where he can judge on an absolute level.

We live in the world of relativity but then we start living in the world of absolute. Now somebody looks a very good person, he knows how to play flute maybe or he is trying to be very nice and good outwardly.

He can make gestures like a saint. How are we to make out? There's a way. When you are enlightened then from your hands the vibrations of Cool Breeze flow. You can feel on these fingertips the centers of another person and if, supposing somebody has cancer, you can feel that person on your fingertips. If you know how just to put the centers all right, you cure the person.

So you jump into a new awareness, higher then the human awareness, much higher, of collective consciousness. That you can feel others and you can feel yourself. But there are people who are still very limited and stupid. They identify themselves with some sort of an idea and get stuck with it. But if you are an open minded person I have to tell you the good news, that all such people can become enlightened. You have to have purity of intelligence, is not brilliance that dazzles others or gives big lectures and all that. But pure intelligence means that sees directly the truth. Which is not maligned or spoiled by ideologies and theories. The intelligence which is sold out or is a slave of others' domination cannot be pure intelligence. But today as people are getting disillusioned many honest and sincere people are there seeking the truth. And if you are honest in your seeking you will have to have it. That is your right that you have to get it. Then you'll be surprised that you will transcend all limitations of the world. You won't have all these ideas which make you small. Like a drop becomes the ocean. That's how your personality becomes very great.

I'm very fortunate that I am born at a time when this special work has to be done. It's mentioned in one of our old text that, “At the time when there will be Ghor Kali Yuga” means the worst times in the modern times “those people who are seeking the truth, in the jungles and in the Himālayas will find the truth", their Kuṇḍalinī will be awakened. And today that time has come.

You have been already explained about this, the knowledge of the roots, the Spirit. The Spirit is the truth. Truth is the love, the pure love, the All-pervading Love. And that you know through your central nervous system. Not just by reading something. But as you see the flowers, in the same way you know the truth. The another thing is in the nature of Spirit it is the attention. That means when the Spirit enters into our attention, our attention becomes enlightened. Sitting down here we can find out about anyone in the whole world. As if we enter into the subtler side of ether. And sitting down here we can also correct.

This one is just at hand for you, so close to you. The distance is not even three feet. The journey is so small. And it works out.

May God bless you! So today we'll have some questions, but not from any fanatics please.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji, he is asking why are human beings getting ill? And does it have a significance, a meaning why they get ill?

Shri Mataji: Yes. I was about to tell you today but he told Me that he has already talked about it, so I'll just now tell you. But I'll tell you in short. Now here you see, let's push forward everybody cannot see. What she says?

Sahaja Yogi: She was asking why the question is not answered, but You just started, Shri Mataji.

[Laughter.]

Shri Mataji: Now, this is what you are inside, let's see. Now on the left hand side you see a blue line which is, what we call is the moon channel or you can say the left sympathetic nervous system. This channel gives energy to the left sympathetic nervous system. And the another one is the right side one which is yellow coloured, goes up there and like a [bile] colour it is. It's called as the sun-line or `Sūrya Nāḍī' which gives rise to the right sympathetic system. Now the central one is the one what we call as the `Suṣhumnā' is the central path of ascent which is actually, gives, I mean, nourishes the Parasympathetic nervous system. Now, in a human being out of his freedom he can either go to any extreme of left or right.

Supposing he is overactive and futuristic and thinks too much and works too much and physically all the time working out like jogging, this that, all sorts of things. Then he goes to the right side too much.

Because he's futuristic, he's speedy, or he may be successful. But he develops a tremendous thing called `ego'. Ego is there that, “I'm doing this and I'm doing that." Actually we are doing nothing. Whatever is dead we convert it, say the wood is dead, we made the roof, we think we made something great. From dead to another dead. Or from whatever is dead matter we try to discover something out of that and use the energy of that. But we cannot even create one little atom. This is the situation. But we think we are doing this, we are doing that.

As we give stories about some Indian villagers going by plane were told not to take too much luggage, because the plane will feel heavy.

So they took all the luggage in the plane, but put it on their heads.

[Laughter.] They were asked, “Why do you do that?" They said, “We are trying to reduce the weight of the plane." In the same way in our ego we think that way. Now this over activity on the right hand side, ego harm others, doesn't harm you. But physically it can give you tremendous effects. First of all as you see it starts with that yellow second center called as Swādhiṣhṭhāna, which is very much responsible for all kinds of physical and mental activities. In that sense that it converts the fat cells of the stomach for the use of the brain, to replace the grey cells when we think too much.

So when we think too much this poor Chakra cannot look after other functions. Another important work it has got: the liver, the pancreas, the spleen, the kidney and the lower intestines. Large intestine, the descending colon of the large intestines, they say. Now, when these things are neglected the first thing you get is tremendous heat in the body. Tremendous heat, because the liver is overactive. Then this heat passes to higher side and one gets asthma. Because it melts the phlegm. As a result of that you get hay fever, you get sneezing, you get running nose and you get asthma. Of course in the medicine they don't say this. [Laughs.] They only treat the symptoms. I'm telling you the root cause.

Now, then on the other side is the, you have got the pancreas. The pancreas becomes overactive, so you develop diabetes. You'll be amazed that in India in a village people take so much sugar that they say that the spoon must stand in the sugar. Nobody gets diabetes. But if you think too much all the energy spent in thinking you get diabetes, specially people who sit down and plan, plan, plaṇ[Laughs.] Then you have the third problem which is more serious. Is the spleen which is like a speedometer, which keeps the rhythm of life with us. Now, the way our life is, modern life is we invite shocks. Early in the morning we see the newspaper, finished. Horrible news, horrible things, this one fighting, that one killing, that all horrible things. This poor spleen has to produce more red blood corpuscles for emergency.

So under shock it start producing more [UNCLEAR arbacies]. Then you eat your food in a hurry, your breakfast, you push it in your mouth somehow, because all the time is wasted in newspaper reading.

So you have no time to have your breakfast. You get into the car and then you find a jam, finished. Then you are breaking your head with worry. Again another shock to poor spleen, it goes on producing [UNCLEAR arbacies] without any rhythm in it, it becomes hectic. It is such a hectic life we lead.

Formerly in the times of My father I remember, My father used to get up very early, go for a swim and have his breakfast on the table. And My mother would be fanning him and he would eat with that rhythm. My mother used to give him that rhythm, I used to feel. But nowadays we are so very hectic.

Slaves of our watch, every time trying to reach in time. I've known people if you just tell them that, “I have to go to the airport” they go crazy. I have to go not you, but still they are crazy. [Laughter.] And they'll go on telling, “Now time go." I am going, why are you worried? I'm going, not you are going.

[Laughter.] This kind of behaviour spoils the rhythm of our being.

Then is the big problem, the vulnerability is established in the spleen and you get blood cancer. But the cancer is pathological, it comes from the left side. In the sense it is triggered by the left side, by some proteins. But the vulnerability can come from the right side or from the left side.

Now if you go too much to the left also there are problems like that. I must have given at least hundred lectures on this. You can get My tapes and find for yourself. In all details. But in this short time I think I have already told you not to have a futuristic mind. Try to be in the present. Not only it has happening within us in our everyday life, but also in religious life I have seen it happens. When Śhrī Rāma came on this earth they said,

“We believe only in `Parashurama', because he is dead now, finished. If he is dead is better to believe in a person who is dead." Then Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa came. They said, “We don't believe in You, we believe in Śhrī Rāma, because He's dead." They never want to believe in something that is living today, from where you can gain. But they want to believe in something that is dead and finished. Because you can keep such a person in the pocket. Nobody is going to ask you if Christ is not living. He's not going to say, `Why did you do this wrong?' So people don't want to take anything in the present, but present is the truth. The past is finished and the future doesn't exist, so why not get it in the present moment? Because we cannot live in the present moment with the [tempered] life we get into troubles, physical, mental, emotional, material, economic, political, all kinds.

So, how to come to the center? The Kuṇḍalinī goes through your centers and brings you in one line.

She integrates you. But this knowledge is difficult to digest. One of the reasons is I am living. When I will be dead then you might build temples for Me. But just now in your time I'm telling you then you won't accept. You won't try to understand and learn. This is human nature. And this is the reason why all the people who came on this earth could not give Realisation to anyone. Even the Christ disciples felt the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost when He was dead. Till the end they were doubting Him. They were doubting His Immaculate Conception.

God is miraculous. You have to see those miracles after Sahaja Yoga. One after another you will be amazed. But one has to rise to that awareness.

Now, one of them I've told you one side, but the another side is people becoming schizophrenic, mad.

And all the pathological problems come from the left side.

I think this has taken too much time, this answering.

So at length I cannot answer it.

We also have a workshop for you. You are not to give any money to anyone. There's no business going on. You can go and ask them what you want to ask. And they will work on you and explain to you. In such a short time these Austrians have become so knowledgeable. In the same way you all could become very knowledgeable. And all this knowledge is available to you because it is your own. And the new revolution of a very peaceful type within us is working out in the whole humanity today. Which will manifest all over. And as I told you that the One who has created this world will not allow this world to be destroyed.

Now I have to make one humble request is, to take out your shoes to take the help of the Mother Earth for a while. Apart from that shoes are little tight so it's better to. Now put both the feet on the Mother Earth.

So the Mother Earth sucks in the left and right side problems within us. Automatically She sucks in when we start feeling the All-pervading Power.

So the first thing that happens to you that when the Kuṇḍalinī crosses this center you become absolutely peaceful without thoughts. You become thoughtlessly aware. That means at this center the ego and the superego, the conditioning is sucked in. You can think if you want to, but no thoughts can invade you.

Then you feel the Cool Breeze emitting out of your own head, which you have to feel yourself. You have to give yourself the certificate. You have to be convinced about yourself. And then you start feeling the Cool Breeze all over in your hands. But sometimes this center if is not all right you may not feel, though you may get your Realisation. But you may not feel on your fingertips. If this center is catching the nerves are little dead and then you may not feel. But with little practice you do. Practice means understanding where is the problem is and how to remove the hurdles, you get it.

Now as we are going to use the left hand to express our power of desire like this on your lap. Comfortably you have to sit, but little straight, not like this nor like that, but straight. And if there is anything tight, in the waist or in the neck or anywhere you can little loosen it. In short, you should be comfortable. The right hand should be used for nourishing or helping the Kuṇḍalinī by putting on different Chakras. All of you must do it. It's very simple.

Now I'll show you and then later on we can close the eyes and do the meditation. First we put the right hand on the heart. Where is the reflection of the Spirit. You can put it under the coat, would be better please. Is very good.

So many people have heart troubles and things. It's very good thing to put your right hand on your heart. All right. Now, second center we have to attend to is in the upper part of the abdomen on the left hand side. Upper part of the abdomen on the left hand side.

This one gentleman doesn't want to do it, so let him go away. Please. You are already looking not well, why don't you do it?

Sahaja Yogini: It's his freedom not to do it.

Shri Mataji: Yes, but here others have the freedom that they don't want that you see them. Let them have the freedom. You have to respect their freedom now. No one likes others to watch them. All right. You have to respect their freedom. All right?

Seeker: All right.

Shri Mataji: Thank you! When they close eyes you'll have to close eyes also. We have no right to disturb other people. They have come for their Self-realisation and they have their right to have it. And it would be sinful to disturb them.

So I would request you not to disturb them.

Now, please put this right hand in the lower part of your abdomen. This is the center of your Divine work.

So you have to have in your consciousness the knowledge of the technique. Like when I have to hold something I know what to do, is My consciousness. In the same way you have to have the Pure Knowledge in your consciousness. And this is the center that works it out. Then you go back on your stomach on the left hand side of the abdomen. This is the center of your mastery. You have to be the master, master of yourself. No slave of any stupidity or of any habits or any kind of temptation. And you have to be the master of the knowledge.

So this is a very important center within us.

Now put this hand back on your heart, where resides the Spirit. Now this center is very important about which I was told you have been informed, is the center what we call the left Viśhuddhi on the left hand side here, between the neck and the shoulder in this corner, to push the hand that side and turn your head to your right. And push your hand as much as you can on the back side. Now this center is caught up when you have a guilt or you think, `I am guilty.' Nobody has to feel guilty at all. Nobody has to feel diffident also. This catch gives you diseases like angina and also spondylitis.

So it's better that you put your hands here clearly. Put your head this side when we do meditation later on I will tell you.

Now please, you have to put your hand on your forehead. Right hand, right hand. Left hand is towards Me. Right hand. Now press it on both the sides. And press it hard. Now you have to put your hand on the back side of your head and put the load of your head slowly onto it. Lastly you have to stretch your hand. Stretch your hand and you will have to put your center of your hand on top of your head in the fontanelle bone area, where it was a soft bone, for your final baptism. This was a soft bone in your childhood and you stretch your fingers up and press the thing down, slowly move your scalp seven times.

Clockwise. Slowly. That's all. As simple as that.

I hope all of you will do it and don't watch other people doing it, it's not proper. Now again I request you those who don't want to do it should leave the hall to be civil and kind.

Thank you! Thank you very much! There are nice people. Thank you! You are not going to leave or you are going to meditate, are you? Now, this gentleman in front. No? Then why are you so adamant? Why don't you leave please.

Sahaja Yogini: He says he wants to experience something.

Shri Mataji: Then experience you will have but you must accept what I'm doing. How will you experience without having something? I'm just experience your obstinacy, that's all I am experiencing from you. Then he should go because he cannot have the experience. Then he will say that I must have that experience, how am I going to tell you to raise the Kuṇḍalinī, how to raise it. You don't want to do it, like I must have the water but I am not take the cup in my hand then what will I do. All right, thank you, let him go. Yes. It's all right, don't get upset, it's all right. You should not be upset at all. Nobody should be upset. Nobody should be upset. It's going to work out.

Now we close our eyes. You may take out your spectacles. Don't watch others. This is the time when we have to look to ourselves, not to others. And please keep your eyes shut because the attention has to go inside. Till I tell you please don't open your eyes. You have to gain something, nothing has to be gained by Me.

So be kind to yourself. It's for your benevolence. All right.

So if you put your left hand towards Me and both the feet on the ground straight and sit little straight and close your eyes.

First thing we do is to put our right hand on our heart. Here is the Spirit.

So you please ask Me a very fundamental question, you can call Me Shri Mataji or Mother, `Mother, am I the Spirit?' Ask this fundamental question three times.

[Aside:] Open the door a little bit, too much heat.

Now. Please put your right hand on the upper part of your abdomen on the left hand side please. Now here is a very important center and you have to ask Me a very fundamental question which is followed by the first one. If you are the Spirit you are your master too.

So please ask Me a question, `Mother, am I my own master?' Ask this question three times please.

Now please move your right hand in the lower part of your abdomen on the left hand side. Keep the left hand towards Me. This is the center of Pure Knowledge. But I cannot force on you. In your freedom you have to ask for it.

So please ask six times, `Mother, may I have the Pure Knowledge?' Six times, because this center has got six petals.

By asking this question the Kuṇḍalinī has started, She is awakened. To help Her cross all the centers properly, you put your right hand on the left hand side of your stomach in the upper part. Here with full confidence please say ten times, `Mother, I am my own master, I am my own Guru, I am my guide.' Say this ten times.

Now raise your hand on your heart and here we have to see the greatest truth.

So now with full confidence in yourself please say, `Mother, I am the Spirit.' Please say it twelve times.

Now we have to know that the Divine is the ocean and love, Ocean of Love and Grace. But above all it is the Ocean of Forgiveness. And whatever mistakes you commit it's capable of completely neutralizing it.

So have faith in the power of forgiveness of the Divine.

So raise your right hand in the corner of your shoulder and your neck and place your right hand, right head towards the right. Now here forgive yourself.

And say, `Mother, I am not guilty at all,' sixteen times. Now if you still feel guilty then better punish yourself by saying 108 times. You should be pleasantly placed towards yourself, because you are entering into the Kingdom of God.

So now say sixteen times, `I am not at all guilty.' Now raise your right hand to your forehead across. Put your left hand towards Me. Now press on both the sides. On this center you have to say, `Mother, I forgive everyone.' Now some people think it's difficult. But it is a myth whether you forgive or you don't forgive. But if you do not forgive then you play into wrong hands.

So from your heart you have to say, not how many times, `I forgive everyone.' Now take your hand on your back side and put your head on that and put the load of your head, slowly.

Here for your own satisfaction you have to say, `Oh Divine, if I have done any mistakes please forgive me.' But only for your satisfaction, not to feel guilty or counting your mistakes.

Now please stretch your right hand, left hand towards Me. And both the feet on the Mother Earth.

Now put the center of your palm on the fontanelle bone area. Now press it hard and you have to move it seven times slowly clockwise. Here also I cannot force you, so you have to say seven times, `Mother, please give me my Realisation.' If you like you can bend your head a little, it will make it easier. Now press it hard, stretch your fingers.

[Shri Mataji blows into the microphone.] Now take out your hand. Open your eyes slowly. Put both the hands like this. Watch Me without thinking. Now put the left hand, left hand on top of your head. You can bend it if you like and see there is a Cool Breeze coming out.

Some people get it very far.

Now put your left hand towards Me. Now put your right hand on top of your head.

Some will get it hot, doesn't matter. Now see for yourself if there's a Cool Breeze coming out of your head. Or a hot, could be hot also.

Now please take your left hand on top of your head and put the right hand, try again, try with the left hand.

Good. Now put your hands up like this. And here you have to ask Me a question putting up your head, “Mother, is this Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost? Mother, is this the `Brahma Shakti'? Mother, is this the All-pervading Power of God's Love?" Now please put down your hands. Now put your hands like this, don't think. Now those who have got Cool Breeze out of their heads or hot breeze or in their hands, please raise both your hands like this.

Everyone! May God bless you all! So many of you have got it.

May God bless you! I bow to all of you.

And there is invitation to you all to take your thrones in the Kingdom of God. And enjoy all the blessings. Very few have not felt, but we have a workshop. Please, please, please all of you should go.

Clarify yourself, grow yourself out like a big tree. Respect your Self-realisation. You have to grow. That's the important part. Otherwise next year you'll come and tell Me that, “Mother, I've got cancer, I've got this, I've got that." I want you to be the most beautiful people on earth. And I wish you lot of wisdom.

And love yourself as I love you all. Now I'll be coming next year again to see you.

May God bless you! Thank you very much! [Applause.]

It is very gratifying to see that there are so many people here who want to seek the truth. The truth is absolute. You cannot put it in a concept. Or you cannot form an idea about it. It cannot be a conjecture.

It cannot be a theory or a philosophy. It is to be felt on your central nervous system. As you see here the beautiful flowers and can feel them. In the same way you have to feel the truth. If you are still under the spell of some sort of an illusion that this is truth, this is truth, this is truth, then you cannot achieve the state from where you have to know the truth. The human awareness at this point of its evolution has reached its maximum. And all the knowledge we have through our human awareness is like the knowledge of the tree outside. But we have to have the knowledge of the roots. And this is the knowledge of the roots.

You may just now think that this might be another philosophy. But you should have a scientific mind, an open mind, as if this statement or what I am saying is a hypothesis. And that whatever is to be known if it is there then you have to accept as the truth.

So the truth is very simple that the human beings have not reach their absolute state. That's why there is confusion about everything. People are confused about religion. They cannot understand when people profess certain religion, how can they be violent and full of vices? Because the religion is not awakened in them. They are artificially religious. They have not reached that state of religion, where the religion has to be awakened within yourself. Where you become the righteous, the virtuous. You become your own master and nothing can enslave you. That state can be easily achieved.

So, one has to understand that evolution has been a living process. And this living process has brought us to this state. If something higher has to happen then it is a living process. It is not a dead process where one can brand oneself, `I am such and such.' Some people say that, “I am a born realised” or some say that, “I'm a twice born person." Now those who believe into such things, which are myths get easily exposed. The people who have been trying all such tricks are gradually getting exposed.

Now, for the living process you cannot pay. Supposing you have to sprout a seed then you just have to put the seed in the Mother Earth and it sprouts. Do we pay any money to the Mother Earth to sprout the seed? Actually Mother Earth doesn't understand money. Now if you want to sprout a seed you don't have to make the seed stand on its head or you don't have to stand on your head. You don't have to put in any effort, just put the seed in the Mother Earth. Now if you put the seed in the Mother Earth it sprouts by itself. It is a spontaneous happening. It cannot be forced. It cannot be organized. It happens by itself.

But there are many people who are doing all kinds of things artificially to get to that state. First thing they tell you that you must pay so much. Then they tell you, you must stand on your heads. Or they tell you, you have got your `karmas', you cannot get your Realisation. These are all excuses. Every human being has a right to get his Self-realisation. Every human being can get that state. He's innately built as a seed is built to be a flower. Everything is inbuilt in you. All this instrument that is shown is within you.

It is your own. And you have to have it. It's your fundamental right to get to that state. As a result of Self-realisation so many things happen to a personality. Because you get connected to the All-pervading Power of Divine. You can feel it on your fingertips, the Cool Power of the Divine. You can feel it coming out of your fontanelle bone area. It's not an artificial baptism, where people put little water, they say, “All right, now you are baptized." We also in our simplicity accept it. But by that we miss the point. We have to think of our own benevolence and of our achievements. It is the time that is very important, I call it the Blossom time. This is the time when it is going to happen to all of you. Also in the modern times there are many seekers born. It is a special category of people. Also I found so many people who take drugs and do wrong things are just doing it because they are seeking. They are trying to find something beyond. They are fed up with the mundane type of life. And they feel there is something beyond that they must find. You all have this possibility to achieve that state.

Now here in the triangular bone resides the Kuṇḍalinī. That is the energy within you. Is a energy which will give you your Self-realisation. She resides in the triangular bone which is called as Sacrum.

And the bone Sacrum means sacred.

So we can say the Greeks knew about it. Now, this triangular bone has this energy nicely placed within itself. And this one is the fourth energy we have got. The first energy is the left hand side energy, which we call as the energy of desire. By which we desire, but our desires are not pure. Because what we find that desires in general are not satiable. Today we want to have a car, then want to have a house, then want to have this, but when we get it we want to have something more, we do not feel satisfied fully.

So these desires are not pure. The pure desire energy is the Kuṇḍalinī. It is called in different religions by different names. In Koran it is call as “Kiyama." I am sorry, as “Assas." And `Kiyama' is the time of Resurrection. And it is described that when the time of `Kiyama' will come, the Resurrection time will come, “your hands will speak and will give you the witness about yourself." Exactly that happens in Sahaja Yoga. Now, in the Bible it is described as the Holy Ghost. No one knows what is a Holy Ghost. Holy Ghost according to people is some sort of an ambiguous thing. Now, this Holy Ghost is the Primordial Mother. We have the Primordial Father and the Primordial Son. How can we have a son and a father without a mother? So the Trinity which is the Holy Ghost is the Primordial Mother. In Sanskrit language it is called as `Ādi Shakti'. Now this `Shakti', this power is reflected within us as Kuṇḍalinī.

So the third power we have is the power of action. By the first power we desire and put it into action by the second power. Now the third power we have got out of our evolution is that of central nervous system. But the central path that you see here is actually the third power called as the parasympathetic nervous system. This is the one which gives us the balance. For example if we have to run, we run fast and we go into sympathetic activity. But when we stop automatically our heart comes to normal. Our heart comes to normal through the parasympathetic activity, which gives us the balance.

But also the energy of parasympathetic is limited. Through this central path the Kuṇḍalinī rises. She passes through six Chakras, pierces through the fontanelle bone area here. This is the bone which was soft in our childhood. She pierces through here and you feel, actually you feel the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost coming of your head. You can see it clearly coming out of your head. And then you can feel it all over, the All-pervading Power. This is actually happens to you.

Maybe it may not happen to all, there is no guarantee. Supposing you are a very frivolous person, if you are still to be matured. Supposing you have been indulging into wrong things. Supposing you are doing something very ugly. Or maybe if you are sick, maybe you are unhappy in life, maybe you are not happy with your parents and you had a unhappy childhood. All these things may little bit hamper your progress. But once awakened, but once awakened the Kuṇḍalinī starts working on its own. Gradually it works out and you achieve that state of Realisation.

Tomorrow I will tell you what happens actually to you, to your personality after Self-realisation. Thank you very much! I would like some of you to ask questions, but no aggressive question. If you belong to any group or any other person, you better go. But there should be no aggressive question, as I am not here to take any money from you, I am here to give you the key of your ascent. This is all your property. This is all your wealth. I'm just a catalyst. There is no obligation involved.

Now can I have questions from you? What is it?

Sahaja Yogi: What he's asking, Shri Mataji, if you are married and you have troubles with your partner in the marriage and you try to come over through practicing Sahaja Yoga, is it possible to give this peace what you feel in your heart to your partner?

Shri Mataji: Yes, you can. There are so many ways. First of all you change and your change helps her a lot. You can try, it changes many people, many people have changed.

Sahaja Yogi: He says, even to a very aggressive mother-in-law, could it change her as well? [Laughter.]

Shri Mataji: Yes, she can be, there are ways and methods of changing. Love is the greatest power on this earth. Of course I mean, if somebody is like Hitler, I mean then it's difficult. [Laughter.]

Sahaja Yogi: He's asking, Shri Mataji, is there only one way, one key, who can open the door, who can give Self-realisation?

Shri Mataji: Now there is only one key, no doubt. Thus it sprouts just like a seed sprouts, but there have been many before Me who have done it.

Sahaja Yogi: He's asking, is it possible that from all the different religions, you would be able to come to the same point?

Shri Mataji: Of course, of course! You come to the same point. All religions say the same thing, “You have to be born again." Every religion says that. But it's not artificial. Of course!

Sahaja Yogi: He's asking, how can I protect myself when exercising Sahaja Yoga from outside influences, outside negativity?

Shri Mataji: That we'll teach you, that's something simple, we'll teach you. When you get your Realisation then you have to attend our centers, where they'll tell you what is to be done. Then you can give Realisation to others and you can also tell them how to protect. Now, there's a gentleman here, please.

Sahaja Yogi: `Ahimsa', the question is, what You recommend for the nutrition, for eating?

Shri Mataji: That also we have to see, to give you the balance. Supposing you are a right-sided person as we call it, right-sided, left-sided and the central. There are three types of people we call them. If you are a right-sided person then we would recommend you a kind of food that will make you in the center.

Like you have to take more carbohydrates. But if you are a left-sided person then we would recommend that you have to take more proteins. But the inner force is so great that it balances itself. To help it more, to give it thus more support, we take to a kind of a changing nutrition. But the inner force is so great that sometimes you don't need anything like that.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji, she's asking how is Your relation to Jesus Christ and maybe also Sahaja Yoga to Jesus Christ?

Shri Mataji: Oh, Jesus Christ is bestowed upon our Āgñyā Chakra there. He is the incarnation of what you call the `Omkāra', `Logos' as you call it, `Logos'. He's `Omkāra'. And that's why He could walk on the water. He crossed through this, that was the most difficult point. To cross this, to establish the Resurrection point for you, is the Āgñyā there, they will show you. Of course I must be having very innate relationship with Him, but I don't want to say anything about Myself. What He said was the truth that He was the Son of God. And that He had come on this earth to take away all your sins, your `karmas', but they crucified Him for that. They are so stupid.

So it is better to make them understand Me than to tell them anything about Myself. Once you get your Realisation you will know what I am and My relationship with Jesus Christ.

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji, she's asking, if she doesn't know anything about meditation, Sahaja Yoga, how can she awaken the Kuṇḍalinī?

Shri Mataji: That's the best. You are innocent, it's very good. You will get your Realisation in no time. [Laughter.] It is not a mental process. See now, if you have to put on these lights, you just come and I'll tell you that, `All right, there's a switch, you just put it on, it comes out.' But supposing I explain to you the history of electricity, then all the organization, then how it comes, you'll go mad.

So a person who has not indulged into all these readings are better for Sahaja Yoga. [Laughs.] As I met the other day one gentleman he was really like a crack pot. He was a nice man but too much read, everybody else was in his head, he was nowhere, he was lost.

Yes, Sir?

Sahaja Yogi: Shri Mataji, he's asking, is it the Kuṇḍalinī energy when he feels the blessing, the showering coming over his head?

Shri Mataji: Yes, that is the All-pervading Power. But the Kuṇḍalinī connects you and opens it out and then the All-pervading Power, the Grace that shower-like comes upon you.

Sahaja Yogi: He's asking how you can know if you are a left-sided or a right-sided person?

Shri Mataji: That is after the Kuṇḍalinī has risen and has broken your Sahasrāra as they call it, then you can feel it whether you get vibrations on the left or the right, Cool Breeze. Now supposing you are getting burning sensation on the right, maybe little heat on the right and cool on the left, then you are right-sided. But gradually when you come to Sahaja Yoga centers within one months' time you become a master. When did Herman come to Sahaja Yoga? How many years back?

Sahaja Yogi: Four years, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Now Herman has been only for four years in Sahaja Yoga, he's a master of Sahaja Yoga. He has solved all his problems. Now he's solving others' problems. And you get all the knowledge, the real knowledge, the Pure Knowledge. How to work out the Divine Power.

All right.

So let us have it now. By experiences that when people sit above Me Realisation doesn't work out very well. But we'll try. If it doesn't work out in some people then we'll have to come down.

You will receive your peace and whatever may be the situation, you will enjoy your peace, all right? All right. Please if you want to come will be a good idea.

Good. There's someone there, good person. Here is a seeker. [Flowers are offered.] Thank you! May God bless you! Thank you! You can move little further that's all, little further. Can move little further here this side, would be a good idea, little further down.

[Aside:] You think they have no objection against a candle in the hall? Sometimes they have. It's all right. If they don't have it's all right. Good idea.

Sahaja Yogis could sit anywhere they feel like, it's all right. Not for the Sahaja Yogis.

So many are such seekers actually, what a place this Graz is, I must say. Oh, tremendous.

Now, it's better to take out your shoes because the Mother Earth helps us. Just to take out your shoes and you will be comfortable also, on the ground as well as up there. Take out your shoes, if possible please.

Before we start I have to tell you that those who do not want to have Realisation should leave the hall.

Those who do not want to meditate should go. Because it is the freedom of the people who are meditating that they do not want others to just have a look at them.

So those who want to have Realisation are welcome.

All of you will have to meditate otherwise it will be not very kind and civil to others. It takes hardly ten minutes. The distance is not even three feet let's see, from here to here [pointing to Her spine], about three and a half, in some people three feet. [Laughs and laughter.] It's so simple.

Now, those who are sitting on the ground are all right. Those who are sitting on the chair have to put both their feet on the ground parallel like this, as I am sitting. Now, you can sit comfortably, whichever is comfortable for you. All right. If you want you can sit on a chair Sir, you will feel comfortable it's all right. You are going to get your Realisation I promise you. [Laughter.] You are such a seeker. But important is you should be careful, you can take this chair, you can take this chair it's all right. You have to be comfortable, it's all right, makes no difference. Please take this here, there only face towards Me please, I'll be happy, please. We have to be comfortable that is important.

Sahaja Yogini: He is 85 years old.

Shri Mataji: I know, that's why I am saying. [Laughter.] Age must be respected.

All right. Now you all have to put your hands towards Me like this. The left hand is for your desire.

So the left hand should be towards Me. And the right hand has to be used for releasing our Chakras. I am just doing this because later on also you can do it to yourself. Now first you will have to put your hands, right hand on your heart. Then this is the place we should know where the Spirit resides, which is the reflection of God Almighty. Now we have to now take this hand to the upper part of our abdomen on the left hand side. We are working only on the left hand side, as our left hand is towards Me. Now, this is the center of your mastery. By this center in your consciousness you become the master of yourself. Here on the upper part of your abdomen, you keep your eyes open, just now see for yourself and then second time when we'll do I will ask you to close your eyes. Now this hand is to be taken into the lower part of your abdomen on the left hand side. This is the center which works out our Divine work.

So you have to have the Pure Knowledge which gets in your consciousness. As I have the knowledge how to hold this, in the same way you should have that knowledge in your consciousness, how to work out the Divine.

Now you have to raise your hand higher into the upper part of your abdomen, into the center of mastery.

Now you put your again hand on to your heart, where the Spirit resides. Now watch Me carefully: put your right hand in the corner of your shoulder and your neck and turn your head to the right. This center catches in people who feel guilty all the time. You should not feel guilty at all. Now this hand is to be now put on your forehead across like this. This is the center of Christ, as I told you. You have to press it on both the sides. Now this hand goes to the other side of the Christ center behind and push back your head, with the left hand towards Me. Now stretch your hand, stretch your palm, push back your fingers.

Now the center of your palm you have to put it just on the fontanelle bone area, which was a soft bone in your childhood. Now you have to press it hard pushing your fingers upward. And move your scalp slowly seven times.

All right. Now take down your hands please. Now you may take out your glasses if you want to, you can loosen out someway here wherever you find it's tightening you. Let us close our eyes and till I tell you please don't open your eyes. All right.

Now close your eyes, put the left hand towards Me and the right hand on your heart. Right, right hand, right hand on your heart. Now keep your eyes shut. Close them fully. Don't turn them upward downward, just normal way. No strain should be there. Now here in your heart you have to ask Me a question, you can call Me Mother or Shri Mataji, `Mother, am I the Spirit?' Ask this question three times.

Three times.

Now if you ask this question the second question follows that if you are the Spirit, you are your master.

Now take down your right hand on the upper part of your abdomen and press it. On the left hand side.

And now ask the second question to Me, `Mother, am I my own master?' Ask this question three times please. Press it.

Now take down the right hand in the lower part of your abdomen on the left hand side. Please put your left hand towards Me. Now press it with your right hand. Here I cannot force you, you have to ask.

So please ask Me, `Mother, may I have the Pure Knowledge? Mother, please give me the Pure Knowledge.' Say it six times. Six times, because there are six petals to this center.

Now as you ask for it the Kuṇḍalinī gets awakened and She is trying to move upward. To facilitate Her movement we have to release our centers.

So now please raise your right hand and put it in the upper part of the abdomen and press it hard. On the left hand. And now here to facilitate the Kuṇḍalinī with full confidence say, `Mother, I am my own master.' Say it ten times please.

Now you have to know that there is a very fundamental truth about you. The truth is that you are the Spirit.

So raise your right hand to your heart. And here we have to see the greatest truth.

So now with full confidence in yourself please say, `Mother, I am the Spirit.' Please say it twelve times.

Now we have to know that the Divine is the ocean and love, Ocean of Love and Grace, but above all it is the Ocean of Forgiveness. And we cannot commit anything that He cannot forgive. His power of forgiveness is very great, so you forgive yourself. Now raise your right hand onto the shoulder between the corner of your shoulder and your neck. And turn your head to the right side. Here with full faith in the Divine Power of forgiveness please say sixteen times, `Mother, I am not guilty.' Please say it with full confidence. If you still want to feel guilty then you better punish yourself and say 108 times. You should be pleasantly placed towards yourself. After all you are entering into the Kingdom of God. How can you be guilty? All right, sixteen times.

Now please put your hand on your forehead across and press it on both the sides. Here you have to say, `Mother, I forgive everyone.' Many people think that it is difficult. But it is a myth, whether you forgive or if you don't forgive. But if you don't forgive then you play into wrong hands.

So please say it from your heart, `Mother, I forgive everyone.' How many times is not the point.

Now take your hand on the back side of your head. Here you put your head on your hand and put the load backwards. Here for your own satisfaction you can say, `Oh Divine, forgive me, if I have done any mistakes.' But no feeling guilty, not feeling guilty. You should not feel guilty at all. Just say it for your own satisfaction.

Now last, you stretch your hand, put the center of your palm on top of the fontanelle bone and press it hard. Now at this point I again cannot force you.

So you have to ask for your Self-realisation.

So please say, `Mother, give me my Self-realisation,' seven times and move the scalp seven times with it. Press it hard, push back your fingers.

[Shri Mataji blows into the microphone.] Now take down your hand and open your eyes slowly. Put your both the hands towards Me. Watch Me without thinking, open your eyes please. Watch Me without thinking. Put the right hand like this and left hand on top of your head, on top, not here, on top like this, right hand Now see if there is a Cool Breeze coming in. Right hand towards Me, right hand towards Me, right hand, you are putting the other hand. Right hand, right hand towards Me. Yes, towards Me. Left hand see now there is a Cool Breeze coming out, little higher, some people get it very high, put your hand like that.

Now put the left hand towards Me, see if there is a Cool Breeze coming out now.

Some people get it hot, doesn't matter, doesn't matter. It's opened out.

Some people get it very high. Good? In front, little in front. You can bend your head, better is to bend your head.

Now, put right hand towards Me and see with the left hand.

Now raise your both the hands like this. And ask a question, “Mother, is this the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost? Mother, is this the `Brahma Shakti'? Mother, is this the Power of God's Love, which is all-pervading?" Now see for yourself.

So many of them have got it, so beautiful.

All those who have felt Cool Breeze out of their heads or from their fingertips or on their hands can raise both the hands like this. Oh, look at that Graz, tremendous. You both did not feel? We'll work it out, doesn't matter. Those who have not felt will feel it. Great! [Laughs.] So you all have got it now.

What more? You all have become Yogis. I bow to all of you.

May God bless you! Please respect your Realisation. Those who have not got it, doesn't matter. You will get it tomorrow when they have a follow on. And those who have got it should go and try to understand it, within a month you will be masters, everyone of you. You can give Realisation, you can cure people, you can do everything. You don't have to pay anything. Just give some time.

May God bless you! Thank you very much! I'm very happy, I came to Graz to meet such beautiful people.

So may God bless you! Enjoy! Now enjoy! You see, these girls were little bit talking during My lecture. That might be the reason. Ask them, they were talking, two of them, I am sorry, but next time, tell them they shouldn't talk, then they'll get it. These two girls, I am sorry for them, but they were little bit talking in between.

Good. Nice now. Such nice people in Graz, I never knew. Wonderful people live here, tremendous! Graz is in Austria, isn't it?

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, it is.

Shri Mataji: How wonderful! Now enjoy it! Enjoy each other. [Laughs.] Enjoy! Enjoy! Enjoy each other, just enjoy! You got it, Sir, you got it? You felt the Cool Breeze? I told you, you'll get it. You're such a seeker! Age doesn't matter in Sahaja Yoga. You'll feel very energetic.

Contents: 1987-10-15*, Public Program, Augsburg, Germany

Thomas: Shri Mataji, es ist eine groffe Ehre fur die deutschen Sahaja Yogis, Dich das erste Mal hier in Augsburg willkommen zuheiffen und wir sind voller Freude auch daruber, daff es fast genau auf den Tag sieben Jahre sind, namlich am 15. Oktober, daff Du das erste Mal nach Deutschland gekommen bist, um einen offentlichen Vortrag zu halten. Du hast so hart gearbeitet und trotzdem gibt es leider erst eine sehr kleine Gruppe in Deutschland und wir wunschen uns nichts mehr, als daff ab jetzt viele neue Leute zu uns kommen werden. Vielen Dank fur alles, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Ich verbeuge mich vor allen, die die Wahrheit suchen. Wir muffen erkennen, was die Wahrheit ist. Wir konnen kein Konzept daruber haben. Wir konnen sie nicht mental erfaffen. Sie muffen die Wahrheit auf Ihrem Zentralnervensystem spuren. Wenn Sie sich Blumen ansehen, wiffen Sie sofort, daff das Blumen sind und daff das die Wahrheit ist. Wenn ich sage, daff uns die allmachtige Kraft von Wahrheit und Liebe umgibt, dann sollten Sie fahig sein, das auf Ihren Fingern zu spuren. Wir sind Menschen geworden um diese Wahrheit zu erkennen. Das ist der Sinn unseres Lebens. Wir sollten unsere Zeit nicht fur falsche Dinge verschwenden. Wenn wir unsere Entwicklung verstehen, dann wiffen wir auch, daff es ein lebendiger Prozeff ist.

Wie ein Baum, der Wurzeln hat und deffen Wachstum von diesen Wurzeln aus beginnnt. Bis er zu bluhen beginnt und dann aus den Bluten die Fruchte entstehen. Wir haben durch die Wiffenschaft und andere Studien das Wiffen uber diesen Baum erlangt, aber wir wiffen nichts uber seine Wurzeln. Wenn ich von der Erkenntnis der Wurzeln spreche, muffen Sie das als Hypothese ansehen. Wir sollten es mit einer wiffenschaftlichen Einstellung sehen und mit einem offenen Geist, um es fur uns selbst zu uberprufen, ob es die Wahrheit ist. Denn Sie suchen schon seit so langer Zeit nach der Wahrheit. Jetzt ist die Zeit gekommen, um die Wahrheit zu finden.

Wir konnen feststellen, daff der Mensch auf der standigen Suche nach der Wahrheit immer verwirrter geworden ist. Der Grund dafur liegt darin, daff er bis jetzt noch nicht das Absolute gefunden hat. Wir leben noch in einer relativen Welt. Wir machen uberall Kompromiffe und versuchen so gut es geht, in dieser Welt zu leben. Das ist aber nicht der richtige Weg, denn Sie sollten das Absolute erkennen. Darauf haben Sie ein Recht, jeder von Ihnen. Aber es gibt so viele Konzepte, daff man Angst bekommt, wenn man sie alle anschaut. Heute kam ein junger Bursch, der mir sagte, daff er nicht an Gott glaubt. Ich habe ihm als Antwort gegeben, daff ich auch an keine Religion glaube. Alle diese Religionen sind nicht echt und nur nach auffen gerichtet. Aber die wahre Religion muff in uns selbst liegen. Religion ist eine Wertigkeit im Menschen.

So wie Kohlenstoff vierwertig ist, kann man sagen, daff der Mensch `zehnwertig' ist. Und solange diese 10 Valenzen in uns noch nicht erweckt sind, gibt es uberhaupt keine Religion. Die, die etwas lehren, halten sich selber nicht daran und wir selbst muffen uns dazu zwingen, danach zu leben.

Eigentlich kann jeder, der eine Religion predigt, gewalttatig werden, Morde begehen, unmoralisch und korrupt sein. Man kann nicht sagen, daff jemand alle diese Dinge nicht macht, weil er einer bestimmten Religion angehort.

So verlieren die Leute das Vertrauen. Aber all die groffen Inkarnationen, Heilige und Propheten waren echt. Sie kamen auf die Erde, um die verschiedenen Energiezentren in uns zu etablieren, um uns zu erleuchten und in uns die Valenz der Religion aufzubauen.

Es ist wie ein Lebensbaum, der zu bluhen beginnt. Und wir pucken die einzelnen Bluten und sagen: “Das ist meine Blute, das ist meine Blute." Die Bluten sind bereits tot und diejenigen, die nur an eine einzelne Blute glauben, sind ebenfalls blind. Diese Bluten sind alle in uns enthalten, das werden Sie nach und nach erkennen, wenn Sie zu Sahaja Yoga kommen. Sie sind bereits in uns vorhanden. Die Kraft, die uns wachsen lafit, ist ebenfalls schon in uns. Sie wird in jeder Religion beschrieben. Zum Beispiel wird sie in der christlichen Tradition als `Heiliger Geist' bezeichnet. Die Hindi nennen sie `die Urmutter', die `Ādi Shakti' oder die `Kuṇḍalinī'. Die Sikhs bezeichnen sie mit `Surati', die Moslems nennen sie `Assas'. Und Mohammed hat ganz deutlich gesagt, daff zur Zeit des Jungsten Gerichts unsere Hande sprechen werden und Zeugnis uber uns ablegen.

Sie haben alle zu verschiedenen Zeiten das Gleiche gesagt. Wie Guru Nanak, der davon sprach, daff wir in Verwirrung leben werden, solange wir unser Selbst nicht erkennen. Christus hat von der Wiedergeburt gesprochen. Aber man ist nicht wiedergeboren, wenn man sich einfach ein Schild umhangt: “Ich bin wiedergeboren." Nur indem man sich selbst so nennt, ist man es noch lange nicht.

Heutzutage gibt es so viele falsche Menschen. Das ist ein richtiges Geschaft geworden, wo man viel Geld machen kann. Man muff dafur bezahlen und wird dafur verruckt. Sie leben wie Parasiten von Ihrem Geld. Es ist sehr uberraschend, warum die Leute im Westen diese einfache Tatsache nicht verstehen, daff sie fur ihre Entwicklung nicht bezahlen konnen, weil es sich um einen lebendigen Prozeff handelt. Und man kann fur etwas Lebendiges nicht bezahlen. Wenn Sie zum Beispiel einen Samen zum Keimen bringen mochten, geben Sie ihn dann in den Boden und zahlen der Erde Geld dafur? Versteht oder kummert sich die Mutter Erde um Geld? Macht sie sich Gedanken daruber? Sie macht es automatisch, spontan, `Sahaj', weil sie die Kraft hat, das Samenkorn keimen zu lāen. Wenn die Leute diesen einen Punkt verstehen, werden sie auf ihrer Suche einen geraden Weg gehen.

Die meisten dieser falschen Leute nutzen Ihre Schwachen aus. Sie wollen Ihre schwachen Stellen ausnutzen, wie das jeder Unternehmer tut. Vor ein pār Tagen traf ich eine Frau, die mir erzahlte, daff sie ihrem Guru fur ihre Karmas Geld zahlen muff. Jeden Monat zahlt sie diesem Guru fur ihre Karmas. Sie macht das schon seit Jahren. Der Guru sagt ihr, daff er mit jeder Zahlung nur ein Sechzehntel jedes Karmas wegnehmen kann.

So habe ich sie dann gefragt, wieviele Karmas sie hat. Rechnen Sie sich das einmal aus. Wieviele Leben lang Sie diesem Guru Ihre Karmas abzahlen muffen. Und der Guru selbst kauft sich einen Rolls-Royce dafur und benutzt Ihr Geld, um Sie weiter in die Irre zu fuhren. Man muff verstehen, daff wir seit so langer Zeit suchen und nicht in diesem Leben verloren gehen sollten. Sie muffen sich selber respektieren. Sie muffen das Ziel erreichen, fur das Sie auf die Welt gekommen sind. Alle diese falschen Ideen und Dinge werden Ihnen nicht die Selbstverwirklichung geben. Sie muffen sich selber fragen, was Sie aus all diesen falschen Versprechungen bekommen haben. Haben Sie Ihren inneren Frieden erhalten? Spuren Sie die Freude? Konnen Sie mit Ihrer Aufmerksamkeit das kollektive Bewufitsein wahrnehmen? Konnen Sie die allmachtige Kraft spuren? Sind Sie von all Ihren Krankheiten geheilt worden? Haben Sie all Ihre Probleme gelost? Sind Sie ein aufrechter Mensch geworden? Und nicht gewalttatig? Wirkt Ihre Barmherzigkeit? Konnen Sie dadurch anderen helfen oder sie heilen? Welchen Wert geben Sie sich selbst, um ein richtiger Mensch zu sein, um zur Menschheit zu gehoren? Wenn Sie ehrlich zu sich selbst sind, muffen Sie zugeben, daff Sie das Absolute noch nicht erreicht haben. Und das alles liegt in Ihnen selbst, Sie konnen es erreichen. Es ist so einfach. Alles Lebendige muff so einfach sein. Es ist unmoglich, daff man zuerst ein kompliziertes Buch lesen muff, um atmen zu konnen.

Wir sind heute hier, um unseren Aufstieg zu beginnen. Das ist etwas, was Sie erreichen muffen, fur Ihr eigenes Wohlergehen und das der gesamten Menschheit. Es ist so einfach, aber gerade deshalb glauben die Leute nicht daran. Aber wenn wir verstehen, daff wir uns von der Amobe zum Menschen entwickelt haben ohne unser eigenes Zutun, dann muff uns klarsein, daff wir keine Willenskraft einsetzen und es selber bewufit ausarbeiten konnen, sondern daff dieser Vorgang spontan in unserem Inneren ablauft. Und das sollte bei uns allen paffieren.

Ich habe gehort, daff bereits ein kurzer Vortrag uber die Energiezentren und kanale gehalten wurde.

In dem Buch, das man Ihnen geben wird, konnen sie weitere Details nachlesen. Und innerhalb kurzer Zeit werden Sie ein Experte sein, ein Meister. Sie werden die Kuṇḍalinī erwecken konnen, sie konnen Selbstverwirklichung geben und Sie werden diesen Zustand von Frieden und Freude erleben.

Es ist eine groffe Ehre fur mich, genau nach 7 Jahren wieder nach Deutschland zu kommen. Mein erster Besuch war nicht so erfolgreich, weil die Leute etwas Einfaches nicht annehmen wollten. Wenn ich Ihnen gesagt hatte, daff sie den Rest ihres Lebens auf dem Kopf stehen muffen, waren sie glucklicher gewesen oder wenn ich von ihnen verlangt hatte, mir jedes Monat einen bestimmten Geldbetrag zu schicken. Die Leute sind eifrig mit dem `Guru-shopping' beschaftigt. Aber mich kann man nicht kaufen. Sie muffen diesen Marktplatz verlāen, wenn Sie Ihre Selbstverwirklichung bekommen wollen. Das ist die Wahrheit und Sie sind der Geist. Das einzige ist, daff sich das in Ihnen manifestieren muff. Und wenn das paffiert, erwachen in Ihnen all die Qualitaten einer spirituellen Personlichkeit, womit Sie ziwschen Richtig und Falsch unterscheiden konnen.

Die Kuṇḍalinī, die durch die Fontanelle aus Ihrem Kopf austritt, lafit Sie die Wahrheit auf Ihren Handen

erkennen. Das ist die echte Taufe, nicht eine kunstliche. Und Sie konnen die kuhle Brise des Heiligen Geistes auf Ihrem Scheitel spuren. Auf Ihren Fingern konnen Sie erkennen, welche Probleme Sie selbst und andere haben. Mit ein bifichen Verstandnis konnen Sie sich selbst korrigieren und auch anderen helfen, wenn Sie wiffen, wo die Probleme liegen. Sie bekommen die Kraft, das zu tun. Ihre Aufmerksamkeit wird erleuchtet. Aber zuerst verbeffert sich Ihre Gesundheit. Sie legen alle schlechten Gewohnheiten ab.

Sie werden Ihr eigener Meister. Keine Gewohnheit kann Sie mehr unterdrucken. Sie bewaltigen auch Ihre emotionellen Probleme. Sie werden solche Zufriedenheit finden, daff Sie nicht mehr falschen Dingen nachlaufen.

Aber Ihre Aufmerksamkeit wird so erleuchtet, daff Sie, wenn Sie hier sitzen, die Probleme eines anderen spuren konnen, mag er noch so weit entfernt sein. Und Sie konnen die Wahrheit uber ihn herausfinden.

All diese Fahigkeiten tragen Sie in sich. Ich bin nur der Katalysator und wenn Sie die Selbstverwirklichung bekommen, werden Sie es auch. Wenn Sie erleuchtet sind, konnen Sie dieses Licht an andere weitergeben.

Es war schon immer in unserem Inneren. Aber weil es das Wiffen der Wurzeln ist, wiffen Sie vielleicht nichts daruber oder Sie haben falsche Informationen bekommen. Aber es funktioniert. Sie muffen subtiler werden, um zu diesen Wurzeln vorzudringen, um sie zu ernahren und ihnen zu helfen.

Morgen werde ich Ihnen uber die 3 Kanale erzahlen und wie es zu einem Ungleichgewicht, zu Krankheiten kommt und wie wir immer wieder auf falsche Dinge hereinfallen.

Es gibt morgen ein Programm in Munchen und ich bin auch hierher gekommen, um Sie fur das morgige Programm einzuladen. Ich hoffe, daff es Ihnen moglich sein wird zu kommen.

Da ich heute den ersten Tag hier bin, bitte ich Sie, mir Fragen zu stellen, wenn Sie mochten. Aber es ist nicht notwendig, aggreffiv zu werden. Ich mochte kein Geld oder keine Stimmen von Ihnen. Ich bin weder ein Politiker noch ein Guru. Ich bin hierher gekommen, um Ihnen den Schluffel fur Ihre Weiterentwicklung zu geben, fur Ihr Wohlergehen und zu Ihrem Besten. Bitte stellen Sie mir Fragen, die Ihnen und auch den anderen helfen.

Thank you.

Question: Shri Mataji, es steht geschrieben, daff man das offnen eines Chakras nicht erzwingen soll.

Shri Mataji: Nein, man kann es nicht erzwingen. Es ist ein lebendiger Prozeff, der ablauft. Wie konnte man das erzwingen, das ware vollig falsch. Kann man einen Samen dazu zwingen, daff er keimt? Im Gegenteil, Sie muffen darum bitten, ich muff Ihren freien Willen respektieren. Das ist der einzige Weg zur absoluten Freiheit.

Question: Welche Beziehung ist die beste?

Shri Mataji: Meinen Sie auf menschlichem oder gottlichem Niveau? Die beste ist die der Mutter.

Angenommen Sie waren bei einem Guru, vorausgesetzt es war ein richtiger, dann hatte er Sie zuerst geschlagen, Sie irgendwo aufgehangt, hatte Sie standigen Prufungen unterzogen und dann erst hatte er Ihnen die Selbstverwirklichung gegeben. Aber wenn es eine Mutter ist, dann ist sie tolerant und sie wunscht nichts mehr, als daff ihre Kinder die Selbstverwirklichung bekommen. Um jeden Preis. Sie nimmt alle Schmerzen auf sich, wenn sie ein Kind gebart. Und sie verlangt nichts von ihren Kindern. Sie sorgt sich nur um deren Wohlergehen. Deshalb ist die Kuṇḍalinī eine mutterliche Kraft, Ihre individuelle Mutter. Und jede einzelne Kuṇḍalinī ist bestrebt, Ihnen Ihre Wiedergeburt zu geben. Bei manchen Leuten ist die Kuṇḍalinī schon so geschwacht und geschadigt worden, aber sie wartet doch nur darauf, die Selbstverwirklichung zu geben.

Question: Kann die Kuṇḍalinī durch uns selbst oder durch Meditation erweckt werden?

Shri Mataji: Nein, die Kuṇḍalinī kann nur durch jemand erweckt werden, der die Autoritat dazu besitzt. Das ist eine gottliche Autoritat. Wenn Sie bei jemandem, der von der Kuṇḍalinī spricht, Hitze fuhlen, sollten Sie wiffen, daff er dazu nicht berechtigt ist. Wenn Sie die Selbstverwirklichung bekommen und das entsprechende Wiffen erlangen, konnen Sie anderen die Selbstverwirklichung geben. Eine Kerze, die nicht brennt, kann sich nicht selbst entzunden. Aber eine brennende Kerze kann eine andere anzunden.

Genauso kann man andere erleuchten, wenn man selbst die Erleuchtung bekommen hat. Aber es sollte kein falsches Zertiffkat sein: “Ich bin erleuchtet." Die Kuṇḍalinī reagiert nicht auf Falschheit. Meditieren ist nichts Aktives, man `ist' in Meditation.

Contents: 1987-10-16 Śhrī Mahākālī Pūjā, Blutenburg, Munich, Germany

I was told that we have a very beautiful place for this Pūjā and I was amazed how everything is working out so beautifully for all of you. You are all very lucky people I must say. Moreover that this place was called as the `Fort of flowers' and now it was called as a fort of blood, `Bloody Fort'. But I think with all these flowers it should become the `Fort of flowers' again. It's a very, very beautiful place you have come to. The vibrations are also very good here.

I've been always wondering why Germany was called as Germany. Germ, germ means sprouting. Any germ of anything means the sprouting of it. Germinate means to sprout. The sprouting of Sahaja Yoga as I've told you many a times before once taken by Germans will be reaching its epitome, its highest point.

We have had lots of ups and downs, doesn't matter. It's a difficult place and now we have started really the germination in a proper way. Yesterday I saw the whole sky was filled with colour and light. As you know that vibrations have light. It's very light flickering, very small light, each particle of vibration has and you can see that. But when there are too many, then they can be caught up by your cameras. But yesterday I think the clouds got vibrated. And is a very great thing to get the clouds vibrated. If the clouds are vibrated, the rain will be vibrated. If the rain is vibrated, the land will be vibrated. All the crops that are to be germinated will be vibrated too, so when it goes into the body of human beings, they'll get also vibrations. Is the best way now is to vibrate the clouds, I think, if you have to have many more people for Sahaja Yoga.

That's the idea came into My mind last night that why not vibrate all the clouds, that's the best way.

Moreover the vibrations are very tiny bit, with one point going into a half circle normally. This half circle then combines to make `Om' sometimes, sometimes it makes a chain, sometimes it gathers together to make crosses. But the basic thing about them is that they can think and think very fast, much faster than human beings can think. And they are extremely collective, extremely collective.

So they move together, thinking the same way, understanding the same way in an absolute manner and work out the whole thing in a very beautiful silent way that you cannot even feel.

Now the Kuṇḍalinī rising, as you have done, must be a mystery for all of you that how can you with your hands raise the Kuṇḍalinī and you must be thinking that, `This must be some sort of a special power Mother has given us that we can put our hands to anybody's Kuṇḍalinī, it rises, then stops at a place when there is problem and then again it rises.' Now it's nothing a mystery for you. You have got now within you the power. Like you can move the water, you can move the matter, you can move all those things. Animals cannot do that and even if they can do little bit here and there, they cannot transform it for their use. For example, you see the nice brass here, you see nice silver there, there's a little Gaṇeśha sitting there. All these have been transformed from something that is dead, which animals cannot do. As you become the master of living work, now you are the masters of living work now, not of the dead.

So the living force you can manage and mould it and use it for your own purpose. But the most surprising thing is that you are not even aware of it, that you are doing it. Like when you are doing, say a little elephant like that, you are aware and you know that you are doing something great. And you will tell, `Oh, I have made such and such thing, such a nice place I have done.' You'll be conscious of it because you have got ego. But when you are giving Realisation to people, you are not aware, because you have no ego. And what you say, `Mother, it's not coming up, see it's just catching on Viśhuddhi, it's not working out.' You start speaking in third person, you don't say, `I can't do it' or `I have done it.' `It's worked out.' Only when it's worked out, I see your faces and I know it's done.

So you are not even aware of it, you are not even conscious of it and there's no ego about it. You don't take any credit for that, you just feel joyous. Like so many people came for your workshop, “Oh, it was so great, Mother." What was great was you. It was you who was doing all the job. You were working it out but you don't feel that way.

The reason is that you are now working in a way that we call as akarma. Akarma is that when you do something but you do not feel you are doing something. When you are not conscious of it, that is akarma.

When you are doing something and you think that you are doing this work, that work, that thing, then it is a Karma. But now the Karma has become an akarma, not that you are not doing anything. You are doing so many things but you do not feel that you are doing it because you have now doing been doing akarma and all living work is akarma. Like the Mother Earth, She sprouts seeds, She is not aware of it.

In the same way you people are raising the Kuṇḍalinī, you are not aware of it. And when you are not aware of it, you don't even want to think, “How it is happening? See me, a human being raising a hand like this definitely the Kuṇḍalinī rises, I see it comes out of the head. It happens, I see this, it's a fact.

Then how is it that this is happening? What is the process? What is the procedure? How it has worked? Did I make any mistakes?' You never think like that. `Did I do it in a wrong manner?' You don't think.

Sir, just you start, raise the Kuṇḍalinī. You just don't bother to find out, `Have I given myself a bandhan or not? Have I seen the gentleman what his vibrations are like?' No, you just go ahead, raise your hands, yes. You are quite aware of one thing: that you are a realised Soul and that you can raise the Kuṇḍalinī.

Yesterday I saw so many Sahaja Yogis walked in. I said, “Now come along, give them Realisation." Just stood there, did like this, did like that, finished. You did not even think you have done such a great living work, that you have raised their Kuṇḍalinī. Not only that, but it will transform them. It will give them a new life. There will be some special people, as you are. You are not even aware that you are some special people. Ego has vanished.

So now you don't think that you are doing anything, you think, `It's Mother is doing everything.' Even then they give big, big speeches, they say, “Mother, I never used to speak, I didn't know what was speech. And now I have become a great speaker, it's You, You who is doing it." This feeling comes because there is no ego any more left.

Now if you see in the water, if you put a drop it becomes an ocean, no doubt. But it's not aware of it that it has become an ocean, it moves with the ocean. But supposing you see a fish, a fish is free. If she wants, she can move this way, she can move that way, she can jump up, she can drink the water, she can do what she likes. But a drop cannot, drop has to be part and parcel of the whole.

So that was the intermediary stage when you were animals. Animals were under Pāsha, under the bandhan of God.

So they were doing exactly what was to be done. Then you became human beings, where you had complete freedom to use it as you liked. If you wanted to go heaven, go to heaven. If you want to go to hell, you can go to hell. It's all are open to you. But now after becoming realised Souls, you have become absolutely free people. But in that freedom, you feel Me being there. Now what is this? Am I trying to tie you up with something or am I giving you some chains, or am I guiding you, or am I all the time sort of a person with a gun behind you, `Do this, otherwise this will happen.' That is not so.

So what is this new thing that is happening to Sahaja Yogis, it's to be understood fully.

The new thing is like this, like a fish goes everywhere, does everything, but has no discretion; doesn't know which way to go, what to do, sometimes get caught up into the, into the net of a fisherman. It can be eaten up by another big fish. It can be destroyed anytime. It may just crawl onto the shore and get finished.

So the fish has no discretion. But it has some innate knowledge to save itself from dangers. Now you don't have any innate knowledge about it, how to save yourself from dangers, how to save yourselves from troubles. No innate knowledge like that, that you are cautious, you shouldn't walk this way, you shouldn't go like this, you shouldn't give vibrations to somebody, you should not treat somebody. No, that's not there. Innately you don't have this knowledge, that we should try to save ourselves, we should go from the right side, not from the left side, it would be inauspicious, not so much. Still you always do right things. Whichever time you will choose will be the right auspicious time. You don't have to consult books on that. Like once it happened in Lonavala, we had a Pūjā and it was to be at 10 o'clock as it was here. I wouldn't go for My bath for quite some time and they were quite upset, “Mother, what's the matter?" I said, “It's all right, let's go ahead and see"... was talking here, there, there, there... then I went for My bath at about 11 o'clock. When I come back it was 12 o'clock, the sun had gone to the other side.

So they said, er... they were little upset. I said, “Now, bring the Pañchar", the one which where all the timings are written about the moon.

So till 11 o'clock there was Amāvāsyā. Amāvāsyā is the day when there is no moon in the sky.

So I can't take My bath in Amāvāsyā and you cannot have Pūjā otherwise, so I had to wait. They were amazed. They said, “We had consulted the Pañchar." I said, “Which one?" And you see, they saw, they were surprised that how is it that Mother could tell about Amāvāsyā and this and that. Because the discretion, the knowledge of discretion, is built within you.

So whatever you do, whatever way you work it out, is built-in with you. You know how to do it. For example, for a human being, if you prick him with a pin, immediately his hand will lift it. Who has told him to do that? Who has taught him to do that? No, in his consciousness it is built that once you are pricked, immediately your hand will go out, automatically with a reflex action.

So the reflex action to auspiciousness, reflex action to your saving, reflex action to everything, is built-in within you. And once you become a Sahaja Yogi, immediately you will start giving yourself a bandhan, you'll start giving others a bandhan. You don't have to think about it, a reflex action, you will do whatever you will do, will be auspicious. Whatever you will do, will be beautiful. Whatever you'll ask, will be beautiful. Like this place you got it and people are amazed, how do we get it? But in the beginning you have to develop, you have to mature. Unless and until you are matured, you do not get that discretion. Like when we were trying to get a place in London, I went with some Sahaja Yogis to find out the place. Now all kinds of funny places they were liking. I said, “The vibrations are so bad, these people are not feeling any vibrations or anything." I wouldn't even get in the place, I'd say, “No, no, no, no this is no good." They said, “No, this has character, this has that." I said, “This character all that doesn't count with Me, you see." So they said, “But Mother, how are we going to get a good place and..." I said, “We'll get it." [And you...] I was travelling by a plane, in the plane I opened a magazine and there I found Shudy Camp. When I went back, I said, “Now this is the place for us, let's go and have a look." And there it was and we found such a beautiful place.

So, we should allow, see, things to work out, have patience, things will work out automatically because now the whole of the cosmos is with us.

The whole of the discretion of the cosmos is with us. The vibrations that think are there. The vibrations that guide are with us. The vibrations that organize are with us. Let them organize us. We are playing into their hands by which we are not bound, but we are helped. Like supposing you have a baby, you have to look after the baby. But if there's somebody, she says, “All right, let me look after your baby." She says, “All right." Then you go to sleep. There's somebody who says, “All right, don't you worry, I'll make a nice bed for you." So he says, “All right." So they make a nice bed for him. Then you sleep there, there's somebody to cover you, nicely you are covered. Then they say, “All right, you have to now go for your bath, see the bath's ready for you, come along have your bath." Then you want to have your Pūjā, “All right, there's a nice place for you, come along have this." You want to have an ashram? “All right, there's a nice place for you available, have it." So it is not that you are bound by them. This is the point I am trying to make. But you are invited, you are treated with great respect and regard and everybody at your service. You say, `Mother, You come in my head,' I'll come in your head. You say, `Come in my heart,' I'll come in your heart. You say, `Come in my hands,' I'll come in your hands.

So the whole of the cosmos is at your service as if you are on the stage now, doing the job for Me.

Now to think that you are under bondage is a wrong thing. There's no bondage, on the contrary the people who are ganas, who are angels, who are deities, are anxious to do whatever is possible to please you, to keep you happy. If you say, `Now the Kuṇḍalinī has to raise,' all right they are all there to help you. Anything you want can be done, but first of all what you need is maturity. And for maturity, one has to understand that there is a culture of the spirit. As we have human cultures, we have culture of the spirit which must be imbibed. The culture of the spirit is to be imbibed. If you go according to the culture of the spirit, then you cannot have problems and the foremost thing in the culture of spirit is that you must respect yourself because you are an yogi. Second thing is you must respect other yogi, because they are yogis.

Like I have told you before in Ganapatipule, there was one tailor, Namadeva, who was a saint and he went to see another one who was just a potter. And the potter was mixing the mud with water with his feet, he was working there when Namadeva went and saw him. He saw him and what he says, “Nirguṇachya bheti alo saguṇashi” meaning “I came to see here formless, the vibrations, the Chaitanya. Formless, Nirguṇ. I came to see a Nirguṇ, meet Nirguṇa [formless] but here it is in Saguṇ[form]. You are the one who is in form of that Chaitanya." What a place, just think: one Sahaja Yogi saying to another, “Oh God, I just came here to meet the Nirguṇa, the nirākāra and whom do I meet here is the saguṇa, is the... in the form, in the form, in you I see nothing but Chaitanya." That is the, that is the respect of the another yogi or understanding. Namadeva was an ordinary tailor and was not a Brahmin, so he was not treated very well by other Brahmins and he had to go to Punjab, or it was said that he was called to Punjab and he went to Punjab where Guru Nanaka saw him. And Guru Nanak said that a great saint has come to us.

So He kept him with Him and He said, “You'd better learn Punjabi because here the people don't understand Marathi so learn Punjabi and make your poems in Punjabi language." And he started making poems in Punjabi language. Now I've got Namadeva's Gatha, so big is that his book. Half of it is all Punjabi language and then the poems he makes are so beautiful, they are sung in the Guru Granth Sahib they have in the temple. You know in all these big temples of Gurudwaras of the Sikhs, they have Guru Granth Sahib. There the Namadeva is occupying at least one-tenth of the Guru Granth Sahib and there's also Jannabai, another maid servant who was working with this Namdev, her poems are also there.

So how they were respected by each other and how they understood each other was something so great.

But now, it is just the other way around. We, the people who are false, who are wrong type of people, who are making money out of God, who are deceiving people, who are bringing all wrath and also all the negativity to this world, to destroy this world, are respected by common people. But the Sahaja Yogis must respect another Sahaja Yogi, till he is a Sahaja Yogi. As long as he is a Sahaja Yogi he must be respected and understood, is very important. This is the culture of the spirit, in that we respect all those who are spiritually higher. Like talking about God, we cannot say things which are not proper. Like we cannot say that God is mischievous, we cannot say. We are saints. We have to be very respectful to God.

Any place which is sort of representing God also must be respected. Everything that is godly must be respected, because that is the culture of the spirit. It respects all that is godly, all that is auspicious, all that is beautiful. In the culture, we do not see superficial things.

In this culture, we do not yield to anything because it is expensive or it is with such pomp and show or publicity. What we see in this culture is how far it is joy-giving. Even a small betel nut if somebody gives Me with love, I'll keep it with Me. And even if you give Me diamonds without love, I have no value for them. They will be lost or they'll be finished, good for nothing.

So the love that you put into everything makes you a Sahaja Yogi. How you talk to each other, how you deal with each other, how you look after with each other. How you communicate your love in a pure manner. Say a Sahaja Yogi should think, `Oh, I must take this present for other Sahaja Yogis. I'm going there, then that I'll meet that Sahaja Yogi, he'll be there and he'll be there and...' just like your brothers, see. `Ah, after such a long time I'll be meeting him and it will be such a nice thing to meet him and talk to him and enjoy him and sometimes also pull his legs and have a nice fun at him.' But the whole culture is of love and if you do not have that sense of love, if you are a dry person, or a morose person, or an unhappy person, then remember you are not a Sahaja Yogi. A Sahaja Yogi has to be a smiling, enjoying personality, making others happy. That's the main attitude, main concern should be. Next time I'll be speaking about the spiritual culture in Diwali when you'll be there but this is the beginning.

I have started talking about the new culture that we have to accept. In expressing our love we should not be ashamed. We should not feel shy about it at all, we are expressing our love and love must be expressed. There's no harm in expressing our love. But it happens that in the beginning we feel little shy, we are conditioned, how to express, people will misunderstand and they will think that we are wrong type of people. No, we are special people. We have to make the whole world, they are not going to make us.

We have to create the new world and they have to follow us, we are not going to follow them. We are the makers of kings and we are the makers of queens and we are the makers of everything.

So we have to work it out that way. We don't have to bow to their ways and methods but we have to patronize and look after them when they come to us first, try to treat them as if a father would treat a son and then bring him up, mould them and give them love and make them understand that we are people of a very, very different domain, of a different style. We are absolutely free people and are being entertained by the Divine, are being looked after by the Divine, are being helped and decorated by the Divine. Such a privileged place we have, so let us be of that dignity and of that morality, that we stand up to that. How can we do something wrong to insult ourself? We cannot, we are yogijanas and we have to be like yogis.

May God bless you all! Now for Pūjā, today should be actually because this is a time when we are having a... to say to that? We call it Kṛiṣhṇapaksha, in Sanskrit language meaning... Shukla paksha is when the sun is, the moon is increasing and Kṛiṣhṇapaksha is when the sun is waning. And now the sun is waning so it is more on the left hand side, we can do the Mahākālī Pūjā today would be a good idea because that's very important in this country especially to have Mahākālī to finish off all negative ideas, all oppressive idea.

So we'll do today the Mahākālī's Pūjā.

May God bless you!

Contents: 1987-10-24 Talk to Sahaja Yogis (Bhau Beej Day), The Light of Love, Evening Program, the day before Diwali Pūjā, Lake of Como, Italy

Today we have come here to celebrate a great Festival of Dīpawali, meaning the rows of lights, or the festival of lights. It was to celebrate the coronation of Śhrī Rāma also, that is to say symbolically to celebrate the establishment of a kingdom which has a benevolent administration. Today I find all of you here as the lights sitting before Me. And with these lights I feel the Dīpawali really celebrated, I see the twinkling of those eyes, twinkling in the eyes of that light which is within you.

In the lamp of light we have to put something that is soft, like ghee, that's something very mild and soft, is the love of our heart. And that burns to give this soothing light of love to others. Such a person who has this light of love, loves himself as well and emits love for others.

I've been hearing about the way people used to torture themselves to become saintly. There's no need at all for Sahaja Yogis, at all, to torture themselves. But to be the light of a higher magnitude, they have to be full of love. And this love they get it from where? You may say it is from Me, is true, but the sap of the tree flows all over and all the tree must live together. Any leaf that wants to separate itself will die out.

So is the collectivity which is going to make you grow. Any ideas which you have of keeping yourself out, or preserving yourself out, or having your houses separate from the collectivity, may be dangerous.

The houses may be separate, but they must be the houses of all the Sahaja Yogis. Anybody who comes to your house, who is a Sahaja Yogi, is owner of that house.

That sort of a feeling should be developed, when the light you take out from one room to another room, it does not say: `This is my room so I give light, if I go to another room I will not give light.' Now, light is absolutely detached. If you do not look after your light, it will extinguish. You have to look after it till it takes its proper stand. And once it takes a particular stand, then you are a strong Sahaja Yogi. Then they see the light on your face. And then you manifest light in their lives. This light [points at the candle on the table near Her], if you put finger on it, it will burn. But the light of love never burns. It dissolves all that is bad. It rejects, it turns away from whatever that is wrong. It has patience and it expels the darkness. Darkness within and without.

Diwali day is specially meant to celebrate with the lights, on a day when Lakṣhmī was born. Now this Lakṣhmī came out of the sea and even today there's lot of Lakṣhmī lying under the beds of the sea.

But when you do not understand the real significance of Lakṣhmī, then it brings darkness and Lakṣhmī disappears.

For example, somebody gets lots of money: immediately he will have his first-class bar in the house.

Then he'll have his friends to come and have drinks. He'll drink with them and suddenly find that Lakṣhmī has disappeared.

So wherever there is wine, there is darkness. And that darkness which comes to you with the Lakṣhmī, makes Lakṣhmī just disappear. The whole of the universe, the whole cosmos is so well neat [UNCLEAR] that if you try to do one thing wrong this side, everything goes off. It is so well connected, like one [lamp] fuses, everything fuses off.

In Sahaja Yoga also, it happens like this, that a person who is enlightened and tries to be nasty, tries to create problems, can make others negative. In the beginning it used to happen very often, like one bad apple can spoil all the good apples. But one bad apple cannot be corrected by all the good apples. One Hitler could make many Hitlers, but in Sahaja Yoga when you are grown up and established, then one bad man if comes, either he has to run away or he has to get well. A person like that himself he tie up all his luggage and go away. But the main people, the people who are grown up and who are matured, should keep their maturity and assert it.

It's in the form of light, again. Now, if there are many lights like these are [points at the lights on the stage] and one of them goes out, doesn't matter, because it's, there are so many others like that.

But if there is one light which is matured enough, even all of them go away, doesn't matter.

So the people who are half Sahaja Yogis, or quarter Sahaja Yogis [Laughter.]... quattro [laughs].

... have to understand that they play no important role in Sahaja Yoga. Everybody has to become a full-edged Sahaja Yogi. Then it matters a lot if a such Sahaja Yogi is sick, or is in problem, all the angels will run to help them.

So today is a special day to celebrate the kingdom of God on earth. As we are used to pray: “Thy Kingdom come, on this earth." And it has come today on this mountain. And we are here to celebrate the coming of the kingdom of God, as we have been praying for ages! And the blessings of kingdom of God is that you get drenched in joy. Joy which has no duality, like happiness and unhappiness. Is an experience of absoluteness. And just that joy is sufficient, you don't want any food, you don't want to sleep, you don't mind where you are, just in joy drenched completely. There's no place for unhappiness, we have no heart for it.

Italians were known to be melancholic people, but now I find all of them are so joyous that nobody can believe that they could have been melancholic once upon a time. [Laughter.] Not only that, but they are giving so much joy. The program [Antonio Saracino who is translating speciffes: `The program in Milan'] should open our eyes of all the Europeans to see how on the stage they were singing songs to Me and everybody in the audience was clapping and enjoying it. Because Italians are very humble people. And it is the humble who will be entering into the kingdom of God and not the arrogant. They'll have to go to hell to get rid of their arrogance. This is something it's very great that we are celebrating Diwali here, that in the place where people are humble and they have the right to be joyous. They have the right on their Mother, they have the right to ask for anything that they want. This is what is surrendering.

Humble person means the person who doesn't have ego.

So to burn off ego and to burn off our conditioning, we had this festival called Holi. But now we have a new festival, which is a festival of singing songs of joy and joy alone.

In this Diwali day, let us wish that so many people fall into this ocean of joy and the ocean of joy has to expand its borders, shores. A sea never does that, but Sahaja Yogis can do it because they have ocean of love in their hearts.

So I wish you all a very happy Diwali, in the sense that you will enlighten more lights, every Sahaja Yogi should enlighten at least hundred lights in this year. [Laughter.] Every person you meet, you can talk to them about Sahaja Yoga. Not about Me. Later on, gradually.

So I hope you'll enjoy your Diwali here, all of you and we'll create an ocean which will expand, grow and engulf more and more people into this joyous company.

Today, I don't want to say that I'm sorry because I came late, which won't be good on a joyous day like this. But waiting has so dividends to play, pay, waiting gives you another kind of appreciation of meeting.

May God bless you all.

Contents: 1987-10-25 Diwali Pūjā (3rd day after Diwali Day), Power of Innocence, 8 Lakṣhmīs, Lecco, Italy

First, we bow to Śhrī Gaṇeśha because Śhrī Gaṇeśha is the source of innocence within us.

So actually we bow to innocence within us. And this innocence is the one [that] gives you the enlightenment. As I told you yesterday the light has innocence, but this is innocent without knowledge. But your light is innocent with knowledge. We always think that the people who have got knowledge can never be innocent, can never be simple. And the idea we have got about innocence is that a[n] innocent person is always deceived, can be befooled and can be always taken for granted. But innocence is a power; it is a power which protects you, which gives you light of knowledge.

Knowledge that we have in the worldly sense is how to exploit others, how to cheat others, how to make money out of them, how to make fun of others, how to look down upon others. But the light of innocence is the light by which you know that love is the highest thing. And it teaches you how to love others, how to care for others, how to be gentle about others. It also gives you the light within.

It's just the other way round of this AVidyā that we have in this world. Just the other way round.

The AVidyā outside teaches us competition, how to put the other person down. Because it has fear, it is insecure. This knowledge is not secured, at all. If it had security it would not have behaved like this. But the light of innocence knows everything. It has no fear. When we say `children are innocent' we mean to say that they have that power of innocence. Many times people have noticed if a child falls from a height, it doesn't die; while a young man may die with a much smaller height. And the child is not afraid while falling. He just enjoys, as if there is a parachute coming down, you know, nicely. And then when he falls down, also he just gets up, laughs, smiles at everyone. He doesn't understand why everybody is worried. Because in that innocence he knows that he's looked after, he's protected. He knows that there is a power, which is much higher than him and he does not have to worry.

Then we start putting ideas into the head of the child and that is how he starts losing his power of innocence and he becomes a coward, he becomes a cunning fellow, he becomes an unrighteous personality.

But still we would say that the innocence of children is [the] innocence of ignorance, in a way, because they do not know the dangers of life. But the light of innocence knows all the dangers and also knows how to get rid of it, also knows how to be away from such a person.

There was a wise man, who was going on a staircase and there was a stupid man coming from the other side, foolish man.

So foolish people are always aggressive, that is one of the signs, because they have inferiority complex.

So the foolish man says to the man who was coming up, he says, [because] one had to move on one side, so he says, “I don't move for fools!" The foolish one says.

So the wise man says, “I do” and he moved. [Laughter.] That's how the light of innocence tells you how far to go with a person, how far to talk to a person, how far to indulge in another person's personality or his problems; otherwise he recedes. He understands that this gentleman is a stupid fool so “I move for a fool like that." He doesn't pay attention to such a person, he doesn't bother about such a person.

This is the light of innocence which gives you discrimination. How far to go with others. I love a person, there are many, “I love him." Alright! The another person may kick you, may hit you, may trouble you, may become absolutely horribly possessed, but still you are just mad in love with that person, without any self-respect. This comes because there is no... you may be innocent, in a way, in a worldly manner, but you are not enlightened and innocent. When you are enlightened and innocent then your innocence is a power, which gives you, first thing, is discretion.

Supposing you take a light in your hand, now you know whether it is a snake or a rope, but if there is no light in your hand, you cannot see. But even, supposing it's a snake, you might run away, or if you are a stupid fool, you'll say, `Alright, come and bite me. I would like to see, how it works.' [Child laughs. Laughter.] But if you are an enlightened person, then you will tell the snake, `Now, let me be alone. Alright? Bye-bye.' [Laughter.] And the snake will know and it will go away. Or if the snake is a sinister one, you may just look at the snake and snake might run off.

So this power of innocence is a very, very important thing and that comes to us through our enlightenment alone.

So we are, say, in a state which is ignorant and innocent, innocent and ignorant. Then people are no more innocent nor ignorant, but they are not enlightened, they become cunning! If they don't have both the qualities, they are neither ignorant, so-called, they have got knowledge, they are good at everything, they are well known people, for their intelligence, brilliance, everything, so they are knowledgeable, so-called.

So such people we could call as the people who have got the knowledge, in the worldly sense, but they have no innocence.

So they start devising methods, the innocence which is there, which puts a little control over such a mind, is lost. Because they think innocence is stupid, you know? They don't respect their innocence.

So they start manoeuvreing people, doing violent things, doing harmful things, saying nasty, sarcastic things.

All these things the brain starts working, because it cannot get back to its innocence.

So we don't like such people later on, we don't want them. Then they develop ideas that, “We are higher people, we are chosen people, we are better people” then, they develop all these ideas. Then they, all of them club together.

So ignorance is added as a so-called knowledge, you see. Inside is completely ignorance, outside is knowledge. And added up, added up like that, they do not want to seek their inside. And they are satisfied with their outside, so-called knowledge. And they go ahead with it and once they break their heads, then they realise, “Oh God, what was it? Inside is all darkness." We cannot live with all the windows closed hermetically and the sun shining outside. We have to have light inside, to see for ourselves, what are we, what are our powers, how far we can go, how we are working out ourselves, our lives, our aims? Now the enlightenment, as the enlightenment you see here is of these lights, is manifested within you as vibrations, as Chaitanya, as light.

So the Chaitanya itself is the light. But the difference between this light and that light is such that this one will only tell you as far as your eyes are concerned. It will tell you that it is a stone, or it is a wood, or it is a house, or it is a face of a man, anything, this light, but it won't be able to tell you whether this person is good or bad, whether this house is vibrated or not, is auspicious or not.

So it doesn't give you auspiciousness, the idea of auspiciousness.

So we are talking of Gaṇeśha's innocence, which gives us sense of auspiciousness and ourselves also makes us auspicious.

This is how the Chaitanya itself is enlightenment, Chaitanya itself is enlightenment. It relates to you all the knowledge which it has. Now imagine what a micro-arrangement it is that the Chaitanyas, which are small, small like, we can say, little round valayas, small, small ones. They have intelligence in them and discretion built-in them to tell you whether a person is good or bad.

You have got it, Sahaja Yoga, so in a simple way.

So we have not bothered to find out, what your computer has got. It has got the knowledge now to know, not only if the person is good or bad, but what troubles that person has got. Now this light can go up to one dimension of a person, how he looks, how he walks, everything. And you, if you start imagining something, if you start imagining and saying that, `I feel this way, I think this way'...

[Somebody interrupts Shri Mataji's talk.]

Shri Mataji: Not all right?

Sahaja Yogini: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: Ha?

Sahaja Yogini: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: You can't hear Me? Many Sahaja Yogis: Yes. Upstairs only in the baby school.

Shri Mataji: What is it? Akbar: There is a video for the mothers with the children and they can't hear You. It is upstairs.

Shri Mataji: I didn't hear, what is it? Antonio Scialo: There is a children room upstairs, for children, with a video for children and mothers.

But they cannot hear it.

Shri Mataji: Oh I see, but the children are here? Sahaja Yogis: Babies, babies; mothers and babies.

Shri Mataji: Oh God.

Somebody has to go up and fix it up, isn't it? I think you should have tested it before, isn't it? Alright.

So, the Chaitanya that is within us, which is flowing out, which we are receiving from all over, is All-pervading, is in every molecule pulsating: which gives us knowledge about each and every matter, each and every animal, each and every human being and each and every Deity. Without this light you could not have recognized Me. You could not have recognized any Deities. You could not have known your position in life and your aims in life. You would not have known what is your purpose of life, why are you here.

Are you here just to make some money, put some in the insurance, some in the shares? Of course, now nobody will do that! [The stock markets crashed six days before the Pūjā.] [Laughter.] And get some house and dance on the fingers of your wife, or the wife has to dance as the dictates of the husband, to bring up children somehow, are you here for that? This Chaitanya tells you, very clearly, “No." Because if you get more involved into these things and become completely cut-off from the collective happenings, then this light goes off. As soon as this light gets disconnected, you can't have any light.

So, any connection, whatever you have, with the vibrations has to be very strong and has to be absolutely intact and steady. For example, if there is a light which is not steady, which is moving, you can't understand things properly. Though the vibrations know everything, but how will they communicate this to an instrument which is not perfect, which does not respect vibrations, which does not communicate with the vibrations? Please take the child out. Don't try to push the, no, no, no, don't do that. No, no, don't. You should not lose temper with children, you know? They are crying, they must be wanting something.

So, this knowledgeable instrument that you have got is to be all the time flowing through you and you have to be a very clean apparatus. Supposing you have this light and the glass is not clean, you won't get light properly.

So the purity has to be established and that is the part, where Gaṇeśha is so important, because He cleanses you, He washes you and you become innocent: because you do not plan or think of harming anyone, who is a good person, who is a nice person.

It becomes innocence because it is auspicious. You start becoming auspicious. Wherever you go and [if] you meet somebody that person feels, “Oh God, today something good has happened in our family.

Something good has come out." Now recently I met someone in Germany where there was a `Sahaja Yogi' who started talking against Me and Sahaja Yoga. And he got out of the Ashram and then he went to somebody who was supposed to be a Sahaja Yogi and his wife and there he started telling about his woes and, against Sahaja Yoga and all those things. Though he has been always a possessed man, but still: these people should not have listened to anything against Me. In the Shāstras is written, that: to hear the Guru-ninda, anything against your Guru, is absolutely dangerous.

So anybody says anything against your Guru, you have to put your hands like that, `I don't want to hear anything against my Guru!' Instead of that they sympathized.

So the lady has got a serious type of cancer and the husband is also very sick.

Now, one has to understand that if you are going to cross this ocean in a boat, all of us are there and [if] one wants to put one foot into the mouth of a crocodile, how can we save such people? Then it's better that they should go to the crocodile than to the boat. But those who try to sympathize and put another foot in the crocodile, then they have to be in trouble.

All these things not only hamper but are so inauspicious and dangerous that you all have to be extremely careful about it. You need not tell people that, `You are evil! You are bad!,' or anything, but just `Get out of Sahaja Yoga!' Have nothing to do with them. You should say, `We are sorry. We can't to anything about it. You do what you like. It's not our responsibility.' And there you should not be meek, you should not feel embarrassed or delicate about it. Tell them off, `Nothing doing. We cannot help you here, we are sorry, you work it out yourself.' Because this light is a light which nourishes you and strengthens you. The light of the Spirit must give you that strength within you. You become a strong personality. You become a personality which can withstand lots of things, even crucifixion, but it can also fight. It has all the qualities built within itself.

Like a person who has a temper. No! It's not a very good person to be, with temper. It's not good for a Sahaja Yogi to have temper. But if somebody says something to you against your Mother, you have to have temper. That's the place we have to use temper. You can box that person, doesn't matter. [Laughter.] Gaṇeśha will be just standing behind you. [Laughter.] And Hanumāna will be in front. [Laughter.] If you box him once, Hanumāna will box him ten times. [Laughter.] So that time the anger has meaning.

Now, people say, one should not have greed in life. Yes, one should not have greed, but if you have got greed for vibrations it's a very good thing. You should be very greedy about vibrations. Wherever you get vibrations, you must rush and try to get more vibrations. Greed is alright, you should have that greed within yourself. If you don't have that greed, how will you be able to overcome the other attractions? It is very surprising, I always wonder about human beings, which I've never been able to understand Myself. [Laughter.] That, when it comes to hatred they are the best! If they want to hate someone then you can make them sacrifice everything that they have. Under the name of God, under the name of nation, under the name of anything whatever you want. You just have to say that, `We have to hate someone.' Immediately they'll gather around, they'll pass trough all kinds of ordeals, sacrifice everything, go to jails, they will kill themselves, commit suicides, just if you tell them, `We hate someone.' Or else you have to say that, `We are a great nation, something very big and, these are bad nations, so we have to fight.' They will do.

It is very surprising that, even when it comes to political revolutions and for their political freedom, they can go to any limit of sacrifices. The other day I was watching Lenin's fight. I was amazed! This single man Lenin, who was always in the exile used to only write, “We have to fight, we have to get this, we have to do that." Though he was a realised Soul, but still he didn't write about spirituality, he wrote about political struggle and three times there was an upsurge and thousands and thousands of people you find in every place being killed, just like that. It is very surprising.

Now, don't fan, you see, while I am talking you should not fan, you know, it disturbs. Pay full attention; pay full attention, is important. Because if you do not pay attention, others will look at you and their attention will be spoiled.

Now this one was so dedicated, even little children and wives and pregnant women and so many men were killed in a lot like that. Again they rose, again they rose three times and the fourth time they were successful. For what? For a political achievement.

We did that in India, too. People gave up everything that they have, their houses, families, everything they gave up. Even for fake Gurus people have spent so much money, they have done so much, given up everything, sold their houses, put their children into trouble, got into trouble, everything they did. But for the right thing, the wisest thing, the only great thing that has to happen is Sahaja Yoga, where comfort is pouring on us all the time, where all kinds of joy is pouring on us, where everything is being smoothed out for you, people become so fond of comfort and this and that, that the slightest sacrifice they can't understand.

They'll come with problems about their wives, about their children, about their husbands, everything solved. Now this goes on and on and on and on.

Solve them! Finish them off! Cut them short! You have to spread Sahaja Yoga! You have to sacrifice some time, you have to sacrifice some money also. Who is going to work it out? Nobody is going to kill you, as people were killed in Russia, or in Germany, or in Poland. Nobody is going to take away your children or to take away your money, or anything, no one wants it.

But this light in your hand has to be burnt with the true desire, the pure desire within you, is the Kuṇḍalinī. That is the wick, that is the one has to be kept absolutely nourished. And that is where Sahaja Yogis fail.

People don't want to leave Sahaja Yoga. Even if you tell them, “Please go away, we can't help!", “No, no, no, I cannot leave Sahaja Yoga.", “Why?" Because is a place of enjoyment. But it would be something different from human beings, because human beings, if a human being gets a bottle of wine he'll call ten more to enjoy it. If a dog gets something to eat he'll call other dogs to eat it. If a crow gets something to eat he'll call other crows to eat it. Naturally built within them. Same with human beings.

But when it comes to Sahaja Yoga we are not that tenacious about it. We have to tell all our relations, `We are Sahaja Yogis and this is the religion of within and this is what it is, if you don't want to follow I have nothing to do with you. Why don't you follow it?' Everybody has got relations.

So on a Diwali day, when we were talking about our light, what are we going to do with this light? Are we going to use it only for our own purpose? Christ has said, you don't put the light under a, what you call it?, measure. You don't put it under a measure. You put it on a table.

We all have to come out in the public, we have to find out ways and methods. It's not only the leaders, everybody has to work it out what we can do to spread Sahaja Yoga. In every place you go: how can we give Sahaja Yoga? Of course I don't want you to change your dresses, but you can carry big badges. People will ask you. You should say, `Yes, this is the person who has given us peace, joy and happiness.' Start talking like that, go to the markets, go to public places.

I go to market just to spread vibrations, you all have to do that, otherwise you will have the Sahaja Yoga enjoyment to yourself, but unless and until you share it you are not going to enjoy it fully. Look at Me. I have all the vibrations of the world. [Laughter.] I have everything, I should be such a self-contented person, sitting at home, in meditation. [Laughter.] At this age, why should I travel after all? [Laughter.] I am the Ādi Shakti, why should I worry of making everybody such a powerful Shakti people? There's no need. I should enjoy My powers, I can, but I cannot.

I have to work hard. I give the maximum time to Sahaja Yoga, than any one of you can give. I have a family, I have got My husband. He has a life which is very, very busy life. I've got grandchildren. I give the maximum time. Now see, from here to Rome, then to France, then to Spain. You all are having just a relay race. Alright, I am here, Italians are having a little strain. Then they will relax! “Now alright..." [Laughter.] Then, what do I do? All the year round I am going from places to places... travelling. And when I have everything. Can you think of a rich man who is busy distributing all the wealth he has, while the others take time to take it? That is what it is.

So I have to tell you that you have to come in a new dimension of your enthusiasm. Sahaja Yoga is not for our enjoyment alone. “We are saints” so what! For what? For what you are made saints? It's not that the men should only do, or women should do, or this one should do, or that one should do. Don't get involved into these temptations. There are thirteen temptations, which came out of the churning. The fourteenth one was a big hunter to neutralise all the thirteen.

Not that Sahaja Yoga wants to tempt anyone, but they become temptations because they are blessings to you and blessings you start using as temptations. Now, for anybody, to have such a temptation would be more like a horse, which has to go to the south or to the north, is standing and eating the grass. You have to move, movement is the point, you have to move from places to places, you have to go from villages to villages, you have to go from houses to houses. This message has to spread.

Christ's twelve disciples only, how much religion they have created? Of course, it's of no use, but still! You are going to give something so substantial and so great. But when you tell them, then the way you tell them is important. The way you assert is important. I don't mind from today, you can tell them what I am. Doesn't matter. How long are we going to hide it? You better tell them that, `She is such and such, it's written in the Bible, She is such and such, we have found it. If you don't want to see it, don't see it, but it is so.' Let's have that determination and let's have that kind of a outspokenness. Look at these horrible politicians. They say, “I believe that there should be some people who should be rich, the rest should be poor. I believe. I believe in this and I believe in that." What about you? You do not only believe, but you know for definite! And that's what should be decided on a Diwali day that by next Diwali we have to get many, many people for Sahaja Yoga.

But when I speak, many people told Me that they think I am not speaking to them [but] to somebody else. You should see to the people who are working harder than you for Sahaja Yoga; who are involved more in Sahaja Yoga; those who are achieving more in Sahaja Yoga, not the people who have done nothing. You can see Me.

What are we doing? You should think about it. Where are we? This is the most important period. At the most, in Europe, I will be for five years more, at the most. Do you think I'll be travelling after seventy years of age? No.

So this is such an important time when I am here, then I could meet people, I could talk to them, I can help you a lot. In these five years you have to achieve something. And you have to take a jump and give a speed to yourself. Otherwise this is a very important time, will be lost by all your fellow men.

Like the other day we had program. I'll tell you a practical side: now what, I would do [is] take the addresses of all the people who got realisation, take it down, write to them, go and see them, meet them.

[Find out] what has happened, why didn't they come.

Then make a statement, why people didn't come, what happened, why is he not coming. Write to them all the time. See you'll be surprised if you take one copy of `Reader's Digest' [Magazine], only once, make a mistake. [Laughter], they go on sending you so many types of things, you know? [Laughter.] You will get this present, you'll get, this is a car free for you, this thing for you. Who wants it? But they go on sending. I have written to them, “Don't send Me anything. I don't want any car, nothing. You just send Me `Reader's Digest', thank you very much. I'm not a lucky person. Please don't send." Still they are sending! [Laughter and applause.] In this way you must write to them all the time, `Why are you not coming to Mother? Why you are not coming to Sahaja Yoga? Sahaja Yoga is so important, it has given me so much, why don't you want to have it?' You must show that earnestness within you. And if you do not show that earnestness, take it in a mundane way, `Alright, it's going well, this, that, is good, alright, this is improving, that is.' That's not the way you are going to work it out! Once I go to India I know in India it will take no time. India will work out very fast. And you have to book your seats in the heaven, that's very important. I mean, even for an aeroplane you have to book a seat; then what about heaven? [Laughter.] And so many have to book the seats. If all Indians are sitting there, what will you do? [Laughter.] So with this joy, with this happiness, with this light on our face, with this beauty of enlightenment you are all Gurus. Imagine, these useless [false] Gurus know nothing, their Kuṇḍalinī is not awakened, nothing of that kind and how much they have built up their empires after empires. I don't say that you build up empires, no, not that way, but why not build up at least a hut to show that you have achieved something and it has to be done.

Talk to everyone in your office, in your this thing, not to feel shy. I have seen people put up these horrible peoples' photographs everywhere. In their office you go, you find them; in the buses you find them; everywhere they are hanging. Why not My photograph? So the curiosity is there, people will ask you, you tell them, it will work out.

The best thing is working out in Italy, surprisingly. And it will go ahead, because we found some very good people and you should try to find out. Such people who are around, get after them and work it out.

But don't go to wrong people, must use your discretion. You know how these [false] Gurus work, is very important. My brother was telling Me that a lady from this Muktananda, now the Muktananda is not there, there is another American girl, American-styled Indian girl.

So, this Muktananda lady [disciple], one English lady came to his house, My brother's house and she was very sweet, “I want to see you, Sir”, this, that. And she saw My photograph.

So she said, “What is this Mātājī doing here?" He said, “Why? She is my sister." She just bundled up everything and ran away.

So My brother called her, “Please, come along, sit down, sit down. What do you do?" She said, “No Sir, we see, we always go and meet all the important people of the city, talk to them about it." He said, “Yes." And all the judges' names were on the list. Immediately My brother took the telephone and told them, “Have nothing to do with this woman!" But this is what it is. You should find out how to approach people. When I am there, there are, say, 200 people. When I go away, there are only two people. Why? What is the matter? Why they go away? There must be some reason. They don't know Me. At least get their addresses. Find out who are these people. There's no harm in getting their addresses and finding out who they are. Then put them on the list and go on sending letters to them, if not so much like Reader's Digest, but something. When you will start sending letters to them, you will be entered into their ignorance. The light will go in. Through your movement, your attention, the light will go. You don't know your attention, how powerful it is. Once you start paying attention to them, the light will pass through them. If not today, tomorrow they'll come round. You can also send My photograph, `Try on the photograph, this is the photograph, you came to the program, we are very happy.' Now if the follow-on doesn't work out, try this thing.

And that's the best way you can achieve sometimes, but it is for you to think and understand, because you are human beings and you know human beings. You just put yourself in the position of another person, what would have appealed to you? There's another thing I feel that people should write books about Me. There's no harm. But about Me, write the book about Me. But some people, who have a name, who have in the society some name, who will be taken up seriously, they can write a book about Me. They write books about everyone, why can't you write a book about Me? Not about, you can write about Sahaja Yoga in it, of course, but you can write about Me. Telling people of such and such person is there and this is the solution, this is the hope. Why not? They write about all these horrible Gurus, why can't you write about Me? But the person has to be a well known person. Now supposing you write a book, somebody else can publish in his name, if you are a good writer.

Somebody else can edit it and publish it. We can do that way. There are so many ways and methods by which you can bring to the notice of the people that this is Sahaja Yoga.

How many people know about Sahaja Yoga? A person comes out of jail, from India, walks out and here it is. Very well known `Guru' sitting in some corner of some dirty lane in America somewhere and is a very well known person. They are all very well known, how? And it is not always that these things are done through money, they are done through people doing their own deliberation. But these deliberations may be mesmerizing, bhootish, I agree. I do understand that you are free people, to do what you like, but in your freedom you have to realise. And this is what today you all have to decide that this is the light we have got, this has to be made into a beacon, not just a light, a tinted light like that; what's the use? We have to be like a beautiful tower of light. Like a lighthouse. And everybody should work it out within and without. Within though you have worked out, without you must work now.

And secondly there's a dīpawali, it is not only one light.

So we have to be all collective, try to get to collective life. Whenever it is possible, try to attend all that is collective; try to be there, where there is collective happenings. There, where it is collective, this source of energy flows better.

May God bless you all! [During Pūjā ceremony.] [Hindi.] Have you got the Ashta Lakṣhmī Stotra? You got Ashta Lakṣhmī Stotra, no? You have.

[Hindi.] Now, first we'll do the Gaṇeśha Pūjā. All right? First we'll do the Gaṇeśha Pūjā.

[Hindi.] You know Atharva Sheersha? You know that?

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Children can wash My feet.

Sahaja Yogi: All the children [come].

Shri Mataji: Come along. Four of you sit down. Four, four, already four. All right. Sit here.

Sahaja Yogis: [Śhrī Gaṇeśha Atharva Sheersha.]

Shri Mataji: Wash My feet.

Now, the second one is the Lakṣhmī Stotra. Mahālakṣhmī Stotra you know? Or Ashta Lakṣhmī?

Sahaja Yogi: [We can sing like yesterday the ten names of Śhrī Lakṣhmī.]

Shri Mataji: All right.

Now, before that, unmarried girls, but not too many, now seven only. From Italy.

Sahaja Yogis: Om Twameva sākṣhāt Śhrī Ādya Lakṣhmī sākṣhāt Śhrī Ādi Shakti Mātājī Śhrī Nirmalā Devī namo namaḥ.

Om Twameva sākṣhāt Śhrī Vidyā Lakṣhmī sākṣhāt Śhrī Ādi Shakti Mātājī Śhrī Nirmalā Devī namo namaḥ.

Om Twameva sākṣhāt Śhrī Bhogya Lakṣhmī sākṣhāt Śhrī Ādi Shakti Mātājī Śhrī Nirmalā Devī namo namaḥ.

Om Twameva sākṣhāt Śhrī Gṛuha Lakṣhmī sākṣhāt Śhrī Ādi Shakti Mātājī Śhrī Nirmalā Devī namo namaḥ.

Śhrī Amṛuta Lakṣhmī, Śhrī Saubhagya Lakṣhmī, namo namaḥ, Śhrī Gṛuhalakṣhmī, Śhrī Rājalakṣhmī, Śhrī Satya Lakṣhmī, namo namaḥ.

Śhrī Amṛuta Lakṣhmī, Śhrī Saubhagya Lakṣhmī, namo namaḥ, Śhrī Gṛuhalakṣhmī, Śhrī Rājalakṣhmī, Śhrī Satya Lakṣhmī, namo namaḥ.

Shri Mataji: Little bit out of tune they are going. They are going out of tune a little bit, those girls.

Let them go in tune, you see. One should not go in. Speak with heart and speak with feelings and should not be out of tune. They are out of tune very much. Do it properly. Now.

[Hindi.] Come along. Let's have it, again.

You must stay in tune, in proper tune, you see. Just without tune, if you go out. You play and then they should sing.

[Hindi.] Where are they? Those who are singing? They should be there, you see. That's why they are not in tune with you. Come here those who are singing. That's better. That's the reason.

[Hindi.] You must sit with the musician and sing in tune, all right? Not without tune. Otherwise vibrations won't come.

[Hindi.] Vibrations are not flowing. It's better to sing. Not in tune. Better sing like that. [UNCLEAR]. They don't know how to sing it.

[Hindi.] Who has fixed this? [Laughs.] It's catching on the Sahasrāra.

[Hindi.] Make it in the Indian tune.

[Hindi.] Now that's a very not proper way. Let her sing. She knows. Let her sing. You see, the vibrations should not, My Sahasrāra is caught up now. Sit down. All of you sit down.

These are mantras, it's not song, it's mantras, you see. Are to be said with deliberation and understanding.

[Pūjā continues.] [Sahaja Yogis sing Mahālakṣhmī Stotram.] Out of tune they are going. They are going out of tune a little bit. Let them go in tune, you see? One should not go in... speak with heart and speak with feelings and should not be out of tune.

They are out of tune, very much. Do it properly. Now. [Hindi/Marathi.] Come along. Again. Must stay in tune, in proper tune, you see? Just without tune if you go out, you play and then they should sing.

Where are they? Those who are singing? They should be there, you see, that's why, they are not in tune with you. Come here, those who are singing. That's better, that's the reason. You must sit with the musicians and sing in tune, alright? Not without tune. Thus vibrations will come. Vibrations are not flowing. Is better to sing... not in tune, better sing like that. They don't know how to sing it. Catching on the Sahasrāra. Make it an Indian tune.

So that's a very not proper way. Let her sing, she knows. Let her sing, she's steady [UNCLEAR].

You see, vibrations could not... My Sahasrāra's caught up. Sit down, all of you sit down.

These are mantras, this is not song, is mantras, you see? Are to be said with deliberations and understanding.

[Indian lady sings Mahālakṣhmī Stotram.] You see, how it should be sung, not that like a tiger is running after you. Is a deliberate thing, is mantra, see? Everybody has no right to sing mantras also. Is a thing with deliberations.

Now let us see how they sing, as I don't want to catch again My Sahasrāra. Now which one, what one is they were singing? What is the one they were singing? Reply: ten names of Śhrī Lakṣhmī.

Shri Mataji: Now. Do it slowly, steadily and without hurrying up. And understanding what you are saying. She rides on an elephant, not in an aeroplane.

[Sahaja Yogi asks if the song should be sung in one or two parts.] No, one part. Two parts is not good. That also is wrong. One part. One part and with deliberations, see? Every word should be clear-cut. Then these are mantras, see? These are the words which are enlightened and this is only very few people have this Adhikara, you see, you have, because you are Sahaja Yogis, to sing mantras. Now let's have it. Not in parts, sing it in one.

[Sahaja Yogis say mantras for ten names of Lakṣhmī.] Good, beautiful, see the vibrations started flowing. And now the meanings you know.

Now, today when we are doing Lakṣhmī Pūjā all these are blessings on your Chakras which are bestowed upon [you].

So it has to be done in such a way that the deities should be happy and you should get all the blessings.

See these are mantras. There's a difference between a music and the mantra. The mantras act on your Chakras and open that part in you and bestow that blessing of that mantra upon you. This is the difference. Alright? So mantras should never be sung with a sweet or just in a very superficial way. It has to be very deep with feelings and understanding. Now do you know the meaning of all these Lakṣhmīs? Can you tell them or should I tell them? Now do you know the meaning of all these Lakṣhmīs? Can you tell them or should I tell them? Now first is the Ādya Lakṣhmī. Ādya is the one who is The Primordial, Primordial Lakṣhmī. As I told you about, that She came out of the Sea.

So that's what we call Christ's Mother was called as Mary, Maria, because She came from Marine. People don't know why she was called as Mary. My name also is, as you know, is Nīra, meaning coming from water.

Then the second one is Vidyā Lakṣhmī. She's the one who teaches you the technique of handling the Divine Power. Now this [is] to be understood very well. What is a Lakṣhmī. Lakṣhmī is graciousness.

So She teaches you how to use this power with graciousness. Now, this is what is the blessing going to you so that you get the power of Ādya Lakṣhmī by which you become like water. And what is the water? It has a cleansing power and it shines. Without water we cannot exist. It's life.

So that's the first blessing for you is that the face shines, with Ādya Lakṣhmī, that you become cleansing and that you can sink all that is material, all that is light can float on you. Now, the Vidyā Lakṣhmī is the one, as I told you, gives you knowledge, knowledge how to handle the Divine Power graciously. I'll give you an example. I've seen many people when they give bandhan, it's such a crude way, that... No! It is not to be done! It's a Lakṣhmī's blessing.

So how you do it, very carefully. You see Me, how I give always. I never do that way! I cannot! With respect, with grace. She represents the respect part of it. And that you get, that knowledge, how to do it gracefully. Everything to be done gracefully, in a manner that looks gracious. See, some people who talk have no grace, some people who give knowledge of Sahaja Yoga also have no grace and they talk in a disgraceful manner.

So all the grace, how to use the knowledge of the Divine, is given by Vidyā Lakṣhmī.

Now Saubhāgya Lakṣhmī. She's the one who gives you good fortune. Good fortune doesn't mean money, but it means: the grace of money. Many people have money but it's like money on a donkey. You do not find any grace in that person. Or it doesn't also mean, Saubhāgya doesn't mean only money, it means all the good luck. All the good luck in everything in a very gracious manner, is this. To [give] you the blessings so that you also are blessed as well as those people who'll meet you will be blessed, with Saubhagya.

Amṛuta Lakṣhmī, Amṛut means the one that is the nectar. If you take that you will not die. Means eternity.

So She's the one who gives you the life of eternity. Gṛuhalakṣhmī.

Gṛuhalakṣhmī is the deity of the family, the one who's the deity of the family. Now, any housewife need not be Gṛuhalakṣhmī. She can be a shrew, She can be a horrid thing. The deity of the household, if She resides in you, then you are Gṛuhalakṣhmī, otherwise you are not.

Then there is Rājalakṣhmī. She is the one who gives grace to the kings. If the kings behave like servants, then they are not called as kings. They have to behave in a dignified manner. The dignity, the majesty of the king comes from the Rājalakṣhmī in him. But a Sahaja Yogi need not be trained. He walks very straight in a very stately manner. In his movements he's stately, he's very majestic in handling people.

He's very gracious in doing anything in such a manner that people think, “Oh, here comes a king." Satya Lakṣhmī. That is, that you get the awareness of Truth, but apart from that, the awareness of Truth is there but to put the Truth forward in a gracious manner. Not to, `Now this is the truth, have it!', Not like that! You don't have to hit people with the Truth, you have to put it in a flower and give it to them. That is Satya Lakṣhmī. Of course, the all Lakṣhmī Tattwas are the parasympathetic powers within us but they are actually expressed in our brain. Brain is the Virāta, is the Viṣhṇu when He becomes the Virāt, the Aakbar.

So all His powers, are, specially these powers, are in the brain.

So, the brain itself spontaneously behaves in such a manner that people think that this is a special type of a personality.

Then you have got Bhogya Lakṣhmī by which you know how to enjoy. A Sahaja Yogi always knows how to enjoy everything. The Sahaja Yogi is never a worried type.

Anything he can enjoy. Once, we climbed a very steep place, called Palitana. It was about six miles about, like that, as if walking for six miles.

Climbed up. I reached there and saw the beautiful carvings. I was not tired at all when I saw the carvings.

And I was telling My son-in-law, “See every tail of the elephants is made differently." He says: “Mother I'm panting here. How can you see the tails of the elephant?" It is because I can enjoy. You should be able to enjoy anything.

Now supposing you see something absurd, ridiculous, then you should laugh and enjoy. “This is a ridiculous thing, you see, is absurd!" But one should not get angry with somebody because somebody is absurd or funny. But should make it enjoyable.

So that is the greatest, I think one of the greatest blessings, that She gives you the power to enjoy things. Otherwise, whatever you may try, people don't enjoy anything because they have become so ego-oriented that nothing goes into their heads. They have to be tickled here with a electrode! Yoga Lakṣhmī. The one who gives you Yoga. That power is within you. That is the power of Lakṣhmī within you, means you give others the Yoga. Now when you give the power of Yoga to others, I mean when you use your power of Yoga, then you don't behave like a monkey or a donkey or a horse, but you do it with grace, do it in such a manner that it is very gracious. That is what you call bhadrata... in a gentle, dignified, majestic way. Gentle, dignified, majestic way, three words [in English] for one word [in Sanskrit].

So this is what it is. And now when you have sung it in this manner, this power has been bestowed upon you. Now even if you want you cannot behave indecently. You are fixed! [Laughter.] Alright, thank you very much.

So mantras should be said deliberately, with understanding. Like the one you have made one poem...

song. In that, you sing in a proper way. Never just go on `Śhrī this, Śhrī that. Shrī...' No, no, no! It's like taking a role call of the Lakṣhmī's! `Are you there? Are you there? Are you there?'... like that.

So now do it in a very deliberate manner and with due respect and graciousness because specially with the Lakṣhmī's thing you have to be extremely gracious. You have to use very gentle words and gentle tunes and gentle notes.

Alright...

[Some Sahaja Yogis of Hebrew background give a candelstick to Shri Mataji.]

Shri Mataji: So everywhere light was regarded as something very important, whether among Christians, Jews, Hindus, Muslims, everywhere light was regarded as something great. That's a great thing, thank you very much. [Applause.] [Sahaja Yogis sing a traditional Hebrew song for Shri Mataji.] [Applause.]

Sahaja Yogini: Shri Mataji we want to explain the meaning for you.

Shri Mataji: Yes please.

Sahaja Yogini: It's a traditional song and it says Jerusalem, the golden Jerusalem, made of gold, of copper and of light. Of all the beautiful songs, I am the violin.

Shri Mataji: I am the?

Sahaja Yogini: I am the violin, means the instrument. And it symbolizes the Jewish festival of lights, when they have it just at this time of year [Diwali]. And it's to commemorate the eternal flame, which never dies, which has helped them so often. And also to commemorate the rebuilding of the temple in Jerusalem. And we all felt, Shri Mataji, that we should humbly ask you that, for all your children, the temple of our Mother may be build in the real Jerusalem.

Shri Mataji: All right [UNCLEAR].

Sahaja Yogini: Thank you.

Shri Mataji: But also wish that all the Jews should try to come to Sahaja Yoga.

[Big applause.] Because there are so many temples already built, in the name of the Goddess, in the name of all the great Incarnations, so many temples, so many temples. Now, let us have human beings as the temples.

More onto that, that is more important. To Me it is important that human beings are made into temples, all over the world. And Jews have to come to Sahaja Yoga. And all of them have to sing together the glory of God, that's the best way a religion has to be.

May God bless you.

Because we belong to a religion, which explains all the religions, which sees to the beauty of all the religions and makes you religious. And all the people who claim that they are this, they are that, they should be told that: `You are no more that. You have to become a realised Soul.' And once it is pointed out to them, I'm sure, gradually, they will start coming to Sahaja Yoga.

So always wish that all the people whom we know, all the people who are in darkness and in ignorance, they should all come to Sahaja Yoga. That is the greatest wish of mine and I wish you to have that wish and the temples can take their own time, [laugh] doesn't matter. The temples should be on top of your heads, that's a good idea, in the Sahasrāra, good idea. [Laughs.] Yes, that's the most difficult thing: to accept Me. To accept Sahasrāra means to accept Me, it's very difficult.

So thank you very much.

And we have to thank the people of Milano, specially of us who have organized in such a short time such a beautiful Pūjā. They are remarkably good, you see, I know they work with computers and all that, but the way this is done is something remarkable. And we all are very much thankful to them. And hope next time Diwali Pūjā will be, I don't know where [laugh] But wherever it is, we have to have more people, more lights, we need more lights, because darkness is too much. And it can be achieved it's not so difficult.

Contents: 1987-10-26*, Public Program, The Revolution of Love, Cinema Capranica, Via Capranica no. 101, Rome, Italy

I bow to all the seekers of love and joy.

When we talk of love and joy we have to know that it comes from reality, from the truth. Anything that is false or unreal cannot give you eternal joy. But truth is what it is. You cannot say with your own intelligence, `This is truth and this is not truth.' Everybody when they see the truth has to be the same.

The truth cannot be organized, it is what it is. We cannot prophesize or we cannot say, profess that this is truth. We cannot pay money for it. Now as it is, in the process of our evolution that we reveal truth after truth. It is at the epitome of evolution you have to receive the ultimate truth.

In the human awareness we live on a relative plane. There is no way to know what is absolute truth.

Within us lies the power to take us to that state of absolute. That is what it is, that you are the Spirit.

You are not this body, you are not this mind, you are not this ego, you are not these thoughts. What you are is the Spirit.

As I told you, to know the Spirit we have to go through the living process. As in our evolutionary state we have come to human state without thinking about it, without putting any effort. In the same way we have to know the ultimate, the absolute truth, in the living process, by the living force. Like we put a seed in the Mother Earth and it sprouts spontaneously through the living force of the Mother Earth.

In the same way this last journey takes place from the triangular bone, which we call as sacrum, to the fontanelle bone area. There is this dormant energy in the triangular bone called as sacrum. That means the Greeks knew that it is their sacred bone.

This energy in the Christian religion is called as the Holy Ghost. In the Islamic religion it is called as Assis and in every religion it has a name, but in the Indian seers called it as the Primordial Mother.

So this energy, the dormant energy which is within you, is the reflection of that Primordial Mother's energy within you, which gives you your second birth.

When this second birth takes place it is an actualisation of an experience. You can feel the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost coming out of your head, like a Cool Breeze and then you become conscious of the All-pervading Power of love, which you have never felt before, which is around you.

Human beings always depended on the energy of hatred, not on love. But the whole cosmos is made by this energy of love. And this energy thinks, understands, organizes and loves. It is the most efficient energy that you could think of. It never fails. If you want to know about someone, whether a person is good or bad you cannot say absolutely the truth about the person. But once you become a Self-realised Soul then you can feel it on your fingertips, all the centers that are within you and all the centers that are in the other person. And if you just learn how to correct your centers and the centers of another person you achieve tremendous results. As this energy rises within you, you get rid of your sicknesses. You get rid of incurable diseases. You get rid of all your bad habits. You become a completely a free person, nothing can tempt you. You immediately become a very wise, discreet personality.

We see the situation of the religion and we get quite frightened.

So many people say they follow this religion, that religion in every country. But what we find that by following any religion they can not stop doing wrong things. Whatever religion they can follow they all can be nasty, they can be cruel, they can be arrogant, they can be horrid.

So there is only fear, which works in some people, that they're frightened, otherwise they can do whatever they like. They do not have that inner power which gives them the light to see what is wrong and what is right. And even if they can see it clearly they cannot do it because they haven't got the power to do it, they have no will power to do it.

So here you see there are three channels shown in this diagram, which are clearly indicative that we have three types of energies working within us. In the medical terminology they are called as autonomous nervous system. But who is the auto? Who is the one who does the job? That is what they cannot explain.

Now these two energies, which are representing the two channels, as we call them the left and the right side. The left side is called as the energy of the moon, which gives us emotional side. And the right energy, which is called as the energy of the sun, gives us the physical and the mental side, the intelligent side. The central one is the one, which is responsible for giving us the ascent.

Now whatever we have achieved in our evolution we can feel it on our hands, on our central nervous system, on our organs. Like if you ask a dog to go through a dirty lane he can do it. But if you ask a human being to go through a dirty lane he cannot. A real saint will not commit any sins but a human being can commit any sins.

So the real saint, not the saint which is declared by say, some, temples or church, but a real saint who is of a higher evolution, is the one who lives in a state of complete peace and joy. Now you don't have to give up anything, is a wrong idea altogether, but if you have gone too much on the left side or on the right side too much then it creates a problem on the centers, the fundamental centers.

So the people who live with moderation are the best to get their realisation.

But now we have seen that the Divine is so anxious to give realisation to human beings that whatever you may be whatever may be your past you get your realisation. Because the time has come, it is the blossom time, where many, many flowers have to become fruits. It has to work out. Mohammad Sahib has said that at the time of resurrection it would be Qiamah and at that time your hands will speak and give witness against you. This is exactly what happens to you that your hands, the fingertips starts feeling your Chakras and tell, `This is wrong with you, this is wrong with you.' And you are not disturbed to hear the witness against you because you are not any more identified with your weaknesses. Like if I have a black spot on my sarī and I can't see, I'm blind.

So anybody says, `There's a black spot on your sarī,' I'll think that they're trying to befool me. And I may get angry with that person, but if my eyes are opened out and if I can see then I would like to get rid of it. Because I'm no more attached to that. This is what is what we say is the last judgment. This is how we are going to be judged by ourselves only.

In the Vatican we have a beautiful painting done by Michelangelo who was a realised Soul. The Sistine Chapel has that beautiful painting of Christ standing and doing the last judgment. That is what it is, that at this point at Āgñyā Chakra is Christ there, that's the gate through which everybody has to pass.

So when the Kuṇḍalinī rises she awakens the Christ deity there, deity of Christ in that Chakra and then you can judge yourself.

Somebody can come and say, “Mother my Āgñyā Chakra is catching." That in simple language means, “Mother I'm very egoistical." But because he's not attached he says, “Āgñyā Chakra is catching." In this language he speaks.

But now we have to understand how a great part has been played by the crucifixion of Christ. There is a cross between of Optic Chiasma within us also and our ego and our conditioning are on both the sides are trying to press it hard, there's no room to go in. Because Christ was the embodiment of Logos, of the Omkāra, the Chaitanya what you call the vibrations. He's the only one who could pass through.

So He established a path for us of resurrection.

But the way they talk about sufferings I can't understand. He has already suffered for us. He has suffered for our sins.

When He's awakened here He sucks in on both the sides as you see, the Karmas, the conditionings, the ego, just like that He sucks in.

And an area is made here which is a soft bone in your childhood, it becomes again soft and the Kuṇḍalinī comes out of it.

Is absolutely wrong, against Christ to say that you have to suffer to go to God. Can we suffer more than Him? Or do you mean to say that He has left some sufferings for us to be done? His is the message of joy and of resurrection and not of suffering. Even in India there are many people who say, “You have done bad Karmas so you must give so much money, you must do this, you must do that. You must put nails into your body or maybe you must get sick and then you become a great saint." The one who tells never does that. The one who tells that you must suffer goes on taking all the money, lives in comfort and has all the best things to himself. And the simple, innocent people go on paying money for a thing, for suffering, they pay money and suffer.

And also they want show Christ as a thin bony structure as a skeleton, as if he was the one who was that miserable. Only Michelangelo could see how Christ looked because he was a seer. Anybody with that kind of bony body, can he carry a cross across? So I am here to give you a message that you have got this energy within you. You are at the epitome of evolution. And hardly it will take split of a second for you to get your realisation, to enter into the Kingdom of God. There's a beautiful instrument within you, which works it out. You are not to blame yourself for little, little things. You are not to feel guilty at all. You have to have all the confidence. It is very important to understand that you are the highest in the evolutionary process. It's only the human begins who are going to achieve realisation, not the mosquitoes or the chickens or the pigs.

So we must respect our personality as human beings and don't believe in all these stories where just it's all a money making proposition I think.

I am sure by God's grace today you all will get your realisation. Of course it is all being organized within you during the process of your evolution. It is your energy, within yourself is your own Mother who is going to give you your realisation. And in your heart resides the Spirit and this Spirit has its seat here on top of your head and when the Kuṇḍalinī touches that, you get on your central nervous system the sensation of the All-pervading Power.

It's not only that you can cure yourself but you can cure others. You become a drop in the ocean, like the microcosm becoming a macrocosm. There is no missionary work in it. Supposing this hand is paining and another hand is rubbing it, then no obligation, this hand belongs to the same body. Who is the other? If you are part and parcel of one being then, who is the other? This is a very big revolution that is coming today, very different from other revolutions we have had.

In this revolution the transformation that takes place within you start getting drenched in the bliss of the Divine. You become very peaceful, joyous, serene personalities. You start looking very young, all your worries go away and your wrinkles disappear and you become the light. Then you start emitting light for others. This has to happen, if we have to change the world we have to change human beings. Not by force, not by any organization, no brain washing, only by Kuṇḍalinī awakening.

So you become the Spirit and you decide for yourself, you become your own guide, I don't have to tell you anything. That is the way of love and that is how you are going to enter into the kingdom of God to have your rightful enjoyment of His bliss. Today I have just given you the introduction, tomorrow I'll tell you in detail all about it.

Now it is very easy, supposing you want to put on the light I'll just tell you that you switch it on and there is light. In the same way it happens because it's all built in and worked out, it's all ready to happen.

But if I tell you all about all the history of electricity and how it was done and what is the organization, you will get headaches and leave, go nowhere.

So first thing is to have the light, second thing is to look after it and establish it and third thing would be to grow in its light and become great huge personalities of joy, peace and bliss.

May God bless you all.

It will take about ten minutes at the most for you to get your realisation, but I would like you to ask Me some questions for about five minutes only. I'm sorry I was late because I had to go for two television interviews.

Question: How do we learn all these things?

Shri Mataji: I agree, we have no school but we have an ashram here, we have a center where they meet where you can go and learn everything free. As I told you we don't take any money from anyone.

There are some people who are living together are paying a rent for a place and they come to Rome city and have their program in one of the halls where you can meet them every Friday. And if you establish yourself well once you must be established, that's important, then we have people who can come to India.

Once a year we have a program, about a month you can come, but that is, first of all you have to establish yourself. You should be able to give realisation to many people then only you can come to India. You have to know one thing; that Sahaja Yoga is not some sort of a club where you can just put a label on your head, it is the becoming. It is nothing artificial, what you become within is the point. But I'm happy to know your question because it seems you are such an ardent seeker.

Question: He says that his Kuṇḍalinī once was awakened before and it was very painful.

Shri Mataji: Where, not with us. With us? With us? Not possible! Somebody else. No, no, no, no, no, no, no, no. That's wrong, that's wrong. If it is painful then you should know it is wrong. All right.

It never rises by Itself. We'll put you right, actually Kuṇḍalinī never rises by Itself. It's like a candle.

A candle, which is not enlightened, cannot be enlightened by itself. It has to be enlightened first so it can enlighten another light. But those people who are not enlightened and not authorized by God or by Divine, if they try some tricks with Kuṇḍalinī then there is another force which is down below there, of innocence which gives pain and trouble, not the Kuṇḍalinī.

Question: If we become sensitive when we feel the vibration, how can I be happy, joyous if around me there is a lot of negativity? It may mean that I am egoistical.

Shri Mataji: No, you see if you are standing in the water, all right, then you are affected by the rising of the water. But if you are in a boat you can see the rising of the water and falling, you are not afraid of it. And if you are a swimmer you can enjoy it. When you are in war with the problem then you are disturbed. But when you become thoughtlessly aware through Kuṇḍalinī awakening you see, you witness it.

You see it clearly and you also know how to solve the problem because you can see it clearly. You are sensitive in the sense that you record it, like a barometre and also you know the solution.

So it is the state of your being which gives the dynamic force within you, that you can see everything as a witness as well as you can solve the problem. All right? [Aside:] Did she follow what I said? Question: The seeker heard a speech of Yours and was impressed to learn that if a mother is anxious this can affect the child.

Shri Mataji: All right, but now you do not do it haphazard, you do it properly and you become a master and then you tell Me. Because it's not that only the mother is anxious but she knows how to cure her child. All right.

Question: We say that everybody should get this realisation but he thinks that if one person is not very intelligent he cannot get it.

Shri Mataji: No, no, no, intelligence on the contrary is very bad thing sometimes. It can cheat.

Intelligence cheats itself. Innocence is better. We should try to give to as many as possible. If you are a seeker, an honest person, you get it.

This gentleman here.

Sahaja Yogi: He says: If he can thank you in any way instead of asking any question.

Shri Mataji: So sweet of him, thank you very much. It's very kind of you.

So sweet of him.

Seeker says: I thank you very much for the effort you are doing for everybody.

Shri Mataji: May God bless you, may God bless you. I am happy you care for the good of yours and the good of others. That's something so good.

[Sahaja Yogi tells Shri Mataji that the people come from the ashram and perhaps we should ask the new people. Śhrī Mother then suggest to have one more question.] Question: What's the difference between innocence, intelligence and culture?

Shri Mataji: It's a very long question. I think I have a big tape on that, I have spoken about one hour on that subject, you can get the tape and know.

But it is very easy to understand that intelligence can have also lot of rationality in it, which can explain many of the cruel things people do. Intelligence can be very cruel or can be used for rationalizing cruel things. But innocence can never do cruel things, it loves and it likes loving people also.

And culture is originally came from the idea that we are all collective being and how we should behave towards each other. What should be our behaviour to make life more congenial and happy? But now it has changed completely. People are trying to find out how we can hate better, others. In the name of culture people do all kinds of very, very wrong things, very shameful, indecent things also which does not show that they have any respect for themselves even. You can listen to My lecture Madame you will know what is culture actually is.

Question: Lighting the candle means also to light the knowledge and the power.

So is there any guarantee that says that we are going to use this power in the right way?

Shri Mataji: Of course, of course, if you start using the power in the wrong way, disappears. Is only for good, it will always do good. You cannot use it for wrong. It is a power of benevolence.

[Aside:] They've wrote now so many questions. One more. All right, one more now, see now.

Question: He would like to know the difference between the Cool Breeze we are talking about and the energy of the [UNCLEAR prana/Brahma] therapists. He is also asking if You have these energies and You can cure people like Christ was doing.

Shri Mataji: You see I don't want to say anything about that, what I am. I don't want to talk about Myself because Christ said about Himself whatever was the truth, that He was the Son of God so they crucified Him and I don't want to get crucified. But I've seen the energies that are used by people are not the energy of the Divine because they shake and they feel the heat and they feel sick and sometimes have a very bad death. That is the energy coming from the left and the right side. One is called as the collective subconscious and another as the collective supraconscious and they do not know how they do it, they have no knowledge, scientific knowledge how they do it. They do it as if they are possessed by someone, they have no knowledge as to how to do it, what is it.

But in Sahaja Yoga, everyone even a child can say which is the finger burning. Say he says, `This the finger burning,' that means there's a problem on the throat. It's completely, everything is open knowledge.

You need not be a doctor, but you know each and every thing and you are peaceful within and you feel joyous in giving it to others, you don't get sick.

But for to know more about this supraconscious, collective subconscious and collective supraconscious please come and see these people, they'll tell you all about it. It's a big history. Such people might be cured for a while but they get some other disease and some other disease, they're never permanently cured.

But curing is not our job.

We have to give realisation and the Divine has common sense, the Divine has common sense. Like the lights, which are not going to give any light to anyone, lamps which are useless, which are not going to give lights, why should they repair? What is important is to make more lamps, which can give light.

So now, I think, let us have the raising of the Kuṇḍalinī, but there's no guarantee. One guarantee I'll give you in case you don't get it today you'll get it tomorrow or day after definitely. Only thing you have to do is to take little time and go and meet these people in the programs or follow up. Because it is only for your good and you should respect your realisation and your personality. This is your property. I'm just giving you the key and there's no obligation of any kind. I'm doing it because I love it.

May God bless.

[Shri Mataji goes on to give Self-realisation.]

Contents: 1987-11-02*, Public Program, Day 1, Power that Comes with Your Second Birth, Salle de la Mutualité, 24 Rue St. Victor, Paris, France

I bow to all the seekers of Truth.

At the very outset, I apologize for being late because you know My plane could not leave London somehow. But that shows that you people have real patience and you want to know the truth. One has to know that truth is what it is. You can not have a concept about truth. Truth is reality which is beyond human concept and is beyond human endeavour. It exists and manifests itself once you become a subtler being. For example, this tree that we see, these trees, they have their roots. We have the knowledge of the tree. And we have no knowledge of our roots.

So to know the knowledge of our roots we have to become subtler personality. The truth is absolute. There can not be two opinions about truth. As you can see, there's a candle burning, everybody can see it and know there's a candle burning. There can not be two opinions about it. When we see that there are many opinions about God, about reality, about philosophies, we get confused. But to know the truth, we have to become a little higher personality than a human being. On human level we live in a relative world. Nothing is absolute. We have many choices and then we start saying, “I believe in this, I believe in that." But whatever is your belief may not be the truth; may not be reality.

Now the knowledge about the truth and reality has been described by many people. And that description has been mutilated and made into something absurd, because the people who tried to interpret that were not subtle people. Now it is difficult in those days of science to talk of reality, about God, about religion, because the religion that we see is such a hodgepodge, is such a problematic thing, that we can not understand how a person who professes a religion can be such a wrong type of a person. Any religion one may belong to, he is capable of doing all kinds of unrighteous things, irreligious things. He is capable of nasty, evil deeds. That means the religion doesn't have that strength, within itself, to hold that man, or to put in his bones, in his being, the truth of being good.

But everyone has talked about your rebirth. Whether it was Christ, or Mohammed Saheb, Socrates, Lao Tze, anyone. You are to be born again, then you will know the reality. But it is not some sort of a brand, or some sort of an organization to which you belong and you call yourself, “I'm a born-realised." This is falsehood and if you have to be compromising with falsehood, we can not have the beauty and glory of reality. We have to be honest to know the truth and that honesty is as simple as this, to say that, `So far I have not known the truth. I have believed into this and that, but I have not known the truth.' The knowledge of the truth should be, as I said, an absolute knowledge. That is on your central nervous system you must feel the presence of reality. If I put my finger to this candle, I burn it. My central nervous system knows that this is hot. Now if I put before you some statement, you must have an open mind about it. As a scientist, you must have that scientific outlook to see what I'm saying, is it worth the truth or not. Now when I'm putting before you a kind of hypothesis and if I can prove it, that it is so, you have to believe into it.

I say within you lies this instrument, beautifully placed, during the different processes of your evolution.

These centers exist within you and this power which you see in the triangular bone, in the Sacrum, exists within you. This is the power which is going to give you your ascent. This power is called as the “Holy Ghost" in the Bible, as “Assas" in Koran, Ādi Shakti as in the Indian scriptures. This power resides within you, recording all your past and your desires. This is the power which is going to give you the fourth dimension. This is going to give you your second birth. That is the reflection of the Holy Ghost, the Primordial Mother. We believe in the God Almighty and His Son. How can a father have a son without a Mother? So the third trinity, out of the third one, is the Holy Ghost, is the Primordial Mother. That is the energy reflected within us as Kuṇḍalinī. In the Sanskrit language it is called as Kuṇḍalinī because it is made of kundalas, meaning the coils.

Now this knowledge is coming not only from east. It has been there everywhere, only the difference today is that you can awaken this power within yourself. Like a seed, when it is put to Mother Earth, sprouts and the [UNCLEAR] brings it out of the Mother Earth, in the same way, when your Kuṇḍalinī is awakened, you come into the new world of absoluteness. This power resides in all of you. Is your own and the Spirit, which is the reflection of God Almighty, resides in your heart. When the union takes place, you start feeling the All-pervading Power of Love, of Divinity. Then you understand that there is some subtler power all around us and when this starts flowing within you, you get so many blessings. Automatically you get back your innocence, as a result of the first center which is awakened.

As a result of the second center which is awakened within you, you get a tremendous creative power and your creativity becomes a beautiful aesthetical. It doesn't have grotesque or ugly things in it. It's a very joyful creation. As a result of the third center, you become such a satisfied soul, that your family life improves, you get rid of all your bad habits, you get rid of all your troubles of your stomach and you become a beautiful personality.

As a result of the Chakra that is above it, the center, the fifth center, the fourth center, is that you develop an emotional balance. You feel completely secured. The diseases like asthma, breast cancer, connected with your lungs and your breasts, get cured. One of the diseases, I should, there are so many which can get cured with this. You become very peaceful and the sense of security in you gives sense of security to others. There are many organizations who say that, “We work for peace." But the members of that organization have no peace within. I've known so many people who have got Nobel Prize for Peace; they have no peace within. Those who talk about peace can not give peace. Peace is a power, like light.

And the person who has peace within himself can emit that power and give peace to others.

As a result of the fifth center, here, you become a witness. You start seeing the whole thing as a drama, as if you have now come out of the water and you are not afraid of the waves, you are sitting in a boat.

And you are watching the whole drama and because you are away from the problems you can solve them.

I am telling you everything in short. It is much more, it has many more dimensions. That's what human being is. He is born as the epitome of evolution.

Now comes the sixth Chakra, which is very important. When this sixth Chakra is opened out, then you become thoughtlessly aware. Like you see something but you don't think about it. You see it. Like a still lake which reflects all the surrounding nature into it, all the beauty of the surrounding nature, your stilled mind sees everything that is joy-giving and you just enjoy the joy. For example I see a beautiful work, here, of art. I just see it in thoughtless awareness. I don't think about it. It doesn't create thoughts in My mind.

So what do I see? The creation of art. I do not think about it. The joy that made this, of an artist, is vibrating in me. But supposing I think about it, then I start thinking how much it must have cost, where can I get it, what must be the colour, is it a fast colour or not. And supposing it belongs to me and I believe that it belongs to me. Then I start thinking, `Oh God, it will be all spoiled here. Have I insured it or not? Translator: Pardon?

Shri Mataji: Have I insured it or not? Something may go wrong with it. It's a headache, the idea of possession itself is a headache. We should know that possession itself is a myth and that myth is broken once this Chakra is opened out.

But this has even another very important function to do. This Chakra lies between the pituitary and the pineal body; lies on the cross of the Optic Chiasma.

So by that, once this is enlightened, our ego is sucked in, as here you can see the ego on the left hand side move from the right hand side. Human beings only believe that they do something. Animals don't believe that. They are completely under the control of God. If a tiger has to kill a cow, he kills a cow, he doesn't sit down and weep that `I have committed a sin.' It is only the human beings start thinking that I have done, `This is wrong, that is wrong, I have done this is good, this is bad...' Actually what do we do? If some matter is dead, say some tree is dead and we make this panel and we think, `Oh, we have made a beautiful panel.' From dead to dead! Have we done any living work? Not so far, but after realisation you do it because you do not do any more you think. You start speaking in third person, speaking in third person and this so-called ego which gives you ideas that you have done this Karmas, that Karmas, itself gets sucked in.

Now there is another side to it, is the conditioning which we have had. First time when I came to Paris, they told Me, “Mother you are so joyous and French are not going to like You. You have to look very miserable, otherwise they are not going to believe You." I then addressed them as `Les miserables' [everybody laughs]. You see, at that time, now the time is better, every fourth lamp post they had a pub and every seventh lamp post there was a bad woman standing there.

[Translator is confused. Shri Mataji clarifies:] Fourth lamp, you see there was a pub, pub means where there, yes and the seventh lamppost a bad woman was standing there. Prostitute.

Now if you ask a bullock to come and hit you and then say you are miserable, then what are you to say? Then they told Me that they believe in miseries, that we have to suffer, otherwise we cannot be spiritual. This is absurd. He said that Christ has suffered for you, for your sins. He resides in that center.

Can we suffer more than He has suffered for us? Has he left anything for us, that we should finish his suffering? Are we here to complete His job? Are we capable to do that? He has done it for you. Once for all. You don't have to suffer. I have seen it in Vatican, in the Sistine Chapel, Michelangelo could see it so clearly because he was a realised Soul. He has put the whole thing as the Last Judgement and there is Christ standing, like a great man, throwing people here and there. He doesn't look a miserable creature there. He's such a healthy, hefty personality, but on the table down below you see a skeleton, kept as Christ. Can you carry the cross with that skeleton body of yours? Is absurd. How can we think of sufferings when we talk of God? He is God Almighty, He's our Father, He loves us so much. Which father would like his children to suffer? Is a wrong idea.

So we don't have to suffer or do anything of the kind, we are perfectly alright. And we don't have to confess of anything and feel guilty about it. After all you are human beings, you are not God, you can commit mistakes.

So what does it matter? Sometimes you have to commit mistakes as human beings.

But the Divine is the Ocean of Forgiveness, Ocean of Forgiveness. The drop of your mistakes can be easily dissolved by Him. I have come here to give you the message of joy and your glory, because that's your right to have it as a human being. The whole creation came into being and you were created out of that, not to be miserable. But for that you have to become a realised Soul. On one side your conditioning also drops out and that's how on both the sides you find the both the sides, these balloon-like things, like your conditioning and your ego; both of them are sucked in and this portion opens out here in the Fontanelle bone area.

Now, this Kuṇḍalinī pierces through and you start feeling the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost coming out of your head. This is the actualisation of baptism. It's not some sort of an artificial one, that you put some water and you say `Now you are baptized.' What is the difference between a person who is so-called baptized and who is not baptized? Both are capable of any evil things. This baptism can not stop. In India they put a thread and say, “You are now realised, you are a Brahmin." Brahmin means the one who has known the Brahma, the All-pervading Power. The Brahmin is called as the Dvijaḥ meaning the twice-born and the bird is also called as the Dvijaḥ, meaning first it's an egg, then it becomes a bird.

Transformation takes place. He becomes powerful bird which can fly. The complete freedom and discretion. What is the transformation that takes place out of these rituals? But you get absolutely transformed. You enjoy your virtues, enjoy your righteousness, you enjoy the generosity that you have and you enjoy the stupid play of the stupid around.

The last is to pierce the Kuṇḍalinī through your Sahasrāra, this point, which we call as the onethousand petalled brain. This knowledge is your own. But what's the use of talking about the history of electricity and all the power from where it comes organization. Better is to just put on the switch because it is already built-in. Is all built-in within you, is your own. The Spirit though is reflected in the heart, the seat of the Spirit is here, on top of the Fontanelle bone.

So when you get your realisation, you become a transformed personality. It's a living process of a living power and you can not pay for living things. For example, how much do we pay to the Mother Earth for sprouting a seed? She doesn't even understand money. Money is the headache of human beings, not of the Mother Earth and what's the use of standing on your head to sprout a seed? But people don't understand. I've heard that there are people in the religious sense of the word, supposed to be religious and they are having shares and things, indulging into business. God can not understand bank. That's a human creation as it is difficult to understand human beings and the human creations are even much more complicated than human beings.

Sometimes they are really complicated.

So I have to tell you that this is within you, you get your realisation, the actualisation and then you have to become. You can not organize God-Almighty. You can not have an organization. You can have so many living beings who are existing like leaves on a living tree, nourished by the same sap, but you can not organize it in a human way. You can not have memberships. There can not be any force. There can not be any compulsion. In your freedom you have to enjoy yourself because you are the source of glory and joy and peace. Only thing, an enlightened light has to enlighten another light and once you're enlightened, you can enlighten another person.

It is very simple. Sahaj means `spontaneous.' All spontaneous things are the easiest things because they are so vital. Like our breathing, if you had to read a book for our breathing, how many would exist? Now the time has come that many of you have to have your realisation. There's no obligation. It is just a mass evolution of people which was to be at this time. Formerly, one or two people used to get, as in the beginning only one fish came out of the sea and then shoals of fishes came out. In the same way, billions and billions of people have come out, have to come out of their ignorance. May God bless you.

The time is quite a lot, but still I would like to have some questions from you, but please do not ask aggressive questions, because I do not want to waste the time. I have come here to give the key of your joy. Not for any votes; I'm not a politician. Nor for any money, nor for anything, but just to give you your treasures.

[To a Sahaja Yogi:] Ask them to ask the questions.

Question: You said that God doesn't understand human beings and God doesn't understand bank.

But she feels that it is quite difficult for human being to approach God.

Shri Mataji: Why do you want? Is this the question?

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, it is.

Shri Mataji: You see, God is your Father and that's why He has to approach you, because He loves you.

Question: You spoke a lot about Kuṇḍalinī, but where have we to go to get it?

Shri Mataji: Just now. That's a very good question, of a real seeker, that shows a seeker. Even if I had not talked, it would have worked. Now there is one gentleman, there is one lady here.

Sahaja Yogi: You said that You are here to bring us joy and you said that Christ suffered for us, but why did He have to suffer for us?

Shri Mataji: That was destined for Him to suffer. In the evolutionary process, we had established up to our fifth Chakra, alright, for human beings. All these incarnations are there to establish different centers within us and Christ is bestowed upon the sixth Chakra. Now there is a big tight, we should say a knot, here, between the ego and superego, symbolic of how human beings have their ego and their conditionings and with these two things, how do they make others suffer, or suffer themselves? Now, Christ came on this earth to redeem us of our ego and superego and symbolically, He had to pass through this tight area to establish this center in the great being we can say, the macrocosm.

So He suffered from, for the microcosm, a macrocosm suffered. But They do not suffer, because They are witness. And he passed through that area to establish that center.

So, when the Kuṇḍalinī rises and awakens Christ within us, then our ego and superego will be completely consumed by Him So the message of His life is not His suffering, His crucifixion, but His resurrection because He established this center within us, for our resurrection. Now supposing I want to make something comfortable for My children.

So I have to go through the ordeal of Myself and that has to be done, but it's done out of love so you don't feel it. Then the children don't have to go through the ordeal again. They have to just enjoy.

Sahaja Yogi [comments before relaying question from the audience to Shri Mataji]: I have a very interesting question. Shri Mataji, who are you, really? Question: Why are you?

Sahaja Yogi: Who are you, really?

Shri Mataji: I am very tactful. I don't want to talk about Myself, because Christ said the truth, that He was the Son of God and they crucified Him. I don't want to get crucified. It is better that you get your realisation and then know Me.

Question: Shri Mataji, Shri Mataji, I would like to get my realisation, but I feel so much uh, pride in me, proud, I feel so proud in me that I think it will not be possible during this life.

So please, tell me what to do.

Shri Mataji: It will be alright. Don't you worry, you'll get your realisation. If you are conscious that you're proud, then that means that you're not proud at all. Only a humble man can say that. Will Hitler say, `I am cruel, I was cruel?' So, sit down, You'll get it, sit down.

So sweet of him. And there's one gentleman there. She just asked the question, same thing? Alright. Then that gentleman. What did he hear?

Sahaja Yogi: He heard the word which is `cumdebuf'.

Shri Mataji: Ah, and?

Sahaja Yogi: Word, `cumdabah', the word, which is `cumdabear,' and he doesn't know what it means, he would like if it has a connection with Kuṇḍalinī. It think it's...

Shri Mataji [laughing]: No, no.

Sahaja Yogi: Another question? Question: Are you capable to say to a person when you see that person, what is his level of evolution?

Shri Mataji: That you don't decide and judge. This is the time of judgement. You yourself will judge it. When you get realisation, you start feeling on your fingertips all your centers. On the left side your emotional side and on right side is your physical and mental side and your can feel it yourself and find out what's wrong with you. And then, if you know how to correct it, you can correct it. Also, you can see others on your fingertips and if you know, how to correct others, you can correct them. You don't have to condemn anyone. Neither yourself nor anybody else. In the Koran, Mohammed Saheb has clearly said that at the time of Rayama, resurrection, your hands will speak and they will give witness against you.

So clearly it is described, but who is bothered about Rayama. Now one more, only, last.

Sahaja Yogi: Last question. [Listens to question in French from audience and laughs.]

Shri Mataji: Every question makes you feel so happy.

Sahaja Yogi: Yes, Shri Mataji. I would like to, just to be very close to his words. Shri Mataji, if You are the person, which I feel You are, please, pray for us, in the name of our Lord, Jesus Christ.

Shri Mataji [smiles and nods]: Alright. [Applause from audience.]

Sahaja Yogi: He is from Colombia.

Shri Mataji: You are from Colombia! I have been to Colombia Myself. Ah, wonderful people in Colombia, wonderful. We have in Bolivia, a center. Bolivia. Done now, I think. Let's have it.

Now, I have to make a very humble request, that I can not force it upon you. You have to really desire it. Thirdly, that those who do not want to meditate just now, to achieve their realisation, should leave the hall, so that others don't feel aggressed. I'm sure most of you will get your realisation. If not today, tomorrow, but there's nothing to be upset if you don't get it. If you desire it, you'll definitely get it, but everybody has to meditate just now, those who do not want to do it can go away. First and foremost thing, I have to make a request to you all that it will hardly take about ten minutes but you have to little bit cooperate with Me. The first thing you have to do is not to feel guilty at all, not to be miserable and you have to be very pleasantly placed towards yourself, because you are at the epitome of evolution, because you have to enter into the domain of your Self.

So have a feeling of pleasantness towards yourself. Don't have any condemnation of yourself; please do not count your mistakes.

Now, I would request you one thing is to take out your shoes if possible because this Mother Earth helps us a lot. Is question of ten minutes and the journey is about from three to four feet only. [Laughs.

Translator does not hear Shri Mataji.] The question of ten minutes and the journey is only three to four feet at the most. [Gestures up Her Body, from Mūlādhāra to Sahasrāra. Sahaja Yogi and audience laugh.] Only thing is when you get realisation, you have to respect it and you have to grow into it. When I come, many people come, they get their realisation and get lost. You have to become your masters and master of Sahaja Yoga so you can give realisations to others. As Christ has said, that you not, you do not put an enlightened light under the table.

So you have to come to our center and you have to get your realisation in a humble way and even if the realisation starts today, you have to develop, you have to grow, you have to mature and you don't have to pay anything for anything, only a little time. In modern times we have watches to save time, just for our ascent.

So you have to pay due respect to your realisation.

Now you have to put both the feet on the ground parallel to each other and you have to sit very comfortably, without raising your head too much, backwards or forwards, just in the center. You have to sit comfortably. If you are sitting on the ground, then it's, it's alright. If you are sitting on the ground it's alright. What's the matter? She's trying to sit down? What has happened?

Sahaja Yogi: She falls off her seat.

Shri Mataji: Seat is not alright. Alright, give her a better seat. One of the Sahaja Yogis can give the lady a better seat, please? Maybe some seats are not...

Sahaja Yogi: She fall down from her seat, Shri Mataji.

Shri Mataji: Alright? Did you get hurt?

Sahaja Yogi: OK.

Shri Mataji: Ah? [Sahaja Yogi to Shri Mataji privately: She fell from her chair.]

Shri Mataji: That's alright, alright. Just fell down, it's alright.

Now put your left hand towards Me like this, in a simple way because this represents your desire to get your realisation, this is the power of desire which I'll describe to you tomorrow. Now this hand, right hand, this is, symbolically, the power of action.

So though the Kuṇḍalinī will rise, you have to facilitate the upward movement of the Kuṇḍalinī by touching different centers on the left hand side.

So I will tell you how to go downward and then upward. [To a Sahaja Yogi:] You also show.

Now first of all, the right hand has to be on the heart. Please put it, all of you. Right, right. Left hand towards Me and... Right. Alright. All the time, left hand should be like this. Then you have to take down your right hand on the left hand side on the upper portion of your abdomen. This is the center of your mastery. Now you have to take down your right hand in the lower portion of your stomach on the left hand side. This is the center by which the True Knowledge of the Divine manifests through us. Fine.

Now, you have to raise your hand again on the left hand side in the upper portion of your abdomen and press it. Now you have to put your right hand on your heart, which is the, which is the seat of, which is the reflection of God Almighty as Spirit. Now you have to put your right hand now on the, in the corner of your shoulder and your neck and put your, put your head towards the right. This is the, this is the worst center. This is the worst center now because this is center is caught when we feel guilty.

So at the very outset I have told you not to feel guilty, not to feel guilty at all, to be pleasantly placed.

Now you have to put your hand, right hand, left hand like this, on the forehead, across and press it on both the sides and then to take your hand on the backside of your head and put your head, the load of your head on your hand and put it up. Now stretch your hand, the palm and put the center of your palm just on the Fontanelle bone area. Now please press the scalp and move it in a clockwise manner seven times. You can bend your head.

Now, please. That's all we have to do. Just we have to close our eyes now. Please don't, don't open your eyes till I tell you. Now put the left hand towards Me, on the lap. Keep the eyes shut and put the right hand on your heart. Here you ask Me a very fundamental question three times. You can call Me Shri Mataji, or Mother.

Mother, am I the Spirit? Ask this question. Now, please bring your right hand on the upper portion of your abdomen on the left hand side. This is the center of your mastery and if you are the Spirit, you are your own master.

So here you ask Me another question: Mother, am I my own master? Three times please. Now please put your right hand on the lower portion of your abdomen on the left hand side, please. Now this is the center of Pure Knowledge. I can not force upon you this Pure Knowledge. I have to respect your freedom.

So you have to say, Mother please give me Pure Knowledge, six times, because this center has got six plexuses, sub-plexuses, or petals.

By asking this question your Kuṇḍalinī starts moving. Now to facilitate the movement of the Kuṇḍalinī upward, you put your right hand again on the left hand side of your abdomen, in the upper part. Here with full confidence you have to say, Mother I am my own master, with full confidence. You have to say it ten times. Now raise your right hand to your heart again and put the left hand towards Me. Here again with full confidence you have to say, twelve times, Mother, I am the Spirit. Now you have to know that the Divine is the ocean of love and [UNCLEAR bliss/peace], but above all, it is the ocean of forgiveness.

So you can not commit any mistake which can not neutralise by the Divine power.

So put your right hand, on your left hand, on the left hand side, in the corner of your neck and your shoulder and press it and put your right hand, head towards the right. Here you have to say sixteen times, again with full confidence in yourself, Mother I am not guilty at all. Now even then you want to feel guilty; then you have to punish yourself by saying it 108 times [chuckles]. You have to love yourself and respect yourself. You're entering into the Kingdom of Heaven.

Now put your right hand on your forehead across and press it on both the sides and put the left hand towards Me. Press it hard. Here you have to say, Mother, I forgive everyone. Say it from your heart; how many times is not the point. You may say that it's difficult. But whether your forgive or you do not forgive, what do you do? It's a myth.

So if you do not forgive, you play into wrong, into the wrong hands.

Now please put your right hand on the back side of your head and put the load of your head on it.

Here for your own satisfaction, without feeling guilty, without counting your mistakes, you have to say, Oh Divine, if I have done any mistakes, please forgive me. Put back your head please. From your heart. Now stretch your hand, your palm and put the center of your palm on top of the Fontanelle bone area, which was the soft bone in your childhood and stretch your fingers backwards. Press it hard and please put the left hand towards Me now, nicely. Now here you have to move your hand in a clockwise manner, slowly, seven times but while, while doing that, again I can not force upon you the Self-realisation.

So you have to ask, Mother, please may I have my realisation? So press it, hard.

Now take down your hands please. Please open your eyes. Put both the hands towards Me. Now, right hand towards Me and left hand on top of your head. You can put down your head and see if you're feeling the Cool Breeze.

Some will feel it much away from the head, some much closer. Now please put the left hand towards Me and with the right hand, try to feel. Again, please put the right hand towards Me and feel with the left hand.

Now raise both your hands towards the sky and push back your head and ask a question three times: Is this the, Mother, is this the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost? Is this the Brahma Shakti? Is this the All-pervading Power of God's love? Ask the question three times, sincerely. Now, take down your hands please. Watch Me without thinking. Those who have felt Cool Breeze out of their heads or on their hands, please raise both your hands. Both the hands, both the hands. All of you have got realisation, practically.

May God bless you. No more miserable. I bow to you all.

Some people did not get, alright, doesn't matter.

We'll work it out. It will work out. You didn't feel at all? Don't wear your shoes, just one minute. Now don't think! Just watch Me. Put your hands towards Me. Just watch Me.

[Signs list that the bags will have to be collected at belt 1 where all other eight Sahaja Yogis went. Shri Mataji and Javier are in the proximity of belt 10.]

Shri Mataji: Javier, please collet My bags that are going here on belt 10.

Javier: [says that the bags are going to be collected at belt 1].

Shri Mataji: Please pick up My bags because I am eager to be with My children who are waiting for Me outside.

[The two bags of Shri Mataji are the only ones that turning on belt 10. Once Shri Mataji sits in the car, the other bags are delivered on belt 1.]

Contents: 1987-11-06 Śhrī Gaṇeśha Pūjā, Cottage, Soto de Viñuelas, Madrid, Spain

So today we have come here to Spain and there are so many other Spanish Sahaj Yogis here and you all have met them, by that they are very much strengthened in Sahaja Yoga that they feel that they have brothers and sisters all over the world, because in Spain there are very few Sahaj Yogis and they feel quite lost, because they are so few; but by your coming here it is a kind of a one hand helping another hand. Now Spain is developing materially and it is this time they have to be careful; they need not go all the way to the over-developed state and then suffer and that suffering should not become a kind of punishment to them, like in many affluent countries. Because as materialism grows, it tries to overpower human beings, but if after Realisation, the materialism starts growing, you master the matter. Then matter doesn't sit on your head, because with realisation you have discretion and actually materialism is to be understood through Lakṣhmī Tattwa, Lakṣhmī principal. If you develop the wisdom in Sahaj Yoga, then you understand how far to go with materialism. Matter is for you, you're not for the matter. Now I'll tell you gradually how matter sits on our head. Before Realisation, first we start using the matter for our comfort. Through science we develop ways and methods, by which we develop a life which gives you more comfort.

In the beginning it is alright that we get sufficient food and a proper house to live in, but by that time we have already become the slave of the matter. Matter is a dead thing; we just change the forms of matter, from dead to dead, but we cannot do any living work. Now this matter starts giving us habits, then we cannot get out of those habits and gradually we start becoming slave of matter; it does not go that far. Now if you have too many machineries you produce things out of proportion, like you have so many cars. In Paris everybody is on the road all day; as soon as you are on the road, you are on the road all the time. Better to be in the house. And you spend hours together, then you start producing other things. Like supposing they are producing clothes, the factories have to run, you cannot stop the factory.

So then they start producing things such a lot, they don't know how to sell it. Then they say that alright, let us have fashions, then these manufacturers float fashion houses. Now the fashion starts. With that, everybody changes their clothes every year; they have to be according to the fashion, such a lot of money is wasted, but we also lose our individuality.

In America they play another trick, also here I think must be everywhere. Every year they produce new type of handles, new type of tiles, new type of bathrooms. If you go to an American house, better ask about the bathroom, otherwise when you enter in may be you may be just drenched with water with some showers falling on you; or you may sit in the tub and you may press it and the whole tub might come like that. Their beds are also funny, you may press on some button and the whole bed may come...

[laughter]; they have beds where they just can fold on this part, or that part, it is terrible, I mean you if you press some buttons you might be going into acrobats all the time. There is no need to do all that, but when you have out of proportion machineries, then you have to do it, but that is how you become slaves of these entrepreneurs.

But, in Sahaja Yoga, when you come in, you know how to do living work; like in the affluent countries, they use seeds which are hybrid. These hybrid seeds are of no nourishment to us, they are no good for our brains, they confuse us. Especially the hybrid animals, their milk confuses us. Hybrid animals themselves are very confused, but in Sahaja Yoga, you take the ordinary seeds and you vibrate them. If you vibrate them, then what happens that you start getting seeds which are even better than hybrid. I tried an experiment with a sunower; so I developed a sunower about two kilo weight, about one foot diameter and such big, big seeds, that you can't make them out to be sunower seeds, so the collective was so amazed at it and they felt that this kind of seed will solve all of our oil problem. Same thing happens with the animals.

You take ordinary cow, Indian ordinary cow and you give her vibrated water to drink and she gives about the same milk as an Australian cow, but the Australian cow's milk can make you confused and mad, because we have seen that the Australian cows, when they are in India, they don't know where they stand, they just run amok, so what must be their milk? But an Indian cow, if she gets Realisation through this vibrated water, she gives milk which is very good for the brain.

So that is how we improve the quality of our animals by Sahaja Yoga. Now regarding matter, we have to understand that matter is only good for giving it to others, but if it is given by a realised Soul, it has tremendous effects. Before Gregoire wanted to write his book, I gave him a fountain pen and he said I never wrote a book and he started writing so well. Same with Rustom, he became a scholar.

So Sahaja Yoga gives you an additional power, by which you can neutralise the bad effects of materialism.

Now, say, supposing, in India, in England, you have to offer drinks to people; so there are ten types of glasses you have to have; only one is sufficient; to drink anything why to have ten, it's a headache. Now if you have to use spoons and forks then you have all elaborations and you can have ten place setting, but if you can use your hands they are very clean. Need not have so many elaborations, but these elaborations we have not because we want them, but because of these entrepreneurs; they force on us. But there is a deeper influence; how people control you through matter.

Now supposing they go to somebody's house and they find a kind of a spoon missing, because there could be a spoon for avocado, say a special spoon for avocado. Now if that spoon is not there, they will say: “Oh, these people have no sense." And they will ask: “Have you got a spoon for avocado?" So it is very shameless and is very arrogant to insult another person. A housewife, supposing you are a guest, she will be more worried about her carpet than about her guests. And this kind of a thing can go too far and a person can become very dry. Such people are very disgusting and insulting type. There is another way they control you through matter. That they will say that now you have to say, for a husband: “You must get me this, otherwise I will be very angry." If the husband breaks one cup, the wife will be on his head, as if the cup is more important than the husband. She can get another husband, she can also get another cup.

See, the whole human dignity is reduced to matter and this kind of controlling goes on. Children also control parents; they see in the television some sort of a toy and they ask the parents. Now if the parents don't give the toy they will not eat their food. They'll cry and weep and trouble the parents.

So then the parents alright get them toy, let them have it and the child plays with the toy, not with the parents.

Now two friends will meet and they will say: “We must go and see a film together." They don't talk to each other, there's no rapport, there's no friendship. They must have something in between them. There is no direct rapport between the children, between the friends, between husband and wife. Matter is to beautify your life, not to make it ugly and create problems between each other. Now the French will not like English because they use their fork and knives in a different way.

And English think no end of themselves because they know English language. All this kind of nonsensical feelings come in through this kind of materialism and we are no more collective and the collectivity gets lost. But then we find out wrong methods to get into collectivity, like we take to alcoholism, because after alcohol we feel abandoned and we can laugh and enjoy together.

So otherwise, if not we go for holiday. All the women must show off their body to attract the attention of men. Men must show off their bodies to attract the attention of women, but no one knows no one; it's a joyless pursuit and the way they quarrel among themselves for all these small, small things, they are really joy killers. As a result of all these things, we have lost the art, we have lost the art, we have lost the deftness, the deftness and now wherever you go what you find are ugly things like the airport of Charles de Gaulle; it looks like a factory and I don't know how you feel in that place.

There is no cosiness in the household; the house is so bare and so insipid and the people are so dry and stupid. There's no joy in the family, so also the children run away from the houses at the age of eighteen, or sixteen, or whatever may be the truth.

So instead of human beings, we start creating robots, you see, controlled by entrepreneur; this is the situation, that's why you play into the hands of all kinds of things like psychologists, like Freud. Any new idea comes in, they jump at it and that's how they suffer; the result is they have got aids now. There's no logic in their heads. They don't understand that this is just exploitation.

After Sahaja Yoga, you do understand this is exploitation. Now they have plastics and nylons and they don't know what to do with the plastic, how to get rid of it; then they have acid rains and the trees are affected by that. Now in Switzerland, which is such a corrupt country, I should say, it is taking the money from, corrupt money from every country, who are absolute materialists are suffering from this acid rain.

Most of their trees are destroyed and they have avalanches, all these big, big mountains that they have, the ice starts flowing downward because nobody can hold it; and now there are floods. The nature starts acting.

So whether they progress outward in this wrong direction, or they try things inwards like Freudian methods, both are dangerous and are destructive and in this destruction who are lost are the people who are innocent.

So one has to develop that wisdom within oneself, that we are human beings here, part and parcel of one whole and only the human beings can get Self-realisation and can feel that oneness.

And such a personality is a satisfied personality; they do not try to exploit other countries, other people; they live satisfied with themselves. They enjoy their compassion and their generosity. They open their houses to everyone, they open their hearts to everyone. They make their houses beautiful for others, not for themselves.

We were first in London in a country house and there were other six houses; there were quite rich people living there. Every Saturday, Sunday, the poor husband had to mow the lawn and wife would stand up telling him “do it better” and used to polish all the brass, you see, same with his wife and not even a rat would enter that house and they were surprised that in our house there were so many people coming and they came and saw our house and were surprised that our house was so beautiful and so neat and clean. I told them that if you really have a beautiful house, even children don't want to disturb it; they treat the house like a temple. But if you do not make the house beautiful and acceptable to others, then you are only busy cleaning for yourself all the brass, all the crystal, all the glass everything yourself. And what is the purpose? Then Monday you are again tired, sitting very tired, but if you had kept the doors open to others, they would have enjoyed, then it had some purpose.

So purposeless life is absolutely joyless. That is the problem is that people get exhausted for nonsensical things. If one spoon is lost they will just die ten times. Thank God in India, we are not such materialists, yet. We might become, but we have now a short circuit, we are coming to Sahaja Yoga before we are developing. Now the culture is also very different and is an ancient culture. That should be the culture of Sahaj Yogis, will be that culture. Like, now if somebody spills any coffee say, nobody will say anything, `No it's alright, it's alright, no, no, no it doesn't matter,' even if it's a Persian carpet, until the guest is in the house, you will not wipe it. Even if children break something, we don't punish them, that `you have broken this and it's very wrong, you have broken that,' nothing of the kind, “It's alright, you be careful” that's all. We don't scold them for that, but we tell them that: “You be careful, you might get hurt." No importance is given to things. Also in language we cannot say to somebody: `I hate you.' That's not allowed. Or; `I don't like you,' or `I believe in this,' they will say: `Who are you? What do you think of yourself?' The parents will immediately correct and that is the correcting point which helps throughout the life.

You don't say harsh things like: `I don't like this, I don't like that.' We have to appreciate everything, learn to appreciate other human beings, to enjoy other people, to see to their good points. If you see only their bad points, you will get all their bad points; where is your attention? Instead of getting too many plastics, you have one little nice thing with you. That is something joy-giving. Keep your houses open to others, don't get worried how your door is, if somebody touches the door it might spoil its polish, or something like that. Enjoy looking after others having concern for them.

They always say: “Mother, You look so young despite Your age and You work so hard." It is because I love everyone much more than I care for Myself, because I have so much concern for everyone. That keeps Me very happy. If I could give something to others, that makes Me very happy. If I can cook for everyone, that's very good, only I think, two years back I went to, first of all that's about three years back, I went to Australia and cooked for five hundred people in two places and enjoyed really seeing them enjoy My food.

It was such a joy giving thing. The greatest joy is in giving others. As soon as this attitude changes, you'll be amazed the materialism will be at your feet, because in Sahaja Yoga it works that way. I'll give you an example; once I was going for a Guru Pūjā and I wanted to take some presents for all the leaders. In London I don't go out shopping, but I went out and I was exhausted, I couldn't get anything and I came in the evening very tired and there was nothing I could find and I thought that: “I better now open My storeroom and try to find out something there." And at that time a Sahaj Yogi just said: “Mother there's some boy who wants to sell his paintings." I just came rushing down and he had beautiful paintings with him at a very reasonable price that I could afford and they were exactly the number I wanted, so I bought them. And you know in one of the Guru Pūjās I gave beautiful paintings to everyone. This time I had no time to buy any presents for the leaders, I was going to France and here. I thought I must have something and now what to do? I have to take something for Jose Antonio and also for Patrick, so our plane was delayed and I got beautiful fountain pens for both of them; I was so very happy I could buy them there.

It's so nice see to buy for others. I find it difficult to buy anything for Myself. It is so many times I have seen how suddenly you get the things that you want and the matter is at your feet. I had bought some chocolates for children for the Pūjā in, not Pūjā but visit to Paris and when they came in the evening for music, we forgot about it, but at the airport we suddenly found them, so I gave all that to small children and to big children also and we had a nice time at the airport. All these small, small things give so much of joy, such an ocean of joy. You just try these things.

In the beginning of Sahaj Yoga, I was, I had gone for a program to meet the Sahaja Yogis at Gavin's place and his wife was no good for, she was cooking and all that, she, she was schizophrenic type, but Gavin said: “Mother will you please have Your dinner with us?" So I thought he has cooked only for Me, so I allowed everybody to go away and he was in the kitchen and he came out and said: “Mother, where are they?" I said: “Why they have gone away." He said: “See, Mother, I have cooked for all of them and why did they go away?" You see his sweetness filled My heart with joy; I felt what a sweet man he is. He's from Scotland and they say that Scottish people are very miserly, but I found Gavin to be a very generous person. Like that I like when the Sahaj Yogis talk good of others, try to help them and try to be nice to each other, that is the most joy-giving thing. All these things will cut out the domination of matter upon us. We should not care for the matter.

Of course one should care for something that is given to you with love. One day Gregoire had given Me two little, little horses then I came home I saw they were missing and I went round the whole house seeing them: “Where are they?" I said, “Where are they gone?" So I had My servants, My domestics, they were surprised that: “There are so many things in the house, why is She worried about these two little horses?" So My husband came back in the evening. I said: “Have you seen those two little horses that Gregoire had given Me?" “Yes, yes” he said, “I have kept them properly in my cupboard because children were there, they would have broken and You would have felt bad about them." I had so much silver, so many expensive things, he didn't bother about that, because it had an expression of love in that, which is much more than all the gold, all the silver put together. This is what we have to understand, that love is more important than anything else.

You must compete in loving each other more; compete in being kind to each other and compete in being humbler than each other, compete in doing something for others and in saying very sweet things to others. Try to think of doing something very sweet. Like once I went to buy a sarī for Myself and then I found, you see for Myself I am quite miserly, I thought it was rather expensive and I didn't buy it. And another Sahaja Yogi was there, with Me, I didn't know, but he bought that sarī and next day he brought it to Me and then that's how he was so much appreciated by everyone. Maybe it had that love, this is what it is, we have to feel the power of love, then everything vibrates, the matter vibrates and you can feel the vibrations from a distance.

If you come and open My cupboard and try to arrange My sarīs, you will be all filled with vibrations.

Anything that you touch will have vibrations.

So it is important that we should learn to love and improve our vibrations, so that we can spread love all over and remove the people from the shackles of materialism.

I wanted to talk to people in Spain about this and for all the other people I would say that they should come back because they have gone too far into it, because matter complicates you; it reacts and make you think more, it doesn't allow your attention to be steady.

If you see anything beautiful, you just look at it without thinking, then you will realise what beauty lies in the matter. In the Zen system of meditation, Viditama the one who was the founder of Zen system tried it; I think I've talked about it in some other lecture. With all My love to you, I would say that: “Try to love each other." And you have seen that, in India when you travel, it's not so comfortable and we cannot give that comfort in the small places we go to, but still you all enjoy it so much; you don't want comfort, you want the comfort of love. You enjoy each others company so much and that overflowing love of your host country that is India, Indians; that is the sign of good Sahaj Yogis, because there is a big purpose in our lives, greatest of all, what Abraham Lincoln did, or what Mahatma Gandhi did, your work is much greater and subtler, because you can do living work, so we don't have to become Sannyāsīs, we don't have to give up anything, but we have to change our attitude. We have to develop that detachment.

May God bless you all.

Contents: 1987-11-16*, Public Program, You Have to Find Your Self, Porchester Hall, Porchester Road, London, W2, UK

I bow to all the seekers of Truth.

When we are seeking the Truth we have to know we have to be honest about it. Because it is benevolent for us, not for others. We are seeking the Truth for ourselves, not for others.

The another thing we have to remember, very humbly, that truth is what it is. We can not change it, we can not organize it, we can not manoeuvre it. It is what has been and will be.

And what is the Truth? The truth is that you are the Spirit. You are not this body, you are not this mind, you are not this ego and you are not this conditioning. You are the Spirit. But so far you have been a humane being. But to be humane being itself is a very great thing. Is the greatest thing to be a humane being. Perhaps we have not realised the value of our life because we do not know what we are. The way we waste our time, waste our energies, waste our attention on things, which are senseless, because we still have to understand the greatness of our being. Humane beings are made with such care, so beautifully, such delicate working of the Divine from amoeba to this stage passing through various stages, such a beautiful thing has been created as a humane being.

But first we must have this attention to our Self that there must be something. It can not be a purposelessly [UNCLEAR way/doing], it can not be something just a chance. Is a wrong idea to play with. If the gravitation force of the Earth or anyone of the galaxies changes, then be disaster, absolute disaster.

So many things in the cosmos, if you study, the coefficients that works out, the different balancing and the different weights and the movements of the different bodies show us that there must be some purpose.

And they do not trouble us; it's all as if made for the stage for humane beings. That the humane beings have to come on the stage and all the preparation is made for the great drama. I think it's high time that great scientists should look at it and start wondering why is it the way it is made. Why we are so much looked after. The whole cosmos seems to be within ourselves as if we have buttons, which move the cosmos, which control the cosmos. Everything is going on so smoothly otherwise, except when we do not try to understand ourselves.

It has been said practically in all the Scriptures that you have to seek your Self; you have to find your Self. Though I think many of this Scriptures have been little bit changed and have been used for certain purposes, still they could not get over this point that you have to become the Self, you have to be born again.

But that is not an artificial thing. We are humane beings not artificially made. We are made really by some sort of a living force from amoeba. We are not just made with some sort of a thinking or a mental projection. It is not a mental projection by which we have been humane beings, it is something spontaneously happening, a living force within us, which has brought us to this stage, with a purpose, with a meaning.

And now at this stage we are free to do what we like. Many people ask Me, “What was the need to give this freedom to humane beings?" It was very necessary. If you have to have the ultimate freedom you must know how to deal with it. You have to understand. Of course, humane beings have to make mistakes. To err is humane. And we have to understand that this trial, error and trial and error business, has made us understand, also those who have not understood must understand, that there must be a wiser or surer way to achieve that goal of Self-realisation, of Self-knowledge.

Self-knowledge we do not have, we must admit very humbly, we have had no system by which we could know ourselves. But think of a computer that is a humane being is. As soon as you see Me you know I am there. You don't have to go for programming, you don't have to consult anything, you don't have to use any kind of computer or some sort of a complicated machinery, automatically, spontaneously in a split of a second you know that I'm standing before you and talking to you. Such a computer we can not create.

But the Divine has created such a great computer and that is the humane being. And this humane being is the only one who is going to achieve that higher state, which we call as the spiritual state of the Self.

Because in the science they deal with the tree, I should say, the outside, but they can not go into the roots. To go into the roots you have to become a subtler being. Unless and until you become a subtler being you can not go into your roots to find out what are your roots are. And that is what is Self-realisation.

When you become subtler then only you can go into your being and can find out what actually you are.

Also to look after a tree, which has not know its roots, is a very difficult thing. What happens is that when you do not know your roots and you start growing and growing and growing you go very deep down into that where you find that you have lost your way. Actually you are not going deeper. You are spreading outside more and more. And then once you start going to extremes because of your freedom you lose your way.

That's how today everybody is saying, “A shock is going to come." You are all going to face a shock.

This is going to happen, that is going to happen. But actually it is absolutely in your hands because the whole of the cosmos is within you. The cosmos is working under your control complete. It is absolutely looking after you. Every element is looking after you to preserve you, to guide you, to take you to the right thinking.

But in your freedom you have to achieve that. This is a very big condition and there where we fail to understand. Even there are many who say, “There is nothing like Divine" and, “There is nothing like God." In Russia I've been and I've been to China and all the communist countries and they are in a way partially justify it. Because what they found, those people who talk of God, those who say that, “We believe in God" and those who say that, “We believe in religion” can be irreligious. Anybody who can call himself a Christian, Hindu, Muslim, say, Farsi, anything, is capable of any sin. Whatever he wants to do he can do it. Nobody can say that, `Because he was a Christian he could not do it.' So the whole concept of religion becomes a mental projection again an artificial thing. But if a person is a Self-realised person he goes beyond that, beyond temptations, beyond any kind of domination of any habits. He becomes a very strong person, very powerful person and extremely compassionate. His compassion is active. Is not a compassion that, `I'll form a charitable institution, which lends money to people,' is not like that. The being itself emits compassion and this compassion acts, acts and works out. For example you become like a light which gives light to people and to yourself. You know others and you know yourself. That is the light of the Truth and unless and until that happens one should not say that, `I'm a Self-realised Soul' or, `I am a twice born', is artificial.

So what you have to understand that we are living in a relative world. We talk relatively. We have to be in the absolute world, where the Truth is absolute. There now before you I'm standing, you know very well that I'm wearing a sarī, which is white. But it's a relative still because somebody will say, “Oh, maybe it's white." Somebody will say, “It's of white” somebody will say like that. Still you know something, but to know it absolutely, meticulously the right thing, you have to be the Spirit. But what you know is much more than these eyes can see or this nose can smell. Is much more, much more explicit, much more clear-cut. Like a person who is suffering, say, from some disease. A child is suffering from some disease and they don't know what the disease is.

So they have to go many various kinds of tests and for that the gentlemen, the father, or the mother, they have to pay a lot of money. They go on finding about the child, what's wrong, what's wrong, what's wrong. They can not find it, what's wrong with the child. And they are so upset about it and within three days a child dies and still the diagnoses is not coming. Is a very common thing. But when you are a Self-realised Soul you can know what's wrong with the child, exactly you can put down your finger on the problem that he has.

Now how does it happen? Here is already told you about the Chakras that we have, the centers within us. These are the centers, which on one side control the cosmos, on the other side control us, give knowledge and on the other side they give us the knowledge about others. These centers are within us.

Now when I'm telling you all this you have to have an open mind of a scientist. We shouldn't just deny it because in your concept it doesn't fitting. But like a scientist please see to it that if it is proved you have to accept that this is so. Now these Chakras are within you, these centers are within you and these centers communicate to you through your fingertips what's the matter with a child. You can feel it on your fingertips, now five, six and seven centers, right side, seven centers [points to the Chakra projections on Her left and right palms]. The right side has got the seven centers, if they are decoded properly and if you know what is the decoding is, putting the hand towards a child, for a realised Soul it is very easy to see where is the problem. And as soon as he finds a problem and he knows how to cure it he can cure people without going to doctors.

Sahaja Yoga has cured, I must say, I don't want to claim it because I don't want to open a hospital.

We are here to create doctors and not patients.

So even some patients who have come to us have become doctors today in a way that they diagnose it on their fingertips. As Mohammed Sahib has clearly said that, “At the time of your resurrection your hands will speak." But still nobody wants to know about it, that's called as a resurrection time, as Qayamat, nobody wants to talk about it. “Your hands will speak and will give evidence and witness against you” clearly He has said it, I must say, He'd done such a lot of work on the Self-knowledge; as Christ has also said so many things.

But people don't want to look at that side. Like to say that, “We must suffer" itself is a nonsense, I think, how can you. Any God who is a compassionate Father would like His children to suffer to meet Him? I mean, it doesn't going to logic at all. But people accept this funny concept of sufferings. What about Christ? He suffered for us, isn't it? Isn't it that He suffered for us? If so, is has He left something for us to be done, to be completed more than He has suffered? He has suffered for us and He has done the job fully. We don't have to do any more about it. He carried the cross. People make Him look like a TB patient, even worse than that, just bones and the skins. It's very surprising, how can you conceive Christ like that? Anyone of the people who say they are very healthy people, let them carry the cross and we'll see. It is so contradictory about Christ, there's surprisingly that He should say that you have to suffer.

Same about Jews. I just don't understand why should they say that you have to suffer if their God is kind? Same about all other organized; all these organized or perverted people who say that you have to suffer. Suddenly people become vegetarians, suddenly they become fasting. In India though we have to fast in any case because of lack of food, but they have fasting days. There are some people who fast at least five days in a week. They fasting. What is the need to fast? If you ask for fasting you'll have to fast all your life. That's what God gives you, `You fast now, you want to fast? All right, have it fasting.' We are asking for trouble. You want to be miserable? All right, be miserable. You want to be unhappy? All right, be unhappy.

You find people coming out of congregations, which are supposed to be very religious so miserable looking. How can it be? It has to be joy, it has to be happiness. Just think of it, how can we ever believe such things what we have believed for ages, ages, ages and it can not go out of our heads, that we have to suffer. How long, how many years, how many lives? Nothing is written anywhere. You better go on suffering and make others suffer also with it. If some person is like that in your family you'd like to run away with that boredom, because he's suffering for nothing at all and [laughs] he don't understand why is he suffering.

So you want to run away from such a person. And all this kind of ideas we have accepted for ages now. And that has led us to a big confusion about God.

Then we take to things which give us joy. Actually they are not, they are just flippant pleasures. We can not enjoy anything in life, really we can not. We can see the way people are now going on for such sensational things. The reason is there's no joy. The sensitivity to joy is so reduced that I sometimes fear with all that they are doing they so fed up, that they may have to put electrodes in the limbic area to get the joy instead. They have become so very [smiles] so very insensitive to anything, they'll not laugh, they'll not smile, they are so full of closed hearts and frightened things, whatever they said about humane beings.

Now first thing you have to know, you don't have to suffer at all. Secondly, you don't have to judge yourself. Let your Kuṇḍalinī rise and judge you. You don't start judging yourself and condemning yourself.

And the another fashion, which is very common, is to feel guilty. From the very beginning you start, “I am afraid." What are you afraid of? You have to have all the courage, all the blessings and all the confidence. You are a humane being and this is the message I want to tell you that you are a humane being and you have to be the Spirit. And once you are the Spirit you'll be surprised the blessings will be showering upon you. In these modern times should talk about these things is out of date. But it is predicted that this will be said and this will be done. For us it is important first of all to know our own glory, our own truths and about how we are built and how others are built. Once you know that first of all the peace within is established. Unless and until there is peace within what do you talk of this peace organization and Peace Nobel Prize? I've seen the people who have gotten Nobel Prizes are the most hot-headed so much that you have to talk to them with a barge pole in between. Any time they are up to jump on you, you can not challenge them; even talking to them is a difficult situation.

So how are they going to have this peace foundation when they are themselves so shaking? Then you have other things talking about, the love, the love. Full of lust and greed. They love your purse, not you. When you talk of love, love is a thing that's detached. Like the sap in the tree rises, goes to all the leaves, all the trunk, all the flowers, all the fruits and comes back, is not attached. If it's get attached to one fruit the tree will die and the fruit will die too.

So this Pure Love or the Divine Love is detached, that's why it acts, it works. A person who is a realised Soul is such a pure personality that even a glance of such a person can do lots of things. Even a thought of such a person in the attention can do so many things, bring about so many changes.

So this is the time of our transformation. We have to become a higher personality; the transformation has to take place. At the time of Easter we give people eggs. Perhaps people do not know why do we give them eggs at the time of Easter. But about Christ is written in our Scriptures that He was an egg to begin with. Of course, He was much more before that, but to begin with He was the God of innocence.

But then He came as an egg. And then He was divided into two halves. The one half, which incarnated and which transformed this Earth.

So the resurrection is the transformation. Like an egg, if we are bound by our conditioning and by our ego, we break through that shell and become a bird, which is really a free bird. Only thing, the bird has to know how to fly. Now this is, again I'm saying is the living process of the living nature, of the living Power of Love. It is not something artificial. In Sahaja Yoga, I must have spoken in this hall I don't know how many times might before and again today there's a chance to speak to you.

What I have to say, that it is important the becoming. Is not important: you can not become a member of Sahaj Yog, you can not pay membership, you can not pay for your Realisation. How can you pay? How much do we pay to the Mother Earth to sprout the seed, does She understand? Because She has the power She sprouts the seed. If you give Her money or read something before Her, it makes no difference.

But once you get your Realisation you start understanding how many powers you have. And the greatest power is of compassion and detached love.

These seven Chakras are within us, which are to be enlightened by the awakening of the Kuṇḍalinī about which Doctor Szpiro has already told you. Now in this short time I can not cover up the whole subject. I must have given at least more than thousand lectures in English language. But I would request you one thing that forget about what you have learned so far. About your conditionings because if you had achieved anything out of that I was not necessary. Now you have to see with a clean slate, as they say, what you can achieve in this lifetime, which is the most important thing, is to be achieved.

Of course, where's a lot of things that should really make you more tempting about it. Firstly, that you get rid of all your illnesses. Most of the illnesses can be cured, if they are at an early stage, by Sahaja Yoga. Most of the mental illnesses can be cured with Sahaja Yoga. Your material problems can be solved by Sahaja Yoga. Your spiritual problems like going to wrong Gurus and wrong people whatever you have accumulated within you can be corrected. But the highest of all that you become sensitive to joy. Then you start seeing joy in everything. You don't have to think that, `Oh, this is the thing which is marvelous.' No. It just happens, you see it is. Just you enjoy without thinking about it. You become a peaceful personality.

You become a dynamic personality. Your are not spade by other veils of things, like some fashion coming up, then some sort of a nonsensical idea coming up, then some medicine coming up and you treating yourself and getting to trouble. You just rise above all the these things at a higher level and you start see everything as a witness. You become the witness of all the jokes that are going on and you just watch it and you think, `What's all this? Is just a play.' Many people have said that, “Mother, You always laugh so much and You have always smiling face, so the people are not going to take You seriously." I said, “I don't want them to be serious." There's not going to be any seriousness needed. What are you serious about? You should be happy. It's fun. We have to be happy people. We have to be happy. Most people who think, they are very guilty, should punish themselves by saying, `You are not guilty, you are not guilty' 108 times. That's what we have in Sahaja Yoga. Is just the myth. All these are myths; we are working with myths and making our lives miserable, which is meant to be joy, happiness and all the overflowing blessings of the Divine.

Whatever I'm telling you about we have within ourselves all the great powers hidden of our brain, of our liver, of our heart, they are to be enlightened. And then in the light you see everything. But as in this room you have so many lights you have to just push in one button and the whole thing comes out.

In the same way it happens. But if I start telling you about the history of electricity in the dark and all about how it came here and what all happened, you'd be just fed up with it.

So what we are doing is to tell you that let us put on the button first, you better have your light and see in that light if it is true or not. If it is true you have to understand and accept it honestly. You have to be honest to yourself that is the main point I'm trying to tell you. We are not to play about with ourselves and play about with our conditionings. We have to be honest and to get to our properties that are within our selves. I'm not here to oblige you at all, there's no obligation. Is just like a catalyst, I would say and you become the catalyst oneself once you get your Realisation. And you can do all that I can do, it's very easy and very simple.

May God bless you all.

[Aside:] Now, should we have questions or what? I find most of you were just ready for getting Self-realisation. Not only that, but I think you all capable of that. But still there must be some people who must be want to ask questions. I would only request, don't be aggressive with Me, there's no need. I've not come here for votes, nor for any money, nor for anything. I've just come here to give you your own keys. Out of Love that I am.

So please try to understand Me. I'm not here to take, I mean, anything from you. Just to show you what you are and you'll be happy to know that you are something great.

So may God bless you, I would like you to ask Me questions related to Self-realisation and not to waste the time of so many who look so anxious to have their Self-realisation. Those who do not want to do any meditation after this, which will take hardly ten minutes for you to get your Realisation, because the journey is three to four feet only, from here to here [shows the distance from Mūlādhār to Sahasrāra Chakra with Her hand]. That's all.

So, I would just say, that you will all get your Realisation in no time. Should get your Realisation, but do not try to be uncivil. If you do not want to have it, you should leave the hall and leave others in peace. That would be very kind of us. And not to see and watch, we don't need such people here. Those who want to have Realisation can sit down or others have freedom to go, but not freedom to sit here.

So I would request you to be kind and civil to others who want to receive their Realisation.

Any questions, please.

Question: [UNCLEAR]. What's it? A

Sahaja Yogi: Mother, he said that Doctor Szpiro couldn't complete his talk about how the germinating principle works. Could You say something to finish of what he said?

Shri Mataji: Generating principle? The Sahaja Yogi: Germinating.

Shri Mataji: You see, it is, I would say, it is spontaneous. Now that should explain a little bit how does a seed germinate. You have the seed and you put it in the Mother Earth, all right? And it germinates because it's all built in it, this is all built in it, all this is built in it. And in the triangular bone you have got this Kuṇḍalinī, which is placed within you in 3,5 coils of an energy, which is a residual energy. Which is actually the power of your pure desire. Because the desire that we have otherwise, all the desires, are not pure. What's why they are not satiable in general. We get one thing, we want to have another. We get the another thing, you want to have the third thing.

So this is the power of pure desire. And this pure desire is described in the Bible as “Holy Ghost” in the Koran as “Assas" and in the Indian Scriptures as Ādi Shakti, as the Primordial Mother.

So She is the power of God as called as the Primordial Mother. Now this Primordial Mother is settled in our triangular bone while the Spirit which is the reflection of God Almighty is in our heart. But the seat of the heart is on top of your head, here, on the fontanelle bone area, which is called as Brahmarandhra in Sanskrit language. And also when we talk of baptism we try to bless there, but it's artificial. Real baptism is when this Kuṇḍalinī, which is the Holy Ghost or the Ādi Shakti, the reflection of that, rises within you piercing through these centers, piercing through the fontanelle bone area and actualises the experience of this personal experience and gives you a Cool Breeze coming out of your head. Actually the Cool Breeze coming out of your head, you feel it and then you feel it everywhere, the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost.

And that is the subtle of the subtlest, which is the syntheses of all the powers, which works everything out.

Like you can say, in the sulfur dioxide we have in the molecule of the sulfur dioxide we find that there is pulsation of the vibrations. Who does what? We say electromagnetic. But the electromagnetic is one part of the same power.

So this power we can broadly divide into three things. In the first power what we call as the power by which we desire. The second power by which we act and the third power by which we ascend. All the synthesis of all these powers, all these powers are in this Kuṇḍalinī which meets the Spirit because the seat of the Spirit, as they call the Pīṭha, is on top of your head and that's how the whole attention you can see like a sarī it is supposing the attention is spread here and the Kuṇḍalinī rises, rises like that [puts Her finger under the sarī on Her chest and erects it like a tent pole], pierces through this at and the whole of this attention becomes enlightened. That's how your attention becomes enlightened.

This is in short I'm telling you. But as I told you we have got My lectures on all detailed way how it works out, it's quite a detailed thing. But in the first lecture it will be quite boring for you.

So I think I better tell you this much, that it's a spontaneous happening and can happen to all of you.

Question: [UNCLEAR].

The

Sahaja Yogi: Do the first stages in Sahaja Yoga consist of meditation and how they benefficial physiological changes?

Shri Mataji: No, it is, you see, we do not understand the meaning of meditation actually. You are not to meditate, but you are in meditation in Sahaja Yoga. You become meditative by temperament. Now, I would suggest like this that in the beginning why I said you have to meditate, because I would like to tell you actually that word is not so suitable, but I said that you have to little bit cooperate with Me how to help your Kuṇḍalinī to rise. That's the process we are going to have in a very simple words. But I said meditate because that's all could make the smaller way of saying things. But actually in Sahaja Yoga the practice of Sahaja Yoga is very different from any kind of meditation, of concentration or anything. There are very simple ways by which you have to correct your left or right side and to be in the center. And then when you are in the center the growth take place. Is very simple and luckily we are going to have next Thursday a very good workshop where they will tell you all the details how it has to be done. And they'll solve all your questions and all your problems there. And lots of people are going to be in that place where you'll find solutions to all these questions you ask. Thursday they are going to have a very good workshop.

Question: [UNCLEAR].

Shri Mataji: [UNCLEAR Yes/First], sickness can be cured if you become Self-realised. Actually you don't go to doctors then anymore, you become a doctor yourself.

So the physical sufferings can be, this [UNCLEAR way]. Now the collective suffering comes by the stupidity of humane beings, by the ego of humane beings, of wrong ideas, you see. Like a Hindu fighting a Sikh and a Muslim fighting a Muslim and a Christian fighting the Jews or all the sorts of nonsense. And also the capitalist fighting the communists. Actually I should say I'm a capitalist because I have certain powers and I'm the greatest communist because I must distribute it. This is the real power which has to be distributed. What is the money power to be distributed?, Useless thing. Money doesn't give you any sense.

So is the combination of everything, the synthesis of everything you'll find and that's how you are surprised that the sufferings just disappear. Also now you might say that, “What about the sufferings of the nature?" People who are realised Souls never get those suffering things because you see this full cosmos is within them, they are looked after. This is at a humane awareness. But at the spiritual awareness you become beyond sufferings.

And Christ is to be awakened within you, that's the points is. Because Christ is not awakened within you.

When the Christ, you know, in this Chakra, this center is Āgñyā Chakra, here, is bestowed the Deity of Christ. Now here if you can see in the map there is they have shown on one side the ego, another side, the superego, means the conditioning. Now when this Chakra is awakened meaning the Christ within us is awakened, then He sucks in our Karmas. That's why they say that He died for our sins. Then He also sucks in our conditioning, both the things. He is placed in the middle of the brain you can say where is the Optic Chiasma crossing and He looks after the pituitary and the pineal body. That's how He controls both the things within us and He sucks in. And when He sucks in there's an opening that takes place on our fontanelle bone area and through that then the Kuṇḍalinī pierces through.

Question: [UNCLEAR].

The

Sahaja Yogi: How can you keep your Self-realisation if you are not in touch with the collective?

Shri Mataji: You can not. You have to keep some connection with the collective. It's like say nowadays it's autumn you have seen. In autumn what happens? A bark like a cork develops between the leaves and the tree. And such a leaf falls off and dies. You have to be in the collective, you can not keep your Self-realisation without collectivity. Is very important to be with the collective. This is one point people fail, because they think they'll lose their individuality. Is a wrong idea. Actually when the leaf dies it has no individuality. On the contrary, when it is on the tree you'll be surprised, that one leaf can not tally with another leaf in the whole world. Such an individual thing it is. It is I would say unity in diversity, complete unity in diversity. Because that is the variety is the one that gives beauty to this world.

Otherwise if we are all sort of dressed of the same way, walking the same way, it will be such a boring company.

Is there any question? Such a rapport. It's beautiful people today. All right.

So now, as I've requested you, those who would like to go, should go. Because when we do this we all have to close the eyes and people are not even willing to do that.

So the thing is that the Divine is not going to fall at out feet, isn't it? We have to be little humble about it. If we don't have that humility is better we should try other methods and then come to Sahaja Yoga. Because Sahaja Yoga is not meant for arrogant people, for people who think knowing of themselves. Is meant for people who want to get their Self-realisation.

Now a simple thing we have to do, all of us, which is also sometimes not liked by people when I tell them, we have to take out our shoes. Because this Mother Earth is going to help us a lot. She's the one who is giver of everything.

So we have to take out our shoes and touch the Mother Earth. You can keep your socks on with your both the feet. Put both the feet separately because there are two powers separately on the Mother Earth. Those who are sitting on the ground are all right as they are, they need not put their feet like this, they can sit in a Sahaja asana, means in a way that is relaxed, not to put legs on top of another row or anything. Any stress on your body is not needed. You have to be comfortable to be straight, sitting straight, not putting your neck back or forward, just sitting straight, that's all.

One promise has to be there in your heart, that you will after Realisation respect your Realisation and grow like a tree and should not be the like the parable of the seeds that some seeds fell on a rock and some who sprouted also got lost. I would request you very-very earnestly and with a great concern that you have to look after your Self-realisation and your growth. As we do not take any money from anyone, we don't have very elaborate places or elaborate centers, so whatever is available is there for you. But that is God's place and you have to come there to get all the information, the knowledge about the Self. I hope you will not treat it with just a side issue, but the main object of your humane assent. You don't have to pay for it; you don't have to do anything else. Moreover, we are all the time trying to save time and that is why the time has to be spent is been collective and enjoying the joy.

May God bless you all.

So both hands have to be like this, to begin with. This is because as I told you these are all sympathetic centers which are to be enlightened first of all, so the information goes to the Kuṇḍalinī that the Kuṇḍalinī is to be awakened. This is first thing we have to do.

Now, secondly, we have to facilitate the movement of the Kuṇḍalinī even if she's awakened. And for that I will tell you how to put your hand into various centers to the various centers so that you can yourself facilitate. I would like one of you to get up and show this better. Yeah.

Now Doctor Szpiro will show you also and I will also that first you have to put your hand to your heart where resides. Now left hand towards Me and right hand on the heart. Left hand towards Me. Now to your heart and here resides the Spirit. We work only on the left hand side, because that is the side of our desire and put the left hand like this symbolically meaning that this is the power of desire and we want to have our Self-realisation, expression of that.

Now the second Chakra is on the upper part of your abdomen on the left hand side. This is the center of your mastery by which the mastery over this power of love or Divine vibrations you achieve and manifest through your being. Is just starts working like through our eyes we can see the light. In the same way, once you become the master, you can feel, you can know everything about yourself and about others.

Then you have to take down your right hand to the lower part of your abdomen. This is the one, which is working out our Pure Knowledge, knowledge, which is absolute and pure. This center is very important and by some unauthorized people if some people have tamper it we have to nourish it by putting our right hand towards it.

Then again we go back into the upper part of the abdomen.

Then we go back to our heart.

Now here we go back to the left hand side of our neck, here, like this from front. Many people tried this side [points to the back side of Her neck]. No. You have to try from front and then turn your head to your right, like this. Now this center catches when we feel guilty and now I find quite a lot catching in this audience.

So please for the sake of your Self-realisation forgive yourself, forgive yourself, forgive yourself.

Now, please now stretch your hand like this and put it on top of your forehead. This is the center of forgiveness, here. And press it on both the sides, like this.

Now you have to take this hand on the back, rest your head on that, put the head up. And then you have to take out your hand again and stretch it like this. Fully stretched. The center of your palm is to be placed on top of the fontanelle bone area. You might bend your head a little, would be better. Just there, which was a soft bone in your childhood and you have to press your scalp and move it about seven times slowly in a clockwise manner.

That's all we have to do. But we must press it hard and the fingers must be pushed back nicely so that we can press our palm nicely. All right. That's all is to be done. [UNCLEAR Principally].

Now we have to close our eyes. Please don't open your eyes till I'll tell you. Because the attention will be attracted inside and please you can take out your glasses. The other day one lady who was quite blind I think and she started seeing this, I mean, you know, things happen like that. I would request you to take out your glasses. It helps you. And you keep your eyes shut till I'll tell you, please don't open your eyes.

It is how you are going to help yourself and also you will know how to all the time raise your Kuṇḍalinī.

It's very simple method, which I'm telling you.

Now, please put your left hand towards Me like this and right hand on your heart. Left hand towards Me and right hand on your heart. Here, now close your eyes. In the heart resides the Spirit.

So please ask Me question within yourself, a very fundamental question, you can call Me Shri Mataji or Mother, whatever you like, `Mother, am I the Spirit?' Ask this question, `Mother, am I the Spirit?' Is a very fundamental question here to ask. Ask this question three times.

Now, if you are the Spirit, you are also your guide and master. Please put your right hand in the upper part of your abdomen on the left hand side, on your stomach on the left hand side and press it hard and ask a question here three times again, `Mother, am I my own master? Mother, am I my own master? Mother, am I my own master?' Ask this question in your heart.

Now, we move our right hand, move it down into the lower part of your abdomen on the left hand side.

Now here, please keep your eyes shut, please keep your eyes shut and don't move too much. Here you have to know that I respect your freedom and I can not force you to have the Pure Knowledge. You have to say that you want it.

So here you please say, `Mother, please give me Pure Knowledge' six times, because this center has got six petals.

So please say six times, `Mother, please give me Pure Knowledge.' With this asking the Kuṇḍalinī starts rising, because she knows you want it. Now to facilitate her movement we go back to the higher Chakra and take our hand to the upper part of the abdomen on the left hand side and press it hard. Now, with full confidence we have to say ten times, `Mother, I am my own master.' Say it with full confidence so the Kuṇḍalinī will rise, `Mother, I am my own master.' Please say it ten times. This will correct your spiritual domination if somebody has dominated you spiritually in the sense that they have misguided you spiritually. `I am my own master.' Now, raise your right hand to the heart. Here resides the Spirit.

So with full confidence say twelve times, `Mother, I am the Spirit.' Have confidence in yourself.

We have to know, that the Divine is the ocean of love and compassion. But above all it is the ocean of forgiveness and we can not commit any mistakes, which the Divine can not forgive.

So please forgive yourself, forgive yourself fully and raise your right hand in the corner of your neck and your shoulder and turn your head to the right. And here with full confidence you say sixteen times, `Mother, I am not guilty at all.' Please say it, very important and as I said, if you still feel guilty, you can punish yourself by saying it hundred and eight times. You have to be pleasantly placed towards yourself because you are going to enter into the Kingdom of God. You have to love yourself and respect yourself. Sixteen times please say it.

Now raise your hand and put it on your forehead across. Put it on your forehead across. This is the center of forgiveness.

So please here you have to say, `Mother, I forgive everyone,' from your heart. You might say it is difficult, but it is a myth. Whether you forgive or you do not forgive you do not do anything.

But if you do not forgive then you play into wrong hands.

So to get over all the loads you just say from your heart, `Mother, I forgive everyone.' It's not important how many times. Press it on both the sides please.

Now take back your hand and put your hand on the back of your head and raise your head on that.

Move your head upward. Now here for your own satisfaction only, without counting any mistakes or guilt you can say, `Oh, Divine, if I have made any mistakes, please forgive me.' For your own satisfaction, don't feel guilty about it. In a very pleasant manner.

Now stretch your hand fully, push back your fingers and put the center of your palm on top of the fontanelle bone area and now start moving it very slowly, very slowly clockwise the scalp. Press it hard, push back your fingers. Seven times. At this point I must say that I can not force again the Self-realisation upon you. I respect your freedom. You have to ask for it.

So please say seven times, `Mother, please give me my Realisation, give me my Self-realisation.' Or, `May I have my Self-realisation.' [Shri Mataji blows into the microphone seven times.] Now please take down your hands. Please open your eyes very slowly. Now watch Me without thinking.

Let's see if you can do it. Without thinking. Just watch Me without thinking. Please put your right hand towards Me, right hand towards Me like this. And the left hand above your head and bend your head and try to see if you are feeling any Cool Breeze from here. Bend your head, bend, bend it. Little higher.

Some people get it very high, very high they get it, some of them. Move it. And now put the left hand towards Me like this, again bend your head and see if you are getting a Cool Breeze in your head.

Now put your right hand towards Me again, bend your head and see for yourself again if there's a Cool Breeze.

Now raise both your hands towards the sky and push back your head and ask a question three times, `Mother, is this the Cool Breeze of the Holy Ghost? Mother, is this the Brahma Shakti? Mother, is this the All-pervading Power of God's Love?' Just ask the question.

Now put down your hands. Now please put your hands like this. You'll feel very relaxed and peaceful.

In the hands also you'll feel little Cool Breeze coming.

Some people might feel in one hand, might feel in another hand.

Some of them do feel that way.

All those who are feeling the Cool Breeze on top of their heads or on their fingertips, please raise both your hands. Both hands to be raised those who are feeling it. Just imagine! Most of them have felt it.

Imagine. Hardly very few haven't felt. It's very easy for them also to feel it and if they want they can come up to the stage and people can look after them. They can feel it today, they should and they will work out their Kuṇḍalinī. Maybe little help is needed and it's very kind of you, all of you to have received your Realisation. I bow to all of you. I bow to all of you and I beg of you as a Mother that please look after your Self-realisation, do not waste it. Those who haven't got it should not feel in any way disturbed or upset, it's very simple. Maybe the little time was needed more or whatever it is. I would request them to come on the stage for five minutes or ten minutes and they might get their Realisation very well.

May God bless you.

Also if you want to come and meet Me you can come on the stage, I would like to talk to you.

So many! Now what do you want? The England, the whole England! Those who want to be should come, one by one, please.

Contents: 1987-12-01 Conversation with Sahaja Yogis, Treatment of Virus Infections, Pune, Maharashtra, India

So whatever we condition ourselves, becomes a kind of our subconscious. That we have been doing, say for example, all the time something, so it becomes our conditioning, because we have been doing it repeatedly for so many times it becomes a conditioning and is also, what you call, is the habit. And also the habits are also given by our subconscious.

So this is the nearest to the present, you can say. Even sitting down here, supposing I take something which is very intoxicating and immediately be thrown into such a depth of subconscious, into the collective subconscious area, that immediately some thing will grip Me from collective subconscious and next time I must have it.

That's what happens with drugs. As soon as you take drugs once, you've had it. It throws you so much to that area that you just get under the grip of something, what we call as the bhoots. And then you have to...

Now, in the collective subconscious, what we have got? In the evolutionary process there were many material things which came on this earth and were thrown into this collective subconscious as useless. Like in the modern times you are having now plastics. In the same way we had many things like that which were thrown out of the evolutionary process on one side kept. Then we have got another thing, what we call the plants. Like certain plants that we have, say tobacco. Now this kind of plants which are now, we are going to throw them out of circulations. In the same way there were many other things abused and were thrown out of circulation, they are also there.

Then after the plants we got little animals, micro animals, which were also thrown out and were kept in the collective subconscious. Then on top of that we have human beings or first we can say animals, bigger animals. They also, so many went out of circulation, they also are still there. Now after that comes the animals and then some of them that are supposed to be sophisticated but are ambitions, are still desirous of.

There is such a build-up of this subconscious.

So all the problems that come to us, what we call ecological, come from this collective subconscious. And you know `pathos' means sufferings, so whatever brings you sufferings in the left side. Now we can say that these are actually, not necessarily proteins, there are some which are not even proteins, but they also grew. They're called... These proteins of course they, the fungus and all that is the protein one.

And now we also have beyond that some animals... The Egyptians had that some animals that dog of the Egyptians... or something. The French are very good at that. They took to Egyptians because they drinks so much, take all kinds of cheese and these all kinds of rotten things and then they take to Egyptians naturally because they are on left side.

So they like this very much, so this comes from Egyptians, this past.

So now we have got so many types of things there already stored in our being. All these things are there. It's a very difficult thing. I mean, nothing is destroyed in this world. Nothing is destroyed. But it is placed in different, different compartments. And we are not supposed to enter into that compartment which is not our own. And what happens, is we start moving towards that. And many nonsensical things we do.

Ultimately, there are human beings also, who are dead and who are there. Many people who drink too much, may not be having in from their own problems. Must be some sort of a bhoot got into them so must be the bhoot is drinking. Also, these people as you see, these horrible people... and all that. Their innocence is challenged. It all comes from that, they keep themselves to that extent that they find some sort of a bhoot sitting on them.

But all these criminals who do all these kinds of acts are mostly supra conscious. They are more supra conscious people who can act. Now, the people who suffer are left-sided, are the people who suffer but they are very sly, very sly and it is very difficult to catch them. They're extremely sly. They find out ways and methods. We can say in England these days you can see the situation of Sahaja Yogis in the same. Very sly people. Tell them to go this way. Tell them to do this way. Impossible. The situation is impossible sometimes. But then they suffer and then they understand.

But the other side are the aggressive ones. And they aggress on others. They trouble others and torture others. This kind can also meet with some sort of a bhoot form the supra conscious and can become really aggressive like supposing some person gets drunk.

So he might become a very sober person, very nice, very sweet talking and another day he might start beating people, beating the wife, beating the children.

In depends on what sort of a bhoot, one gets in.

But these viruses which are proteins and non-proteins also and so microscopic that you can't understand them.

So how do we try to clone them. Cloning is the process, we call it. That to attach them to something like enzymes. Enzymes, some enzymes can look after some kind of viruses. Not all enzymes can look after those viruses. There are so many of them, so many of these viruses that to find out the exact enzyme, for the exact one, is very difficult. And people nowadays are experimenting frantically on this, the cloning of the enzymes with these. Now, the antibodies do the same thing, they are like enzymes, only that they try to emit enzymes which clone and which remove the viruses.

Sometimes the antibodies can be destroyed at the very beginning; like in the case of these people who are harm AIDS, because Gaṇeśha himself is finished. And Gaṇeśha finished, means Gaṇapati, means he is the master of all the ganas, means all the antibodies within us and if you have finished all the antibodies already, I mean in the sense, if their leader is finished, means they are finished.

So how can you have any immunities? So all this secretive, nonsensical, absolutely sly stuff that people go into is because they are attached to the left side. They get into left side, work it out that way and then they suffer.

Now for these new activities. Now this new activity of cloning they are having lots of research going on.

People are trying to see, rats, you see, they put in viruses, then take out the enzymes which fight them, do this, do that, you see because they think, supposing you get a virus in a rat and the rats Gaṇeśha is all right.

So that way it will emit more enzymes to fight this disease which will fight this virus.

So then they… micro enzymes available, so then they will prepare more enzymes, like that.

But the cloning is the problem. How to clone them? How to find exactly which is suitable for which one? So this the [UNCLEAR] we are going about nowadays in the world, that they have all kinds of laboratories, all kinds of research work, with one object: that they should find out the cloning. And it's like treating a leaf with different, different medicines to see which works out.

But the another one is Sahaja Yoga. In Sahaja Yoga, how do you avoid all this, that you take out your attentions from the collective subconscious, from the past subconscious, from the present subconscious, from the today subconscious, into the center. But for that, one has to be determined person. His will power must be strong. But all left-sided people have a very, very poor will power. You do what you like, but they'll go back to their habits. You try your level best. Slowly, slyly you see. All these things they do not understand, they'll tell it to the camp of their enemies. As a matter of fact, they'll go into such problems there, that they will suffer and suffer and suffer.

So now, the theory comes out of human intelligence, that we must suffer. But there are no solutions.

So theories like this: that we must suffer and suffering is godly. Like you must have heard about the Jews and the Christians how they are propositioned for sufferings. And they all become left-sided. But then they are under the grip of the bhoots and then they become right-sided.

So you will see that the Jews now, who suffered so much at the hands of Hitler, have become extremely aggressive. And the Christians who said they will suffer, everyone has suffered because of them, all over the world. Wherever they have gone with the Bible and the gun in their hands, you see that's what they have done.

So both ways, to say suffer is make others suffer.

So also, camouflage comes in, because they're very sly, cunning, people creating problems. They can't see two people happy, enjoying.

All these things add up to your vulnerability. You get into some sort of a... Now horrible diseases are there. The Mūlādhāra is under attack. AIDS, all the muscular disabilities, you don't get temperature.

From the left side you will never get temperature. Never you will never get a heart attack, never. You may keep a machine in the lunatic asylum, but they never get heart attack, unless and until some sort of a shock comes, some accident or something. They never get temperatures. In cancer cases you don't get temperature.

And so when the Mūlādhāra is gone off, the first thing that happens is that you get a disease which you know as AIDS, but also you get all the diseases which have something so do with the muscles. The muscles start becoming weak and this and that.

Recently in London, we cured a person of that kind who could not walk or sit very nicely, who could not sit on the ground. But when he got cured sitting there for about fifteen minutes with hand towards Me, left hand and a light here, he just jumped. But again he becomes... They are moving around.

So again he couldn't lift his leg. He jumped, all right.

So now, one has to understand that we have to be very particular about you Mūlādhāra also. Supposing somebody has a bhootish wife and he has relations with her he might get it. If you have a bhootish husband, you might get it. And all kinds of things there are, that one can get. This kind of horrible thing.

Now you go ahead with it. Now, people have taken, say, some other habit. Say, alcohol. Alcohol is, as you know has different variations depending on the habits of the person. If a person is a very quiet type normally with alcohol he becomes very angry agitated. But if he is a very angry type he becomes... It's very funny. Because they move from one end to another end.

And that is how alcohol is very dangerous, because it finishes off your liver, it finishes off your awareness, it makes you very clumsy, your attention is fuzzy... And ultimately, you will be surprised that all these relationships that Freud has been talking about and the misuse of that has come out of that.

Because alcohol makes a person in such a way that he looses all his Dharma. They have no Dharma.

They don't understand a mother, they don't understand a sister. He just becomes an abandoned person.

And when he becomes abandoned he becomes shameless. When he becomes shameless, then he says: “What's wrong” goes ahead with it and starts destroying himself. That is how the society we call as decadent. But this kind of society is becoming destroyed, gradually, because there is no Dharma. No Dharma. And they just drink and they don't know anything about what they're doing. There's no sense in their heads. That's why, very much... Absolutely. No doubt... drugs.

Now, drugs hit you on the left Nābhī or on the right. The ones which hit you on the left Nābhī can take you very deep, down. And you can be sometimes so aggressive, despite the fact you have taken a left-sided one. It is surprising. Just, you see, suddenly you get stunned. That person can become mad, anything can happen to a person who takes drugs. One can become completely...

I have also seen, like Rajneesh disciples are all mad, are absolutely mad. They are not in their senses.

We have been only able to cure one person, also that, to some extent. I would say... 100% alright, you can even say, now he's 75% alright.

So you can imagine how much important it is, Mūlādhāra. The amount of attention we pay to our Mūlādhāra, you see, is really maddening. There is no need.

In married life in England for first one year is..., second year you apply for divorce; the third year, have it. There is no sustaining, sensible, gradual understanding... Then they ultimately give up. The wife sits on the head of the man or the man sits on the head of the wife... they are never parallel, they are never together, you can see there's no rapport.

So all these perverted ideas have come to us from the collective subconscious of doing all kinds of perverted things. The way people are behaving, it is for us, we can't conceive of it.

I mean, somebody use telling Me the other day that it was regarded as something great, very religious, that the women went and the sisters and the mothers slept in the open and got sick and died, so they become saints. Now anybody can. In France. In France. And it was a very common thing.

Even in Rome, I mean, the way the people are asked to suffer is like... Everywhere. And these stupid ideas are coming from the left side, which wants you to suffer. And you make a martyrdom out of that suffering.

And the whole pathological... you find that all these different, different viruses are there in us. And any time we take to... we don't have to take to these horrible viruses. But, the trouble is human beings don't have any... They get very easily tempted and they want to do something that is..., let's see what happens... If you have your own dignity and you have your own will power you will never, never succumb to them, because you know these are all very dangerous things which you shouldn't do.

And if I say: “All right, you don't take this cheese." Still Sahaja Yogis will say: “No, but I like it." Why am I saying, you don't take it? I then say, all right. But it should be just thrown away. Because you know what it is, it's a virus. Then you are inviting a trouble into yourself. If you want to invite some trouble into yourself, then go ahead. But then you can't be called Sahaja Yogi.

So the only thing that is wrong in the whole thing, is that: “What's wrong?" First of all they are absolutely ignorant people and secondly: “What's wrong?"... you have no business to destroy yourself.

God has created you, you have not created yourself. Who are you to destroy yourself? You have no business. And this is what is to be understood by Sahaja Yogis that you have no business to destroy yourselves and you have no business to spoil yourselves.

You have to understand that now you are... If you understand really, in the way that I call it part and parcel, what is a Bodha, that is, it becomes a part and parcel of your nervous system, that you are a yogi then no virus can attack. What is virus? Nothing can attack you, nothing can trouble you. And even if they attack, it will come for a short time and will go away. Even if they attack, it will come and go away. But it will not stay in your body. It cannot stay long...

Now, any questions? Question:... dreams...

Shri Mataji: If you see Me, then you are going into Suṣhumnā... But if you see all kinds of things about yourself...

Then suddenly his attacked by something there. He just forgets, And then when he comes back he says: “Oh, how could I do that?" But that time, you are not yourself.

Either it can happen with ego: “I will do this, I will do that." And the most important thing is whatever has to be in your heart. The most important thing is always in your heart.

So, if you establish it in your heart, all the time, that is the establishment. Everybody you see, still giving problems, this problem, that problem. It is very simple: just put it in your heart.

So simple.

If you say: `Mother, come in my heart,' I am there. Say: `Come in my head,' I am there. I am at your service. These Gods have done that... But this ego business...

Where you separate yourself from your Mother, start thinking: `Oh, I've been coming to You, I've been worshipping You, I'm this', what is it? You are part and parcel of one body. Can one finger become bigger than another? One can...

So this kind of ego business is also there that: “I am a superior one, I want to be a better Sahaja Yogi than others." A better Sahaja Yogi is all right, but to be better than others: “I am something great. I know everything. I know this thing” that is very common, also.

The other day, only, I was telling... himself. You see, he doesn't allow anybody to speak to Me.

Anybody speaks... I feel so embarrassed, I told him not to do it. I know how to say. Anybody speaks anything, he will just...

So... not to do. But that's all right-sided. Of course he's the leader, all right, but I would to speak to all of them. If somebody is rude or funny, then it's all right. But if someone is just talking to Me you shouldn't just stop him, I mean, you are not the only mouthpiece. They are all My children.

And this leadership is also, what? Is a myth. Everyone has some problems like that... but once you become leader you have to become very careful... very big temper.

Contents: 1987-12-13 Pūjā, Welcome to India Tour or Announcing the New Age, Alibag (100 kms S of Mumbai), Maharashtra, India

Welcome to all of you. This is a great country, it is also passing through a crisis. Nowadays I feel there are so many things that are happening which you could never dream before and at this time you all have arrived bringing peace and joy to all of them.

So I thank you for that.

The strife and the pain which is on human beings is perhaps because they are not yet worthy of God's blessings, still as God has created them He tries to do His utmost to see that human beings are kept comfortably all right on this Mother Earth. He creates all kinds of beautiful things that you see and the whole cosmos is in unison and working out something very great today. This new revolution that has started, very, very silently, today it is taking its shape and is providing a new future for all of us. You see those big, big trees, that are on top of your head and as long as you are sitting here no fruit will fall upon you. It's not because I am here but because this Mother Earth knows that there are such great saints sitting here and She is not going to disturb.

This place was called as Shrigāv [gāv means village] I was told, means the village of the Goddess and this fruit is called as shrīphal meaning the fruit of the Goddess. But actually if you see a coconut it is something like our Sahasrāra and it's very auspicious because it can absorb lot of vibrations, as if it has got its realisation. As you people can absorb My vibrations, this fruit can absorb also My vibrations, in the greatest amount.

So we are here today in a very big way to advertise the coming of the New Age.

The coming of the Golden era people have talked about. Here we are to say what is reality, what is truth, what is joy. Here we are to manifest that and also to create a commotion or a movement in the cosmos so that this new awareness is established in the cosmos which will enlighten this country and the people of this country. Also you will pick up the threads of this movement within yourself which is a very subtle movement going on.

At this moment we are in a strife of an intellectual who tried to describe Śhrī Rāma and Śhrī Kṛiṣhṇa, in a slurry manner. And this is the time I want to bring your attention that if this intellectual strife, you use them intelligence to bring down all the ideals which enlighten our path, which gives us the guidelines and an aspiration then our life become absolutely mundane, useless, joyless. It's very easy to condemn an ideal life but to attain that life is very difficult. And some people because they cannot attain it, try to condemn it so that they feel that they are no less, no way less than those great lives. All these ideals are created, these images are created, everywhere in the world by Divine Power and people look at them and think that these great lives are beautiful, though they have suffered a lot but they are so much of deeper understanding and deeper balancing and a deeper love. These ideals are very important for human societies otherwise they will be absolutely living in a relatively and they will have no absolute major to find out what is right and what is wrong.

In Sahaja Yoga we are here first of all to get connected with God Almighty, with His power, the All-pervading Power of Chaitanya. By that we become our own master, in the sense that we get our own guidelines. If some Sahaja Yogi has not achieved that much then it is a serious thing. At least a Sahaja Yogi should be able to see at the minimum of minimum what is wrong with that person. To cleanse yourself and to put yourself right, is of course is a very important duty of every Sahaja Yogi. But these things are not to be taken as condemnation of yourself by any chance. And you should not be identified with those problems that you have but try to face them and cure them.

Many a times I have heard Sahaja Yogis saying that Indians are very simple people they are not complicated Mother so they can achieve their ascent much faster. But it's not that it is very different for all of you, very much. And despite all the complications and all kinds of brain washing and all kinds of book reading and all kinds of so-called seeking and all that nonsense one has gone through, you have come out, you have washed yourself completely and today you are there united together to face all that is absurd, all that is false, all that is wrong. It has to be a very formidable army for us because you should see around, even in this country, you call it not complicated, there are many who are all the time to complicate others and to destroy all their ideals, destroy all their visions and brain wash them.

So you have to be very alert your ascent and you have to be very conscious, that it is you who is going to build up this great image of ideal people, not one ideal life but ideal people in all [UNCLEAR characters].

Now on your way to our tour, you are now on the threshold of entering into a new dimension, it is a subtler dimension and this subtler dimension is within ourselves. And there lies your own being as your Spirit. It sees you as separate, yourself is separate from inside. All these identifications have to be dropped out, all kinds of misidentifications, I was reading one of the marriages list and all that, somebody says that they will marry Indians, some say, “We'll not marry Indians” some say, “We will not change the countries” some say they will change the country." Even after Sahaja Yoga if we stick on to one country as our own then I must say that we have to give up those limitations. The time has come, of course, you have a choice. Nobody is going to force you to do anything but it also expresses your personality that you still are lingering on to these small, small limitations.

As I have told you many a times God created only one world, of course, He created varieties, just to create beauty but how blind we are that we think we are different people, we are of different countries, of different races, of different castes, communities, cities then little, little rows of houses. I would say you become from human being to rats and rats to worms and then I don't know what is the situation later.

Let's open our hearts, let's become great, we have to be like lights, not to be small and creepy people like worms. There are many worms everywhere in the world. We are specially chosen people to be something great.

So open your heart. That's the main problem. This ego covers the heart and makes you feel that, “Now I am an Indian, I am a Christian, I am this thing, I am that." Now if I say someone you are not to go to temple then I must be a very cruel person to say that not to go to a temple. But they go to a temple and come back with such a big entity on their heads. Then they go to churches, the other day I had a bad experience of a lady who went to a church in France and she has become something like a minister, may be something like a pope. I mean something very funny, you know, nothing normal. I couldn't discover it when I asked she said, “I went to a church." “Why?" “Because they arranged a marriage there." “Why?" “Oh, they wanted to have a big social event so they wanted to have our marriage." But you could just a registered marriage and finish it off. Why do you want to go to a church, where all dead bodies are buried there, to get back some of them on your heads? So we have to be prepared to give up all the shackles of nonsense from our heads, all kinds of things there are, so much of conditionings, come down even to the colour scheme, then it's all conditioning. This is too much, not good, all funny, funny ideas and anything funny and nonsensical that comes up, such funny brains, fix it up. The other day I was telling a lady about her food that a new idea has come that you should not eat any salt and sugar, I mean just imagine! Salt is so important for our breathing. If you ask a doctor, I don't know what is happening to the doctors and sugar is so important for our combustion.

But anybody says anything you people just jump at it and you people just try to be, impress by all these ideas and start torturing yourself.

Last but not the least I feel now, I have seen the program on Gnostics, Gnostic G N O. I was thinking it comes from where G N O. In Sanskrit language Gñya, Gñya we call it, we call it Gñya or gya, anyway, that means to know. Gnostics means the one who knew. When St. Thomas came to India, He came via boat and He wrote all about it, what is to know. And He said it is a personal experience of everyone, just He described all Sahaja Yoga there. And, also He said why should God makes you suffer? He is the most loving and affectionate father, blasting all ideas of Christianity. Also so many Hindus believe like that, Muslims believe like that, that you must suffer. But now some or other the exposure of the fruit is also coming out and also there is a kind of a turmoil going on, a kind I would say a tremendous dynamic effects are seen on human mind today, that it starts thinking what is this? And you are the answer. You are the one who is going to convince them. And somebody was saying that, “Mother, why not we make every year, as a great year of propagation of Sahaja Yoga, propaganda of Sahaja Yoga?" I said, “All right. If you want to make a year like that and something happens let us have but like our five year plan in India I don't want to do all the documentation and write files and files and files, nothing comes out." But today if you to decide that we are the ones who have to manifest this greatness on this Earth. We are the one who have to do all this. How can we be weak people? How can we be possessed people? How can we be fussy people? How can we be the people who are not saints? We have to come out of all our pettiness, all our conditionings and of all the things of our ego but not to fight it but through meditation, through witness state.

You have to be the witness. Now you are travelling. When you are travelling normally the witness State is how to criticise success. They never see the good points, they say, “Oh, look at that, this colour should not have been used, that's not good, that's not good." What is good is to be seen, what is good in you, how much good you can have and what is good in other people. This time I am telling you that on your way, on your tour, I hope you will all enjoy it very much more and you'll feel the manifestation of your Spirit, all around you, within you and in other people.

May God bless you! I want you all to be extremely aware that your Mother is organizing a very great evolution in this world.

Contents: 1987-12-14 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Alibag (100 kms S of Mumbai), Maharashtra, India

We have to prepare ourselves properly for anything that we do in life, there is something called preparation and that preparation has to be done religiously in the sense that you have to take a vow about it, because, so many people, so many times come to India and do not achieve much. They say that we have got a little bit of [UNCLEAR], which has benefit, that's all.

So today you saw that how Indians got their realisation without any problems, without any questions.

And such a magnet life, one gentleman who was a district judge of the state, so very humble and soft and sweet person present My lectures, some of them and he pointed out what is interesting in the lectures and also said what is so special about Sahaja Yoga and then what is so special about it. It's very remarkable how people are humble and for them it is important that if a saint is there, then there must be a [UNCLEAR guest]. Because they were just sitting there, we have just come from the house directly and I was sitting there, people were coming and bowing to Me and told him you can go in if he wants, because it will take some time. He said, “No, no I am perfectly all right, how can I go before you haven't." In that humility he was sitting there all the time. Now we have to understand that we have come here to improve ourselves, especially our attention. We talked about attention Chitta Shuddhi and every Indian understands this Chitta Shuddhi means clearing your attention, getting your attention cleansed out. It is Chitta Shuddhi.

He said that Mother has given us such a simple method of Chitta Shuddhi, is to sit in the water, put some salt in it, sit before Her photograph, spread your hands and you get your Chitta Shuddhi, your attention is cleared out and the explanation he gave was very sweet. He said when the child is in the womb of a mother it is surrounded by salty water and so when again the salt comes in, this salty water sucks in the problems, you are sitting before the Mother, sucks in all the problems and nourishes, very sweet of him to reach that [UNCLEAR conclusion]. But the word Chitta Shuddhi is much more to be understood by us here, because Indians understand that our attention has to be all right. I have told you that the parents here also say all the time saying, where is your attention? Where is your attention? Attention has to be all right. What I find that we have not much attention over attention. And that's why it becomes easily entrapped into the attention.

So now, on your journey, you have to know that whatever conditions we have had so far because of our Western life, may be, Western style means certain things have to be reconditioned. Like today, I talked to them about what conditioning Indians have, [UNCLEAR and what they have to do to get rid of them] and they understand this business, conditioning like this. But once they start getting over their conditioning, they don't go to ego side because that is missing. There is nothing like ego side for Indians much unless until they are sort of westernized. For this ego business is not there.

So people to see, from conditioning to ego, ego to conditioning. Now we have to see ourselves and find for ourselves what we are doing, there are no excuses because if you excuse yourself actually you are missing the point. You are missing the point. There is no need to excuse yourself. Once you start to excusing yourself you will miss the point completely.

So what you have to do is to watch out very carefully that you are not missing the point.

Now you are here with your problems. You have not come here to waste your money, waste your time and Mine. You have come here to attain something. For that attainment, whatever has to be done, has to be done.

So, first thing I would say on the attention part, now, say for example, attention is too much on food. You want to have food in time, which is wrong. You know your Mother eats at 2 o'clock in the night.

Sometimes She doesn't eat, I mean I am so hectic I can't of course to be particular about time, this time I must have my food and this kind of attention to food that I must have my food, as soon as we are back on the program first thing is food. Then the protocol you are not suppose to eat before I have eaten and I am so cruel about it, I must say. I should be careful, but I am not bothered Myself about food. And whatever is important I want to finish that. Now you see that it is done. I should pay attention to food I know at times, but I don't. But, I think it's good practice that if I don't eat you better not eat. Let see what happens. But if you eat you might get pain in the stomach, might get diarrhea, you might get vomiting, I am sorry, because this is Guru principle. You Guru has not eaten anything yet and there is no harm, nobody is going to die of starvation. On the contrary people will get sick because of overeating.

That is India, they want you to eat, even if you taken this much, please have it.

So nobody is going to die out of starvation in this country, for that sure. But too much attention on food this way or that way, it's not going to help you much on improving your attention.

The second thing I would like to say that one should not behave in a way that all ordinary people.

They are saints, lot of decency and decorum has to be shown, it helps us, have our Maryādās.

Some people laugh so loudly, jokes so much. And it's all right once in a while I am not saying don't laugh. Once in a while it's all right. But when you, you see these people are working there whole time. We are not any hard ridden, not at all. We are treated like great guest.

So what is the need of make such a lot of noise or things like that, a kind of a dignity and decorum in us.

So enjoy everything, you should laugh at things. But there should be certain amount of dignity and decorum and quietly. It is important, because, I am working on it. You must know that in a disturbed area I cannot work so well, so to help Me and to cooperate with Me try to keep quiet within yourself. Keep quiet. In that quiet attitude things will work out. But if you are too much of a frivolously, too much frivolously sort of melancholy type, you won't gain much. But you will trouble Me also. Today when I came immediately Āgñyā finished, right Swādhiṣhṭhāna finished. My right foot got a cramp, I couldn't even walk and I got very heavy on My feet, which I am very light on My feet. It became very heavy.

So that shows Swādhiṣhṭhāna is very much on, on the right side. Attention is given by the Swādhiṣhṭhāna. It is looked after by Swādhiṣhṭhāna.

So please see that we do not pay so much attention to things which are of not importance, moreover we do not behave in a manner that even normal people won't behave like this, in this manner.

Secondly, there is a request I had to make to you people that whatever was possible we have been able to get sarīs for you. Five hundred sarīs! Can you imagine? And so many blouses, I think and still it was all done and worked it out. I have done it Myself many things there. But now you got everything nicely with you, it's all given and you are very much more [UNCLEAR adopted]. You don't have that problem, but, try to be friendly with other people who are here, try to help them, that you are serving them, you also serve them. You do not make them feel they are your servants, they are not. They are voluntarily working. I have not given them any money, they, doing as Sahaja Yogis. Try to help them. They will say, don't, don't, don't. They will usually say that. They are like that. They are nice. Try to help them. Be kind to them. Make friends and put your attention on something on humbling down. `I like it, I want,' finish this `I', very simple to say " `I' doesn't exist." " `I' doesn't exist, it is the Spirit that exists." I know that. My `I'-ness is finished. It is the Spirit that is understood. And we are on a war path. I have seen people, Western people, when they were fighting in war, they were walking for miles together, 24 hours in the snow, walking, walking, walking, no food, nothing, just fighting for hours together, die. Same people you are. Now this is another war that has to start. In this war, you have to understand that God has given us all these possible energies that we need and all the possible weapons that we need. But only thing is we have to understand within ourselves, our own importance, our own value, what are we? We are saints. You must imagine it. We are saints and as saints we have to do it. We cannot behave like ordinary people. Each one of you is capable of creating thousands and thousands of Sahaja Yogis. But first you realise that you are saints and that divinity and that attention has to be there, pure attention and attention first on your mind. That is a very simple thing is to fix your attention at your Guru's lotus feet. Like Shañkarāchārya said what is it matter if you have so much property and you have so many children and everything is all right. What does it matter? If you do not put your attention at the lotus feet of your Guru, what is there? What are you? So the attention should be there all the time. Try to fix your attention. And you will be surprised it will work. I am not talking for anybody else, but for you because people always in India think I am talking about some x, y, z or someone in London or somewhere else. No, it is you, you yourself, see for yourself.

Evaluate yourself. Evaluate what have to achieve. What have to attain and, `I am Sahaja Yogi.' That's the evaluation you have to do. Then according to countries, way and methods are, certain methods are that you don't have to use the romanticism outside in the public. None of these do. You are not this and, also today I am told, last year also, some people were having some romantic things along the sea shore and all that.

Some people came, told Me, how can you do in front of children? So that is not done and should not be done. We have to be like Indians, in that matter, as Indians because it is not done. That greeting each other is all right. We do other things. One should not try sort of romantic on the roads and public places. That is not acceptable when Indian mind and they think these people are just joking and they are not really Sahaja Yogis. Otherwise, they appreciate you very much because they think you have learned Marathi language how for God sake. You have learned how to sing Marathi songs and wearing sarīs and you are doing all these for God. That's why they are appreciating you very much, very much enamoured by it. Whatever is wrong with us we must understand, whatever we are doing wrong we must understand and we should try to neutralise our wrong ideas. And a conditioning in a person is to be seen clearly, `Oh, this is because I am such and such.' Once you start seeing your conditioning, then you will not have ego, if you don't see them and try to get out of it then you develop your ego and you become [UNCLEAR].

So we have to humble down, we have to be resolute, at least make a resolution and thirdly we have to watch ourselves, we have to be very aware of it. It's very important and I will become very, very heavy because you know that all of you reside in My body. Normally I don't feel that heavy. I feel that the whole head and feet and all that become very, very heavy. That all of you should beat yourselves with shoes [UNCLEAR] before sleeping and tomorrow morning get up early in the morning. Nobody should be laying late. It is not proper, get up early in the morning. I get up at 4 o'clock. I am not saying you get up at four. After all I am so old, it's all right. You should get up at least at 6 o'clock, be ready by that time, sit down for meditation. Tomorrow you might get up early because you are going out for shopping, get up about say 5 o'clock, be ready at 6 o'clock. Depart properly. They you will be shopping there. Take you to the shops, you can shop there.

You can buy clothes, sarīs or anything for your sanitation. After that you have to go to a place called Kanpur which is another beautiful place where you could swim and you can take a bath, anything. In the morning time, again next day you can have a nice swim or bath, again you have to go, to, what do you call that place, Aurangabad. I told them that you all very tired, you can all have your bath, your dinner and sleep.

Aurangabad we are having nice program, [UNCLEAR] very nice programs and they want to have, hot there, but we are not here for programs. We are not here for frivolous things. We are here for attaining our heights in Sahaja Yoga. From that angle try to go. I am little worried that tomorrow you are going for shopping. Give yourself a Bandhan. I don't know they are going to give some lunch from here. But, I think, I am going to tell them not to give you lunch as such because you can take your breakfast, go there, you can take some fruits and eat them. You can also have some juices but don't eat any food during the daytime. In the evening time when you get there, have some nice food and next day you can have nice breakfast, take a packed lunch and go to Aurangabad. In Aurangabad I am sure you like to go to Ajanta and Ellora, all these places you must see. And you can see that dedication how people have built up this Ajanta caves. This Ajanta caves were built in a rock tuned out, seven miles altogether and how they have done it. It is so wonderful. In ten generations work was done. How concentrated they must have been.

They never met Buddha. Buddha never came to Maharashtra. How did they do it? If you see that properly in India, but the attitude of seeing things anywhere should not be that you understand everything.

“Oh, I didn't like this one. I like this one." Nobody wants your comment. Can you even do this much of work? Can you tune a rock even this much? You can't. Just admire. The sense of admiration must be there. It's very easy to criticise, “Oh! I didn't like it, it should have been this." You can't even draw line, that is what I heard last time some people say that the paintings were rather fantastic and were not of any aesthetics. I don't know what aesthetics they want. You have to see it a beauty done by an artist and you don't have to criticise and judge. If you don't like, it is your ego cannot accept the challenge. The reaction must be all right, not to say, `I don't like it,' but just stand there and be enamoured and see, `Oh God look at this, how beautiful it is.' Gradually, of course, you will progress to change. I know you are now much wiser personality, try to understand, like a computer, still.

It is important that we should try to clear our attention and not to somehow or other excuse ourselves.

It is very common to excuse. Only because of this, because, because, because of, is not the point, that is not going to help you. You have to be in a certain state of understandings. Now I hope to decide about your marriages and all the things you want to do and at least some of you can come to My house instead of going to this Kanpur, sit down and [UNCLEAR adjust]. Also those you want to marry and those who have not given the forms give it to Me.

Secondly, [UNCLEAR those Indian] buy in their sarīs must cut their blouse pieces and give their measurements properly to Helen so that you can give it for proper stitching. Those ladies who want to buy sarīs, more sarīs and blouses, blouse pieces, should give the measurements to Helen and then they buy. I send for shopping and help with the sizes and give her the blouse pieces so that we can get stitched in Poona. But rather difficult, it would better that you buy sarīs, which are matched with your blouses also. But in any case if you want we can buy also ready-made blouses. It is very much better idea and also ready-made petticoat in the market. They may not be so good but they are quite nice.

So you can buy them, then, so no problems of stitching also. If you want, but I must tell you sarīs you will be buying cannot be so cheap as I am able to get.

So you should be prepared for that. There cannot be any sarīs for less than 110 rupees and separate blouse, at least it would be, ah, much more. Can you calculate how much it is, about at least, minimum of minimum, 480 rupees or maybe 500 rupees.

So you shouldn't argue on that point because that is not your Mother's task. You got everything. For gentlemen it is important they have to give their sizes and everything and if want any more things to be done, you should tell the people who direct you and you can work it out with them. If you want anything make for yourselves, there are tailors and things.

So they can work it out.

So now organize among yourselves, three, four people working together and ladies also should organize like that so that there is no problem.

Now they wanted to have some music programs.

Contents: 1987-12-17 Pūjā (English+Hindi), Reach the Completion of Your Realisation, Aurangabad, Maharashtra, India

[Shri Mataji talks in English:] I'm sorry I was dealing with some newspaper people, journalists and they came very late, whatever it is. I found them to be very sensible and very understanding.

All of us have come to Aurangabad and it seems this place is full of vibrations. Maybe here Shālivāhana has ruled in this area, but also there have been many saints who were born on this side of Maharashtra and they perpetuated Dharma. They always talked about Self-realisation. Dharma gives you the balance.

It gives you the establishment into proper behaviour, proper understanding, proper living, but it doesn't give you the completion of your journey. It doesn't give you the satisfaction of reaching the destination.

And your personality is still incomplete.

So, one has to have the experience of the spirit. As I was discussing with them today, I told them that those who do not have the experience of the spirit, are not only incomplete, but are limited people.

So whatever they see, or whatever they know, or whatever they criticise, is limited. As in English we say that “hate the sin and not the sinner." Like many people who find something wrong with Christianity start blaming Christ. Christ did not create Christianity, first of all. He did not create Christianity. He did not create Christians.

So, there is no relationship between the two. As you know, recently, they have found out the books written by Thomas, the disciple of Christ who was coming to India. On his way he went to Egypt and there he wrote this treatise and had put them in a big earthen vessel, or perhaps it was a metallic thing and it was discovered 42 years back. The people whom he considers to be authorized Christians, he calls them as `Gnostic'.

`Gna', `Gna' in Sanskrit language means, `to know'. `Gna' means `to know'. And he has written that to know and to have the personal experience is the only way to follow Christ. Clearly. Not only that, it's said that God Almighty who is so kind, why will he ask you to suffer? So it challenges all the Christian principles of suffering. In the same way, in all religions, people have diverted from the right path and have come to the wrong path and are indulging into self-created delusions, which has no relationship with reality, or with the incarnations, those who started the religion or who gave the ideas of the religion. I hope you don't do that to Me, because you are Gnostic people. You are the ones who know, who have had Self-realisation. Without Self-realisation you cannot have a complete personality.

But as you see in Sahaja Yoga, you don't have to go to Himālayas, to give up your families; you don't have to be away from the society to get your realisation. You get your realisation in the circumstances where you are born. In the same society, in the same family life. But, you rise higher than them and try to pull them out of the mire in which they are existing. This mire of ignorance has to be crossed and some of you have to do it. And when you realise that, then you should know that you all have to be very strong people. You all have to be extremely strong. If you are not strong enough, how can you pull out the rest of them? People who are mediocre think that gradually they'll be all right and that they'll come up. But I would suggest that you should make all-out effort to become strong Sahaja Yogis. To become strong Sahaja Yogis is not difficult. Because you have all the powers within yourselves. You have the Kuṇḍalinī within yourselves. And you know the way, how to become a realised Soul. The problems are of you being dropped... dragged into your ego or into your conditioning. Only two problems, not more.

Like somebody asked, “How many turns there are in London?" Only two, left or right.

So either you go to the left or to the right. All the permutations and combinations of this left and right starts working and then you get into trouble. And then you get into problems. But actually it is a very simple thing.

To get out of your ego should be the simplest and that is where you try to understand yourself. You see yourself. How you are reacting. Where is your attention. What are you doing. What is your attitude towards Sahaja Yoga.

So many people think that “this is my house, this is my family, this is my car, this my horse, this is my dog." I don't know how far it goes, “my, my, my, my, my." But nothing is yours.

“Yesterday" [“Tomorrow"], as Kabīra has said it, that “some cheat” that is the death, “will come and take away everything." That is not yours. Then, “my family” then “my children." All this is a nonsense, and so, when you start getting attached to this word `my', there where you fail completely into your own understanding of your ego, you're completely blinded by this ego. First of all you should say that `nothing is mine.' Kabīra has said that when the goat is living she goes on saying “Mei, mei, mei" means “I, I, I, I." In Hindi language. Made a pun on the word `mei'. And when she dies and her intestines are taken out and are made into something that spins the cotton, they go on the street, these people, telling people that they are around, they go on playing on that string which is made from the intestines of these goats which says “Tu hi, tu hi, tu hi” meaning “You are, you are, you are." So one need not be like a goat, that till you leave you go on saying “I, I, mei, mei, mei." When you die then your intestines have to be taken out and put on that thing just to make the sound “Tu hi, tu hi, tu hi." So this sound of “I, I, I" is made only by egoistical human beings, but this ego is so much identified with you, that you think that “I am this ego and ego is me." And in that ego you start doing all kinds of nonsensical things. This ego takes you nowhere, it takes you nowhere but into a complete mire of ignorance about yourself. Ultimately you become stupid, others can tell you that you are stupid, or you become idiotic, or you get a bad name and everybody knows that you are doing all wrong things, but nobody dare tell you, because you are to be reached with a barge pole. Such a hot-tempered personality you become, nobody dare come to you and say that this is wrong, it should not be done, it's stupid, idiotic and you, yourself, in that idiocity and stupidity think no end of yourself. This is the extreme of your ego. But it's nice, we have people like Hitler to see.

So if you put Hitler as the ideal egoist then you will not go on that road. It's very slippery road and maybe one day you'll land up there.

The second side of ours, which looks very morbid and very mild, is the left side. The movement on the left side is the emotional side. You develop habits with the left side. Now, some people have very dangerous habits, some have simple habits. Like I have a bad habit, or a good habit, you may say, that I must put My right hand under My foot, because it's all the time working, so I want to control it.

So, I put it under My head like this, while sleeping and sometimes under My foot, just to make it little bit stop working, it works too hard. Just to give it rest.

So under My pillow I put it and sleep. But I discovered once, I hurt Myself, that I now cannot put it under My [UNCLEAR head]. I said, “It's a very funny habit I have got." But it's not such a dangerous one. It's quite good.

So I'm continuing with it. But I can get rid of it. It's very simple. But when I get rid of it, I think the people become overactive so I put it again, under My pillow.

So as Sahaja Yogis, all your habits should be under your control. Now the habits we have formed through drugs, from drinking, from anything, are very dangerous habits. Also, people have their attention being all the time around. All the time the attention here, there and there, attracting people, looking after them, not looking after yourself. This attention has to be brought under control. Is very important. That's very simple, that whenever it happens, you just put down your eyes. Keep your eyes down. That's one of the ways we allow our attention to fritter away and also our growth becomes stunned.

This is a very very dangerous thing which in the West specially we have developed. Here, also, people must read every shop's name. Indians have a bad habit, because they just now started reading, so they want to read everything that they find, anything.

So on the road if there is a road [row] of shops, they read every name of every shop, turn round again and see if they have missed anything. It sounds stupid.

But they all do it. And all the time they are doing it.

So the attention, wherever it goes, has to be under our control. We have to keep it, all the time under our control.

As Namadeva has said very clearly, in Guru Grant Sahib has written, that when a little child is flying the kite, he's talking to everyone, he's playing in a way, but his attention is on the kite. And when a housewife is carrying her duties, putting her child on her waist and working, then she's doing all kinds of work, but her attention is on the child. The ladies who are carrying three-four earthen pots on their heads, water filled up to the brim, are walking, talking to each other, having mirth and enjoyment, but the attention is on the earthen pot, on their heads. In the same way, whatever adventure you are into, whatever you are doing, your attention should be on your spirit. Then everything is under control and you can never get enveloped into anything where attention should not be lost.

So, these two problems we have and those problems even after realisation people have it.

So please try, when you are not meditating, to keep your attention on your spirit. Now, the person who is left-sided or right-sided, he has developed a mechanism within himself to justify himself. Through his intellect, or maybe if they are ladies they have water power, they'll start crying. And you just don't know what to say to them. If you tell them anything, first thing they'll do is to cry, means sometimes I feel there are thousand arrows on My head when they start crying. It's impossible to say anything to them. And if you talk to some men they'll give so many explanations that you would feel like, just, going off to sleep.

It's so boring. It's easy to read some book like `War and Peace' than to listen to the arguments of such people. But they don't want to see that this is all ego, which is talking, it is not..., they are talking, it is not their spirit. And if the spirit has to evolve we have to be extremely witnessing, in a full way, very alert, extremely alert and witnessing ourselves, what are we doing. Then only we reach the completion of our realisation. Unless and until you reach the completion of your realisation, you can never be masters of your attention and you can never be the enjoyer of your joy and you can never know the truth fully. [To] achieve this Sat-chit-ānanda swarūpa you have to be extremely careful about the instrument that God has given you, this body, mind and emotions. You have to keep them in check, because, wherever your habits are they can never be joy giving, it's a joyless pursuit. And where your... wherever your ego is, it's a destructive effort.

So what things are detrimental to your growth, apart from that, they are extremely dangerous thing for yogis.

So, as you are, in whatever conditions you are, in whatever situations you are, whatever may be the surroundings, like a dirty mire full of creatures and filth, you can become like lotuses.

When you become like lotuses all that is filth, all that is horrible, can become fragrant. And this is what we have to achieve. When people will see the lotuses they'll come to you, not to see the worms and to see the filth, but to see the lotuses.

So please, this time, correct yourself, you don't need anybody to correct you, you just correct yourself, watch out for yourself and see for yourself. If something doesn't work out just give up. Don't go to extremes for anything. Must learn to give up at a point and be happy about it. If you are contained within yourself, if your hand is attached to your body, then you reach up to a point and then leave it, but if it is not attached, if it is disintegrated then it goes all round and round and round and comes back without anything. That understanding has to be there in you people because you're standing in the central path and you're attached to the central path, not only, but you are identified with it.

So you cannot go too far to the left, cannot go too far to the right. If you do that you get lost. Then you are no more a Sahaja Yogi and then no use having you here artificially or superficially because it will be hypocrisy.

Whatever is needed to put you back into right frame you must accept. And whatever is needed to understand Sahaja Yoga you have to do. As I have said, please try to learn English language. I cannot learn fourteen languages. [UNCLEAR It's very difficult/Very difficult]. It's surprising how I have learnt this English language also.

So now to learn fourteen languages I've to take fourteen Avatāras again. I don't ask you to learn Marathi. Because that's the best language for Me to speak. But at least try to learn English. And then we can see if you can learn Marathi or Hindi.

Aah, on your behalf, I would like to thank the artist[s], the lady Mrs. Asha Devi and Mister Nath Niralkar.

See, his name is Nath and you know what Nath means. And it seems as if the Naths themselves were singing today and I felt it in himself and in his songs. And the lady who sang so well with such understanding of the music, herself is a Ph.D. She has got doctorate in music. Both of them, I don't know how to say, but sort of excited our Kuṇḍalinīs and made us feel the beauty of this Divine music. I've always felt and now I feel much more, that Indian music comes from complete Divinity. Because even if you don't understand the different ragas, how you are enjoying it. He said, in the last Bhajan of Kabīra, he said, “Listening and listening to this, I just got lost into it. Without thinking, without knowing about the different ragas, but just I got lost in the thoughtless awareness, in the Nirvichar Samādhi." Then he says that, “I got my Samādhi, at the lotus feet of my Guru." And the second point he said is very good, that, “At the essence of the Omkāra, essence of Omkāra, I made a little string and I crossed the Haṁsa Chakra and crossed the ocean of illusion." And the third one is even much more explicit, that, “The Sahasrāra, the Brahmarandhra, where the fontanelle bone is, just opened out and the joy started pouring, like a frill over my head and I got lost into it." I mean, what a description, a beautiful description, of Kabīra he did.

And before that, the one he sang, the song was about how Kabīra has made fun of human beings who are so much attached to things and to their relationships and to other possessions of life.

So he says that, “There is chit a thug or a chit, who has taken away, has looted everything from me, that is death." So this fellow, who was so much attached to everything is now saying that, “It has taken away everything that I had and this is the time when the Yama, you know Yama, he is sitting on my bed. And here I am crying and my eyes are filled with tears." I mean, such a situation is there and then he doesn't know how to give up things and he says that, ultimately he reaches a point where he says that, [Marathi] and then he said ultimately that, “Now my relationship at this death time is all these identification, misidentifications have dropped out.

So why to wait for the death, you see? Why not to get it done now with your realisation?" This is the point he was trying to make and so beautifully sung and so lilting and so touching and I am really thankful to Mister Niralkar that he has brought out that beauty of Kabīra's saying, in his voice.

May God bless both of them and let them prosper in their music and I hope very soon they should become very great personalities of music.

May God bless them all.

[Clapping.] Very graciously they have agreed to give you another musical recital at about five o'clock tomorrow, five to seven and then you can proceed to Rahuri. It's very kind of them to have. They have one thing very great about them. I have seen the artists in India or anywhere have a kind of a terrible ego. But they are so humble, shows that they have got the knowledge within them. And they have got the full appreciation of themselves that they can render this entertainment with such profficiency. Now luckily, tomorrow you will again have a chance to hear them and give them a hand and thank them very much for what they have done.

Contents: 1987-12-20 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Attention on Quality, Rahuri, Maharashtra, India

I'm sorry what has happened about the boys who came here and who created a problem and there's another problem with us.

So I would like to tell you again that next time when you are coming, please see that you don't bring anybody who has not done Sahaja Yoga for six years, six months, at least. The first one is correct, because in six years also they can be quite stupid. But, but six years, at least if not so six months, you should see to it that somebody has done Sahaja Yoga. Sahaja Yoga is something as you understand and you know that it's something that must achieve your purity. As it is, you know you are coming from an atmosphere which is absolutely anti-Sahaja. And from that atmosphere to come to Sahaja Yoga you have to give up many things. As it is, what I find from this the way people are schizophrenic.

So, one has to realise from what has happened that our brains, in that horrible conditions of our country, is complete wobbly and it's overshattered with all the conditionings and all the ego part from both the sides. The brain is completely, as we say, has gone soft. And anything that is truth, anything that is light, can baffe, can upset you. That's why I have been insisting that six months at least one should pass before coming to Sahaja Yoga. They can't understand anything because they've never known these things. I do not blame you. You have never known such personalities. You have never known what is Ādi Shakti is. And that's why one has to prepare one's own personality by cleansing it, by putting your brains into proper shapes, your hearts into proper shapes.

If, supposing, there is a vessel which is already cracked, you try to pour water in it, it will crack completely. It will be completely destroyed. I have seen people who have come to My Pūjās and they just went off, completely, absolutely. They couldn't bear it. The other way around [round] in India. For them, Pūjā is the highest. They will not do any other things that you can do. But, Pūjā part, they know what is Pūjā is, what it means. This is the big difference. But still I must give you all the credit, that the way you all have come out of that horrible conditioning that you have had, where it is said that God is wrathful and that you have to suffer too much and all this nonsense.

So, I've heard it many a times from people who came to us: “This is too much. This is too much." Because your vessel is so small, it's so crooked, it's so raw, it's gone soft, it cannot receive. That's why six months are at least needed to create that vessel within you.

This restriction I would not put on Indians, but definitely on the Western people because, you know, you must have been great saints in last lives. You must have been great seekers. And you must have been people who were looking for truth, no doubt about it. But when you are born in that country with great venturesome spirit, that [UNCLEAR we'll/will] show some results in this, these countries. What I find that all the brain is battered. They have seen to it that all the saints are battered, because saints also are always under attack.

So many people got diseases just they were born. They got into trouble just they were born. Then later on as you grew up, the more you grew up in that society, the more you started accepting their ideas, the more you became aware of the nonsensical development. You get filled with that, not only the brain, the heart, the liver, everything.

Like, if you are put, if you put something like a sponge into a dirty, filthy water, all the worms, everything, rock into it. Now you have to squeeze it out, completely take out all that. Whatever traditions you have are finished. Whatever value systems you had are finished. Whatever collective sense you had is finished. Like we can say, we cannot create Abraham Lincoln in America way; we cannot. Why? We cannot create Lenin, enough in Russia. Why? The reason is, when they have gone away, the society that came up, these are the lotuses. But the lotuses were plucked out and now what is left are all worms and when you are born in that pond you have to become the lotuses, but already they have hit you on your spirit. They have hit you on your brain, on your heart, on your liver.

Under these circumstances, one has to rise and see that if you have to really grow into that new atmosphere, we have to accept each and every thing [everything] of Sahaja Yoga, try to grow and develop yourself into way that purifies you completely and that the vessel is made beautiful, such a beautiful vessel, that whatever Mother pours in is contained in it and it gives the light. Supposing the lamp has got the container of oil absolutely shattered and broken. What's the use of putting My love into it? It will never burn. Already there's such a lot of nonsense in that, that whatever love I put in it will all get mixed up and it will never burn and give good lights.

So you have to understand My love. You have to understand your own position and you have to cleanse it. Anybody who thinks this is too much is still, I must say, lacks that purity within himself.

Nothing is too much for a person who is a realised Soul. Realised soul is like the bottom of the ocean.

Whatever may be the ocean, the bottom is always bigger. In the same way, a realised Soul has to be. You may increase the size of the ocean, any amount. It becomes bigger and bigger. On the contrary, I have seen that slightest thing here and there upsets you. You get suddenly upset, are very upset, for nothing at all. And you think that kind of a fuss is a very big thing. Is not; shows that you are not a Sahaja Yogi yet. If you get upset with small things, what work are we going to do? What are we going to show to the world that we have got Sahaja Yoga, we've got our Realisation, so we have achieved something great? We have to make great people out of it. Many Abraham Lincolns and Lenin, Lao Tzes, Mozarts, all have to come out of you. We have to create William Blake out of you. There were only one or two. I was not present at that time. Still they survived and created great works. In the same way, out of you we have to create these great people. But first you must realise that you have to be absolutely cleansed out and give up all the false, funny ideas that you have.

I was shocked to hear that there was a marriage held in the church by Sahaja Yogis. You shouldn't do that. And I found as a result of that some people got possessed. What is the need for you to go to a church and get the thing done, solemnized by a priest? Bring unhappiness to everyone, get them caught up. In the whole of France, I have seen only Chartres or that Notre Dame are the only place they have buried no dead bodies.

So you go to a cemetrey to celebrate your marriage, get your bhoots on your heads and spoil so many Sahaja Yogis. No Sahaja Yogis should attend such marriages. And for what? Just to please some of your relations? They are no your relations. Your relations are Sahaja Yogis and no other relations. You must know that. You have no other relationship in this world, but only Sahaja Yogis. If you try to keep relationships with others, it's all right to have some pleasantries. You can be pleasant to others, you can be nice to others, talk to others, but know that, that they are not your relations. You are born in this Tree of Life. They are still not on this Tree.

So we cannot become one with them. We cannot be identified with them. We need not please them. We should say we do not want to have any such marriages.

Here also I have seen people who go to temple, get caught up because in the temples there are bhoots.

They know that.

So we have to give up all these religions. As Kṛiṣhṇa said, “Sarva Dharmanam paritajya mamekamsharmam vraja." Give up all these horrible religions and religious ideas. They have done no good to you, to the society or to anyone. They have gone against Christ, against Muhammad Sāhab, against Kṛiṣhṇa, against Rāma and Buddha, Mahāvīra.

You are now Sahaja Yogis and must know that we have to develop as Sahaja Yogis. We have to make our vessel all right. We have to put our self on a pedestal, then onto a hilltop and there we have to show that we are Sahaja Yogis and what we can achieve. There has to be a kind of a wisdom, a sense, a sensibility and sensitiveness towards all the atmosphere. We must know how far to go with people, how far to say something, how far to achieve something, not to go on sympathizing with nonsensical people.

Just forget them. If they have to come, they'll come to Sahaja Yoga.

Also I must tell you in the Heaven there are very few places. Don't care for the multitudes. Care for the quality. It is the privilege of very few to enter into the Kingdom of God.

So forget your relationships and you forget all other people. Get to Sahaja Yoga, get established in Sahaja Yoga and tell them that we have changed our religion; now we have become vishwa Dharmis. That will satisfy them that as we have become Christians and Muslims and Hindus, let us now become something else, because now we are not the same as we were; we are reborn again. And that's how we have to give up all these funny ideas.

I was very sorry to hear that a marriage was arranged like that, without My permission. Nobody asked Me. And many Sahaja Yogis went there and dresses were bought for them in England for going to the church and especially dressing up for the wedding. Just, I can't believe it. I can't still believe it, but it has happened. Again now it should not be repeated. If you go to the church, your children will be born with some troubles. Then you will come to me [know]. You may not have children; also I've seen that.

Those who have had, I've tried, to attend one wedding like that in the church and I found it was horrid, vibrations were horrid and the lady had to suffer a lot.

So now decide for yourself, no more to please your relations. There's no need to have anyone connected with you. You can ask them to come to Sahaja Yoga. You can tell them, `This is what we have found. If you want you can come to Sahaja Yoga. But we have nothing to do with you.' Only then you can help them to come out. You have to be strong enough to show them results that there's something great about Sahaja Yoga, that you are decent people, you are decorous people, a people with great self-respect and a great stability within you.

Also a very common psychological thing I have seen, people start explaining, QuestionMother, this lady might be insecure." Nothing of the kind. Nonsense! This is the greatest nonsense I have ever heard.

People are insecure about one person and then you say that that person has insecurity. I mean, everybody is feeling insecure about that person. On the contrary you say, “He's insecure." This kind of a sympathy shown by a psychologist is all right because he has to get some money out of you. Even if you murder somebody he'll say, “Yes, yes, it was true he murdered that person because you are insecure." Even Hitler was quite all right because he was insecure. This is funny, absolutely nonsensical.

So we must understand the aggressiveness within us does not come from insecurity, but comes from ego and from aggressive nature.

Doesn't come to us from insecurity. Those who say about insecurity all the time are the people who just want to explain that, “I did it because I was insecure." No, it is ego! It is horrible ego which tries to overpower others, use others and make them your slaves. Try to understand: it is no insecurity. The psychologists have put all these nonsensical ideas and some Indians also talk like that.

All these modern ideas, also beware. Be very, very careful. The way they have been implanted in your minds, that it is we have to be very sympathetic, there's nothing like good and bad, that everybody is perfectly all right, all these nonsensical ideas we should not have. We must know that there's something very different. Those who are good are good and those who are not are horrid, not because of psychological reason but because they are basically horrid. And we have nothing to do with them. They are evil and they are evil geniuses. We should not be sympathetic towards them at all. Those who are evil, are evil, they come to Sahaja Yoga, also they'll be thrown out, thrown out permanently.

So do not takes sides with the evil people. Do not show compassion to the bad people. Please, try to understand. This is not a place where we have a charitable institution where we have all the handicapped and all the beggars put together, not a charity at all. Let us not be very charitable. Let us be charitable with the Sahaja Yogis and with ourselves. We have nothing to do with such horrible people. They are anti God, they are anti-Christ, they are anti-Divinity. They are our enemies. No need to have such charities with your enemies.

So be careful on that point. And I'm not teaching you hatred, but I am teaching you discrimination, must discriminate between good and bad. If you cannot do that, then you'll be in trouble.

So do not sympathize, do not take sides with the negative people.

Also, the negative people always sit together, I have seen. As soon as I look at one negative, I find ten people around them. Egoists will sit together. If I see one egoist sitting in one place, ten egoists are sitting with him, because they can talk to each other better, you see. One can argue better than the other.

And they enjoy that aggression of each other.

So be careful. Be on the watchout. Where are we sitting, between the negative or overpositive? Where are we? We have to be in the center. We have to be in the center. Are we close to our Mother, or close to these horrible people around us? Must discriminate and find out what is happening, where, what is.

Do not get identified with anything, with your country. I am not identified. To Me, Indians or anybody is just the same. Just to say that you are the visitors here, as they call it, `guests', to you I would say call them `foreigners' because guests can be otherwise, also.

So we have just a demarcating line, just to understand, that's all. But means nothing to Me. To Me, all of you are born out of My heart. All of you are close to My heart. And you are not to feel, in any way, in any way, dejected or rejected, till you find I tell you that you have to reject these things. Unnecessarily don't torture yourself and don't make yourself miserable. You have to be happy people, joyous people. You have to give joy to everybody.

May God bless you all!

Contents: 1987-12-21 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, Departure, Rahuri, Maharashtra, India

I'm sorry what has happened about the boy who came here six month exactly. The first one is correct.....

Contents: 1987-12-22*, Public Program (Marathi), Sangamner, Maharashtra, India

I humbly bow to all true seekers, followers of Divine Power of God Almighty. This gives Me an immense satisfaction with the kind of visible progress noticed in Sahaja Yoga within very short span of time at Sangamner. Kuṇḍalinī science and Chakras have been secret sciences. King Janaka gave Self-realisation to Nachiketa only, Lord Indra had to accomplish Self-realisation himself and these are one or two examples of bygone ages. History also reveals that very few persons got Self-realisation then. But saints and Sādhus visited many times for their endeavour in India, especially Maharashtra and they tried different ways and means to persuade people that without self experience they have got nothing.

As blind that does not have vision, similarly until human meets his spirit, he can not recognize truth, the absolute truth. At the most by following religion human can become well behaved person, but no matter person being follower of any religion, any cast or having any crust, he can indulge in conducting whatever sin, nobody can stop him from doing so, because the power which can stop him is residing in his spirit and that spirit yet to be enlightened in his attention and hence human does not have any capability to unleash himself from temptations of sins.

Sahaja Yoga has many benefits, but most importantly, person can not achieve completeness; self experience can accomplish completeness. Unless spirit enlightens in our attention up till then we can not entirely judge right and wrong, can not have absolute imagination. On the contrary self experience means union of Jīva with Shiva, means connection with God Almighty, that means complete connection of All-pervading Power within us. As today everywhere we see electricity and its current being passing and its light energy can simply lit by pressing a single button, correspondingly God Almighty has already made a very magnificent arrangement within human as `Kuṇḍalinī'. He does not need any sort of education, neither any sort of tall degree nor he does require very high position, politics or anything, he just need to be human, that it; Every human has birth right to get united with All-pervading Power. And only by this means human becomes empowered, that means he realises meaning of equality, which means he gets the ultimate meaning unless human has absolutely no value. Today if he sits at big position, tomorrow he can be tumbled down, but this is not in case of saints. People may have bothered saints a lot, troubled a lot, but even today people feel very revered by mere with their remembrance only. However by mere respecting saints work will not happen. I have seen many people saying we respect this saint that saint but I observe those who respect saints they themselves do not possess any values of saints. Barely by respecting; let us assume, I said he is very big saint; I did not receive any dominance of the saint.

Contents: 1987-12-24 Talk to Sahaja Yogis, We Are Here for Our Ascent, Christmas Eve, Pune, Maharashtra, India

You have come for your ascent, for a pilgrimage and certain things have to be borne in mind, that we have to see that our thinking has to go down first. I don't mind suffering, but My suffering doesn't help you much.

So I have to request you not to say, `I thought.' Then I've seen people go on lingering about. There's no movement, very lethargic movement, very slow movement, as if they have taken some sort of an opium or some sort of a drug. You should see, all the Indians are alert, especially in Maharashtra. They're very alert people. And the alertness you have to achieve, not to just roam about here, roam about there, stand there. Everybody has to go and call.

We are doing no work here at all. They are doing all the work. I'm sorry I have to say that. They are the ones who are working out the thing. We have just to move from places to places. But there also the movement is so slow sometimes that it is impossible how to get round you, like small children to call this one, call that one for anything. It has to be a fast movement, it has to be a quick movement. You have to work it out in a very quick manner. Everything has to be done in a very smart way, as they call it.

But on the contrary, I find that people lack that quickness. You all have been not drug addicts and those who have not been should pull out the ones who have been. On the contrary, those who have never been drug addicts behave just like drug addicts. It's something surprising. It takes them half an hour just to get down from the staircase.

Now, you have to be alert henceforth, absolutely alert, what you are doing, where you are going, how you are living, what is around, who are the people, find out about them, make friends, try to know them and also try to do things which are necessary to make you quite equipped and alert. Alertness is very important. In Sanskrit the word for that is daksha and that is in very few people, I find. The rest of them also try to drag them down. I agree, sometimes you have less sleep. You can sleep in the daytime. You can take rest in the daytime. But the way we are lethargic all the time is not going to help our Kuṇḍalinī to rise for us to achieve our attention up to the Spirit.

Then another point I have seen that you sit down anywhere, say it's a music program. Suddenly you start giving bandhans. It's madness. Or suddenly you start raising your Kuṇḍalinī. It's stupid. It should not be done that way. You have to sit with dignity, with understanding. Others are watching you and there is no need to give bandhan, for I am sitting here. What is the bandhan? I'm giving you the bandan all the time.

So there is no need to start doing any bandhan or anything.

We have come to certain conclusions about certain weddings. Certain weddings, not all of them and it will take some time because all the list has come up to us rather late.

So I may not be able to come up to Brahmapuri, but I'll directly meet you in Kolhapur.

Maybe Brahmapuri program you can enjoy yourself and meditate. Now don't waste time. It's a very important time. You have come to India, spending all this money, not to waste your time and just for some little holiday. Meditate. Sit down for meditation every morning. Try to sleep early. Try to get up early. Finish your things in a fast way. Try to compete in getting faster and faster and don't move lethargically into places. It's better you learn to run a little bit. In America everybody runs, but when they come to India, I don't know what happens to them. They all... as if [gesture].

So that should not be so. We have to respect our time. That's very important. The time is so important. You have come here at a time where certain things are working out very well. The cosmos is very helpful. Yesterday, I just raised the Piñgalā Nāḍī and it became warmer. See it's quite warm today. It was very cold two days back so it has become warmer.

So the whole cosmos is trying to help you. Everybody is trying to help you.

But if you still remain in the same static stage or into the same lethargic stage, they'll also give up.

So please see, compete in getting up earlier, compete in finishing bath earlier, compete in putting everything neatly. All of you should put everything neatly. Be smart and be quick.

Then you shouldn't do all these things outside, should not pay attention to nonsensical things. This I also have noticed, that the attention is not good. You have to improve your attention. Try to put your attention while walking or anywhere on the Mother Earth. It's better.

Better keep your attention on the Mother Earth. There are thoughts that are coming to you. All right. You just see that you stop the thoughts. Even now I see some of the ladies and men have wobbly eyes. That's very wrong. You can't afford to do that in Sahaja Yoga. If it is so, try to put down your eyes because these eyes cannot allow your Kuṇḍalinī to rise. You have to have innocent eyes without any lust and greed. Now I always say, all sins are forgiven, but not after realisation. They are added up, sometimes multiplied. After realisation, if you start doing all these nonsensical things again, you'll go down very fast, very very low, so low that we won't be able to take you up again.

So be careful. To think that all sins are forgiven and we can put our attention anywhere, we can see this side, that side, watch everyone, that's not good.

Please, now this lady, look at her, where is she looking? Ask her. Her attention is all over. Where are you looking? You're looking here, there, there, there. That's not proper. You have to keep your attention straight. If the Kuṇḍalinī has to rise make your attention in the center. Don't allow it to go this time or that time. You have come here with great difficulties and now don't waste your time. There's nothing to look outside, everything is inside. All right? So please don't put your attention on the sides. Just try to pull it inside.

Now in the Pūjā, of course, it works. You do feel nice. Suddenly you rise. Agreed. But still what happens that at the Pūjā I find that the vibrations are not sucked in. The reason is, at the time of Pūjā, you must try not to think and try to suck My vibrations more. Pay more attention to Me. Formerly I found that when it was the mantras, your attention was spreading out.

So I said, “All right, now you sing a music."... Now your attention at that time is not on the Pūjā, but on the music. It's a kind of an entertainment that starts working out. I don't know what to do, how to make your attention enter into it, to go deep into it. We have to work hard. You see this gentleman who is mad, or whomsoever it is. How much he has suffered. We are such lucky people to be together, to be moving together with full understanding and dignity. Even if you have been for three days in Sahaja Yoga, you can do it if you have decided on that.

So remember, sins are not forgiven at all. They multiply. Be careful. Be careful. It's a very important time. You have spent so much money, so much time coming down here, all of you. It's not for anybody else I'm saying. I'm saying it for each one of you, to sit down, meditate, keep your attention in the center.

All the time see where is your attention.

Now also when you talk, just talk about Sahaja Yoga and nothing else. The best thing is to talk about Sahaja Yoga. Especially when you are in the city, you'll find your attention will be disturbed. But if you stand on your two legs, if you have your own personality, if you have your own depth, nothing can move you. Nothing can move you.

So develop your roots deeper and deeper and deeper and stand by yourself.

Don't get disturbed by this happened, that happened.

Also, it doesn't behoove any one of you now at this stage to say, `I was caught up because somebody else was like that, because somebody did like that.' This doesn't behoove. There's no need to say that.

You have to be all right and nothing can spoil it. If you are not all right, you'll get spoiled. There are so many other things which you have to look after, which I'm sure your leaders will tell you, but one of them I feel that you just start sympathizing with people with whom you should not and you are not bothered to see what's wrong with you, but try to see what's wrong with others, which is not the way we are going to improve.

We have to respect our realisation. We have to respect ourselves and we have to respect our personality.

We are all saints and through this saintliness, all the best things of the heavens are going to come down to this earth. We have a big responsibility. We have to be pure people. We have to be simple people and all of our complications should drop out. I hope My words act as mantra on you and that all of you try to follow a path of ascent and not of descent. Don't talk too much about things, especially before meditation and after meditation. Try to keep quiet for a while. To be quiet itself is very great and also if there are thoughts, then you have to say, `Not this, not this, not this.' Disturbances should not upset you, any disturbance whatsoever.

I hope this time we are going to achieve a lot because I have a feeling that this time, in all the Pūjās, I am really working very, very hard, very hard. And if you people little bit, little bit decide that we are not here for enjoyment, for buying clothes or sarīs or anything, but we are here for our ascent. If that is decided in your hearts, I'm sure it will work out. Please try to control your attention. Control it. Chitta Nirodha. Control it. Where is it going? See, `Where is my attention going?' Ask, `Where is the attention going?' Ask yourself, `Am I there or am I out?' Otherwise you'll have very funny awareness, very funny awareness. Not that you're not intelligent, not that you are incapable of understanding what I say. Only thing is whatever I say is not recorded and even if it is recorded, it is used for others. “Mother said so, so you are that, not me." If you see this point, all right. Everybody has improved a lot coming to Sahaja Yoga.

Everybody has got a lot of peace within themselves and joy within themselves. Now what we have to do is get to the climax where nobody can touch you, where you'll be touching others, not others touching you. They'll just come up to your feet and then you have to pull them up. I hope this time we are going to build up all that. Actually the music she sang was that if the Guru does the kripa, then one crore of your sins can be forgiven. It's a fact. That's true, but not after realisation. Nobody says that after realisation it will be forgiven. It is before realisation and after realisation you should not believe that it will be forgiven. Try to reduce them. Reduce things which are wrong, which are against your ascent. Try to reduce them. Try to reduce them. Gradually, try it, that the ego and superego, these are the only two sins we can commit, will be reduced and you'll feel very much better.
